Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 110) to pay Charles Crowell for property taken from him by the United States Army during the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARION D. STEEL.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 111) to pay Marion D. Steel for property taken from him by the United States Army during the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PRICE OF PUBLIC LANDS IN ARKANSAS.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 112) to graduate the price of the public lands in the State of Arkansas, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PACIFIC AND GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 113) to grant to the Pacific and Great Eastern Railway Company the right of way through the Indian Territory, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PRODUCERS OF TOBACCO.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 114) to allow producers of tobacco to sell the same in the leaf, hand, or twist without internal-revenue restriction or tax; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

REMOVAL OF CAUSES FROM STATE COURTS.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 115) to amend section 2, chapter 137, Statutes at Large, of an act entitled "An act to determine the jurisdiction of the circuit courts of the United States and to regulate the removal of causes from State courts, and for other purposes;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ALBERTINE COCKRUM.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 116) for the relief of Albertine Cockrum; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MOUNTAIN MEADOW MASSACRE.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 117) donating 320 acres of public land to each of the survivors of the Mountain Meadow massacre and each of the legal heirs of any one killed in such massacre; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

J. M. HOBBS.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 118) for the relief of J. M. Hobbs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE H. PETTIGREW.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 119) for the relief of George H. Pettigrew; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES R. BERRY.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 120) to refund illegal internal-revenue taxes collected of James R. Berry as late auditor of the State of Arkansas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JASPER J. HENRY.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 121) for the relief of Jasper J. Henry for a horse killed while acting as guide to the First Arkansas Cavalry Volunteers in the late civil war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL DISTRICT IN ARKANSAS.

Mr. PEEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 122) to create a new judicial district in the State of Arkansas, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

JABEZ CHAMBERLAIN.

Mr. PEEL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 123) for the relief of Jabez Chamberlain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN SHIRLEY.

Mr. PEEL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 124) for the relief of the estate of John Shirley, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. T. DICKSON.

Mr. PEEL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 125) granting a pension to J. T. Dickson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES H. COWAN.

Mr. PEEL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 126) to place James H. Cowan on the roll of the Arkansas volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM J. LOWELL.

Mr. PEEL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 127) to place William J. Lowell on the rolls of the Arkansas volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES FANNING.

Mr. PEEL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 128) to amend the military record of James Fanning; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PROTECTION OF HOMESTEAD SETTLERS.

Mr. McRAE introduced a bill (H. R. 129) to protect homestead settlers within railway limits, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

SECTION 2291 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. McRAE also introduced a bill (H. R. 130) to amend section 2291 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS.

Mr. McRAE also introduced a bill (H. R. 131) for the adjustment of claims of the State of Arkansas against the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT TEXARKANA.

Mr. McRAE also introduced a bill (H. R. 132) to provide for the erection of an interstate public building at the city of Texarkana; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

REFUND OF COTTON TAX.

Mr. McRAE also introduced a bill (H. R. 133) to refund to the producers the tax collected by the United States on raw cotton in the years 1863 to 1868, inclusive, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SUPPORT OF COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. McRAE also introduced a bill (H. R. 134) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB BERG.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas, introduced a bill (H. R. 135) for the relief of Jacob Berg; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LIZZIE E. M'CORD.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 136) for the relief of Lizzie E. McCord, administratrix of Moses S. McCord, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM WRIGHT.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 137) for the relief of the estate of William Wright; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SALE OF THE CHEROKEE RESERVATION.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 138) to provide for the sale of the Cherokee reservation, in the State of Arkansas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

WILSON G. GRAY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 139) for the relief of Wilson G. Gray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RIGHT OF WAY THROUGH INDIAN TERRITORY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 140) to grant the Kansas and Arkansas Valley Railway Company the right of way through the Indian Territory, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIM OF ARKANSAS AGAINST UNITED STATES.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 141) for the adjustment of the claim of the State of Arkansas against the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 142) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

BUILDING FOR LIGHT-HOUSE BOARD.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 143) to erect a building for the use of the Light-House Board at Washington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

CABLE ELECTRIC RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 144) to incorporate the Cable Electric Railway Company of the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

LIGHT-HOUSE DISTRICTS.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 145) to authorize the creation of an additional light-house district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Arkansas (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 146) to enable the Light-House Board to increase the number of the light-house districts on the Western rivers and making appropriation therefor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURE OF RAILROAD LAND GRANTS.

Mr. HENLEY introduced a bill (H. R. 147) to declare forfeited certain lands granted to aid in the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 148) to declare forfeited certain lands granted to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by the act of Congress approved July 27, 1866; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 149) to declare forfeited certain land grants to aid in the construction of a railroad from Portland, in Oregon, to the Central Pacific Railroad in California; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PROCEEDS OF PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 150) granting to the State of California 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of the sales of public lands in said State; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

ACCOUNTS IN THE INDIAN SERVICE.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 151) to authorize the adjustment of certain accounts arising in the Indian service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REIMBURSEMENT OF STATES.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 152) to reimburse the several States for interest paid on war loans, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SUPPRESSION OF INDIAN HOSTILITIES IN CALIFORNIA.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 153) to reappropriate the unexpended balance heretofore appropriated by Congress for the suppression of Indian hostilities in the State of California; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PRICE OF LANDS IN CALIFORNIA.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 154) to establish the price of certain lands in the State of California; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF CALIFORNIA.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 155) for the relief of the State of California; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 156) to enable the State of California to take lands in lieu of the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections, found to be mineral lands; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PRINTING OF CONSTITUTION AND STATUTES.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 157) to print the Constitution of the United States and amendments thereto with the United States Statutes at every session of Congress; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

KLAMATH INDIAN RESERVATION.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 158) to restore the Klamath Indian reservation to the public domain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. HENLEY (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 159) to adjust claims of owners of lands within the limits of the Klamath Indian reservation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

VOID ENTRIES OF PUBLIC LAND.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 160) amendatory of an act entitled "An act for the relief of certain settlers on public lands, and to provide for the repayment of certain fees, purchase-money, and commissions paid on void entries of public lands," approved June 6, 1880; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

REFUND OF MONEYS.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 161) prescribing the proof to be made on application for the refund of moneys paid for lands erroneously entered; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES MURPHY.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 162) for the relief of Charles Murphy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

INDIAN WAR CLAIMS.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 163) to reimburse the States and Territories for money heretofore used and expended by them in the suppression of Indian hostilities; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DIRECT TAX.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 164) to credit and pay to the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia all moneys collected under the direct tax levied by the act of Congress approved August 5, 1861; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

KLAMATH INDIAN RESERVATION.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 165) to restore the Klamath reservation to the public domain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DESERT-LAND SETTLERS.

Mr. HENLEY (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 166) for the relief of settlers under the desert-land act; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

BRANCH SOLDIERS' HOME, CALIFORNIA.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 167) to provide for the establishment of a branch soldiers' home in the State of California; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

SAILORS' HOME, SAN FRANCISCO.

Mr. HENLEY also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 8) authorizing the city of San Francisco to relinquish to the State of California title to certain property for a sailors' home; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

J. M. HOGAN.

Mr. LOUTITT introduced a bill (H. R. 168) for the relief of J. M. Hogan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BEET-ROOT ALCOHOL.

Mr. McKENNA introduced a bill (H. R. 169) to exempt from taxation alcohol distilled from the molasses made in the manufacture of beet-root sugar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

COMMANDER HENRY GLASS, U. S. NAVY.

Mr. McKENNA also introduced a bill (H. R. 170) to carry into effect the recommendation of the board of admirals convened under the joint resolution approved February 5, 1879, in the case of Commander Henry Glass, United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CHINESE.

Mr. MORROW introduced a bill (H. R. 171) supplementary to and amendatory of an act to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to the Chinese, approved May 6, 1882, as amended by an act to amend said act approved July 5, 1884; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 172) to provide for the designation of certain commissioners in the circuit court of the United States to hear and determine certain cases of alleged restraint of liberty under acts of Congress relating to the restriction of Chinese immigration and to provide a system of procedure in such cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

CHINESE TREATY STIPULATIONS.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 173) to provide for the expenses incurred in enforcing the provisions of the act to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to Chinese, approved May 6, 1882, and the amendment thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 174) to authorize the purchase of a site for a building for a post-office, court-house, and other offices in San Francisco, Cal.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PRODUCTION OF FRUIT BRANDY, ETC.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 175) to amend an act entitled "An act relating to the production of fruit brandy, and to punish frauds connected with the same," approved March 3, 1877; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF INTERNAL-REVENUE LAWS.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 176) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend the laws in relation to internal revenue," approved May 28, 1880; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

RETAIL LIQUOR DEALERS, ETC.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 177) to amend section 3244 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

EXEMPTION OF FRUIT BRANDY.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 178) to amend section 3255 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

RESIGNATION OF JUDGES OF UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 179) to amend section 714 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

APPEALS TO SUPREME COURT.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 180) to amend section 764 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

EXCHANGE OF MUTILATED SILVER COIN.

Mr. MORROW also introduced a bill (H. R. 181) providing for the exchange of worn, defaced, clipped, punched, or otherwise mutilated silver coin of the United States of smaller denominations than one dollar for new or unworn subsidiary silver coins, at designated places and under certain conditions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

RELEASE OF CERTAIN PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. MORROW (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 182) to relinquish the interest of the United States in certain lands to the city and county of San Francisco and its grantees; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE A. NORTON.

Mr. MORROW (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 183) for the relief of George A. Norton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM D. SPRAGUE.

Mr. MORROW (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 184) for the relief of William D. Sprague; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

FRED. E. BROOKS.

Mr. MORROW (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 185) for the relief of Fred. E. Brooks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

A. J. BARNES.

Mr. MORROW (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 186) for the relief of A. J. Barnes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE C. PARKINSON.

Mr. MORROW (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 187) for the relief of George C. Parkinson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. FELTON introduced a bill (H. R. 188) to forfeit the unearned lands in California granted or claimed to have been granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company "to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific coast," and to restore the same to settlement, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

DUTY ON PLUMS, PRUNES, ETC.

Mr. FELTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 189) to increase the duty on plums, prunes, and raisins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF CERTAIN EMPLOYÉS, LIGHT-HOUSE ESTABLISHMENT.

Mr. FELTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 190) for the relief of certain employés and others in the twelfth United States light-house district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Mr. MARKHAM introduced a bill (H. R. 191) providing for the erection of a public building at Los Angeles, Cal.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

NEW JUDICIAL DISTRICT, CALIFORNIA.

Mr. MARKHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 192) to detach certain counties from the United States judicial district of California and create the United States judicial district of Southern California; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MISSION INDIANS, CALIFORNIA.

Mr. MARKHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 193) for the relief of the Mission Indians in the State of California; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC PARK, PAGOSA SPRINGS, COLO.

Mr. SYMES introduced a bill (H. R. 194) to establish a public park at Pagosa Springs, Colo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

BRANCH MINT, DENVER.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 195) to provide for coinage at the branch mint at Denver, Colo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY H. STUTSMAN.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 196) granting a pension to Henry H. Stutsman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROYAL M. HUBBARD.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 197) for the relief of Royal M. Hubbard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM M. KEIGHTLEY.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 198) for the relief of William M. Keightley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HORACE A. W. TABOR.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 199) for the relief of Horace A. W. Tabor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRIETTA H. COLE.

Mr. MITCHELL introduced a bill (H. R. 200) for the relief of Henrietta H. Cole; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

SECTION 4742 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 201) to amend section 4742 of the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to Revolutionary pensions and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEMUEL ADAMS.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 202) for the relief of Lemuel Adams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS BUTLER.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 203) for the relief of Thomas Butler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. F. P. GARDNER.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 204) for the relief of Mrs. F. P. Gardner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICERS OF UNITED STATES ARMY.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 205) for the relief of certain officers of the United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES WATERHOUSE.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 206) for the relief of Charles Waterhouse; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. EUNICE S. NICHOLS.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 207) for the relief of Mrs. Eunice S. Nichols; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EVALINA P. LOW.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 208) for the relief of Evalina P. Low; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GRADUATES OF MILITARY ACADEMY.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 209) to provide for assignments of graduates of the Military Academy to duty in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

REPRESENTATIVES OF PAUL NOYES.

Mr. MITCHELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 210) for the relief of the legal representatives of Paul Noyes, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT CORNELL WHITE.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 211) for the relief of Robert Cornell White; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALFRED G. HATFIELD.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 212) for the relief of Alfred G. Hatfield; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH H. POTTS.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 213) granting an increase of pension to Joseph H. Potts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADMINISTRATOR OF JOHN W. DEAR.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 214) for the relief of the administrator of the estate of John W. Dear, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN LEATHERS.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 215) for the relief of John Leathers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ARTHUR L. FISH.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 216) for the relief of Arthur L. Fish; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF PETER DELLA TORRE.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 217) for the relief of Frank Della Torre and Susan F. Della Torre, heirs of Peter Della Torre, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PRIVATE LAND CLAIMS IN NEW MEXICO.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 218) to confirm a certain private land claim in the Territory of New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY F. POTTS.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 219) for the relief of Mary F. Potts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM WHEELER HUBBELL.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 220) to determine the rights of William Wheeler Hubbell and the United States, respectively, therein stated; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM E. WOODBRIDGE.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 221) for the relief of William E. Woodbridge; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH E. HOLROYD.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 222) for the relief of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Holroyd, widow and administratrix of the estate of John Holroyd, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. HENRY H. HUMPHREYS.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 223) for the relief of Henry H. Humphreys; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE H. PLANT.

Mr. MITCHELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 224) for the relief of George H. Plant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL CONNOLLY.

Mr. SEYMOUR introduced a bill (H. R. 225) granting a pension to Daniel Connolly; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARTHA E. TURNEY.

Mr. SEYMOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 226) granting a pension to Mrs. Martha E. Turney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGET ROACH.

Mr. SEYMOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 227) granting a pension to Bridget Roach; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES ROACH.

Mr. SEYMOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 228) for the relief of James Roach; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. E. A. BENHAM.

Mr. SEYMOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 229) for the relief of Mrs. E. A. Benham, widow of Bvt. Maj. Gen. Henry H. Benham, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NANCY E. DAY.

Mr. WAIT introduced a bill (H. R. 230) for the relief of Nancy E. Day, administratrix of James L. Day, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WATERMAN CLIFT.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 231) for the reimbursement of Waterman Clift, of Mystic River, Conn., for property destroyed in the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE O'DONNELL.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 232) for the relief of George O'Donnell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

W. R. BENNETT AND OTHERS.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 233) for the relief of William R. Bennett, John Eldridge, and William G. Dewey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES CALER.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 234) for the relief of James Caler, of Stamford, Conn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MAJ. JAMES BELGER.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 235) for the relief of Maj. James Belger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 236) amending the laws granting pensions to the soldiers and sailors of the war of 1812; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 237) amending the pension laws, and restoring pensions to widows of soldiers taken from them by second marriage, on death of or of divorce from second husband; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TELEGRAPHIC OPERATORS DURING THE WAR.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 238) for the relief of telegraphic operators during the war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER MACK.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 239) granting a pension to Alexander Mack, late captain of the maintop, United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

STANDARD SILVER DOLLARS.

Mr. WAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 240) to suspend the coinage of standard silver dollars; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS OF OWNERS OF PRIVATE DIES.

Mr. LORE introduced a bill (H. R. 241) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to adjust, settle, and pay to the owners of private dies the balance of commissions due them; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES V. WISE.

Mr. LORE also introduced a bill (H. R. 242) for the relief of Charles V. Wise; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

A LIGHT-HOUSE ON DOG ISLAND, FLA.

Mr. DAVIDSON, of Florida, introduced a bill (H. R. 243) making an appropriation for the erection of a light-house on Dog Island, Fla.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF ARVAH HOPKINS.

Mr. DAVIDSON, of Florida, also introduced a bill (H. R. 244) to provide for the payment to the legal representatives of Arvah Hopkins of the rent of certain property in Tallahassee, Fla., for the use of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING IN TALLAHASSEE, FLA.

Mr. DAVIDSON, of Florida, also introduced a bill (H. R. 245) for the erection of a public building in the city of Tallahassee, in the State of Florida; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

IMMEDIATE TRANSPORTATION OF DUTIABLE GOODS.

Mr. DAVIDSON, of Florida (by request), also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 9) in relation to the immediate transportation of dutiable goods; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

ENROLLED BILLS SIGNED.

Mr. NEECE, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined and found truly enrolled bills and joint resolutions of the following titles; when the Speaker signed the same:

A bill (S. 118) for the relief of Alexander R. Lawton, of the State of Georgia;

A bill (S. 580) granting a pension to Julia D. Grant; and

Joint resolution (S. R. 1) filling existing vacancies in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

Mr. DAVIDSON. I send to the desk a bill which I introduce by request of my colleague [Mr. DOUGHERTY], who is absent on account of the illness of a relative.

PUBLIC BUILDING, JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Mr. DOUGHERTY (by Mr. DAVIDSON, of Florida) introduced a bill (H. R. 246) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to erect a public building in the city of Jacksonville, Fla.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS TYNS.

Mr. TURNER introduced a bill (H. R. 247) granting a pension to Lewis Tyns; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY GEE.

Mr. TURNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 248) for the relief of Henry Gee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE M'DONALD.

Mr. TURNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 249) for the relief of George McDonald, administrator of the estate of E. McDonald; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT AUGUSTA, GA.

Mr. BARNES introduced a bill (H. R. 250) for the erection of a public building at Augusta, Ga.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. ROBERTS.

Mr. BARNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 251) for the relief of John B. Roberts, postmaster at Sandersville, Ga.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN D. MUNNERLYN.

Mr. BARNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 252) for the relief of John D. Munnerlyn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BERNARD RICE.

Mr. BARNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 253) for the relief of Bernard Rice, of Georgia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

STEAM RAILROADS IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HARRIS (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 254) to define the routes of steam railroads entering the city of Washington and District of Columbia, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, COLUMBUS, GA.

Mr. HARRIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 255) for the erection of a public building at Columbus, Ga.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN WALKER.

Mr. HARRIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 256) for the relief of John Walker, postmaster at Butler, Taylor County, Georgia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARK MILLER.

Mr. CANDLER introduced a bill (H. R. 257) for the relief of Mark Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JASPER N. MARTIN.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 258) for the relief of Jasper N. Martin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH WOOD.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 259) for the relief of Elizabeth Wood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. SYMPSON, one of its clerks, announced the passage, without amendment, of joint resolution (H. Res. 2) to pay the officers and employés of the Senate and House of Representatives their respective salaries for the month of December, 1885, on the 21st day of said month.

It further announced agreement in concurrent resolution of the House that when the two Houses adjourn on Monday, December 21, 1885, they stand adjourned until January 5, 1886.

MARGARET S. FAIN.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 260) for the relief of Margaret S. Fain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMBROSE CHEWNING.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 261) for the relief of Ambrose Chewning; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

G. D. MULLINS.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 262) for the relief of G. D. Mullins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GREEN D. MULLIN.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 263) for the relief of Green D. Mullin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HANNAH SIMS.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 264) for the relief of Hannah Sims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY E. CHUMLY.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 265) for the relief of Mary E. Chumly; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DICY D. FOWLER.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 266) for the relief of Dicy D. Fowler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WESLEY JONES.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 267) for the relief of Wesley Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HIRAM A. DARNELL.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 268) for the relief of Hiram A. Darnell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SANFORD A. PINYAN.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 269) for the relief of Sanford A. Pinyan, late a private in Company A, First Regiment Georgia Infantry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT M'CUTCHEON.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 270) for the relief of Robert McCutcheon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

VALINCIA HUTCHINSON.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 271) for the relief of Valincia Hutchinson, widow of Curtis C. Hutchinson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALBERT MOSELEY.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 272) for the relief of Albert Moseley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

NEWTON COKER.

Mr. CANDLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 273) for the relief of Newton Coker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN A. MORRIS.

Mr. CRISP introduced a bill (H. R. 274) for the relief of John A. Morris; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM D. STEWART AND OTHERS.

Mr. CRISP also introduced a bill (H. R. 275) for the relief of William D. Stewart and others, heirs at law of James Stewart, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROADS.

Mr. CRISP also introduced a bill (H. R. 276) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes,' approved July 1, 1862," approved July 2, 1864; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M. LOWRY.

Mr. CLEMENTS introduced a bill (H. R. 277) for the relief of James M. Lowry, of Whitfield County, Georgia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RUFUS BARKER.

Mr. CLEMENTS also introduced a bill (H. R. 278) for the relief of Rufus Barker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

T. H. TRIPLETT.

Mr. CLEMENTS also introduced a bill (H. R. 279) for the relief of T. H. Triplett, postmaster at Dalton, Ga.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH DAVIS.

Mr. CREMENTS also introduced a bill (H. R. 280) granting a pension to Joseph Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SETTLEMENT OF CERTAIN RAILWAY ACCOUNTS.

Mr. CLEMENTS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 281) to provide for the settlement of accounts with certain railway companies; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WALTER WADSWORTH.

Mr. CLEMENTS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 282) for the relief of the estate of Walter Wadsworth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COMPENSATION OF UNITED STATES ATTORNEYS, MARSHALS, ETC.

Mr. SPRINGER introduced a bill (H. R. 283) relating to compensation and duties of United States attorneys, marshals, and other court officials, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE WITH GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 284) concerning official correspondence with the Departments of the Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

RETIREMENT OF CERTAIN OFFICERS.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 285) to enable officers of the Army who were promoted for gallant and distinguished services in the war of the rebellion to be retired with the rank and full pay of the grade to which they were so promoted; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PROMOTION AND RETIREMENT.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 286) to facilitate promotions, and retire from actual service, upon their own application, officers of the Army who served during the war of the rebellion as general officers of volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

B. H. GRIERSON.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 287) to correct and complete the record of Col. B. H. Grierson, United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

BOYNTON LEECH.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 288) for the relief of Boynton Leech, late lieutenant in the United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES H. CAMPBELL.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 289) to restore Charles H. Campbell to the rank of captain in the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

L. S. ENSEL.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 290) for the relief of L. S. Ensel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE H. CAMPBELL.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 291) granting a pension to George H. Campbell, late lieutenant-colonel of the One hundred and sixth Illinois Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

IDA DAVENPORT.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 292) granting a pension to Ida Davenport, widow of William Davenport, late provost-marshal United States volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZA J. H. TOMLIN.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 293) for the relief of Eliza J. H. Tomlin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN CHILDERS.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 294) for the relief of John Childers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CALVIN L. KNICK.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 295) granting a pension to Calvin L. Knick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL CLARY.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 296) granting an increase of pension to Daniel Clary; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JORDAN RICHARDSON.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 297) granting a pension to Jordan Richardson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS JEFFRIES.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 298) granting a pension to Thomas Jeffries; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD D. M'KINNEY.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 299) granting a pension to Richard D. McKinney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB LUCAS.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 300) for the relief of Jacob Lucas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LORENZO DURHAM.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 301) for the relief of Lorenzo Durham; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PATENTS FOR RAILROAD LAND GRANTS.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 10) suspending issues of patents of lands which have been granted to aid in the construction of railroads and proceedings affecting the titles to such lands until Congress otherwise directs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 11) proposing an amendment to the Constitution in reference to the election of President and Vice-President of the United States and members of Congress; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. SPRINGER also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 12) proposing an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting special legislation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

BALANCES OF UNITED STATES INDEBTEDNESS.

Mr. SPRINGER also submitted the following resolution; which was read, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, and ordered to be printed:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, respectfully requested to transmit to the House of Representatives as soon as practicable a statement of all balances of indebtedness due by or to the United States, as shown by the books of the Treasury, on the 30th day of June, 1885.

AMENDMENT OF RULES.

Mr. SPRINGER also submitted the following resolution; which was read, referred to the Committee on Rules, and ordered to be printed:

Resolved, That Rule XXXVI be amended by adding thereto the following as clause 3:

"The representatives of daily newspapers residing at the capital may be admitted by the Speaker, upon the request of any Member or Delegate for such admission, to the members' corridor and rooms in the rear of the Speaker's chair, under such regulations as he may from time to time prescribe."

MONUMENT TO LATE VICE-PRESIDENT HENDRICKS.

Mr. LAWLER introduced a bill (H. R. 302) for the erection of a monument in Indianapolis, Ind., to the memory of Thomas A. Hendricks, late Vice-President of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

SCIENCE OF SPELLING.

Mr. LAWLER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 303) to test and try the science of spelling; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

ADMIRALTY LAW.

Mr. LAWLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 304) to amend the admiralty law; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Mr. LAWLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 305) to constitute eight hours a day's work for all laborers, workingmen, and mechanics employed by or on behalf of the Government of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. LAWLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that there is more importance attached to this bill than to any other yet introduced in this House——

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SPRINGER). The Chair will inform the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. LAWLER] that it is not in order to make remarks upon the merits of a bill at this stage.

GEORGE SCHNEIDER.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Illinois, introduced a bill (H. R. 306) granting a pension to George Schneider; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN K. MANNON.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 307) granting a pension to John K. Mannon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY SULLIVAN.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 308) granting a pension to Mary Sullivan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

COMMISSIONERS OF INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 309) to establish a board of commissioners of interstate commerce, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

L. MADISON DAY.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Illinois, (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 310) for the relief of L. Madison Day; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER HALL.

Mr. RIGGS introduced a bill (H. R. 311) to increase the pension of Alexander Hall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY S. AND SARAH BATES.

Mr. RIGGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 312) to place on the pension-rolls the names of Mary S. and Sarah Bates; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES C. WHITESIDE.

Mr. RIGGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 313) for the relief of Charles C. Whiteside; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES T. DODSON.

Mr. RIGGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 314) for the relief of James T. Dodson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TERRITORY OF OKLAHOMA.

Mr. TOWNSHEND introduced a bill (H. R. 315) to organize the Territory of Oklahoma and consolidate certain Indian tribes under Territorial government, and for the establishment of a court; also to allot lands in severalty among the Indians, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 316) granting pensions to the soldiers and sailors of the Mexican War, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONERS OF THE CREEK AND OTHER WARS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 317) granting pensions to the soldiers and sailors of the Creek, Florida, and Black Hawk wars, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS OF WIDOWS AND MINOR CHILDREN.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 318) increasing the pensions of widows and minor children and dependent parents to $12 a month; also providing that the fact of the enlistment and muster into the service of a soldier shall be prima facie evidence of soundness at the time of enlistment, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BOUNTY LANDS FOR SOLDIERS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 319) granting bounty lands to soldiers of the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

H. W. HUBBARD.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 320) for the relief of Hiram W. Hubbard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LIEUT. JAMES M. BLADES.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 321) granting an increase of pension to Lieut. James M. Blades, of Company H, Sixth Illinois Cavalry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PHILIP TRAMEL.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 322) granting a pension to Philip Tramel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES TRIMBLE.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 323) granting a pension to James Trimble; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

W. H. WEAVER.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 324) granting a pension to W. H. Weaver; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE WATERS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 325) granting a pension to Catharine Waters, mother of Thomas Waters, deceased, late steward of the steamer Benefit; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARQUIS T. DAVIS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 326) for the relief of Marquis T. Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELECTION OF SENATORS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 13) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States providing for the election of Senators by the votes of the people of the States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

AMERICAN CUSTOMS UNION.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 14) requesting the President to invite the co-operation of the governments of American nations in securing the establishment of free commercial intercourse among those nations and an American customs union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

AMERICAN EXHIBITION AT LONDON.

Mr. TOWNSHEND (by request) also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 15) concerning an American exhibition to be held in London, May, 1886; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. TOWNSHEND. I desire to say in regard to this last resolution that I have introduced it by request, not desiring to commit myself to its terms.

MAIL TRANSPORTATION ON RAILROADS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads:

Resolved, That the Postmaster-General be, and he is hereby, requested to inform this House, if not incompatible with the public interest, what, if any, changes should be made in the law regulating compensation to railway companies for carrying the mails; and if any additional authority or facilities are necessary to enable him to make a thorough and satisfactory examination of this subject, he is also requested to inform this House what means will be required for that purpose.

NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. ADAMS, of Illinois, introduced a bill (H. R. 327) to enable national banking associations to increase their capital stock and to change their names or locations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

ARNO VOSS.

Mr. ADAMS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 328) for the relief of Arno Voss; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHNSON S. PRALL.

Mr. ADAMS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 329) for the removal of charge of desertion against the record of Johnson S. Prall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE LANIGAN.

Mr. ADAMS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 330) granting arrears of pension to Catharine Lanigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PATRICK FLYNN.

Mr. HITT (by Mr. ADAMS, of Illinois) introduced a bill (H. R. 331) for the relief of Patrick Flynn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK J. BRAENDLE.

Mr. HITT (by Mr. ADAMS, of Illinois) also introduced a bill (H. R. 332) for the relief of Frederick J. Braendle; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EXTRATERRITORIAL JURISDICTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. HITT (by Mr. ADAMS, of Illinois) also introduced a bill (H. R. 333) to provide for the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon the United States in places out of their territory and dominion, and to repeal the Revised Statutes from section 4083 to 4130, inclusive; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LAND TITLES IN ILLINOIS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, introduced a bill (H. R. 334) granting the title of the United States to certain lands to the county of Randolph, in the State of Illinois, on certain conditions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

LIENS ON REAL ESTATE.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 335) regulating liens on real estate created by judgments rendered by the United States circuit and district courts in the several States and Territories; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 336) granting a pension to all United States soldiers and sailors of the late war of the rebellion who served thirty days or were in any engagement therein, and to the widows of all soldiers who are deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 337) granting an increase of pension to certain classes of pensioners therein mentioned; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARINE CORPS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 338) to regulate appointments and promotions in the staff of the Marine Corps; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

RETIREMENT OF NAVAL OFFICERS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 339) authorizing the voluntary retirement of certain officers of the United States Navy who have rendered conspicuous services in battle or who have served thirty years in the Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PAY OF GRADUATES OF THE NAVAL ACADEMY.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 340) to equalize the pay of graduates of the Naval Academy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 341) granting pensions to the soldiers and sailors of the Mexican war, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 342) to equalize bounties of soldiers of the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

THREE JUDICIAL DISTRICTS, ILLINOIS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 343) to divide the State of Illinois into three judicial districts, and to provide for holding courts therein; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

SEMINARY OF QUEBEC.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R 344) concerning certain lands in the State of Illinois ceded by France to the Seminary of Quebec, and to indemnify the grantee therefor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICERS AND CREW OF THE MONITOR.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 345) for the relief of the officers and crew of the United States steamer Monitor, which participated in the action with the rebel iron-clad Merrimac on March 9, 1862; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

STEAMBOAT NEW ERA NO. 5.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 346) to authorize the payment of prize-money to captors of the steamboat New Era No. 5 and cargo; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MOLLIE B. WALDO.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 347) granting a pension to Mollie B. Waldo; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PETER M. HAGLER.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 348) granting a pension to Peter M. Hagler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABRAHAM COVER.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 349) granting a pension to Abraham Cover; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES F. F. WALLACE.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 350) granting a pension to James F. F. Wallace; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY BARROW.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 351) for the relief of Mary Barrow; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WARREN J. BURGESS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 352) granting a pension to Warren J. Burgess; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PHILIP HAHN.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 353) for the relief of Philip Hahn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN N. MATTHEWS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 354) for the relief of John N. Matthews; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

A. B. AGNEW.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 355) granting an increase of pension to A. B. Agnew; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LUCINDA BARRETT.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 356) granting a pension to Lucinda Barrett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL W. HESTER.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 357) granting a pension to Samuel W. Hester; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CAROLINE HIGGERSON.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 358) granting a pension to Caroline Higgerson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES P. COWENS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 359) for the relief of James P. Cowens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

SUSAN D. REYNOLDS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 360) for the relief of Susan D. Reynolds; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ESTATE OF GILBERT PARRIGIN.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 361) for the relief of the estate of Gilbert Parrigin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. T. J. SPENCER.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 362) for the relief of Capt. T. J. Spencer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES H. ADAMS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 363) for the relief of Charles H. Adams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM F. WILSON.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a bill (H. R. 364) for the relief of William F. Wilson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

POLYGAMY.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 16) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States in relation to polygamy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNAL-REVENUE TAX ON SPIRITS.

Mr. WORTHINGTON introduced a bill (H. R. 365) to amend the internal-revenue laws so as to tax all fractional parts of a gallon of distilled spirits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

CONVICT LABOR ON PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Mr. WORTHINGTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 366) to prevent the employment of convict labor in the preparation or manufacture of materials for public buildings and supplies in the Departments; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS, ILLINOIS.

Mr. WORTHINGTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 367) to amend section 536 of the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to the division of the State of Illinois into judicial districts, and to provide for holding terms of court of the northern district at the city of Peoria; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, PEORIA.

Mr. WORTHINGTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 368) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the erection of a public building in the city of Peoria, in the State of Illinois, approved July 9, 1882;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC MANN.

Mr. WORTHINGTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 369) granting a pension to Isaac Mann; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE C. JAMESON.

Mr. WORTHINGTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 370) granting a pension to George C. Jameson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES G. SMITH.

Mr. WORTHINGTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 371) increasing the pension of Charles G. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH REVE.

Mr. WORTHINGTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 372) granting a pension to Joseph Reve; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES A. BUCK.

Mr. WORTHINGTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 373) granting a pension to James A. Buck; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TESTS OF IRON, STEEL, ETC.

Mr. PAYSON introduced a bill (H. R. 374) for the appointment of a commission of experts for the testing of steel, iron, and other building material; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Manufactures, and ordered to be printed.

COURT OF APPEALS.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 375) to establish a court of appeals; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

LANDS FOR HONORABLY DISCHARGED SOLDIERS.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 376) granting lands to honorably discharged soldiers of the United States Army in the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

RESTORATION OF CERTAIN PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 377) to restore all lands held in indemnity limits for railroad and wagon-road companies, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 378) to amend an act entitled "An act to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal and other purposes, approved July 1, 1862," approved July 2, 1864; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF TIMBER-LAND ACT.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 379) to repeal the timber-land act of June 3, 1878; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF PRE-EMPTION LAWS.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 380) to repeal all laws providing for the pre-emption of the public lands, the laws allowing entries for timber-culture, the laws authorizing the sale of desert lands, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURES OF RAILROAD LAND GRANTS.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 381) to forfeit the unearned lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific coast and to restore the same to settlement, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 382) to declare forfeited a grant of land in aid of the Girard and Mobile Railroad, in Alabama; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 383) to declare a forfeiture of certain lands granted to the State of Alabama in aid of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 384) to declare a forfeiture of certain lands granted to the State of Alabama to aid in the construction of the Savannah and Albany Railroad, and to enforce the same by judicial proceedings; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 385) to declare forfeited certain lands granted in the State of Alabama, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 386) to declare a forfeiture of certain lands granted to the State of Louisiana to aid in the construction of railroads, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 387) to declare forfeited certain lands granted to the State of Mississippi to aid in the construction of railroads, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 388) to declare forfeited certain lands granted to the State of Mississippi to aid in the construction of railroads, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 389) to declare a forfeiture of certain lands granted in aid of certain railroads named; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 390) to declare a forfeiture of certain lands granted to aid in the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 391) to declare forfeited certain lands granted to the State of Michigan to aid in the construction of a railroad from Ontonagon to the Wisconsin State line, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 392) declaring forfeited certain grants of land made to certain States to aid in the construction of railroads; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

DUTIES ON SUGAR.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 393) to reduce the duties on sugar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

DUTY ON LUMBER.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 394) to place lumber on the free-list; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

LUCRETIA M. LARKIN.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 395) granting a pension to Lucretia M. Larkin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF CONSTITUTION.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 17) to amend the Constitution of the United States to permit the President to veto items in general appropriations bills; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

REPORT OF PUBLIC LANDS COMMISSION.

Mr. PAYSON also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 18) for the further distribution of the report of the Public Lands Commission; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD STEVENS.

Mr. HOPKINS (by Mr. PAYSON) introduced a bill (H. R. 396) for the relief of Edward Stevens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADULTERATIONS OF BUTTER, ETC.

Mr. HOPKINS (by Mr. PAYSON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 397) to amend title 35, entitled "Internal Revenue," of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY AND THOMAS WASHBURN.

Mr. EDEN introduced a bill (H. R. 398) for the relief of Henry Washburn and Thomas Washburn, of Fayette County, Illinois; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD D. M'KINNEY.

Mr. EDEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 399) granting a pension to Richard D. McKinney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY G. CONRAD.

Mr. EDEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 400) granting a pension to Henry G. Conrad; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN E. LEWIS.

Mr. EDEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 401) granting a pension to John E. Lewis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC K. YOUNG.

Mr. PLUMB introduced a bill (H. R. 402) for the relief of Isaac K. Young; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM T. SHERWOOD.

Mr. PLUMB also introduced a bill (H. R. 403) for the relief of William T. Sherwood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. RICH.

Mr. LANDES introduced a bill (H. R. 404) for the relief of W. B. Rich; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN MILLER.

Mr. LANDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 405) for the relief of John Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ARCHIBALD HUNLEY.

Mr. LANDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 406) for the relief of Archibald Hunley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ADIS ISRAEL HEBREW CONGREGATION.

Mr. WARD, of Illinois, introduced a bill (H. R. 407) for the relief of Adis Israel Hebrew congregation in the city of Washington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

S. B. BALDWIN.

Mr. WARD, of Illinois, also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 19) for the relief of Silas B. Baldwin, late colonel Fifty-seventh Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURE OF LAND GRANTS.

Mr. NEECE introduced a bill (H. R. 408) to declare certain lands heretofore granted in aid of the construction of railroads forfeited to the United States for not complying with their charters, and to open the same for settlement, and protecting the rights of settlers thereon, and where lands have been conveyed in violation of law, or the conveyance thereof has been procured by fraud, to recover the same or the value thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 409) granting pensions to widows and children of all deceased officers, soldiers, and sailors of the Mexican war and the late war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PAY OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYÉS UNDER THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 410) to pay the employés of the Government wages hitherto withheld in violation of the eight-hour law; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ADAM CURRY.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 411) to rerate the pension of Adam Curry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARSHALL WILLARD.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 412) granting a pension to Marshall Willard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE SCHAEFER.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 413) granting a pension to George Schaefer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

D. B. CLARK.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 414) granting a pension to Daniel B. Clark; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM CONDON.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 415) granting a pension to William Condon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY PARKER.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 416) granting a pension to Mary Parker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. SHANKS.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 417) granting a pension to George W. Shanks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN W. SAUNDERS.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 418) granting a pension to John W. Saunders; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

T. M. MERRITT.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 419) granting a pension to T. M. Merritt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ZEBULIN PARKER.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 420) for the relief of Zebulin Parker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. B. SCUDDER.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 421) granting a pension to Jesse B. Scudder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. H. BAYLES.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 422) for the relief of Joseph H. Bayles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. MOYNIHAN.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 423) granting a pension to Jeremiah Moynihan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GILES C. HAWLEY.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 424) to amend the military record of Giles C. Hawley and place his name on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EDMUND T. CLINE.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 425) granting a pension to Edmund T. Cline; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH A. ROBBINS.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 426) granting a pension to Elizabeth A. Robbins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS T. SMITHERS.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 427) for the relief of Thomas T. Smithers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES W. DAVIDSON.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 428) for the relief of James W. Davidson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HARRY M'ELHINNY.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 429) granting a pension to Harry McElhinny; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL WILLIAMS.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 430) granting a pension to Daniel Williams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT J. BAUGNESS.

Mr. NEECE also introduced a bill (H. R. 431) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Robert J. Baugness; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PROMOTION OF THRIFT, ETC.

Mr. NEECE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 432) granting lands to aid in the establishing of an endowment for services by which thrift may be promoted and citizens aided and assisted to save and preserve themselves from the economic impotence and dependence involved in their lack of the material factors to make available their personal productive capabilities; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. HOLMAN introduced a bill (H. R. 433) limiting the time for the presentation and payment of claims against the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC LANDS FOR ACTUAL SETTLERS.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 434) to limit the disposal of public lands adapted to agriculture to actual settlers under the provisions of the homestead laws, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURE OF RAILROAD LAND GRANTS.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 435) to declare the forfeiture of certain public lands heretofore granted to aid in the construction of certain railroads; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PURITY OF ELECTIONS.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 436) to maintain the purity of the ballot-box, prevent bribery and corruption in elections and appointments, and punish perjury for the violation of its provisions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

BOUNTIES.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 437) to equalize the bounties of soldiers who served in the late war for the Union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 438) in relation to claims against the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS AT MADISON, IND.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 439) to provide for the erection of a public building for the use of the post-office and other Government offices at the city of Madison, in the State of Indiana; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

NEAL MEGINLEY.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 440) granting a pension to Neal Meginley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

KATE AMANN.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 441) granting a pension to Kate Amann; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HARRIET M'LEASTER.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 442) granting a pension to Harriet McLeaster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SUSAN WOOLLEY.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 443) granting a pension to Susan Woolley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 444) to amend section 3336 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PEOPLE'S NATIONAL BANK, LAWRENCEBURG, IND.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 445) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to issue a duplicate certificate of deposit to the People's National Bank of Lawrenceburg, Ind.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. JOHN BURKHART.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 446) for the relief of John Burkhart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACKSON SHADDAY.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 447) granting a pension to Jackson Shadday; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NEWTON DAY.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 448) granting a pension to Newton Day; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN P. T. DAVIS.

Mr. HOLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 449) for the relief of John P. T. Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURE OF RAILROAD GRANTS, ETC.

Mr. COBB introduced a bill (H. R. 450) repealing all laws granting public lands to certain railroad companies and to certain States for the benefit of said railroad companies, and declaring the right and interest of said railroad companies and States in said land forfeited, and also declaring said lands to be a part of the public domain, subject to homestead, pre-emption, and sale, as other public lands belonging to the United States, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

SETTLERS ON RAILROAD LANDS.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 451) for the relief of settlers on lands granted in aid of railroads; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF PRE-EMPTION AND TIMBER-CULTURE LAWS.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 452) to repeal all laws providing for the pre-emption of public lands and the laws allowing entries for timber-culture; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURE OF ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC RAILROAD GRANTS.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 453) to forfeit the lands granted to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the States of Missouri and Arkansas to the Pacific coast, and to restore the same to settlement, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 454) to equalize the bounties of soldiers who served in the late war for the Union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WORN SILVER COIN.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 455) providing that all silver coin of the United States which is worn or defaced by ordinary usage only shall be hereafter received by the Government and paid for in perfect coin at its face or original value at all places where it is now received and paid for at bullion value; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 456) providing for paying the cost of surveying lands granted in aid of the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad and to subject the same to taxation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

HUBBARD H. SMITH.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 457) for the relief of Hubbard H. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FEMALE NURSES.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 458) for the payment of female nurses during the war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MAGDALENE BULLOCK.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 459) for the relief of Magdalene Bullock, widow of Robert M. Bullock; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE B. HESS.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 460) for the relief of George B. Hess; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DEXTER GARDNER.

Mr. COBB also introduced a bill (H. R. 461) for the relief of Dexter Gardner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURE OF UNEARNED LAND GRANTS.

Mr. COBB also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 20) to prevent the Secretary of the Interior from issuing patents for lands granted by the United States to aid in the construction of railroads or other improvements where the said railroads or other improvements have not been completed within the time fixed in the act making said grants; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

MICHIGAN LAND GRANTS.

Mr. COBB also submitted a resolution requesting the Secretary of the Interior to furnish the House of Representatives with certain information in regard to lands in the State of Michigan and requesting him to withhold the issuing of patents therefor until action is had by Congress; which was referred to the Committee on the Public Lands.

ENROLLED BILL SIGNED.

Mr. NEECE, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that they had examined and found truly enrolled joint resolution (H. Res. 2) to pay the officers and employés of the Senate and House of Representatives their respective salaries for the month of December, 1885, on the 21st day of said month; when the Speaker signed the same.

HENRY H. DENTON.

Mr. OWEN introduced a bill (H. R. 462) granting a pension to Henry H. Denton, a soldier of the United States Army in the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PATENT RIGHTS.

Mr. OWEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 463) to limit the jurisdiction of United States courts and to protect the innocent purchasers of patent rights; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT M'ALEXANDER.

Mr. OWEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 464) granting a pension to Robert McAlexander, a soldier of the Union Army in the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, LOGANSPORT, IND.

Mr. OWEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 465) to provide for the purchase of ground and the erection of a public building for the post-office and for other uses at Logansport, Ind; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS C. KNIGHT.

Mr. OWEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 466) granting a pension to Thomas C. Knight, a soldier of the Union Army in the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RESTRICTION OF ALIENS AND OTHERS TO PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. OWEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 467) to restrict to aliens and foreign corporations and companies the ownership of public lands and of any land in the Territories; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

EFFICIENCY OF UNITED STATES INFANTRY.

Mr. STEELE introduced a bill (H. R. 468) to increase the efficiency of the infantry branch of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MIAMI INDIANS OF INDIANA.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 469) to reimburse the Miami Indians of Indiana for moneys improperly taken from them; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 470) to equalize the bounties of soldiers, sailors, and marines; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ARREARS OF PENSION.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 471) to amend section 2 of an act making appropriations for the payment of the arrears of pensions granted by act of Congress, January 25, 1879, and for other purposes, approved March 3, 1879; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY YOUNG.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 472) for the relief of Mary Young; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM BOONE.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 473) granting a pension to William Boone; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. BAKER.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 474) granting a pension to William B. Baker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES P. JOHNSON.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 475) for the relief of James P. Johnson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. REYNOLDS.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 476) for the relief of William B. Reynolds; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK, WABASH, IND.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 477) to authorize the increase of the capital stock of the First National Bank of Wabash, Ind.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN HOLLINS M'BLAIR.

Mr. STEELE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 478) for the relief of John Hollins McBlair; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 479) to extend the benefits conferred by section 1219 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. ALEXANDER M'CREARY.

Mr. STEELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 480) for the relief of Capt. Alexander McCreary, One hundred and first Indiana Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GRANT OF CERTAIN LANDS, INDIANA.

Mr. LOWRY introduced a bill (H. R. 481) releasing to the State of Indiana the title of the United States to certain lands in said State; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

APPLICATIONS FOR PENSIONS.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 482) repealing all limitations as to the time within which meritorious applications for pensions may be filed; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DUTIES ON BOOKS.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 483) to repeal the import duties on German and French books used in educational institutions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES B. WHITE.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 484) for the relief of James B. White; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS M. M'DONALD.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 485) for the relief of Francis M. McDonald; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS DEEMS.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 486) for the relief of Lewis Deems; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELMER WYATT.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 487) granting a pension to Elmer Wyatt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADAM STERNBERG.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 488) granting a pension to Adam Sternberg; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE OTIS.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 489) to restore the name of George Otis to the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM A. WARD.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 490) increasing the pension of William A. Ward; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SILAS B. JOHNSTON.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 491) for the relief of Silas B. Johnston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANN CRAIG.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 492) granting a pension to Ann Craig; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE KOPE.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 493) for the relief of George Kope; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSIAH DUKES.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 494) granting a pension to Josiah Dukes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY C. MURRAY.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 495) granting a pension to Mary C. Murray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN F. BETHEL.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 496) granting a pension to Benjamin F. Bethel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM MAXHEIMER.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 497) granting a pension to William Maxheimer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH T. ERWIN.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 498) granting a pension to Joseph T. Erwin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE ALCOTT.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 499) for the relief of George Alcott; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM P. PATRICK.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 500) for the relief of William P. Patrick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SCHOOLS OF MEDICAL PRACTICE.

Mr. LOWRY (by request) also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 21) relative to schools of medical practice in the United States and to the graduates thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

COMPILATION OF COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Mr. LOWRY also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 22) authorizing the preparation of a compilation of the reports of the committees of the Senate and House of Representatives; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, introduced a bill (H. R. 501) to equalize the bounties of soldiers who served in the late war for the Union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, LA FAYETTE, IND.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 502) for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon in the city of La Fayette, Ind.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JULIUS A. KAISER.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 503) for the relief of Julius A. Kaiser; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ANNA KLESSINGER.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 504) granting a pension to Anna Klessinger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH J. LEWIS.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 505) granting a pension to Joseph J. Lewis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELEANOR T. BROOKBANKS AND OTHERS.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 506) for the relief of Eleanor T. Brookbanks and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID BRYAN.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 507) for the relief of David Bryan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOUISA WHITE.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 508) granting a pension to Louisa White; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL BAKER.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 509) granting a pension to Samuel Baker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL AYERS.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 510) for the relief of Samuel Ayers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

OTIS S. STAFFORD.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 511) granting a pension to Otis S. Stafford; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. MARTIN.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 512) granting a pension to George W. Martin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY BAGLEY.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 513) granting a pension to Mary Bagley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES W. HETRICK.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 514) for the relief of James W. Hetrick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALTHEA A. FRASNER.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 515) granting a pension to Althea A. Frasner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PATRICK W. KENNEDY.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 516) for the relief of Patrick W. Kennedy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. PETER J. WELSCHBILLIG.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 517) to rerate the pension of Capt. Peter J. Welschbillig; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANNA M. SMITH.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 518) granting a pension to Anna M. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH VAN ARSDEL.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 519) granting a pension to Joseph Van Arsdel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM N. CLIFT.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 520) for the relief of William N. Clift; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELI CONNER.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 521) for the relief of Eli Conner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL MOORE.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 522) for the relief of Samuel Moore; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS R. BRUNER.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 523) for the relief of Thomas R. Bruner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL H. ROSS.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 524) granting a pension to Daniel H. Ross; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT C. M'KEE.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 525) to restore Robert C. McKee to the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANNA HOLLIKOH.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 526) for the relief of Anna Hollikoh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM PIKE.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 527) for the relief of William Pike; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SILAS QUACKENBUSH.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 528) for the relief of Silas Quackenbush; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. BALDWIN AND OTHERS.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 529) for the relief of George W. Baldwin, Charles L. Baldwin, and Dora Thompson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LARKIN F. ROBERTS.

Mr. WARD, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 530) granting a pension to Larkin F. Roberts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BOUNTIES.

Mr. KLEINER introduced a bill (H. R. 531) to extend the time for the payment of additional bounty, as provided in the acts of Congress of July, 1866, and July, 1876, as applied to soldiers of the United States in the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

CRAWFORD BROWN.

Mr. KLEINER also introduced a bill (H. R. 532) for the relief of Crawford Brown; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS FERGUSON.

Mr. KLEINER also introduced a bill (H. R. 533) for the relief of Thomas Ferguson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MOVEMENT OF VESSELS, ETC.

Mr. KLEINER also introduced a bill (H. R. 534) to amend certain provisions of chapter 4, title 34, of the Revised Statutes, relating to the movement of vessels and the landing of goods and personal effects; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES SPENCER.

Mr. KLEINER also introduced a bill (H. R. 535) for the relief of Charles Spencer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY AYRES.

Mr. KLEINER also introduced a bill (H. R. 536) for the relief of Henry Ayres; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID H. ELLS.

Mr. KLEINER also introduced a bill (H. R. 537) for the relief of David H. Ells; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. KLEINER also introduced a bill (H. R. 538) granting a pension to the surviving soldiers of the Mexican, Florida, and Black Hawk wars; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN G. EIGENMAN AND JOHN BIEDENKOPF.

Mr. KLEINER also introduced a bill (H. R. 539) for the relief of John G. Eigenman and John Biedenkopf, on account of moneys illegally collected from them by the sale of a distillery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS, BOUNTIES, ETC.

Mr. MATSON introduced a bill (H. R. 540) to repeal the acts of limitation as to the beginning of pensions; whichw as read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 541) to equalize the bounties of all soldiers who served in the late war for the Union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 542) prescribing a rule of evidence in pension cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 543) to amend the pension law; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE IN GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 544) granting leave of absence to employés in the Government Printing Office; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 545) to increase the pensions of widows and dependent relatives of deceased soldiers and sailors; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 546) relating to special examinations in pension cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 547) to provide for the appointment of a commission to investigate the question of revising the pension laws; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MONUMENT TO GENERAL JAMES SHIELDS.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 548) for the erection of a monument to the memory of General James Shields; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

ENOCH GOSS.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 549) granting a pension to Enoch Goss; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADAM GASTON.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 550) to restore to the pension-roll the name of Adam Gaston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RHODA DANE.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 551) granting a pension to Rhoda Dane; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN T. HAMMANS.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 552) to increase the pension of John T. Hammans; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM J. SUFFALL.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 553) granting a pension to William J. Suffall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SUSAN SINGLETON.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 554) granting a pension to Susan Singleton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WALTER W. WELTY.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 555) to increase the pension of Walter W. Welty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGET SHERLOCK.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 556) granting a pension to Bridget Sherlock; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL W. TRACEY.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 557) granting a pension to Samuel W. Tracey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANKLIN P. BURGET AND OTHERS.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 558) granting a pension to Franklin P. Burget, William Burget, and Lydia A. Burget; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM ALLEN.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 559) granting a pension to William Allen, late of Company C, Third Indiana Volunteers (war with Mexico); which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES A. HANGER.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 560) for the relief of John A. Hanger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JESSE M. JONES.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 561) for the relief of Jesse M. Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES E. MACKLIN.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 562) for the relief of Second Lieut. James E. Macklin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF GIDEON WALKER.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 563) for the relief of the representatives of Gideon Walker, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN LOOKABAUGH.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 564) for the relief of John Lookabaugh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN FLETCHER.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 565) for the relief of John Fletcher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELECTION OF POSTMASTERS.

Mr. MATSON also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 23) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States so as to provide for the election of postmasters by the people; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

M. W. HOVEY.

Mr. JOHNSON, of Indiana, introduced a bill (H. R. 566) granting a pension to M. W. Hovey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY A. LITTLE.

Mr. JOHNSON, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 567) granting a pension to Mary A. Little; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB N. GARD.

Mr. JOHNSON, of Indiana, also introduced a bill (H. R. 568) granting a pension to Jacob N. Gard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

POST-OFFICE BUILDING, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Mr. BYNUM introduced a bill (H. R. 569) appropriating $45,000 for the improvement of the post-office building in the city of Indianapolis, Ind.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

E. P. THOMPSON.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 570) for the relief of E. P. Thompson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ROSANNA FLAHIFF.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 571) for the relief of Rosanna Flahiff; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW W. BILLINGS.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 572) for the relief of Andrew W. Billings; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SUSAN M. COYNER.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 573) for the relief of Susan M. Coyner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PETER CURRAN.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 574) for the relief of Peter Curran; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

KATE L. CAMPBELL.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 575) for the relief of Kate L. Campbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOUISA C. BEEZELEY.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 576) for the relief of Louisa C. Beezeley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES KILEY.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 577) for the relief of James Kiley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EMMA J. HOLLOWAY.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 578) for the relief of Emma J. Holloway; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SUSAN JONES.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 579) for the relief of Susan Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FLORA SKINNER.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 580) for the relief of Flora Skinner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS BITLICK.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 581) for the relief of Lewis Bitlick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. TALGE.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 582) granting a pension to John B. Talge; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LONA S. FITZGERALD.

Mr. BYNUM also introduced a bill (H. R. 583) for the relief of Lona S. Fitzgerald; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TERRITORY OF OKLAHOMA.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, introduced a bill (H. R. 584) to provide for the organization of that part of the territory of the United States now known as "The Indian Territory" and the "Public Land Strip" into a Territory to be known as the Territory of Oklahoma, and to provide a temporary government for the same, for allotment of homesteads to the Indians in severalty, and to open unoccupied lands to actual settlers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 585) to establish at the seat of Government an Executive Department to be known as the Department of Labor, with a Secretary of Labor, who shall be at the head thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT, PENSION LAWS.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 586) to define the time when pensions granted under the invalid-pension laws of the United States shall take effect; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF CERTAIN DUTIES.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 587) to admit free of duty sawed boards, planks, deals, laths, pickets, palings, and shingles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 588) to enlarge the postal facilities of the United States by the establishment of a postal telegraph; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

COINAGE OF SILVER DOLLARS.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 589) to provide for the free and unrestricted coinage of the silver dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

ISSUE OF SILVER CERTIFICATES.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 590) to provide for the issue of silver certificates on the deposit of standard silver dollars; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

PAYMENT OF PUBLIC DEBT.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 24) instructing the Secretary of the Treasury to apply the lawful money now in the Treasury to the payment of an equal amount of the interest-bearing public debt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

ELECTION OF UNITED STATES SENATORS.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 25) proposing an amendment to section 3, article 1, of the Constitution of the United States, so as to provide for the election of United States Senators by a vote of the people in the several States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

BALLARD PAVEMENT COMPANY.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 591) for the relief of the Ballard Pavement Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LIABILITIES OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. WEAVER, of Iowa, (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 592) to define the liabilities of the District of Columbia under certain executed contracts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

LIMITATION IN PENSION CASES.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, introduced a bill (H. R. 593) to remove the limitation in pension cases, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SALARIES OF UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT JUDGES.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 594) fixing the salaries of the several judges of United States district courts at $5,000 per annum; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF PENSION LAWS.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 595) granting pensions in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. K. OTIS.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 596) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to issue to George K. Otis the duplicate of certain land-warrants lost while in the possession of officers of the Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF CERTAIN PENSIONS.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 597) to extend the benefits of the act of March 3, 1879, and the act of March 3, 1885, to certain pensioners whose disabilities are caused by amputation and increasing the rate thereof, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DISTRIBUTION OF STATUTES AND CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 598) to provide for the distribution of the Statutes of the United States and the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD to designated incorporated bodies, institutions, and associations within the several States and Territories; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. HONORAH MALONEY.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 599) granting a pension to Mrs. Honorah Maloney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANNA DEGGENDORF.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 600) granting a pension to Anna Deggendorf; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALONZO V. RICHARDS.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 601) granting a pension to Alonzo V. Richards, second lieutenant Signal Corps, United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ANN D. W. EICHMAN.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 602) granting a pension to Mrs. Ann D. W. Eichman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY HERON.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 603) for the relief of Mary Heron; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

W. H. MORHEISER.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 604) for the relief of W. H. Morheiser; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WIDOWS AND ORPHANS IN DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 605) for the relief of widows and orphans residing in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

STATUE OF GENERAL J. A. RAWLINS.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 606) authorizing the removal of the statue of Maj. Gen. John A. Rawlins from its present location to a site to be selected by the Secretary of War; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JANNET E. B. SMITH.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Iowa, also introduced a bill (H. R. 607) granting a pension to Jannet E. B. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LAKE MICHIGAN AND MISSISSIPPI RIVER CANAL.

Mr. MURPHY introduced a bill (H. R. 608) to provide for the construction of Lake Michigan and Mississippi River Canal, and to cheapen transportation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MURPHY. I want it understood that there is no prejudice arising by reason of that reference.

CONVICT LABOR.

Mr. MURPHY also introduced a bill (H. R. 609) to prohibit the employment of convict labor or the product of the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

PROOF IN PENSION CLAIMS.

Mr. MURPHY also introduced a bill (H. R. 610) to regulate proof in pension claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES FARLEY.

Mr. MURPHY also introduced a bill (H. R. 611) for the relief of James Farley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS S. BROOKS & CO.

Mr. MURPHY also introduced a bill (H. R. 612) for the relief of Thomas S. Brooks & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE COLLINS.

Mr. MURPHY also introduced a bill (H. R. 613) for the relief of Catharine Collins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE J. KRAUSE.

Mr. MURPHY also introduced a bill (H. R. 614) for the relief of George J. Krause; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EVANS, NICHOLLS & CO.

Mr. MURPHY also introduced a bill (H. R. 615) for the relief of Evans, Nicholls & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

R. H. SHROPSHIRE.

Mr. MURPHY also introduced a bill (H. R. 616) for the relief of R. H. Shropshire; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. W. HUBBERT.

Mr. HEPBURN introduced a bill (H. R. 617) granting a pension to J. W. Hubbert; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES MORGAN.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 618) granting a pension to James Morgan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT F. H. GOODE.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 619) granting a pension to Robert F. H. Goode; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT GRAY.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 620) granting a pension to Robert Gray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. MILLS.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 621) for the relief of George W. Mills; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

W. A. LEMASTER.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 622) for the relief of W. A. Lemaster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN S. RAWLINS AND EUGENE W. SQUIRES.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 623) for the relief of Benjamin S. Rawlins and Eugene W. Squires; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM E. WARD.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 624) for the relief of William E. Ward; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL P. GLENN.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 625) granting a pension to Samuel P. Glenn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MINTON PRALL.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 626) granting a pension to Minton Prall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL K. WRIGHT.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 627) for the relief of Daniel K. Wright; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS BROCKETT.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 628) for the relief of Thomas Brockett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN KENNEDY.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 629) for the relief of John Kennedy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 630) for the relief of William A. Graham; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions and ordered to be printed.

REV. ERASTUS LATHROP.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 631) for the relief of Rev. Erastus Lathrop; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS WILLIAMS.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 632) for the relief of Thomas Williams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MAJ. G. W. CANDEE.

Mr. HEPBURN (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 633) for the relief of Maj. G. W. Candee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN DEFENBAUGH.

Mr. HEPBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 634) granting a pension to John Defenbaugh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CONSTITUTION FOR DAKOTA.

Mr. FREDERICK (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 635) to enable the people of Dakota Territory to form a constitution; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

REBELLION RECORDS.

Mr. FREDERICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 636) for the reissue of the first five volumes of the Records of the War of the Rebellion, with the issue of nine additional copies to each member of the Forty-ninth Congress, as per act of August 7, 1882; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES LANG.

Mr. FREDERICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 637) granting a pension to James Lang; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT J. GILLESPIE.

Mr. FREDERICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 638) granting a pension to Robert J. Gillespie; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW J. ELLIOTT.

Mr. FREDERICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 639) granting a pension to Andrew J. Elliott; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TITLE OF SETTLERS ON DES MOINES RIVER LANDS.

Mr. HOLMES introduced a bill (H. R. 640) to quiet title of settlers on the Des Moines River lands in the State of Iowa, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PRISONERS OF WAR.

Mr. HOLMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 641) for the pensioning of prisoners of war who were confined in confederate military prisons during the war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT FORT DODGE.

Mr. HOLMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 642) for the erection of a public building at Fort Dodge, Iowa, which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. HOLMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 643) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several States under the provisions of the act approved July 2, 1862, and the acts supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

MATHIAS PEDERSEN.

Mr. HOLMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 644) for the relief of Mathias Pedersen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS M. LINN.

Mr. HOLMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 645) granting a pension to Lewis M. Linn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS M. COMMUCK.

Mr. CONGER introduced a bill (H. R. 646) granting a pension to Thomas M. Commuck; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF PENSIONS.

Mr. CONGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 647) to increase the pensions of soldiers and sailors who have been permanently and totally disabled; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

W. H. SOLLADA.

Mr. CONGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 648) granting a pension to W. H. Sollada; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH M'LAREN.

Mr. CONGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 649) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth McLaren; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLOTTE D. CROCKER.

Mr. CONGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 650) granting an increase of pension to Charlotte D. Crocker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FOURTH REGIMENT IOWA VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. CONGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 651) for the relief of the volunteers of the Fourth Regiment of Iowa Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ARREARS OF PENSION.

Mr. FULLER introduced a bill (H. R. 652) to amend an act making appropriations for the payment of the arrears of pensions granted by act of Congress approved January 25, 1879, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITING RAILROAD LAND GRANTS.

Mr. STRUBLE introduced a bill (H. R. 653) forfeiting a part of certain lands granted to the State of Iowa to aid in the construction of railroads in that State, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, SIOUX CITY, IOWA.

Mr. STRUBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 654) for the erection of a public building at Sioux City, Iowa; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M'CALLEN.

Mr. STRUBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 655) amending an act entitled "An act granting a pension to James McCallen;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PAYMENT OF ARREARS OF PENSIONS.

Mr. LYMAN introduced a bill (H. R. 656) to amend section 2 of an act entitled "An act making appropriations for the payment of the arrears of pensions granted by act of Congress approved January 25, 1879, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1879, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM RANDALL.

Mr. LYMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 657) granting an increase of pension to Wi n Randall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS W. HALDEMAN.

Mr. LYMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 658) for the relief of Francis W. Haldeman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GRANT TO COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Mr. LYMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 659) to grant to the corporate authorities of the city of Council Bluffs, in the State of Iowa, for public uses, a certain lake known as Honey Creek Lake; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

SOUTHERN KANSAS RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. RYAN introduced a bill (H. R. 660) to grant the right of way through the Indian Territory to the Southern Kansas Railway Company, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

FORT SELDEN MILITARY RESERVATION.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 661) granting the right of way through the Fort Selden military reservation in New Mexico to the Rio Grande, Mexico and Pacific Railroad Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

INDIAN DEPREDATIONS.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 662) to provide for the appointment of commissioners to ascertain and report losses sustained by citizens of the United States by reason of Indian depredations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ARREARS OF PENSIONS.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 663) to amend section 2 of an act making appropriations for the payment of the arrears of pensions granted by act of Congress approved January 25, 1879, and for other purposes, approved March 3, 1879; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS OF CERTAIN CITIZENS OF KANSAS.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 664) to authorize the appointment of a commissioner and the settlement of the claims of certain citizens of Kansas named therein; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 665) to equalize the bounties of soldiers and others who served in the late war for the Union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS FOR HORSES, ETC.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 666) to extend the time for the filing of claims for horses and equipments lost by officers and enlisted men in the service of the United States, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RANK OF CERTAIN RETIRED OFFICERS.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 667) to fix the rank of certain retired officers of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN GARAHTY.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 668) for the relief of John Garahty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BERNARD CARLIN.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 669) granting a pension to Bernard Carlin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RIO GRANDE, MEXICO, AND PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 670) to authorize the Rio Grande, Mexico and Pacific Railroad Company to purchase certain lands, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS H. SOWARD.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 671) for the relief of Thomas H. Soward; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIJAH CRUDGINGTON.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 672) for the relief of Elijah Crudgington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. MORGAN.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 673) for the relief of William H. Morgan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. P. E. BROADDUS.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 674) granting a pension to Mrs. P. E. Broaddus; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL HENRY.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 675) for the relief of Samuel Henry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

T. N. M'CLURE.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 676) granting a pension to T. N. McClure; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANNIE M. BRODERICK.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 677) granting a pension to Annie M. Broderick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID W. BOUTWELL.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 678) granting a pension to David W. Boutwell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EXTENSION TERRITORIAL LAWS.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 679) to extend the laws of the United States over certain unorganized territory south of the State of Kansas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

REBECCA J. LOWRY.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 680) granting a pension to Rebecca J. Lowry, guardian; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. CHILDS.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 681) granting a pension to John B. Childs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN T. RYMAN.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 682) for the relief of John T. Ryman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT R. HUGHES.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 683) for the relief of Robert R. Hughes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES DYE.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 684) to grant a pension to James Dye; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELI W. CAMPBELL.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 685) to grant a pension to Eli W. Campbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN G. SHAWBELL.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 686) to grant a pension to John G. Shawbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PHILIP HOFELD.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 687) to rerate the pension of Philip Hofeld; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB SNOVELY.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 688) for the relief of Jacob Snovely; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SECTION 2139, REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 689) to amend section 2139 of the Revised Statutes in regard to the sale of intoxicating liquors to Indians; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD FENLON.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 690) for the relief of Edward Fenlon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DR. LEWELLEN AND A. G. DAVIS.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 691) for the relief of Dr. Lewellen and Anthony G. Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DR. LEWELLEN.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 692) for the relief of Dr. Lewellen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. KEITH.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 693) granting a pension to William B. Keith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

S. N. WOOD.

Mr. RYAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 694) for the relief of S. N. Wood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

POTTAWATOMIE INDIANS.

Mr. MORRILL introduced a bill (H. R. 695) to provide for the sale of the lands belonging to the Prairie Band of Pottawatomie Indians in Kansas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS OF KANSAS CITIZENS.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 696) authorizing the settlement of claims of certain citizens of Kansas therein named; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC A. MEYER.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 697) for the relief of Isaac A. Meyer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PHILIP D. CAMPBELL.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 698) granting a pension to Philip D. Campbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

KICKAPOO RESERVATION IN KANSAS.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 699) for the sale of the Kickapoo diminished reservation in Kansas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

M. A. BICKERDYKE.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 700) granting a pension to M. A. Bickerdyke; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARY B. KENNEY.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 701) granting a pension to Mrs. Mary B. Kenney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. CULBERSON. I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was not agreed to; there being ayes 33, noes not counted.

JOHN F. BRUNER.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 702) granting a pension to John F. Bruner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RATING OF INVALID PENSIONS.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 703) to establish a uniform grade of rating for invalid pensions and to abolish all distinctions on account of rank in pensions hereafter granted; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN DUBACH.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 704) granting a pension to Benjamin Dubach, dependent father of Adolph Dubach, late of Captain Fleming's company, Tenth Kansas Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF PENSIONS TO WIDOWS.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 705) to provide for an increase of pension to widows of soldiers in the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL W. ROBINSON.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 706) granting a pension to Samuel W. Robinson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. R. MARTIN.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 707) for the relief of J. R. Martin, late postmaster at Perry, Kans.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M'DONALD.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 708) granting a pension to James McDonald; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM D. MATTHEWS.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 709) for the relief of William D. Matthews; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

KICKAPOO ESTATES.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 710) to provide for the settlement of the estates of the Kickapoo Indians in the State of Kansas, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS O'LEARY.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 711) granting a pension to Francis O'Leary; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, ATCHISON, KANS.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 712) for the erection of a public building at Atchison, Kans; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM S. THATCHER.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 713) for the relief of William S. Thatcher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CORNELIUS W. KEIFER.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 714) for the relief of Cornelius W. Keifer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TUNIS J. ROOSA.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 715) granting a pension to Tunis J. Roosa; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC WELCH.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 716) granting a pension to Isaac Welch; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. W. D. MORRISON.

Mr. MORRILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 717) increasing the pension of Capt. W. D. Morrison; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS ACCORDING TO DISABILITY.

Mr. FUNSTON introduced a bill (H. R. 718) to pension all honorably discharged persons of the Army or Navy according to disability; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASING THE EFFICIENCY OF THE ARMY.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 719) to increase the efficiency of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

L. J. WORDEN.

Mr. FUNSTON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 720) for the relief of L. J. Worden; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN PREWITT.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 721) to place the name of John Prewitt on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Commitee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PORTER B. HEWITT.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 722) granting a pension to Porter B. Hewitt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INDIAN CAPTIVES.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 723) for the relief of women and children who were captured by hostile Indians; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. ROSS.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 724) to place the name of John B. Ross on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY ANN PERKINS.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 725) to pension Mary Ann Perkins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE BARRETT.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 726) to place the name of George Barrett on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NANCY E. MORRIS.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 727) to place the name of Nancy E. Morris on the pension-rolls; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABRAHAM WESTFALL.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 728) to place the name of Abraham Westfall on the pension-rolls; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK MARSHALL.

Mr. FUNSTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 729) to place the name of Frederick Marshall on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NEW YORK INDIAN LANDS IN KANSAS.

Mr. PERKINS introduced a bill (H. R. 730) to provide for the sale of certain New York Indian lands in Kansas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. HEISTER,

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 731) granting a pension to William H. Heister; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. ATCHISON.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 732) granting a pension to John H. Atchison; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. LAURA M. CHEEK.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 733) granting a pension to Mrs. Laura M. Cheek; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committe on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OXLEY JOHNSON.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 734) granting a pension to Oxley Johnson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NICHOLAS W. BARNETT.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 735) for the relief of Nicholas W. Barnett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID M. LOGAN.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 736) for the relief of David M. Logan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

N. M. MILLER.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 737) granting a pension to N. M. Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAINT LOUIS, BAXTER SPRINGS AND MEXICAN RAILWAY.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 738) granting the right of way through the Indian Territory to the Saint Louis, Baxter Springs and Mexican Railway Company, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LANDS TO INDIANS IN SEVERALTY.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 739) to provide for the allotment of lands in severalty to the United Peorias and Miamis of the Indian Territory, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

H. L. NEWMAN.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 740) for the relief of H. L. Newman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. CUSHMAN.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 741) for the relief of George W. Cushman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE MAXWELL.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 742) for the relief of George Maxwell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

A. L. DICKERMAN AND OTHERS.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 743) for the relief of A. L. Dickerman and others, which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HOLDEN COOK.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 744) granting a pension to Holden Cook; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

F. C. BULKLEY.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 745) for the relief of F. C. Bulkley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

J. W. BENNETT.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 746) granting a pension to J. W. Bennett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISSUE OF DUPLICATE LAND-WARRANTS.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 747) authorizing the Commissioner of the General Land Office to issue land-warrants for 120 acres of land to the holder of warrant No. 51456, with certain provisions and upon certain conditions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURT, INDIAN TERRITORY.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 748) to establish a United States court in the Indian Territory, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

HOMESTEAD SETTLEMENTS, INDIAN TERRITORY.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 749) to open to homestead settlement certain portions of the Indian Territory, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOSIAH MOOSA.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 750) granting a pension to Josiah Moosa; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. REBECCA ADAMS.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 751) for the relief of Mrs. Rebecca Adams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES SMITHPETER.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 752) granting a pension to James Smithpeter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHADSEY BROTHERS.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 753) for the relief of Chadsey Brothers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JURISDICTION UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 754) to limit the jurisdiction of the circuit and district courts of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

EASTERN AND WESTERN BANDS OF CHEROKEE INDIANS.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 755) to refer claims of the Eastern and Western Bands of the Cherokee Indians to the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALLOTMENT OF LANDS IN SEVERALTY.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 756) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to allot lands in severalty to Indians; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

KANSAS CITY, FORT SCOTT AND GULF RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. PERKINS (by request) also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 26) for the relief of the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Gulf Railroad Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals, and ordered to be printed.

JANE CAPTAIN.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 757) for the relief of Jane Captain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER HARPER.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 758) granting a pension to Alexander Harper; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HIATT & CO.

Mr. PERKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 759) for the relief of Hiatt & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF PENSION LAWS.

Mr. HANBACK introduced a bill (H. R. 760) to remove the limitation of payment of arrears of pension, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID F. HOOD.

Mr. HANBACK also introduced a bill (H. R. 761) for the relief of David F. Hood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY A. HUDSON.

Mr. HANBACK also introduced a bill (H. R. 762) for the relief of Henry A. Hudson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. HANBACK also introduced a bill (H. R. 763) to amend an act entitled "An act to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes," approved July 1, 1862, also to amend an act approved July 2, 1864, and also an act approved May 7, 1878, both in amendment of said first amended act, to provide for a settlement of the claims growing out of the issue of bonds to aid in the construction of said railroads, and to secure to the United States all indebtedness of the companies therein mentioned; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF SAILORS FROM CHARGE OF DESERTION.

Mr. PETERS introduced a bill (H. R. 764) to relieve certain sailors from the charge of desertion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF PENSION.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 765) giving to honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the rebellion under disability from gunshot wounds equal to loss of an arm or leg increased pension; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 766) giving to the honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the rebellion increased pension for loss of limbs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DISABLED SOLDIERS.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 767) granting a pension to all disabled soldiers and sailors serving more than three months in the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF PENSION.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 768) to increase the pensions of all widows and minor children of soldiers and sailors of the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WICHITA AND ARKANSAS VALLEY RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 769) to grant the right of way through the Indian Territory to the Wichita and Arkansas Valley Railroad Company, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL ARBITRATION.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 770) to regulate interstate commerce through a national court of arbitration; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

TERRITORY SOUTH OF KANSAS.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 771) to extend the laws of the United States over certain unorganized territory south of the State of Kansas; which read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PERSONS KILLED BY RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 772) to pay dependent relations of persons killed by accident engaged in the railway mail service, and to compensate for injuries received; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS AT FIFTY-FIVE YEARS.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 773) granting pensions to all honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the war of the rebellion who are now or may hereafter become fifty-five years of age; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MILITARY POSTS, KANSAS.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 774) making an appropriation for the purchase of two sites and for the erection thereon of two military posts on the southwestern frontier of Kansas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN BANKS.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 775) for the relief of John Banks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS G. BARTON.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 776) to increase the pension of Thomas G. Barton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK BOTTJER.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 777) granting a pension to Frederick Bottjer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REBECCA BURCH.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 778) for the relief of Rebecca Burch, widow of a soldier of the Revolution; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZA J. CAMPBELL.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 779) for the relief of Eliza J. Campbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN C. CLARK.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 780) for the relief of John C. Clark; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

B. J. DREESEN.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 781) granting a pension to B. J. Dreesen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT M. FORSYTHE.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 782) to increase the pension of Robert M. Forsythe; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY FONES.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 783) for the relief of Henry Fones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY D. GREWELL.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 784) granting a pension to Henry D. Grewell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM S. HALL.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 785) for the relief of William S. Hall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY HEGWER.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 786) for the relief of Henry Hegwer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELKANAH HUDDLESTON.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 787) for the relief of Elkanah Huddleston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JEPTHA HORNBECK.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 788) granting a pension to Jeptha Hornbeck; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ORREN D. LEMERT.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 789) for the relief of Orren D. Lemert; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AUSTIN B. LYNCH.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 790) granting a pension to Austin B. Lynch; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN F. LEWIS.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 791) to restore John F. Lewis to the rank of first lieutenant, Twenty-first United States Infantry, and place him on the retired-list; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID M'KINNEY.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 792) granting a pension to David McKinney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALBERT E. MAGOFFIN.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 793) granting a pension to Albert E. Magoffin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

D. M'ARTHUR.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 794) for the relief of D. McArthur; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID MORROW.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 795) for the relief of David Morrow; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LEVI H. NARON.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 796) granting a pension to Levi H. Naron; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. NELSON.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 797) granting a pension to William H. Nelson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

STEPHEN O'CONNOR.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 798) for the relief of Stephen O'Connor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

J. W. PATTERSON.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 799) for the relief of J. W. Patterson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH A. PORTER.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 800) granting a pension to Joseph A. Porter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM L. ROSE.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 801) for the relief of William L. Rose; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AUGUST SCHINDLER.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 802) granting a pension to August Schindler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADAM J. SHANER.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 803) granting a pension to Adam J. Shaner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES D. VERNAY.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 804) granting an increase of pension to James D. Vernay; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES A. UNDERWOOD.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 805) to increase the pension of James A. Underwood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AUGUST WEIDE.

Mr. PETERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 806) to provide for the payment of arrears of pension to August Weide, of Ellenwood, Kans., late a private in Company B, Ninth Wisconsin Infantry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. VAN EATON. Mr. Speaker, being satisfied that my State can not be reached under this call to-day, I move that the House do now adjourn. [Cries of "No!" "No!" "Divide!"]

The SPEAKER proceeded to put the question; but before the vote was taken the demand for a division was withdrawn.

Mr. REED, of Maine. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that we ought to have an understanding about this matter. If it is proposed that we shall go through with the presentation of bills without the necessity of members remaining, it may as well be so announced. If we do not purpose to go through with the call, it is not quite fair to members whose States are far down on the list, some of whom would like to go away, but who desire to stay if the call is to go on. Perhaps the best way would be to have an understanding that the bills can all be presented, but that no other motion will be in order except a motion to adjourn when we get through.

Several MEMBERS. That is right.

Mr. REED, of Maine. If that is the understanding, there will be no difficulty in getting on.

Mr. TUCKER. I would suggest, Mr. Speaker, in connection with what has been said by the gentleman from Maine [Mr. REED], that at 5 o'clock a recess may be taken until 7. It is desirable, I think, that there should be some intermission in the arduous labor of calling out the titles of the bills.

Several MEMBERS. No! no! Go on!

Mr. TUCKER. I have no objection to going on, so far as I am concerned personally.

Mr. McCREARY. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that we who have remained here up to this time are all very anxious to introduce our bills, and I therefore move that each member be allowed to hand his bills to the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. That can only be done by unanimous consent.

Mr. REED, of Maine. I think, Mr. Speaker, we ought to proceed as we have been proceeding, with the understanding that no business shall be in order except the introduction of bills. I am informed by the gentlemen at the Clerk's desk that they would prefer to go on without a recess.

The call of States was then resumed and bills were introduced as follows:

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS.

Mr. WOLFORD introduced a bill (H. R. 807) granting a pension to soldiers and sailors of the Mexican war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF MICHAEL O'BRIEN.

Mr. WOLFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 808) for the relief of the heirs of Michael O'Brien; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

W. N. BOTTS.

Mr. McCREARY (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 809) for the relief of W. N. Botts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 810) for the establishment of a Department of Agriculture and to authorize the appointment of Secretary of Agriculture; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

BAPTIST CHURCH AT CRAB ORCHARD.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 811) for the relief of the trustees of the Baptist church at Crab Orchard, Ky.; which was referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN S. BOSWELL.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 812) for the relief of John S. Boswell, of Anderson County, Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

A. W. GILBERT.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 813) for the relief of A. W. Gilbert; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES ALLEN.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 814) for the relief of Charles Allen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF JOHN PATTON.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 815) for the relief of the heirs at law of John Patton, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES C. MATHERLY.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 816) for the relief of James C. Matherly, assignor of John Pierce; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

W. F. SCOTT.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 817) for the relief of W. F. Scott; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN S. KENDRICK.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 818) for the relief of John S. Kendrick, executor of Amanda Egan, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALDERSON T. KEENE.

Mr. McCREARY also introduced a bill (H. R. 819) for the relief of Alderson T. Keene; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. THEODORA M. PIATT.

Mr. McCREARY (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 820) to pension Mrs. Theodora M. Piatt, widow of Capt. Benjamin M. Piatt, assistant adjutant of volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL M. GAINES.

Mr. HALSELL introduced a bill (H. R. 821) for the relief of Samuel M. Gaines; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. WHEELER.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 822) for the benefit of William H. Wheeler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES W. BIVENS.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 823) for the benefit of Charles W. Bivens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. MASSEY.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 824) for the relief of John H. Massey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SILAS H. CLARK.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 825) for the relief of Silas H. Clark; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

N. G. ALEXANDER.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 826) for the benefit of N. G. Alexander; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN E. RENO.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 827) for the benefit of John E. Reno; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIS E. ARNOLD.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 828) for the benefit of Willis E. Arnold; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL E. CARPENTER.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 829) for the benefit of Samuel E. Carpenter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. W. EWING.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 830) to provide for extension of letters patent for medical compound to J. W. Ewing, assignee of M. R. Garsam, administrator of C. H. Mitchell, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS B. GOSSOM.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 831) for the relief of Thomas B. Gossom, administrator; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

D. E. DOWNING.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 832) for the benefit of D. E. Downing; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES BOREN.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 833) for the relief of James Boren; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN A. LANDON.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 834) for the relief of John A. Landon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

S. J. READ.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 835) for the benefit of S. J. Read; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL STOVAL.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 836) for the relief of Daniel Stoval; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDGAR PAINE.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 837) for the relief of Edgar Paine; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY A. SEBELL AND OTHERS.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 838) for the benefit of Henry A. Sebell and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES F. EWING.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 839) for the relief of James F. Ewing; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALGERNON S. WALKER.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 840) for the relief of Algernon S. Walker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES FOSTER.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 841) for the relief of James Foster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SEBASTIAN HEETER.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 842) for the relief of Sebastian Heeter; which was read a first and second time, referred to he Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PHILIP HACK.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 843) granting a pension to Philip Hack; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL T. FERGUSON.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 844) granting a pension to Daniel T. Ferguson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SUMPTER & CHRISTIAN.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 845) for the relief of Sumpter & Christian; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL V. BALLARD.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 846) granting a pension to Samuel V. Ballard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions and ordered to be printed.

FRANKLIN COUNTY SEMINARY.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 847) for the relief of the Franklin County Seminary; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES W. HERNDON, ADMINISTRATOR.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 848) for the relief of James W. Herndon, administrator; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. H. SHORT.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 849) granting a pension to J. H. Short; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NANCY ANN PROFFITT.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 850) for the relief of Nancy Ann Proffitt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CALVIN MEANS.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 851) for the relief of Calvin Means; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

W. A. M'ELWAIN.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 852) for the relief of W. A. McElwain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSHUA E. LOGAN.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 853) for the relief of Joshua E. Logan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

W. P. HENDRICKS.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 854) for the relief of W. P. Hendricks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM L. HUDSPETH.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 855) for the relief of William L. Hudspeth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. WILLIMAN THURMAN.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 856) for the relief of Mrs. Williman Thurman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, RUSSELLVILLE, KY.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 857) for the relief of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, of Russellville, Ky.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LUCY J. MITCHELL.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 858) granting a pension to Lucy J. Mitchell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALLEN COUNTY COURT-HOUSE, KENTUCKY.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 859) for the relief of the Allen County court-house, Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RUSSELLVILLE AND LOGAN COUNTY AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 860) for the relief of the Russellville and Logan County Agricultural and Mechanical Association; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JEREMIAH CLINE.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 861) granting a pension to Jeremiah Cline; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN H. COURSY.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 862) for the relief of Benjamin H. Coursy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

M. B. W. CAMP.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 863) for the relief of M. B. W. Camp; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

A. DRAIN.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 864) for the relief of A. Drain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ASBURY DAWSON.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 865) for the relief of Asbury Dawson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, BOWLING GREEN, KY.

Mr. HALSELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 866) for the purchase of a site and the erection of a public building thereon in the city of Bowling Green, in the State of Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS SCALA.

Mr. HALSELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 867) for the relief of Francis Scala; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, FRANKFORT, KY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, introduced a bill (H. R. 868) appropriating money for the completion of the public building at Frankfort, Ky.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

EASTERN JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF KENTUCKY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 869) to establish the eastern judicial district of Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

JURISDICTION OF UNITED STATES COURTS IN KENTUCKY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 870) to regulate civil, criminal, and penal jurisdiction of circuit and district courts of the United States in the district of Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

NANCY ANN PROFFITT.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 871) for the relief of Nancy Ann Proffitt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

T. J. HARDIN.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 872) for the relief of T. J. Hardin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. VILEY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 873) for the relief of John M. Viley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HARRY J. TODD.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 874) for the relief of Harry J. Todd, late keeper of the Kentucky penitentiary; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

D. W. PRICE.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 875) for the relief of D. W. Price; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANÇOIS FOURNIER.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 876) for the relief of the legal representatives of François Fournier; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SIGMUND LUSCHER.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 877) for the relief of Sigmund Luscher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ST. ANDREW'S LODGE, CYNTHIANA, KY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 878) for the relief of St. Andrew's Lodge, No. 18, of Free and Accepted Masons, of Cynthiana, Ky.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. GRAY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 879) for the relief of William H. Gray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ANNIE B. LEWIS.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 880) for the relief of Mrs. Annie B. Lewis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE TAYLOR.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 881) for the relief of George Taylor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

C. W. KING.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 882) granting a pension to C. W. King; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M'GONNELL.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 883) granting a pension to James McGonnell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. H. R. CALDWELL.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 884) granting a pension to J. H. R. Caldwell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS D. TERRY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 885) granting a pension to Lewis D. Terry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NANCY COONS.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 886) for the relief of Nancy Coons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS S. DUVALL.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 887) granting a pension to Thomas S. Duvall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS C. ISGRIG.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 888) for the relief of Thomas C. Isgrig; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. W. SOUTH.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 889) for the relief of J. W. South; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM ASHMUT.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 890) for the relief of William Ashmut; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

NEAL SARY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 891) for the relief of Neal Sary; which was read a first and second times referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. CHILES.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 892) for the relief of John H. Chiles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LAFAYETTE ADERY.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 893) for the relief of Lafayette Adery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH CARSON.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 894) for the relief of Elizabeth Carson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM N. ROBB.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R 895) for the relief of William N. Robb; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN JONES.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 896) for the relief of John Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF ANDREW F. M'MILLIN.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 897) for the relief of the heirs at law of Andrew F. McMillin, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed .

ESTATE QF JOEL C. FRAZIER.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 898) for the relief of the estate of Joel C. Frazier, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

A. S. BLOOM.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 899) for the relief of A. S. Bloom; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SUPPORT OF COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. WILLIS introduced a bill (H. R. 900) to aid temporarily in the support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

WITHDRAWAL FROM DISTILLERY WAREHOUSE.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 901) to authorize the withdrawal from distillery warehouse without tax of alcohol and other spirits to be used in industrial pursuits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

SUBTREASURY, LOUISVILLE, KY.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 902) to establish a subtreasury at Louisville, Ky.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS FOR SURVIVORS OF MEXICAN AND INDIAN WARS.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 903) granting pensions to survivors of the Mexican and Indian wars; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

COMMERCE AMONG THE STATES.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 904) to regulate commerce among the States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

RESTRICTIONS ON TERM OF OFFICE.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 905) to repeal the sections of the Revised Statutes restricting the term of certain officers to four years, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

PARTITION OF LANDS.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 906) authorizing the partition of certain lands in Louisville, Ky., belonging jointly to John Echols and the Government of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

W. J. TAPP & CO.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 907) for the relief of W. J. Tapp & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

M. E. COCHRAN.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 908) granting a pension to Margaret E. Cochran; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY S. COHN.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 909) granting a pension to Henry S. Cohn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

KATE WILHARLITZ.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 910) granting a pension to Kate Wilharlitz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ANN SHEFFIELD.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 911) granting a pension to Mrs. Ann Sheffield; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH GEOSTESPHAN.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 912) granting a pension to Elizabeth Geostesphan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

D. Q. ROUSSEAU.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 913) for the relief of D. Q. Rousseau; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. FANNY S. CONWAY.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 914) for the relief of Mrs. Fanny S. Conway; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN FINZER & BROTHERS.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 915) for the relief of John Finzer & Brothers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THEODORE SCHWARTZ.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 916) for the relief of Theodore Schwartz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY S. COHN.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 917) for the relief of Henry S. Cohn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GILBERT A. PHILIPS.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 918) granting a pension to Gilbert A Philips; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

KATE WILHARLITZ.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 919) granting a pension to Kate Wilharlitz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF K. A. MILLER.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 920) granting relief to the heirs of K. A. Miller, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLARA L. PREUSS.

Mr. WILLIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 921) granting a pension to Clara L. Preuss; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIARY DISTRICTS IN KENTUCY.

Mr. TAULBEE introduced a bill (H. R. 922) to divide the State of Kentucky into two judicial districts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

CUDBERTH STONE.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 923) for the relief of Cudberth Stone; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES STONE.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 924) for the relief of James Stone; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

RACHAEL NICKELL.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 925) to amend an act entitled "An act granting a pension to Rachael Nickell;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES STONE.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 926) granting a pension to James Stone; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CUDBERTH STONE.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 927) granting a pension to Cudberth Stone; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS A. THORNBERRY.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 928) granting a pension to Lewis A. Thornberry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

G. W. FRALEY.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 929) granting a pension to G. W. Fraley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS C. DILS.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 930) for the relief of Lewis C. Dils; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW HOWARD, SR.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 931) for the benefit of Andrew Howard, sr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

T. J. PITZER.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 932) for the relief of T. J. Pitzer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER FRANCESCO.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 933) giving a military record to Alexander Francesco; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES W. MINNIX.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 934) granting a pension to Charles W. Minnix; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES T. CASKEY.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 935) giving a military record to James T. Caskey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. TAULBEE also introduced a bill (H. R. 936) granting a pension to James T. Caskey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SECTION 4414 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. STONE, of Kentucky, introduced a bill (H. R. 937) to amend section 4414 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

MARINE HOSPITAL AT PADUCAH.

Mr. STONE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 938) authoring the construction of a marine hospital at Paducah, Ky.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

SECTION 3360 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. STONE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 939) to repeal section 3360 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. HIGGINS.

Mr. STONE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 940) for the relief of John M. Higgins, of Caldwell County, Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HESTER V. BLACKBURN.

Mr. STONE, of Kentucky, also introduced a bill (H. R. 941) granting a pension to Hester V. Blackburn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LIEUT. JAMES MORTON.

Mr. WADSWORTH introduced a bill (H. R. 942) granting a pension to Lieut. James Morton, of Greenup County, Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH T. DUKE.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 943) for the relief of Sarah T. Duke, widow of Capt. John M. Duke, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY JANE CONRAD.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 944) for the relief of Mary Jane Conrad, widow of James Conrad, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN FREW STEWART.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 945) for the relief of John Frew Stewart, guardian of the minor children of James Lewis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMANDA JACOBS.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 946) for the relief of Amanda Jacobs, widow of Thomas Sexton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LILBURN E. TABER.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 947) for the relief of Lilburn E. Taber; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

P. O. COLLINS.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 948) for the relief of P. O. Collins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT MAYSVILLE, KY.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 949) for the erection of a public building in the city of Maysville, Ky.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. VAN EATON. I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was not agreed to, only 10 voting therefor.

Mr. BAYNE. It is evident that we can not get through the call of States to-night. I move, therefore, that we take a recess until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. [Cries of "Oh, no!"] At that time we can continue the introduction of bills.

The motion was not agreed to.

HEIRS OF MAURICE GRIVOT.

Mr. ST. MARTIN introduced a bill (H. R. 950) for the relief of the heirs of Maurice Grivot; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH E. RAMSAY.

Mr. ST. MARTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 951) for the relief of Sarah E. Ramsay, widow in community, and Anna E. Wagner, sole heir of G. Alexander Ramsay; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CONGRESSIONAL TERMS.

Mr. BLANCHARD introduced a bill (H. R. 952) establishing the time when the terms of Congress shall begin and end and when Congress shall meet; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

RED RIVER COMMISSION.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 953) to provide for the creation of the Red River Commission, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL CEMETERY, PINEVILLE, LA.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 954) making an appropriation to construct a road and approaches from Pineville, La., for the national military cemetery near that town; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

COMMERCE OF RED RIVER VALLEY.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 955) to promote the commerce of the Red River Valley, in Louisiana; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and ordered to be printed.

BAYOU PIERRE, IN NORTHWESTERN LOUISIANA.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 956) to remove the raft from Bayou Pierre, in Northwestern Louisiana; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and ordered to be printed.

EQUIPMENT OF PASSENGER AND FREIGHT STEAMERS.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 957) to amend section 4480 of the Revised Statutes for the better equipment of steamers carrying passengers and freight; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. LIZZIE D. CLARKE.

Mr. BLANCHARD (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 958) for the relief of Mrs. Lizzie D. Clarke, of New Orleans; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. MORSE.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 959) for the relief of George W. Morse; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

J. R. M'GOLDRICK.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 960) for the relief of J. R. McGoldrick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FANNIE M. WELLS AND IDA F. WELLS.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 961) for the relief of Fannie M. Wells and Ida F. Wells; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY T. HICKMAN AND OTHERS.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 962) for the relief of Mary T. Hickman and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ERÉZIA GUNNEY.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 963) for the relief of Mrs. Erézia Gunney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY J. CLOUD.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 964) for the relief of Mary J. Cloud; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LAURA P. MADDOX, DECEASED.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 965) for the relief of the heirs of Laura P. Maddox, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS L. TERRY.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 966) for the relief of Thomas L. Terry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

T. ALONZO WALKER AND AUGUSTA C. TODD.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 967) referring the claim of T. Alonzo Walker and Augusta C. Todd for proceeds of cotton to the Court of Claims for adjudication; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

STATE NATIONAL BANK OF NEW ORLEANS.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 968) for the relief of the State National Bank of New Orleans, formerly Louisiana State Bank; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY SHANNON, ADMINISTRATRIX, ETC.

Mr. BLANCHARD (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 969) for relief of Mary Shannon, administratrix, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 27) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States in relation to reciprocity treaties affecting the revenues; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PREVENTION OF YELLOW FEVER.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 28) providing for the investigation of the discovery claimed to have been made in Brazil and Mexico of a prophylactic against yellow fever by the inoculation of attenuated virus, the methods pursued, and their effectiveness in protecting the unacclimated against yellow fever infection; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

RECORDS OF LOUISIANA.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 29) asking for the return by the Federal Government of all papers, books, or records relating to the military history of the State of Louisiana during her existence as a French colony, a Spanish colony, and an American Territory; also all papers and records relating to the war of 1812, the Florida war, the war with Mexico, and the war with the States—all or most of these papers, the property of the State of Louisiana, having been removed to Washington by the Federal authorities when the capitol at Baton Rouge, La., was burned by the Federal forces December 28, 1862; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF MYRA CLARK GAINES.

Mr. HAHN introduced a bill (H. R. 970) for the relief of the heirs of Myra Clark Gaines; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SUITS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. HAHN also introduced a bill (H. R. 971) to authorize suits against the United States, to rescind contracts for the sale of land, and to indemnify purchasers when the titles have failed, and to restore certain lands to their original owners; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARY SHANNON.

Mr. HAHN also introduced a bill (H. R. 972) for the relief of Mrs. Mary Shannon, widow and administratrix of the estate of Joseph R. Shannon, deceased, and to provide for the payment of the loss of the steamboat A. W. Quarrier; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB WAKEMAN.

Mr. HAHN also introduced a bill (H. R. 973) granting a pension to Jacob Wakeman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, MONROE, LA.

Mr. KING introduced a bill (H. R. 974) for a public building at Monroe, La.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

MEETING OF ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

Mr. KING also introduced a bill (H. R. 975) to fix the day for the meeting of the electors for President and Vice-President and to provide for and regulate the counting of the votes for President and Vice-President, and the decision of questions arising thereon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Law Respecting Election of President and Vice-President, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL SYSTEM UNITED STATES.

Mr. KING also introduced a bill (H. R. 976) to increase the judicial force of the United States and to prevent delays in the administration of justice in their courts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

NAVY-YARD AT ALGIERS.

Mr. KING also introduced a bill (H. R. 977) to establish a navy-yard and depot of supplies on the Mississippi River at Algiers or at some point between Algiers and Port Eads; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER COMMISSION.

Mr. KING also introduced a bill (H. R. 978) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the appointment of a Mississippi River Commission for the improvement of said river from the head of the passes near its mouth to its headwaters," approved June 28, 1879; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Levees and Improvement of the Mississippi River, and ordered to be printed.

TEMPORARY SUPPORT OF COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. KING also introduced a bill (H. R. 979) to aid in the temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT CARTER.

Mr. KING also introduced a bill (H. R. 980) for the relief of Robert Carter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS D. ALLEN.

Mr. KING (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 981) for the relief of Lewis D. Allen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TOBIAS G. RICHARDSON AND OTHERS.

Mr. KING also introduced a bill (H. R. 982) for the relief of Tobias G. Richardson and Albert Baldwin, testamentary executors of the succession of Cora A. Slocomb, Ida A. Richardson, and Caroline A. Urquhart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LEVEES OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

Mr. KING also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 30) calling for a report upon the conditions of levees of the Mississippi River, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Levees and Improvement of the Mississippi River, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. CURTIN. Mr. Speaker, it is very evident that we can not conclude the call of States to-night. A recess might accommodate many members, but it is not likely that a recess could be arranged now. I desire, therefore, to suggest that by unanimous consent it shall be understood when we again meet on the 5th of January we will commence the call of States where we leave off to-night. It would take ten hours to get through now.

Mr. TUCKER. If it is agreed by unanimous consent that we shall continue the call of States where it is left off here, there can be no difficulty in the world in the way. But if we adjourn now, under the resolution which has been adopted by both Houses, the day when the House will again assemble is not that fixed by the rules for the call of States, and precedence is accordingly given to those bills which have been already introduced.

Mr. CURTIN. By unanimous consent it can be done in the way I suggest; that is to say, when the House assembles after the recess on Tuesday, January 5, the call of States shall be continued from this point.

Mr. SPRINGER. And continue from day to day until all of the States are called.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia. We have been already five hours in the call of States, and have not gotten one-third of the way through the list.

Mr. CURTIN. It cannot be completed to-night.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

Mr. BOUTELLE and others objected.

Mr. WILSON, of West Virginia. I move that the House take a recess until 8 o'clock. We have occupied already five hours in the call of States and Territories, and I believe it will be impossible in less than ten hours more to get through the call.

The question being taken on the motion for a recess, it was not agreed to.

ENDOWMENT OF LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY, ETC.

Mr. IRION also introduced a bill (H. R. 983) to increase the endowment of the Louisiana State University and Agricultural College; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT OPELOUSAS, LA.

Mr. IRION also introduced a bill (H. R. 984) to provide for the construction of a public building at Opelousas, State of Louisiana; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY.

Mr. IRION also introduced a bill (H. R. 985) authorizing the Secretary of War to transfer the United States barracks at Baton Rouge, La., to the Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College at said place for educational purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

FOG-SIGNALS AT MOUTH OF MISSISSIPPI.

Mr. GAY introduced a bill (H. R. 986) providing for the establishment of fog-signal light-ship and lights off the mouth of the Mississippi River, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD G. W. BUTLER.

Mr. GAY also introduced a bill (H. R. 987) for the relief of Edward G. W. Butler from political disabilities; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia. I make the point of order that business can not proceed, a quorum not being present.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has no knowledge of the absence of a quorum. No vote has been taken to develop such a fact.

LEHMAN, HAYEM & TAYLOR.

Mr. GAY (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 988) for the relief of Lehman, Hayem & Taylor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. CURTIN. I think the proposition which I made a short time ago will now be acceded to. If we adjourn now and resume the work of introducing bills on the 5th of January we can then finish it in order and gentlemen who have bills to introduce and whose States have not yet been called will have the same opportunity of introducing their bills as they have now. It is evident there is not a quorum present. I again submit my proposition and will restate it. It is that when we adjourn to-night it shall be understood, by unanimous consent, that when this House meets again on the 5th of January the call of States for bills shall commence where it closes at the close of this sitting.

The SPEAKER. The Chair understood the gentleman from Pennsylvania to include also in his request the proposition that the call of States, when resumed on the 5th of January, shall continue from day to day until completed.

Mr. CURTIN. Yes, sir; that is part of my proposition.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Pennsylvania renews his request for unanimous consent that when the House reassembles on the 5th of January next the call of States and Territories shall be resumed where it is left off to-day, and that it be continued from day to day until completed. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia. I move that the House do now adjourn.

The SPEAKER. Pending the motion to adjourn, the Chair desires to lay before the House certain messages from the President of the United States.

There was no objection.

CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE AND SAINT PAUL RAILROAD.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, when appointed, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 17th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with the accompanying papers, a draught of a bill to accept and ratify an agreement made by the Sisseton and Wahpeton Indians, and to grant a right of way for the Chicago, Milwaukee and Saint Paul Railway through the Lake Traverse reservation, in Dakota.

The subject is presented for the consideration and action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

NEW ORLEANS EXPOSITION.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which, with the accompanying documents, was laid on the table, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a report, together with accompanying documents, made to me by the board of management of the World's Industrial and Cotton Centennial Exposition, held at New Orleans from December 16, 1884, to May 31, 1885.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, December 21, 1885.

AGREEMENT WITH PAH-UTE INDIANS, ETC.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which, with the accompanying documents, was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 17th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers, a draught of a bill to accept and ratify an agreement made by the Pah-Ute Indians, and granting a right of way to the Carson and Colorado Railroad Company through the Walker River reservation, in Nevada.

The matter is presented for the consideration and action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

JAMESTOWN AND NORTHERN RAILROAD.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following message; which, with the accompanying documents, was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 17th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers, a draught of a bill granting the right of way to the Jamestown and Northern Railroad Company through the Devil's Lake Indian reservation, in the Territory of Dakota.

The matter is presented for the consideration and action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

UTAH AND NORTHERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which, with the accompanying documents, was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 17th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers, a report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs concerning the failure of the Utah and Northern Railroad Company to compensate the Indians upon the Fort Hall reservation, in Idaho, for lands taken and used in the construction of their line of road crossing the reservation from north to south.

The subject is recommended to the early attention and action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

TRESPASSES UPON INDIAN LANDS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which, with the accompanying documents, was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of 15th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers upon the subject, a draught of a bill to amend section 2148 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relating to trespasses upon Indian lands.

The subject is one of great importance, and is commended to the early and favorable action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

ADJUSTMENT OF FISHERY QUESTION.

Mr. REED, of Maine, by unanimous consent, presented the following memorial; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed in the RECORD:

Resolutions of the Portland Fishing Exchange on the appointment of commissioners to adjust differences in regard to the fisheries with Great Britain.

To the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled:

Whereas we who are interested in the fishing industry of the United States look with alarm upon the opening of the fishery question with the Government of Great Britain with regard to the admission of fish caught by British subjects free from duties into the United States, and being satisfied to have the present situation of the fishing interest remain where it is; and

Whereas we believe that the appointment of any commissioners or any legislation to adjust differences would be disastrous to our fishing interest, as Great Britain has no privileges she can grant as an offset to the great advantages which would be derived through the free access to our markets with the productions of their fisheries; and

Whereas we are willing to forego any advantages which Great Britain may offer us as an offset for our free market for her fish: Therefore,

Resolved, That we respectfully request our Representatives to Congress from the State of Maine to do all in their power to prevent the appointment of commissioners to treat with Great Britain in the matter of fisheries, and we hereby appeal to the Congress of the United States to protect our fishing interest and place us upon the same footing as other industries of the country.

O. B. WHITTEN,
Secretary Portland Fishing Exchange.

COMMITTEE ON PRINTING.

The SPEAKER announced the appointment of the following members of the Joint Committee on Printing upon the part of the House:

Mr. BARKSDALE of Mississippi, Mr. REID of North Carolina, and Mr. FARQUHAR of New York.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

Mr. LEHLBACH, by unanimous consent, obtained leave to withdraw from the files of the House the petition for increasing duties on pearl buttons, presented January 12, 1885, by Mr. Fiedler, of New Jersey, and referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

CLAIMS.

Mr. MCMILLIN. With the consent of the gentleman from West Virginia who has made the motion to adjourn, I desire to introduce a bill which relates to claims already passed upon at the Treasury Department and should receive early consideration.

There being no objection,

Mr. MCMILLIN introduced a bill (H. R. 989) for the allowance of certain claims reported by the accounting officers of the United States Treasury Department; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

The motion of Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, that the House adjourn, was then agreed to; and accordingly (at 5 o'clock and 10 minutes p. m.) the House, in pursuance of concurrent resolution, adjourned until Tuesday, January 5, 1886.

PETITIONS, ETC.

The following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk, under the rule, and referred as follows:

By Mr. BARBOUR: Petition of Henry McWilliams, praying the reference of his claim to the Court of Claims under act of March 3, 1883—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers in the claim of Peter Veitz—to the same committee.

By Mr. BEACH: Memorial of Alexander Finlay, surviving partner of Shaw & Finlay, for the payment of $11,156.98, with interest from December 26, 1862, from the moneys of the Geneva award—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. BLANCHARD: Memorial of Louisiana Educational Society, asking for the passage of what is known as the Blair educational bill—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. BOUTELLE: Petition of Bertha M. Timoney, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. C. R. BRECKINRIDGE: Papers in the claims of Rachel Hudgens, widow of Basil B. Hudgens; of Thomas Watkins; of William McCrosby; of Sarah Case, administratrix of George Case; of John A. Wallis—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. BURROWS: Petition of David Shoemaker, of the District of Columbia, for 20 acres of timber taken for army use, stated at $2,240—to the same committee.

By Mr. BYNUM: Petition of J. W. Conner and others, for relief—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. CALDWELL: A bill for continuing the improvement of Cumberland River, in Tennessee and Kentucky—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, papers in the claim of Frederick Smith—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, petition of heirs of James W. Eastwood, asking to be reimbursed for money taken from him by United States forces—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petitions of Martha A. Stevens; of B. B. Taylor; of Samuel Ceas; of Thomas Chadwell, administrator of E. H. Childress; of Cummings, Doyle & Co. and Doyle & Co., and of George W. Twidwell, for relief—to the same committee.

By Mr. CLEMENTS: Petitions of Hester A. Weitinger, widow of John Weitinger; of John A. Mosteller and Elizabeth A. Mosely, administrators of Andrew Mosteller, deceased; of David Murdoch; of Floyd S. Hudgins, asking compensation for property taken and used by United States Army during the war—to the same committee.

Also, a bill making an appropriation for continuing improvement of the Coosa River, in Georgia and Alabama—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. COMPTON: Petition of the citizens of the District of Columbia, asking that the price of gas be 50 cents per 1,000 feet to consumers, and that former petitions to Congress be transferred from files of former committees of the House to the present Congress—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Also, memorial of Mrs. Mary Mortimer Semmes, widow of Commodore Alexander Semmes, for a pension—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. COMSTOCK: Petition of C. R. Robinson and 61 others, for silver coinage and other purposes—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. CURTIN: Petition of citizens of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, for relief—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. ERMENTROUT: Petition of Augustus Bowman and others, for reduction of cigar manufacturers' bonds—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, petition of cigar-makers of eighth Congressional district, Berks County, Pennsylvania, for abolition of internal-revenue and reduction of manufacturers' bonds—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Henry Blitler and others, citizens of Berks County, Pennsylvania, asking for modification of internal-revenue laws—to the same committee.

Also, petition of R. Anthony and 500 others, soldiers of the late war, asking for the passage of an act granting each honorably discharged soldier, sailor, and marine 160 acres of land—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. EVERHART: Petition of Louisiana Educational Society, praying for national aid to education—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. FINDLAY: Memorial of sugar-dealers and others, of Baltimore, Md.—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. FREDERICK: Petition in behalf of Andrew J. Elliott, a soldier of the Mexican war of 1847 and 1848—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. C. H. GIBSON: Petition of Cornelia Jones, of Montgomery County, Maryland, for 800 bushels of wheat and straw of same, taken for army use, and stated at $2,000—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of First Reformed church of Sharpsburg, Washington County, Maryland, for rent of church for hospital during the war of 1861, and for other property taken, stated at $806.22—to the same committee.

By Mr. EUSTACE GIBSON: Petition of Samuel K. McClurg, administrator of Samuel McClurg, late of Greenbrier, W. Va., for payment for stores and supplies taken for army use, and stated at $7,700—to the same committee.

By Mr. HALSELL: Papers accompanying bill for benefit of W. H. Wheeler—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers relating to claim of D. E. Downing, of Monroe County, Kentucky—to the same committee.

By Mr. HAMMOND: Petition of the Chamber of Commerce of Atlanta, Ga., for opening the Tennessee River from the Ohio to Chattanooga, Tenn.—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. HATCH: Joint and concurrent resolution of the Thirty-third General Assembly of the State of Missouri, memorializing Congress for an appropriation for the protection of the bottom lands in the southeastern part of the State of Missouri from annual inundations from the Mississippi River and other sources—to the Committee on the Levees and Improvement of the Mississippi River.

Also, joint and concurrent resolution of the Thirty-third General Assembly of Missouri, memorializing Congress for an appropriation for the building of a levee on the west side of the Mississippi River from the city of Clarksville, Mo., to the mouth of the Missouri River—to the same committee.

Also, joint and concurrent resolution of the Thirty-third General Assembly of Missouri, instructing the Senators and requesting the Representatives in Congress from said State to procure legislation authorizing receivers of railroad companies appointed by Federal courts to be sued in local State courts and preserve the right of trial by jury in such suits—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, joint and concurrent resolution of the Thirty-third General Assembly of Missouri, asking Congress to provide for the auditing and adjusting the war debt of Missouri—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, joint and concurrent resolution instructing the Senators and requesting the Representatives of said State to favor the passage of an act giving pensions to the surviving soldiers of the Mexican war—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, joint and concurrent resolution of the Thirty-third General Assembly of Missouri, instructing the Senators and requesting the Representatives in Congress from said State to vote against and use all honorable means to defeat the passage of the Buckner bill to suspend the further coinage of silver—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. T. J. HENDERSON: Petition of George Sneider, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Emma Sanger and others, citizens of Amboy, Ill., praying that a pension be granted to Louis H. Sanger—to the same committee.

By Mr. HEARD: Petition of citizens of Arrow Rock, Mo., relating to the improvement of the Missouri River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. MILLER: Petition of Ebenezer L. Lee, son and heir of Thomas H. Lee, praying the reference of his claim to the Court of Claims under act of March 3, 1883—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HOUK: Petition of the Tennessee State Teachers' Association, asking national aid to education—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. KING: Bill to appropriate $25,000 to examine into the methods proposed for the prevention and cure of yellow fever—to the Select Committee on the Public Health.

Also, bill appropriating $4,000,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, bill appropriating $150,000 for the improvement of the Ouachita River, Louisiana—to the same committee.

Also, bill appropriating $25,000 for the improvement of the Bayou d'Arbonne, Louisiana—to the same committee.

Also, bill appropriating $30,000 for the improvement of Bayou Bartholomew, Louisiana—to the same committee.

Also, bill appropriating $30,000 for the improvement of the Tensas and Macon Rivers, Louisiana—to the same committee.

Also, bill appropriating $25,000 for improvement of Bœuff River, Louisiana—to the same committee.

By Mr. KLEINER: Papers relating to the bill for the relief of Ergenmon & Budenkopf—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, papers relating to the claim of Charles Spencer—to the same committee.

By Mr. LANHAM: Petition of citizens of Coalville, Tex., in regard to silver coinage, the issuance of coin certificates, &c.—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. LYMAN: Bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River at or near Council Bluffs, Iowa, and to make the same a post-route—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Mississippi River at or near Kiethsburg, Ill., and to establish the same as a post-route—to the same committee.

Also, bill to authorize the construction of bridges across the Illinois River in the State of Illinois, and the Des Moines River in the State of Iowa, and to establish the same as post-routes—to the same committee.

By Mr. McCOMAS: Petitions of George Thomas of Hy; of Ezra M. Thomas; of George E. Stonebraker; of George E. Stonebraker, administrator of Christian Stonebraker, praying that their claims be sent to the Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. McCREARY: Petition of Eugenia D. Potts, for pay for cotton sold and destroyed—to the same committee.

By Mr. McMILLIN: Bill appropriating $400,000 to continue the improvement of the Cumberland River by locks and dams—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. McRAE: Memorial of Alexander Davis, of Arkansas, for relief—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. MILLIKEN: Petition of Abner M. Ward, guardian of Willie F. Ward, for a pension—to the Committe on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Josiah B. Snell, for pension—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Josiah Wardwell, for the removal of mark of desertion against Hiram F. Wardwell from United States steamship Shenandoah—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. MORGAN: Petition of M. A. Whitaker, widow of Eli Whitaker, deceased, and of Wily E. Blount, praying the reference of her claim to the Court of Claims under act of March 3, 1883—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. MORGAN: Papers in claim of M. W. Young—to the same committee.

By Mr. MORROW: Resolutions of the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, Cal., relative to the California and Oregon Railroad—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, resolutions of the Sacramento (Cal.) Board of Trade for the same purpose—to the same committee.

Also, resolution of the Board of Trade of San Francisco, Cal., asking attention to the restoring navigability to the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers and their tributaries—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petition of A. J. Barnes, formerly Indian agent in the State of Nevada, for relief—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, petition for Congress to grant to the city and county of San Francisco certain land adjoining the Pueblo land of said city—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. NEAL: Memorial of Robert B. Crowder, late assistant surgeon Third Tennessee Mounted Infantry, for relief—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, memorial of John B. McGhee, administrator of Ann E. McGhee, for relief—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of James W. Roulston, praying the reference of his claim to the Court of Claims—to the same committee.

Also, memorial of Hartford Motherly, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, papers in the claim of William Clift—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of Elizabeth M. Johnston, for payment for supplies furnished United States Army—to the same committee.

By Mr. NEECE: Petitions of Thomas Marsh and others; of O. E. Wold and others, and of J. B. Danforth and others, citizens of Illinois, relating to coinage of silver, &c.—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. O'HARA: Petition of Edward H. Barnum and Mary A. Russell, heirs of Charles H. Barnum, for reference of their claim to the Court of Claims under act of March 3, 1883—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. PARKER: Resolutions of the Legislature of the State of New York, asking for the settlement and payment of claims on account of the soldiers of 1812—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. PEEL: Petition of 200 citizens of Benton and Washington Counties, Arkansas, for right of way through the Indian Territory to the Kansas City, Arkansas and Fort Smith Railway Company—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. RANDALL: Memorial of Mary Mortimer Semmes, widow of Commodore Alexander A. Semmes, praying for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. REAGAN: Petition of E. K. Bearden and 20 others, citizens of Texas, for the continued coinage of silver, and other purposes—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. T. B. REED: Petition of Mrs. Hannah B. Hutchins, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, five petitions of citizens and business men of Maine, namely: C. W. Belknap & Son and 25 others, of James B. Jones and 35 others, of Hanson B. Joyce and 53 others, of Sidney Watson and 24 others, of Charles A. Dyer and 57 others, against the admission by treaty or legislation of Canadian fish free of duty—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. RIGGS: Petition of the Louisiana Educational Society, for Federal aid to common schools—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. ROGERS: Petition of the heirs of Mrs. Maria A. Reinhardt, for compensation for property taken and used by United States Army during the war—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers relating to the claim of Peter Nolan—to the same committee.

By Mr. SKINNER: Petition of W. E. Alexander, guardian of John A. Shaw, minor heir of Joseph B. Shaw, deceased, praying the reference of his claim to the Court of Claims under act of March 3, 1883—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. SPOONER: Petition of Jeremiah McCarty, for arrears of pension—to the Committee on Pensions.

By Mr. STAHLNECKER: Petition for relief of George C. Ellison, asking for reimbursement of costs and expenses in certain judicial proceedings—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. STEELE: Petition of John Wolf and 100 others, of Gra County, Indiana, asking an amendment to the general pension laws to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SYMES: Concurrent resolution of the Legislature of Colorado, asking that Congress pass a bill creating a public park at Pagosa Springs—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. TAULBEE: Petition of James C. Rudd, for rent of building in Owensburg, Ky., for post-office in that place, stated at $3,500—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. J. M. TAYLOR: Papers in the claim of Robert Brown—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, memorial of the Tennessee State Teachers' Association, asking national aid to education—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. THOMPSON: Petitions of William Rogers, of John Q. Belville, and of Lusetta Spicer, for special-act pensions—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. VAN EATON: Petition of Daniel Singleton, asking compensation for property taken and used by the United States Army during the war—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers in the claim of A. H. Gardner—to the same committee.

By Mr. VOORHEES: Petition of Clallam County, Washington Territory, for an appropriation of $75,000 for constructing a military road from Dungenness to Neah Bay—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of Henry R. Crosbie, asking for reimbursement of his expenditures in the matter of the disputed claim between Great Britain and the United States with regard to the island of San Juan—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, petition of 211 citizens of Washington Territory, for an appropriation for Gray's Harbor, in said Territory—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. WAIT: Petition of Alexander Mack, late captain of maintop, United States Navy, for restoration of pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WHEELER: Petition of George C. Arrington, for pay for cotton seized by United States Government—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of Mrs. C. L. Robinson, for relief—to same committee.

By Mr. WISE: Letter of Appomattox Assembly of Knights of Labor, Virginia, asking that some steps be taken to mitigate the evils and unnecessary hardships in the present method of conducting cotton-mills—to the Committee on Labor.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, January 5, 1886.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. E. D. HUNTLEY, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of Monday, December 21, 1885, was read and approved.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, transmitting, in compliance with section 1136 of the Revised Statutes, plans and estimates for the erection of a building at Willets Point, New York, for the use of the engineer battalion; which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

He also laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Navy, transmitting, in response to a resolution of December 21, 1885, certain information regarding an inventory of stores at the navy-yards; which, with the accompanying papers, was, on motion of Mr. HALE, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CREDENTIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore presented the credentials of John W. Daniel, chosen by the Legislature of Virginia a Senator from that State for the term beginning March 4, 1887; which were read and ordered to be filed.

DEATH OF GENERAL M'CLELLAN.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair presents a communication from W. B. Franklin, president of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, Hartford, Conn., notifying the Senate of the death of General George B. McClellan, which event caused a vacancy in the board of managers of that institution.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I move that the communication be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The motion was agreed to.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore presented the petition of Robert Noble, late of Company A, Nineteenth Regiment of Maine Volunteers, praying to be allowed a pension; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented the petition of Joel M. Sugg, of Hobart, Logan County, Arkansas, praying for a modification of the laws relating to military bounties; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented a petition of the Mahoning Valley (Ohio) Wool-Growers' Association, praying for an increase of duty on wool; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented the petition of Sarah A. Kelley, of Honesdale, Wayne County, Pennsylvania, widow of Horace Jackson Kelley, late of Company E, One hundred and seventy-seventh Pennsylvania Regiment, praying to be allowed a pension; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CALL presented a petition of merchants of New York city, and a petition of cigar manufacturers of Tampa, Fla., praying that the town of Tampa may be made a port of entry; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. MCPHERSON. I present a resolution adopted by the Burlington County Board of Agriculture, of New Jersey, calling attention to the message of the President wherein he refers to the restrictions upon the importation of our pork into France and other countries, and favoring legislation by Congress in order to have such restrictions removed. I move that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. MCPHERSON presented a resolution adopted by the Burlington County Board of Agriculture, of New Jersey, favoring such legislation as will elevate the office of Commissioner of Agriculture to the dignity of a Cabinet position; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

He also presented a resolution adopted by the Burlington County Board of Agriculture, of New Jersey, favoring the enactment of such laws as will prevent the transmission of such contagious diseases as pleuro-pneumonia among cattle, &c.; which was referred to the Committee on Epidemic Diseases.

Mr. INGALLS. I present a petition numerously signed by citizens of the city of Washington, praying for the passage of a bill extending the route of the Capitol, North O Street and South Washington Railway Company. The petition is accompanied with certain papers, and I move that they, together with the petition, be referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HALE presented the memorial of N. H. Powers, Ambrose White, and others, citizens of Maine, remonstrating against any legislation providing for the free admission of the products of British or Dominion fisheries; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. VEST presented the petition of L. L. McCormick and other citizens of Jasper County, Missouri, praying for such legislation as will place the coinage of silver on an equality with the coinage of gold; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. DOLPH presented a memorial of the Legislative Assembly of Oregon, praying that an appropriation be made for agricultural experiments in connection with agricultural colleges; which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. MILLER, of New York, presented a petition of Olcott Post, No. 522, Grand Army of the Republic, Milford, N. Y., praying for the repeal of certain pension laws; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, presented the petition of J. H. Peterson and 127 other citizens of Iowa; the petition of John Watts and 141 other citizens of Iowa; and the petition of J. A. Smith and 171 other citizens of Iowa, praying for the passage of an act of absolute forfeiture of the unearned lands within the limits of the grant to the Sioux City and Saint Paul Railroad Company; which were referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. LOGAN presented a petition of ex-Union soldiers of Lanoke, Ark., praying for the enactment of a law granting the amount of bounties to commissioned officers which was refunded on account of receiving such commission; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also presented a petition of ex-Union soldiers, praying for the repeal of the limitation act regarding pensions; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented the petition of citizens of Plattsburg, N. Y., praying that a pension be granted Patrick A. Callanan, late a private in the First Regiment Massachusetts Heavy Artillery; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented the petition of William B. Cloney, late gunner's mate in the United States Navy, praying to be allowed an increase of pension; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a petition of citizens of Clark County, Illinois, praying for the passage of a bill to pension all surviving prisoners of war of the late rebellion; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. COCKRELL. I present a brief prepared by an attorney in support of the bill (S. 292) for the relief of the heirs of colored soldiers who served in the war of the rebellion. I move that the brief be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs for consideration in connection with the bill.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HOAR presented additional papers to accompany the petition of Elizabeth O'Callaghan, of Boston, Mass., praying legislation in relation to certain books lost by her in the mails; which were referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also presented the petition of Henry Mealsman, late private in Company I, Tenth Regiment United States Infantry, praying that his pension be rated at $24 per month from November, 1880, to August 7, 1884; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

WYOMING TERRITORIAL LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Mr. HARRISON. I am directed by the Committee on Territories, to whom was referred the bill (S. 602) to legalize the election of the Territorial Legislative Assembly of Wyoming, to report it favorably, without amendment; and I ask for the present consideration of the bill, if the Senate will indulge me for a moment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Indiana asks the unanimous consent of the Senate to proceed with the consideration of the bill at this time. Is there objection to the present consideration of the bill?

Mr. EDMUNDS. I reserve the right to object if the bill takes much time, because I wish to get up the Utah bill. I have no objection to this being considered if it takes no time.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the bill be read for information.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the bill; and, by unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider it.

Mr. HARRISON. I do not desire to detain the Senate. I shall briefly state the history of this matter.

In 1880 Congress passed an act providing for an apportionment for legislative purposes in Montana, Idaho, and Wyoming, the apportionment to be made by the governor and some other of the Territorial officers designated. That apportionment was made in Wyoming, and the Seventh Legislative Assembly met under that apportionment and passed an apportionment bill, which was limited in its effects to the Eighth Legislative Assembly, which succeeded. Now, the Ninth Legislative Assembly has been elected upon that apportionment without any contest or objection in the Territory and is about to assemble. The question has been raised before the Auditor of the Treasury whether, in the absence of an apportionment act by the Legislative Assembly, he can recognize and pay the expenses of the Legislative Assembly which convenes in a few days—I think on the 9th of this month.

Under these circumstances there is nothing to do but to appeal to Congress to legalize the apportionment. I understand there is no objection to the measure in any way. It is necessary in order that the Legislature may assemble under the forms of law and that the moneys appropriated may be expended to defray their expenses.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. PLUMB (by request) introduced a bill (S. 800) to authorize Dr. C. E. Price, assistant surgeon United States Army, to receive pay for discharging the duties of physician to the Hoopa Valley Indian reservation, such services having been performed at the request of the proper officers of the Interior Department; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 801) to pay the Delaware Indians the amount ascertained to be due them for the value of their lands taken for the right of way over their allotted lands by the Leavenworth, Pawnee and Western Railroad Company, or their successors, in the State of Kansas, under the provisions of the treaty of May 30, 1860; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 802) to pay the Delaware Indians the amounts ascertained to be due them for stock under the provisions of the fourteenth article of the treaty of July 4, 1866; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 803) granting increase of pension to James D. Verney, late of the Eleventh Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 804) to grant to the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Gulf Railway Company a right of way through the Indian Territory, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. SEWELL introduced a bill (S. 805) for the relief of the International Navigation Company; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 806) granting a pension to Mary B. Holmes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MORRILL (by request) introduced a bill (S. 807) for the relief of Frank A. Page; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. BLAIR introduced a bill (S. 808) granting a pension to Joseph McGuckian; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 809) granting a pension to Richard Riggles; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 810) granting a pension to Charles J. Esty; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 811) granting a pension to Mrs. Susan Gilman, widow of Pliny R. Gilman; which was read twice by its title, and, with accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 812) granting a pension to Mrs. E. A. Benham; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 813) granting a pension to Miss Rebecca Miller, daughter of General James Miller, of the war of 1812; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 814) granting a pension to Mrs. Adaline M. Putnam; which was read twice by its title, and, with, the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 815) regulating the appointment of assistant naval constructors; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 816) to give the right of trial by jury to claimants of pensions under the laws of the United States whose applications have been rejected by the Secretary of the Interior on appeal from the decision of the Commissioner of Pensions; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 817) to provide for the erection of a monument to the memory of Abraham Lincoln; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Library.

He also introduced a bill (S. 818) to provide for the erection of a monument to the memory of Ulysses S. Grant; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Library.

Mr. PIKE introduced a bill (S. 819) for the relief of Rachael J. Floyd; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa (by request), introduced a bill (S. 820) for the relief of the legal representatives of Chauncey M. Lockwood; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. PLATT (by request) introduced a bill (S. 821) for the relief of James M. Willbur; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 822) authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to pay the pension allowed to Nancy Titus, deceased, mother of Josiah C. Titus, late first lieutenant of Company D, Sixty-second Regiment Illinois Volunteers, to George Titus, the dependent father of said soldier; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 823) granting a pension to Capt. Elihu Jones; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 824) granting a pension to Mrs. Ida Davenport; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 825) granting an increase of pension to Mohammed Kahn, otherwise John Ammahoe; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 826) granting a pension to Charles W. Beeman; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 827) granting a pension to George Clark; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 828) for the relief of A. P. Cunningham; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 829) to facilitate promotions throughout the Army by retiring from active service upon their own application officers of the Army who served in the war of the rebellion; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. CULLOM. I may be allowed to state that I am inclined to think a bill similar to this has been introduced in the Senate before; but as it is accompanied by the petition of a large number of officers of the Army praying for its passage, I introduce the bill and move that it be referred, with the accompanying petition, to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HALE introduced a bill (S. 830) for the retirement of certain officers of the Navy of the United States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. COKE introduced a bill (S. 831) for the relief of George S. Storrs, of Texas; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. JACKSON introduced a bill (S. 832) to define and regulate the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. MILLER, of New York, introduced a bill (S. 833) to increase the pension for loss of both arms, or both legs, or the sight of both eyes, or other injuries resulting in total helplessness; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 834) for the relief of William Henry Brown; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 835) for the relief of the Continental Fire Insurance Company, the Eagle Fire Insurance Company, the City Fire Insurance Company, and the Commercial Mutual Insurance Company, all of New York city; the Western National Bank, the Merchants' National Bank, and the Maryland Fire Insurance Company, of Baltimore, Md.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 836) for the relief of William M. Shimmins and George H. McPherson; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. CAMDEN introduced a bill (S. 837) for the relief of Catharine E. Lurty; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 838) granting an increase of pension to General B. F. Kelly; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. VANCE. I introduce a bill, which I ask to have committed to the tender mercies of the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment.

The bill (S. 839) to repeal chapter 27 of acts of 1883 relating to civil service, was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment.

Mr. MAXEY introduced a bill (S. 840) for the relief of H. J. T. Moss; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. LOGAN introduced a bill (S. 841) conferring military rank on telegraph operators in the military service; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 842) providing for the adjustment of accounts of laborers, workmen, and mechanics arising under the eight-hour law; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

He also introduced a bill (S. 843) granting a pension to Elise Burki; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 844) creating a commission whose duty it shall be to inquire into and report upon the material, industrial, and intellectual progress made by the colored people of this country since 1865, and making appropriations for the same; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

He also introduced a bill (S. 845) for the relief of telegraph operators during the war; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. INGALLS introduced a bill (S. 846) to establish a national university; which was read the first time by its title.

Mr. INGALLS. I ask that the bill may lie on the table and be printed. I shall take occasion, subsequently, to submit some observations on the bill, and shall then ask its reference to the Committee on Education and Labor.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will lie on the table for the present.

Mr. INGALLS introduced a bill (S. 847) to divide the State of Kansas into two judicial districts, fixing terms of court, and for the appointment of judges and other officers therein; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also introduced a bill (S. 848) to amend the law in the District of Columbia in respect of the devise of real estate; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced a bill (S. 849) to authorize the Rio Grande, Mexico and Pacific Railroad Company to purchase ten acres of land on the Fort Cummings military reservation in New Mexico; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 850) for the relief of Thomas M. Hachett; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 851) to amend the charter of the Metropolitan Railroad Company; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 852) to provide for eight magistrates for the District of Columbia, who shall have civil and criminal jurisdiction as herein provided; to define the jurisdiction, powers, and functions of said magistrates; and to abolish the police court and office of justice of the peace in and for said District; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced a bill (S. 853) granting a pension to Reuben Crowday; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 854) granting a pension to Frederick Bottjer; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 855) for the relief of David Armstrong; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PAYNE introduced a bill (S. 856) to provide for the erection of a public building in the city of Dayton, Ohio; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. HARRISON introduced a bill (S. 857) granting a pension to Dudley B. Branch; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 858) granting a pension to Sampson S. Skirvin; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 859) granting a pension to Charlotte O'Neal; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 860) granting an increase of pension to John N. Runyan; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 861) granting a pension to John B. Skaggs; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 862) granting a pension to Matilda Ann Wiley; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 863) to set apart a certain tract of land lying on the Colorado River of the West, in the Territory of Arizona, as a public park; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. DOLPH introduced a bill (S. 864) to grant a pension to Mrs. Martha F. Woodrum; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 865) for the relief of Mrs. Sarah E. Willard; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 866) to pay the citizens of Oregon for supplies audited by Philo Callender; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 867) to amend section 714 of the Revised Statues; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. JONES, of Arkansas (by request), introduced a bill (S. 868) to provide for two additional associate justices of the supreme court of Dakota, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also introduced a bill (S. 869) to provide for the bringing of suits by citizens of the United States against the Government thereof in certain cases; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. JONES, of Arkansas. The bill relates to a matter in which the Committee on Claims is peculiarly interested, and I should be glad to have that committee pass on the bill first, and then, if it is deemed proper to have it considered by the Committee on the Judiciary, a reference to that committee may be made.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Claims, if there be no objection.

Mr. CALL introduced a bill (S. 870) to provide that where any railroad property is taken into the possession of any United States court, and the said railroad shall not have been completed, the net earnings of said railroad shall be applied to the completion of the same; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also introduced a bill (S. 871) for the forfeiture of the land granted to the State of Florida for the construction of certain lines of railroad in that State; which was read twice by its, title and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 872) authorizing the Secretary of War to purchase a lot in the city of Jacksonville, Fla., for military purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 873) for the retirement of judges of the district or circuit courts of the United States on account of disability; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

He also introduced a bill (S. 874) for the establishment of a seacoast telegraph line to Jupiter Inlet, Florida, and a signal station; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 875) for the relief of the heirs of John S. Sammis, of Florida; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 876) to require the claims of the subjects of Spain and the citizens of the United States arising under the treaty of 1819 to be submitted to some foreign government, and that the President of the United States be authorized, with the consent of the King of Spain, to select such umpire; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. BROWN introduced a bill (S. 877) for the relief of Robert H. Anderson, of the State of Georgia; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. BROWN. The bill is intended to remove the political disabilities of General Anderson. I have here his petition, which I desire to present also, and move that it be referred, with the bill, to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 878) to amend the act entitled "An act to authorize a retired-list for privates and non-commissioned officers of the United States Army who have served for a period of thirty years or upward," approved February 14, 1885; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 879) for the relief of A. G. Shaw; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill (S. 880) granting the right of way to the Schuylkill River East Side Railroad Company through the arsenal and naval asylum grounds at Philadelphia; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 881) for the relief of Abram G. Hoyt; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 882) to equalize the pay of graduates of the Naval Academy; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. TELLER introduced a bill (S. 883) to provide for the compulsory education of Indian children; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 884) to enable the State of Colorado to take lands in lieu of the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections within Indian reservations; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 885) to relieve the State of Colorado from charges on account of ordnance stores furnished the State and Territory; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill (S. 886) to substitute silver dollars, in part, in the place of gold coin and currency, in several reserved funds held in the Treasury; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 887) for the relief of William H. Whiteside & Co., of Camden, Ark., or their assignees; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. VEST introduced a bill (S. 888) for the relief of Martin E. Smith; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. GEORGE introduced a bill (S. 889) for the relief of the Protestant Orphan Asylum of Natchez, in the State of Mississippi; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 890) to enlarge the powers and duties of the Department of Agriculture; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 891) granting a pension to Geriah Collins; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 892) granting a pension to David McKinney; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 893) granting a pension to John T. Pennington; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HOAR introduced a bill (S. 894) for the relief of Nathaniel McKay, George M. Clapp, George W. Lawrence, Snowden & Mason, and the executors of Donald McKay, the Atlantic Works, Jeremiah Simeson, Curtis & Tilden; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 895) granting a pension to Rachel Fleming Cellar; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 896) granting a pension to Joseph A. Martin; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 897) for the relief of John Kouns; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 898) granting a pension to William A. Penfield; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 899) granting a pension to Thomas G. Newman; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 900) granting a pension to William R. Blevins; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. DOLPH introduced a bill (S. 901) to grant the Astoria and Winnemucca Railroad Company the right to construct bridges over navigable water courses; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 902) confirming to W. S. Byers & Co. the right to take and use water from the Umatilla River, on the Umatilla reservation, in the State of Oregon, for manufacturing purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. VANCE introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 19) directing copies of the official letter-books of the executive department of the State of North Carolina to be furnished to said State; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HARRISON introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 20) authorizing the preparation of a compilation of the reports of committees of the Senate and House of Representatives; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. HOAR (by request) introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 21) defining the status of medical officers in the Army of volunteer service; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. CALL introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 22) authorizing the Postmaster-General to pay increase in salaries of postal clerks of railway mail service, classes 4 and 5; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

PRINTING OF BANKRUPTCY BILL AND INDEX.

Mr. HOAR. On the last day before the holiday vacation I reported by direction of the Judiciary Committee a bill (S. 714) to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States. An index to that bill has been prepared by the clerk of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, which it will be very convenient for Senators to have. I lay before the Senate a copy of the bill with the index, and move that the bill be reprinted, with the index, for the use of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That request will be considered as agreed to if there be no objection. The Chair hears none.

PAPERS WITHDRAWN AND REFERRED.

On motion of Mr. PLATT, it was Ordered, That the papers in the case of James M. Willbur be withdrawn from the files of the Senate and referred to the Committee on Claims, there being no adverse report.

On motion of Mr. MORRILL, it was Ordered, That the papers in the case of Frank A. Page be withdrawn from the files and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

On motion of Mr. GEORGE, it was Ordered, That the papers pertaining to the claim of the Protestant Orphan Asylum of Natchez, Miss., be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims, there having been no adverse report thereupon.

On motion of Mr. PIKE, it was Ordered, That the papers now on file in the claim of the Greensburg Limestone Company, W. W. Lowe & Co., and John L. Scanlon be taken therefrom and referred to the Committee on Claims, there being no adverse report.

SPANISH CLAIMS UNDER FLORIDA TREATY.

Mr. CALL submitted the following resolution; which was ordered to lie on the table and be printed:

Resolved by the Senate, That the President of the United States be, and is hereby, requested to submit the demands of the Spanish Government for carrying into effect the treaty of 1819 for the cession of Florida and the payment of claims arising under said treaty to the arbitration of some foreign government, to be selected by him, as umpire between Spain and the United States; and that the payment of said claims be referred to the decision of said umpire, who shall be chosen with the consent of the Government of Spain.

THE COLUMBIA RIVER.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon, submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Whereas the Columbia River is, with the exception of obstructions at the Cascades, distant from its mouth 160 miles, for a distance of about 5 miles, and further obstructions at The Dalles, distant from its mouth 220 miles, for a still greater distance, navigable for large-draft steamers from the sea to a point inland distant 1,032 miles, with tributaries aggregating over 300 additional miles of navigable waters; and

Whereas a canal and locks are now under process of construction by the United States Government around such obstructions at the Cascades; and

Whereas said Columbia River and its navigable tributaries drain an extent of country unsurpassed in agricultural, grazing, and mineral productiveness, capable of producing from sixty to eighty millions of bushels of wheat annually, an area of country in geographical extent equal to one-twentieth of the entire area of the United States, as large as Germany or France, and over one-fourth of the area of South America; and

Whereas the commerce of that vast and fertile region is increasing with marvelous rapidity, the custom-house statistics showing that in the year 1881 403 vessels passed out of the mouth of the Columbia River for foreign and domestic ports with cargoes valued at $15,600,000, as against 63 vessels in the year 1880 with cargoes valued at $4,181,352, while the tonnage over the bar at the mouth of the Columbia for the year ending September 30, 1885, was 869,943 tons; and

And whereas it is alleged that freight charges on wheat from The Dalles to Portland, Oreg., a distance of 88 miles, are now 12 cents per bushel of 60 pounds, and from Wallula, Wash., to Portland, Oreg., a distance of 214 miles, 18 cents per bushel, and all other freight charges, it is alleged, are in equal enormous proportions;

And whereas it is alleged such freight charges are exorbitant and ruinous to the producer, and as it is further alleged that the real remedy for this evil is in freeing the Columbia River and its navigable tributaries from obstructions to navigation, and that this work is essentially national in its character: Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard be, and it is hereby, instructed to inquire into these alleged grievances both as to their existence and the proper measures of relief, and also as to the importance of the speedy completion of the canal and locks at the Cascades of the Columbia and the means proper to be adopted to overcome the obstructions to navigation at the Dalles of the Columbia, and to report by bill or otherwise at the earliest practicable period.

FISHING RIGHTS UNDER TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

Mr. FRYE submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of State be, and he hereby is, requested, if not incompatible with the public interest, to transmit to the Senate any and all correspondence and information in the custody of the State Department relative to the extension of certain fishing rights and privileges under the treaty of Washington from July 1, 1885, to January, 1886.

EXTENSION OF EXTRADITION TREATIES.

Mr. HOAR. I ask for the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the President be requested to take measures for revising and extending the extradition treaties now existing between the United States and foreign countries, so as to secure the return to the United States of persons guilty of embezzlement and other breaches of trust.

Mr. President, I suppose the Senate will be unanimous in its desire that some proper treaty provisions should be made to secure the return to the United States of persons who have been guilty of what by the law of nearly all our States is larceny, or tantamount to larceny, the embezzlement by cashiers of banks and other persons to whom funds are committed in trust, or who have access to them, who find an asylum in foreign countries, especially in Canada. But as it may be desired possibly on reflection to couple some other matters with the resolution before it is adopted, I shall for the present move its reference to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The motion was agreed to.

WASHINGTON STREET-CAR LABOR, ETC.

Mr. VAN WYCK submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Committee on Education and Labor be directed to inquire how many hours are exacted per day from men and boys in the employ of the street car or other corporations in the District of Columbia; whether, in the judgment of the committee, the labor so demanded is unreasonable and inconsistent with former acts of Congress; and, if so, to report by bill or otherwise what remedy is necessary.

DELAWARE INDIAN CLAIMS.

Mr. PLUMB submitted the following order; which was agreed to:

Ordered, That the Secretary of the Senate request the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to send to the Senate the papers in the matter of the claims of the Delaware Indians for the value of their lands taken for the right of way over their allotted lands by the Leavenworth, Pawnee and Western Railroad Company, and for the amounts ascertained to be due them for stock under the provisions of the fourteenth article of the treaty of July 4, 1866.

STATUE OF JAMES A. GARFIELD.

Mr. SHERMAN (Mr. HALE in the chair). I desire, before submitting a resolution, to have read a communication from the governor of the State of Ohio.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HALE in the chair). The communication will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

STATE OF OHIO, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
Columbus, December 10, 1885.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that, in acceptance of the invitation contained in section 1814 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, the State of Ohio, in pursuance of an act of its General Assembly, has caused to be made by the sculptor Carl H. Niehaus, and placed in the old Hall of the House of Representatives, in the Capitol of the United States, in the custody of the Architect of the Capitol, a marble statue of that illustrious and lamented citizen of Ohio James A. Garfield, late President of the United States.

This work is now presented to the Congress of the United States as one of the statues contributed by the State of Ohio in pursuance of this invitation. It is hoped that it may be found worthy of acceptance and approval as a fit contribution from this State to the United States, in whose service President Garfield passed so much of his life and whose chief executive officer he was at the time of his death.

Very respectfully,

GEO. HOADLY,
Governor of Ohio.

Hon. JOHN SHERMAN,
President of the Senate of the United States,
Washington, D. C.

Mr. SHERMAN. In connection with that communication I submit concurrent resolutions.

The concurrent resolutions were read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the thanks of Congress be presented to the governor, and through him to the people, of Ohio for the statue of James A. Garfield, whose name is so honorably identified with the history of that State and of the United States.

Resolved, That this work of art is accepted in the name of the nation, and assigned a place in the old Hall of the House of Representatives, already set aside by act of Congress for statues of eminent citizens; and that a copy of this resolution, signed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, be transmitted to the governor of the State of Ohio.

The Senate, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the resolutions.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. President, in selecting from among the illustrious dead of the State of Ohio the two most worthy to be represented by marble statues in the old hall of the House of Representatives, it seemed to the General Assembly of that State appropriate, first of all, to choose the statesman, soldier, and President whose brilliant life and tragic death have made his name "familiar as a household word," not only in every part of our country, but throughout the civilized world. His recent presence among us, his conspicuous services in the House of Representatives, the impressive ceremonies in this Capitol which within five brief years attended his inauguration as President of the United States, his long and patient suffering under a mortal wound by an assassin, the eloquent words of his nearest friend, uttered in the presence of nearly every member of this body and within the Hall where both had gained their highest fame, make the duty assigned me seem superfluous. Still it may not be amiss to accompany the acceptance of the statue of James A. Garfield with a brief statement of the grounds for the affection and respect with which his memory is held by the people of Ohio.

He was, in every sense, a self-made man, blest, it is true, in springing from a line of hardy and industrious farmers of Puritan stock, who depended only upon themselves and their God. Yet the early life of young Garfield was a constant struggle with poverty. By the death of his father when an infant he, the youngest of four children, was left under the care of his mother in possession of a farm of thirty acres, mostly covered by primeval forest, in a then new and sparse settlement of Northern Ohio. He had to suffer the discipline of hard daily labor and enforced economy. In this respect he was not different from the great majority of his neighbors, who, like himself, found the healthy and vigorous training by labor in early life the best preparation for the mental as well as the physical tasks of later life. Even as a lad he never forgot that it was his duty to learn as well as to labor. There was in those days no easy road to learning, but, availing himself of the intelligent tuition of his mother and occasional schools in his neighborhood, and always imbued with the love of study, he made rapid progress, and early in life became a teacher as well as a student. He was not satisfied with this, but, saving his scanty pay for labor in the harvest-field and in many varied manual employments, he attended the seminary at Chester and the college at Hiram, and finally at Williams, Mass., where, in a broader field and greater competition, he gained the honors of his class. His education did not end here, for he returned to the Hiram Institute as professor of languages and soon became its president. The result was that before he entered upon his public life he was a thoroughly educated man, not merely in the lessons of the school and the college, not merely in literature and science, but also, by extensive reading and study, in all the historical and political questions of the day, in the development of which he was to take so active a part. All this varied learning was ground into him and fitted for use by his experience as a laborer, a teacher, a preacher, a professor, and president of a college.

When he entered public life in 1859, at the age of twenty-eight, as a member of the senate of Ohio, he was well equipped for all the great duties that were to fall upon him; but, not content with this, while serving as Senator he studied law and was admitted to the bar.

At this period of his life came the great tragedy of the civil war. His heart and soul and every fiber of his body was enlisted in the Union cause. His speeches at that time were models of the persuasive eloquence that distinguished him in his later years. He was chiefly instrumental in raising and preparing for service a regiment of Ohio infantry, of which he became colonel.

In the two years he remained in the military service he distinguished himself and was promoted for gallant services in battle to the rank of brigadier and then major-general. I do not regard his service in the Army as anything more than an honorable episode of his active life, for others gained greater distinction and rendered more important services, but he did demonstrate his ability to lead and command men, to inspire the confidence of his superior officers, and to show on several important battle-fields his personal courage.

His military services were chiefly important in giving him information as to the wants and organization of the Army that became useful to him and to the Union cause when applied in Congress in framing laws for the increase and government of the Army.

His enduring fame will chiefly rest upon what he did during the period of eighteen years as a member of the House of Representatives. While he was in the field, and without an effort or wish on his part, he was elected as a Representative in Congress from a district in Northeastern Ohio which had been represented for nearly half a century by Elisha Whittlesey and Joshua Giddings. It was as their successor that, during nine consecutive Congresses, from 1863 to 1881, he made that record which is the great glory of his life.

What an infinite variety of subjects, what magnitude of detail and results, what immense sums and difficult problems were acted upon by him, no one can tell who has not examined his share of the record of the proceedings of Congress. These events are too fresh in the minds of those who hear me, many of whom have also been active in these busy scenes, to make it necessary for me to measure and gauge the value of his services, compared to that of any one of his colleagues; but I do not now recall any from among his distinguished compeers who will not frankly say that in variety of duty, in labor and care and earnest effort in his speeches and in action, no one of all can be said to have been his superior.

Many of his speeches may be regarded as models of effective eloquence. They presented frankly the arguments on the topic under debate, but always were enriched by apt metaphor, by illustrations drawn from other topics, by poetical or classical quotations. Even his impromptu speeches display the rich storehouse of learning from which he drew his inspiration. Courteous in manner, and rarely, if ever, trenching on the rules of order, he often expressed in a single sharp sentence or phrase the whole argument that silenced his opponent. He was always a ready speaker; ready promptly to reply to an argument of an adversary without waiting to cull his phrases or arrange his order of battle; ready, whatever was the subject-matter of debate, whether finance, war, reconstruction, or a graceful tribute to a friend; ready, even at the spur of the moment, to resist and check the hasty judgment of his friends or his constituents, or all combined.

In principle he was in every sense a patriot. No narrow limit confined his allegiance, but the whole country was the object of his love. He did not favor any section, but freely extended the bounties of Government to every part. He was a lover of liberty, of freedom in its broadest sense, not only of the person, but of thought and of speech. Though a member of the Disciple Church, he was catholic in his charity for all Christian denominations. He was a strict guardian of the public faith, pledged either to a citizen, a soldier, or a creditor. When that faith seemed to be impaired by the long suspension of specie payments, he was as earnest as any in demanding the fulfillment of a national duty, and rejoiced as much as any in resumption. A striking example himself of the benefits of education, he favored every measure to extend and enlarge the scope of both State and national aid to education. He was a Republican, not in the narrow sense of personal advantage, but because he believed that party could best advance the honor and prosperity of our whole country, and of every part of it.

During his last term in Congress he was elected by the General Assembly of Ohio as a member of this body. No one can doubt that had he entered upon this service he would have greatly added to his reputation as an orator and a statesman, already established by eighteen years' experience in the House. This was his cherished hope and ambition, frankly expressed to his personal friends, justified by his physical and mental condition and training, in the prime of manhood, his early and later struggles behind him as obstacles safely overcome, with hope and health and strength all pointing in the future to a long life of honor and usefulness.

Within a few months after the election of General Garfield as Senator, and before the commencement of his term, the Republican national convention of 1880 met to select a candidate for President of the United States. Divided and distracted in its choice, it turned to him as its standard-bearer, and he was elected President by the unquestioned majority of the electoral college and of the people. He entered upon the discharge of the great duties of this office. He met and overcame the first waves of contention and disappointment which are inevitable at the beginning of any administration, and hopeful and confident, at the moment when his life was most full of promise, when he was starting to visit his alma mater and to encourage by his example and great success the youth of that college, he was mortally wounded. He ended his hopes and his life, for, though he lingered months and days, it was with torture infinite.

The people of Ohio, among whom he was born and bred, placed his image in enduring marble in the silent senate of the dead, among the worthies of every period of American history, not claiming for him to have been the greatest of all, but only as one of their fellow-citizens, whom, when living, they greatly loved and trusted, whose life was spent in the service of his whole country at the period of its greatest peril, and who, in the highest places of trust and power, did his full duty as a soldier, a patriot, and a statesman.

I move the adoption of the resolutions.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the concurrent resolutions submitted by the Senator from Ohio.

The resolutions were agreed to nem. con.

PRESIDENTIAL APPROVALS.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. O. L. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announced that he had, on the 26th day of December, 1885, approved and signed the following bills and joint resolution:

An act (S. 118) for the relief of Alexander R. Lawton, of the State of Georgia;

An act (S. 580) granting a pension to Julia D. Grant; and

Joint resolution (S. R. 1) filling existing vacancies in the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

COIN DUTIES ON IMPORTED GOODS.

Mr. EDMUNDS and Mr. GRAY addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Vermont.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I presume my friend from Delaware has a resolution to offer. I rose to move the consideration of a bill. I give way to the Senator from Delaware.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. President, if it is the pleasure of the Senate I shall move to-morrow or some other early day—to-morrow if it is agreeable to the Senate—to take up the resolution offered by the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BECK] on the 18th of December, pending the consideration of which the Senate adjourned for the holidays. I now give notice to that effect. My purpose is to submit some remarks on that resolution.

Mr. BECK. As the Senator from Delaware proposes to call up the resolution I offered, I should be glad to know what is the status of it. I think it is still before the Senate. The Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] made a motion that I did not hear at the time, and I did not quite understand its effect when I saw it in the RECORD—a motion of reference.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution of the Senator from Kentucky is upon the table and a motion is pending to refer it to the Committee on Finance. That motion has not been acted on.

Mr. BECK. That leaves it in a proper shape to be called up. I was not sure about that, and hence my inquiry. May I be allowed to call the attention of the Senator from Vermont to a remark he made? I ask if after looking over what I said the other day he does not now feel that it was a somewhat harsh remark which he made in regard to what I said?

Mr. MORRILL. I take pleasure in saying that I did misunderstand the Senator in his reference to the President of the United States and the Secretary of the Treasury where he used the words:

> The present crusade against silver is only another evidence of the audacity of the organizations of wealth; they have always secured all they demanded, however unjust their demands; they have succeeded in alarming the President and the Secretary of the Treasury.

I understood the Senator to use a much rougher word than "alarming," and I take pleasure in saying now that I did an injustice to the Senator so far as that was concerned.

In relation to another part of the reference that I made I stated this:

> I regret that the Senator from Kentucky should represent the Secretary of the Treasury as being little better than a common thief.

The precise language used by the Senator from Kentucky was this:

> The thief who steals and squanders an unneeded surplus locked up in the Treasury vaults would inflict less injury on the country and its business if the money he stole was put in circulation than a Secretary who holds and hides in vaults currency which the people want and refuses to use it to pay the debts, especially interest-bearing debts, which the men who own this money owe.

It seems that the Senator from Kentucky did not refer to the Secretary of the Treasury personally as a thief, but merely represented that in his policy he was inflicting greater injury than the thief who should steal money and put it into circulation.

Mr. BECK. I knew the Senator from Vermont would do me justice when his attention was called to the matter. I did not hear his remarks the other day. I heard him move to go into executive session. I knew he desired to take up the question of Mr. Bigelow's confirmation, which was thought to be of importance at the time; but he spoke in a low tone, and I did not know what he said about me until I saw it in the RECORD after we adjourned. I only desire to say now that I made no personal attack on the President or the Secretary of the Treasury or anybody else; but I intended to say that the effect of looking up the surplus money in the Treasury would be quite as well illustrated, or perhaps more forcibly, if, instead of supposing a thief had stolen it, I had said a cyclone or a tornado had come and blown away all the vaults of the Treasury and scattered the money to the winds and the people should have gathered it up and put it in circulation, it would have been better than to keep it locked up. That was all I intended to say. I believed it then, and I do not know but that I believe it now, though it is a rather strong form of expression. I only desired to make the record correct.

ALLOWANCE OF PENSION CLAIMS.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I move to proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 10.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Before the Senator submits that motion it is the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business, pending which the Senator from Vermont——

Mr. EDMUNDS. The unfinished business does not come up until 2 o'clock.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. There is a resolution lying over that comes up under the rules at the close of the call for resolutions.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I thought as it was after 1 o'clock I was entitled to make my motion; but I will not insist on it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be read, after which the Chair will entertain the motion.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted by Mr. HARRISON December 21, 1885, as follows:

> Whereas it is stated in substance in the last annual report of the Commissioner of Pensions that under the administration of his predecessors, or some of them, in that office, other tests than those of the law were applied to applications for pension, and that applicants were required to show, in addition to service in the field, submission to and support of a party before pensions were granted: Therefore,
>
> Resolved, That the Committee on Expenditures of Public Money is hereby directed to inquire into said statements and to report the facts to the Senate. Said committee is authorized to send for persons and papers and to employ a stenographer.

Mr. HARRIS. I ask the Senator from Indiana to allow that resolution to go over this morning because of the absence of his colleague, who, I chance to know, desires to submit an amendment to the resolution.

Mr. HARRISON. I make no objection under the circumstances.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will lie over if there be no objection. The Senator from Vermont [Mr. EDMUNDS] moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 10.

The motion was agreed to.

POLYGAMY AND AFFAIRS IN UTAH.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill (S. 10) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882.

Mr. EDMUNDS. There is a misprint in line 5 of section 8. It reads "votes." It should read "voters." I ask to have that corrected.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HALE in the chair). The correction will be made if there be no objection.

Mr. EDMUNDS. There is another misprint in line 3 of section 18. The word "offices" should be "officers."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The correction will be made if there be no objection.

Mr. EDMUNDS. In section 16, line 4, I wish to move a mere amendment of phrase to make the meaning a little clearer. I move to insert after the word "corporation" the words "mentioned in the preceding section," so as to read:

> That it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the United States to cause such proceedings to be taken in the supreme court of the Territory of Utah as shall be proper to dissolve the said corporation mentioned in the preceding section and pay the debts and to dispose of the property and assets thereof according to law, &c.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. EDMUNDS. In section 20 there is either a misprint or a clerical error at the end of line 1. The word "commits" should read "commit," to make it grammatical.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That correction will be made if there be no objection.

Mr. HOAR. I move to amend the bill by striking out the seventh section.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Massachusetts moves to amend the bill by striking out section 7, which will be read.

The Secretary read as follows:

SEC. 7. That it shall not be lawful for any female to vote at any election hereafter held in the Territory of Utah for any public purpose whatever, and no such vote shall be received or counted or given effect in any manner whatever; and any and every act of the governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah providing for or allowing the registration or voting by females is hereby annulled.

Mr. HOAR. I approve the purpose of this bill, and I approve the method by which the bill seeks to effect its purpose, with the exception of the seventh section. It seems to me that that is a violation of sound legislative principle. It is an undertaking to put into the statutes of the United States a deprivation of a certain class of persons, described by a class, of a right of suffrage which they now enjoy, because of the assumption or presumption that persons belonging to that class will entertain and act upon certain opinions.

If Congress propose to say that no Mormon, no person who is a Mormon in religious belief or who entertains the opinion in regard to the lawfulness of plural marriages which the Mormons entertain, should be permitted to vote, that is one thing; but that is a thing which this bill does not undertake to do. We deal with certain conduct and punish it, but nowhere in our legislation so far as I am aware will be found any attempt to say that a man of any mere opinion except as it finds effect in act shall be punished either as a criminal or by the deprivation of political privileges. We do not, therefore, undertake to say to the male Mormon, to the man, you shall be deprived of political privileges, either of holding office or of voting, because of your opinion in regard to this pestilent heresy, as we deem it, which is so opposed to the purity of the marriage relation on which all our institutions depend; but the bill does undertake to say that to women.

Now, if Congress in passing this bill into legislation chooses to say that woman suffrage shall not exist in any Territory of the United States, that also, whether it is to be approved or disapproved, is intelligible, and it rests upon an opinion which those who do not share it can at least understand. But it does not do that. On the contrary, woman suffrage exists in the Territory of Wyoming and the Territory of Washington, and the testimony of the most thoughtful and careful observers is that it is a great success. The remarkable testimony of Governor Warren, late governor of the Territory of Wyoming, and of Chief-Justice Green, one of the ablest, most conscientious, and most highly respected jurists of the country, a man who would be an ornament to any bench, whether the Supreme Court of the United States or any other, is in favor of the success of the experiment in the Territory of Washington, in its effect upon legislation, upon politics, and upon the administration of justice.

Now if we do not think so, and if we choose to say that in no Territory of the United States shall suffrage by women be permitted, let us say so fairly and frankly and honestly; but, refusing to occupy that ground, saying that whatever may be the opinion of the individual members of Congress as to the wisdom of woman suffrage as a policy it is a thing to be left to the people of the Territories and the people of the States as a matter which comes within the domain of local self-government, even in the Territories over which we exercise a certain supreme legislative control—saying that as a general rule, it seems to me that we ought not to undertake to violate that principle in dealing with the Mormons in Utah.

This bill and the act to which it is an amendment go far enough in a good many directions to suggest a pretty anxious inquiry whether it does not step over the line which fairly should bound the exercise of legislative authority over the Territories. I do not think that it crosses that line. I think that the author of this bill has judged with great sagacity, is right in the belief that so far as the powers lodged in Congress can be exercised without passing that line, their exercise is imperatively required and demanded at our hands in reference to this great menace to the purity of republican institutions and the purity of the marriage tie itself; and I have no criticism to make, but the criticism will be made elsewhere that we have gone up to the limit and if the limit were more remote we would go up to that limit. But I can not see and I have not heard any logical statement which would justify the introduction of this section into the bill. You are saying that a woman, if she be anti-Mormon if she agree in opinion with the author of this bill in every particular or with every Senator who shall vote for it, she being now clothed by a lawful exercise of the authority of the people of that Territory with the right of suffrage, shall be deprived of it, merely because it is expected or anticipated that some other woman, if she have the right of suffrage, will exercise it in a manner detrimental to the public interest and contrary to the opinion of the persons who exercise the law-making powers here. It seems to me that is a violation of the sound and fundamental principles of legislation.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President——

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The hour of 2 o'clock has arrived and it becomes the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business, which is the bill (S. 6) fixing the salaries of the several judges of the United States district courts at $5,000 per annum, and for other purposes.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I move to proceed with the consideration of this bill, No. 10. We can finish it in a little while.

Mr. HOAR. I should prefer, and I have no doubt it will be quite as agreeable to the Senator from Vermont, that this matter should proceed by unanimous consent so that the other bill may hold its place.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I have no objection to that.

Mr. HOAR. I hope the other bill will not be prejudiced in the Senate by supposing it will take a long while. It really has not occupied the attention of the Senate any great while, and can soon be disposed of.

Mr. VEST. If it is agreeable to the Senator from Vermont I wish this Utah bill to go over until to-morrow. I had no idea that it would come up to-day. I do not know whether I shall debate it at all, but as a member of the Judiciary Committee I can not give my consent to all its provisions. As a matter of course if the Senator deems it proper to press the bill now, a majority vote can do it.

Mr. EDMUNDS. If I can have an understanding that we can get it up to-morrow immediately after we are through with the morning business, and get on with it and stick to it, I certainly should not object; but I should like the unanimous consent of the Senate to occupy four or five minutes in reply to my friend from Massachusetts before the bill goes over.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Vermont asks the unanimous consent of the Senate to lay aside informally the pending business with a view to proceed with the consideration of the bill taken up on his motion. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. EDMUNDS. After I have said the little I have to say, I shall not object to my friend from Missouri having the bill go over until to-morrow, with the understanding and expectation that we shall get on with it then.

I wish to say in reply to the Senator from Massachusetts that section 7 of this bill is proposed without regard to what his opinions or mine may be on the propriety of extending the suffrage to women, and, so far as I am concerned, whenever the women of the United States or of any one of the States, a majority of them, desire to have the suffrage, they will get my vote to have it, either in the State of Vermont or wherever else I may be located. I think it depends, as it ought to depend, upon the general sense that our wives and sisters and sweethearts have of what their political duty is and how they can best fill up their duty toward society; and when they come to the opinion that society will get on better and that they will get on better by entering into the political field, instead of confining themselves to the field in which they are now employed, they will have my aid in obtaining that result.

Now, I do not think this provision violates any principle such as the Senator from Massachusetts seems to suppose. The women of Utah have not now the lawful right of suffrage in the sense of a final and complete law, for the suffrage law of Utah, like every other law of Utah, by the very organic act that creates it only continues to exist until Congress choose to say no. The Territorial laws of Utah are passed subject to the disapproval of Congress. This is one of those laws. Therefore we are not invading any vested right, if you can call a political right a vested one, in resorting to this legislation. Of course that is quite a different question from the intrinsic propriety; but as it regards the violation of any principle in respect to taking away an existing right, we do not violate that principle at all, because we could take away the whole government of the Territory, and as to every Territorial law it is expressly provided in the organic act that it shall hold until disapproved by Congress. Now it is proposed that Congress shall disapprove of this Territorial law. The ground upon which it goes as a matter of propriety, aside from the principle I have stated, is simply this: It is set forth in very few words, but I believe very truly, in the memorial which was presented to Congress in 1883 on the subject of Mormonism, as it is called, in Utah, the union of church and state, the absolute autocratic hierarchy that controls the whole affairs of that Territory as distinguished entirely from anybody's religious belief. In the course of this memorial, which was sent up to us by the Territorial central committee of the liberal party of Utah, representing all the opponents of this system that exists there—I am not now speaking about religious beliefs but the practical system—on this topic they say this, speaking of this hierarchy:

It confers on women the suffrage, and then forces her to use it under the lash of its priesthood to perpetuate their power and her own degradation.

It is to relieve the Mormon women of Utah from the slavehood of being obliged to exercise a political function which is to keep her in a state of degradation, it is to diminish the voting power of this hierarchy; and so far as I know and have heard—and I may say with modesty that I know a good deal and have heard a great deal more concerning the state of things in Utah—there has been no instance in which any anti-polygamy woman in Utah has raised her voice against this provision, which has now been proposed for nearly two years. I believe it safe to say, therefore, that what are called the Gentile women in Utah and that part of the Mormon women who do not believe in polygamy and do not practice it are willing and desirous that Congress should assist in reducing the voting power of this hierarchy by depriving all the women in that Territory of the right to vote for the time being, until we can get society restored to its proper and normal condition; and then, if the people of Utah desire to have women vote, certainly they will not receive any opposition from me.

Mr. HOAR. Mr. President, it seems to me that the Senator from Vermont takes a rather remarkable fashion, looking at it as a matter of legislative principle, to accomplish his result. He says now that the women there are likely to vote a certain way under the influence of the priesthood, and therefore he leaves the right of suffrage in the priesthood and takes it away from the women! I can not now any better, after having listened to the ingenious explanation of the Senator from Vermont, understand upon what principle of legislative action he justifies the saying that every Mormon man in the Territory shall have the right of suffrage, but a certain class of voters whose suffrages he would not undertake to interfere with by Congressional legislation, whether he approves it or not, shall have a privilege with which they are now vested by law taken from them, because he thinks they will be led to vote the wrong way by the influence of others, the class to whom he leaves it.

Why, Mr. President, just apply this to any other class of the community. The feeling in this country fifteen or twenty years ago in many quarters of it would have found expression quite as strong and decided as that of this memorial, that the voters belonging to the Catholic Church exercised their right of suffrage under the influence of their religious leaders, a charge which you will find running through all the debates of the English Parliament for the last fifty years that the Irish movements there, political and otherwise, were due to the control of the priesthood; but I never yet heard that there, still less on this continent, did anybody propose to take away the vested right of suffrage from a class otherwise entitled to it because he attributed a certain political ascendency or a certain political influence to another class in whom he left the right. Why does not the honorable Senator from Vermont come out and say frankly that no Mormon, no man who believes in plural marriages, no Mormon elder, no teacher in that church shall be clothed with the suffrage? But leaving it to them he undertakes, as I said before, to deprive persons, without regard to their belief in Mormonism, without regard to their marriage relations, Gentiles and Mormons alike, of this right.

The Senator from Vermont says also that it is not correct to speak of it as a right of suffrage, that it is a privilege enjoyed under a law over which Congress has the veto power. It seems to me, with due deference to the Senator from Vermont, that where the existing law has created a certain privilege which has a legal right to be enforced in the way that species of legal right is enforced elsewhere by law, and it exists to-day, it is none the less a legal right because there is some superior paramount authority that has power to interfere and repeal the law or disapprove it. It is the law until Congress acts, and it is just as much a vested right to-day in everybody who exercises it as any right of property acquired under legislation over which the veto power of Congress hangs. It is just as much a right of suffrage as the right of suffrage of any American citizen whatever in any State or Territory, male or female, that may be abridged or abrogated by constitutional changes—constitutional changes in the State subject to the limitations expressed in the United States Constitution, and constitutional changes in the United States Constitution without limit. I suppose that if it were undertaken to attach a property qualification of a thousand or ten thousand dollars for the right of suffrage by a constitutional amendment, it would be an argument we should hear, in addition to the argument on the policy of the change on its merits, that it was a deprivation of American citizens of an existing right. It seems to me this is subject to the same criticism.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President, my friend from Massachusetts inquires why I do not come out frankly and say that I want to deprive a Mormon of the right of voting because he believes in certain things that I believe to be criminal. I do come out frankly and say that I am not in favor of anything of the kind. This bill and the bill that preceded it and other bills that very likely will follow this until the practice of polygamy is extirpated and it is admitted to be a dead and gone thing, are not based upon the idea of in any manner interfering with the opinions or beliefs of anybody. This bill deals with conduct and states of fact, not opinions, faiths, or beliefs; and as to woman suffrage, it deals not with opinions of priests or people in the sense in which that term is usually understood.

The situation there is unique. These plural wives and the persons under the control of that hierarchy are under an entirely different influence and control from that which affects the females or the males in the Roman Catholic Church, or in the Episcopal Church, or in the Methodist Church, or in any other church. It comes nearer to a state of serfdom, as these gentlemen, from every one of the counties in Utah composing this central committee of the whole body of the people there opposed to polygamy, including Mormons among those who are opposed to it, state; and, therefore, because the case is unique, we deal with the fact, and we will try to get the political power into the hands of those who are opposed to the practice of polygamy by diminishing the voting powers of that hierarchy. That is all there is to it, and it is entirely different from the nature of a vested right of property. My friend says that under the laws of Utah a property right acquired under a statute of that Territory which had not been approved by Congress would be just as much the subject of being destroyed by an annulment by Congress of that Territorial act. I quite disagree with my learned friend. A property right acquired under a statute has then gone beyond the reach of that statute and has separated itself from it. A political right or a civil right which depends upon conventional arrangements is a continuing one. We do not propose to annul the voting that the women of Utah have done hitherto. We only propose to say that for the time being they shall not vote any more. It does not disturb any vested right, unless it is a vested right in a Territory to vote according to the Territorial law when Congress has not yet approved that law, but now proposes to disapprove it.

Mr. HOAR. Mr. President, the Senator from Vermont now avows, it seems to me, very clearly the precise purpose which appeared to me so opposed to sound principle. He has said, if I understood him correctly—and if I misquote him I shall be glad to be corrected—that he proposes to get the political action of that Territory into the hands of persons who are opposed to the practice of Mormonism by the destruction by national legislation of a certain political influence. Well, now, I say that, whether the crime aimed at is murder or treason or larceny or any other of the grossest or most destructive or odious of crimes known to the experience of mankind, no legislative body in a free constitutional country ever before avowed such a purpose, and no legislation can ever stand as a general principle upon such a purpose. I can not put into words a proposition which seems to me, with the very great and profound respect I have for its author, more repugnant to constitutional principles, more repugnant to American principles, more repugnant to the principles of free and civilized self-government, than to say that a legislative body is entitled to undertake to get the political influence of a certain State or body politic subject to its control against something which it dislikes or considers wrong or repugnant by aiming its legislation, not at crime, not at act, but at the exercise of political influence or the exercise of political suffrage.

Mr. BLAIR. Mr. President, in common with many, perhaps, who believe as I do upon the question of woman suffrage, I have from the initiation of this anti-Mormon legislation felt averse to saying anything about that subject in connection with polygamy; and so it has gone on under the supposed necessity that in this legislation the right of women to vote as recognized in that Territory should be struck down, and we have kept silent. The original bill, which I think was introduced and passed in the Forty-seventh Congress, contained this same provision or substantially this provision. It was objected to; I objected to it myself; but the Senate overruled the objection made by myself and others, and the bill passed, including this provision, it being asserted then, as in the last Congress, that unless this provision was contained in the bill the whole legislation would be nugatory. In other words, it was claimed that the right to vote as exercised by Mormon women was the real citadel of the Mormon power. And so, in order that the law itself might not be inefficient, and it being the universal desire of the Senate that the evil should be struck down, silence was in a certain sense imposed on those who opposed this provision.

But now the success of the law seems to be assured; the extirpation of the evil under the legislation which has been enacted appears to be rapidly taking place. It is a question whether any further exercise of legislative power on the part of Congress is called for, whether it be judicious, whether the power of the National Government as against the rights of individuals, the alienable rights of man, has not been asserted and exercised so far as it may safely be with reference to the preservation of the rights of mankind under our Government in the future. Notwithstanding this provision that women shall not vote in the Territory of Utah, it is a fact that every legislator or nearly every legislator in the Legislature of that Territory is a Mormon to-day. The striking down of the right of women to vote has not affected the result of elections in the Territory, and you have a Mormon Legislature there to-day. Whatever has been accomplished by the courts in the extirpation of the evil has been done notwithstanding you have there in the Territory precisely the same obstacles to meet and to contend with as in former times before this legislation existed at all. That is a demonstration that this clause striking at woman suffrage is not necessary, and therefore its original insertion in the bill was not really justified by the exigency of the case.

Now comes this bill asking for further and still severer legislation, if possible, than any which has hitherto taken place. If I am not mistaken as to the historical facts I have stated here, it is wholly unnecessary. It is the assertion of a principle offensive to many Senators and a very large number of the people of the United States of both sexes, without any necessity whatever; and I ask you, Mr. President, and the Senate and the honorable Senator who has charge of this bill why he needs to insist upon this offensive provision. It does him no good. The evil is passing away as rapidly as he can ask it to or as he can expect it to, and this section might as well be dropped.

Now, sir, with reference to the suggestion of the honorable Senator from Vermont that he is in favor of the exercise of the right of suffrage by women when all the women want it, is that any sound principle upon which he can base the assertion and existence of a right? Were men to wait until the sex was unanimous in conferring the right of suffrage before an individual of the sex had a right to claim it? Is it a principle of republicanism that a majority of the men in this country are to say whether or not I shall exercise the right to vote? If there is one woman in this land who wants to have and who already possesses the right to vote, how is it within our power or within the scope of justice that we assert that she shall do so no longer? So the principle upon which the Senator bases his action in reference to the conferring of the right of suffrage is altogether too narrow; it is unrepublican; it is simply a despotism in form and in principle.

Mr. President, if the reason given for this section is a good one at all, there is no possible reply, and none has been made—and if it were possible to make one the honorable Senator from Vermont could do it—to the position of the Senator from Massachusetts that men who believe and vote the same way should be deprived of the same right. If it is a good cause to deprive a woman who has now the right of voting that she votes to uphold polygamy, it is equally a good cause to deprive the men in that Territory of the same right; and the necessity is the same because it is demonstrated by the previous operation of the law that there are men enough there without the women to choose a Legislature favorable to polygamy and adverse to an execution of this law. The Senator does not seem to have any ground either of principle or necessity, as it appears to me, for insisting on this clause which is so offensive certainly to myself and to a great many others.

While I am on my feet there is one other suggestion which I should like to make in reference to this bill. It is not a matter of such importance as would lead me to oppose its final passage perhaps, but at the same time I am unable to compel the assent of my judgment to the provision in the eighth and ninth lines of the first section of the bill which confers the power of compelling the husband or wife of a person accused "to testify in such proceeding, examination, or prosecution, without the consent of the husband or wife, as the case may be." It seems to me that there is no occasion for invading all the fundamental common law rights that we have supposed to be important and which have built up and strengthened the institutions of society for a thousand years. There is great danger, it seems to me, that in dealing with this evil, which is now passing away, we may assert doctrines that will trouble us in the future.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa. Mr. President, I believe it is understood that this measure is to go over by common consent until to-morrow. I therefore, in accordance with notice heretofore given, desire to ask the Senate to take up by unanimous consent a resolution introduced by me on the 9th day of December, in order that I may in pursuance of such notice submit some remarks to the Senate on that subject at this time.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Will the Senator from Iowa suspend that for a moment? I wish to say a word in reply to my friend from New Hampshire and then I shall let the bill go over.

Mr. WILSON of Iowa. Certainly.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I have nothing to add at this time in regard to the voting question, but I wish to say to my friend from New Hampshire that I think on reflection he will be satisfied with the provision in the first section of this bill regarding the husband or wife testifying in a case of bigamy, &c., against the other. The committee thought—I believe all of us thought—that it was perfectly analogous to the universal rule that has existed for a greaf many years in all courts of justice, authorizing the husband or wife to testify in a criminal prosecution against the other where the offense was an offense against the person or intrinsic rights of the party concerned, and that being so I think my friend from New Hampshire will see that it falls fairly into that class of cases, and that the wife who is most grossly and wickedly wronged in a case of bigamy should not have her mouth sealed when in a case of simple whipping she would be authorized to come into court and send her husband to jail.

I now consent that the bill may go over until to-morrow.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill goes over under the rules.

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa. I now ask that the resolution referred to be taken up in order that I may submit some remarks to the Senate in pursuance of the notice already given.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Pending the bill in relation to the count of the Presidential vote, the Senator from Iowa moves the adoption of a resolution which will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted by Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, December 9, 1885, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, directed to communicate to the Senate a copy of each report made by the Government directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, from date of first appointment of such directors to the present time.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa. Mr. President, the purpose of this resolution is to put the Senate in possession of each and all of the reports that have been made by the Government directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, in order that they may be printed in convenient form for use when we come to the consideration of measures touching the relations existing between that company and others embraced in the Pacific system and the United States. That these relations have reached a stage when some legislative action concerning them must be taken is clearly evidenced by facts which transpired in this body during the Forty-eighth Congress. The bills which were introduced by the then Senator from Arkansas [Mr. Garland] (now Attorney-General of the United States), by the Senator from Vermont [Mr. EDMUNDS], by the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR], the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. VAN WYCK], and perhaps others, clearly indicated the gravity of the juncture that had then been reached in the relations indicated. Some of those bills were referred to the Committee on the Judiciary of this body, and it very carefully considered the subjects of which they treated, and made report recommending definite action thereon. Some of those bills have been reintroduced during the present session of Congress; and, doubtless, others relating to the same subject will be presented for the consideration of the appropriate committees and for the action of the Senate. I do not doubt that the reports to which this resolution refers will be of value to us when we come to consider the general subject of the relations existing between the Government and the group of railroad companies composing the Pacific system. This is my reason for presenting the resolution now before the Senate. But before asking a vote on it, I desire to submit to the Senate some observations pertinent to the reports to which it refers, and also relative to the general subject to which they and the bills I have mentioned refer.

Mr. President, at the first session of the Forty-eight Congress the House of Representatives passed a bill "to amend an act entitled 'An act to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes,' approved July 1, 1862; also to amend an act approved July 2, 1864, and also an act approved May 7, 1878, both in amendment of the first-mentioned act." When this House bill was communicated to the Senate it was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary. After due consideration the committee reported it back to the Senate with an amendment in the nature of a substitute, accompanying it with an elaborate report in writing, concluding with a recommendation that the amendment be adopted and the bill passed. On the 30th day of January, 1885, the Senate, on the motion of the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR], proceeded to consider the bill, and the Senator submitted some observations explanatory of the bill and amendment. In the introductory part of his remarks he said:

I suppose every Senator has a general knowledge of the history of the Union Pacific Railroad, so called, the line connecting the Eastern States at a point which was then the western extremity of compact settlement, in 1862, with the Pacific Ocean. Congress intended, for reasons which are very familiar and which are stated in the report, to make a great railroad line from east to west, which should be situated among the railroads of the country, having a relation to the transportation of traffic, freight and passengers, east and west, something like that which the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers had north and south, and which they are to have in the future when all the land on their banks is filled with cities, farms, and compact settlements. That was intended to be a great, well-endowed, solvent, independent line, which would be beyond the reach of stock-jobbers or persons who were ambitious to use it for speculative ends, and which would bear to the commerce of the country a relation like that of the Mississippi River or of New York Harbor.

This is a correct statement of the purpose of Congress, and which the act of July 1, 1862, was designed to effect, and possibly no single fact in the legislative history of this country more sharply defines our wondrous progress than does the enactment of that law. Only thirteen years had elapsed since a committee of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States had made a report to that body on the proposition of Asa Whitney to construct a railroad from Lake Michigan to the Pacific Ocean, in consideration of certain aid to be granted to him by the Government of the United States. The report was presented to the House on February 20, 1849. It was wholly adverse to the scheme. It treated it as one entirely unworthy of serious consideration. To read that report now one is led to wonder how the public men who joined in it came to have so little knowledge of, and faith in, our country as they evinced. They seem to have had none of that intuition which induced the pioneers to make their ventures in the West; and the report which they made can now be exhibited as one of the curious creations of American statesmanship.

But its assumed demonstration of the utter impracticability of the scheme was accepted as complete by the House; the measure was defeated, and the statesmen of that day congratulated themselves that they had served their country well and put an end to a folly stupendous. And why should they not have been happy and content? For when we turn to the report we find most weighty reasons given in support of its conclusions. An exhaustive examination of the subject had brought the committee to the judgment that such a railroad was wholly impracticable; that a considerable part of the line was too high above the level of the sea; that the snowfall over great districts, which it would have to traverse, could but prevent its operation; that such a road would need a large supply of fuel and there was none to be had on the line; that a large proportion of the country through which it was proposed to build it was a "perfect waste;" that it could have of local traffic but little, and of through business practically none; that it was preposterous to expect to secure for such a road either passengers or freight passing between China, Japan, India, Europe, and this country or other portions of the world; that the annual expense of operating such a road would exceed all of its earnings—in short, that in each and every feature, from beginning to end, inside and out, the whole thing was the dream of an impracticable man; and Congress would have none of it and put upon it the seal of its disapprobation and was contentedly satisfied with its work.

Thirteen years passed by, and in their movements evolved conditions which so perfectly refuted all of the statements, speculations, and ridiculous conclusions of that report that Congress placed on the statute-book of the country the act of July 1, 1862, for the purpose of effecting the object so well stated by the Senator from Massachusetts in the words I have quoted from his speech in explanation of the bill we were then considering; and thus we come to see how important it is to consider the possibilities of a given case as well as to study its present and apparent facts. But in this regard we must not give too much credit to the Thirty-seventh Congress over the Thirtieth, for the former came near making a mistake which in point of the public interest might have been as serious as the years passed on as was the misconception of the latter of the facts and possibilities of the case with which it dealt ridiculous.

When the bill which became the act of July 1, 1862, was reported from the committee which formulated it to the House of Representatives, it provided for a charter of incorporation in perpetuity, and without reservation of power in Congress to change it. Being then a member of the House of Representatives, it did not seem to me that so great power should be given without limitation; and so, when the bill came up for consideration, I said:

If this bill shall pass there will be conferred upon this corporation an immense power, and it will be not only a commercial power but also a political power in this Government. The amount in lands and bonds that we propose to donate to this corporation—for it really amounts to that—for the purpose of enabling it to build this road will give it immense importance and power. And for the purpose of holding a more decided check upon the organization, I would amend the last section of the bill so as to retain in Congress the reserved rights to repeal this act and take away from the company all the right, privileges, and franchises hereby conferred. I think that is a check which should be retained by the Government upon a corporation of this magnitude. It is our duty to guard the people against any such concentration of power as a corporation of this magnitude would possess uncontrolled by any check of the law-making power upon them.—Congressional Globe, second session Thirty-seventh Congress, page 1705.

The result was a modification of the bill reserving the power to "add to, alter, amend, or repeal" the act. But for this reservation of power the act of May 7, 1878, commonly known as the "Thurman act," could not have been enacted and enforced. That act expressly provides in the last section thereof:

That each and every of the provisions in this act contained shall severally and respectively be deemed taken and held as in alteration and amendment of said act of 1862 and of said act of 1864, respectively, and of both of said acts.

And the Supreme Court of the United States in the sinking-fund cases, in which it held the Thurman act constitutional, said:

Congress not only retains, but has given special notice of its intention to retain full and complete power to make such alterations and amendments as come within the just scope of legislative power.

And but for this reservation of power we would now be powerless to enact and have enforced any such legislation as was attempted during the Forty-eighth Congress. For it matters not what opinions we may hold relative to the power of Congress to amend, alter, or repeal special charters, we know what the Supreme Court has decided in that regard, and that to the courts we must look for the enforcement of the laws that Congress may enact.

The Thurman act was well intentioned and has done some good in respect of protecting the public interests. But I think a mistake was made in the theory of that act. I think that the sinking fund should have been established for the benefit of the Government. The subject had been considered and reported on by the Government directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company before Judge Thurman moved in the matter. From 1869 to 1878 I was a member of the Government branch of the directors of the company, and it so pleased my colleagues to impose on me the duty of preparing the reports which we annually made to the Secretary of the Interior. We gave definite study to the subject of a sinking fund, and presented a scheme for one in our report for 1876, and again treated of it more elaborately in the one for 1877, from which I quote as follows, namely:

The plan suggested by the Government directors in their report for the year 1876 is believed to be a practicable one, which, if adopted, insures absolutely a full return to the Government of every dollar of its investment in the road. That plan differs from all others that have been proposed by the company in two important respects: It proposes to retain the one-half transportation and 5 per cent. modes of payment now provided for, and a termination of the sinking fund at the maturity of the bonds, and security for the remainder due and unpaid at that time, the same to be discharged at the rate of not less than one-tenth per annum. A further consideration of the subject has led the Government directors to the conclusion that the said plan can be modified to some extent without being unduly burdensome to the company in the conduct of its affairs, and shorten the time for the full reimbursement of the Government.

The amount of bonds issued to the company by the United States is		$27,236,512 00
Interest on the same at 6 per cent. for thirty years		49,026,000 00
Total at maturity of bonds		76,262,512 00
Presuming that the United States will receive a judgment on the basis of its claim in the pending 5 per cent. suit, and estimating upon like basis 5 per cent. of net earnings from commencement of suit to June 30, 1877, the Government will receive from that source to said date about	$2,250,000 00
And will have paid to said date by one-half transportation about	4,273,705 30
Or a total of		6,523,705 30
Leaving a total remainder of		69,738,806 70
Estimating the annual average arising from half transportation and 5 per cent., on the basis claimed by the Government in the pending suit for the remainder of the term at $1,000,000, we have a total from these sources of		20,000,000 00
Leaving a balance due the Government at the maturity of the bonds of		49,738,806 70

How can the payment of this large amount be provided for? It will not be due, under the law as construed by the Supreme Court, until the maturity of the bonds, when there will also be due the first-mortgage bonds, amounting to $27,232,000, or a total of $77,070,806.70.

This is a sum beyond possibility of payment in money without refunding at date of maturity. And the additional practical fact exists that the the first-mortgage bonds have precedence of the Government lien. The holders of the first-mortgage bonds are amply secured. The Government alone is in danger of loss. Can this danger be avoided? The Government directors think it can be. The establishment of a sinking fund is a practicables cheme, and opens a way out of this difficulty.

A sinking fund, established on the basis of semi-annual payments of $500,000 each, commencing on the 1st of January, 1878, compounded at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum for the term of twenty years, or until the maturity of the bonds, would give a total result to be applied to the payment of the Government claim of $40,418,256.86 and leave still due the Government $9,320,549.84. This balance could be discharged either by the plan suggested in the report of last year, or by the simple operation of the half transportation and 5 per cent. of net earnings, as now provided by law. The adoption of such a plan of adjustment as is here outlined by the Government and the company, with the approval of Congress, would render the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds advanced by the Government absolutely certain. It would be useless to exact more than the company can perform; and it is not unjust to require so much as it can comply with without embarrassing its affairs and depriving the owners of the property of a fair return in form of dividends on the capital invested. It is believed that the company can accept and perform the plan here presented.

The net earnings for the year ending June 30, 1877, were		$8,317,091 58
Annual interest, first-mortgage bonds, is	$1,633,920
Annual interest, sinking-fund bonds, is	1,146,080
Annual interest, land-grant bonds, is	586,180
Annual interest, bridge bonds is	182,320
Six per cent. dividend on capital stock, $36,762,300, is	2,205,738
Estimated average amount to Government from half transportation and 5 per cent. of net earnings	1,000,000
		6,754,238 00
Leaving a balance over for contingencies, extraordinary betterments, &c., of		1,562,853 58

The company's statement of earnings on account of Government earnings for the year ending June 30, 1877, is as follows, namely:

For troops	$218,272 67
For mail	709,955 00
For freight	402,756 42
Total	1,330,984 09
Of this amount the Government is entitled to retain one-half for its reimbursement, under existing law	665,492 04
Amount of 5 per cent. of net earnings for the year, as hereinbefore estimated	329,240 91
	994,732 95

This is within a fraction of the foregoing estimate of the yearly average for the next twenty years. But the account, as charged up for the transportation of the mail, rests upon a basis not agreed to by the Government, and the accounting officers of the Treasury will doubtless reduce the amount charged to an allowance considerably below the claim of the company. A full statement of the controversy between the Government and the company is given in the report of the Government directors for the year 1876. If, from any cause, the estimated average aforesaid should be exceeded, the result will be advantageous to the Government, as it will more speedily receive its reimbursement. The increase in the business, both for the Government and the general public, which will as certainly come in the future as it has in the past, will surely maintain the average stated.

This scheme, had it been adopted, would have extinguished the Government lien at maturity of the longest term bonds issued to the company. But some objected that Congress had no right to appropriate the revenues of the company in this way, and insisted that the first mortgage bondholders would object and restrain such an application of the funds which should go to them. They had no ground for such objection, and could not have interfered with the sinking fund. The property subject to the lien of the first mortgage was ample to secure the bonds, the interest on them was regularly paid, and the holders could have no ground of complaint while such conditions should continue to apply. A fund thus created for the benefit of the Government would have made it the interest of the managers of the company to provide for the payment of interest on the first mortgage bonds; for a default in that respect would have endangered their own personal and private interests in the company and its affairs. It would have caused them to be more circumspect in applying the funds of the company to other enterprises, and might have enforced a reform in the management of its affairs, which was frequently urged by the Government directors.

As early as 1872 the Government directors called the attention of the Secretary of the Interior to the diversion of the funds of the Union Pacific Company to other enterprises, and in their report for 1877 remarked upon the subject as follows, namely:

Upon the subject of the aid extended by the Union Pacific Company to other companies, the Government directors, in their report for 1873, remarked:

"With regard to the advances which the Union Pacific Company has made in aid of the roads mentioned, we can but repeat what we said in our report of 1872: 'We do not question the wisdom of a policy which tends to secure to the trunk line the business which the said several roads may command. It could not well afford to have said business diverted from it. The policy, however, should be so ordered as not to interfere with whatever present or future claim the Government may have for reimbursement.' The ability of the company to make the advances referred to shows that it could have returned more to the Government than it has, and raises the question of the power of the company to divert its means into channels not authorized by the law."

The total advances made, and the companies aided, appear in the following table and those in last year's report:

Investment in Summit County Railroad Company: $134,500 bonds; 622 shares full-paid stock; 2,759 shares assessable stock, and valuable coal-lands. Estimated value and cost, $60,000.

Colorado Central Railroad has been aided to the extent of		$1,610,497 86
Credits secured by Union Pacific Railroad Company		767,156 20
Balance, without interest		843,341 66

The investments in the Utah Central, Utah Southern, and Utah Northern Companies have not been increased during the past year, and remain as stated in the report of the Government directors for the year ending June 30, 1876.

The statement of investments in the Republican Valley Railroad has not yet been received, and will not be in time to be embraced in this report. The Union Pacific Company's investment in this road is regarded as a safe and remunerative one, as very considerable aid has been secured from the counties into which it has been constructed, and the country will supply it with a large local business.

The Utah Central, Utah Southern, and the Colorado Central are the most important of the roads aided. These, and the Utah Northern, are reported quite fully in the reports of the Government directors for the years 1872, 1873, and 1876. The Republican Valley road in Nebraska and the Summit County road in Utah involve investments of more recent date.

Aid to other roads is in contemplation by the company; one to the Black Hills region, and one to secure the business of Montana. The Government directors believe that this policy of the company should at all times be held subordinate to its obligations to the United States.

If the Government had given due attention to the information thus furnished by its directors, and Congress had availed itself of the reserved power to alter, amend, or repeal the charter of the company by the enactment of provisions of law regulating such uses of the means of the corporation, and requiring the delivery to it of the securities representing the diverted funds, the peril of public loss on account of the bonds issued in aid of the construction of the main line of road would not now be near so great as it is. But nothing was done by Congress, and the company went on with its own policy until, as shown by the report of the Government directors for 1884, it has invested its money in and extended its credit to twenty branch lines, aggregating some 2,825 miles, and holds bonds of the several companies amounting to a total of $22,299,000, and of their stock $33,020,700, against an aggregate of bonds issued by the several corporations of $41,399,000, and of stock $41,465,100; and concerning these securities the said report remarks as follows, namely:

All the stocks and bonds reported as the property of the Union Pacific are stated to be held absolutely and not pledged or hypothecated by the company except in three or four practically unimportant instances.

Is not this a most significant and pregnant fact? And does it not suggest that a corporation which can hold as its own property, unpledged and unhypothecated, $55,319,700 of the securities of other companies could have done more than it has toward meeting its pecuniary obligations to the Government, and that it might very well have met promptly the requirements of the sinking fund act of May 7, 1878, and that, too, without obstructing its administration by the interposition of every technicality the ingenuity of its counsel have been able to invent? And does it not further suggest that a present exercise of the reserved power of Congress to amend, alter, or repeal the charter of the company might well be had for the better security of the Government in a manner very different from that proposed by the bill reported during the last Congress, and that, too, without placing at any enlarged hazard the interests of innocent holders of the proper securities of the Union Pacific Company?

Another subject vitally connected with the best interests of the company and, consequently, closely allied with the Government's pecuniary risk in connection therewith, attracted the attention of the Government directors early in the series of years of my service in that capacity. This was the localization of the executive management of the company and its road. We gave close study to the subject, and in our report for 1872 embodied the following observations, namely:

The heads of several departments, such as general superintendent, general freight agent, &c., do not seem to possess the full powers legitimately belonging to them, and if they did each would have quite enough to do in his respective department without looking after duties that pertain to the executive powers of the company. The executive power is held in New York and Boston. Those clothed with it seldom visit the line of the road. While this remains the case there will continue to be that lack of information relative to, and grasp of the facts and data concerning, the real sources of business from which the greater proportionate increase of earnings should be derived, which now forms a just ground of complaint. It is one thing to manage the through business of this line, to care for the general financial interests of the company, and handle and care for its securities on the market; but it is quite a different thing to grasp the sources of its local traffic, and to develop them into ever-increasing streams of revenue. The former can be done in New York and Boston. The latter can only be accomplished on the line by officers clothed with official executive power. We are not disposed to be captious. We have no desire to tread upon even debatable grounds. We have no suggestions to make tending to deprive the stockholders of the railroad company of their just and proper powers; but it seems to us a duty, in view of the great pecuniary interest the Government has in the road, and the benefit which may accrue to it and all concerned to suggest that some reasonable and prudent steps be taken, either by the voluntary action of the company, or, that failing, by prudent legislation, which shall carry the practical executive management of the Union Pacific Railroad to the field of its local operation.

In the report of 1873 we again urged attention to this subject in language which I here quote, namely:

The safety of the Government's investment depends on the future of the road; and we can not urge too strongly that some means be devised for a localization of the executive power of the company. Once this is effected, a multitude of obstacles which now retard and obstruct the development of business throughout all of the vast region of country would disappear, for it needs but an acquaintance with them by persons charged with the responsible executive power of the company for them to be removed out of the way.

Again, in our report for the year 1874, we gave further expression to our views as follows, namely:

We do not hesitate to reaffirm the opinion expressed in former reports of the Government directors, that the Union Pacific Railroad, with a localized business management, with proper and sufficient power, can be made to meet all of the liabilities which rest upon it, including every dollar which the Government has invested in it. Our study of the road, of its ability to develop business in the country through which it passes and in regions tributary to the line, and of the possible large increase in volume of through traffic, both domestic and foreign, only confirm us in the belief that the road can be made to pay in the fullest sense that its obligations may require.

And in concluding that report we said:

As a national investment, we believe that the Union Pacific Railroad, with our suggestion effected, will pay.

We leave the results with those who, under the existing laws of Congress and such amendments as may be enacted, have the power to direct us in our duties.

Still nothing was done in the matter of remedying this great defect in the company's affairs, either by the action of the corporation itself or by means of additional legislation by Congress, and the Government directors, in their report for 1884, refer to this subject, and after quoting from the report of 1872, as already read by me, proceed to comment as follows, namely:

Strange as it may appear in the light of subsequent events, these suggestions were in no wise acted upon until in 1884, when the very results predicted were discovered to have occurred in the extremely unsatisfactory condition of the company's affairs. Policies had been inaugurated, acts directed, and purposes accomplished which had not had the sanction of the local management, while the element of intelligent "local executive power and authority reposed on the line of the road" was wanting. So largely, if not entirely, because of the absence of that mutual familiarity with the actual concerns and requirements of the road, which it was the duty of the executive as well as local management to have had, practices had been permitted to grow up which a conscientious, efficient, and well-informed directory should have prevented—practices of incalculable detriment eventually to the road.

I do not doubt, and no one who from personal contact with the conditions and careful study of the facts involved has come to an understanding of the case can doubt, that an enforcement of the policy outlined in said reports, but which we, as Government directors, had no power to effect, would have placed before us results very different from those which we are now considering. Every man of practical business experience, especially in the line to which this case belongs, will at once admit this proposition, and concede the correctness of the observations which I have quoted from the report of 1872; and when Senators come to consider the foregoing relation of facts, they will not wonder that the Government directors came to believe that they might with propriety remark concerning the inattention accorded to their suggestions. This they did in the report for the year 1877, and which closed the series prepared during my several terms of service as a Government director. In that report we made the following observations touching this matter, namely:

All or part of the Government directors have made at least annual visitations of the entire line of the road. They have made annual reports to the Secretary of the Interior, in which they have endeavored to give full expositions of the road, its condition, of improvements needed and of improvements made, of the things possible to be realized from it, of the policies of the company, of controverted questions both as to accounts and management of the property of the company, of disagreements as to the construction of the laws governing the relations and determining the rights of the Government and the company.

Indeed, it may safely be stated that not a question of controversy between the Government and company has escaped mention in one or more of the reports. The reports from 1871 down to and including the one for 1876, and excluding the present one, reduced to print in the ordinary executive-document form, would cover nearly or quite one hundred and fifty pages. They are filled with information in general and in detail, derived, in great part, from personal contact with the subjects treated of, and made with a purpose to have them as exact as such documents can be made. The filing of these reports has been, practically, their end. In many instances important recommendations have been made, with a view to the better management of the property, its business and affairs. They have rested with the reports.

I regret that these reports in some convenient form are not now in the possession of Senators; for if they were each of you would find that the characterization given to them in the quotation I have just read is fully sustained by their contents. And this constitutes one of the reasons why I desire the adoption of the resolution now before the Senate. Those reports are necessary to a full comprehension of the case on which we may be called to legislate. They will cast no little light on the various questions and movements which have evolved present complications.

Mr. President, it may be said that this is all of the past. This is most true; but I want the Senate and the country to see how many warnings there are in that past concerning the possible happenings of the very facts involved in the case which we are soon to consider. I agree that we must now take it as we find it, and that no demonstration of the mistakes or neglects of the past can change the case as we now have it. I agree that we have a hard case to handle, and yet it does not discourage me. The Thirtieth Congress, as I have shown, misunderstood the case it had in hand. The Thirty-seventh Congress came near launching a perpetual charter without any reservation of power to alter, amend, or repeal the same. The first case we laugh at as one of the curious misconceptions of public men of the possibilities of the country whose fortunes were committed to their care. The second, happily, was avoided, and we hold the power in our hands which was the instrument of that avoidance. Let us be sure that we understand our case. Is it a hopeless one except through the operation of some such instrumentality as some of the bills in the Forty-eighth Congress provided? Suppose we take first the worst possible phase of the case and look at it. This would come from default of the companies on their first-mortgage bonds, a foreclosure and sale without action by the Government to redeem therefrom. What would be left to the Government in that event? Nothing as a direct method for a return of its investment except the reservation contained in the tenth section of the act of July 2, 1864, which is in these words, namely:

And the lien of the United States bonds shall be subordinate to that of the bonds of any or either of said companies hereby authorized to be issued on their respective roads, property, and equipments, except as to the provisions of the sixth section of the act to which this act is an amendment, relating to the transmission of dispatches and the transportation of mails, troops, munitions of war, supplies, and public stores for the Government of the United States.

This exception was put in the bill on my motion in the House of Representatives on June 22, 1864, and the section to which it relates is the sixth of the act of July 1, 1862, which reads as follows, namely:

That the grants aforesaid are made upon the condition that said company shall pay said bonds at maturity, and shall keep said railroad and telegraph line in repair and use, and shall at all times transmit dispatches over said line, and transport mails, troops, and munitions of war, supplies, and public stores upon said railroad for the Government whenever required to do so by any department thereof, and that the Government shall at all times have the preference in the use of the same for all the purposes aforesaid (at fair and reasonable rates of compensation, not to exceed the amounts paid by private parties for the same kind of service); and all compensation for services rendered for the Government shall be applied to the payment of said bonds and interest until the whole amount is fully paid.

This is limited to one-half of the compensation for services rendered to the Government by section 5 of the said act of June 2, 1864, and constitutes the only direct result to the Government in return for its grant of aid in the event of a foreclosure such as I have indicated. Beyond this the return to the Government would come from those incidental sources having relation to the transportation of the mails, troops, supplies, &c., which undoubtedly would be very considerable. As an illustration of this I may cite a statement contained in a letter of the Quartermaster-General of the Army, communicated to the House of Representatives on January 31, 1873, by the Secretary of War. In this letter there was given a calculation of the saving to the Government by reason of the construction of the Union Pacific Railroad for a period commencing July, 1866, and ending in January, 1873. The statement is as follows, namely:

At this average rate, the estimated cost of transportation of the freight moved by the Union Pacific Railroad, including express charges as shown above, during the time commencing July, 1866, and ending January 28, 1873, would be as follows:

Rate per 100 pounds per 100 miles, railroad rates		$0 40½
Rate per 100 pounds per 100 miles, wagon rates		1 46
Actual cost of freight at railroad rates	1,896,589 57
Estimate of cost at wagon rates	6,837,088 32
Showing a total estimated cost for moving the troops and supplies by stage and wagon of	9,850,134 67
Total actual cost by railroad	3,342,851 82
Estimated difference	6,507,282 85

equivalent to about 66 per cent.

The Postmaster-General also sent a communication to the House of Representatives, in which he stated that for the years 1867 to 1872, inclusive, the Government had paid to the railroad company for the transportation of the mails $1,156,138.73, and that had the road not been constructed it would have paid, for the same service over the routes merged into this one, for the same time, $1,799,718.28. This is a saving at the rate of $107,263.25 per annum if calculated on the basis of pounds transported by stage, and he continues his comparison as follows, namely:

It should be borne in mind that the mail service by the railroad route between the Missouri River and the Pacific coast is incomparably superior to the previous service. Under the contracts which expired in 1868 the schedule time for a trip from Atchison, Kans., to San Francisco, Cal., was sixteen days for eight months, from April to November inclusive, and twenty-four and a half days the residue of the year. By the railroad route the time the year round is less than four and a half days. The average amount of matter conveyed in the mails overland before the completion of the railroads was less than a thousand pounds per day, the paper mails being mainly forwarded via Panama in consequence of the exaction of prepaid letter-postage rates on such matter conveyed between the western boundary of Kansas and the eastern boundary of California, under the fourth section of the act of March 25, 1861; now, that section having been repealed from September 30, 1868, by the act of June 25, 1868, the whole letter and paper mails are carried overland, averaging, in March, 1870, on the Union Pacific Railroad, 6,376 pounds per day, and on the Central Pacific 5,308 pounds per day.

Extending these calculations for the period of thirty years, the term for which the subsidy bonds issued by the Government run, the incidental gain would just about equal the bond account. And so it appears that in the worst state of the case that can happen the appropriations for the Government service will be much less per annum in the respect indicated, even though no direct return comes to the Treasury after the date of the supposed foreclosure, and this shows that the worst position in which the Government can be placed will not be wholly void of compensation; and, doubtless, while this comparative statement is confined to the Union Pacific Company, it may be taken as substantially representing the results which would come from an application of the rule to the other subsidized companies in the Pacific system. But this is no extenuation for it or them in any case or time in which by fair, just, and proper action in the management of the business involved the contract with the Government could have been performed.

Mr. President, there is one way by which this worst case can be avoided. The principal of the United States bonds issued to the several companies included in the Pacific system to aid in the construction of their respective roads is $64,613,000. A like amount of first-mortgage bonds, having precedence of the Government's lien, was issued by the companies. Default on the latter would cause a foreclosure of the first mortgage. There is now no provision of law whereby the Government may protect itself if such a juncture should transpire. Such provision should be made. This may be done by the enactment of such a law as was proposed in the bill reported from the Committee on the Judiciary of this body during the Forty-eighth Congress. Such a law would enable the Government to meet the exigency of a foreclosure of said first-mortgage bonds by paying off the senior lien, and taking such other steps as might be necessary to protect itself.

Under such a law there would exist the possibility of a Government ownership of the entire Pacific system of railroads. This, in my judgment, would assure the reimbursement of the Government; for, with such a contingency confronting them, not only the companies included in the Pacific system would set themselves about devising means to avoid the impending possession of their roads by the Government, but every other railroad company in the United States would take a lively interest in preventing the realization of such a result. They would all understand that with this system of roads in Government ownership the problem of the regulation of interstate commercial transportation would be solved more speedily and perfectly than it can be done in any other way. Such a system of railroads, so managed as to be independent of the combinations, pools, and discriminating manipulations which vex the business of the country, would enforce reforms in our transportation methods most difficult to reach by our ordinary legislative and judicial modes of action. The men who manage the railroads of the United States understand this thing perfectly. An independent line in private or corporate control is not allowed to remain in that condition for any considerable length of time. It must combine to succeed, or fight and be wrecked. As an independent line it is a competitor, and is not a recognized factor in our system of railway management. This works harm to the general business interests of the country in two ways. It prevents legitimate competition and induces the construction of unnecessary roads for mere purposes of speculation. The so-called "Nickel Plate" road was built for sale rather than for legitimate operation. Its promoters knew that the existing lines would not allow it to enter and remain in the field of competition with them, and so it was built for sale. It was not needed for the purposes of legitimate business, and so it was used to force a sale of itself that money might go into the purses of those who projected it; and the burden to our inland commerce was unnecessarily increased to the extent of the capital put into its construction.

Numerous instances of this kind have occurred, and will be repeated until some masterful factor shall enter the field with power to command a stop to such practices. Such a factor may appear in the provisions of a law for the regulation of interstate commerce; but it may, and doubtless will, require time, experience, and amendment to enable it to overcome the obstacles which will be placed in its way. The railway managers know how to manipulate such a case with some assurance of success; but they will all admit that such a system of roads as the Pacific group embraces, in the absolute independence of government ownership and control, would at once unhorse them and force its own terms. Hence, if Congress can be brought to the resolution to provide for the contingency which I have suggested, and enact a law for the redemption of said roads from the lien which stands paramount to the one which the Government holds, the reimbursement of the amount due and to become due to it will thereby be assured. No other result will ever be permitted to transpire by those who own and control the railroads of the United States. In my opinion, we have this case in our own hands; but we will not resolve it by the passage of any bill which does not embrace the features of possible redemption and Government ownership.

Mr. President, suppose my judgment in the respect stated should prove to be at fault, and that my prediction should not be verified, what would result? An ownership of the roads by the Government. What would come of this? A certain, conservative, and permanent adjustment of the transportation question. This would be worth its cost. I would not stay our efforts in the mean time to effect results such as are contemplated by the bills relative to the regulation of interstate commerce which may be brought to the consideration of this body. Let those efforts go on and accomplish all they may; for at best much time must pass and years be counted before this crowning act of all, should it at last be needed, can be reached. I can but hope that it may never be needed, for I do not take kindly to measures looking to Government assumption of business which may well be done by private individuals or by corporations under authority of and in obedience to law. But it seems to me that among the supreme questions demanding resolution by the law-making power of this nation there stands in the very front rank the one which embraces the transportation interests of the country.

It may be that the complications which attend the relations of the Government with the railroad companies included in the Pacific system will point the way to our ultimate deliverance, and this seems so probable to me that I shall be inclined to oppose any legislation changing those relations as they exist under the present laws unless the modifications proposed include the elements of redemption from present paramount liens and possible ownership by the Government of the Pacific system of roads. I am not at all inclined to be unnecessarily harsh with these companies, nor to needlessly harm innocent holders of such of their securities as are junior to the lien of the Government on the properties. But these corporations have the means within their command to place themselves in better relations with the Government. Especially can the Union Pacific and Central Pacific do this. Assets created by a diversion of their means and credit beyond their legitimate powers are in their possession, and these they can use to better assure the claims of the Government without in the slightest degree bringing harm to themselves or endangering the interests of innocent holders of their securities, and until they manifest a better spirit and a more conservative purpose in the matter of their obligations to the Government, I prefer to hold possession of such power as we now have over them, and reserve the possibilities which I believe the case involves for such action as the exigencies of the future may demand.

Now, Mr. President, if there be no Senator who desires to speak to the resolution, I should like to have it passed, in order that the reports which it calls for may be communicated to the Senate at the earliest practicable day.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. HOAR. Let the resolution be reported again.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be read.

The Secretary read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, directed to communicate to the Senate a copy of each report made by the Government directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company from date of first appointment of such directors to the present time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

ROUND VALLEY RESERVATION IN CALIFORNIA.

Mr. HALE. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore Before that question is put the Chair will lay before the Senate a message from the President of the United States.

The message was read, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed, as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 19th ultimo from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers in relation thereto, a draught of a bill "to provide for allotments of lands in severalty to the Indians residing upon the Round Valley reservation, in the State of California, and granting patents therefor, and for other purposes."

The matter is presented for the early consideration and action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, January 5, 1886.

JUDICIAL SALARIES.

Mr. HOAR. I desire to inquire of the Chair whether the judges salary bill stands as the unfinished business.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The unfinished business is the bill fixing the salaries of the several judges of the United States district courts. The Chair will lay it before the Senate as the unfinished business. The bill will be read by its title.

The CHIEF CLERK. A bill (S. 6) fixing the salaries of the several judges of the United States district courts at $5,000 per annum, and for other purposes.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. HALE. I renew my motion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Maine moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of executive business.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. After one hour and seventeen minutes spent in executive session the doors were reopened, and (at 4 o'clock and 52 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned.

EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS.

Received this 5th day of January, 1886.

ASSOCIATE JUSTICE.

Orlando W. Powers, of Michigan, to be associate justice of the supreme court of the Territory of Utah, vice Philip H. Emerson, resigned.

SUPERVISING INSPECTOR OF STEAM-VESSELS.

James Curran, of Maryland, to be supervising inspector of steam-vessels for the third district, in place of John Meushaw, suspended.

SURVEYOR OF CUSTOMS.

Wiley J. Tinnin, of California, to be surveyor of customs for the port of San Francisco, in the State of California, in place of John M. Morton, suspended.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS.

John J. Higgins, of Mississippi, to be collector of customs for the district of Natchez, in the State of Mississippi, in place of Joseph B. O'Brien, designated in place of Anselum Neuberger, suspended, during the recess of the Senate, and who himself has since resigned.

CONSULS.

H. M. Jewett, of Malden, Mass., to be consul of the United States at Sivas.

Willis Y. Patch, of Bangor, Me., to be consul of the United States at St. Stephen, New Brunswick, to fill a vacancy.

William H. McArdle, of Mississippi, to be consul of the United States at San Juan del Norte, vice William A. Brown, suspended.

POSTMASTERS.

Andrew J. Hill, to be postmaster at Hot Springs, in the county of Garland and State of Arkansas, in the place of Isaac W. Carhart, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Susman Mitchell, to be postmaster at Visalia, in the county of Tulare and State of California, in the place of Lloyd V. Nanscawen, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

R. E. Goodell, to be postmaster at Leadville, in the county of Lake and State of Colorado, in place of Carlyle C. Davis, whose removal, for cause, is hereby proposed.

Marie Hollingsworth, to be postmaster at Silverton, in the county of San Juan and State of Colorado, in the place of Thomas Chestnut, resigned.

G. G. Shaver, to be postmaster at Cañon City, in the county of Fremont and State of Colorado, in the place of James W. Bolby, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Edward C. Brownell, to be postmaster at Moodus, in the county of Middlesex and State of Connecticut, in the place of L. D. F. Gates, the appointment of a postmaster for the office having, by law, become vested in the President from and after July 1, 1885.

D. W. Northrup, to be postmaster at Middletown, in the county of Middlesex and State of Connecticut, in the place of Bartlett Bent, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Joseph Dunham, to be postmaster at Geneseo, in the county of Henry and State of Illinois, in the place of Solon Kendall, whose commission expired December 15, 1885.

Miles J. Finlen, to be postmaster at Streator, in the county of La Salle and State of Illinois, in place of Francis M. Ryon, suspended under the provisions of section 1768 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

John C. George, to be postmaster at Dwight, in the county of Livingston and State of Illinois, in the place of Homer A. Kenyon, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Daniel W. Gould, to be postmaster at Moline, in the county of Rock Island and State of Illinois, in the place of L. E. Hemenway, whose commission expired December 15, 1885.

James Haines, to be postmaster at Pekin, in the county of Tazewell and State of Illinois, in the place of Richard D. Smith, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Thomas Hennebry, to be postmaster at Braidwood, in the county of Will and State of Illinois, in the place of Robert Huston, resigned.

Robert McNeil, to be postmaster at Rock Falls, in the county of Whitesides and State of Illinois, in the place of James Pettigrew, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

John Westermeier, to be postmaster at Carlinville, in the county of Macoupin and State of Illinois, in the place of Cyrus T. Prouty, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

William H. Bennett, to be postmaster at Bluffton, in the county of Wells and State of Indiana, in the place of Samuel J. Keller, resigned.

Denis Eagan, to be postmaster at Liberty, in the county of Union and State of Indiana, in the place of Charles W. Stivers, resigned.

James F. Elder, to be postmaster at Richmond, in the county of Wayne and State of Indiana, in the place of James Elder, deceased, who was appointed November 9, 1885, in the place of Edwin D. Palmer, suspended under the provisions of section 1768 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

John R. Smith, to be postmaster at Kendallville, in the county of Noble and State of Indiana, in the place of James Nellis, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

H. P. Albert, to be postmaster at Stuart, in the county of Guthrie and State of Iowa, in the place of W. P. Moulton, whose commission expired December 16, 1885.

A. P. Cramer, to be postmaster at Avoca, in the county of Pottawattamie and State of Iowa, in the place of Jonas B. Blake, resigned.

Thomas H. Lantry, to be postmaster at Algona, in the county of Kossuth and State of Iowa, in the place of Robert H. Spencer, resigned.

Albert E. Nau, to be postmaster at Pittsburg, in the county of Crawford and State of Kansas, in the place of Augustus J. Georgia, resigned.

Camille Mollère, to be postmaster at Donaldsonville, in the county of Ascension and State of Louisiana, in the place of Louis Leforte, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Ai J. Rowe, to be postmaster at Norway, in the county of Oxford and State of Maine, in the place of Alonzo J. Nevers, whose commission expired December 30, 1885.

Philip E. Brady, to be postmaster at Attleborough, in the county of Bristol and State of Massachusetts, in the place of Abijah T. Wales, whose commission expired October 14, 1885.

Isaac Collins, to be postmaster at Adams, in the county of Berkshire and State of Massachusetts, in the place of John E. Mole, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Charles C. Cressy, to be postmaster at Gloucester, in the county of Essex and State of Massachusetts, in the place of David W. Low, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

John H. Hamlin, to be postmaster at Eaton Rapids, in the county of Eaton and State of Michigan, in the place of H. M. Hamilton, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Joseph L. Richards, to be postmaster at Buchanan, in the county of Berrien and State of Michigan, in the place of L. P. Alexander, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Francis Baasen, to be postmaster at New Ulm, in the county of Brown and State of Minnesota, in the place of Joseph Bobleter, whose commission expired December 15, 1885.

George L. Phillips, to be postmaster at Bethany, in the county of Harrison and State of Missouri, in the place of James M. Simms, resigned.

William A. Wight, to be postmaster at Moberly, in the county of Randolph and State of Missouri, in the place of William Firth, resigned.

W. T. McGinnis, to be postmaster at Minden, in the county of Kearney and State of Nebraska, in the place of John W. Gordyn, resigned.

John F. Walsh, to be postmaster at Humboldt, in the county of Richardson and State of Nebraska, in the place of Edgar S. Norton, resigned.

Arthur W. Bronson, to be postmaster at Clinton, in the county of Oneida and State of New York, in the place of Benjamin F. Libbey, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Millen T. Hill, to be postmaster at Gowanda, in the county of Cattaraugus and State of New York, in the place of B. G. Hill, resigned.

Calvin S. Stowell, to be postmaster at Olean, in the county of Cattaraugus and State of New York, in the place of Wilson R. Page, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Julius Wasserman, to be postmaster at Amsterdam, in the county of Montgomery and State of New York, in the place of William J. Kline, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

D. C. Hill, to be postmaster at Painesville, in the county of Lake and State of Ohio, in the place of Jonathan F. Scofield, resigned.

T. W. Long, to be postmaster at Cardington, in the county of Morrow and State of Ohio, in the place of George W. Bell, resigned.

William R. Dawson, to be postmaster at Tidioute, in the county of Warren and State of Pennsylvania, in the place of James C. Long, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

A. J. Greenfield, to be postmaster at Oil City, in the county of Venango and State of Pennsylvania, in the place of Fid Bishop, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Julian Field, to be postmaster at Fort Worth, in the county of Tarrant and State of Texas, in the place of Belle M. Burchill, whose commission expired October 19, 1885.

R. L. Jemmings, to be postmaster at Marshall, in the county of Harrison and State of Texas, in the place of William C. Pierce, whose commission expired October 24, 1885.

Mrs. L. S. McPherson, to be postmaster at Sherman, in the county of Grayson and State of Texas, in the place of John Donaldson, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

James E. Shepard, to be postmaster at Brenham, in the county of Washington and State of Texas, in the place of John W. Hacksworth, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

William C. Browe, to be postmaster at Salt Lake City, in the county of Salt Lake and Territory of Utah, in the place of John T. Lynch, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Frederick W. Childs, to be postmaster at Brattleborough, in the county of Windham and State of Vermont, in the place of Charles H. Mansur, whose commission expired December 20, 1885.

Harvey M. Brown, to be postmaster at Columbus, in the county of Columbia and State of Wisconsin, in place of John Swarthout, whose commission expired December 16, 1885.

Joseph Osthelder, to be postmaster at Sheboygan Falls, in the county of Sheboygan and State of Wisconsin, in the place of Charles A. Spencer, resigned.

A. W. Weisbrod, to be postmaster at Oshkosh, in the county of Winnebago and State of Wisconsin, in the place of Henry B. Harshaw, whose commission expired December 15, 1885.

NOMINATION WITHDRAWN.

John G. Lee, to be secretary of the legation of the United States at Constantinople.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, January 5, 1886.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Monday, December 21, 1885.

Mr. LORE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to dispense with the reading of so much of the Journal as relates to the introduction and reference of bills and joint resolutions.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

The Clerk then resumed and concluded the reading of the remainder of the Journal, which was approved.

Mr. NICHOLAS MULLER, a Representative-elect from the State of New York, appeared, qualified, and took his seat.

JOSEPH RAWICZ.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of State, transmitting letters of Joseph Rawicz, United States consul at Warsaw, Poland, and recommending the passage of a bill granting him permission to accept certain decorations conferred by the Russian Government; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITIONAL MAIL-ROUTES, ETC.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Postmaster-General, transmitting reports of mails established, of additional allowances made to contractors, of curtailments in the service, of pay of contractors, and of all contracts for mail equipments for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885; which was referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Post-Office Department, and ordered to be printed.

REFERENCE OF SENATE BILLS.

The SPEAKER also, in accordance with the rules, laid before the House bills of the Senate of the following titles for reference, namely:

A bill (S. 126) to change the name of the National Bank of Winona; which was referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency;

A bill (S. 471) to provide for the performance of the duties of the office of the President, in case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability of both the President and Vice-President; which was referred to the Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President;

A bill (S. 335) to provide for protecting the interests of the United States in the Potomac River Flats, in the District of Columbia; which was referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia; and

A bill (S. 382) to authorize the Merchants' National Bank of Little Rock, Ark., to change its name to the First National Bank of Little Rock, Ark.; which was referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

JOINT RULES.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House Senate resolution adopting joint rules of the two Houses; which was referred to the Committee on Rules, and ordered to be printed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted to Mr. KING for six days and to Mr. OATES for four days, on account of important business.

WITHDRAWAL OF PAPERS.

On motion of Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, by unanimous consent, leave was granted to withdraw from the files of the House the petition and all papers of Mrs. James H. Reynolds, widow of James H. Reynolds, a sutler in the Seventy-eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, no adverse report having been made thereon; and also to withdraw from the files of the House the petition and all papers in the claim of Dr. W. S. Hancock, late of the Seventy-eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, there being no adverse report.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The SPEAKER. Under the order of the House, made by unanimous consent, the Chair will now proceed to call the States and Territories for the introduction and reference of bills and resolutions.

LUCIEN GOYAUX.

Mr. GAY (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 990) for the relief of the estate of Lucien Goyaux; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ABOLITION OF CERTAIN SHIPPING FEES, ETC.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) introduced a bill (H. R. 991) to abolish certain fees for official services to American vessels and to amend the laws relating to shipping commissioners, seamen, and owners of vessels; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on American Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests, and ordered to be printed.

AMOS L. ALLEN.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 992) for the relief of Amos L. Allen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HOMESTEAD SETTLEMENTS.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 993) to reserve the public lands of the United States for bona fide settlers under the homestead laws; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

DRAWBACKS.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H.

R. 994) to allow drawbacks on articles manufactured wholly or partly of materials imported equal in amount to the duties paid on such materials when such articles are exported; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PRIVATE LIGHTS AND BUOYS.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 995) prohibiting the establishment of private lights and private buoys, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 996) providing for the adjustment of accounts of laborers, workmen, and mechanics arising under the eight-hour law; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARY BENTON.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 997) granting a pension to Mrs. Mary Benton, widow of a soldier of the war of 1812; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EBENEEZER HAGGETT.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 998) for the relief of Ebeneezer Haggett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PILOTAGE.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 999) relating to pilotage; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on American Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests, and ordered to be printed.

ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1000) providing for a commission on the subject of the alcoholic liquor traffic; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Alcoholic Liquor Traffic, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK W. RUGGLES.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1001) for the relief of Frederick W. Ruggles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL D. BAILEY AND OTHERS.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1002) for the relief of Samuel D. Bailey and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SALE OF IMPORTED LIQUORS.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1003) granting the consent of Congress that State laws may apply to the sale of imported distilled and fermented liquors in the same manner as to liquors of domestic manufacture; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

CONVICT LABOR.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1004) to prohibit the letting of Government work to contractors employing convict labor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES NOTES OF SMALL DENOMINATIONS.

Mr. DINGLEY (by Mr. REED, of Maine) also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 31) requiring the printing, preparing, and issuing of United States notes in small denominations in sufficient amounts to supply the public demand; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE S. HUNT & CO.

Mr. REED, of Maine, introduced a bill (H. R. 1005) for the relief of George S. Hunt & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PHINNEY & JACKSON.

Mr. REED, of Maine, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1006) for the relief of Phinney & Jackson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

DUDLEY HALL & CO.

Mr. REED, of Maine, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1007) for the relief of Dudley Hall & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

VICTOR BEAUBOUCHER.

Mr. REED, of Maine, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1008) for the relief of Victor Beaubouchér; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN A. DARLING.

Mr. REED, of Maine, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1009) for the relief of John A. Darling; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAPANESE INDEMNITY FUND.

Mr. REED, of Maine, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1010) to amend an act entitled "An act in relation to the Japanese indemnity fund," approved February 22, 1883; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY COMPANY, CANADA.

Mr. REED, of Maine, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1011) for the relief of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REPORT OF POLAR EXPEDITION TO LADY FRANKLIN BAY.

Mr. REED, of Maine, also introduced a resolution for printing 4,000 copies, with the necessary illustrations, of the report of the international polar expedition to Lady Franklin Bay, Grinnell Land, by First Lieut. A. W. Greely, Fifth Cavalry, United States Army, acting signal officer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. BOUTELLE introduced a bill (H. R. 1012) relating to pensions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT HOULTON, ME.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1013) to provide for the erection of a public building at the town of Houlton, Me.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

FORT SULLIVAN MILITARY RESERVATION, EASTPORT, ME.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1014) granting the Fort Sullivan military reservation to the town of Eastport, Me., for a public park; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

BRIG OLIVE FRANCES.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1015) for the relief of the owners and officers of the brig Olive Frances, and others on board said brig; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGES ACROSS THE ST. JOHN AND ST. FRANCIS RIVERS.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1016) for the construction of bridges across the St. John and St. Francis Rivers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF MEN OF THE NAVY, ETC., CHARGED WITH DESERTION.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1017) to relieve certain appointed or enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps from the charge of desertion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LIGHTS ON ISLANDS IN MOOSEHEAD LAKE.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1018) for the erection of beacon lights on the islands in Moosehead Lake; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. RODNEY C. BARKER.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1019) for the relief of Capt. Rodney C. Barker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WAR CLAIMS.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1020) to settle and adjust the claims of any State for expenses incurred by it in defense of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

E. I. SMALLS.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1021) granting a pension to E. I. Smalls; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY E. BAKER.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1022) granting a pension to Mary E. Baker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS J. KNOWLES.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1023) granting a pension to Thomas J. Knowles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AURELIA F. ROBBINS.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1024) granting a pension to Aurelia F. Robbins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. STEVENS.

Mr. BOUTELLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1025) granting arrears of pension to George W. Stevens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PORT OF ENTRY AT MOUNT DESERT FERRY, ME.

Mr. MILLIKEN introduced a bill (H. R. 1026) providing for the establishment of a port of entry at Mount Desert Ferry, in the town of Hancock, State of Maine; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

EXTENSION AND REPAIR OF PUBLIC BUILDING, BELFAST, ME.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1027) for the extension and repair of the public building at Belfast, Me.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

EMERY S. WARDWELL.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1028) for the relief of Emery S. Wardwell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JEFFERSON SAVAGE.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1029) for the relief of Jefferson Savage; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM COLLINS.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1030) for the relief of William Collins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIE F. WARD.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1031) granting a pension to Willie F. Ward; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSIAH B. SNELL.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1032) granting a pension to Josiah B. Snell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF WILLIAM PITCHER AND OTHERS.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1033) for the relief of the heirs of William Pitcher, Axel Hayford, Samuel Otis, and George B. Fergusson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BANGS, BROWNELL & CO.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1034) for the relief of Bangs, Brownell & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CONDEMNED CAST-IRON CANNON.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1035) to donate condemned cast-iron cannon to the citizens of Waterville, Me.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

STURGIS, LOMBARD & CO.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1036) for the relief of Sturgis, Lombard & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN W. KANE.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1037) for the relief of John W. Kane; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PETER M'CABE.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1038) for the relief of Peter McCabe; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DONATION OF CONDEMNED CANNON.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1039) to donate condemned cast-iron cannon to Thomas H. Marshall Post, No. 41, Grand Army of the Republic; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS S. HOPKINS.

Mr. MILLIKEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1040) for the relief of Thomas S. Hopkins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ARBITRATION AND PEACE.

Mr. MILLIKEN also presented resolutions of the Legislature of the State of Maine in favor of arbitration and peace; which were referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

INDIANS.

Mr. MILLIKEN also presented resolutions of the Legislature of the State of Maine relating to United States appropriations for Indians; which were referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA FREE SHIP-CANAL.

Mr. FINDLAY introduced a bill (H. R. 1041) to provide for the construction of the Maryland and Virginia Free Ship-canal as a means of military and naval defense and for commercial purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals, and ordered to be printed.

STEAMSHIP CAROLINE MILLER.

Mr. FINDLAY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1042) to provide for an American register for the steamship Caroline Miller, of Baltimore, Md.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on American Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests, and ordered to be printed.

ISAIAH DOWLING.

Mr. FINDLAY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1043) for the relief of Isaiah Dowling, retired assistant surgeon, United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. M'CLINTOCK.

Mr. FINDLAY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1044) for the relief of John M. McClintock; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER. The indorsement on this bill indicates a reference to the Committee on Ways and Means; but under the new rule it must go to the Committee on Claims. For the guidance of members in indicating the reference of their bills the Chair will cause the Clerk to read clause 7 of Rule XXI.

The Clerk read as follows:

No bill for the payment or adjudication of any private claim against the Government shall be referred, except by unanimous consent, to any other than the following-named committees, viz: To the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to the Committee on Pensions, to the Committee on Claims, to the Committee on War Claims, to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and to the Committee on Accounts.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDMUND WOLF.

Mr. FINDLAY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1045) for the relief of Edmund Wolf; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MAJOR MICHAEL P. SMALL.

Mr. FINDLAY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1046) for the relief of Maj. Michael P. Small, commissary of subsistence, United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MARY MORTIMER SEMMES.

Mr. FINDLAY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1047) granting a pension to Mary Mortimer Semmes, widow of Commodore Alexander A. Semmes, United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEVI HERTZOG.

Mr. FINDLAY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1048) for the relief of Levi Hertzog; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DECLINE OF AMERICAN COOPERAGE INTERESTS.

Mr. FINDLAY also submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed:

Resolved, That the Committee on Ways and Means be, and it is hereby, instructed and directed to inquire into the causes of the decline of American cooperage interests, and of our timber and shipping interests connected therewith, as heretofore developed in the trade with the Island of Cuba, and to report by bill or otherwise.

FORECLOSURE IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. McCOMAS introduced a bill (H. R. 1049) to regulate the foreclosure of mortgages and deeds of trust in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN JOSEPH BRADSHAW.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1050) for the relief of John Joseph Bradshaw; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CRIMINAL CODE FOR DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1051) to provide a criminal code for the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

INSURANCE IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1052) to provide for regulating the business of insurance in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

WAR CLAIMS.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1053) to afford further relief to loyal citizens of States not in rebellion for property taken by the Army of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ADULTERATION.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1054) to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

POST-OFFICE SAVINGS-BANK.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1055) to establish a post-office savings-bank as a branch of the Post-Office Department; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1056) to establish a postal telegraphic system in the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

REDEMPTION OF TRADE-DOLLARS.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1057) to authorize the redemption of trade-dollars of United States coinage; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

NOXIOUS AND DANGEROUS MEDICINES.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1058) to prevent the use of United States mails to advertise noxious and dangerous medicines; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH ROMISER.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1059) to grant a pension to Joseph Romiser; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN T. WALSH.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1060) granting a pension to John T. Walsh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH M. SHEARER.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1061) for the relief of Sarah M. Shearer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ERNEST H. WARDWELL.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1062) for the relief of Ernest H. Wardwell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCES M. LAMBERT.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1063) for the relief of Frances M. Lambert; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. KRANTZ.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1064) granting a pension to William H. Krantz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF CONSTITUTION.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 33) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MONUMENT TO FRANCIS SCOTT KEY.

Mr. McCOMAS also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 34) providing for the erection of a monument at Frederick, Md., over the grave of Francis Scott Key, the author of the Star-Spangled Banner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

WAR CLAIMS OF MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA.

Mr. COMPTON introduced a bill (H. R. 1065) to provide for paying certain advances made to the United States by the States of Maryland and Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

POTOMAC AND CHESAPEAKE FREE SHIP-CANAL.

Mr. COMPTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1066) to provide for the preliminary surveys and location of the Potomac and Chesapeake Free Ship-canal; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals, and ordered to be printed.

LABORERS AT NAVAL ACADEMY.

Mr. COMPTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1067) for the relief of certain laborers, workmen, and mechanics heretofore and at present employed at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARY MORTIMER SEMMES.

Mr. COMPTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1068) granting a pension to Mrs. Mary Mortimer Semmes, widow of the late Commodore Alexander A. Semmes, United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF HENRY LEEF, DECEASED.

Mr. SHAW introduced a bill (H. R. 1069) for the relief of the heirs of Henry Leef, deceased, owner of the bark Maria Theresa, illegally seized by Alexander H. Tyler, consul of the United States at Bahia, Brazil; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SOPHIA CHAMBERS.

Mr. COLE introduced a bill (H. R. 1070) granting a pension to Sophia Chambers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. MUSE.

Mr. COLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1071) for the relief of the heirs of William B. Muse; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM WEDDINGFIELD.

Mr. COLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1072) to amend the act approved February 26, 1885, granting a pension to William Weddingfield; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EMILY J. FARDY.

Mr. COLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1073) for the relief of Emily J. Fardy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MERCHANTS AND MINERS' TRANSPORTATION COMPANY.

Mr. COLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1074) for the relief of the Merchants and Miners' Transportation Company of Baltimore, Md.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS D. BROOKS.

Mr. COLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1075) for the relief of Lewis D. Brooks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITIONAL LIFE-SAVING STATIONS.

Mr. LONG introduced a bill (H. R. 1076) establishing additional life-saving stations on the sea and lake coasts of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

REPLACING UNSERVICEABLE ORDNANCE.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H. R. 1077) for replacing unserviceable ordnance issued for the militia of the States and Territories; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

TENURE-OF-OFFICE ACT.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H. R. 1078) to repeal the tenure-of-office act; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

ANN J. EATON, ADMINISTRATRIX.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H. R. 1079) for the relief of Ann J. Eaton, administratrix; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL MONUMENT, PLYMOUTH, MASS.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H. R. 1080) in aid of the national monument at Plymouth, Mass.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

ADMISSION TO FLOOR—HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H R. 1081) to provide that the principal officer of each Department may occupy a seat on the floor of the House of Representatives; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

MARY A. BICKERDYKE.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H. R. 1082) granting a pension to Mary A. Bickerdyke; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS H. KIRMAYER.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H. R. 1083) granting a pension to Francis H. Kirmayer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALICE S. HOLBROOK.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H. R. 1084) granting a pension to Alice S. Holbrook; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALBION S. KEITH.

Mr. LONG also introduced a bill (H. R. 1085) for the relief of Albion S. Keith, late a naval cadet in the United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN DOLAN.

Mr. LONG (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1086) for the relief of John Dolan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AGNES W. AND SARAH J. HILLS.

Mr. LONG (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1087) for the relief of Agnes W. and Sarah J. Hills; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANGELIA M. MANNING.

Mr. LONG (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1088) granting a pension to Angelia M. Manning; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABBY L. BURBANK.

Mr. LONG (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1089) granting a pension to Abby L. Burbank; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

C. R. SYKES AND JOHN CURREY.

Mr. LONG (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1090) to confirm the title to certain lands in the Territory of Arizona to Charles P. Sykes and John Currey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LAURA A. TURNER.

Mr. LONG (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1091) for the relief of Laura A. Turner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT WORCESTER, MASS.

Mr. RICE introduced a bill (H. R. 1092) for the erection of a public building at Worcester, Mass.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

BRITISH BARK CHANCE.

Mr. RICE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1093) for the relief of owners, officers, and crew of the British bark Chance; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELLA E. GIBSON.

Mr. RICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1094) granting a pension to Ella E. Gibson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY.

Mr. RICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1095) authorizing the construction of a building for the accommodation of the Congressional Library; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. LOVERING introduced a bill (H. R. 1096) granting pensions for services in the Army and Navy of the United States during the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1097) for the adjustment of accounts of laborers, workmen, and mechanics arising under the eight-hour law; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

POST-OFFICE BUILDING AT LYNN, MASS.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1098) for the erection of a post-office building at Lynn, Mass.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

NAVAL HOSPITAL AT CHELSEA, MASS.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1099) providing for sale of the naval hospital at Chelsea, Mass.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JANE N. DEVEREUX.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1100) granting a pension to Jane N. Devereux; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HORACE TRASK.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1101) restoring the name of Horace Trask to the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELBRIDGE SMITH.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1102) granting a pension to Elbridge Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MABELLE R. BULKLEY.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1103) granting a pension to Mabelle R. Bulkley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH SULLIVAN.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1104) granting a pension to Elizabeth Sullivan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JULIA CASSIDY.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1105) granting a pension to Julia Cassidy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY B. CARLL.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1106) for the relief of Mary B. Carll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AUGUSTA M. RICHARDS.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1107) granting a pension to Augusta M. Richards; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET COFFEE.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1108) granting a pension to Margaret Coffee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. BARRY.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1109) granting a pension to John H. Barry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

STEPHEN FLYNN.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1110) granting a pension to Stephen Flynn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES DOUGLAS.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1111) granting a pension to Charles Douglas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN PIERCE.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1112) granting a pension to John Pierce; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WALTER S. HAYNES.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1113) granting a pension to Walter S. Haynes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL B. JENNESS.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1114) granting a pension to Daniel B. Jenness; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BETSY M. MURRAY.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1115) granting a pension to Betsy M. Murray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ORPHAN CHILDREN OF DENNIS OWENS.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1116) granting a pension to the orphan children of Dennis Owens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN OWENS.

Mr. LOVERING also introduced a bill (H. R. 1117) granting a pension to John Owens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WAR SERVICES OF SOLDIERS NOW IN THE ARMY.

Mr. LOVERING (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1118) to recognize the war services of Union soldiers now serving in the regular Army of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

A UNIFORM SYSTEM OF BANKRUPTCY.

Mr. COLLINS introduced a bill (H. R. 1119) to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

BURDENS ON AMERICAN MERCHANT MARINE.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1120) to amend the tenth section of the act to remove certain burdens on the American merchant marine; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on American Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests, and ordered to be printed.

SECTION 3013 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1121) to amend section 3013 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COMMISSIONERS OF ALABAMA CLAIMS.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1122) relating to the Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

EVIDENCE TO QUIET TITLES.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1123) in relation to evidence to quiet titles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

POSTAGE ON SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1124) regulating the rates of postage on second-class mail matter at letter-carrier offices; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF NEWTON, MASS.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1125) for the relief of the First National Bank of Newton, Mass.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JEANETTE GUINEY.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1126) granting an increase of pension to Jeanette Guiney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN R. FARREL.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1127) for the relief of John R. Farrel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

C. W. MERRILL.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1128) for the relief of C. W. Merrill; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL J. BYRNES.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1129) to increase the pension of Daniel J. Byrnes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

STATUS OF CERTAIN MEDICAL OFFICERS, UNITED STATES ARMY.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 34) defining the status of certain medical officers in the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 35) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

CASTLE ISLAND, BOSTON HARBOR.

Mr. COLLINS also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 36) authorizing the President of the United States to permit the occupancy of Castle Island, in Boston Harbor, by the municipal authorities of Boston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Gounds, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH CALLAGHAN.

Mr. COLLINS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1130) for the relief of Elizabeth Callaghan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM R. BOAG.

Mr. RANNEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1131) for the relief of William R. Boag; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MARINE SIGNAL BOARD.

Mr. RANNEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1132) to establish a board by the name of "the Marine Signal Board of the United States," with a view of having adopted a code and system of marine light and fog signals and regulating the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH J. HILLS.

Mr. RANNEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1133) for the relief of Sarah J. Hills; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LIGHT AND FOG SIGNAL AT CASTLE HILL, R. I.

Mr. DAVIS introduced a bill (H. R. 1134) to establish a light and fog signal at Castle Hill, R. I.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT NEW BEDFORD, MASS.

Mr. DAVIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1135) providing for the erection of a public building at New Bedford, Mass.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES E. BOLLES.

Mr. DAVIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1136) granting a pension to Charles E. Bolles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BILLS OF LADING

Mr. DAVIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1137) to make bills of lading conclusive evidence in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION.

Mr. DAVIS also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 37) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MARY E. FILLEBROWN.

Mr. ELY introduced a bill (H. R. 1138) to increase the pension of Mary E. Fillebrown; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

M. H. COLLINS.

Mr. ELY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1139) for the relief of M. H. Collins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM FIELD.

Mr. ELY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1140) granting a pension to William Field; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Mr. ELY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1141) to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

LYDIA HADLOCK.

Mr. HAYDEN introduced a bill (H. R. 1142) granting a pension to Lydia Hadlock; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DONATION OF CONDEMNED GUN-CARRIAGES.

Mr. HAYDEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1143) authorizing the Secretary of War to deliver to Somerville Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of Somerville, Mass., four condemned gun-carriages, to be used for monumental purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PRIVATE LIGHTS.

Mr. STONE introduced a bill (H. R. 1144) prohibiting the establishment of private lights, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS.

Mr. STONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1145) to authorize the accounting officers of the Treasury to pass upon certain claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARIA N. PARKER.

Mr. STONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1146) granting a pension to Maria N. Parker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL BROOKINGS.

Mr. STONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1147) granting a pension to Samuel Brookings; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARIA E. A. B. NOWELL.

Mr. STONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1148) granting a pension to Maria E. A. B. Nowell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDRE THISSELL.

Mr. STONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1149) granting a pension to Andre Thissell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE E. COFFIN.

Mr. STONE, of Massachusetts, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1150) granting a pension to Catharine E. Coffin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LIEUT. WILLIAM P. RANDALL, UNITED STATES NAVY.

Mr. ALLEN introduced a bill (H. R. 1151) authorizing the President of the United States to appoint Lieut. William P. Randall a lieutenant-commander on the retired-list of the Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ELLEN S. TOLMAN.

Mr. ALLEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1152) for the relief of Mrs. Ellen S. Tolman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SPRINGFIELD PORT OF DELIVERY.

Mr. ROCKWELL introduced a bill (H. R. 1153) to establish a port of delivery at Springfield, in the State of Massachusetts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Mr. ROCKWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1154) providing for the erection of a public building at Springfield, Mass.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

LUMBER ON THE FREE-LIST.

Mr. ELDREDGE introduced a bill (H. R. 1155) to put all kinds of lumber on the free-list; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

ALVIRA A. RIGGS.

Mr. ELDREDGE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1156) granting back pay to Alvira A. Riggs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. L. DIVINE.

Mr. ELDREDGE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1157) granting a pension to J. L. Divine; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOCAL INSPECTORS, MICHIGAN DISTRICT.

Mr. CUTCHEON introduced a bill (H. R. 1158) to amend section 4414 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, fixing the compensation of local inspectors of hulls and boilers in the Michigan district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITIONAL LIGHT-HOUSE DISTRICT.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1159) to authorize the creation of an additional light-house district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

EMERGENCY FUND, INDIAN TRIBES.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1160) to create an emergency fund for the benefit of Indian tribes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF PENSION.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1161) to increase the pensions of widows and orphans of soldiers and sailors, and for other purposes; which read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1162) to reform the civil service and to preserve the constitutional distinction between legislative and executive duties by the organization of a bureau of civil appointments; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

GRANT OF PENSIONS.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1163) granting pensions to certain soldiers and sailors of the United States in the late war who have attained the age of sixty-two years and who are disabled from gaining a livelihood or who are dependent; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MILITARY RECORD OF ORLANDO B. WILCOX.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1164) to complete the military record of Orlando B. Wilcox, late colonel of the First Michigan Volunteer Infantry and brigadier-general of volunteers, and to give him pay in accordance with his completed record; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF PENSION.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1165) to increase the pensions of soldiers and sailors who have suffered amputation of an arm or a leg; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLINTON SPENCER.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1166) to increase the pension of Clinton Spencer, late captain First Michigan Infantry Volunteers, for loss of right leg and injury to left arm; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES A. BATES.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1167) for the relief of James A. Bates, captain and brevet lieutenant-colonel, United States Army, retired; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. ROWE.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1168) for the relief of William B. Rowe, late a surgeon of Company A, Ninth Michigan Volunteer Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CORNELIUS M. HADLEY.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1169) for the relief of Cornelius M. Hadley, late a surgeon of Company F, Ninth Michigan Volunteer Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PAYMENT OF BOUNTY.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1170) to provide for the payment of a bounty of $100 to soldiers and enlisted men in the military service of the United States under the act of July 22, 1861, and who were discharged by reason of surgeon's certificate of disability or for promotion before the expiration of two years, and who have not received $100 bounty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MUSTER AND PAY OF CERTAIN OFFICERS, ETC.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1171) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men of the volunteer forces," approved June 3, 1884; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANKLIN THOMPSON.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1172) to remove the charge of desertion from the record of Franklin Thompson, alias S. E. E. Seelye; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. EDMUND G. FECHÉT.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1173) to correct the record of Capt. Edmund G. Fechét; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ELVIRA BLISS SHELDON.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1174) granting a pension to Elvira Bliss Sheldon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. HARRIET CLIFFORD.

Mr. CUTCHEON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1175) to increase the pension of Mrs. Harriet Clifford; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CALVIN H. FRENCH.

Mr. CUTCHEON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1176) granting a pension to Calvin H. French; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM J. BARKER.

Mr. CUTCHEON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1177) granting a pension to William J. Barker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES W. RODECKER.

Mr. CUTCHEON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1178) for the relief of Charles W. Rodecker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF CHARLES B. SMITH.

Mr. CUTCHEON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1179) for the relief of the heirs of Charles B. Smith, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB STEED.

Mr. CUTCHEON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1180) granting a pension to Jacob Steed, late a private in Company A, Third Regiment of Ohio Volunteer Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW LAFFERTY.

Mr. CUTCHEON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1181) for the relief of Andrew Lafferty, of Muskegon County, State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MORGAN THOMPSON.

Mr. CUTCHEON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1182) granting a pension to Morgan Thompson, late of Company H, Nineteenth Wisconsin Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALANSON WOODWORTH.

Mr. CUTCHEON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1183) granting a pension to Alanson Woodworth, late of Company G, Second Michigan Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

STEPHEN GARDNER.

Mr. CARLETON introduced a bill (H. R. 1184) granting a pension to Stephen Gardner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EMMA H. FISH.

Mr. CARLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1185) for the relief of Emma H. Fish; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, SAINT CLAIR, MICH.

Mr. CARLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1186) to provide for the erection of a public building for the use of the post-office and other Government offices at the city of Saint Clair, in the State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, ROMEO, MICH.

Mr. CARLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1187) to provide for the erection of a public building for the use of the post-office and other Government offices at the city of Romeo, in the State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, MARINE CITY, MICH.

Mr. CARLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1188) to provide for the erection of a public building for the use of the post-office and other Government offices at Marine City, in the State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, LAPEER, MICH.

Mr. CARLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1189) to provide for the erection of a public building for the use of the post-office and other Government offices at the city of Lapeer, in the State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

SECTION 4492 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. CARLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1190) to amend section 4492, title 52, of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT MOUNT CLEMENS, MICH.

Mr. CARLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1191) to provide for the erection of a public building for the use of the post-office and other Government offices at the city of Mount Clemens, in the State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL W. HAMILTON.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) introduced a bill (H. R. 1192) for the relief of Samuel W. Hamilton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. EUNICE TRIPLER.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1193) for the relief of Mrs. Eunice Tripler, widow of Charles S. Tripler, surgeon United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS AGAINST GOVERNMENT.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1194) for the judicial finding of law and facts in cases of claims against the Government, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET KILROY.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1195) granting a pension to Margaret Kilroy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREE LUMBER.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1196) to admit lumber of all descriptions into the Territories of the United States free of customs duties; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

FREE SALT, LUMBER, ETC.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1197) to provide for the entry of ores of iron, lead, copper, and zinc, also of bituminous coal, salt, and lumber at all ports of the United States free of customs duties; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS ABEAR.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1198) granting a pension to Louis Abear, late a private in Company H, Fifth Michigan Volunteer Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET M'CRICKETT.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1199) granting a pension to Margaret McCrickett, widow of Michael J. McCrickett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EMPLOYMENT OF ALIENS AS ENGINEERS, ETC.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1200) to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize the employment of certain aliens as engineers and pilots," approved April 17, 1874; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

MARY HOWARD FARQUHAR.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1201) for the relief of Mary Howard Farquhar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF W. A. BURT.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1202) for the relief of the heirs of the late William A. Burt, inventor of the solar compass adopted and used by the United States Government in making the original survey of the public domain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD HAWLEY & SONS.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1203) for the relief of Richard Hawley & Sons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

OVERFLOWED LANDS IN MICHIGAN.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1204) setting apart the marsh and overflowed or shallow-water lands in and bordering upon Saint Clair, in the State of Michigan, for a national shooting and fishing resort or reservation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS DETROIT RIVER.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1205) for the construction of a bridge across the west channel of the Detroit River, to connect Bell Isle Park with the mainland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

LICENSE FEES.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 38) requesting the Attorney-General of the United States to examine and report to Congress the license fees collected in the several States and Territories and discriminating against non-residents; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

COMMERCIAL RELATIONS WITH CANADA.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 39) requesting the Secretary of State to report to Congress the action of the Government under the provisions of the act approved June 19, 1878, relative to commercial relations with the Dominion of Canada; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 40) for renewal of commercial relations with the British possessions in North America; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD W. M'GINNIS.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1206) for the relief of Edward W. McGinnis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD BYRNE.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) introduced a bill (H. R. 1207) for the relief of Edward Byrne; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PRIVATE LAND CLAIM, NEW MEXICO.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1208) to confirm a certain private land claim in the Territory of New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MAJ. WILLIAM M. MAYNADIER.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1209) for the relief of Maj. William M. Maynadier, a paymaster in the United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. CROOK.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1210) for the relief of William H. Crook; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BASIL MORELAND.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1211) for the relief of Basil Moreland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EGBERT THOMPSON.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1212) for the relief of the legal representatives of Egbert Thompson, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE A. IAEGER.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1213) for the relief of George A. Iaeger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCES DENMEAD.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. H. 1214) for the relief of Frances Denmead; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARCUS A. RENO.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1215) for the relief of Marcus A. Reno; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARY M'INTOSH.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1216) granting an increase of pension to Mrs. Mary McIntosh, widow of Lieutenant McIntosh, Seventh Cavalry, United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES MILLINGER.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1217) for the relief of James Millinger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARIA V. BROWN.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1218) for the relief of Maria V. Brown, assignee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ELIZA E. HEBERT.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1219) for the relief of Mrs. Eliza E. Hebert, widow of Jules J. Hebert, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS STATEN ISLAND SOUND.

Mr. MAYBURY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1220) to authorize the construction of a bridge across Staten Island Sound, known as Arthur Kill, and to establish the same as a post-road; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURTS AT SAGINAW, MICH.

Mr. TARSNEY (by Mr. CARLETON) introduced a bill (H. R. 1221) to provide for holding the terms of the circuit and district courts of the United States for the eastern district of Michigan at East Saginaw, in said district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF SECTION 4458 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. TARSNEY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1222) to repeal section 4458 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF CAPTAINS, PILOTS, AND MATES ON STEAM-VESSELS.

Mr. TARSNEY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1223) for the relief of captains, pilots, and mates on steam-vessels; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, EAST SAGINAW, MICH.

Mr. TARSNEY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1224) for the erection of a public building at East Saginaw, Mich.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

EVIDENCE IN PENSION CASES.

Mr. TARSNEY (by Mr. CARLETON) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1225) to regulate evidence in certain cases in the Pension Office of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CULTIVATION OF SUGAR.

Mr. O'DONNELL introduced a bill (H. R. 1226) to repeal the duty on sugar and provide for the payment of a bounty for the cultivation of sugar in the United States of America; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, JACKSON, MICH.

Mr. O'DONNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1227) to provide for the construction of a public building at Jackson, in the State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

HARRY B. AND GRACE A. HARRINGTON.

Mr. O'DONNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1228) granting a pension to Harry B. Harrington and Grace A. Harrington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREEMAN W. HOWE.

Mr. O'DONNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1229) granting a pension to Freeman W. Howe; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZA CAMPBELL.

Mr. O'DONNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1230) granting a pension to Eliza Campbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIJAH BOTTOMLEY.

Mr. O'DONNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1231) granting a pension to Elijah Bottomley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. BOWKER.

Mr. O'DONNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1232) granting a pension to George W. Bowker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT MARQUETTE, MICH.

Mr. MOFFATT introduced a bill (H. R. 1233) to increase the appropriation for the erection of a public building at Marquette, Mich.;

which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

DELBERT DORMAN.

Mr. COMSTOCK introduced a bill (H. R. 1234) for the relief of Delbert Dorman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES KENNEY.

Mr. COMSTOCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 1235) for the relief of James Kenney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FELIX M'KITTRICK.

Mr. COMSTOCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 1236) providing for the payment of the claim of Felix McKittrick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS AT GRAND HAVEN, MICH.

Mr. COMSTOCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 1237) to provide for the erection of public buildings at Grand Haven, Mich.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

TIMBER-CULTURE.

Mr. STRAIT introduced a bill (H. R. 1238) to amend an act entitled "An act to encourage the growth of timber on the Western prairies," approved June 14, 1878; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

SETTLERS ON RAILROAD LANDS.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1239) for the relief of settlers on railroad lands; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1240) to reduce the price of public lands within railroad limits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1241) relating to the public lands and to provide for the classification and disposition of the pine-timber lands belonging to the public domain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

SWAMP LANDS IN MINNESOTA.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1242) for the relief of certain settlers on swamp lands in Minnesota; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

MILITIA.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1243) to amend section 1661 of the Revised Statutes, making an annual appropriation to provide arms for the militia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Militia, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE STORRS.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1244) for the relief of George Storrs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF SHAKOPEE, MINN.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1245) to authorize the increase of the capital stock of the First National Bank of Shakopee, Minn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

SIOUX WAR, MINNESOTA.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1246) for the relief of citizens who were engaged in the suppression of the Sioux Indian war in Minnesota in 1862; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISABELLA H. SILVEY.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1247) granting an increase of pension to Isabella H. Silvey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY M. TAYLOR.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1248) for the relief of Mary M. Taylor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET T. RYAN.

Mr. STRAIT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1249) for the relief of Margaret T. Ryan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES R. BLAIR.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, introduced a bill (H. R. 1250) for the relief of Charles R. Blair; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD PENDERGAST.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1251) granting an increase of pension to Edward Pendergast; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EUGENIA A. SMALLEY.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1252) granting a pension to Eugenia A. Smalley and her children; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL BANK OF WINONA.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1253) to change the name of the National Bank of Winona; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

MARY HOFF.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1254) granting a pension to Mary Hoff; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC MOORE.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1255) granting a pension to Isaac Moore; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES HEALY.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1256) for the relief of James Healy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ASLANG O. STUGO.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1257) granting an increase of pension to Mrs. Aslang O. Stugo; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

H. K. BELDING.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1258) for the relief of H. K. Belding; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ABIGAIL WEYMOUTH.

Mr. WHITE, of Minnesota, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1259) granting a pension to Abigail Weymouth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Mr. GILFILLAN introduced a bill (H. R. 1260) to authorize the increase of the capital stock of the First National Bank of Minneapolis, Minn., not to exceed $2,000,000; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY A. PAUS.

Mr. GILFILLAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1261) for the relief of Henry A. Paus; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN COOK.

Mr. GILFILLAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1262) for the relief of the estate of John Cook; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JARED D. WHEELOCK.

Mr. GILFILLAN (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1263) granting a pension to Jared D. Wheelock; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE F. ROBERTS.

Mr. GILFILLAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1264) for the relief of George F. Roberts, administrator of the estate of William B. Thayer, deceased, surviving partner of Thayer Brothers, and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES D. WOOD.

Mr. GILFILLAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1265) for the relief of James D. Wood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

A message in writing was received from the President, by Mr. PRUDEN, one of his secretaries, announcing that the President had approved and signed, December 21, 1885, joint resolution (H. Res. 2) to pay the officers and employés of the Senate and House of Representatives their respective salaries for the month of December, 1885, on the 21st day of said month, and that he had approved and signed, December 26, 1885, joint resolution (H. Res. 1) authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to use a portion of the Interior fund to fit up rooms for the Commissioner of Patents.

EXTENSION OF FREE LIST.

Mr. NELSON introduced a bill (H. R. 1266) to place hemp, manila, sisal grass, and all thread, twine, rope, and cordage from the same on the free list; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

LIGHT-HOUSE, TWO HARBORS, MINN.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1267) relating to the construction of a light-house at Two Harbors, Minn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, DULUTH, MINN.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1268) to provide for the construction of a public building in the city of Duluth, Minn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

RED LAKE INDIAN RESERVATION.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1269) in relation to the Red Lake Indian reservation, Minnesota; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DAM ACROSS THE MISSISSIPPI.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1270) to authorize the Mississippi Water Power and Boom Company, of Brainerd, Minn., to construct a dam across the Mississippi River; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

NORTHERN JUDICIAL DISTRICT, MINNESOTA.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1271) to establish the northern judicial district of Minnesota; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

BASIL H. BEAULEIU.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1272) to refer the claim of Basil H. Beauleiu and others to the Court of Claims for adjustment; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL J. BROWN.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1273) for the relief of Samuel J. Brown; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES L. KASSON.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1274) granting a pension to James L. Kasson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM TURVILLE.

Mr. NELSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1275) granting a pension to William Turville; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN WADDAMS.

Mr. WAKEFIELD introduced a bill (H. R. 1276) for the relief of John Waddams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHANNA RABERLE.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1277) for the relief of Johanna Raberle; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANN BIRD.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1278) granting a pension to Ann Bird for services as nurse during the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DARIUS M. SEAMAN.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1279) granting a pension to Darius M. Seaman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FERRY ACROSS THE MISSOURI RIVER.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1280) to authorize Frank W. Hunt to erect and maintain a ferry across the Missouri River at the military reservation of Fort Buford, Dak.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHANNA PAUL AND ANNA KABERLA.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1281) granting a pension to Johanna Paul and Anna Kaberla; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM L. SLOAN.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1282) granting a pension to William L. Sloan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES D. HATCH.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1283) granting a pension to Charles D. Hatch; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICERS' ACCOUNTS.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1284) to continue the act to authorize the settlement of the accounts of officers of the Army and Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ELI WEBB.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1285) for the relief of Eli Webb; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANGELINE BROMAGHIN.

Mr. WAKEFIELD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1286) granting a pension to Angeline Bromaghin, of Janesville, Minn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GULF AND SHIP ISLAND RAILROAD.

Mr. BARKSDALE introduced a bill (H. R. 1287) to extend the time for building the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad in the State of Mississippi, and continuing the land grant for the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

COINAGE OF STANDARD SILVER DOLLARS.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1288) to remove the restrictions on the coinage of the standard silver dollar imposed by the act of February 28, 1878, and to coin the same on the same conditions prescribed for gold; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

UNPAID WAR TAXES.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1289) to prevent the unpaid war taxes under the act of August 5, 1861, and acts amendatory thereof from being held as set-offs against the States having claims against the General Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1290) granting pensions to the soldiers and sailors of the Mexican war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1291) to repeal section 4 of an act approved March 3, 1883, providing for and limiting the investigation of claims against the United States by the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. KATE MILLER.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1292) granting a pension to Mrs. Kate Miller, widow of Joseph H. Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN CLEARY.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1293) for the relief of John Cleary; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN F. JONES.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1294) for the relief of Benjamin F. Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM EVANS.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1295) for the relief of William Evans; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN L. LAKE, JR.

Mr. BARKSDALE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1296) for the relief of John L. Lake, jr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CORRESPONDENCE OF W. VAN MURRAY.

Mr. BARKSDALE also submitted a resolution to inquire into the expediency of purchasing the diplomatic correspondence of William Van Murray for the use of the Congressional Library; which was referred to the Committee on the Library.

CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY.

Mr. SINGLETON introduced a bill (H. R. 1297) authorizing the construction of a building for the accommodation of the Congressional Library; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. SINGLETON. I want unanimous consent that the diagram accompanying the bill and showing the proposed location be printed with it.

There was no objection, and it was so ordered.

EXPENSE OF PUBLIC PRINTING, ETC.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1298) to reduce the expense of the public binding and printing, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

L. B. F. CHAMPION.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1299) for the relief of L. B. F. Champion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PASCHAL D. HAMMACK.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1300) for the relief of Paschal D. Hammack; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HELEN LOGGINS.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1301) for the relief of Helen Loggins, administratrix; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILEY A. PULLIN.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1302) for the relief of Wiley A. Pullin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL HERD.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1303) for the relief of Samuel Herd; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES G. GILMER.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1304) for the relief of Charles G. Gilmer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM F. HARALSON.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1305) for the relief of William F. Haralson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET CHAMPION.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1306) for the relief of Margaret Champion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JULIA A. THOMAS, ADMINISTRATRIX.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1307) for the relief of Julia A. Thomas, administratrix of Josh G. Greer, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TURNER BABBITT.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1308) for the relief of Turner Babbitt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES H. JOHNSON.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1309) for the relief of Charles H. Johnson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

T. J. DENSON, ADMINISTRATOR.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1310) for the relief of T. J. Denson, administrator of the estate of George W. McCabe; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC HARALSON.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1311) for the relief of Isaac Haralson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCES E. GIBSON.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1312) for the relief of the legal representatives of Frances E. Gibson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

L. B. F. CHAMPION.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1313) for the relief of L. B. F. Champion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

W. H. WALLACE, ADMINISTRATOR.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1314) for the relief of W. H. Wallace, administrator; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANKLIN SESSIONS.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1315) for the relief of Franklin Sessions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RUTH SUMMERS, ADMINISTRATRIX.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1316) for the relief of Ruth Summers, administratrix; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE C. HARPER.

Mr. SINGLETON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1317) for the relief of George C. Harper; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER P. STEWART.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill (H. R. 1318) for the relief of Alexander P. Stewart from disabilities imposed by the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT D. FORT.

Mr. MORGAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1319) to increase the pension of Robert D. Fort; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH D. HERROD.

Mr. MORGAN (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1320) for the relief of Sarah D. Herrod; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and orderedto be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. ALLEN (by Mr. MORGAN) introduced a bill (H. R. 1321) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several States under the provisions of the act approved July 2, 1882, and of acts supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS KILLEEN.

Mr. MORGAN (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 1322) to place the name of Francis Killeen on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM KILLEEN.

Mr. MORGAN (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1323) to place the name of William Killeen on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ESTATE OF JOHN C. THOMPSON, DECEASED.

Mr. MORGAN (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1324) for the relief of the estate of John C. Thompson, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS D. FRENCH.

Mr. CATCHINGS introduced a bill (H. R. 1325) for the relief of Thomas D. French, of Vicksburg, Miss.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ROWENA CLARKE.

Mr. CATCHINGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1326) for the relief of Mrs. Rowena Clarke, of Mississippi; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LOUISA O. LOVELL AND OTHERS.

Mr. CATCHINGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1327) for the relief of Louisa O. Lovell and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT VICKSBURG, MISS.

Mr. CATCHINGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1328) to provide a building for the use of the United States courts, post-office, customs offices, and internal-revenue office at Vicksburg, Miss.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF HARPER P. HUNT, DECEASED.

Mr. CATCHINGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1329) for the relief of the heirs of Harper P. Hunt, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARTIN TAYLOR.

Mr. CATCHINGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1330) granting a pension to Martin Taylor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MADELEINE VINTON DAHLGREN.

Mr. VAN EATON introduced a bill (H. R. 1331) for the relief of Madeleine Vinton Dahlgren, widow of the late Rear-Admiral John A. Dahlgren, United States Navy, and administratrix of his estate; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JULIA A. NUTT.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1332) for the relief of Julia A. Nutt, widow and executrix of Haller Nutt, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY M. ST. JOHN.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1333) for the relief of Mary M. St. John; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JANE JONES.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1334) for the relief of Jane Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB MASSIER.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1335) for the relief of Jacob Massier; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE OVER BAYOU BARNARD, MISS.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1336) to authorize the construction of a bridge over Bayou Barnard, in the State of Mississippi; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PROTESTANT ORPHAN ASYLUM, NATCHEZ, MISS.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1337) for the relief of the Protestant Orphan Asylum of Natchez, in the State of Mississippi; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MILTON S. SHIRK.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1338) for the relief of Milton S. Shirk; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CASIMER SUFFEZYNSKI.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1339) for the relief of Casimer Suffezynski; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

W. J. POITEVENT.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1340) for the relief of W. J. Poitevent; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL CEMETERY, NATCHEZ, MISS.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1341) to construct a road to the national cemetery at Natchez, Miss.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM J. POITEVENT.

Mr. VAN EATON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1342) for the relief of William J. Poitevent; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FREE LUMBER.

Mr. DOCKERY introduced a bill (H. R. 1343) to exempt from customs duties all timber and lumber used in the construction of houses, fences, ships, steam-vessels, barges, and other boats; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. H. GILLESPIE.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1344) granting a pension to William H. H. Gillespie; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATHANIEL H. BLAKELY.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1345) granting a pension to Nathaniel H. Blakely; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT A. HEWITT.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1346) restoring to the pension-roll the name of Robert A. Hewitt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER EVANS.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1347) granting a pension to Alexander Evans; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PERNETTA HENDLEY.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1348) for the relief of Pernetta Hendley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM R. PRICE.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1349) for the relief of William R. Price; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF J. J. GALTNEY, DECEASED.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1350) for the relief of the heirs of J. J. Galtney, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW J. FULLER.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1351) to restore to the pension-roll the name of Andrew J. Fuller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC CHENOWETH.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1352) granting a pension to Isaac Chenoweth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

COMMITTEE CLERKS.

Mr. DOCKERY also submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Accounts:

Resolved, That the Committee on Accounts be, and it is hereby, authorized and directed to designate the committees which, in the judgment of the said committee, should be allowed clerks for the present Congress under the legislative, judicial, and executive appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1886, and report to the House without delay for its action thereon.

JOHN HOW, INDIAN AGENT.

Mr. DOCKERY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1353) for the relief of the estate of John How, Indian agent, and his sureties; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CLERK POST-OFFICE COMMITTEE.

Mr. DOCKERY also submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Accounts:

Resolved, That the clerkship of the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads be, and the same is hereby, declared an annual clerkship, with compensation of $2,000 per annum, and that the Clerk of the House is hereby authorized to pay the clerk of said committee out of the contingent fund for the present session compensation at the above rate.

BUCKNER BILL.

Mr. DOCKERY also presented a concurrent resolution of the Legislature of Missouri, relating to legislation to defeat the Buckner bill to suspend the further coinage of silver; which was referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

FEDERAL RECEIVERS.

Mr. DOCKERY also presented a concurrent resolution of the Legislature of Missouri, relating to legislation authorizing receivers of railroad companies appointed by Federal courts to be sued in local State courts and preserve the right of trial by jury in such suits; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

PENSIONS TO SOLDIERS OF MEXICAN WAR.

Mr. DOCKERY also presented a concurrent resolution of the Legislature of Missouri, favoring the passage of the bill giving pensions to the surviving soldiers of the Mexican war; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

MISSOURI WAR DEBT

Mr. DOCKERY also presented a concurrent resolution of the Legislature of Missouri, requesting legislation for the auditing and adjusting the war debt of Missouri and providing for the appointment of a commissioner for determining the same; which was referred to the Committee on War Claims.

RODNEY D. WELLS.

Mr. GLOVER (by Mr. DOCKERY) introduced a bill (H. R. 1354) for the relief of Rodney D. Wells; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PETER KUMPF.

Mr. GLOVER (by Mr. DOCKERY) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1355) for the relief of Peter Kumpf; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES CUSTOM-HOUSE AT KANSAS CITY, MO.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, introduced a bill (H. R. 1356) making an appropriation for the extension and enlargement of the United States custom-house at Kansas City, Mo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

COURT OF CLAIMS.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1357) authorizing the Court of Claims to hear and determine certain claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ASSIGNMENT OF RETIRED OFFICERS, UNITED STATES ARMY.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1358) authorizing the assignment of retired officers, United States Army, to certain duties; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HOMES FOR INDIANS, ETC.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1359) to provide homes for Indians and for the distribution of certain surplus lands; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE MISSOURI RIVER.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1360) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River at some accessible point within ten miles below and five miles above the city of Kansas City, Mo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

NIVA D. GWYNNE.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1361) granting a pension to Niva D. Gwynne; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

M. B. MOSELY.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1362) for the relief of M. B. Mosely; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. ROBESON.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1363) for the relief of the legal representatives of John M. Robeson, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS TO TELEGRAPH OPERATORS.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1364) for the relief of telegraph operators during the war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES BRICE.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1365) for the relief of James Brice; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BOGGS & ALLEN.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1366) for the relief of Boggs & Allen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS G. NEWMAN.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1367) to place the name of Thomas G. Newman upon the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET BLAKE.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1368) for the relief of Margaret Blake; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE H. PERKINS.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1369) granting a pension to George H. Perkins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LYDIA A. MAGILL.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1370) for the relief of Lydia A. Magill, administratrix of the estate of John C. Magill, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN A. S. TUTT.

Mr. WARNER, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1371) for the relief of the heirs of John A. S. Tutt, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SWAMP AND OVERFLOWED LANDS.

Mr. HEARD introduced a bill (H. R. 1372) to extend the provisions of an act approved March 2, 1855, entitled, "An act for the relief of purchasers and locators of swamp and overflowed lands, and for other purposes;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

INTEREST ON WAR LOANS.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1373) to reimburse the several States for interest paid on war loans, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI HOME GUARD.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1374) to authorize the Secretary of War to furnish certificates of the discharge of certain members of the Missouri Home Guard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1375) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several States and Territories under the provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862, and an act supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, SEDALIA, MO.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1376) to provide for the erection of a public building in the city of Sedalia, in the State of Missouri; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI WAR CLAIMS.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1377) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to cause to be examined certain vouchers filed or to be filed by the State of Missouri, or her agent or agents, for sums claimed to be due from the Government of the United States on account of payments made by said State since April 22, 1882, to the officers and enlisted men of her militia forces for military services rendered to the United States in the suppression of the rebellion, as evidenced by the proper payrolls heretofore filed with, examined and accepted by, the Government of the United States, and to report to Congress; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALFRED HEAD.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1378) for the relief of Alfred Head; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EUGENE WELLS.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1379) for the relief Eugene Wells; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

W. G. WEAR.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1380) for the relief of W. G. Wear; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH M. PILKINGTON.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1381) for the relief of Joseph M. Pilkington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARIA E. WARFIELD.

Mr. HEARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1382) for the relief of Maria E. Warfield; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI JUDICIAL DISTRICTS.

Mr. STONE, of Missouri, introduced a bill (H. R. 1383) to amend an act entitled "An act to divide the western district of Missouri into two divisions, and to prescribe the times and places of holding courts therein, and for other purposes," approved January 21, 1879, so as to divide the western district of Missouri into three divisions, and to prescribe the times and places for holding courts therein, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

SUITS AGAINST RECEIVERS, ETC.

Mr. STONE, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1384) to authorize certain suits in the courts of a State against receivers or other trustees appointed by the circuit courts of the United States in certain cases, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURTS.

Mr. STONE, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1385) to determine the jurisdiction of the circuit courts of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS N. LOYD.

Mr. STONE, of Missouri (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 1386) granting a pension to Thomas N. Loyd; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL CONES.

Mr. STONE, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1387) for the relief of Samuel Cones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HARMON CONLEY.

Mr. STONE, of Missouri, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1388) for the relief of Harmon Conley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ACCOUNTS OF ARMY OFFICERS.

Mr. WADE introduced a bill (H. R. 1389) to provide for the settlement of the accounts of officers of the Army who served during the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. J. GIDEON.

Mr. WADE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1390) for the relief of J. J. Gideon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT SPRINGFIELD, MO.

Mr. WADE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1391) to provide for the erection of a public building in Springfield, Mo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

S. S. ROBINSON.

Mr. WADE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1392) to restore the name of S. S. Robinson, late of the Sixteenth United States Infantry, to the Army, and place him on the retired-list; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LEVI KOONTZ.

Mr. WADE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1393) for the relief of Levi Koontz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

W. B. ADCOCK.

Mr. WADE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1394) for the relief of W. B. Adcock; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

V. L. WIGGINS.

Mr. WADE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1395) to pension V. L. Wiggins, late private of Company F, Fourth Illinois Cavalry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARTIN KIRK.

Mr. WADE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1396) for the relief of Martin Kirk, late private in Company E, Eighth Regiment Missouri Cavalry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BENNETT D. BAILEY.

Mr. WADE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1397) for the relief of Bennett D. Bailey, First Arkansas Cavalry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SILAS S. WHITE.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, introduced a bill (H. R. 1398) to grant a pension to Silas S. White; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PHEBE MARTIN.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1399) granting a pension to Phebe Martin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALBERT COTTON.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1400) to relieve Albert Cotton from the charge of desertion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT BEATRICE, NEBR.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1401) for the erection of a public building at the city of Beatrice, Nebr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURTS AT NEBRASKA CITY.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1402) to provide for the holding of the terms of the district and circuit courts of the United States at Nebraska City, Nebr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS IN NEBRASKA.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1403) to divide the State of Nebraska into two judicial districts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

FILING OF TRANSCRIPTS OF JUDGMENTS IN UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1404) requiring transcripts of judgments obtained in the United States courts to be filed with county officers having charge of judgment records in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW M. JORDON.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1405) granting a pension to Andrew M. Jordon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SIMMONS W. HARDEN.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1406) granting a pension to Simmons W. Harden; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EXTENSION OF PROVISIONS OF ACT OF JUNE 10, 1880.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1407) to extend the provisions of the act of June 10, 1880, entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to the immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," to the port of Omaha, State of Nebraska; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

WALTER NELSON.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1408) for the relief of Walter Nelson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JEREMIAH BUFFINGTON.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1409) granting a pension to Jeremiah Buffington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1410) declaring the time the costs of surveying, selecting, and conveying should have been paid by the railroad company under the Pacific railroad acts, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE MISSOURI NEAR NEBRASKA CITY.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1411) to amend an act authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River opposite to or within the corporate limits of Nebraska City, Nebraska, approved June 4, 1872; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

INSTRUCTIONS TO JURIES IN UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1412) to provide that judges of the United States circuit and district courts shall reduce their instructions to juries to writing in all States wherein by the laws thereof State judges are required so to do; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF SETTLERS ON THE PUBLIC DOMAIN, NEBRASKA.

Mr. LAIRD introduced a bill (H. R. 1413) for the relief of settlers and purchasers of lands on the public domain in the States of Nebraska and Kansas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURE OF LANDS FOR RAILOAD AND TELEGRAPH LINES.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1414) forfeiting to the United States all lands heretofore granted by Congress in aid of the construction of railroad or telegraph lines upon which the cost of surveying, selecting, and conveying have not been paid, as required by law; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

ACQUISITION OF PROPERTY BY ALIENS.

Mr. LAIRD introduced a bill (H. R. 1415) to prevent the acquisition of property by aliens, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE S. COMSTOCK.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1416) for the relief of George

S. Comstock; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES BAINTER.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1417) for the relief of James Bainter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY MARTIN.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1418) for the relief of Henry Martin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MOSES FULLINGTON.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1419) granting a pension to Moses Fullington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WESLEY MONTGOMERY.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1420) for the relief of Wesley Montgomery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

STEPHEN C. MONROE.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1421) to rerate the pension of Stephen C. Monroe; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JUDGMENTS IN UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1422) requiring transcripts of judgments obtained in United States courts to be filed with county officers having charge of judgment records in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PROOF IN PENSION CASES.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1423) regulating the proof required in certain pension cases, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. WHITAKER.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1424) for the relief of John H. Whitaker, guardian; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DELIA G. WEBBER.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1425) granting a pension to Delia G. Webber; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PATSEY JACKSON.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1426) granting a pension to Patsey Jackson, widow of the late James S. Jackson, brigadier-general, United States Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICERS OF VOLUNTEER ARMY.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1427) for the relief of certain officers of the volunteer army, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN F. POPE.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1428) to confirm the title of Benjamin F. Pope to his office of assistant surgeon in the Army of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURTS IN NEBRASKA.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1429) to provide for the holding of a term of the district and circuit courts of the United States at Hastings, Nebr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID STONECYPHER.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1430) for the relief of David Stonecypher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PAY OF HOSPITAL STEWARDS.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1431) to equalize the pay of hospital stewards of the Army with that of other officers of like rank; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. TIBBITS.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1432) for the relief of W. H. Tibbits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES H. HOLT.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1433) for the relief of Charles H. Holt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT HASTINGS, NEBR.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1434) for the erection of a public building at Hastings, Nebr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE S. FISHER.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1435) to reimburse George S. Fisher for losses sustained by fire in Japan, November 26, 1866; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

INFANTRY BRANCH OF THE ARMY.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1436) to increase the efficiency of the infantry branch of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

BRANCH SOLDIERS' HOME.

Mr. LAIRD aiso introduced a bill (H. R. 1437) to authorize the location of a branch home for volunteer disabled soldiers in either of the States of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Colorado or Dakota Territory, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LIMITATION OF ARREARS OF PENSIONS.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1438) to remove the limitation in the payment of arrears of pensions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL M'ALPIN.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1439) for the relief of Daniel McAlpin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN BENSON.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1440) granting a pension to John Benson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD HILL.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1441) granting increase of pension to Edward Hill, late of the Sixteenth Michigan Volunteer Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TWO NEW CAVALRY REGIMENTS.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 41) authorizing the President of the United States to raise two regiments of volunteer cavalry in the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona to suppress Indian hostilities therein; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL LANDS.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 42) requesting the Commissioner of the General Land Office to furnish certain information to Congress concerning the suspension of the issuance of patents to lands taken by settlers thereon pursuant to law, and requiring that officer to pass to patent all agricultural lands taken pursuant to law against which no contest is pending or against which no specific charge is proved or pending; which was referred to the Committee on the Public Lands.

LAND-GRANT RAILROADS.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 43) directing the Secretary of the Interior to require all land-grant railroads to file a release of lands covered by the terms of their grants before taking other lands in lieu thereof, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD W. M'GINNIS.

Mr. LAIRD (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1442) for the relief of Edward W. McGinnis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE A. IAEGER.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1443) for the relief of George A. Iaeger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD BYRNE.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1444) for the relief of Edward Byrne; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARY M'INTOSH.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1445) granting an increase of pension to Mrs. Mary McIntosh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS DENMEAD.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1446) for the relief of Francis Denmead; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARCUS A. RENO.

Mr. LAIRD also introduced a bill (H. R. 1447) for the relief of Marcus A. Reno; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITIONAL LAND OFFICES.

Mr. DORSEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1448) to establish two additional land offices in the State of Nebraska; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY B. JAY.

Mr. DORSEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1449) to remove the charge of desertion from military record of Henry B. Jay; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES B. SIGNOR.

Mr. DORSEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1450) for the relief of Charles B. Signor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

OTTO SCHITTLER.

Mr. DORSEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1451) granting a pension to Otto Schittler, late assistant surgeon One hundred and twenty-ninth Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

D. O. ADKINSON.

Mr. WOODBURN introduced a bill (H. R. 1452) for the relief of D. O. Adkinson, postmaster of Virginia City, Nev.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. KINKEAD AND OTHERS.

Mr. WOODBURN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1453) referring to the Court of Claims for adjudication the claims of John H. Kinkead, Samuel Sussman, and Charles O. Wood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELECTION OF SENATORS.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) introduced a bill (H. R. 1454) to amend section 14 of the Revised Statutes of the United States concerning the election of Senators; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

LYSANDER H. CARROLL.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1455) for the relief of Lysander H. Carroll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LYDIA A. NELSON.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1456) granting a pension to Lydia A. Nelson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD B. HOLT.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1457) granting an increase of pension to Edward B. Holt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATHANIEL W. DAVIS.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1458) granting a pension to Nathaniel W. Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

M. LOUISE BUTLER.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1459) granting an increase of pension to M. Louise Butler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES H. ORDWAY.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1460) granting an increase of pension to Charles H. Ordway; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LISETTA W. SPAULDING.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1461) granting a pension to Lisetta W. Spaulding; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADDIE L. MACOMBER.

Mr. GALLINGER (by Mr. HAYNES) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1462) granting a pension to Addie L. Macomber; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL MARCY.

Mr. HAYNES introduced a bill (H. R. 1463) directing the Secretary of the Treasury to refund money wrongfully paid for duties on imports by Daniel Marcy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID WEBSTER.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1464) for the relief of David Webster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TELEGRAPH OPERATORS DURING THE WAR.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1465) for the relief of telegraph operators during the war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD WOOD.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1466) regulating the retired pay and allowances to Richard Wood, United States Marine Corps; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committtee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, DOVER, N. H.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1467) to provide for the erection of a public building in the city of Dover, in the State of New Hampshire; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN P. DAVIS.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1468) increasing the pension of John P. Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOIS HOLT.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1469) granting a pension to Lois Holt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN E. LITTLE.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1470) granting a pension to John E. Little; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW J. HILL.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1471) increasing the pension of Andrew J. Hill; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY MURPHY.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1472) granting a pension to Mary Murphy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY CARR.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1473) granting a pension to Mary Carr; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY G. COLBY

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1474) granting a pension to Mary G. Colby; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET FLAHERTY.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1475) granting a pension to Margaret Flaherty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH H. ADAMS.

Mr. HAYNES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1476) granting a pension to Joseph H. Adams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRAUDULENT ENTRIES ON PUBLIC DOMAIN.

Mr. MCADOO introduced a bill (H. R. 1477) to prevent fraudulent entries on the public domain and to preserve the same for actual settlers in good faith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

VOTERS AND OFFICERS IN TERRITORIES.

Mr. MCADOO also introduced a bill (H. R. 1478) to prevent certain persons from voting at elections or holding office in the Territories of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

ALIENS ON PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. MCADOO also introduced a bill (H. R. 1479) to prevent aliens other than bona fide settlers from owning or leasing or using for grazing purposes lands in the Territories of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH E. MOORE.

Mr. MCADOO also introduced a bill (H. R. 1480) for the relief of Joseph E. Moore; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANN LOCKWOOD.

Mr. MCADOO also introduced a bill (H. R. 1481) for the relief of Ann Lockwood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SURVIVORS OF THE CUMBERLAND.

Mr. MCADOO also introduced a bill (H. R. 1482) to provide suitable medals for the survivors of the officers and crew of the United States sloop-of-war Cumberland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT.

Mr. MCADOO also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 44) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States for uniformity as to the day for choosing Presidential electors, and forbidding the voting for any other officers save Representatives in Congress at said election of President and Vice-President; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT PATERSON, N. J.

Mr. PHELPS introduced a bill (H. R. 1483) for the erection of a public building in Paterson, N. J.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

HANNAH STEVENTON.

Mr. PHELPS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1484) to place on the pension-roll the name of Hannah Steventon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. A. B. ALEXANDER.

Mr. PHELPS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1485) for the relief of Mrs. A. B. Alexander; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BATTLEFIELDS OF THE REVOLUTION.

Mr. PHELPS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1486) to encourage societies of the vicinage to erect monuments on the few important battlefields of the Revolution yet unmarked; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

WASHINGTON'S HEADQUARTERS AT MORRISTOWN, N. J.

Mr. PHELPS also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 45) to enlarge and improve Washington's headquarters, at Morristown, N. J.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

PROTECTION OF FISHERIES.

Mr. HIRES introduced a bill (H. R. 1487) for the protection of fisheries on the Atlantic coast; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, CAMDEN, N. J.

Mr. HIRES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1488) for the erection of a public building at Camden, N. J.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY R. PIERSON.

Mr. HIRES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1489) granting a pension to Henry R. Pierson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMY STANTON.

Mr. HIRES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1490) for the relief of Amy Stanton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH CURRIDEN.

Mr. HIRES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1491) for the relief of Joseph Curriden; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES BUTLER.

Mr. HIRES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1492) granting a pension to James Butler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF INTERNAL-REVENUE TAXES ON TOBACCO.

Mr. BUCHANAN introduced a bill (H. R. 1493) repealing the internal-revenue taxes upon tobacco and the various manufactures thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

CHARGES AGAINST PERSONS IN THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1494) to afford persons in the civil service of the United States an opportunity to inspect charges which may be filed against them and to reply thereto, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1495) creating a Department of Agriculture; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1496) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several States under the provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862, and of the acts supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

RETIREMENT AND RECOINAGE OF THE TRADE-DOLLAR.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1497) for the retirement and recoinage of the trade-dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF NAVAL RECRUITS FROM THE CHARGE OF DESERTION.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1498) extending the provisions and benefits of the act approved August 7, 1882, entitled "An act to relieve certain soldiers of the late war from desertion," to certain naval recruits serving in the said war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF SECTION 4718 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1499) to amend section 4718 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHANGING NAME OF THE PORT OF LAMBERTON.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1500) changing the name of the port of Lamberton, in the district of Burlington, N. J., to the port of Trenton, in said district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM DALTON.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1501) referring the claim of William Dalton to the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILBUR F. COGSWELL.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1502) for the relief of Wilbur F. Cogswell, late assistant engineer, United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE T. DUDLEY.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1503) for the relief of George T. Dudley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN W. ROSE.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1504) granting a pension to John W. Rose; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM DERMODY.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1505) granting a pension to William Dermody; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M'ANNY.

Mr. BUCHANAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1506) granting a pension to James McAnny; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADJUDICATION OF PENSION CLAIMS.

Mr. BUCHANAN also submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions:

Resolved, That the Committee on Invalid Pensions be, and they are hereby, instructed to inquire into the causes of the great delay in the adjudication of claims for invalid pensions; that they have power to send for persons and papers, and to report by bill or otherwise.

DRAWBACKS ON SUGAR.

Mr. BUCHANAN also submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means:

Be it resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and is hereby, directed to forward to this House a statement of the amount of raw sugars imported since July 1, 1883, the total amount and average rate of duty paid thereon, and a statement of the total amount of drawbacks refunded upon refined sugars exported since said date and the average rate per pound of such drawbacks, and a statement of the regulations adopted for determining the rate per pound of such drawbacks, and also a statement showing the average rate of such drawbacks refunded prior to the date when the tariff revision act of 1883 went into effect, together with copies of all communications on file in his Department in relation to drawbacks on sugar and filed since July 1, 1883.

OLIVER VAN BILLIARD.

Mr. PIDCOCK introduced a bill (H. R. 1507) for the relief of Oliver Van Billiard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARCUS A HAMILTON.

Mr. PIDCOCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 1508) for the relief of Marcus A. Hamilton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM P. VAN GORDEN.

Mr. PIDCOCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 1509) for the relief of William P. Van Gorden; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PEARL BUTTONS.

Mr. LEHLBACH introduced a bill (H. R. 1510) to amend the customs-revenue laws relative to pearl buttons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

SIDNEY R. SMITH.

Mr. LEHLBACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1511) for the relief of Sidney R. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SUSAN C. MANDEVILLE.

Mr. LEHLBACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1512) granting arrears of pension and pension to Susan C. Mandeville; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CONVENTION BETWEEN UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

Mr. HEWITT introduced a bill (H. R. 1513) to carry into effect a convention between the United States of America and Mexico signed on the 20th day of January, 1883; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

UNIFORM STANDARD OF VALUE.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1514) to secure a uniform standard of value; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

PURCHASE OF FOREIGN-BUILT SHIPS.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1515) amendatory of title 48 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, so as to authorize the purchase of foreign-built ships by citizens of the United States for use in the foreign-carrying trade; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

WIDOW OF COMMANDER T. A. M. CRAVEN.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1516) to increase the pension of the widow of the late Commander T. A. M. Craven; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GIFTS TO THE FRENCH BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1517) to admit free of duty gifts to the French Benevolent Society of New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

A. A. LOW & BROTHERS.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1518) for the relief of A. A. Low & Brothers; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SPRINGER). This bill will be referred to the Committee on Claims, not to the Committee on Ways and Means as indicated by the indorsement.

Mr. HEWITT. It is a bill relating to the national debt. It provides for the payment of a missing bond; and under the practice of the House and the well settled rule (I do not think the new rule applies to the case) all questions relating to the national debt should go the Committee on Ways and Means. The bill has been twice favorably reported to the House from that committee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is of opinion that it must go to the Committee on Claims, unless it be otherwise referred by unanimous consent.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BOUNDARY BETWEEN NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1519) to approve and confirm the agreement entered into by the States of New York and New Jersey concerning the boundary line between said States extending from the Hudson River to the Delaware River; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

SALE OF NEW YORK POST-OFFICE SITE.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 46) conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Claims to consider and determine the equitable interest of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York in the money realized by the sale of the post-office site in the city of New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY F. BLAKE.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1520) granting an increase of pension to Mary F. Blake; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PURCHASE OF PROPERTY FOR ARMY PURPOSES.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1521) making an appropriation for the purchase of the old Produce Exchange building, and the site bounded by Whitehall, Pearl, Moore, and Water streets, New York city, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD OULAHAN.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1522) for the relief of Richard Oulahan, late first lieutenant of the One hundred and sixty-fourth Regiment New York Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

OVERVALUATION OF AUSTRIAN FLORIN.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1523) to refund excessive duties caused by extraordinary overvaluation of the Austrian florin in the year 1878; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill under the new rules will go to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HEWITT. The Chair is of course well informed, but at the same time this matter was submitted to the House by the State Department, and originally went to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and was then transferred to the Committee on Ways and Means on the ground that it affected the valuation of the Austrian florin, which was a matter in which the Committee on Ways and Means was concerned and not the Committee on Foreign Affairs. It will sound in the repayment of an amount of money if it is allowed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will read the new rule under which the bill goes to the Committee on Claims.

The Clerk read as follows:

7. No bill for the payment or adjudication of any private claim against the Government shall be referred, except by unanimous consent, to any other than the following-named committees, viz: To the Committee on Invalid Pensions, to the Committee on Pensions, to the Committee on Claims, to the Committee on War Claims, to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and to the Committee on Accounts.

Mr. HEWITT. This is a bill to refund some $40,000——

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the terms of the new rule it must go to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HEWITT. I think it should be a case of unanimous consent.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the reference of the bill to the Committee on Foreign Affairs?

There was no objection, and the bill was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PORT CHARGES.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1524) making appropriations for the purchase of the work entitled "Port charges and requirements on vessels in the various ports of the world, with tables of moneys, weights, and measures of all nations, and a telegraphic code for masters, owners, and ship-brokers, by Theodore Hunter and Jarvis Patten," for the use of United States consuls that are stationed at seaports, and, through said consuls, for consultation of American ship-masters visiting those ports; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That bill seems to appropriate money.

Mr. HEWITT. It should go to the Committee on Commerce or the Committee on Appropriations.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is of the opinion that it should go to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. HEWITT. That is my own view.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

NEW YORK, LAKE ERIE AND WESTERN RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1525) for the relief of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company; which was read a first and second time.

Mr. HEWITT. It arises out of post-office questions, but will involve the payment of money, and I suppose will have to go to the Committee on Claims under the new rules.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Yes; and not to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS THACHER.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1526) for the relief of Thomas Thacher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RETAIL DEALERS IN FERMENTED LIQUORS.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1527) to amend paragraph 5 of section 3244 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

WITHDRAWAL OF MERCHANDISE.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1528) to amend certain sections of the Revised Statutes relating to the assessment of duties on withdrawals of merchandise from warehouse; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, HUDSON, N. Y.

Mr. KETCHAM introduced a bill (H. R. 1529) for the erection of a public building at Hudson, N. Y.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

MERCHANTS' NATIONAL BANK, POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

Mr. KETCHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 1530) for the relief of the Merchants' National Bank of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is of opinion that the proper reference of this bill is to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. WILKINS. This bill has been before the Committee on Banking and Currency heretofore, and that would seem to be the proper reference now.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It appears to be a claim, and under the new rule must go to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. WILKINS. It is not a claim of such a nature as would require its reference to that committee. I do not understand that the rule is changed in this particular. It is not a claim against the Government.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair understands this, however, to be the issue of a claim.

Mr. WILKINS. But it is not such a claim as the rule contemplates.

The bill was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

W. H. GIFFORD.

Mr. KETCHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 1531) granting a pension to W. H. Gifford; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NEWTON A. CALKINS.

Mr. KETCHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 1532) granting an increase of pension to Newton A. Calkins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REOPENING DECISION COURT OF CLAIMS.

Mr. KETCHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 1533) to open and set aside an order of the Court of Claims canceling a portion of a judgment against the United States remitted through mistake as to the facts in regard to the same by claimant to the United States, and to refer the matter to the Court of Claims for such further action as said court shall find to be just and equitable; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM REYNOLDS.

Mr. KETCHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 1534) for the relief of the heirs of William Reynolds; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COLUMBIA RAILWAY COMPANY, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. KETCHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 1535) amendatory of an act to incorporate the Columbia Railway Company of the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW BRIDGEMAN.

Mr. KETCHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 1536) for the relief of Andrew Bridgeman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WASHINGTON CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. KETCHAM (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1537) to incorporate the Washington Central Railroad Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

IMPROVEMENT MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

Mr. KETCHAM (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1538) to make the Lake Borgne outlet, to improve the low-water navigation of the Mississippi River from New Orleans, La., to Cairo, Ill., and incidentally to reclaim and protect the valley lands of the Mississippi River and tributaries from overflow without levees; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Levees and Improvement of the Mississippi River, and ordered to be printed.

SALE OF UNITED STATES LANDS, WALLABOUT BAY.

Mr. BLISS introduced a bill (H. R. 1539) providing for the sale of the navy-yard and United States naval hospital land on and near Wallabout Bay, in the city of Brooklyn, N. Y.; also providing for the sale of a portion of said land to the city of Brooklyn for market purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

APPOINTMENTS AND PROMOTIONS, MARINE CORPS.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1540) to regulate appointments and promotions in the staff of the Marine Corps; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID L. BRAINARD AND OTHERS.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1541) for the relief of David L. Brainard and others, non-commissioned officers and privates of the Greely Arctic expedition; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REFUND OF CERTAIN CLAIMS OF PORT WARDENS.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1542) in relation to refunding certain sums claimed by port wardens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET KEARNS.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1543) granting a pension to Margaret Kearns; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EXTENSION OF LETTERS PATENT.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1544) authorizing William Lewis and William H. Lewis to make application to the Commissioner of Patents for the extension of their patent for new and useful photographic plate-holders; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD HART.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1545) to increase the pension of the widow of the late Naval Constructor Edward Hart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS H. ELLISON.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1546) for the relief of Francis H. Ellison; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD B. LANSING.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1547) for the relief of Edward B. Lansing; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELLEN CRYMBLE.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1548) for the relief of Ellen Crymble; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM CLABAUGH.

Mr. BLISS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1549) to provide for the issue to William Clabaugh of bonds of the District of Columbia on account of the M street bridge across Rock Creek, in the city of Washington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE K. OTIS.

Mr. BLISS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1550) for the relief of George K. Otis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. BLISS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1551) for the relief of George K. Otis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES CALER.

Mr. BLISS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1552) for the relief of James Caler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH CARTER.

Mr. JOHNSON, of New York, introduced a bill (H. R. 1553) for the relief of Sarah Carter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN N. TROOK.

Mr. JOHNSON, of New York, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1554) for the relief of John N. Trook, administrator of William Hughes, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HARRIET P. BLAKE.

Mr. JOHNSON, of New York, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1555) for the relief of Harriet P. Blake; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB MAYER.

Mr. JOHNSON, of New York, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1556) granting a pension to Jacob Mayer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID W. JONES.

Mr. BURLEIGH (by Mr. JOHNSON, of New York) introduced a bill (H. R. 1557) for the relief of David W. Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS DANIELS.

Mr. BURLEIGH (by Mr. JOHNSON, of New York) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1558) for the relief of Francis Daniels; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FORDYCE FOSTER.

Mr. BURLEIGH (by Mr. JOHNSON, of New York) introduced a bill (H. R. 1559) for the relief of Fordyce Foster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EVALINE A. WHITE.

Mr. BURLEIGH (by Mr. JOHNSON, of New York) introduced a bill (H. R. 1560) for the relief of Evaline A. White; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REFUND OF DUTIES.

Mr. BEACH introduced a bill (H. R. 1561) to refund duties upon goods on shipboard when the tariff act of March 3, 1883, went into effect; which was read a first and second time.

Mr. BEACH. I ask that this bill be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thinks it should go to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BEACH. A similar bill went to the Committee on Ways and Means in the last Congress.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The rule has been changed since then, and the Chair, having examined this bill, finds that clearly it should go to the Committee on Claims. It is a bill for the payment of money—for the refunding of taxes alleged to have been illegally paid.

Mr. BEACH, If that is the proper reference I have no objection.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PREFERENCE FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1562) to amend section 1754 of the Revised Statutes so as to give honorably discharged soldiers and sailors a preference in public appointments; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1563) authorizing the Comptroller of the Currency to change the names or locations of national banks and to increase the capital stock thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

PHEBE SAUNDERS.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1564) granting a pension to Phebe Saunders; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN WALLER.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1565) to reimburse John Waller, late postmaster at Monticello, N. Y., for moneys expended in carrying the mails; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDGAR BRODHEAD.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1566) for the relief of Edgar Brodhead; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PHILIP JACOBS.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1567) granting a pension to Philip Jacobs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATHANIEL TAYLOR.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1568) granting a pension to Nathaniel Taylor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, NEWBURG, N. Y.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1569) for the erection of a public building at Newburg, N. Y.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

SPECIAL LEGISLATION AND LEGISLATION ON APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 47) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States so as to prevent special legislation and prohibit legislation on appropriation bills; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

CONSTITUTIONAL LIMITATION ON CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 48) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States so as to raise a statute of limitation upon claims against the Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

A VETO ON SEPARATE ITEMS IN APPROPRIATION BILLS.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 49) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States so as to give the President power to veto one or more items in appropriation bills; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

UNIFORM MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE LAWS.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 50) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States so as to establish uniform laws on the subject of marriage and divorce; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

AGAINST LOANING THE PUBLIC CREDIT.

Mr. BEACH also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 51) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States so as to prevent the giving or loaning of the public property or credit in aid of private or corporate enterprise; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Mr. BAKER introduced a bill (H. R. 1570) to increase the appropriation for the erection of a public building at Rochester, N. Y.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

TITLE TO CERTAIN LANDS ON SAGINAW BAY, MICH.

Mr. BAKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1571) to quiet and confirm the title to certain lands on Saginaw Bay, in the State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

INTERSTATE-COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Mr. BAKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1572) to create an interstate-commerce commission and to regulate its powers and duties; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

Mr. BAKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1573) providing for the establishment of a bureau of public documents; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH L. BRAGG.

Mr. BAKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1574) granting a pension to Sarah L. Bragg; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH KAHLER.

Mr. BAKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1575) granting a pension to Elizabeth Kahler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS ALLCOCK.

Mr. BAKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1576) granting an increase of pension to Thomas Allcock; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ERIE AND OSWEGO CANALS.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) introduced a bill (H. R. 1577) for the permanent improvement of the Erie and Oswego Canals and to secure the freedom of the same to the commerce of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS TO DEPENDENT PARENTS.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1578) relating to claims for pensions by dependent parents; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMY A. LEWIS.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1579) for the relief of Amy A. Lewis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EMILY B. BAKER.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1580) for the relief of Emily B. Baker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JANE PENLEY.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1581) for the relief of Jane Penley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELEANOR C. BANGHAM.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1582) for the relief of Eleanor C. Bangham; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NICHOLAS J. CAMPBELL.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1583) for the relief of Nicholas J. Campbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. AURELIA C. RICHARDSON.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1584) for the relief of Mrs. Aurelia C. Richardson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET COLBATH.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1585) for the relief of Mrs. Margaret Colbath; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM KINNEY.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1586) for the relief of William Kinney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. CHARLOTTE A. STEWART.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1587) for the relief of Mrs. Charlotte A. Stewart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM W. BUSH.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1588) for the relief of William W. Bush; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NEWTON O. BAKER.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1589) for the relief of Newton O. Baker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TIMOTHY PAIGE.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1590) for the relief of Timothy Paige; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES MURRAY.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1591) for the relief of James Murray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH A. VAUGHN.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1592) for the relief of Sarah A. Vaughn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH MANZ.

Mr. WEBER (by Mr. BAKER) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1593) for the relief of Sarah Manz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PAYMENT OF DUTIES ON IMPORTS.

Mr. ADAMS, of New York, introduced a bill (H. R. 1594) to allow all duties on imports to be paid by certified check on any national bank duly organized under the laws of the United States; which was read a first and second time.

Mr. ADAMS, of New York. I am in some doubt whether this bill should go to the Committee on Ways and Means or to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It does not relate to the amount of duty to be paid, but only to the manner of payment—the currency in which payment shall be paid. The Chair thinks it should go to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

Mr. ADAMS, of New York. I think it should properly go to the Judiciary Committee.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The jurisdiction of the Judiciary Committee is general, while that of the Committee on Banking and Currency is special.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

REGISTRATION OF STEAMSHIPS.

Mr. ADAMS, of New York, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1595) to authorize the registration of certain steamships as vessels of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

LIABILITY OF VESSEL-OWNERS.

Mr. ADAMS, of New York, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1596) to amend section 4289 of the Revised Statutes of the United States relative to the limitation of the liability of the owners of vessels; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATHS BY NOTARIES PUBLIC.

Mr. ADAMS, of New York, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1597) to amend section 2805 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, so as to allow oaths to be administered by notaries public; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL W. LEE & CO.

Mr. ADAMS, of New York, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1598) for the relief of Daniel W. Lee & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BANKRUPTCY.

Mr. ADAMS, of New York, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1599) to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MONUMENT TO GENERAL GRANT.

Mr. DOWDNEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1600) for the erection and completion of a monument to the memory of the late General Ulysses S. Grant in the city of New York; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill will be referred to the Committee on the Library.

Mr. DOWDNEY. I prefer that it go to the Committee on Military Affairs. I ask unanimous consent for that reference.

There being no objection, the bill was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS STATEN ISLAND SOUND.

Mr. BELMONT introduced a bill (H. R. 1601) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Staten Island Sound, known as Arthur Kill, and to establish the same as a post-road; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

YACHTS.

Mr. BELMONT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1602) amending the Revised Statutes relating to yachts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on American Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests, and ordered to be printed.

DUTY ON WORKS OF ART.

Mr. BELMONT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1603) to abolish the discriminating duty on works of art the production of American and of foreign artists; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. L. M. PHELPS.

Mr. BELMONT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1604) for the relief of Mrs. L. M. Phelps, widow of Hon. S. L. Phelps, late United States minister to Peru; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE BRANDRETH.

Mr. STAHLNECKER (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 1605) for the relief of George Brandreth, special administrator; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT YONKERS, N. Y.

Mr. STAHLNECKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1606) for the erection of a public building at Yonkers, N. Y.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH FLEMING AND OTHERS.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL introduced a bill (H. R. 1607) for the relief of Elizabeth Fleming, Frances E. Robinson, and Margaret Johnston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1608) to amend an act entitled "An act for the erection of a public building at Brooklyn, N. Y.," approved June 12, 1882; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS SHANNON.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1690) granting a pension to Thomas Shannon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS L. DALLON.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1610) for the relief of Francis L. Dallon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REVENUE TAXATION.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1611) to amend section 4 of the act entitled "An act to reduce internal-revenue taxation, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1883; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF AUGUSTINE DE YTURBIDE.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1612) to authorize the United States district court for the northern district of California to proceed in the case of the executors and heirs of Augustine de Yturbide, deceased, appellants, against the United States, appellees, and hear and determine the same on its merits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

STEAM-BOILER INSPECTOR FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1613) to amend an act creating the office of steam-boiler inspector for the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

BANKRUPT LAW.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1614) to repeal chapter 160 of the laws of 1878, entitled "An act to repeal the bankrupt law," approved June 7, 1878; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1615) to relieve commercial travelers from license tax in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES A. WHALEN.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1616) for the relief of James A. Whalen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE H. LAURENCE.

Mr. FELIX CAMPBELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1617) for the relief of George H. Laurence; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARINE HOSPITAL AT THE PORT OF NEW YORK.

Mr. JAMES introduced a bill (H. R. 1618) to establish a marine hospital at the port of New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

BILLS OF LADING.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1619) to regulate the forms of bills of lading and the duties and liabilities of ship-owners and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

JEANNETTE EXPLORING EXPEDITION.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1620) to fix and determine the date of the decease of those who perished in the retreat from the wreck of the exploring steamer Jeannette, in the Arctic seas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

REGULATION OF COMMERCIAL SALES BETWEEN THE STATES.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1621) to regulate commercial sales of goods and merchandise by samples, catalogue, card, price-list, description, or other representation between residents of the several States and Territories; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PRISON LABOR.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1622) to prohibit any officer, agent, or servant of the Government of the United States of America from hiring or contracting out the labor of prisoners incarcerated for violating the laws of the Government of the United States of America; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

JESSE H. STRICKLAND.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1623) to muster Jesse H. Strickland as colonel of cavalry into the service of the United States, and to pay him for his services from January 30, 1863, to March 31, 1864, inclusive; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE BAUR.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1624) for the extension of letters patent to Catharine Baur, widow of Julius Baur; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS M'NEIL POTTER.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1625) for the relief of Francis McNeil Potter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SOLOMON SPITZER.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1626) for the relief of the heirs of the late Solomon Spitzer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANNIE BAGLEY.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1627) granting a pension to Annie Bagley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. McCOOK, its Secretary, announced that the Senate had passed a bill of the following title, in which concurrence of the House of Representatives was requested, namely:

A bill (S. 602) to legalize the election of the Territorial Legislative Assembly of Wyoming.

Also, that the Senate had passed a concurrent resolution tendering the thanks of Congress to the governor and the people of the State of Ohio for the statue of James A. Garfield and accepting the same; in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives was requested.

CONTINENTAL FIRE INSURANCE AND OTHER COMPANIES.

Mr. JAMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1628) for the relief of the Continental Fire Insurance Company, the Eagle Fire Insurance Company, the City Fire Insurance Company, and the Commercial Mutual Fire Insurance Company, all of New York city; the Western National Bank, the Merchants' National Bank, and the Maryland Fire Insurance Company, of Baltimore, Md.; which was read a first and second time.

Mr. JAMES. This bill has for its object authority and directing the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to open up some refunding accounts where double taxes have been paid by these parties, and should go to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. But under the new rule all such subjects must be referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. JAMES. It seems to me that as it directs the Internal Revenue Commissioner to open up these claims it should go to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It provides for the payment of a sum of money; it is a claim upon the Government, and under the new rules it must go to the Committee on Claims.

The bill was so referred, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES CAIN.

Mr. MAHONEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1629) for the relief of James Cain, late a captain in One hundred and fifty-eighth New York Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. DOMINICK LYNCH.

Mr. MAHONEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1630) to increase the pension of the widow of the late Capt. Dominick Lynch, United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. JULIA S. FINNEY.

Mr. MAHONEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1631) to increase the pension of Mrs. Julia S. Finney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M. WILLBUR.

Mr. MAHONEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1632) for the relief of James M. Willbur; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS H. LAWRENCE.

Mr. MAHONEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1633) for the relief of Thomas H. Lawrence; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET A. CASWELL.

Mr. SWINBURNE introduced a bill (H. R. 1634) for the relief of Margaret A. Caswell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH B. JACKSON.

Mr. SWINBURNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1635) for the relief of Sarah B. Jackson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS C. ELLISON.

Mr. SWINBURNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1636) for the relief of Thomas C. Ellison; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MEXICAN PENSIONS.

Mr. VIELE introduced a bill (H. R. 1637) granting pensions to the soldiers and sailors of the Mexican war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. JULIA DENT GRANT.

Mr. VIELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1638) granting the franking privilege to Mrs. Julia Dent Grant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM RUTHERFORD.

Mr. VIELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1639) for the relief of William Rutherford; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. GETTY.

Mr. VIELE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1640) to place Col. George W. Getty, retired, on the retired-list of the Army with the rank and pay of a brigadier-general; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

J. W. A. NICHOLSON.

Mr. VIELE also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 52) to authorize J. W. A. Nicholson, a rear-admiral in the United States Navy, to accept certain decorations and presents from foreign governments; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

AUGUSTUS BARNES.

Mr. TIMOTHY J. CAMPBELL introduced a bill (H. R. 1641) for the relief of Augustus Barnes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALLOTMENT OF INDIAN LANDS, NEW YORK.

Mr. SESSIONS introduced a bill (H. R. 1642) to allot the lands of the Seneca Nation of Indians in New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF PAY FOR CERTAIN DISABILITIES.

Mr. SESSIONS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1643) to allow certain soldiers and sailors in the United States service increased pay where they have lost both eyes, both arms, both legs, or who are totally disabled; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

A. BROOKS FLETCHER.

Mr. SESSIONS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1644) to pay A. Brooks Fletcher for letter-boxes furnished the post-office at Jamestown, N. Y.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SALARIES OF UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGES.

Mr. SPRIGGS introduced a bill (H. R. 1645) to make the salaries of the several judges of the district courts of the United States $5,000 per annum; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES W. LAMBERT.

Mr. SPRIGGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1646) to amend the military record of Charles W. Lambert; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JULIA STOKES.

Mr. SPRIGGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1647) granting a pension to Julia Stokes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH AURAND.

Mr. SPRIGGS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1648) for the relief of Elizabeth Aurand; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PHŒBE H. MEECH.

Mr. FARQUHAR introduced a bill (H. R. 1649) granting a pension to Phœbe H. Meech; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH MANZ.

Mr. FARQUHAR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1650) for the relief of Sarah Manz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROSINA HEINEMAN.

Mr. FARQUHAR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1651) for the relief of Rosina Heineman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCES HASENZAHL.

Mr. FARQUHAR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1652) for the relief of Frances Hasenzahl; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS OF POSTMASTERS.

Mr. PINDAR introduced a bill (H. R. 1653) for the payment of claims of postmasters and late postmasters, adjusted under the act approved March 3, 1883; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANK G. MIX.

Mr. PINDAR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1654) for the relief of Frank G. Mix; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM W. WEBB.

Mr. PINDAR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1655) for the relief of William W. Webb; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN C. ELLSWORTH.

Mr. LINDSLEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1656) for the relief of John C. Ellsworth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PATRICK S. DOIG.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1657) for the relief of Patrick S. Doig; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL E. M'LEAN.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1658) for the relief of Daniel E. McLean; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EXPLORING STEAMER JEANNETTE.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1659) for the relief of the survivors of the exploring steamer Jeannette, and the wives and children of those who perished in the retreat from the wreck of that vessel in the Arctic seas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

E. HOFFMAN AND M. A. PARLIMAN.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1660) granting pensions to Elizabeth Hoffman and Mary Ann Parliman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET A. JOHNSTON.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1661) granting a pension to Margaret A. Johnston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE SCHOONMAKER.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1662) granting a pension to Catharine Schoonmaker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY L. MYERS.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1663) granting a pension to Mary L. Myers; which was read a first and second time, referrred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

P., J., AND K. BLACKWELL.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1664) granting a pension to Peter Blackwell, John Blackwell, and Kate Blackwell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OLIVER P. CARPENTER.

Mr. LINDSLEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1665) granting a pension to Oliver P. Carpenter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE BARLOW.

Mr. LINDSLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1666) for the relief of George Barlow; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

BONDS OF CIGAR MANUFACTURERS.

Mr. MERRIMAN introduced a bill (H. R. 1667) to amend section 3387 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, relating to bonds of cigar manufacturers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

TRIAL OF CUSTOMS-REVENUE CASES.

Mr. MERRIMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1668) to provide a better system for the trial of customs-revenue cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

BUREAU OF TRANSPORTATION.

Mr. MERRIMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1669) to establish a bureau of transportation in the Department of the Interior; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

OBSTRUCTIONS IN NEW YORK HARBOR.

Mr. MERRIMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1670) to prevent obstructive and injurious deposits within the harbor and adjacent waters of New York and to punish and prevent such offenses, and other provisions in connection therewith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC P. TICE.

Mr. MERRIMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1671) for the relief of the administrators of Isaac P. Tice, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ERIE CANAL.

Mr. MERRIMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1672) to provide for the permanent improvement of the Erie Canal and for maintaining the same free to the commerce of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM M. SHIMMINS AND G. H. M'PHERSON.

Mr. MERRIMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1673) for the relief of William M. Shimmins and George H. McPherson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM WOLFF.

Mr. MERRIMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1674) for the relief of William Wolff; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TAX ON OLEOMARGARINE.

Mr. PARKER introduced a bill (H. R. 1675) to tax the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

EXPORTATION OF IMITATED BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Mr. PARKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1676) to regulate the exportation of articles made in imitation of butter and cheese; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

COUNTING THE VOTE FOR PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT.

Mr. PARKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1677) to fix the day for the meeting of the electors of President and Vice-President, and to provide for and regulate the counting of the votes for President and Vice-President and the decision of questions arising thereon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY N. HUGGINS.

Mr. PARKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1678) for the relief of Henry N. Huggins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM JACKSON.

Mr. PARKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1679) for the relief of William Jackson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT NELSON.

Mr. PARKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1680) for the relief of Robert Nelson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM HICKS.

Mr. PARKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1681) for the relief of William Hicks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. HAMMOND. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House do now adjourn.

Several MEMBERS. No! no!

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted Mr. WHEELER on account of sickness.

By unanimous consent, Mr. MORROW obtained leave to withdraw from the files of the House papers relating to the claim of E. L. Brown, presented May 3, 1884, by Mr. Rosecrans, of California, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SPRINGER) laid before the House the following executive communication; which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 14th ultimo from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers in relation thereto, a draught of a bill to provide for allotments of lands in severalty to Indians residing upon the Round Valley reservation, in the State of California, the granting patents therefor, and for other purposes. The matter is presented for the early consideration and action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, January 5, 1886.

INTERNATIONAL FISHERIES COMMISSION.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the remonstrance of Nathaniel Atwood and 654 others, citizens of Provincetown, Mass., against the appointment of an international fisheries commission.

Several members objected.

Mr. DAVIS. Then I will have it referred in the usual manner—through the box.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion to adjourn.

The motion was not agreed to, there being—ayes 35, noes 120.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Mr. BENNETT introduced a bill (H. R. 1682) to make an appropriation for the erection of a United States court-house and post-office in the city of Charlotte, N. C.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

INTERMARRIAGE OF WHITE AND NEGRO RACES.

Mr. BENNETT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1683) to prevent the intermarriage of the white and negro races in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURTS IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Mr. BENNETT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1684) to authorize terms of the circuit court of the United States for the eastern judicial district of North Carolina at the city of Wilmington, in said district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT WILMINGTON, N. C.

Mr. BENNETT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1685) to provide for the erection of a building for the accommodation of the post-office, custom-house, court-rooms, and other Government offices in the city of Wilmington, in the State of North Carolina; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PURCHASE OF ARMS FOR STATES.

Mr. BENNETT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1686) to repeal certain provisions of the act approved March 3, 1875, relating to the purchase of arms for the use of the States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT NEW BERNE, N. C.

Mr. O'HARA introduced a bill (H. R. 1687) to provide for the erection of a public building in the city of New Berne, in the State of North Carolina; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1688) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

DEPOSITORS IN FREEDMAN'S BANK.

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1689) to reimburse the depositors of the Freedman's Savings and Trust Company for losses incurred by the failure of said company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RESTAURANTS, ETC., IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1690) regulating restaurants and other public places in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD H. BARNUM AND MARY A. RUSSELL

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1691) for the relief of Edward H. Barnum and Mary A. Russell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FURNIFOLD MERCER.

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1692) for the relief of Furnifold Mercer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM L. PALMER.

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1693) for the relief of William L. Palmer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN D. THORNE.

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1694) for the relief of John D. Thorne; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GARRETT C. MOYE.

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1695) granting a pension to Garrett C. Moye; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REAPPRAISEMENT OF TRANSPORT BOAT PLANTER.

Mr. O'HARA also introduced a bill (H. R. 1696) authorizing a reappraisement of the steam transport boat Planter, captured by Robert Smalls, and for a distribution of proceeds thereof; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The reference indicated on the back of this bill is the Committee on Naval Affairs, and under the rules of the last House this bill was so referred. But by the new rules the bill properly goes to the Committee on War Claims, as it provides for a reappraisement with the view to the payment of a large amount claimed by the party.

Mr. O'HARA. I ask unanimous consent that the bill go to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

There being no objection the bill was so referred, and was ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, introduced a bill (H. R. 1697) to provide for the erection of a public building at Asheville, N. C.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1698) granting pensions to soldiers of the Mexican war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SALT FREE OF DUTY.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1699) to admit salt free of duty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF INTERNAL-REVENUE ACTS.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1700) to repeal the internal-revenue act and acts amendatory thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

ANSON B. SAMS.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1701) granting a pension to Anson B. Sams, of Madison County, North Carolina, and to place his name on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL LUCAS.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1702) granting arrears of pension and increase to Daniel Lucas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1703) granting a pension to Joseph Williams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILSON RICE.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1704) for the relief of Wilson Rice; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

W. P. PAYNE.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1705) for the relief of W. P. Payne; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY TOWNSEND.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1706) to grant arrears of pension to Mary Townsend; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIJAH P. HENSLEY.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1707) granting a pension to Elijah P. Hensley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN MINGUS.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1708) for the relief of John Mingus; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. HETTY MARTIN.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1709) for the relief of Mrs. Hetty Martin, and to adjust the account of the late J. G. Martin, assistant quartermaster, United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

T. J. PAYNE.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1710) for the relief of T. J. Payne; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE C. HAYNIE.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1711) for the relief of George C. Haynie; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABOLITION OF FEES, ETC.

Mr. COWLES introduced a bill (H. R. 1712) to abolish fees and perquisites of United States district attorneys, marshals, clerks, commissioners, and deputy marshals, and provide salaries for the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, and ordered to be printed.

BRANDY FROM FRUIT.

Mr. COWLES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1713) to allow the free distillation of brandy from fruit; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

ABOLITION OF INTERNAL-REVENUE SYSTEM.

Mr. COWLES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1714) to abolish the internal-revenue system and repeal the tax on distilled spirits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

ABOLITION OF INTERNAL-REVENUE FEES, ETC.

Mr. COWLES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1715) to provide salaries for collectors of internal revenue and repeal the laws allowing fees, commissions, and allowances to the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH C. HOGAN.

Mr. COX introduced a bill (H. R. 1716) for the relief of Joseph C. Hogan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MILITIA.

Mr. COX also introduced a bill (H. R. 1717) for the special and uniform instruction of State militia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Militia, and ordered to be printed.

COMPENSATION OF MARSHALS AND DISTRICT ATTORNEYS.

Mr. COX also introduced a bill (H. R. 1718) fixing the compensation of United States marshals and district attorneys; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNAL-REVENUE TAX ON SPIRITS.

Mr. COX also introduced a bill (H. R. 1719) to change the methods of collecting the internal-revenue tax on spirits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF INTERNAL-REVENUE LAWS.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, introduced a bill (H. R. 1720) to repeal the laws known as the internal-revenue laws; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

TAX UPON TOBACCO, ETC.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1721) to repeal the law imposing an internal-revenue tax upon tobacco and upon spirits distilled from fruits, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

TAX ON FRUIT SPIRITS.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1722) to abolish the internal-revenue tax upon spirits distilled from apples, peaches, or other fruits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

DESTRUCTION OF ILLICIT STILLS.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1723) to abolish the statute allowing seizing officers to destroy forfeited-stills and distilling apparatus, and requiring such officers to remove the forfeited property to a place of safe storage; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

DISTILLERIES OF TEN GALLONS OR LESS.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1724) to allow whisky distilleries of ten gallons or less production per day to be operated as now provided by law for the operation of brandy distilleries; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1725) for the erection of a public building at Winston-Salem, N. C.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

AID TO COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1726) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

J. J. PETREE AND OTHERS.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1727) for the relief of J. J. Petree and others from payment of special tax; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

KERNERSVILLE MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1728) for the relief of the Kernersville Manufacturing Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1729) granting pensions to soldiers engaged in the war with Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW M. HOLDERBY.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1730) granting a pension to Andrew M. Holderby; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

R. D. HAY.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1731) for the relief of the heirs of R. D. Hay; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LIEUT. JOHN F. STEWART.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1732) for the relief of the heirs of Lieut. John F. Stewart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES L. CARDWELL.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1733) for the relief of James L. Cardwell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DUTY ON SUGAR AND MOLASSES.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1734) to repeal the duty on sugar and molasses; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

DUTY ON SALT.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1735) to admit the importation of salt free of duty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

DUTY ON STEEL RAILS.

Mr. REID, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1736) to reduce the import duty on steel rails; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. DUNHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire whether it was not understood that the introduction of bills should go on to-day and from day to day hereafter until all the States and Territories shall have been called?

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SPRINGER in the chair). The Chair is informed that such was the order. If there is doubt the Chair will cause the order to be read again.

Mr. DUNHAM. There being no doubt that under the order this business can go on to-morrow, and the clerks having now as much as they can possibly do to get up the record to-night, I move that the House adjourn.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is informed that the order is a continuing one, and that the call of States will be proceeded with after adjournment to-day when the House again meets.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas. I wish to make an inquiry of the Chair as to whether the order will be continued so as to allow gentlemen who were unavoidably absent when their States were called to introduce bills for reference after the call of States shall have been concluded?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair can only state that such has been the custom. After the call of States is concluded it has always been the custom heretofore to permit gentlemen, who were absent when their States were called to introduce bills for reference.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas. I ask unanimous consent that that be made a part of the order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Kansas asks unanimous consent that at the conclusion of the call of States and Territories for the introduction of bills gentlemen who were absent when their States were called may then be permitted to introduce their bills. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. DUNHAM] that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to.

And accordingly (at 4 o'clock and 15 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned.

PETITIONS, ETC.

The following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk, under the rule, and referred as follows:

By Mr. BALLENTINE: Petition of Asbury Parkes, for the reference of his claim to the Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of Joseph C. Anthony, for reference of his claim to the Court of Claims—to the same committee.

Also, papers in the claim of Asbury Parks and of Thomas S. Fogg—to the same committee.

By Mr. BARBOUR: Petition of James E. Holmes, for the reference of his claim to the Court of Claims—to the same committee.

Also, petition of J. E. Brissey, asking compensation for loss of his wife by reason of failure of United States Government to repair a bridge in the District of Columbia—to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Also, papers in the claim of John Q. Larmon, Joseph L. Harley, and Thomas P. Sparks, and in claim of Rose A. Cameron, administratrix—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, papers relating to the claims of May A. Conard, widow of John W. Conard; of Absalom Kiley; of George Cooper; of George H. Wenner; of Oliver G. Butts; of E. J. Conard; of Samuel W. George, jr., and of Francis M. Brabham—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. BARKSDALE: Petition of Mrs. Kate Miller, widow of Joseph Miller, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Thomas B. Magruder, of Claiborne County, Mississippi, for compensation for property taken and used by the United States Army during the late war—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, paper relating to claim of Mrs. Nancy Mitchell, for property taken—to the same committee.

Also, paper relating to claim of Susan Flowers, widow of J. G. Flowers, asking reference of claim to Court of Claims—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Reuben Collins—to the same committee.

By Mr. BAYNE: Paper relating to the claim of Capt. W. J. Kountz for relief—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, paper relating to claim of the sufferers by the explosion at United States arsenal at Pittsburgh, Pa., September 17, 1862, for relief—to the same committee.

By Mr. BINGHAM: Resolution of the select and common councils of Philadelphia, Pa., relative to the establishment of a nautical school at the port of Philadelphia—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Also, resolutions of the Grocers and Importers' Exchange of Philadelphia, Pa., asking an extension of the United States Signal Service in the interests of commerce and agriculture—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. BLANCHARD: Memorial of the American Public Health Association and of the Board of Health of the United States for the appointment of a commission to investigate the declared discovery of inoculation of yellow fever and the protection afforded against that disease—to the Committee on Commerce.

By Mr. BOUND: Petition of William H. Weaver, of Harrisburg, Pa., late postmaster at Marysville, Pa., for the passage of a law granting him redress for the illegal sale of his property by officers of the United States—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, petition of citizens of Lebanon, Pa., praying that a pension be granted to Elizabeth Light, widow of Elias R. Light, captain of Company B, One hundred and seventy-third Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. BOUTELLE: Papers relating to the claim of Ella J. Small, for a pension—to the same committee.

By Mr. BRADY: Copies of Senate and House reports of the Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, and Forty-seventh Congresses in favor of L. Madison Day—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. W. C. P. BRECKINRIDGE: Petition of H. O. Maraman, for payment of stores and supplies furnished United States troops—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. W. W. BROWN: Memorial of the Grocers and Importers' Exchange, of Philadelphia, praying for the extension of the United States Signal Service—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CALDWELL: Papers relating to the claims of Joseph Rymarkiewisez; of John Bradley; of Sallie Burch, administratrix of Anderson Burch, deceased; of D. W. and Mina H. Glassie and Joseph C. Nash; of A. H. Buchanan; and of John L. McMillan, executor of Dr. B. N. Carter, deceased—severally to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers relating to the claims of J. H. Adams and of W. A. and Adelicia Cheatham—severally to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. CATCHINGS: Papers relating to the claim of Celia A. Grove, for supplies—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers relating to claim of Hester F. Neeley—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Ann Worthington—to the same committee.

Also, a bill to improve and preserve the harbor of Greenville, Miss.—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petitions of William D. Wilson, of Vicksburg; of Thomas S. Redd, of Washington County, and of A. Underwood, of Bolivar County, Mississippi—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of R. S. and G. W. Woodbury, of Issaquena County, Mississippi, for reference of their claim to the Court of Claims—to the same committee.

By Mr. COLLINS: Petition of the Metropolitan Steamship Company and 27 other steamship lines and marine insurance companies, for an appropriation for the removal of the "Upper Middle Shoal," in Boston (Mass.) Harbor—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petition of John Storer Cobb and 165 others, citizens of Massachusetts, for the repeal of the act of July 12, 1876, commonly known as the "Comstock act"—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, petition of Jacob Weber and 185 others, seamen, sailing from ports in the United States, for the repeal of section 10 of the act approved June 26, 1884, known as the "Dingley shipping act"—to the Committee on American Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests.

By Mr. CURTIN: Petition of James Millinger, for relief—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of Hiram J. Steinbarger, late private Company K, One hundred and thirty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, that charge of desertion against him be removed—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. DAVIS: Remonstrances of fishermen, owners of fishing vessels, and others interested in the fishing business, of Chatham, of Orleans, of Wellfleet, of Truro, of Sandwich, and of Provincetown, Mass., against the appointment of an international fisheries commission—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Also, petition of Charles G. Rodman, in favor of an amendment to the act granting arrears of pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of citizens of Dukes County, Massachusetts, for the improvement of the harbor at Mennamsha—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. DIBBLE: Memorial of the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Charleston, S. C., asking the building of a new revenue cutter, to be stationed at Charleston, S. C., for South Atlantic service, in place of United States revenue cutter McCollough, now unseaworthy, and in favor of Signal Service—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, a bill making an appropriation for continuing work on the jetties in Charleston Harbor, South Carolina, to be immediately available—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, a bill making an appropriation for the preservation and continuation of certain public works on rivers and harbors, and for other purposes—to the same committee.

Also, petition of banks, bankers, merchants, and business men of Charleston, S. C., praying the immediate repeal of the law requiring the coinage of not less than two millions of silver per month—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

Also, concurrent resolution of the Legislature of South Carolina, favoring repeal of 10 per cent. tax on circulation of banks chartered under State laws—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, petition of William R. Herron, of Charleston, S. C., for payment of services as superintendent of custom-house property in that city—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. DUNN: Papers in the claims for the relief of Mary E. Whitehead, Nannie C. Metzger, and Henry C. and Minnie E. Clements, heirs of Alexander G. Clements, deceased; of Thomas A. Moore, of Osceola; of Robert E. Hale, of Lee County; of Elis Diamond, of Phillips County; of Benjamin F. Wallace, of Poplar Grove; and of Elizabeth B. Higgins, Joel Higgins, and Brand Higgins, of Phillips County; of James M. Barker, of Arkansas County, Arkansas—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. ELDREDGE: Application of Mrs. Aloisa A. Riggs for back pay on account of death of her son, William D. Riggs, of second company of Twenty-seventh Michigan Volunteers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. ELY: Petition of John L. Brown and others, for the relief of Chaplain Charles M. Blake—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. ERMENTROUT: Petition of Henry R. Anthony and 500 others, soldiers of the late war, asking relief—to the Committee on Public Lands.

Also, petition of citizens of Berks County, Pennsylvania, praying that a pension be granted to Mahlon Weston and Mary Ann Weston—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. EVANS: Petition of Mrs. Mary Kerr, for a pension—to the same committee.

By Mr. EVERHART: Petition of Joseph G. Cummins, late postmaster at Media, Pa., for relief—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. FINDLAY: Petition of Frederick C. Miller, owner of steamship Caroline Miller, for the passage of a law giving the said vessel an American register—to the Committee on Commerce.

Also, petition of veterans of the late war, for the relief of the widow of Wesley Hartlove—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, memorial of Isaac Dewling, retired, assistant surgeon of the United States Navy, for relief—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Also, resolutions of the Tobacco Board of Trade of Baltimore, concerning an increase of the duty on leaf-tobacco—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. FORNEY: Papers relating to claim of Napoleon B. Leeth, of Broomtown, Ala.—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers relating to claim of George Wester, of Cherokee County, Alabama—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Clara, widow of James Pinkston, of Cherokee County, Alabama—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Francis A. Harwell, of Cherokee County, Alabama—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Robert A. Clark, of Alabama—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of John Rolater, of Alabama—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Rhoda Ewing, of Alabama—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of John Edwards, of Alabama—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Susan E. Scroggins, of Cherokee County, Alabama, for reference of the claim of Leacy Kirk, of Alabama, to the Court of Claims—to the same committee.

Also, petition of William Drew, of Cherokee County, Alabama, for reference of his claim to the Court of Claims—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Malinda Angle, of Cherokee County, Alabama, for reference of her claim to the Court of Claims—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of John Helms, of Alabama—to the same committee.

By Mr. GIFFORD: Petition of A. H. Noyes, for an additional justice of the supreme court of Dakota, to be assigned to North Dakota—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, petition of the settlers on the Fort Randall military reservation, for relief—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. GILFILLAN: Petition and papers relating to the claim of George F. Roberts, for relief—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. GLASS: A protest of citizens of Gates, Tenn., against further appropriations for the improvement of the South Fork of the Forked Deer River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. D. B. HENDERSON: Petition from citizens of Dubuque, Iowa, for the restoration of Janet E. B. Smith to the pension-roll—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HEWITT: Petition of F. A. P. Barnard and others, in favor of changing the name of the United States Naval Observatory—to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

By Mr. HERMAN: Petition of Louis Belfils, for relief on account of property destroyed on the Isthmus of Panama—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Also, petition of Christine Edson, widow and personal representative of John Geisel, deceased—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Also, petitions of John A. Dean and 130 others, of Coquille city, and of George Bennett and 26 others, of Coos County, Oregon, for additional appropriations to continue jetty now in course of construction at mouth of Coquille River, Oregon—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petition of Board of Trade of Portland city, Oreg., for appropriation to continue works of improvement now in progress on Columbia River—to same committee.

Also, petition from settlers on Sluslaw River, Oregon, in mass meeting assembled, for aid in improving Sluslaw Bay—to same committee.

By Mr. HITT: Petition of 80 citizens, tobacco-growers of Jo. Daviess County, Illinois, for legislation protecting tobacco-growers—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. HOLMAN: Papers in claim of Emanuel Mason—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. IRION: Papers relating to the claim of Alfred Duplantier—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. JAMES: Memorial of Garrett Erkson, for the improvement of navigation on the Mississippi River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. LANHAM: Papers relating to claim of Daniel Murphy—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, papers relating to claim of V. F. Gorvissen—to the same committee.

By Mr. LEHLBACH: Petition of the pearl-button manufacturers of the United States, for an increase of duties on pearl buttons—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. LIBBEY: Papers in claim of William H. Crook, for relief—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. ST. MARTIN: Papers relating to the claim of G. Alexander Ramsay—to the same committee.

By Mr. MAYBURY: Petition of Sarah D. Tomlinson, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. McCOMAS: Petition and resolutions of Tobacco Board of Trade of Baltimore—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. McKENNA: Resolution of Board of Trade of Sacramento, California, to extend to January 1, 1888, the time when shall lapse to the Government the unconfirmed portion of the land grant to the California and Oregon Railroad Company—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. McRAE: Petition of John B. Watson and 21 others, citizens of Bradley County, Arkansas, urging national aid to public schools—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. MERRIMAN: Petition of cigar manufacturers of New York city, for the amendment of section 3387 of the United States Revised Statutes relating to cigar manufacturers' bonds—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. MILLER: Petition of E. L. Lee, son and heir of Thomas H. Lee, asking reference of claim to Court of Claims—to Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. MILLS: Paper relating to the claim of H. F. Durham—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. MITCHELL: Petition of Charles Waterhouse, for relief—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers in claim of Thomas Butler—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MOFFATT: A bill to provide for the construction of a new lock in Saint Mary's Falls Canal and the continuance of work in the Hay Lake Channel of Saint Mary's River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. MORGAN: Petition of H. L. Hawkins, for bounty—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers relating to claim of Allen E. Anderson, of Claiborne County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Henry J. Byers, of Panola County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of J. W. Cansey, of Alcorn County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Mrs. R. C. A. Falconer, of Clark County, Mississippi, for compensation for cotton—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of John A. Gwin, of Marshall County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, petition of William P. Ivie, of Benton County, Mississippi, for compensation for stores taken—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to the claim of James H. Knox, of Marshall County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of George W. Miffleton, of Monroe County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Edmond Morrow, of Benton County, Mississippi, for compensation for property taken—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Jeremiah H. Morgan, of Benton County, Mississippi, for compensation for stores taken—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Emmet Y. Parham, of Benton County, Mississippi, for compensation for stores taken—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Willis J. Moran, of Benton County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Joseph N. Moran, of Benton County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Daniel T. Saunders, of Benton County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of C. O. Spencer, of Benton County, Mississippi—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to claim of Francis Wave—to the same committee.

Also, petition of E. Partee and others, of Tate County, Mississippi, for national aid to education—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. NELSON, a bill providing for an examination and survey of the Red River of the North, from Moorhead to Fergus Falls—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, a bill for the examination and survey of the Red Lake River, Minnesota, from Grand Forks to Red Lake Falls—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Farmers' Alliance, of Grant County, Minnesota, asking that manila and sisal grass be placed on the free-list—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. CHARLES O'NEILL: Memorial of John A. Wagner, asking for relief—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition of Elizabeth J. Clampitt, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Mrs. Rebecca Marchant, for a pension—to the same committee.

By Mr. PEEL: Petition of William Bryant, of Huntsville, Ark., to have his claim for property taken by the United States Army referred to the Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. PHELPS: Joint resolution of the State of New Jersey, relative to penal colonization in Alaska—to the Committee on the Territories.

By Mr. PETERS: Resolution of association of ex-soldiers who have lost a leg or an arm, asking for increase of pension to soldiers so disabled—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, affidavit of D. McArthur in support of claim—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers referring to claim of David McKinney—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, affidavit of August Weide, in support of his claim for arrears of pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, resolutions of Prairie Grove Post, No. 124, G. A. R., Kansas Center, Kansas, in regard to pensions—to the same committee.

Also, affidavit in support of increase of pension for Thomas G. Barton—to the same committee.

Also, affidavit in the claim of John Banks—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of Hon. G. D. Thomas and 600 others, citizens of Southern Kansas, for a military post at Kiowa, Kans.—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, letter of Hon. J. C. Black, Commissioner of Pensions, stating that a pension was granted to Rebecca Burch—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, papers relating to the claim of Henry Higmer—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, petitions of Governor John A. Martin and other State officials of Kansas and of citizens of Comanche County, Kansas, for military post on Kansas border near New Kiowa—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. PETTIBONE: Petitions of Furney Jones; of Sallie A. Trugrate; of A. M. Cloud, administrator of Benjamin F. Cloud, and G. W. Margraves, administrator of Absalom Robinson, of Claiborne County, Tennessee, that their several claims be referred to the Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. ROBERTSON: Petition of the trustees of the town of Bloomfield, and the trustees of the Bloomfield Lodge No. 57, A. Y. M., for relief—to the same committee.

By Mr. ROGERS: Papers relating to public building at Fort Smith, Ark.—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Also, papers relating to claim of Lucy A. Lee—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers relating to claim of W. N. Burns—to same committee.

Also, papers relating to the claims of James H. Hamilton and of Pryor N. Lea—to the same committee.

Also, papers relating to the claims of Zeb Ward, of F. E. Folsom, and of James Clifford—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, memorial of the merchants of Little Rock, Ark., touching the fisheries along the Canadian border—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Also, petition of John P. Holloway and others, praying that certain license fees paid by them to the United States Government be refunded to them—to the same committee.

Also, papers in the claim of Bishop E. Fitzgerald, of Little Rock, Ark.—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. SPRINGER: Paper relating to claim of Jacob Lucas—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, papers relating to claim of Frederick Klor—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. E. F. STONE: Petition of citizens of Gloucester, Mass., for a survey of their harbor—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. W. J. STONE, of Missouri: Resolutions of O. P. Morton Post, No. 14, Department of Missouri, G. A. R., of Joplin, Mo., for the passage of the amended Mexican pension bill which was pending in the Forty-eighth Congress—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, petition of Harmon Conley, of Joplin, Mo., for relief—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. STORM: Memorial of the Grocers and Importers' Exchange, of Philadelphia, Pa., for the extension of the Signal Service—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. SWINBURNE: Petition of Mrs. Margaret Kempf, for increase of pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. J. M. TAYLOR: Papers relating to the claims of E. A. French; of A. Thompson, administrator of John N. Barnett; of John A. Barnes; of E. A. Collins, administrator of W. P. Collins; of John Deaton; of Alfred Gardner; of J. G. McFarlane; of Louisa Meriweather; of John B. Inman; of John Willett; of Jerre R. Wright, administrator of Nancy Wright; of Isaiah Sweat; of Archibald Thomas, and of William R. Collier—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. ZACH. TAYLOR: Petition of business men of Memphis, Tenn., praying for the suspension of coinage of silver—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

Also, petition of merchants of Memphis, Tenn., for the abolition of duties on fish—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. THROCKMORTON: Petition of citizens of Bowie, Tex., asking national aid for education—to the Committee on Education.

By Mr. TOWNSHEND: Petition of G. I. George and 62 others, ex-soldiers, of Illinois, for the passage of a law allowing persons entitled to pensions to draw arrears of pensions from date of discharge—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. TUCKER: Petition of Mrs. Marion Twiggs Meyers and coheirs of D. E. Twiggs, for relief—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. VAN EATON: Petition of Julia A. Nutt, widow and executrix of Haller Nutt, deceased, for relief—to the same committee.

Also, petition of M. V. Dahlgren, widow of the late Rear-Admiral Dahlgren—to Committee on Claims.

By Mr. T. B. WARD: Two petitions of citizens of Tipton and Hamilton Counties, Indiana, praying that a pension of $8 a month be granted to all soldiers and sailors who served a period of sixty days in the Army or Navy of the United States in the late war—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Morton Post, No. 1, G. A. R., for the enactment of a law granting pensions to soldiers and sailors for service in the late war—to the same committee.

By Mr. WILLIAM WARNER: A bill making an appropriation to continue the improvement of the Missouri River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petition of Lydia A. McGill, administratrix of John C. McGill, deceased, for balance due on contract with Commissary Department for beef furnished the Army in 1862—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. A. J. WEAVER: Petition of Phebe Martin, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition for the relief of Albert Cotton from the charge of desertion—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The following petitions, praying Congress to place the coinage of silver upon an equality with gold; that there be issued coin certificates of one, two, and five dollars, the same being made a legal tender; that one and two dollar legal-tender notes be issued, and that the public debt be paid as rapidly as possible by applying for this purpose the idle surplus now in the Treasury, were presented and severally referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. BRUMM: Of citizens of Georgia.

By Mr. COMSTOCK: Of citizens of Ionia County, Michigan.

By Mr. CONGER: Of citizens of Woodward, Iowa.

By Mr. DOCKERY: Of citizens of Harrison County, Missouri.

By Mr. ELDREDGE: Of citizens of Litchfield, Hillsdale County, Michigan.

By Mr. J. T. JOHNSON: Of citizens of Fountain County and of Montgomery County, Indiana.

By Mr. O'DONNELL: Of citizens of Quincy, Branch County, and of citizens of Battle Creek, Michigan.

By Mr. PERKINS: Of citizens of Elk and Chautauqua Counties, of citizens of Labette County, and of Crawford County, Kansas.

By Mr. PETERS: Of citizens of Galva and of citizens of Harper County, Kansas.

By Mr. LANHAM: Of citizens of Texas.

By Mr. RYAN: Of citizens of Kansas.

By Mr. J. B. WEAVER: Of citizens of Washington Territory; of citizens of Pennsylvania; of Calhoun County, Texas; of citizens of Illinois; of citizens of Kansas; of citizens of Ohio; of citizens of Iowa; of citizens of Wisconsin; of citizens of Missouri; of citizens of Oregon; of citizens of Massachusetts; of citizens of West Virginia; of citizens of New Jersey; of citizens of New York; of citizens of Michigan.

By Mr. WILSON: Of citizens of Marion County, West Virginia.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, January 6, 1886.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. E. D. HUNTLEY, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, transmitting, in compliance with section 3663 of the Revised Statutes, plans and estimates for the construction of a permanent wharf at Fort Monroe, Va.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The communication, with the accompanying papers, except the maps, will be printed. The question of the printing of maps has usually been referred to the Committee on Printing. That course will be taken if there be no objection.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, transmitting, in compliance with section 3663 of the Revised Statutes, plans and estimates for the construction of a school building and barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair calls the attention of the Senate to the fact that this communication is accompanied by a number of maps, the printing of which probably would delay the printing of the communication a long time. Therefore the question of printing the maps will be referred to the Committee on Printing if there be no objection, and the communication will be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, recommending provision for comfortable quarters for the keeper of the Yorktown Monument; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

S. S. BROWN.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair lays before the Senate a communication from the Postmaster-General in reply to a resolution of December 8, 1885, in regard to S. S. Brown, of Maine, procuring the removal and appointment of postmasters in that State. What disposition shall be made of the communication? It will be read if it is desired.

Mr. HALE. I should like to have the communication of the Postmaster-General read. The list that accompanies it need not be read. Then I wish to call the attention of the Senate for a few moments to the subject.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The communication will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL,
December 28, 1885.

To the Senate of the United States:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt, on the 11th day of December instant, of an attested copy of the following resolution of the Senate, namely:

"IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES,
"December 9, 1885.

"Whereas it is alleged that S. S. Brown, a citizen of the State of Maine, has been largely instrumental in procuring the removal of certain postmasters in said State and the appointment of other persons to serve in their stead; and

"Whereas it is further alleged that said Brown has written to parties whose appointment he has procured as aforesaid letters in form and substance like the following, to wit:

"'WASHINGTON, D. C., ——, 1885.

"'DEAR SIR: I have secured your appointment as postmaster at your place. Your papers will be sent in a day or two. If you feel like sending a small sum to help defray the expense of attending to our Maine matters you may do so.

"'My mail comes to the above address.

"'Respectfully, yours,

"'S. S. BROWN.'

"Therefore,

"Resolved, That the Postmaster-General be, and is hereby, directed to furnish to the Senate a list of the post-offices in Maine and the names of the persons removed and of those appointed postmasters of the same where the said S. S. Brown has favorably recommended the same or indorsed the applications therefor.

"Attest:

"ANSON G. MCCOOK,
"Secretary."

And in response thereto to state that the said Brown indorsed the several petitions of numerous citizens for the removal of the postmasters at East Vassalborough and North Vienna, in Kennebec County; at Naples, in Cumberland County, and at North Shapleigh, in York County, in the State of Maine, and in no other case discoverable after careful examination or known to any officer of the Department; but that all removals in that State during my incumbency of this office were based upon special representations by citizens of the respective localities, including the four above named; and also that, in point of fact, affirmed on my knowledge, so far as my personal attention has been given to the action taken, and on the knowledge of the First Assistant Postmaster-General for the residue of the statement, the appointments of all persons to be postmasters in the State of Maine, during the period mentioned, have been made upon petitions and communications from citizens within the respective deliveries of the several offices concerned, and in no case because of the recommendation of said Brown.

That, however, many such petitions for appointment have been presented through the mediation of, and sometimes indorsed and sometimes favorably recommended by, S. S. Brown, as chairman of the Democratic State central committee of Maine; and herewith accompanying I transmit a list of all post-offices in that State from which the postmasters have been removed during the period aforesaid, with the names of the removed and of the newly appointed postmasters, where any indorsement or recommendation by said Brown has been made or appears on any petition or communication presented in favor of such appointed postmaster.

WM. F. VILAS,
Postmaster-General.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, before this communication shall be sent to a proper committee I desire to call the attention of the Senate to the important subjects-matter contained in it.

Everybody realizes that within the last half-dozen years there has been in the country a growing sentiment with reference to the conduct and management of the civil service of the Government. Ideas upon this subject have taken root with the people, and have found form and expression through the press, through the platforms of the great political parties, and indeed in the every-day utterances of men. It has become more and more the belief of the American people that the civil service of the Government should be for the good of all. It is a civil service paid for by all, and therefore should benefit all. The growth of the belief that appointments to office should not be merely a reward of party service or personal service has undoubtedly been marked; and, above all, men have become convinced and the country has desired that the civil service should be a pure service. Now, in order that there shall be a pure civil service in the United States, it must inevitably have a pure foundation. There must be no taint of bargain and sale about the distribution of patronage, because if that taint be found then it will infect the whole service.

All parties have recognized this. It has found expression in their platforms, both Republican and Democratic.

There has been in the State of Maine, which I have the honor in part to represent here, a remarkable condition of affairs within the last six months. That is a State where there are no great centers of patronage. There is but one considerable custom-house in the State, and that not of the largest grade or rank. There are in the whole State but few great offices of emolument and trust to invite able men as candidates for filling them. There is none of the paraphernalia of the great business of the Land Office, its registration and all of the force necessary to carry on that department of the Government. The great Bureau of Internal Revenue has little, almost no representation in the State, there being a single district with a collector, with no great pay and a very small clerical force, for but little is collected. There are but thirty-seven Presidential appointments to post-offices in the State; but scattered over its entire territory, ramifying everywhere, are the fourth-class post-offices, numbering several hundreds. Out of about nine hundred of these post-offices perhaps a hundred outside of the larger towns and the few cities range in value to the incumbent from $200 to just within $1,000 per year, and the rest are far below this and insignificant in point of compensation.

But, Mr. President, there is no Department of the Government that comes so near to the people of the State of Maine as does the Post-Office Department through its representatives in the fourth-class postmasters. They do the business of the public; they are intrusted with its mails and to a great degree with the people's secrets, and nowhere is found so much interest in having a good and pure service as in this Department of the Government.

When the administration of President Cleveland came into power it found this situation in the State of Maine: The incumbents of these small post-offices were attending to their duties and no complaint was made. They were generally Republicans undoubtedly. A long course of power in the Republican party had resulted not universally, not entirely, but in a large majority being Republicans.

I wish to say here now that I make no appeal for these men who have been removed. The letters that I have received calling attention to the scandals that have brought disrepute on this branch of the service in the State of Maine do not come from Republicans; they do not come from men who have been removed from office. I want to say here that the Republicans who have been holding office heretofore have expected to go out but in a "decent and orderly" fashion. Their belief in the wants and necessities and clamor of Democratic partisans has been so great that they never expected to be kept long in office, I speak not for them, but in the interest of political morality.

The Administration proceeded cautiously with reference to the large post-offices and but few changes have been made in the State. The President maintained a conservative attitude, and while he was beset by constant delegations from the State of Maine to make a clean and general sweep of the Presidential post-offices he declined, and but few removals were made.

But, as my colleague knows and as I know, the situation in the State outside of the great offices was soon found to be this: A village upon the coast with a good postmaster performing his duty, with Democratic aspirants for the office, as they had a right to aspire, who had secured the favor of their fellow-citizens by petitions for a removal and appointment, would wake up on some bright morning in the summer and find that a new man had been appointed whom nobody wanted, whom neither Democrat nor Republican desired to fill the place, who was objectionable to the patrons of the office. At once the question arose, how had this been done, and the further question arose whether this was civil-service reform and a purification of the service.

Somewhere in the interior, a little town with a post-office paying $200 or $300 a year would join unitedly, Democratic and Republican, for the appointment of a Democrat of character and standing, and the papers would be presented or sent to Washington, and the morning mail would bring the announcement that another man for whom nobody was supposed to have signed had been appointed postmaster. And so it went on from week to week, the ax constantly falling, but the source of the decree by which the ax fell being a mystery to the people in the several post-office districts where the change had been made.

Soon inquiry was directed as to how this had been. Deputations visited the Democratic candidates for Congress in the districts, who told them they knew nothing. They visited the Democratic candidate for governor, who is a citizen of my town, who told them that he knew nothing. Attention was then called to the fact that the chairman of the Democratic State committee, Mr. S. S. Brown, who is mentioned in the resolution, had left his home in Waterville and his practice of law there, had shut up his office, and had come to Washington to attend to the distribution of patronage under the civil-service-reform administration of the Government.

That called further attention to the fact that when the Democratic party in Maine found itself face to face with the distribution of patronage, it discovered that the old and conservative forces of that party were not equal to the occasion; and when the Democratic State committee met, in view of the distribution of patronage in the State, the old chairman was left out, and this new man, Mr. S. S. Brown, substituted in his place. As I shall show presently, he discloses the purposes and the doings of the meeting where he was directed to take charge of certain Maine patronage.

When it was found that this one-man power was working in this manner, in many cases without regard to the representation of the several communities affected, when it was discovered that here was the source of removals, a great indignation arose throughout the State. I began to get letters, as I said, not from Republicans, but from Democrats. A prominent Democrat, not in my own State but who visits it in summer and has become interested in a locality where a postmaster has lately been removed, says in a letter to me:

The removal of the postmaster (who had indorsements sufficiently strong, as was said to me in the Postmaster-General's office, to secure the appointment of a Cabinet officer), under the circumstances, was simply disgraceful, and ought to be exposed and the blame put where it belongs.

Another letter says of a candidate who was not appointed: "His location was in the right place, and he had the indorsement of the Democratic member of the county of the Democratic State committee, and is a reliable man, but he was set aside by Brown, and a candidate who went to Washington with money in pocket was appointed. Another says:

She sent a petition—

Referring to the candidate who was put in—

She sent a petition signed by three patrons of this office. The remainder of her petitioners, or nearly all, live miles away. We—

The people—

We sent a remonstrance signed by eighty-four, all patrons of this office, and yet she has had an appointment sent her contrary to the wishes of all parties. We feel outraged and will not patronize the office.

I could go on reading these complaints for an hour, and I know that my colleague, and perhaps every member in the other House from the State, has just such complaints as these, which were made until it became a universal scandal and aroused the indignation not only of Republicans but of good conservative Democrats. Under these circumstances, when I came here at the beginning of the session, one of this man's letters, which he had written to one of the parties for whom he had secured an appointment, was handed to me, and I deemed the subject of sufficient importance for Congress and the American people to call for information. This was the letter on which my resolution was based:

WASHINGTON, D. C., ——, 1885.

DEAR SIR: I have secured your appointment as postmaster at your place. Your papers will be sent in a day or two. If you feel like sending a small sum to help defray the expenses of attending to our Maine matters you may do so.

My mail comes to the above address.

Respectfully, yours,

S. S. BROWN.

I made that the basis of a resolution calling for information from the Department. What I sought to obtain was entire and exhaustive information as to Brown's connection with these appointments, as to his solicitations for the same, and of appointments made where he had recommended them; and the Department's answer has just been read, signed and sent here by the Postmaster-General. Accompanying it is the following list of four Presidential post-offices where Brown recommended the change, and eighty-seven fourth-class offices:

List of post-offices in Maine, called for by the resolution of the Senate of December 9, 1885, with the names of the postmasters removed and of the persons appointed instead.

PRESIDENTIAL.

Post-office.	Postmaster.	Person appointed.
Biddeford	Esseff H. Banks	Timothy Shaw, jr.
Saccarappa	James M. Webb	N. A. Sweet.
Waterville	Willard M. Dunn	Frank L. Thayer.

FOURTH CLASS.

Lisbon	Hannah W. Garrish	J. M. Corbett.
Livermore Falls	Alvin Record	Winfield S. Trest.
Lisbon Falls	John Plummer	John H. Coombs.
Turner	William L. Bonny	Walter B. Irish.
Ashland	Ansel T. Mowers	W. P. Brigham.
Caribou	Joseph Garey	Orlando N. Smith.
Fort Fairfield	Agnes L. Paul	Miles F. Doney.
Frenchville	Alexander S. Eaton	Elai R. Marchand.
Presque Isle	George M. Lane	Mrs. T. A. Parker.
Van Buren	W. C. Hammond, jr.	J. B. A. Farrell.
Gorham	Henry R. Millett	Theo. B. Edwards.
Naples	David H. Cole	Samuel Leavitt.
Woodford's	Charles M. Legrow	A. R. Huston.
Kingfield	Charles W. Clark	Alonzo Knapp.
New Sharon	Jabez S. Moores	T. Arthur Paul.
North Jay	Warren Leland	W. Woodman.
Strong	Eben J. Gilkey	A. J. Norton.
Blue Hill	Eugene A. Stevens	T. N. B. Holt.
Brooklin	Richard A. Herrick	T. R. Alden.
Mount Desert	Jonathan Hamor	A. C. Fernald.
Orland	George H. Condon	R. P. Harriman.
South Deer Isle	Benjamin F. Warren	Benjamin F. Small.
Fremont	Eben D. Clark	Ella M. Benson.
China	F. O. Brainard	Theron E. Doe.
East Vassalborough	J. S. Butterfield	Charles W. Mower.
Kent's Hill	Noah Jewett	S. McNear.
Monmouth	F. H. Beale	M. O. Edwards.
North Vienna	J. S. Graves	H. Whittier.
Readfield	J. P. Johnson	Annie M. Craig.
Readfield Depot	Nelson Poole	S. H. Morrill.
Vassalborough	Edward W. Bush	Mary A. Hanson.
Wayne	J. S. Berry	J. C. Stubblefield.[1]
West Gardiner	William P. Haskell	A. W. De Fratus.
Windsor	H. A. N. Dutton	I. C. Bachelder.
Vinal Haven	Austin B. Binal	D. H. Glidden.
Union	R. W. Bartlett	John A. Gleason.
Round Pond	James E. Nicholls	Wiliam M. Fassett.
Dixfield Centre	D. F. Newton	Mrs. A. A. Holman.
East Dixfield	William H. Winslow	Charles H. Fuller.
West Paris	Francis A. Young	B. B. Dennen.
Charleston	Thomas J. Peaks	H. C. Holden.
Corinna	E. P. Burrill	M. P. Hamilton.
Etna	J. E. Friend	H. C. Friend.
Hampden Corner	Benjamin F. Smith	F. G. Rogen.
Kenduskeag	F. A. H. Stackpole	T. B. Bachelder.
Lincoln	Harrison Piper	M. B. Pinkham.
Medway	James T. Kimball	Freeman Dickey.
Newport	S. P. Judkins	Edgar R. Dow.
Patten	Calvin Bradford	C. W. Stevens.
Springfield	M. M. Lewis	F. L. Hanscom.
Winn	Thaddeus R. Joy	J. E. Estes.
Abbott Village	Jesse Barber	G. A. Bradman.
Greenville	John H. Eveleth	D. T. Sanders.
Guilford	George W. Pratt,	James Hudson.
Milo	Clara M. Owen	George B. Crane.
Monson	Edwin R. Hayner	Charles M. Coombes.
Bowdoin Centre	James L. Rogers	Mary A. Coombes.
Bowdoinham	A. S. Purinton	Franklin K. Jack.
Parker's Head	George Duley	William H. Small.
Brighton	L. D. Libby	Peter Walker.
Cambridge	S. E. Bailey	George Mitchell.
East Madison	Charles F. Tuffts	Mrs. H. C. Moore.
Pittsfield	F. M. Ireland	Henry F. Libby.
Brooks	James S. Huxford	F. W. Brown, jr.
Frankfort	Hiram Treat	Upton Treat.
Lincolnville	R. B. Sherman	Robert W. Perry.
Northport	O. H. Cummings	E. B. Elwell.
North Islesborough	William P. Sprague	M. P. Pendleton.
Prospect	Benjamin Colson	James F. Libby.
Sandy Point	Alexander Black	O. C. Wardwell.
Unity	H. B. Rice	James R. Tabor.
Winterport	I. H. Dunham	Jennison Grant.
Danforth	B. F. Runnels	James Robbins.[1]
Lubec	Micah M. Foster	James H. Gray.
Bar Mills	H. W. Palmer	James W. Meserve.
Berwick	William H. Rich	H. B. Tibbetts.
Cornish	William H. Nevers	I. N. Brackett.
North Shapleigh	James E. Coffin	Esther S. Thing.
West Newfield	Josiah Durgin	Albert H. Davis.
York Corner	C. H. Jenkins	George F. Plaisted.

[1] Commission held.

As I said in the beginning, of the large number of fourth-class post-offices in the State, numbering in all several hundred, perhaps one hundred of them are important enough to make it an object to hold the place, the pay ranging from $200 up to nearly $1,000. Of this class of about one hundred—I only speak approximately, not exactly—over eighty are found in that list. It is a large part of the patronage of the Post-Office Department in the State of Maine; and undoubtedly, as is suggested, if the letters sent out and the statements of citizens of Maine can be depended upon, there are hundreds of others where the appointment was procured at little places where nothing appears upon the record, for there has been almost a general sweep in this branch of the Post-Office Department in Maine, aside from the Presidential appointments, which fall under the scrutinizing eye of the President and the Postmaster-General. The Republicans have gone out and the Democrats have come in.

As to the answer to the resolution of inquiry which the Senate passed, I have no complaint to make against it. It has followed the terms of the resolution and has technically answered it; and the Postmaster-General also states that all these appointments where Brown had recommended them were made not because he recommended them, but because they were backed up by petitions. I acquit the Postmaster-General of any knowledge of this man's performances. He comes to that official armed with the indorsements of the Democratic party of the State of Maine. He was its committee's chairman, and the committee had sent him to Washington to manage this business, and it was not strange that the Postmaster-General turned this subject-matter over, as he did largely, to the First Assistant, and that that assistant depended largely upon the representations of Mr. Brown. They were ignorant, we will presume, of his ways and of his methods, but the party at home knew it, and the citizens in Maine knew it, and the whole State was scandalized by it.

We do not learn from this reply in how many cases there were different petitions, like some that have been alluded to in the letters which I have read, where a small number asked for the appointment of a certain Democrat, and he was indorsed by Brown and the appointment made, when ten times or twenty times as many asked for the appointment of another Democrat. Of that we have no knowledge. The Postmaster-General has sent us no information upon the crucial question whether or not the wishes of the people who patronized these offices were considered. We have no account of the visitations and solicitations of this man at the Post-Office Department, or how he held aloft there the authority given by his party and the committee of his party, upon which he based this infamous system of brokerage in public offices. That is not disclosed by the answer of the Postmaster-General.

But Mr. Brown himself avows this control. Driven at last to bay, with the newspapers commenting upon it, with a resolution of the Senate hanging over his head, with an indignant people aroused against him, from the retiracy and seclusion of a sick-bed, on the 10th day ot December last he sends to the public probably the most remarkable exculpatory letter that the annals of modern political literature have disclosed. I shall put the whole letter, giving him the benefit of it, into the RECORD, to accompany my remarks, so that nobody shall say that I have in any way misrepresented this man. He begins:

To the Editor of the Argus—

A Democratic paper at Portland, Me.—

DEAR SIR: For more than two weeks I have been confined to my bed with an attack of pneumonia. To-day is the first time I have been able to sit up long enough to write to you. Some three or four days ago I first became aware of what was being telegraphed from Washington about me, under the inspiration of J. P. Bass.

So that this communication, this emanation is not a hurried one, but is the result of careful reflection and thought.

The story comes I am "blacklisted" there because of the fact that certain gentlemen have seen fit to pay me for expenses incurred in securing the fourth-class post-offices: So far as the blacklisting business is concerned I care but little about that, but be it true or false, time brings all things to light, and I am content to wait, but I don't want to stand in a false light among my own acquaintances and friends, and hence I write this letter to you and ask you to publish it in the Argus, the only Democratic daily in our State.

Let me read some of the statements of the manner in which patronage is disposed of under the ruling powers in the State of Maine. He says:

Sometime in the early part of last summer our Democratic State committee determined that it was important as a political influence to have our fourth-class post-offices filled with Democrats as soon as we could have them.

I have found nothing in the civil service resolution of any party's platform that reads precisely like that.

We then agreed—

It was a harmonious compact—

We then agreed among ourselves by vote that so far as this class of officers was concerned each member of the committee in his own county should examine into cases in his own county, find out what was the wish of the local Democracy as to persons to be appointed, and recommend the person for postmaster whom the Democrats receiving mail at the various offices wanted.

The Republican patrons of the office were excluded. I am not much surprised at that.

And each member of our committee was to respect that recommendation, and I was requested, as chairman of the committee, to indorse the papers of such persons, and use my efforts to secure their appointment. I have been trying for the last six months to discharge that duty. I visited Washington three times in the discharge of this duty prior to July. On these several trips I had paid out over $300, but had accomplished but little, because the Administration was not willing to do anything for us. But in July I secured quite a large number of appointments.

The Postmaster-General does not say that Mr. Brown secured any.

Mr. Brown says that he did; and from that day the gateway was open and the appointments were made to the extent that the list indicates.

The subject of expense necessarily incurred in this work was discussed by our committee at the time and several times since, and it was the unanimous opinion that the persons who received the appointments—

Let Senators listen to this. This is giving the deliberation of the State committee of the Democratic party of the State of Maine—should be called upon to contribute each his part of the expense. When I secured the appointments in July I notified by letters a few persons of the fact of their appointment by my efforts, and suggested if they felt disposed to contribute a small sum toward the expense it would be accepted. Some responded and some did not. On reflection it seemed to me a little undignified to call in this manner for these expenses, and since then I have asked no one to contribute toward this expense.

It seems that Mr. Bass has picked up some of these letters and now has them on exhibition in Washington. If he thinks this a dignified proceeding and one that will redound to his lasting benefit he is welcome to all he can make out of it.

I have done the best I could to put Democrats into office. I have had no clients. I have done nothing that I am aware of that in any degree partakes of office brokerage, but have received the papers of such candidates as have been sent to me and such as I have found on file in Washington properly indorsed by the members of my committee and other leading Democrats in their several counties and tried to secure their appointment. The amount of actual work performed by me in answering letters, explaining about charges, and giving all sorts of information can not be well appreciated. I have abandoned my law business for six months and paid out at least $200 more than I have received. If some one else will now take hold and do the balance of this work—for I believe fully in giving the Democrats all the post-offices—I will be content.

Respectfully, yours,

S. S. BROWN,

Chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Maine.

Mr. President, this is "reform" with a vengeance; this is "purifying the public service;" this is "cleansing the Augean stables;" this is "turning the rascals out;" this is "securing a non-partisan service!" Let Senators reflect for a moment upon the proposition that men who are appointed to office shall be assessed for the expenses attendant upon that appointment. Does any Senator know where the line would be drawn? The whole brokerage business is not even thinly disguised. Let any party proceed upon that presumption that men appointed to office shall be assessed for obtaining the office, then you have got every source of patronage polluted and the service is debauched and destroyed. And this man was empowered, as he says, by his party to do this.

It is due to fairness to say that several old Democratic members of the State committee deny their knowledge that Brown was given such powers; but that he acted by the general direction of the committee there is no reason to doubt.

Why, Mr. President, Senators will remember three years ago when the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BECK] and I and others vexed this body for days with our contention over a resolution which he submitted calling for an investigation where voluntary contributions had been requested from men in office, a committee of the Republican party did what had been done by both parties for years: it sent out circulars asking men in office if they were willing to contribute something to the legitimate expenses of the campaign; and the Senator from Kentucky introduced a resolution demanding an investigation and denouncing the act in the severest terms; and the chairman of the Republican committee, who had sent out these circulars, doing no more than others had done, doing no more than I had done when chairman of that committee in previous years, found the whole newspaper press of the country upon his back, and his name was coined into a new word expressing improper levies upon men in office in the way of assessments.

Mr. President, that was a thing of the slightest importance compared with this of assessing men, who are appointed, to pay the expenses of that appointment. That, it may be, muddies the water; this poisons the fountain. This selling and marketing of public office has been the sign and accompaniment of corruption and corrupt parties for all the ages. Shakespeare puts the reproach of "an itching palm" into the mouth of the incorruptible Brutus where he denounces the venal Cassius—

He sold his offices to undeservers.

Mr. President, there is one thing more with this that will make entire havoc of political morality. When you add to the bargaining and selling of public places one other thing, the perversion, the thwarting, the denial, the debauching of the suffrage, then political honesty may cry aloud in the streets. When that condition of affairs has set in with the American people then you have an evil so colossal that civil-service boards and examinations for promotion and appointment are "mere leather and prunella;" they do not begin to touch the evil; and here we are confronted, in my own State at any rate, by this condition of things. It is the first time in the history of that State that anything of this kind has appeared.

The Republican party has not been by any means a perfect party; it has not always succeeded in getting the best men to hold its offices, but in twenty-four years of the administration of that party of the General Government with the patronage of the State of Maine in its hands, with a Senate to confirm always with the exception of two brief years, I have never heard the charge made that a public office had been sold and marketed for money, whether under the guise of paying for expenses or paying for maintaining a brokerage in public office; and no man in the State of Maine, or out, I venture to say, has heard of it. I do not know whether this infamous system has extended to other States. I do not know what the process has been there. I do not know whether State committees have taken charge in other States of patronage, and have beat at the doors of the President and the doors of the Departments, demanding that their fiat shall be carried out as to appointments. I do not know how it has been done in other States. I asked the other day an old employé of the House of Representatives, whom I had known in former years of my service there, if a good many members had been here during the summer. "Yes, sir," he said, "never so many; mostly Democrats." He said: "I do not think that the Indiana Democrats have left here at all. It appeared as though each was afraid somebody else would get ahead of him, and they have been here."

Mr. VOORHEES. Allow me to say to the Senator from Maine——

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Maine yield?

Mr. HALE. Certainly.

Mr. VOORHEES. Allow me to say to the Senator that he was keeping company at that time with a man who did not tell the truth. Whether that has been his misfortune in regard to other branches or this discussion or not I do not know; but I happen to know that the statement which he has just entertained the Senate with is absolutely untrue.

Mr. HALE. I am only giving the statement made to me by an employé of the other House; and I was going to say that if the Indiana delegation did—and I do not care whether they did or did not remain here on the ground to control patronage—it was an infinitely better way than it was to select a man, as the Democratic State committee of Maine did, and send him on with concentrated power to distribute the patronage of the Government among the people of the State of Maine; and if the Senator from Indiana, putting aside his characteristic modesty in such matters, consented at the solicitation of his people to remain here in Washington and to help advise the President and the heads of Departments, a better result would have come out of it, I am sure, than resulted in the State of Maine.

Now, the question is, What shall be done in this case? I am not particular. The papers should go to a proper committee, perhaps that upon civil service, as the case touches the great question which is committed to that committee, and a further investigation, if need be, made; but I care not whether it is done or not. That letter by the chairman of the Democratic State committee of the State of Maine, citing his authority, giving the discussion upon which it was confided to him, and what he did and his intending to exact assessments from men for whom he had secured appointments to cover expenses, tells the whole story. No investigation can go beyond that. The man seems to be color-blind as to what is or is not political morality. He would not be of that importance that he is excepting as the representative of the organization that sent him here.

Mr. President, I have not called up this matter because I care about one of these offices. As I have said, the Republicans of Maine are not dependent upon them. They made gallant fights years ago when they had no patronage, and expect to do it again and to continue to battle for the cause and for the principles of the Republican party; and I trust it will not be seen that their numbers have been lessened by the loss of patronage. They expect under these clamorous demands of the Democratic party to go out of office, but they expect to do it decently and orderly, and it is a shame to my State that the system of brokerage in public office should have been—I will not say inaugurated there, for I do not know whether it was inaugurated there or not, but that it should have been set up and carried out in this fashion. And when I ask for the exposure of this, I do it not in the interest of any man who has lost his place; no man upon whose neck the ax has fallen has solicited my intervention; but the facts furnish such an example of the insincerity of the cry of civil-service reform, of regarding the wishes of the people, and of getting pure men from pure sources and upon examinations into the public service in proper ways, that I deemed it fitting to bring it before the Senate. I have asked the exposure in the interest of the people of Maine, including the Republican party and the honest conservative Democracy of Maine, and they are numbered by thousands, who to-day are shocked and indignant at what has been done by the leaders of their party.

I do not know what will become of this man. I have little or no acquaintance with him; I know but little about him or his antecedents before this, except in one marked case of our State history, and that is not to his credit; but there he stands, sir, to-day with the indorsement of the Democratic party for the State of Maine. He is still chairman of its committee that manages its campaigns and represents the party before the people. I have heard of no attempt at deposing him, but, whether deposed or not, the people of the State of Maine will remember him and will girdle him as a tree is girdled, so that his power for evil will cease for the future. I am willing to commit him to the mercies of people of the State of Maine.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, it would be sufficient answer to the Senator from Maine in his extraordinary speech if it were simply announced—and that announcement would meet the assent of every intelligent person here—that in the nature of things it is impossible that the President of the United States or the heads of the Departments in an administration just coming into power, or which has been for a term in power, should know the qualifications and merits or demerits of applicants for local office in the respective States. If my own personal convenience and comfort were alone concerned, and I will frankly say that if I could have my own way in regard to the distribution of patronage, I would make it a misdemeanor for any Senator or Representative to approach the Departments or the President to solicit office. But it has obtained as a practice in this Government that this thing should be done, and the people who send us here have come to believe that it is the common law of politics that Senators and Representatives should solicit for their friends offices of an administration which they have helped to place in power.

The Postmaster-General has simply availed himself of the only instrumentality which could in the nature of things give him information in regard to offices in the State of Maine. Was that Postmaster-General to go to the two Senators from Maine, his political opponents and decided partisans? Was he to go to the representation of the State in the other House, men who belong to a party antagonistic to his own? He could only go to the instrumentality or agency or representative nearest to him in the party to which he belonged; and with due respect to the Senator from Maine it is cant, miserable political cant, to talk of anything else being done in regard to this patronage under the circumstances which surrounded that State. It has always been done. The Senator seems to have discovered, he thinks, some new and strange abuse which has come into vogue since the present Administration.

Mr. President, let me state on my own personal knowledge—and I am prepared to bring the papers here at any instant to prove from their signers, from irrefragable testimony what I say—the State of Missouri had a solid Democratic delegation in the last Congress and every district in that State was represented by a Republican, the referee of the Administration, who said what persons should obtain office and what should not. I have seen, and they are now on file in the Post-Office Department, applications for office from the respective districts in Missouri referred to Mr. So-and-so, the referee in such cases.

Further than that, I assert the fact of my own personal knowledge and my colleague's that men remained in this city from the State of Missouri, Republicans, by the year, month, and day, with no other business here but to distribute the patronage of that State. More than that, sir, I know from my personal knowledge, and can substantiate it from the papers on file, that it was urged as an argument against any man in the Republican party applying for office that he had the friendly feeling of my colleague or myself, and the written indorsement can be found there to-day: "This man is indorsed by VEST and COCKRELL;" therefore he is unfit to hold office under the Government!

The Senator from Maine has just discovered that that is a new abuse. Sir, I congratulate him on his new-born zeal for civil-service reform. In the administration of General Grant $25,000 was appropriated to pay for the services of a civil-service commission, and three gentlemen were appointed. After one year, certainly before the end of two, the appropriation was withdrawn; and although that distinguished President, soldier, and statesman called repeatedly in his messages upon a Republican Congress to appropriate the pittance of $25,000 to preserve the life of civil-service reform, not one cent could be obtained! His successor in office, Mr. Hayes, made the same appeal, and without any result. His successor in office, General Garfield, made the same appeal, and not a dollar was appropriated. President Arthur made the same appeal in his inaugural message, and not one cent could be had until after the election of 1882, at which the Democratic party swept the country, when it was all at once discovered that civil-service reform was the great panacea for all the evils that afflicted the body-politic. Not until the people at the polls had spoken did the Republican party come to the relief of the public press; and that too, sir, when the Pendleton bill had been reported from the Committee to Examine the Several Branches of the Civil Service, and for months had remained in this Chamber without notice on the part of the dominant party in the Senate. It remained here without notice, and had no more chance for passage than I have to carry this Capitol away now in the palm of my hand but for the elections of 1882. Then the Republicans picked up the bill and passed it, and said "it is our savior, let us burn incense on its altar."

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, the Senator from Missouri with all his ingenuity shall not twist and distort the main issue here. That the wholesale removal of competent and faithful officials and the substituting in their place of Democratic partisans is a violation of every pledge of civil-service reform is undoubtedly the fact; but that is not the penetrating, corrupting, and destructive practice that I mainly call attention to here. That itself is bad enough as the representation of professions that are made to be broken, of promises that are given never to be kept; but that is little, as I said before, in comparison with this great colossal evil that will destroy the public service by selling and marketing public offices. That the Senator has not touched upon. I have, and I have said that in twenty-four years, with all the mistakes and errors germane to human life which the Republican party may have committed, no charge of this kind has been made in my State.

Mr. VEST. Will the Senator permit me a word?

Mr. HALE. Yes.

Mr. VEST. I inadvertently neglected to state what I do now state, that when my colleague and myself, from the repeated practice which obtained in the State of Missouri under the Republican administration, undertook to find how certain gentlemen could remain in this city to manage the patronage in the State at their own expense, we never were able to find a letter from them, because they were acute and finished politicians, but we did find conclusive proof that in certain localities where certain appointments had been made money had been raised by the parties who were appointed. We could not, in the nature of things, find evidence that this money had been directly paid; but it is safe to assume, and I believe, and I think I could convince the moral judgment of any one acquainted with the facts, that these gentlemen from Missouri did not remain here from day to day and month to month at their own expense from a patriotic desire to properly distribute the public patronage.

Mr. HALE. Well, Mr. President, if the Senator found that condition in his State, or had reason to suspect it, he should have done what I have done. It was in this case no piece of good luck in finding a letter of this man demanding pay for his services in procuring office, but it was impossible to escape these letters; they went broadcast throughout the State, and therefore I have called attention to the subject; and the Senator from Missouri ought to have called attention to anything of that kind, because this is a matter that rises above party.

I assume that no Senator here would wish for a moment that in his own State the public places should be the subject of brokerage. If that contamination has reached the Senate—and I know that it has not—then the disease is too far gone for remedy. I do not believe that it has. I believe in pillorying the men who have set afloat this infamous system. I meant to say, and with the leave of the Senate I will incorporate it in my remarks, that certain members, old Democratic members, of the State committee deny that this man was given this authority by the committee, or that they ever knew that he was authorized to make assessments upon men appointed at his intervention. It is proper that I should say that out of deference to those gentlemen.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, happening to be out for a moment, perhaps looking after the interest of some honest man who wants a place under the Government and has a right to ask for it, I did not hear the letter of the Postmaster-General when it was read at the desk. Consequently, when I came in and found a Senator on the floor making an hour speech, I sent to the desk for the letter and obtained it and have read it. I wanted to know what this was all about, and I find an issue of the immense proportions disclosed by this communication that three Presidential postmasters in Maine have been changed by this Administration and several more of the fourth-class persuasion. I find also the statement by the Postmaster-General that the name of Mr. S. S. Brown—whoever or whatever he may be is unknown to me—is found upon the recommendations on which four changes were made, including the three Presidential offices. Why, sir, when I heard the Senator from Maine wailing his grievances here, I thought that Maine had been flooded with political blood, that there had been wholesale decapitation, that the guillotine had worked everywhere even up into the little village so poetically described as under the fringe of the dark forest. Instead of that it does not seem to me that there has been enough of change in the State of Maine to answer the demand which the American people made last fall when they decreed that the administration of this Government should be changed and put in other hands. Let us see how the Postmaster-General presents this question. After reciting the resolution heretofore adopted by this body, the Postmaster-General proceeds to say:

That the said Brown indorsed the several petitions of numerous citizens for the removal of the postmasters at East Vassalborough and North Vienna, in Kennebec County—

Two—

at Naples, in Cumberland County—and at North Shapleigh, in York County, in the State of Maine—

Three—

Four in all—

and in no other case discoverable after careful examination or known to any officer of the Department.

I have heard small questions, which were magnified into important ones, designated as a great cry over a small amount of wool. We have had it here in an eminent degree.

Mr. HALE. Does the Senator mean to let it go that that is the extent of the intervention of this man Brown, as shown by the letter of the Postmaster-General?

Mr. VOORHEES. I mean to let it go that those are the four positions wherein he joined other numerous recommendations for changes, three of which were Presidential and one not.

Mr. HALE. The Senator is mistaken.

Mr. VOORHEES. No. I will correct what you think is my mistake; but it is not my mistake. Of course he took part in changes affecting minor offices. I am glad to analyze the grievances of the Senator from Maine wherein Brown has done so much wrong, first as to three Presidential post-offices and one other that is designated here by the Postmaster-General. Then the Postmaster-General proceeds to say that in other cases he recommended changes. No doubt about that. How many fourth-class postmasters have suffered the tortures of political execution up in Maine I do not know. I sympathize with them. It has been a long time since any of that political family suffered in that way. On our side of the Chamber we are used to it. We know how to behave under dangers of that kind perhaps better than the other side, but after a little time is past I think they will learn also. [Laughter.] I hope so, at least.

Now, Mr. President, the Senator from Maine makes a grievance as to a person in his State. It may be that all his points are well taken. I am not here to challenge the accuracy of his arraignment of Mr. Brown. I know nothing of Mr. Brown. If he has done what the Senator from Maine charges him with the Senator has done a public duty and a favor to the Democratic party, which he did not intend, by exposing him. I hope that all such people will be promptly brought to condemnation and contempt. Whether these accusations are just or not, I say I remit to that locality up yonder where the Senator says he will be girdled by the people; but I do humbly protest, Mr. President, that it seems to me the Senate of the United States has become a meeting not much larger than often frequents a cross-roads when we have to listen to such grievances in regard to fourth-class post-offices and the like up in the State of Maine. Does the Senator from Maine suppose that he can make an impression upon the country that the Democratic party sympathize with practices like those he charges upon this man Brown?

The Senator, I think a little forgetful, saw fit to base a statement on some informer's false information that the whole delegation from Indiana had pretty much camped here during the summer-time. I think I was away from this capital more than the Senator from Maine. I was in distant courts and at distant places and at my home from the time of the adjournment until a little while before we met again. Some of my colleagues in the other House came here and went away. Some did not come at all. But for all that we have done we will stand responsible before our people and here in the Senate and House.

I do not know that I quite agree with my eloquent and gifted friend from Missouri upon one point. I may be made of more patient clay than he is. I am willing to trust and help those people who have helped me, and I have but little respect for a man—I mean no personal application to anybody—who is not. At any rate I go my rounds; I help the people who put this Administration in power to hold office under it, believing solemnly with all the great exponents of the Democratic party from Jefferson and Jackson down that when the people proclaim their desire for a change in the administration of their Government they expect the head of that administration and those whom he calls around him to administer this Government through friendly hands by friendly hearts and friendly minds. There is not a business man within the hearing of my voice who would employ in any subordinate capacity those who did not wish him to succeed, those who did not wish him business prosperity; and I proclaim but the universal experience of parties and of nations when I say that that principle applies to them as well as to business of a less public nature.

Mr. VEST. I hope my friend from Indiana will permit me to say one word. I understand the Senator; and I think we shall have no misunderstanding when we understand each other. I was unfortunate in my expression if I did not convey the idea that if I consulted my own personal convenience and comfort I would make it a misdemeanor for a Senator or Representative to solicit patronage. I meant to say that.

Mr. VOORHEES. Yes, the Senator did say it.

Mr. VEST. I always work for my people.

Mr. VOORHEES. I know that, and none do more so. These observations that I make are made with my entire friendliness and with perfect respect to the other side of the Chamber. You gentlemen have acted upon the principle I have laid down ever since you have been in power, and you would do it again to-morrow (and you know it) if you had the power. I am willing for civil-service reform to have all the fair chances to which it is entitled. I was not for the present law. I do not think its workings have justified those who were for it or condemned my opposition. I make no opposition now to it. I hope that it will advance the public interest if it is possible for it to do so; but holding these views I, recurring to the Senator from Maine, must protest against being held responsible for what has, perhaps improperly, taken place in his State.

Mr. HALE. Mr. President, I move that the communication and papers be referred to the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment.

Mr. LOGAN. Before that is done I desire to say a word. I do not wish to enter into this discussion, for my friend from Maine is perfectly competent to take care of himself and his State; but I desire to call the attention of the Senator from Missouri to one fact which I think he overlooked in his statement in reference to President Grant and President Hayes and President Garfield having called upon Congress to appropriate money that the commission might proceed under the law of civil-service reform, as it is termed. Does he not remember that the Congress of the United States from 1874, I believe up to the present time, has never been really in the hands of the Republican party? Does he not remember that the appropriation bills coming from the House of Representatives to be agreed to by the Senate of the United States were in the hands of the Democratic party, who refused to appropriate money for any such purpose? For one Congress during this whole time the Senate was in the hands of the Democratic party.

I only mention this to call the attention of the Senator to the fact that the country may understand this proposition and not be led to believe that the Republican party had power to continue the commission and appropriate money for it when the refusal was made by those in control of Congress, being the party opposed to the then existing administrations.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, the Democratic party has never controlled the Senate but once, and that was during two years, in all the time since 1861.

Mr. LOGAN. That is very true, but it has controlled the other House.

Mr. VEST. Exactly.

Mr. LOGAN. I take it that the Congress (which includes both the House and the Senate) has never been entirely in the hands of the Republican party from 1874 or 1875 to the present time. One time when you might say it was in the hands of the Republican party the Senate was really in the power of Mr. Davis, who had the casting vote in the Senate of the United States. If Mr. Davis voted with the Democratic party it had a majority of one. Really never since that time I mentioned, during Grant's administration, Hayes's administration, and the Garfield administration, has the Congress of the United States been in the hands of the Republican party so that they could control legislation.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, if the Republican party had such an exceeding love for civil-service reform as is now manifested here, if they considered the necessity for civil-service reform so immediate and overreaching, it is very remarkable that the Senator from Illinois and other distinguished Senators on the Republican side who had places here did not attempt to amend the appropriation bills in that regard when they came from the House of Representatives without any such appropriation within their limits. I have never yet heard of this question being mooted here.

Mr. LOGAN. If the Senator will allow me, I will not state it as a fact, because the Senator to whom I alluded is absent now, but I think on an examination of the records it will be found that the Senator from Vermont [Mr. EDMUNDS] did make the proposition in this body. But I did not call the attention of the Senator to this fact for the purpose of discussing whether the Republican party was in favor of the civil-service-reform law or not. I only called his attention to the fact that he might correct, if he chose to do so, the statement which he made that the Republican party never supported the administration when it asked for these things. I called his attention to the fact that they could not do it because they were not in power. That is all. The question who was for the civil-service-reform law as it exists is not a question that I desire to enter into at this time.

Mr. VEST. With a view to historical accuracy in this matter, I ask the Senator from Illinois if it is not the fact that from 1881 to 1883 his party held both branches of Congress?

Mr. VOORHEES. The Forty-seventh Congress.

Mr. LOGAN. Certainly they did.

Mr. VEST. Then there was an era in which the Republican party could have enacted this law if they wished—from 1881 to 1883. But there is another remarkable fact——

Mr. LOGAN. I made an inadvertent admission when the Senator said the Republicans held both branches of Congress from 1881 to 1883. I desire to correct the statement. They did not. The Republicans held the House of Representatives. The Senate was Democratic for one term; afterward it was a tie, with the vote of Senator Davis on the Democratic side, giving them a majority of 1.

Mr. HOAR. The Senator will pardon me. The vote of Senator Davis on the Democratic side made a tie.

Mr. LOGAN. I beg pardon; that is true.

Mr. HOAR. Voting with us, he made our majority two. No legislation could be passed without the assent of Mr. Davis.

Mr. VEST. I will ask the Senator, then, who controlled the committees of this body during that time? They were controlled by the Republican party. But further than that, every one of the committees was in charge of the Republican party during the time I have named. I recollect that I took my seat here in March, 1879. For two years we held the Senate with Mr. Thurman, of Ohio, as President pro tempore; and after that the committees, the legislative power of this body, passed into the hands of the Republican party. But in addition——

Mr. HOAR. Will the Senator pardon me on a mere matter of fact?

Mr. VEST. Certainly.

Mr. HOAR. The Senator will remember that in the session of which he speaks the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Bayard, now Secretary of State, was elected by the Democratic party President pro tempore. He held the office a single day, I think, but it may have been two days. Then it seemed to Mr. Davis, of Illinois, a most eminent gentleman, that a good arrangement would be to have the Republicans hold the committees and the Democrats hold the offices of the Senate. That was done, and Mr. Davis, who was an Independent, was elected President pro tempore by the Republicans, Mr. Davis announcing in his inaugural address that that was a tribute by the Republican party to the independent position which he occupied in the politics of the country. Now, in regard to the matter of the organization of the committees, the Republicans had the Senate by two votes, including Mr. Davis's. In the matter of the offices we could have made no change, because Mr. Davis's vote with the Democrats would have made a tie.

Mr. VEST. I recollect very distinctly the transaction to which the Senator from Massachusetts alludes. I recollect very distinctly that the Senator from Illinois——

Mr. HOAR. The Senator will pardon me one further sentence. As I have made this suggestion about the facts, I do not wish to be understood as claiming for a moment that the Republican party, whether in the majority or minority during those years, was in favor of the appropriation for the Civil Service Commission. Neither party was. The cause was a growth, a reform, and it was intended to reform abuses which, while they had begun under the Democratic party from Jackson and Jefferson down, had been increased under the Republican party, and it was a reform which made its way slowly in the minds of both parties; but it is equally true that both political parties in the country, the Republican party leading the way and the Democratic party following it, have now placed in their platforms and public professions the doctrine of adhesion to the principle of divesting the civil service from politics; and I suppose the Senator from Missouri will not question that. The profession of the letter of acceptance, the inaugural address, and the message of President Cleveland, and the utterances of President Hayes and President Grant are all in favor of it.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, I repel the assertion of the Senator from Maine taunting the Democratic party with insincerity in its professions of admiration of civil-service reform as compared with its practice, and I have the right to refer that Senator to the record of his own party, showing that in its platform for more than twelve years it professed zeal for civil-service reform, that all its Presidents from General Grant on had specially recommended an appropriation for civil-service reform, and still that they had neglected these appeals; and never until they were defeated in 1882 did they manifest any disposition to take this subject up and deal with it. I assert now that the Democratic party have not since 1861 held the legislative power of this country. We have had the House without the Senate; and we have had the House and Senate without the President; but from 1881 to 1883 the Republican party held both Houses of Congress together with the Presidency.

As I was about to say, ex-Senator Davis was nominated for President pro tempore by my distinguished friend from Illinois [Mr. LOGAN]. I recollect it very distinctly, and I take it for granted that so eminent a Republican as my friend would never have put in the chair, in the lineal line of succession to the Presidency, any gentleman who was not perfectly sound on civil-service reform. I take that for granted. It is true that President Cleveland and President Grant made like professions in favor of civil-service reform. It is not for me now to defend the Administration. I express simply my own personal sentiments as a member of the Democratic party.

President Cleveland has undertaken, in my judgment honestly and conscientiously, to carry out every scintilla and iota of the principles announced in his letter of acceptance and, as he understands, in the platform of the Democratic party. Of that I have no question. He has made appointments which were not acceptable to large numbers of Democrats; but if there is one complaint that has come up from the Democratic party more than any other it has been that he has not made enough; and it is astonishing to me to hear intimation from any portion of this Chamber, or at least from the opposite side of the Chamber, that President Cleveland has not conformed to every particle of the pledges which he made to the people of the United States prior to his election.

Mr. HALE. I move that the papers be printed and referred to the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Maine moves that the communication be referred to the Committee on Civil Service and Retrenchment, and printed.

The motion was agreed to.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore presented a petition of the Board of Trade of Portland, Oreg., praying sufficient appropriations for the Signal Service to enable it to continue work and enlarge its sphere of operations; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. VOORHEES presented a petition of 80 soldiers and 102 citizens of Ripley County, Indiana, praying the enactment of a law placing on the pension-rolls the names of all honorably discharged soldiers and the widows of those who are dead; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MORRILL presented the petition of Professor Joseph Echteler, of Hoboken, N. J., praying the repeal of duties on works of art; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. LOGAN presented a petition of John Moore, late private Fifty-eighth Indiana Veteran Volunteers, praying to be allowed a pension; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented the petition of Joseph F. Wilson, of Peoria, Ill., praying indemnity for costs and other expenses in litigating title to certain lands in the State of Indiana; which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. CALL presented the petition of F. Bauer, J. O'Neal, and other citizens of Warrington, Fla., praying the cession by the Government to the State of Florida of a portion of the naval reserve adjoining the navy-yard at Pensacola, Fla.; which was referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also presented a petition of clerks in the Railway Mail Service of the United States praying to be placed on an equal footing with other clerks in Government employ as regards compensation and leaves of absence; which was referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, presented the petition of J. B. Morrison and 10 other members of the Allen W. Miller Post, No. 328, Grand Army of the Republic, and 20 other citizens of Iowa, praying for the passage of an act granting a pension to the heirs of Daniel J. Strunk, late a private in Company G, Second Regiment Iowa Volunteer Infantry; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented the petition of F. W. Myer and 103 other citizens of Iowa, praying that the land laws be so amended that none but citizens of the United States can acquire title to public lands; which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also presented the petition of W. T. Walker and 111 other citizens of Iowa, praying the passage of an act of absolute forfeiture of the unearned portion of the land grant to the Sioux City and Saint Paul Railroad Company; which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. EVARTS presented a resolution adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of New York favoring legislation recognizing the merit and value of the corrugated-iron life-car and other appliances connected with lifeboats invented by Joseph Francis; which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I present a petition of the United Labor League of America, praying for the promotion of Lieut. Gen. Philip A. Sheridan to the position of a full General of the Army. It consists of but three pages, and I ask unanimous consent to have the petition printed in the RECORD and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The petition was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Petition of the United Labor League of America, requesting the promotion of Lieut. Gen. Philip A. Sheridan to the position of full General of the Army.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 5, 1886.

At a meeting of the United Labor League of America, held in Washington, D. C., on the 27th day of December, 1885, it was resolved that—

Whereas Lieut. Gen. Philip A. Sheridan, was mainly instrumental in striking the final blow which crushed the great rebellion, and compelled the surrender of General Robert E. Lee, as the records of the war will show; and

Whereas we consider he is justly entitled to the rank, title, grade, honor, and emolument of General of the Army just as much as the other two great captains, Grant and Sherman, upon whom Congress conferred that distinction for eminent services during the late war, but in our opinion not any more eminent or more useful to the nation, or more practical in their final results, than those rendered by Lieut. Gen. Philip A. Sheridan. His brilliant achievements in the Shenandoah Valley and at Winchester, Va., have deservedly won for him the sobriquet of the "Orlando" of our armies. He was the only general in our late war who repeated history; and who by his own prowess, quickness of perception, military skill, personal magnetism, and power to inspire men with confidence in his superior ability to command them in a terrible emergency, rushed onto the field of battle at Cedar Creek, Va.; halted and wheeled around a fleeing, demoralized, and a defeated army; and he then and there fought the battle over again on that same day, and changed an ignominious defeat into the most glorious victory of the war.

This victory won from General Grant the unmistakable language that it had "stamped Sheridan with what he always thought him to be, one of the ablest of generals."

General Meade, in a dispatch to General Grant, speaks of it thus: "To achieve such results, after having met the reverse he describes, is one of the most brilliant feats of the war."

President Abraham Lincoln says, on September 20, 1864:

"I have just heard of your great victory. God bless you all, officers and men. Strongly inclined to come down and see you."

On October 22, 1864, President Lincoln writes to him as follows:

"With great pleasure I tender to you and your brave army the thanks of the nation and my own personal gratitude for the month's operations in the Shenandoah Valley, and especially for the splendid work of October 19, 1864."

Therefore, in consideration of the above,

Resolved by the United Labor League of America, That for those eminent, meritorious, highly commendable, and almost unexampled military (exploits) services to his country and to the cause of human freedom throughout the whole civilized world we respectfully request, as the sovereign representatives of the workingmen of America, who are the law-making power, that Congress pass a special bill conferring the rank, title, honor, and emolument of General of the Army of the United States upon Lieut. Gen. Philip H. Sheridan, a bill similar to that already passed conferring the same rank, title, honor, and emolument on Generals Grant and Sherman for similar services.

All of which we respectfully submit for your careful consideration and favorable legislative action.

JOHN POPE HODNETT,
President and Founder United Labor League of America.

JOHN C. PURCEL,
Secretary United Labor League of America.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. BLAIR. I am directed by the Committee on Education and Labor, to whom was referred the bill (S. 194) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools, to report it back, recommending an amendment by striking out the thirteenth section, and as amended recommend its passage. Individual members of the committee reserve the right to be heard in the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be placed on the Calendar.

Mr. HOAR, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 208) for the relief of Alexander Swift & Co., partners, and Alexander Swift & Co. and the Niles Works, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PIKE, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 16) for the relief of Sallie Jarratt, executrix of Gregory Jarratt, deceased, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. JACKSON, from the Committee on Claims, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 506) for the relief of Emerson Etheridge and William B. Stokes; and

A bill (S. 7) making appropriation for the relief of the First National Bank of Newton, Mass.

Mr. DOLPH submitted the views of the minority of the Committee on Claims upon the bill (S. 506) for the relief of Emerson Etheridge and William B. Stokes; which were ordered to be printed.

Mr. JACKSON, from the Committee on Claims, to whom were referred the following bills, asked to be discharged from their further consideration and that they be referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads; which was agreed to.

A bill (S. 315) for the relief of B. F. Rockefellow; and

A bill (S. 314) for the relief of William M. Keightley.

Mr. JONES, of Arkansas, from the Committee on Claims, to whom were referred the following bills, reported them severally without amendment, and submitted reports thereon:

A bill (S. 22) for the relief of Martin and P. B. Murphy; and

A bill (S. 178) for the relief of Tobias G. Richardson and Albert Baldwin, testamentary executors of the succession of Cora A. Slocomb, Ida A. Richardson, and Caroline A. Urquhart.

Mr. DOLPH, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 767) for the relief of John Leathers, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. GIBSON (by request) introduced a bill (S. 903) for the relief of Peter Kiveney; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PLUMB introduced a bill (S. 904) to divide the State of Kansas into two judicial districts fixing terms of court, and for the appointment of judges and other officers therein; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. HOAR. I introduce a bill which I desire to have read in full by the Secretary.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be read.

The bill (S. 905) fixing the time for the meeting of Congress was read the first time by its title and the second time at length, as follows:

Be it enacted, &c., That the meeting of Congress in the year 1886, and in every second year thereafter, shall be on the first Monday in October, and that in the year 1887, and in every second year thereafter, it shall be on the second Monday of November.

Mr. HOAR. I should like at this time, as that is a very important matter, to say that I think it is clear, it must be conceded by all Senators, that the business of the country has grown to such an extent that it is impossible to do justice to the great public interests in our charge, especially at the second session of a Congress, within the time which is now appropriated to the meetings of Congress by our existing law, and we must at least add two months to the second session of each Congress, and that it would be more convenient also to have the long sessions begin earlier in the autumn and leave off earlier in the summer; but it is quite likely that some other arrangement than that proposed in the bill will be found to meet the judgment of Congress. I merely introduce the bill, without committing myself to its details, to bring the subject before the appropriate committee. I move that the bill be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. CONGER introduced a bill (S. 906) to regulate the powers and duties of the board of trustees of the Industrial Home School of the District of Columbia in respect to infant wards and scholars, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 907) for the relief of William Gardner; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committe on Military Affairs.

Mr. BECK (by request) introduced a bill (S. 908) for the relief of A. H. Herr; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. MAHONE introduced a bill (S. 909) for the relief of H. H. Sibley; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 910) for the enlargement, improvement, and completion of the public building now being erected at Harrisonburg, Va.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. GEORGE introduced a bill (S. 911) to prevent contraction in the currency and to increase the circulation of silver and silver certificates; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. CALL introduced a bill (S. 912) to increase the pension of Ann Leddy; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 913) granting to G. W. Hendry, his heirs or assigns, parts of sections 15 and 22, township 31 south, range 25, in the district of lands of Gainesville, in the State of Florida; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. CAMERON introduced a bill (S. 914) granting a pension to William H. Weaver; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. PLATT introduced a bill (S. 915) granting a pension to Mary A. Orcutt; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon, introduced a bill (S. 916) to provide for the retirement of Brig. Gen. Rufus Ingalls (retired) as a major-general of the United States Army; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon. In that connection I present the record of General Ingalls's service to be referred with the bill to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That reference will be made.

Mr. HARRIS introduced a bill (S. 917) for the relief of James H. Smith, late postmaster at Memphis, Tenn.; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill (S. 918) for the relief of Charles A. Sibley, guardian of Lloyd M. Stevens; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. HAWLEY introduced a bill (S. 919) to revive and continue in force an act approved June 23, 1870, entitled "An act to authorize the settlement of the accounts of officers of the Army and Navy;" which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. MANDERSON (by request) introduced a bill (S. 920) to confer brevet promotion on officers of the United States Army particularly distinguished by heroic action in Indian warfare, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 921) to provide for the muster into service of Martin V. Miller as second lieutenant Company E, Seventieth New York Volunteers; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. LOGAN introduced a bill (S. 922) for the relief of Joseph F. Wilson; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 923) authorizing the Secretary of War to remove the charge of desertion from the record of Private Ernest Beechner; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 924) granting a pension to Ellen Shea; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 925) to grant Dearborn Park, in the city of Chicago, to said city for the use and benefit of public and benevolent institutions; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. COCKRELL (by request) introduced a bill (S. 926) for the relief of the legal representatives of the late James Monroe, a lieutenant-colonel in Virginia State Line during the war of the Revolution, and President of the United States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Revolutionary Claims.

Mr. COCKRELL. I think I am justified in saying that my vote has always been against the passage of any such bill, and always will be.

Mr. MORRILL. Let me say in relation to that bill that I made a report as a member of the Committe on Revolutionary Claims, by which it was shown that Mr. Monroe never was a colonel in Virginia; that he went home from the army at the direction of General Washington to raise a regiment in Virginia, failed to raise it, and went back to study law with Thomas Jefferson.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill (S. 927) to extend the benefits of the act approved March 3, 1879, and the act of March 3, 1885, to certain pensioners whose disabilities are caused by amputation, and increasing the rate therefor, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HARRIS introduced a bill (S. 928) for the relief of Pearson C. Montgomery, of Memphis, Tenn.; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

PAPERS WITHDRAWN AND REFERRED.

On motion of Mr. GIBSON, it was Ordered, That the papers relating to claim for the relief of the Citizens' Bank of Louisiana be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Ordered, That the papers in the claim of Peter Keverney be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

DEATH OF VICE-PRESIDENT HENDRICKS.

Mr. VOORHEES. I beg the indulgence of the Senate for a moment to give notice that on Wednesday, the 20th of this month, after the morning business has been transacted, I will, with the permission of the Senate, call up the resolutions pending before this body expressive of the sense of the Senate on the death of the late Vice-President, Thomas A. Hendricks, and shall ask for their consideration at that time.

STATUARY IN FRONT OF CAPITOL GROUNDS.

Mr. MORRILL. I offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds be, and hereby are, instructed to inquire into the expediency of placing statues of Columbus and of La Fayette near the western front of the Capitol Grounds, one upon the circle at the intersection of Pennsylvania avenue, and the other upon the circle at the intersection of Maryland avenue; and also further to inquire as to the propriety of a removal of the Naval Monument to a new site, and report by bill or otherwise.

Let me say, Mr. President, that perhaps the highest naval authority in the country is strongly in favor of a new site for the Naval Monument, which is open to some objections on account of its size and some other objections in relation to it as a proper monument for the place where it now is. It has seemed also to many others that these twin circles at the foot of the Capitol Grounds ought to be occupied by some monument of historic interest, something of a national character. At all events it has seemed to me a matter of sufficient importance to be worthy of consideration and investigation by the appropriate committee.

Mr. VOORHEES. Being in hearty sympathy with the resolution offered by the Senator from Vermont, he will not take it amiss in me to congratulate him upon his somewhat tardy conversion to my views in regard to the removal of that graveyard statuary which has looked us in the face so long, as we come up Pennsylvania avenue; and I am glad also that the high naval authority he has spoken of has concluded to reconsider his position in that regard. I think with the Senator from Vermont that those two approaches to the Capitol should be utilized with statuary indicating great historical events and keeping in remembrance great historical personages. I hope the resolution will pass.

The resolution was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

DISTRICT METROPOLITAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I ask for the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the president of the Metropolitan Railway Company, in the District of Columbia, be, and he hereby is, directed to furnish the Senate a sworn statement of the amount of their capital stock, the amount of their bonded and floating indebtedness, the amount of their gross and net earnings, the amount of their operating expenses, and the amount of dividends paid annually since June 30, 1878; also why said railway company has not made the annual report required by the act of 1864 incorporating said company.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I desire to inquire whether that is not an unusual resolution, proposing to require the president of a private corporation to make a report of the affairs and condition of that company. It is true the company is incorporated by Congress; but is it not unusual to inquire of the president himself? Ought not the information to be obtained in some other mode than by an inquiry of the president of a private corporation?

Mr. VAN WYCK. In answer to the Senator——

Several SENATORS. Let the resolution be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be again read. Unanimous consent is asked for its present consideration.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution.

Mr. VAN WYCK. In answer to the Senator from Delaware I would state that this has been done by the United States Senate. A resolution precisely in this form has been adopted before, so that the most sacred rule of precedent has been followed.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I think it is a bad precedent.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the present consideration of the resolution?

Mr. ALLISON. I ask that it lie over.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I think that it had better go over.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution lies over under the rule.

Mr. HARRIS. I ask the Senator from Nebraska to allow the resolution to be referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Not just now, thank you.

INDIAN MILITARY EDUCATION.

Mr. MORGAN submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Indian Affairs be instructed to inquire and consider whether a wise policy in the civilization of the Indian requires the establishment of a school west of the Mississippi River, based on the principle of the military enlistment, instruction, and discipline of Indian youths and young men, with a view to qualifying them for service in the Army of the United States, and that said committee have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

BILLS OF FORTY-EIGHTH CONGRESS.

Mr. MANDERSON submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That the Public Printer be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to bind duplicate sets of bills and resolutions of the Forty-eighth Congress, said bills and resolutions to be furnished him from the files of the Senate document-room, and the volumes, when bound, to be kept there for reference.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. President, if it be in order, I ask that Order of Business No. 13 on the Calendar, the resolution of the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BECK], introduced on the 18th of December, be taken up for consideration.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Delaware moves to proceed to the consideration of a resolution which will be read.

Mr. HOAR. If the Senator from Delaware proceeds now, when the hour of 2 o'clock arrives it will be necessary to lay the unfinished business, which is the judges' salary bill, before the Senate. I desire to ask unanimous consent that that judges' salary bill may stand as the unfinished business on Monday next as it stands now. That will save any interference with the Senator; and I also have a cold, which would make it rather inconvenient for me to address the Senate on the subject of that bill to-day. I ask unanimous consent——

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The hour of 2 o'clock having arrived, the Senator from Massachusetts asks consent that the pending bill (S. 6) fixing the salaries of the several judges of the United States district courts at $5,000 per annum, and for other purposes, be postponed until Monday at 2 o'clock.

Mr. HOAR. That it stand as the unfinished business on Monday next at 2 o'clock as it stands to-day.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That the bill stand as the unfinished business on Monday next at 2 o'clock. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

Mr. EDMUNDS. If I correctly understand the Senator from Delaware he does not expect action of the Senate further than his making remarks on the subject he asks to have taken up. Then I wish to say that when his matter shall have been concluded, I shall ask the Senate to proceed with the consideration of Senate bill No. 10, the Utah bill, as was understood yesterday.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is proper that the Chair should state that other Senators have given notice of a desire to discuss the resolution, but perhaps not to-day.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I shall not object to the Senator from Delaware, who has desired to address the Chair, going on now.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Delaware.

Mr. EDMUNDS. We shall see what happens when he concludes.

Mr. BECK. I have been requested by several gentlemen to ask that no vote be taken on the resolution until they shall have had a chance to be heard. So I hope there will be no vote taken after this speech is made, because other gentlemen desire to be heard.

Mr. MCPHERSON. I understood the Senator from Vermont objected to the debate going on. I desire to follow the Senator from Delaware, and I do not know but that the Senator from Vermont objected to any further discussion.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The fact is that I was objecting because the bill about Utah went over yesterday at the request of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] with an understanding (which I admit does not bind anybody who was not present) that we should go on with it to-day, and I think it is more important to the public interest than a discussion of the silver question. I yielded to the Senator from Delaware from an universal and good courtesy of this body that a Senator who is, as we say, new in the Senate and desires to address the body, shall be heard at any time unless the Capitol is burning down or something of that kind; and so I hope my friend from New Jersey will not think it unkind in me to ask that we finish up the Utah bill as we probably can in an hour or two.

Mr. MCPHERSON. In my own case I would like to state to the Senator from Vermont that circumstances beyond my control will require that I shall absent myself from the Senate for several days, and if it will not interfere materially with the business of the Senate I should like to say what I have to say (which will be very brief) this afternoon.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Very well, we shall see about it after the Senator from Delaware concludes.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Delaware has the floor on the pending resolution.

Mr. GRAY. I ask that the resolution be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be read.

COIN DUTIES ON IMPORTED GOODS.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted by Mr. BECK, December 18, 1885, as follows:

Whereas the laws of the United States require that all duties on imported goods shall be paid in coin; and

Whereas it is provided by section 3694 of the Revised Statutes that "The coin paid for duties on imported goods shall be set apart as a special fund, and shall be applied as follows: First, to the payment, in coin, of the interest on the bonds and notes of the United States; second, to the purchase or payment of 1 per cent. of the entire debt of the United States, to be made within each fiscal year, which is to be set apart as a sinking fund, and the interest of which shall in like manner be applied to the purchase or payment of the public debt, as the Secretary of the Treasury shall, from time to time, direct; third, the residue to be paid into the Treasury:"

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be instructed to inquire whether the laws above stated now are, or have heretofore been, obeyed; and if they have not, to report by bill, or otherwise, such measures as will secure their enforcement.

Mr. GRAY. Mr. President, I shall vote for this resolution. But as

I shall do so for reasons very different from those avowed by the distinguished Senator who offered it, I feel that I owe it to myself, and also to him (whose right to leadership on this side of the Senate I gladly recognize), to state as briefly as I may the views that I hold on the general question of the continuance of the coinage of the silver dollar. I know that any attempt now to fully discuss the silver question, so called, will be to thrash over again the straw of the exhaustive and able debate that attended the passage of the act of 1878. But there are some salient points of the question that may profitably be reconsidered in the light of the experience gained in the eight years that have come and gone since that law went into effect.

If I correctly understood the drift of opinion in and out of Congress when the remonetization of silver was being discussed, there were two classes of advocates of the proposition. The first were those who clamored loudly for the unlimited coinage of the silver dollar at a ratio to gold of 16 to 1, because at that ratio the silver dollar was worth 8 to 10 per cent. less than the gold dollar, and who boldly avowed their desire for a cheap dollar, and, as they said, the cheaper the better. These were largely stragglers from the routed army of paper inflationists, those who were for fiat money pure and simple, and back of whom was the small but compact, intelligent, and well-organized body who represented that "large pecuniary interest" in the production of silver which Macaulay describes in the passage quoted by the Senator from Kentucky, and who were ready to dispute the law of the attraction of gravitation, or any equally well established economic law, if such interests were concerned in their so doing.

To the dangerous dogmas of this class I know the Senator could not subscribe. The power to create values by legislative fiat would be as resolutely denied by him as other economic heresies which he has so often and so ably combated.

The second class was composed of those who believe that bimetallism was indispensable to a proper settlement of our monetary affairs, and that an equivalency in the values of gold and silver could be established and maintained by law. To the conservative and intelligent advocates of this doctrine in this body we owe the modification of the Bland bill, and the fact that we are not yet compelled to struggle with all the evils of a depreciated monometallic silver currency. By their action "free coinage" of the silver dollar was eliminated from the bill, and the number of dollars coined each month was restricted.

Undoubtedly, if the silver dollar had been admitted to the free coinage provided for in the bill as it came from the House, we should long ago have had the experience that every man who owed a hundred dollars would have bought ninety, eighty, or seventy dollars' worth of silver, and taking it to the Mint, would have received back one hundred silver dollars, wherewith to discharge his debt. And gold would long since have taken its flight to more hospitable lands. We would then have seen Gresham's law in full operation, a depreciated and depreciating silver would have taken the place of the more valuable gold coin, prices of commodities would have risen, while wages lagged in the rear, and all the uncertainties, distress, and disorder which are the results of a depreciated and fluctuating currency, would have come upon us, and come to stay. The only class who would have profited by the situation, if we except those who would have reaped the doubtful advantage of paying off $100 of debt with seventy or seventy-five dollars' worth of silver, would have been the money-changers and gold gamblers of Wall street; whose occupation would have returned again, to help increase the general demoralization.

Now, as far as I can gather from the debate in the Senate in February, 1878, these dangers attendant on a free coinage of a depreciated silver dollar, with unlimited legal-tender power, were appreciated. But the advocates of the bill as amended by the Senate seemed to think that these dangers would be avoided by the restriction of the coinage, and by giving the profits or seigniorage to the Government instead of to the holder of the bullion, and by the provision for obtaining an international consensus to a bimetallic standard. The object aimed at by most of the leading advocates of the bill was the concurrent circulation of the two metals, gold and silver—a bimetallic currency.

The Senator from Kentucky said (I quote from the RECORD of February 15, 1878):

> I believe in obtaining the largest amount of gold and silver coin, and paper based on such gold and silver coin, and I believe that the moment you make the silver coin of the same standard that it was when it was demonetized, and put it in the same position where it was then, it will bear the same relation to gold coin that it did then.

Well, Mr. President, the relation it bore then was about 1 per cent. above gold. But the purpose of the Senator, whether mistaken or not in his notions as to the possibility of accomplishing it by the bill under discussion, was the laudable one of producing an equivalency between gold and silver, and restoring to silver the value which he and others believed had been lost by its demonetization.

The Senator from Iowa [Mr. ALLISON], who had charge of the bill as it came from the Finance Committee, in the very able and instructive speech with which he closed the debate said:

> Now, if we plant ourselves firmly in favor of the policy of the utilization of silver, we take measurably the place of Germany in this regard, because by our own legislation from 1834 to the time of absolute demonetization we banished silver, and if we restore it we shall require very nearly as much silver in circulation as Germany has lost by demonetization. And the equilibrium in the value of silver as compared with gold will be rapidly restored.

Then he goes on to say:

> But this bill proposes not only that we shall do this, but that we shall invite the other nations who favor the use of silver to join us in fixing a uniform ratio between the two metals; and if that is done, as I believe it can be very soon, if a concurrence of those nations shall take place, then it will be but a brief period until the restoration of silver will be complete and absolute.

And again:

> This amendment contemplates that a sufficient number of nations will join to create such a demand for silver as will keep the commercial and mint value of the two metals at par with each other at the ratio fixed.

In the same debate the Senator from Nevada [Mr. JONES] said:

> My own opinion is that at the relation of 16 to 1 eighteen months will not have elapsed before silver will be back at its old place where it stood before demonetization took place, at 2 or 3 per cent. above gold, and that it will be the metal that will be excluded from the country.—Record, volume 7, Part II, Forty-fifth Cong., page 1081.

The Senator from Texas [Mr. COKE] said:

> The theory on which I shall vote for the dollar of 412½ grains is, that it will be worth 100 cents in gold, and if that dollar is worth 100 cents in gold, the bullion, with free coinage, will spring up to par with the coined dollars.—Record, page 1066.

I think his reasoning was fallacious, but I have read enough to support the assertion that the avowed and laudable purpose with which the bill was, for the most part, advocated in the Senate, was to produce concurrent circulation of gold and silver, and the reasons given by the distinguished Senators whom I have cited are all based on an expectation entertained and expressed that the remonetization of silver, as provided for in the amended bill, would restore silver to an equivalency with gold at the old ratio of 16 to 1.

So, then, the measure for the remonetization of the 412½-grain silver dollar, while it was at a discoont of about 8 per cent. as compared with gold, was, so far at least as the action of the Senate was concerned, tentative. It was not intended to drive out gold by a cheaper metal, but to restore and maintain an equivalency of value of 16:1. It could not have been otherwise than tentative. It was a most important step in the monetary history of the country, and it had to be taken in the dark. The region before us was pathless and untrodden, and illumined by no lamp of experience. No precedent for the action proposed could be adduced, for it was absolutely the first time that any government of modern times had undertaken to issue de novo a coin at less than its supposed bullion value. I do not, of course, regard as a precedent the attempt made in England in times hardly modern to raise a public revenue by debasing the coin, although it is uncomfortably near to being a prototype of the bill of 1878.

As I have said, the hope was freely indulged and the confident prediction made on all hands that the remonetization of silver would restore it to par with gold within a short time after the passage of the act—eighteen months, said the Senator from Nevada; and it was this hope and this expectation, based by some on the mere effect that the greater demand for silver would produce, by others on that combined with what they thought would be the probable success of the international scheme provided for in the bill, that were held up all through the debate by the leading advocates of the bill to allay the fears of those who did not believe it was possible by Congressional enactment or otherwise to establish a code of economic laws that were to be operative in America alone.

And now that these hopes have been disappointed, these expectations unrealized, was it not eminently a wise and patriotic thing for the President to do, nay, was it not his highest duty, to call the attention of Congress to the facts and express to them the apprehensions which he shared with many thoughtful and disinterested men that a continued coinage of the silver dollar of 412½ grains, without any co-operation from the other civilized countries of the world, would in the near future bring us to a coin circulation of silver alone, take from the pockets of the people the more valuable gold, and replace it with the cheaper silver, raise the price of commodities, and permanently defeat the avowed object of the bill of 1878—the establishment of a bimetallic currency of silver and gold?

Silver, which was to have been brought back to its old relation to gold, has steadily fallen in value until the dollar worth 92 cents in 1878, is worth less than 80 to-day. And there is apparently no hope of present relief by France and the Latin Union, England, or Germany consenting to bear a portion of our burden. Were ever the honest predictions and arguments by which men were persuaded to any course of action so utterly falsified? All the reasons which seem to have been potential in passing this bill have failed; and yet now we are asked by some to reverse the maxim and maintain the law though the reason for it has ceased. Passionate invective against bondholders can not raise the price of silver a farthing in the bullion markets of the world. Payment of the public debt in silver (which must soon come if this law is to continue) will not better the situation a particle. It can only hasten the catastrophe, which we should seek to avoid, of placing us on a monometallic basis.

The burden of the argument of the Senator from Kentucky the other day was that the bondholder was demanding a different dollar from that which rewarded the toil of the laborer, and that the action of the Treasury was a discrimination in his favor. I fail to see it in that light. The bond requires payment in coin, and gold coin is as legal for payment as silver. But I understand that the action of the Secretary is intended to avoid a hastening of the time when silver shall replace gold until Congress shall have an opportunity to decide whether it is wise to take the risk of relegating our currency to the standard of an eighty-cent dollar. His action, in my opinion, is calculated to promote, and not defeat, the avowed object of the act of 1878.

If the gold dollar and silver dollar are at present, owing to the legal-tender quality of the latter and its limited coinage, equivalent, who has a right to complain? The silver dollar paid to and used by the masses of the people is now precisely the equivalent in value of the gold dollar paid the bondholder. And because the effort is made to maintain a little longer that equivalency, the Senator from Kentucky has drawn away our attention from the real question which confronts us, namely, how to maintain the concurrent circulation of both silver and gold, to the alleged rapacity of the bondholders as a class.

Now, I am not here to defend them. All economic laws are founded on the oneness of human nature, and the desires and appetites of men will lead to the same results when the conditions are the same. Men will seek their own advantages and their own interests, whether they be owners of bonds, or of gold mines, or of silver mines. I want no privilege for any class. I am neither a bondholder or the son of a bondholder; but I do not want to see the money in the hands of the people cheapened for the sake of paying the bondholder in such cheapened money, and I repeat the question, if up to the present time a silver dollar and a gold dollar are exactly equal, who has the right to complain if the public creditor is paid in either, so long as he is not paid more dollars than his bond calls for?

This question of the currency and of the standard of values is not a question between the bondholder and the people of the United States. If we are to have a silver standard, then I want to see the public creditor paid in the same coin that I am compelled to receive; but as long as I and all others can obtain a silver or gold dollar indifferently in exchange for our labor or our property, I am not disturbed that the bondholder can do the same thing. I shall hope to see in the response to this resolution from the Finance Committee a better defense of the course pursued by the Secretary of the Treasury than I can make. Now I wish to be done with the bondholder; his relations to the question of the expediency of continuing the coinage of 80 cents' worth of silver into a legal dollar are irrelevant, and are only brought to the front with the effect, if not the purpose, of obscuring the true issue, which is, can or can not the present situation of silver and gold equivalency be maintained with the continuing uninterrupted flow of overvalued legal-tender silver dollars from the mints.

Let us see. It is certain that the predictions and hopes of the advocates of the bill of 1878 as to the rise in the value of silver to follow its remonetization have not been fulfilled, nor has that other more reasonable hope as to co-operation of European governments been realized. Upon what other grounds were the high hopes of those who expected to achieve bimetalism based? It will not do, as the Senator from Kentucky has sought to have us, to reassure ourselves because the silver dollar is to-day exchangeable for the gold dollar. It proves nothing to say, as the Senator has said over and over again in his speech, that the silver dollar will purchase as much to-day as the gold dollar, and 30 per cent. more of many commodities than it would in 1870. That is solely because it has not yet parted company with gold.

The rising tide of silver has not yet risen quite high enough to overflow the barriers that were enacted against it by the Senate amendment to the bill of 1878, providing a limited though compulsory coinage, and giving to the Government the difference between the bullion value and the mint value of the dollar. But I do not see what comfort can be given to those who, living near by, fear the overflow of a reservoir into which a steady and constant stream is flowing by telling them that their dwellings are still dry, unless some precaution is at the same time taken to have the water turned off when the reservoir is full. Yet this is exactly what the Senator from Kentucky has been doing, in laboriously arguing that because the reservoir is not yet quite full it never can be full, because the silver dollar has not yet overwhelmed the country to the point of driving out gold, it never will. He points triumphantly to the purchasing power of the silver dollar as compared with gold, yet denounces the efforts of those who are trying to keep it what it is.

When the atmosphere has absorbed moisture to the point of saturation the rain must fall, and when the capacity to absorb the light-weight silver dollar in the various uses and demands of business and trade is exhausted the storm must come. The fact is that, owing to its restricted coinage and the seigniorage therefor going to the Government, the silver dollar has performed the office largely of a subsidiary coinage. For that purpose I want to keep it, because only so can we have under present conditions a bimetallic currency. Gold remains, and will continue to remain, the most desired and desirable standard the world over. No civilized country that I know of has or desires a silver standard or single silver currency. The most that is claimed by the advocates of silver is the desirability of a double standard of silver and gold, so that gold for the larger transactions and silver for the smaller may make a wider basis for a metallic currency.

We can always have a gold and a subsidiary silver coinage. The reverse of this is, of course, impossible. If gold is supplanted by silver, we have silver alone. From 1850 to 1862 we were on a gold basis. At the ratio of 16 to 1 gold was overvalued and as the cheaper of the two metals became the sole standard, but we still had a subsidiary silver coinage, and I have never seen recorded or heard uttered any dissatisfaction with that state of things. In fact, everybody was satisfied. The gold standard kept us in easy relation with the whole commercial world. We were not under the necessity of paying the cost of production of the commodities we exported at an enhanced price in one metal to sell at a lower price in another. And as a recent writer on this period says:

> So well did the situation satisfy all demands that the question of gold and silver dropped out of the public mind.

The act of 1853 regulated the subsidiary silver coinage so that it should not be undervalued with respect to gold, but took no notice of the silver dollar which had ceased to circulate, and advisedly acquiesced in and accepted the single gold standard which then obtained. Then it was, as pointed out by the writer to whom I have referred, that by this act of 1853 the double standard was abandoned in the United States and the silver dollar practically demonetized. And now when that most distinguished bimetalist and eminent Frenchman, Mr. Henry Cernuschi, has given his opinion to the people of the United States that bimetalism can not be achieved by any one country alone, when every country in Europe has ceased the coinage of silver, except to supply the demand for subsidiary coinage, why should we be driven into difficulties that all other countries are seeking to avoid?

France would gladly get rid of the "hump" of her silver legal tender, and has long ago stopped its coinage.

Do the business interests of the country need expansion of the currency? The locked-up millions in Treasury vaults and banks tell a different story; and if they do, shall we increase the money of the country available for enterprise and the employment of labor by driving out of it nearly six hundred millions of gold coin?

I fear, Mr. President, that some of the advocates of the act of 1878 have shifted their ground; that they now view with complacency the prospect of our being placed on a single silver standard; that that large pecuniary interest which this so-called debtor class, or some of them, have in scaling their debts, that larger and more direct pecuniary interest which the owners of silver mines have in maintaining a market for their silver in the public Treasury, have separately or together produced through its press the effect which Macaulay describes and to which I have before alluded.

Although I did not intend to again refer to the payment of the public debt, it occurs to me in this connection to say that when under the present condition of coinage the Government pays a debt in silver dollars, it then has scaled that debt by the amount of the difference between the price paid for the bullion it has bought and the mint value of the dollars it has paid. In other words, it is in a position less creditable than a private debtor would have been if there had been free coinage of the silver dollor—it has bought its own overdue paper at a discount. Private morality will not sanction that, and I doubt whether public morality can stand unshaken by it. It is not the high standard of individual conduct held up by Divine wisdom for our imitation when the man "who sweareth to his own hurt and changeth not" is declared especially blessed. I know the Senator from Kentucky would govern himself by that standard of morality and would not knowingly contribute to making a lower public standard.

There is another view of this question which should certainly command attention, and that is, that the act of 1878 having failed to raise the price of silver, if a continued coinage of silver dollars at the present ratio to gold, is persisted in, till their accumulation causes gold to disappear, and with it gold prices; we will then have had forced upon the country a practical silver monometallism by an act that was passed with the avowed object of establishing a bimetallic currency. Now, does not good faith to the country require that we should call a halt and suspend the coinage of silver dollars until the people have had an opportunity to exercise an option as to whether there shall be a gold or silver standard of values in this country? Let the question be fairly presented to Congress, and discussed there and in the press, and let it be deliberately determined whether we will settle down on a gold basis, such as we have now, with gold prices, or give up all the advantages of the present situation and take the risk at this time of reviving business and renewed commercial activity, of descending to the basis of an 80-cent dollar, thereby scaling all debts, public and private, 20 per cent. and enhancing all prices at that rate. I, for one, protest against this denial to the people of the right and opportunity to decide for themselves this question so vital to their prosperity and well-being.

But as it is said by many of the advocates of the cheap dollar that the interests of a large class, to wit, a so-called debtor class, demands the lowering of the standard of values, it may be well to inquire who compose this debtor class that is represented as appealing to Congress for a depreciated coin in which it may pay its debts, and whose menacing cohorts are sometimes invoked to drive from their convictions those who believe that economic laws no more than natural laws can be violated with impunity; that the philosopher's stone has not yet been discovered by whose touch 80 cents in silver can be transmuted into 100 cents in gold. This class is not composed of the toiling millions of our country whose week's or month's wages are the reward of honest labor of hand or brain. These, as has been often shown, are the great creditor class of the country, if we are to have classes at all in this matter.

No men are so interested in preserving the purchasing power of the dollar which is to reward their industry as they. Each day, each week, each month they are the creditors of the capital that employs their labor. If I could reconcile myself to the idea of speaking for a class at all in a matter which concerns the welfare and prosperity of the whole country, I would appeal to Senators that the dollar of the laborer, which to him is not a thing for gambling or speculation, but is the measure of the amount and quality of the food, the clothing, and the shelter that he can provide for his family, the basis of his home and his happiness, should be the best possible dollar; the dollar which, when translated, means the largest amount of those comforts which money can buy. I want his dollar to be as good in every respect, and mean as much of the good things of this life, as the dollar of the bondholder.

But, Mr. President, the laboring men of this country, the tens of millions dependent on agriculture, and the other millions whose wealth is their daily toil, are not the debtor class whose interests are so loudly championed.

They are largely those who have embarked in speculative enterprises, those who have bought land for which they could not pay, and who, properly enough—I do not mean to cast reproach upon them—have looked to the future for a profit which would largely exceed the savings that could be made from the fruits of years of industry. It is the speculative hopeful class, many of whom are "making haste to be rich," and are impatient of any delay in their race for fortune.

Now that these men, or some of them, should see a present advantage in scaling the debts they have incurred, and repaying only 80 per cent. of the borrowed capital with which they have sought to become capitalists themselves, I can readily imagine—but they do not appeal very strongly to my respect or my sympathy when they seek to accomplish this object by legislation which in my opinion is to affect disastrously the prosperity of 60,000,000 of people. If a lowering of the standard of values brings a temporary benefit to some, it must also bring a corresponding injury to others, so that there is no resultant advantage in that view alone. But that is not the whole story; the manifold evils that arise from the uncertainty and confusion of values; the want of confidence, and demoralization in all business operations that are sure to follow in the wake of a disturbed standard of future payments—the impairment of credit, public and private, will be a heavy price to pay for "compliance with the demands" of this importunate class.

Credit is the great instrument of modern civilization, and it will not do to trifle with it. Its purchasing power every day transcends that of all the gold and all the silver and all the paper that ever is at one time in circulation. It is that which builds our railroads and opens our mines and fans into a flame the fires of a thousand industries. It walks hand in hand with sound finance, stable values, and an unfluctuating currency. Its conditions are peace, good government, and public faith; that uberrima fides which is the soul of commercial prosperity. The want of confidence in the future, which is sure to be bred of unstable values and a fluctuating currency, destroys it.

I do not believe that the class I have described, as a whole, desire this. There may be some, but surely not all, whose notions of public and private obligation are so obscured by the sophistries that have been woven around this question that the simple truths and axioms of monetary economics no longer have a meaning for them. But God forbid that this class, be it great or small, should ever so influence public opinion that as a people we shall be willing to abandon the path of honor and of safety.

And now, Mr. President, in view of the present monetary situation, in view of the fact conceded on all hands, that the value of silver has steadily fallen since the act of 1878, that that act has disappointed the hopes of its friends, and has not enhanced the price of silver, as they said it would, and has, instead of advancing us on the road to bimetallism, made possible in the near future a monometallism of silver, that no progress has been made in persuading foreign nations to agree with us in the establishment of a common ratio between the two metals, I say in view of all this should we not heed the caution given us by the President and stop for a time the coinage of the overvalued silver dollar in order that we may at least have a breathing spell to see whither we are drifting? There is no demand for these dollars in trade or business. Our present currency is abundant for the wants of both. Their continued coinage threatens us with a change from the gold standard of values, and there is no evidence of a desire on the part of the people for this. The dangers honestly apprehended from a continuance of this silver stream may be real. I believe that they are. The suspension can hurt no legitimate interest, except silver mining, and I doubt if it will hurt that. I desire to see silver kept in circulation with gold, and shall do all that I can to accomplish that end. I believe that our best hope for a consensus with the countries of Europe as to an international equivalency between silver and gold, that will establish free coinage of both, lies in our suspension now of the coinage under the act of 1878.

At all events let us try to reconcile our honest differences of opinion in the common interest of all. We are all embarked on the same voyage, on the same wide ocean, debtor and creditor, bondholder and honest toiler for a day's wages; and whether we encounter shipwreck and storm, or are borne by prospering gales over summer seas to a peaceful haven, one fate awaits us all. I sincerely trust that no pride of opinion on either side of this question will prevent that calm and dispassionate action that becomes the representatives of a great, an intelligent, and honest people.

Believing that the report of the Finance Committee will vindicate the wisdom and legality of the course pursued by the Secretary of the Treasury, I shall vote for this resolution.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 10. [A pause.] I yield to the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. MCPHERSON].

Mr. PUGH. I desire to address the Senate on the resolution of the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BECK], but it is a matter of no materiality with me on what day I do so. I am ready to proceed now, but the Senator from New Jersey [Mr. MCPHERSON] has informed the Senate of his desire to leave the city this evening, and I give way to him to ask that the consideration of the resolution be continued, and give notice to the Senate that after the disposition of the Utah bill, reported from the Judiciary Committee, of which I am a member, and which I favor, and agree with the chairman of the committee as to its importance, I shall call up the resolution of the Senator from Kentucky with the view I have indicated.

Mr. MCPHERSON. Mr. President, I may not be able to add much to the value of this debate, and as the issue is confined to a single question, I need not add much to its length.

In approaching this discussion I shall assail no man's motives, nor waste the time of the Senate in vindicating my own. I have no mines of gold or silver, neither bank stock, nor Government bonds, nor any interest which takes issue with my duty.

On the 4th of March last was terminated, for four years at least, the reign of a political party which had held uninterrupted control in this Government for a quarter of a century. It points us with pride to two great events in its history: With having successfully terminated the greatest civil war of which history makes any mention; with having paid in gold fully one-half the war debt, reducing in a like amount the annual burden of what remained, and so continuing to pay the obligations of the Government to the very end.

The administration of the Government to-day is in other hands. A rival political organization which for the same quarter of a century had struggled in vain for the mastery has at last its chosen Executive at the head of the Government. The President at the very moment when a crisis in our monetary affairs was imminent, in the performance of his constitutional duty, sent his first message to Congress—a paper commended greatly for the wisdom of its recommendations. Finding the gold reserve in the Treasury, hitherto employed to pay the principal and interest of the Government obligations, gradually and steadily diminishing, and the silver dollars, which are receivable for customs just to the extent to which they are used by importers instead of gold, returning to the Treasury, it became only a question of time when the reserve would be changed from gold to silver and of necessity payments thereafter be made in silver. Prompted alike by considerations of honesty and good policy, he sent his message to Congress recommending the suspension of the silver coinage.

The Treasury Secretary, in the honesty and simplicity of his nature, believing that more misery was often caused by bad dollars than by bad government, sought to adhere, and did adhere, to the plan of gold payments, or deferred payments, until Congress could again meet and opportunity be given to save the country from a single silver standard, has been held up to the country as violating the law, and made the subject of investigation by a committee of this Senate.

I am now fully convinced that whatever has been said, and so well said, by the honorable Secretary of the Treasury, that not another syllable need be uttered, or may hereafter be said by the President, Cabinet Minister, Senator, or private citizen touching the suspension for all time, or for any given period of time, of the act authorizing forty-eight millions and decreeing twenty-four millions' worth of silver dollars annually from the mint, that the operation of the act in question will not be crippled by this Congress.

It seems inevitable that the representatives of the sovereign people are determined to see their present system of finance die a natural death before they will have recourse to another.

Whatever may happen to the standards, we should deal frankly with each other and with the people. That the operations of the Treasury before and since the change in administration had been and are now directed solely to the maintenance and continance of the gold standard of payment will not by me be denied. The illegal issue of silver certificates by the Treasury upon the deposits of gold coin, which certificates were redeemable in silver coin then in the Treasury, is to be taken as a note of alarm, if not a flag of distress. Moreover, as this gold was mainly supplied by the merchants and bankers of New York giving gold to strengthen the Treasury reserve in exchange for silver certificates intended for circulation, whatever the law may say of it, it will scarcely do to say that the circulation of the silver certificate was not increased by it.

Again, the exchange recently made in one block of several millions—giving fractional silver coin (not needed by the banks) to the banks for gold (needed by the Treasury) to the Treasury to continue the gold standard of payments pending anticipated action by Congress—tends to show that even now the Treasury can not carry this burden alone, and further shows who its supporters have been. Whether or not further aid will be needed, and, if needed, may with safety be given, it is for Congress to answer.

Complaint is made of the slowness of the machinery which shoots the silver dollars from the mint into the pockets of the people without even waiting to consider how few the pockets open to receive them.

The United States Treasury has become a vast and complicated machine. What with seven distinct kinds of circulation of varied power, to wit: gold and silver coins with full power, and then the fractional coin, gold and silver certificates with limited power, Treasury notes and national-bank notes, differing with each other and every other named in power, and therefore limited in quantity to the uses they can be put as circulation, forbids any attempt to regulate the circulation by statute law, and that no disturbance in the affairs of trade may result the exercise of a wide discretion must be given the Secretary of the Treasury. So well has this discretion been used by the present Secretary that, notwithstanding the retiring Secretary of the Treasury predicted "we would be forced to silver payments in sixty days," the gold reserve has increased from sixteen millions to forty-eight millions, and there are more silver dollars in circulation than ever before.

The present Secretary of the Treasury needs about as much and the same character of defense for what he has done, and is doing, as did Secretary Windom in 1881—in the one case saving the honor as in the other case the money of the country—when, without shadow of law or other direction by Congress, he proceeded to change the interest burden of the bond, thus saving many millions to the Government. A certain Senator considered such action unwarranted and an insult to Congress. He had prepared a great speech on the subject, and informed a brother Senator he was awaiting opportunity to deliver it. "Then, sir," was the good-natured reply, "you are only waiting a chance to make an ass of yourself." It is needless to say the speech was not delivered, and the Senator afterward became convinced the action of the Secretary was wise.

If coinage be now suspended the silver dollar may be kept on a par with the gold dollar, both acting as a measure rather than as a medium of exchange. The vast machinery of the clearing-house in New York, which exchanges a thousand millions of property each week, requiring in the operation less than 3 per cent. of cash, shows how little of cash is needed in modern barter, the measure of exchange being uniform and stable. Nothing can be more abhorrent to the interest and ideas of society than widely differing standards, whether of value, extension, or quantity. The moment they cease to be uniform and stable all the operations of barter are greatly confused or brought to a stand. To illustrate: A standard measure for milk in Philadelphia contains 43 quarts. A standard measure for milk in New York contains 40 quarts. With the measures of value as varying as the measures of quantity, it would require a rare facility for translation to determine relatively at a given time the market price of milk in the two places, less than 90 miles apart. In the opinion of the best financial minds in this and other countries we have now reached a point in silver coinage beyond which, owing to monetary changes and conditions elsewhere, it is unsafe for us to go. I quote Cernuschi, the distinguished scientist and bimetallist. In 1876-'77 he visited this country in the interest of silver remonetization, which was effected in 1878:

In October, 1885, Mr. Cernuschi says:

> So long as the bimetallic treaty proposed in 1881 by the United States and France is not accepted either by England or by Germany not one silver five-franc piece should be coined by France, not one silver dollar should be coined by the United States. In no form, under no pretext, should silver currency be increased either in France or in the United States.

"There is here no chance for refining upon the meaning of words; no opposing of records to reason; no appealing from the wisdom of the present to that of the past. The wisdom of to-day is often the ignorance of to-morrow, and Cernuschi frankly admits its truth."

Twenty-four million dollars worth the amount for a year now yields thirty million dollars in coin; and if silver should fall until the metal in a dollar is worth but 70 cents, and the Mint be directed to coin the maximum amount (both of which events, except we stop now, are likely to happen—the latter inevitable), to wit, forty-eight million dollars' worth, it would add about seventy millions annually to our stock of silver dollars. Why inevitable? It being only a question of time when the specie reserve shall be changed from gold to silver, and payments made for principal and interest of the Government bonds by the Treasury in silver, the silver will begin to drive out the gold from circulation. Prices will then be changed to suit the silver standard, and the maximum quantity will be issued to the public. The needs for any particular kind of currency can not be a need created by law, but one regulated by the demands of trade and commerce; and the increasing quantity of the silver dollars then, too great for the needs created by law, will cause them to accumulate in the banks and in the hands of merchants who can dispose of them only at their intrinsic bullion value. When the Treasury can no longer retain a gold basis, then the public must take care of themselves. It is asked why the two hundred millions now coined have not produced the result just described. "In the first place, they are limited in quantity, compared with the use to which they can be put." "They can not enter into circulation only as they are sent forth from the Treasury in payment of dues."

"The Government has not forcibly paid out silver, but has left its acceptance to the option of the Government creditor"—and not one-fifth of the dollars coined have at any one time been in actual circulation. Both the silver dollar and its representative, the certificate, by the act of 1878 were made receivable at the custom-house. The certificates or silver dollars to-day paid out of the Treasury are sent back to the Treasury to-morrow through the custom-house, and this operates as a daily redemption of the silver dollar. Under such conditions the silver dollar has remained at par with gold, and will remain at par with gold until more is forced upon the circulation than is necessary for such uses. The standard silver dollar bears the same relations to good money as does the fractional currency, and both will depreciate if issued in unnecessary quantities. In the language of Professor Laughlin, whom I freely quote, "no legal power conferred upon them by law can save them from this fate."

By continuing to coin the minimum or twenty-four millions you are forced to the maximum or forty-eight millions per annum. Whenever the financial community is convinced that the law is not to be suspended or repealed, that we are to be forced to silver payments, that the interest and principal of the public debt are to be paid in silver, gold will retire from circulation in accordance with the law of Gresham, the truth of which has been proven by the experience of three centuries, which is "that bad money drives out good money; but that good money can not drive out bad money." In other words, the relatively cheaper medium of exchange will be retained in circulation, and the relatively dearer one will disappear.

The universal hungry demand of nearly all our great commercial rivals for gold with which to reform their currency will draw our gold to them, and the silver displaced by our gold will gravitate to our Treasury, the only visible market. They will have no use for silver; we will have no use for gold. Whenever the outflow of gold exceeds the silver decreed to take its place, contraction with all its dire calamities is sure to follow. The outflow of gold might at first be slow; or on the other hand it might be very rapid. It is not so much the lesser evil we now suffer, but the greater evil we must ultimately expect to suffer, that guides capital with as much certainty as the laws of gravitation. Capital, always timid from past reverses, like time and tide, waits for no man. The national banks, which now furnish a large proportion of our circulating medium, would in self-preservation assist greatly in the inevitable contraction—in short, anticipate it. They would surrender circulation, redeem and take in gold the premium upon the bonds pledged to make good their notes, and bank, if at all, upon the issues of the Treasury or the Mint. From these two causes alone, to say nothing of the hoarding of gold by private citizens, the effect upon our industries would be frightful.

To fill the void thus created we could only look to the Mint; silver dollars from the Mint, or possibly paper promises redeemable in silver, if at all, from the Treasury. Not alone the forty-eight million dollars' worth as the law now limits, but enough dollars to save the debtor class from impending bankruptcy, must be supplied. This for a time would create an abnormal demand for silver and thus relieve other nations now seeking relief from the load they carry, and which our necessities would make us only too glad to accept. This accomplished, we have reached a point from which we can not recede. Instead of two-metallism, which we now have, and with prudence to a certain degree may be able to maintain, we are launched upon the sea of silver monometallism and in commercial transactions pay tribute to England as India does now.

To prevent contracts being made payable in gold (which at this moment is being done extensively), and thus assist the debasement of our own coin, the gold unit of value must needs then be disgraced to a silver unit of value, and the gold dollar, which now keeps its short-legged, infirm, and limping associate on the track, will cease to run. Again, all history teaches that with a currency of an uncertain and fluctuating value as ours must needs become, it tends to stimulate speculation and consequent expansion until we float on to wealth and happiness without any thought of the future. The floods of speculation continue to gather strength, and the mound is swept away with a sudden fury which shakes the very foundations of society and spreads monetary ruin over a wide field of civilized life.

EXPERIENCE.

If the knowledge which experience gives is any guide in the affairs of men, the continuance of silver coinage in this country at this time will make silver the only standard of value, the only coin currency in use.

A former Secretary of the Treasury, in commenting upon the laws of coinage, most appropriately says:

> If the slight error in the ratio of 1792 prevented gold from entering into circulation for forty-five years, and the slight error in 1834 brought gold into circulation and banished silver until 1853, how more certainly will an error now of 5 per cent. cause gold to be exported and silver to become the sole standard of value.

Let it be remembered that from 1492 to 1834 gold was rated fifteen times more valuable than silver; from 1834 to 1873 (when the coinage was suspended) gold was rated sixteen times more valuable, and at no time between 1792 and 1873 did the variation of real value of the two monetary metals differ greatly from the relative legal value, and yet we were never able to maintain the two metals in continuous, simultaneous, and healthy circulation with each performing its office as money. In those days the power "to coin money" imposed likewise the duty "to regulate its value." Nothing else but equivalence in the two forms of the monetary unit could retain both; this was the object diligently sought, but not secured because the relative ratio here fixed was not the relative ratio fixed by other coinage countries. Since the remonetization of silver in 1878 gold has been twenty-one times more valuable than silver, and remains at about that ratio to-day.

In 1878 not a state in Europe dared open its mint to silver; at which very period of time we began to coin and have since steadily continued the coinage of about thirty millions per year, and with but one result—that of debasing the currency of a country without even protecting the silver industry. The mints of Europe closed to silver; silver is there no more than a merchandise without monetary power—and to continue longer its coinage here means that all monetary communication between Europe and the United States is to cease; that we must return to barter although abolished between the nations many thousand years ago; but for us it would be barter without valid ratio or scale of valuation in exchange.

COMMERCE.

We have heard much of our decaying and decayed American commerce. When you descend from a gold to a silver standard you drive the last nail into its coffin, and no more will be seen of it save its sheeted specter. In the commercial world gold is king. Gold counts the cost, markets the goods, and measures the margin of profit and loss. If we desire commercial prosperity we must obey commercial laws. Our exports being mainly breadstuffs and raw cotton, our commerce must needs be with the nations which consume them. These nations either have the gold standard or are struggling to that end. We have also the gold standard, but are surely drifting to a different end, and unless wise counsels prevail are sure to reach it. If reached, all our exports of silver for payment of debts would of necessity be sent abroad as merchandise and translated into gold before the debt could be paid. It would have no greater stability than cotton or wheat or any other article of merchandise; it would continue to fluctuate, and our own mines would aggravate the fluctuations in the London market so that the merchant could no more know how many dollars of silver (our valuation) would be required in the payment of a debt than he would know how many bales of cotton would accomplish the same purpose before the market price of the cotton was determined. Silver in all foreign markets whose mints are not open to silver coinage will circulate only at its purchasing power as bullion (not in our standard dollars), and no one can be certain that its power will be the same in any two transactions.

All this will be at the cost of the producers, who are not exporters; but the exporter would demand upon every purchase a sufficient discount to cover the possible risk of fluctuation in the value of the money. All the losses which the producers have suffered in this respect from the fluctuating character of the legal-tender notes will be repeated and continued with the silver standard.

LABOR.

I was recently handed a pamphlet by a distinguished silver advocate, an ex-Senator of this body, with a supplement entitled Comments on President's Message, from which I read as follows:

> We call the attention of the President to the fact that in addition to the general depression of business and the great injustice to the people which would be effected by the demonetization of silver, there are three great industrial classes of the United States who would be especially injured thereby, to wit, gold and silver miners, cultivators of wheat, and planters of cotton. The great wheat and cotton producing empire of India, with its 250,000,000 of population, has silver for its circulating medium. All products of India are bought on the silver basis. Wheat and cotton are purchased in India with silver and sold in Europe for gold. The difference between silver and gold in London is about 25 per cent. This difference gives the wheat or cotton merchant of India 25 per cent. advantage in the European markets over the merchants of the United States dealing in those commodities.

The honorable ex-Senator evidently believed a lie—he spoke the truth. All value is the creation of labor. "Labor," says Adam Smith, "measures value with more certainty than gold or silver." The wheat and cotton of India (only another name for Indian labor), our great competitor, meets the wheat and cotton of the United States in the London market, the great and only world's market, for both countries. The value of a given quantity of each product expressed in gold is the same. India, with a legal silver standard worth confessedly 25 per cent. less than the true value of the product, measures the cost of her production in silver and compels her laborer to take payment in her silver coin. God forbid that the legislation of this country shall ever drive the American laborer to compete with the labor of India on such terms, and yet with the silver coin like India with which to buy labor, which labor must have or starve, and which the Government has decreed labor must accept, not at its true value, but at its legal value (which is 21 per cent. less than the true value), what can the laborer do? The exchanges we are told will settle all this. Yes, with the merchant, but who settles with labor? Any fluctuation in the cost of exchange is always at the cost of labor. And how can labor know it is not cheated in the exchanges? The Government gives the law and the coin—and a dollar is a dollar, whether true, like the gold dollar, or deceitful "and clipped before it is coined," like the silver dollar.

Again, the savings-banks, life-insurance and trust companies are the agents for the safety of deposits far in excess of the Government debt. They are the agents of the poor man who has not sufficient means to start business on his own account. These institutions are the depositories of the laborer for all earnings in excess of that required for food and clothing, and the deposits are loaned by these institutions in aggregated sums to the great enterprises in which labor finds employment. The mite which the laborer loaned, together with his neighbor's mite, has given speed to the wheels of industry, made a greater demand for his labor, and thus enabled his small capital to help the work of his hands. It is estimated that fully 50 per cent. of all the outstanding bonds are held as trust funds by corporations and individuals to secure the safety of deposits and trusts; the property of widows and orphans who sought a perfectly safe rather than a speculative investment. The wild speculation consequent upon the fluctuating character of our currency and securities (other than the bonds of the Government) found culmination in 1873 when the crash came, and people of small means sought safety in the issues of the Government, relying upon its then promise to make them good as gold. The blow, therefore, aimed at the bloated bondholder strikes with tenfold force the head of the poor laborer and people of small means.

I have no sympathy with any ambition which seeks for any object to array labor against capital. As labor was before capital, and created capital, labor should be first considered; not forgetting, however, that capital is the handmaid of labor, and, if wisely employed, its truest and best friend. The legislation, therefore, which serves labor most serves capital best. An inflated or depreciated currency, for one is both, and both one, serves neither labor nor capital, and wherever used it is always at the expense of labor, labor being always the first to suffer.

THE BONDS.

The effect of the law of 1834 was the expulsion of silver from the country—an expulsion so complete that even the small change left us. In 1853 we were obliged to issue a silver fractional currency in a debased condition, but no attempt was made to restore the standard silver dollar to circulation. It is, therefore, to be kept distinctly in mind that in 1853 the actual use of silver as an unlimited tender with gold was decisively abandoned. In short, a double standard was publicly admitted in the debates at that time to be hopeless. In 1853 it was decided by Congress to abandon its use, and in 1873, without having a single dollar of silver, we enacted the demonetization of that metal. There was no silver, then why demonetize it; except upon the fair assumption that having the power of option under the law to pay either in silver or gold coin we elected to pay in gold coin. In short, the practice since 1853 was made law in 1873.

"Like the attempted inflation act of 1874, which was vetoed by President Grant, the remonetization of silver in 1878 furnished a new and cheap device for meeting existing debts. If silver had not fallen so low in 1876, perhaps there would have been no silver agitation nor legislation, no cheap unit in which to liquidate indebtedness."

The cheap unit, then, we have. We have also the bondholder, and he stands at the Treasury door, bond in hand. You point him to the contract and tender the silver coin. He asks, Why this invidious distinction? Had my bond matured yesterday, as did my neighbor's bond, I should have received gold, as he did. This bond to me represents so much honest labor. Can the obligation be canceled by giving in return less than I gave? Would this be right? A sovereign State may do as it pleases; but when that State is both lawgiver and debtor, right is always taken in the sense of legal, in the sense of equitable, in the sense of moral right, and must be construed on the side of honor and good faith; and is it not a base cheat upon a confiding creditor to pay him in a dishonest measure of an inferior metal for credit given upon the faith of the nation? I did not contemplate receiving silver. At the time the bond was issued or refunded you had no silver to pay me with. It had been the long unbroken practice of the Government to pay in gold, and when you demonetized silver in 1873 you absolutely persuaded me that coin meant gold. By this exercise of your option I was induced to pay a high price for a bond bearing a low burden of interest. But this is not all. By your direction or concurrence the fact was advertised in all the newspapers in the land, to all the people thereof, that the interest on the bonds was payable in gold (see copy of advertisement below), and the financial agents of the Government from then until now have so construed it and confirmed it in practice. Now that silver has become permanently infirm, to act otherwise is it not plain, palpable, aggravating repudiation? Judged in the light of business integrity and sound judicious business policy, can the Government afford in this way to play fast and loose with its citizens?

It was the misfortune and not the fault of the Government that the bonds were sold for less than par or were ever issued at all. If the bonds were sold for less than par in gold, it was exactly what the financial world thought of them. The value they placed upon the bond was the measure of their confidence. They took their chances of defeat. "Gifted not with an insight or foresight which the ancients would have called divination, they could not in the midst of the darkness and obscurity that prevailed discern the logic of events nor forecast the result." You may have a technical right to pay me in silver coin, but would not an enforcement of that right be a violation of the spirit of the contract? Your obligation can not equitably and honorably be discharged except you give me something in return of admitted equal value, not only in our market but in all markets. The value you stamp upon your silver coin is a value created by law; your law, the law of the debtor. It costs you but 79.4 cents in good money and will buy but that amount of labor or the products of labor where good money is used.

Again, the price of all our surplus products sent abroad is fixed by good money, and as this also fixes the price of all we consume, with like measure must we value the cost of labor and production. Therefore, notwithstanding the law, your silver coin, except for debts now outstanding, will buy only at its market value, and not at its legal or stamped value. Moreover, the act of March 18, 1869, known as the act to strengthen the public credit, provides in like terms for the exemption of the United States notes and the interest-bearing bonds. If payment of the bonds under the terms of the law is to be made in silver, then also are we concluded by the same terms as to the redemption (in silver) of the United States non-interest-bearing notes, although express provision was made by the sale of bonds (for which we are taxed) to pay the notes in gold.

I can now take your silver coin in exchange for my bond, which cost me par in gold, fully realizing, however, that it cost the Government twenty-one per cent. less to redeem it than it cost me to get it. The cheap unit has not been cheap to me, but cheap to the Government.

Senators, this is not a sectional question; it is not Northern or Southern, Eastern or Western, but it is as broad as the Union, and affects all sections alike.

The simple question is this: Shall we pause and take our reckoning anew before forcing our financial bark farther into a sea from which it should be our object to escape? Considering, as we must, the condition of monetary affairs in Europe, and especially the alarm which pervades the states of the Latin Union as judged by its late proceedings, it behooves us, whatever may be our views touching the respective merits of gold and silver as coin, that we now act with great deliberation.

The state of feeling in France (the principal state of the Latin Union) is best expressed by one of its distinguished citizens and bankers in a recent confidential letter to his agent in this country, from which I am permitted to make copy:

Reference to my letters prior to 1870 will prove that all the disasters I predicted for France are either fulfilled or now sure to occur. Had we closed our mints and adopted the gold standard alone, as we were preparing to do when the war with Germany broke out—and which Germany anticipated and prevented by doing the same thing herself—we should to-day hold the strong position your country will have if wise enough to stop the silver coinage at once. France will not consent to see gold disappear from her reserves and from circulation; and now that silver is so cheap, and our bank vaults full of silver coin, we fear the problem is beyond solution, and that we have more silver than we can keep in circulation at the legal rate. It is not surprising, therefore, that our financiers view with amazement the action of your Government in respect to silver.

Again: somewhat of alarm has already begun to show itself in business circles, and capital even now is unwilling to make contracts for the future except upon payments in gold. By the following letter it will appear that this has been the policy for some months with some of the great loaning institutions, and I am further informed this policy has become quite universal:

January 2, 1886.

DEAR MR. ——: I know nothing of what others are doing in the matter of loans. We ourselves, in the uncertainty as to what is to be the character and value of the currency, resolved some months since to make no loans unless subject to repayment, both as regards principal and interest, "in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness." All our loans are made on this condition, and will be made on no other.

Truly yours,

J. G. RULSFONE,
Manager Liverpool, London and Globe Ins. Co.

[Office of Jay Cooke, subscription agent, at Jay Cooke & Co.'s, bankers, 114 South Third street.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1, 1862.

The undersigned, having been appointed subscription agent by the Secretary of the Treasury, is now prepared to furnish, at once, the new twenty-year 6 per cent. bonds of the United States, designated as "Five-twenties," redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after five years, and authorized by act of Congress approved February 25, 1862.

The coupon bonds are issued in sums of $50, $100, $500, $1,000.

The registered bonds in sums of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000.

Interest at 6 per cent. per annum will commence from date of purchase, and is payable in gold.

JAY COOKE & CO.,
Bankers.

[From Army and Navy Gazette, New York, January, 1863.]

United States five-twenties, or twenty-year 6 per cent. bonds, payable at the option of the Government after five years.

I am instructed by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive subscriptions for the above loan at par. Interest will commence from the date of subscription, and is payable in gold at the Mint, or any subtreasury or depository of the United States, on the first days of May and November of each year. At the present premium on gold these bonds yield about 8 per cent. per annum.

A full supply always on hand.

JAY COOKE,
Subscription Agent, 114 South Third street.

[Published in American Presbyterian, October 23, 1862.]

United States five-twenties, or twenty-year 6 per cent. bonds, payable at the option of the Government after five years.

I am instructed by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive subscriptions for the above loan at par, the interest to commence from date of deposit, and is payable in gold, at the Mint, or any subtreasury or depository of the United States, on the first days of May and November of each year. At the present premium on gold, these bonds yield about 8 per cent. per annum.

A full supply of these bonds always on hand.

JAY COOKE,
Subscription Agent,
No. 114 South Third street, Philadelphia.

[Published in Baltimore American, November 21, 1862.]

United States five-twenties, or twenty-year 6 per cent. bonds, payable at the option of the Government after five years.

I am instructed by the Secretary of the Treasury to receive subscriptions for the above loan at par, the interest to commence from date of deposit, thus avoiding the difficulty heretofore experienced by requiring payment in gold of the interest from May last.

A full supply of these bonds always on hand.

JAY COOKE,
Subscription Agent, 114 South Third street.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 10.

Mr. BROWN. Will the Senator from Vermont excuse me a moment until I simply make an announcement? I desire to give notice that at 2 o'clock to-morrow I shall ask leave to call up the pending resolution, as it is my wish then to submit some remarks upon it. I do not wish in any respect to interfere with my friend the Senator from Alabama [Mr. PUGH] who gave notice that he would ask to be heard at the termination of our deliberations on the Mormon bill. I ask for a definite hour at 2 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I feel bound to say on the part of the Committee on the Judiciary that we must insist now upon proceeding, if it be the pleasure of the Senate, with the Utah bill until it is disposed of, and then the debate upon the silver question, so far as we are concerned for the time being, may be resumed. At any rate, I now move that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 10.

Mr. HOAR. I desire to make one remark in regard to the notice which has been given and the observation made by the Senator from Vermont. I wish to call the attention of the Senate to the very anomalous condition of its business. Here are three or four important bills, matured, reported from committees, considered by the Senate, and partly debated and ready to be dealt with. There are three such measures certainly—two bills from the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Three.

Mr. HOAR. Yes, the Presidential election bill makes three. It seems to me it is a very singular method of conducting business in a legislative body to lay aside those measures day after day out of courtesy to individual Senators, that they may debate a matter which is not before the Senate at all——

Mr. BROWN. Mr. President——

Mr. HOAR. Allow me to finish my statement. This is not personal to the Senator from Georgia. I should like to finish the sentence and then I will yield. I say in order that they may debate a matter which is still before the appropriate committee of the Senate, and in regard to which the committee has not either matured or reported a pending measure. I recognize the courtesy which the Senate always extends to a Senator who desires to address the body in this way to lay aside the business for that purpose, but it does seem to me that that courtesy ought not to extend to permitting the silver question, which we have got to debate all over again when the committee make a report upon it, to monopolize all the time of the Senate. I do not say this with reference to any particular Senator, because I am as eager to hear the views of the honorable Senator from Georgia, and have been as eager to hear the views of those who have spoken already, as any other Senator.

Mr. BROWN. I simply desire to ask the Senator from Massachusetts if the three bills he mentions are not up now by the courtesy of the Senate.

Mr. HOAR. No, they are on the Calender in regular order.

Mr. BROWN. Are they called in regular order on the Calendar? I think not, with all due respect.

Mr. HOAR. They have all been reached.

Mr. BROWN. I think, just as I gave notice I should wish to be heard to-morrow, that by the consent of the Senate those bills were taken up out of their order. At least they were taken up by consent of the Senate.

Mr. HOAR. The bill in regard to judges' salaries was reported and reached in its order on the Calendar, and it has been postponed three or four times for the purpose of having this debate. I made the suggestion, not with the desire of curtailing anything that has been done or that is proposed to be done, but merely to express the hope that after we had had some reasonable debate on the silver question, which of course will all be repeated a little later on in the session, business might be resumed.

Mr. BROWN. I will state that what I have to say now will not be repeated again during the debate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Vermont yield to the Senator from Georgia?

Mr. BROWN. I shall ask the Senate to-morrow at 2 o'clock to permit me to be heard. I do not know whether it will extend the courtesy or not.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If the Senator from Vermont will yield the Chair will recognize the Senator from Georgia and then he can make his question of order.

Mr. BROWN. I have stated all I desire to state.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The Senator from Georgia has only stated that to-morrow at 2 o'clock he wishes to make a speech on the silver question.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. As the Chair understands the case, in order that Senators may know the view taken by the Chair, the resolution in regard to silver is now the unfinished business.

Mr. EDMUNDS. It is now the business before the Senate, but the Senator from Vermont has moved, under the rules, that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 10, and if the Senate agree to that motion and adjourns pending it—as I hope it will not but will adjourn having it finished, either defeated or passed—if it adjourns with the bill as the unfinished business, then at 2 o'clock to-morrow, or earlier as the case may be, it will come up; and I think it right, out of kindly feeling to the Senator from Georgia, to say to him now, as he is an old Senator and this silver question is not a very new one itself, that I think it of more importance to the public interest that we should go on with the positive business of legislation reported from a committee than spend any more time just now in dissertations upon the silver question, however interesting they may be. My motion is that we proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 10.

POLYGAMY AND AFFAIRS IN UTAH.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Vermont moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 10.

The motion was agreed to; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 10) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882, the pending question being on the amendment proposed by Mr. HOAR, to strike out section 7 in the following words:

SEC. 7. That it shall not be lawful for any female to vote at any election hereafter held in the Territory of Utah for any public purpose whatever, and no such vote shall be received or counted or given effect in any manner whatever; and any and every act of the governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah providing for or allowing the registration or voting by females is hereby annulled.

Mr. HOAR. I ask for the yeas and nays on the pending amendment.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. President, I am opposed to female suffrage, and in my own State if the question were up I would vote against it; but I believe it is a question of local self-government which ought to be left to the voters of each State or Territory to determine for themselves. The people of Utah having determined this question for themselves and adopted female suffrage, I shall vote for the motion of the Senator from Massachusetts to strike out the seventh section, believing that the people have ordained it there.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the adoption of the amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR] on which the yeas and nays have been ordered.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. ALLISON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from North Carolina [Mr. RANSOM] on political questions. I reserve my vote for the present that I may see whether or not this is a political question.

Mr. JACKSON (when his name was called). I am paired on this bill with the Senator from New York [Mr. MILLER]. I should vote "nay" if he were present and he would vote "yea."

Mr. JONES, of Arkansas (when his name was called). I am paired on all questions with the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. CHACE]. If he were present, I should vote "nay."

Mr. KENNA (when his name was called). I am paired on all questions with the Senator from Minnesota [Mr. SABIN]. I do not see him in his seat, and therefore I shall not vote. I would vote "nay" if at liberty to do so.

Mr. MORGAN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from Indiana [Mr. HARRISON]. If he were present, I should vote "nay."

Mr. PLUMB (when his name was called). I am paired generally with the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST]. He does not appear to be in the Chamber, and I therefore withhold my vote.

The roll-call was concluded.

Mr. SEWELL. I am paired with my colleague [Mr. MCPHERSON]. He is not present, and I withhold my vote.

Mr. BLAIR. My colleague [Mr. PIKE] who is absent is paired. I do not know that his pair has been announced.

The result was announced—yeas 11, nays 38; as follows:

YEAS—11.

Aldrich,	Call,	Hoar,	Stanford,
Blair,	Dawes,	Mitchell of Oreg.,	Teller.
Brown,	Dolph,	Palmer,

NAYS—38.

Allison,	Eustis,	Logan,	Saulsbury,
Beck,	Evarts,	McMillan,	Sawyer,
Berry,	Frye,	Mahone,	Sherman,
Blackburn,	George,	Manderson,	Vance,
Cameron,	Gibson,	Maxey,	Van Wyck,
Cockrell,	Gray,	Mitchell of Pa.,	Voorhees,
Coke,	Hampton,	Morrill,	Walthall,
Colquitt,	Harris,	Payne,	Wilson of Iowa.
Conger,	Hawley,	Platt,
Edmonds,	Ingalls,	Pugh,

ABSENT—27.

Bowen,	Hale,	McPherson,	Riddleberger,
Butler,	Harrison,	Miller of Cal.,	Sabin,
Camden,	Jackson,	Miller of N. Y.,	Sewell,
Chace,	Jones of Arkansas,	Morgan,	Spooner,
Cullom,	Jones of Florida,	Pike,	Vest,
Fair,	Jones of Nevada,	Plumb,	Wilson of Md.
Gorman,	Kenna,	Ransom,

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I offer an amendment to come in after section 19 as section 20. I do not offer it on behalf of the committe because I have had no opportunity to call them together, although I think when it is read it will meet the approval of all the members of the committee after the explanation I shall make.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The proposed amendment will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

If any person related to another person within the fourth degree of consanguinity, computed according to the rules of the civil law, shall mary, or cohabit with, or have sexual intercourse with such other so related person, knowing her or him to be within said degree of relationship, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of incest, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than three years and not more than five years.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President, in all the study that the Committee on the Judiciary has given to the Territorial enactments of Utah we failed to discover or think of, because it is such an unnatural crime, the fact which now turns out to exist, that the criminal code of Utah makes no provision against that crime; and I have been informed since this bill was reported, by one of the judges of Utah, that he had recently a case of an aggravated character of that kind before and found that there was no Territorial statute to punish it, and the culprit was only punished for a much lesser offense than was connected with that one.

I hope, therefore, that the Senate will agree to insert this section, which is in conformity to the ordinary statutes of all the States.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Vermont.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I think on page 13, section 24, as a matter of precaution (although I believe the clear implication would be that now in respect to the matter of doubt), that after the paragraph a of section 24 there should be added, after "marriage," the words:

Unless she shall have lawfully released her right thereto.

That paragraph now reads:

A widow shall be endowed of the third part of all the lands whereof her husband was seized of an estate of inheritance at any time during the marriage.

That was taken, verbally I believe, from the laws of the State of New York, which are very much like the laws of all the other States; but in view of a phrase that exists later on, which I need not take time to refer to, the implication might arise that even if she had released her dower by joining in a conveyance, still the statute said positively that she should have it nevertheless; and in order to guard against any possible question about it, I move to add the words I have named.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be read at the desk.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 24, after the word "marriage," at the end of line 3, it is proposed to add

Unless she shall have lawfully released her right thereto.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President——

Mr. HOAR. Before the Senator from Vermont passes from the last amendment——

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment has been agreed to.

Mr. HOAR. I inquired of the Senator privately whether he was quite certain that the words "within the degree" included the degree or did not. It strikes me it would be safer to add to the words "within the degree" the words "and not including," so as to read "within and not including," so that there shall be no doubt on that subject. I suppose the Senator does not wish to punish the marriage of first cousins.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I do not.

Mr. HOAR. Then we had better put in the words "not including."

Mr. EDMUNDS. In the new section I will ask unanimous consent, if there is any doubt about it, after the word "within" to insert the words "and not including," so as to leave first cousins untouched, as I believe to be the clear meaning now.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the section as amended be read.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Let the Secretary read it as it would be by putting in the words "and not including."

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

If any person related to another person within and not including the fourth degree of consanguinity, computed according to the rules of the civil law, shall marry, &c.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the modification of the amendment? If there is no objection it will be considered as so modified.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Recurring now, Mr. President, to paragraph a of section 24, where the amendment was just agreed to, as it stands in the print, and which was, of course, right as it stood before, there is a period after the word "marriage." That period should be stricken out, so as to leave no interruption in the sentence.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That change will be made unless there be objection.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I move to strike out all of section 18, on page 10, and to insert in lieu thereof:

The board of five persons created by section 9 of the act of 1882 is hereby abolished, and all the duties to be performed by the said board shall be performed by a board of three officers of the Army of the United States to be detailed for that purpose by the President, a majority of whom shall be a quorum.

Mr. President, the existence of the so-called Utah Commission created by the act of 1882 has already been extended many years beyond the time proposed by the law when they were created. By the act itself they were to discharge the ordinary duties of registration and election officers, and nothing more. Three thousand dollars per annum were appropriated for that service to each commissioner; but President Arthur suggested to Congress that it would be impossible to obtain the grade of intellect that he desired for the place unless the salary should be made $5,000, which Congress proceeded at once to do, supposing that the time would soon arrive when the act itself provided there should be an end of the commission. That act struck down all the election and registration officers in the Territory—abolished them, not the offices but the officers—and declared that when the Legislature had provided for the election of the officers who were abolished by the act of Congress, then the commission should die. That was to be the end of it. Its members were put there to fill up the gap between the abolishment of the officers of registration and the election officers then existing and the vacancy to be filled by the Legislature. It so happened that the Legislature passed an act providing for such officers, which I think the governor vetoed, and therefore the officers were not provided for, and the commission continued another year and still another year. In the Forty-seventh Congress I proposed the same amendment, but it was claimed then that they should be continued still a little longer.

Now, the difficulty right here with section 18 of this bill is that it makes this a perpetual commission; substantially, practically, there is no end to it. Mark:

That the provisions of section 9 of said act approved March 22, 1882, in regard to registration and election officers, and the registration of voters, and the conduct of elections, and the powers and duties of the board therein mentioned—shall continue and remain operative until the provision and laws therein referred to to be made and enacted by the Legislative Assembly of said Terrritory of Utah shall have been made and enacted by said assembly and shall have been approved by Congress.

Which is this commission—

It is nearly four years since we commenced this revolution—no, not revolution, this reform; this seeking to do what the American people desired in Utah. Four years ago this commission was supposed to be necessary, not to exist more than one year, and still it has been running four years. One section in this bill provides that it shall continue till the legislation of the Territory on the subject of registration and election officers shall be approved by Congress; and the bill has many sections declaring past legislation by the Territorial Legislature is not approved by Congress. Now, why provide that this commission shall continue until two irreconcileable forces agree? That is all there is about it. We have been four years acting under this law of 1882, and the Mormon power is untouched practically. You have a Mormon Legislature as much as you had before the law was passed. You have a Mormon Delegate sitting boldly in the other wing of this building. This is the result of four years' experience, and now you put a clause in this bill which provides for the perpetuity of the commission. The Senator from Vermont, long-lived as the people are up in that healthy country, will probably not live long enough to see the end of this commission under this bill. He says:

Shall continue and remain operative until the provision and laws therein referred to be made and enacted by the legislative assembly of the said Territory of Utah, shall have been made and enacted by said assembly, and shall have been approved by Congress.

They have already existed four years. I do not know that the Senator will seriously insist that this expensive commission shall continue, because it is an expensive commission. They have been, as I stated before, only discharging the duties of registration and election officers; that is all they are required to do; that they have done. All they do now is to report from time to time what the other branch of the Government is doing; what the courts and the Territorial officers in that Territory are doing; there is nothing more. The duty which they were first called upon to discharge in Utah did not require even among the Mormons a high grade of intellect, I take it—the duty of registration and election officers.

Now, if it is necessary to continue this duty, provide a board of registration such as Utah has and provide that it shall be created out of the Gentile population. There is nothing further necessary. Or would it not be as well to take a board of Army officers of three men? We have plenty of them on the retired-list, capable, strong, intelligent men, fit to discharge this duty; and why continue this expensive commission and then provide in the bill that it shall never end, but shall be perpetual, because this continues the commission until an exigency which can never happen? I ask the Senator from Vermont if there is any more possibility of that happening than there was four years ago when the commission was created?

He may speak of the effect of the very strange provisions which creep into this bill at this time, legislative provisions and principles that under ordinary circumstances would be looked upon as an outrage in any civilized country. This commission was created for this work at $5,000 per year for each member at the suggestion of the then President of the United States, and Senators will remember that a year ago we had occasion to take exception to the enormous expenses created by this commission, not only the $5,000 per year for each member but a large number of items. When these gentlemen went out there, their hotel and sleeping-car and porter's expenses were paid. When they reached Salt Lake, the field of their duty, their home for the time being, their board bills were charged against the Government, their laundry bills were charged against the Government; and when they visited Washington in the discharge of their duty, as they said, their hotel and sleeping-car bills and porter's tips were charged; and when they came here to the capital, their lunch bills and all others were charged against the Treasury of the United States. It was to be reasonably supposed that to a certain extent at least this part of the thing would have been discontinued, but it seems not. This commission, like all others, proposes to live forever. It is very seldom that they unloose their grasp on the Treasury. When such a system has been inaugurated it continues to fasten itself, as commissions always do, by the aggregation of these extraordinary expenses. I certainly wish to have it stopped; but if it can not be discontinued, at least let it be economically administered.

These gentlemen still go to Utah, and I see in last April they made a trip to Washington. For what? To make a report. We never heard before in the history of Utah that the Territorial registration and election officers visited Washington to make a report; but these gentlemen, who could not be procured to discharge the duties of registration and election officers except on a salary of $5,000 a year, necessarily had to visit Washington every year to make out a report. Then they come and include all expenses by the way; even tips to the porters of sleeping-cars are charged up against the Treasury of the United States. I ask our brethren on the other side, now marching under the banner of reform, to pause awhile and look at these abuses, which I venture to say began under a Republican administration. That is the attitude of this country to-day.

I think we have a right to ask why this commission has charged against the Treasury $45,000 or $50,000 per annum, never to stop according to this section, but to be perpetual, because it is not to stop, this bill tells us, until there is a complete union between the American Congress and the Mormon Legislature of Utah, between church and state, and that kind of a church!

We all desire to attain the same end; we have been wrestling with this problem for many years, and it would seem that the administration, be it Republican or Democratic, and the American Congress ought to be able to solve this question; but it apparently is no nearer solution than it was four years ago—at least not the political part of it; the part that is dangerous. I speak not of party politics, but the great question underlying this matter runs into politics and statesmanship in Utah of course. It is a great question. It is true some men have been incarcerated under your law. Some lawful wives may be incarcerated under the bill which we are to pass to-day; for if the only lawful and first wife of a husband in Utah does not feel it her duty from her standpoint to go into court in obedience to a subpœna and testify against her husband, she may be compelled under the pains and penalties here provided to give testimony against her lord and husband.

You may incarcerate a few lawful wives in Utah, as we have done under this law during the last four years with the males. That will be the only change. Your Mormon power is not broken. It has not been broken by the pains and penalties of the last law and its fierce administration, and you admit it by introducing this bill. That law which, with that expensive commission which we expected to achieve such great results, has accomplished nothing. You say so by this bill substantially. Reinforced it must be by greater power, denying to children who previously you provided should be heirs to property, the right to inherit from their fathers! But the Mormon will circumvent your laws in making his will and disposing of his property as he chooses; and then you will ask to go further than you have gone before and say the lawful wife shall be compelled to be a witness against the husband.

Of course I need not tell my friend from Vermont that the people of this country desire this institution to be blotted out. There is no doubt about that; I merely call his attention to this to show how far you have progressed during four years, and to show that there can be no necessity for continuing this commission, whose duties can be as well and as ably discharged by another body of men and save all this expense to the Government.

Now, still stranger, this commission, which has been in existence nearly four years, during the last two years, according to their last report, employed some six clerks, who were on their pay-roll. That is more than a Senator is allowed.

Mr. COCKRELL. How many?

Mr. VAN WYCK. Some six clerks, I think, are shown in their last report to have been in their employ in June or July.

Mr. COCKRELL. Have you a statement of their force and the expense of it per month, &c.?

Mr. VAN WYCK. I have a portion of it, as much as could be gathered from the general figures given. Some portion of it is here. From June 13——

Mr. COCKRELL. I think it is due to the Senate, if the Senator has that information, that he should communicate it to the Senate and let us all know it.

Mr. VAN WYCK. That is precisely what I was trying to do. I was trying to give it to the Senate. I was stating the expense of this commission, which has evidently outlived its usefulness, and yet in its decrepitude and age the Senator from Vermont insists upon fastening it upon the ground of pension, I presume. I insist that to put it on full pay and then make it what evidently must be a life appointment is certainly asking a good deal at this time. I said to my friend that there are, I think, six clerks in the employ of the commission in Utah.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let us know who they are, and what their salaries are, and all about it.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I can only tell my friend what I think. I do not know that it is important to know who they are; but I take it for granted that they are not Mormons.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let us know them.

Mr. VOORHEES. I challenge the statement, and ask for a verification of it. I deny that such is the case. Now, let us see what the proof is.

Mr. VAN WYCK. In this report, and I think it is the last report, from June 13 to June 30, 1885, I find:

A. G. Paddock, clerk to commission, $100; E. M. Bynon, clerk, $100; C. C. Carlton, clerk, $200.

That makes three. Then comes A. B. Carlton, member; J. R. Pettigrew, member; A. S. Paddock, member.

Mr. VOORHEES. That is three clerks. That makes the statement one-half good.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Then come the expenses on account of the commission: Ramsey, member; Carlton, member; Godfrey, member. Then comes telephone rent, $30.

Mr. VOORHEES. If the Senator will allow me——

Mr. VAN WYCK. One moment. Here is another: Laurence M. Paddock, janitor. That makes four. Henry Page, clerk, makes five. George Thackrah, clerk, makes six. Then Arthur S. Thomas, salary as secretary of the commission, seven. Then Walter F. Davis, as clerk, $600, which makes eight.

Mr. VOORHEES. Although the Senator has counted a janitor two or three times as a clerk——

Mr. VAN WYCK. No; only once.

Mr. VOORHEES. Still allow me to say that there are periods of time, which do not last long, when there is a great deal of clerical work to be done by the commission. When I challenged the statement I knew what would come, and I desired it to come. Those are not clerkships running through the entire time; they are temporary merely. The date the Senator gave, from the 13th of June to the 30th of June, shows that it is a mere temporary appointment when they are making up their register for registration. I do not want to speak in the Senator's time; but I think I know the history of the commission pretty well, and I think I know some reasons why the Senator attacks them.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Probably before the Senator sits down he had better unburden himself at the outset. I certainly do not object to the Senator's speaking in my time. I am very happy to hear him.

Mr. VOORHEES. No; I object to it myself. Go on and make your talk; I will find a time.

Mr. VAN WYCK. The Senator says that this employment is merely exceptional; that when they need six or seven clerks and a janitor it is merely when they are required to do something in regard to registration. Let me call my friend's attention to the fact that in the same year, from January 1 to April 30, four months before the bill from which I read, I find, Paddock, Page, and Bynon, $400 each, as clerk. That is not an exception. Then the next report, as I stated, taking the dates up where they were, the names are given and the amounts paid them are enumerated.

I think I am justified in saying that this is an extravagant commission. I know I ought to make an apology for treading upon this dangerous ground. That has been encountered before in this body, and I am aware of the natural and proper sensitiveness of Senators even toward a member of a commission who has been somewhat extravagant in his transactions with the Government. It is all very well to attack your neighbors and friends; there is no objection to that; but when a friend happens to be upon a commission and a suggestion is made, even in gentle terms, as to his extravagance, then necessarily and naturally it raises a protest, because it happens to be the friend, I suppose, of a Senator who is mentioned.

I did not desire to refer to these names. The Senator's associate on the other side was in earnest and required proof and evidently desired it. Still the fact remains that this extravagant commission, to call it by no harsher name, is to be continued in existence; and we ask properly that the Treasury and the people shall be relieved from this expenditure and insist that the bill should not provide as it does for the continuance of the commission as it seems to me in perpetuity nearly, practically amounting to a life appointment. If there be duties required in regard to registration and election, and if the Territoral officers are not competent to discharge those duties, certainly the President can obtain from the Army men who are competent to perform them.

I only rose to make these suggestions at this time in the interests of economy, not to weaken the force of the act of 1882 or to weaken the administration of the bill of 1886. The sections of the law of 1882 are enforced by the Territorial officers of the Territory. The sections of the bill which were now passing will be enforced by the Territorial officers. There is no new duty created for this board, and yet it is carefully provided that they shall be installed and continued in power until the event happens which is mentioned in the bill.

Mr. President, I trust I have said nothing unkind to anybody or to anybody's friends. I certainly did not intend to do so. I merely stated the fact as I have a right, I think, to do, and I think the people have a right to ask the American Senate when this matter of the Utah difficulties is to continue from year to year that we shall take some advantage from the experience of the past and at least be admonished by it. I will agree to all that the bill undertakes to do if it is possible that these extra, unnecessary expenses to the Treasury of the United States may be relieved.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the adoption of the amendment of the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. VAN WYCK].

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I am indebted to my friend from Oregon who sits farthest from me for a suggestion of technical improvement in section 4, line 18, where it now reads that such certificate of marriage shall be prima facie evidence, &c. It having been already provided that the marriage shall be recorded the bill omits to provide that the record or a certified copy of the record may also be received in evidence. On his suggestion I gladly propose to amend by inserting in line 18, after the word "certificate," the words "or the record thereof or a duly certified copy of such record," so as to read:

Such certificate, or the record thereof, or a duly certified copy of such record, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts required by this act to be stated therein, &c.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. MORGAN. I desire to call the attention of the chairman of the Judiciary Committee to section 12 of the bill. I am not sure that I understand it. I will state what my understanding of it is, and I should be glad to be corrected in it if I am wrong.

Section 12 provides for the annulling by this act of certain acts of the Territorial Legislature or of some legislative tribunal of the Territory of Utah "so far as the same may preclude the appointment by the United States of certain trustees of said corporation as is hereinafter provided." That is as far as the annulling feature of the section goes, as I understand it. It leaves the act thus amended in full force except as to the part amended.

As I understand it, the act which is thus amended in part and left in operation as to the remainder of it, was an act of the Territorial constitutional convention, as it was called, of the State of Deseret, which organized the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, and went on to make a very full declaration of the powers that should be exercised by that corporation, reaching into domestic affairs, church relations, and church conduct, and also, as I believe, as I remember at least from a cursory reading of that provision, the conduct of the members of that Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, as it is called. The bill provides that after this amendment and after this virtual re-enactment of all that is contained in that original enactment—

The President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint fourteen trustees of the said corporation, who shall have and exercise all the powers and functions of trustees and assistant trustees provided for in the laws creating, amending, or continuing the said corporation, which trustees so appointed shall hold their respective offices for the term of two years; and the trustees of said corporation shall annually or oftener make a full report to the Secretary of the Interior embracing all the property, business affairs, and operations of the said corporation; and the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah shall not have power to change the laws respecting said corporation without the approval of Congress.

As I understand the bill, we take up that act of incorporation, we amend it by simply substituting new trustees, who are to be appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, who are to be of the number of fourteen and hold their offices for two years, and are to execute the duties imposed by that law upon the board of trustees in whose places they are substituted.

I should like to know of the committee whether it is the purpose of the bill to place the Government of the United States in charge of and put it to running the Church of the Latter-day-Saints. I do not know why this corporation is kept in existence at all. If it is a corporation whose purposes are evil, if it was ordained in the first instance for the purpose of establishing, promulgating, and perpetuating polygamy or any other crime, it can hardly be called a religious establishment within the meaning of the Constitution of the United States, which forbids Congress to make any law touching an establishment of religion. It was a criminal conspiracy and combination to enforce upon a community a great moral offense, an offense that stinks in the nostrils of all Christendom, and which violates the essence and the fundamental organization of those societies which compose Christian and enlightened communities.

But it seems that this act of incorporation, which was intended to give a legal frame to this church, was intended to embody in the law something even more than the mere power of acting as a corporation, which was intended for the perpetuity of polygamy, and which I think in the very measures provided for in the language granting powers to this incorporation, does provide for the perpetuity of polygamy. That we shall take that up and substitute trustees, and that we shall validate the enactment which this act is intended really to put out of force, and to destroy, and that we shall conduct the Church of the Latter Day Saints of Jesus Christ by fourteen commissioners, to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, is something that I do not wish to do if that is the meaning of this section. What else it may be I do not understand. My idea about it is that in striking at that corporation we ought to cut it up by the roots and appoint receivers for its assets, disband it as a legal institution; and if it is to be allowed to remain there let it rest for its support entirely upon the public or the private sentiment of that community, and not upon any law that Congress either enacts or amends or enforces or executes in any way. As I understand this—perhaps I do not understand it correctly—that is the effect if not the purpose of the twelfth section.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I am glad the Senator from Alabama has called attention to this topic, because I confess that I felt upon the subject exactly as he has now expressed himself, and as I think the other gentlemen of the committee did last year or the year before, when we first took the matter in hand in regard to it. We had a tenderness of feeling and of opinion in regard to undertaking to interfere by legislation with any kind of a church organization, so far as that church organization confined itself to beliefs and opinions and worship; that its members might believe what they liked and worship in their own way so long as it was only worship. We, therefore, were reluctant to abolish this corporation, which, I confess, I felt a strong temptation to ask the committee to do.

But this corporation, when you look at its act of organization, would seem to be a corporation for two purposes. I do not doubt that the second purpose was one intended to promote the political hierarchy that stands at the head of the church organization; but that is promoted by human means and business ends of property and management and so on separate from worship and faith, whatever that faith may be. I repeat that I felt reluctant to abolish so much of this corporation as related purely to the Mormon faith, because however much we may dislike it and believe it to be an utter delusion, and with many a sham and a pretense as a cover for crime, yet it would set a legislative precedent for interfering with opinion and with faith.

We therefore took the narrower ground of attempting to steer clear of that and to get hold of the other part of the corporation which is provided for in the original second section of the act of what they call the State of Deseret when it was first passed, their constitutional convention really, I suppose, and to deal with that part of it which related to property and assets and business and politics, and not with the ordinary church organization.

The first section of that Territorial or quasi-State act, which was afterwards affirmed by the Territorial Legislature of Utah, made the simple provision for the organization of this incorporation, of this church, by the name described, in the ordinary way as a church society. Then the second section provided "that the said church," not the law but the church, that religious society, was authorized at a general or special conference to elect one trustee in trust, who is the head man in the whole of that organization. I am not now speaking of it merely as an organization of religion but as an organization of business affairs and politics and everything that touches every man in that connection, "and not to exceed twelve assistant trustees to receive, hold, buy, sell, manage, use, and control the real and personal property of said church, which said property shall be free from taxation."

Then it provides for their meeting, &c. This trustee part of it, which we deal with, is a purely business, worldly affair, intended, of course, as it would be in an ordinary case, so far as the mere worship of the church went, to keep up the church buildings and so on; but also intended, with universal powers, to operate without limit on all real and personal estate. Then it goes on to provide for their accounting. It does not limit them to anything at all. They are to purchase, own, control, and manage real and personal property, &c.; and then it goes on to provide in the third section in respect of the church establishment again.

The second section disposes of the business part of the affair, the trustee business. Then it goes on to provide for the church control, which comes up again under a similar head, which I need not go through with, when you come to it, and among other things making it valid by law that they were to regulate marriages. If that existed now, of course we could say that no church organization of any faith or kind would have a right to regulate marriages as it respected the laws of society, but in 1863, if I am not mistaken in the year—about that time—when Congress passed the act punishing polygamy, the old original act, that part of this same charter, if it may be called that, authorizing the church to regulate marriages was repealed and abolished, so that that power was gone.

The consequence was that we thought it better at this time, at any rate, instead of abolishing the whole corporation, as we have a clear legal right to do, to take it into the control of the United States so far as these large powers of property and management and control of things as distinguished from their articles of doctrine and worship are concerned, and the point was to endeavor to separate in this way, without abolishing the corporation, the church and the state, and to leave the church with its doctrines and its faiths, whatever they may be, because there is a great division among the Mormons, a growing one, I am happy to say, upon the subject of their faith about polygamy; and all the rest of their faith is not very different from that of all Christian people as it is put forth in their book of doctrine and covenants that I have here, their established book. We thought it best to leave that, however much we might disagree with it, entirely to their own regulation still, but to take the temporal part of it into the supervision and the inspection and examination of the political power of the country, thus endeavoring to separate matters that were purely those of faith and worship of that church from matters that were purely temporal and business management. That was our idea.

Mr. MORGAN. I wish to inquire of the Senator from Vermont whether the ordinance from which he reads contains any provisions confining the duties and powers of the trustees?

Mr. EDMUNDS. The trustees, as I read, are to hold, own, sell, buy, convey, and manage all the real and personal property of the concern.

Mr. INGALLS. Is there any estimate of the amount of real and personal property?

Mr. EDMUNDS. It would be purely guess-work. It is supposed to be enormous. The very same statute of 1863, if I am right in the date, as I may not be, provides that no society of this kind shall hold, own, possess, or acquire any property beyond, I believe, $50,000.

Mr. TELLER. What statute is that?

Mr. EDMUNDS. That is the statute of 1863, the same statute which took it out of the range of politics.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to inquire of the Senator from Vermont whether he has any information to the effect that the Mormon Church has at this time any property save and except its temples and that class of buildings.

Mr. EDMUNDS. My information is that under the cover and control of these trustees, whose books and records nobody can see, they have vastly more; and there is a provision in the bill which provides for cutting up all that which is acquired in violation of law, saving all private rights.

Mr. TELLER. I do not know but that the Senator may be rightly informed; but I have been advised on what I regard as very good authority that this organization controls practically now nothing except some small matters aside from its church property. I should like to inquire also of the Senator from Vermont if he believes that fourteen trustees appointed by the United States to carry on this work will confine themselves to the temporal duties of this organization, if it is not in the nature of things, when you consider how these trustees must be selected, the great excitement that is all the time attendant on this question in that community, that they will go directly into the question of the religious affairs of this institution? And as was suggested by the Senator from Alabama, is it not actually making the United States an active co-operator in this church movement? If not, then they are to at once disestablish it and destroy it.

I may not be correct as to the amount of property they have in hand, but I know something about these Mormons. They are as shrewd and enterprising as any people in this country. They have had ample notice of this proposed legislation. It passed the Senate last winter, if I recollect. It is not very probable to my mind that there is any considerable amount of money or property of any kind to be taken by these trustees, save and except that which every church organization has and has a right to have, and which the Senator says it is not proposed to interfere with; that is, their church property. They have in the city of Salt Lake a very large building called a temple. I have not been there for some years, but they had when I was there, in addition to that, a very large building called a tabernacle. The temple is a very massive structure. I should say that probably it had cost a million and a half or two million of dollars. It has a block of ground in connection with it of great value. The tabernacle is the most unique structure of the kind in the world. There is nothing like it in the world. It is a remarkable building from an architectural point of view. It has also land surrounding it. The surrounding land may not be absolutely necessary now to these buildings to carry on what we should call the religious workings of the organization. The trustees may seize on that land and say that is not church property proper, even if they attempt to carry out this act in the spirit suggested by the Senator.

My own judgment is that it would be a great deal better to dissolve this corporation, that it would save a great deal of friction and a great deal of trouble in that community to take it out by the roots and say that there should be no such corporation whatever. The property would revert, of course, if we destroy the corporation, by the ordinary laws of corporations to the people who first put it in there. It would go to the people who gave it; the people who took this country when it was a desert and made it blossom like a rose; the people who have built this out of their hard earnings, and who are as much entitled to it in a religious point of view as the people who have built any cathedral or any church on the continent are entitled to it.

I do not believe in polygamy. I voted for the original law; I voted for the law that, in my judgment, is destined ultimately to destroy polygamy in Utah. I will not vote for this bill. I will not vote for this bill, because I think it is a step backward, and it is a step to undo that which we did in 1882 by the law then passed. I have had some knowledge of these people. I have had some knowledge of the persecutions they have endured at the hands of Government officials, and I say here, as I have said again and again, with a full knowledge of how unpopular it might be to say it, that if the Government officials had been sent there, who would have faithfully administered the old law, existing for twenty years, polygamy would now be as dead as any other wicked institution that has departed with the light of civilization. But we sent men there who aggravated and irritated and who abused. I was at Salt Lake in times when there were practically no Gentiles there. I was there when among the whole eighty thousand people of Utah there were not two hundred Gentiles.

Polygamy was rampant; that is to say, there were large numbers of practical polygamists without any interference of the law. There was a sentiment underlying that community that made itself heard in every hamlet and every village as opposed to that system. You could hear it discussed on the street corners, in the hotels, in the restaurants, and in every place. Men who were Mormons and who adhered to the faith of Joseph declared that polygamy was not a part and parcel of the Mormon religion. By our persecution we drove that class of people to silence. We silenced them as you will always silence the voice of a considerable minority when persecution and outrages are resorted to to accomplish even what may be a good end.

Mr. President, I know that no man stands upon this floor and defends that people without being slandered and traduced throughout this land. I know that the bigotry and the hatred that grows out of religious enthusiam and zeal can never see beyond the very question that is presented, that polygamy is a crime. It is a crime against civilization as we view it, and yet more than three-fourths of the world to-day are in favor of and practice this institution of polygamy. Great Britain, with all her civilization, with all her religious fervor and zeal, has never put her hand on her two hundred and fifty millions of Indian subjects as we have put our hands upon these Mormons. I am in favor of putting the strong hand of the law upon them and compelling obedience to the law, but I am for doing it under the color and under the forms of law, and not in such a manner as shall make every honest man in that Territory feel that the Government is going beyond its legitimate powers and its legitimate sphere in persecution.

Mr. President, I am not a churchman myself in the extreme sense of the term. There are other organizations in this land that teach pernicious doctrines and pernicious principles. Shall I say that it is the duty of the General Government to seize them with the strong hand and compel obedience to what we may here think is proper? In so far as they violate the law they come within the province and the power of the General Government; but in so far as they maintain a strict compliance with the law they are entitled to the same protection and the same treatment as any other religious organization in the land, and so far as I am concerned they shall have it always by my vote.

Mr. President, these people are not without virtues. They are an honest, painstaking, hard-working, industrious people. I went to their capital city when there were 15,000 people there and to their credit be it said not a place in it where whisky could be sold, not a grog-shop in the length or breadth of the land, not a house of prostitution, not a gambling place in the whole Territory with 80,000 people. They may not possess all the virtues; but they do have the vice which we are endeavoring to eradicate from their midst. It can not be done by these harsh and strained measures. I believe if the act of 1882 had been carried out in the spirit with which it came from the committee and in the spirit with which I voted for it, polygamy would have been practically dead to-day. We said in it the President may grant amnesty to the men who have heretofore committed the crime of having more than one wife. It has not been done. The men who took wives to their bosoms under what they professed at least to believe to be a legal right and a religious right thirty-five and forty years ago, were required to put them from them.

Take for instance the cases that I could mention of individual men who have raised four or five families, who have educated them in Europe and have given them all the advantages of travel and culture, and you can not expect that those men will bastardize their children without a struggle; you cannot expect that the president of that church who married his wives more than a generation ago will put them from him and declare that they are prostitutes. You ought to have some respect for the prejudices, for the feelings, and for the religious bigotry of these people. They are ready to suffer martyrdom as others have suffered it in the cause of error, in the cause of untruth, and in the cause of crime. If you expect to approach that people and save them, you must do it by the proper and legitimate exercise of authority strong, yet soft. While the heavy band of the law should be put upon them, it should be with a velvety touch. It should be put upon them in kindness, not in anger.

This bill, in my judgment, bristles everywhere with vengeance and blood. I am as anxious to clear the country from the crime at which it professes to aim as anybody, and I shall vote for all proper and respectable and constitutional measures for that purpose. But, Mr. President, in my judgment it is quite as creditable that polygamy should exist untouched within our borders as that we should go beyond the constitutional powers of the Government and establish a precedent here that may come back some time to rebuke us and to cause us immense trouble.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President, I do not wish to delay the Senate, but I think I ought to spend a minute or two in reply to my friend from Colorado, whose sincerity I have the greatest respect for.

Where is the persecution that the Mormons as I will call them at large, the polygamists, ever suffered in Utah? I say nothing about Nauvoo or any other place because that is too large a subject to go into. I have heard of no anti-Mormon organization in that Territory that has ever committed any offenses against Mormon life or Mormon property. I have heard and I believe there has happened a good many times the persecution by those who control what is called the Mormon church, which is a political hierarchy, going to the extent of taking life against people whose only offense was that they did not believe as the Mormons did, and had the courage to say so. That has been the persecution part of the business, and on account of that persecution the filling up of that Territory with people who believe in the order of society as civilized mankind does has been prevented and kept back and diminished continually.

Where is the persecution in this bill? My friend says that he is in favor of the bill that we passed in 1882 to punish polygamy with more vigorous means and methods than the act of 1862 did. Where is the persecution and the harshness of carrying those measures into effect? Are you going to have an indictment against a Mormon elder who insists on keeping his six wives, which shall say at the beginning and end of it under the authority of the statute that this is not intended to do you harm, it is velvety, to use my friend's expression, and that the thing is to be prosecuted so softly that the jury are to acquit! He does not mean that. There is nothing, therefore, in the penal part of this bill relating to the punishment of the crime of polygamy that does not exist in substance and almost in form, going to the extent of giving evidence by husbands and wives against each other, in every single State in this Union. I have looked at the statutes of Nebraska since my friend from Nebraska alluded to that point, and found that the laws of Nebraska, their standing statutes, are in substance just the same thing.

Mr. TELLER. On what point?

Mr. EDMUNDS. On the point of husband and wife giving evidence against each other in criminal prosecutions that affect either the one or the other. I looked at the statutes of New Hampshire after my friend from New Hampshire alluded to that point yesterday, and I found they had the same.

Mr. BLAIR. If the Senator will excuse me in regard to that, I think he will find a very marked difference between the statute of New Hampshire and the statute of the United States applicable to Utah, as it will be if this bill should become a law. I would say to him further that I have never known a single instance in which by compulsion husband and wife have testified against each other in my State.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I am obliged to the Senator from New Hampshire. He probably understands the statutes of his State a great deal better than I have a right to do, but so far as I am capable of reading the English language the statute of New Hampshire reads in substance exactly what this bill does upon that subject.

Mr. BLAIR. Would the Senator be willing to substitute the statute of New Hampshire for the language of this bill? If so, I should be very glad to move it and to vote for his bill on the strength of it.

Mr. EDMUNDS. It would be just about as good.

Mr. BLAIR. Then I will, at the proper time, make the motion.

Mr. EDMUNDS. We shall then see about it. I believe that the statutes of almost every State are exactly the same, that in any crime for which a husband or wife is prosecuted wherein and in many cases wherein they are not personally affected, the statutes of almost all the States of modern times provide for their being witnesses, and as I stated to the Senator from New Hampshire yesterday, under the common law in all instances in which the crime of the husband or the wife was a personal one of violence the other party was always allowed to be a witness.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to ask the Senator a question. I should like to ask him if he knows of any State that allows the husband to testify to the criminal misconduct of his wife, or the wife of the husband, in any court?

Mr. EDMUNDS. I do.

Mr. TELLER. I mean one to testify in reference to the other.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The State of Vermont is one.

Mr. TELLER. If he does, I will venture to say here that that is a new statute, passed within a very few years.

Mr. EDMUNDS. And I will venture to say, in addition, that out of the thirty-eight States of this Union there are twenty-five that have in divorce cases admitted the right of the husband and wife to testify, limited just as this bill is limited, to the exclusion of confidential communications and conversations between each other. So I may dismiss that. There is no persecution in that.

Where then is the persecution of this much-abused people? They have not been disturbed; they have been the masters of the situation, and have glorified in it, against the protest of a respectable minority of their own people, for the propagation not merely of polygamy, the ministration to the lust of mankind, but the propagation of a political government of a one-man power and nothing else, because when you take their statutes and codes together and run them through one after another you will find that everything runs up to the first president of the church (and all he has to do with the church is to have that name) with regard to all their temporal affairs, nothing to do with their faith or worship, but it is for the management of the whole affairs of society in the Territory, and as long as they can persuade Congress or tender-hearted members of it, sentimental members, if I may say so, whose sentiments are good stated in the abstract, to touch them with velvet and leave them alone, they will rejoice; but I think that time has come to an end.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President, this is not the time, nor is it the proper place, to go into any extended history of the persecution of these people. I state it as a fact, and everybody who has been familiar with the condition of affairs in that Territory will admit, that for many years the character of our official acts in the Territory was such as not to compel respect to the law, but, on the contrary, to excite an antagonism to everything connected with national affairs. I have myself left the court-room in that Territory outraged so that I could not stay there for fear, as a member of the court and having a right to be heard at the bar, I should be compelled to rebuke the presiding judge. I have heard from the bench things that could not have been uttered in the State that I represent without taking the judge from the bench. I have heard them on more than one occasion, and they were repeated so as to be an every-day occurrence in that court for years. I say that there is no State in this Union and no Territory in this Union that would have submitted to such things a single month, and those people submitted for four straight years.

The honorable Senator says there is nothing oppressive in this bill. Does he know of any law that compels the wife to testify against the husband? I do not know of any, and I do not want to live in a community that does compel it. It is undermining and breaking down the very essence of the marriage relation to compel a wife to testify against her husband. She may testify; but this says she shall be compelled to testify. Does the honorable Senator know of any State in the Union where the sheriff acts as a committing magistrate on view? If he does, I do not. It is not so at common law, and it is not so in any country where there is due respect for human rights, and yet that is in this bill.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Where is that?

Mr. TELLER. It is in this bill. I do not know where it is exactly. The sheriff may commit on view and take bail. That is the construction I put upon it. I may be incorrect.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I should be awfully glad to see that paragraph. It has escaped the attention of the committee, and my attention, too.

Mr. TELLER. I do not mean the sheriff; I mean the marshal, which is the same thing.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I do not see it here as to the marshal.

Mr. VAN WYCK. The twenty-second section, fifth line, is probably what the Senator from Colorado refers to.

Mr. EDMUNDS. If that is what he means——

Mr. VAN WYCK. Less than a marshal, a commissioner may do it.

Mr. TELLER. There is a provision here somewhere that the marshal may arrest and that he may commit. There is one provision that the supreme court of the Territory may exercise an appointing power. The Senator is not ignorant of the fact that the great mass of people, 90 per cent. of them, at least, are in absolute antagonism with that court. I do not say the court is not right, but I do say that it is unwise to put in the hands of the court that which might be exercised by some other power just as well.

Here is what I alluded to:

SEC. 22. That the marshal of said Territory of Utah, and his deputies, shall possess and may exercise all the powers in executing the laws of the United States possessed and exercised by sheriffs and their deputies as peace officers; and each of them shall cause all offenders against the law, in his view, to enter into recognizance to keep the peace, &c.

I say that there is not another statute in this country of that kind. This is not yet one, but I suppose it will be enacted; I have no doubt about that. As far as the Senate is concerned, it has already passed this bill. The Senator can not be ignorant of the fact that these fourteen trustees will be there as the active agents to destroy this church. He can not be ignorant of the fact that every Mormon will be in direct antagonism with that agency. I repeat again, then, that it would be a great deal better, so far as they are concerned, to have this organization abolished absolutely.

Now, Mr. President, if everything in this bill is in the other, why does the Senator want to pass this bill? It is simply an irritant. It is simply to give the people who are now protesting against the enactment of this law a lever upon and over those men in that community who would obey the law if they dared do so. There is a public sentiment there which keeps hundreds of men from yielding assent to the law, and every movement of this kind makes it easier for the malcontents and the opponents of the law to keep in subjection the great mass of the people of that Territory. It will not accomplish the end. It could not have been better devised, in my judgment, to continue the unhappy condition of affairs in that Territory than it has been by this bill.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, it is impossible to get through with this bill to-night, and if the Senator from Vermont will not object, I move that the Senate adjourn.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I should hope we might get a vote, if the debate has ended.

Mr. CALL. There are quite a number of amendments to be proposed.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Then I shall not resist a motion to adjourn, but I give notice that I shall ask the Senate to sit it out to-morrow and finish it in some way.

Mr. MORGAN. Before an adjournment takes place I desire to offer an amendment to this bill, so that it may be printed. In section 12 I move to strike out all after the word "annulled," in line 7, and insert after that the following:

And the property of said corporation of every kind shall be disposed of according to the rules and principles of the common law as in case of the dissolution of a corporation.

Then in section 13, after the word "the" in line 3, I move to insert the word "personal;" so as to read "the personal property," and after the word "property" to insert "of the church of Latter-day Saints and;" so that the section will read:

That it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the United States to institute and prosecute proceedings to forfeit and escheat to the United States the personal property of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and the corporations obtained or held in violation of section 3 of the act of Congress approved the 1st day of July, &c.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Will the Senator be kind enough to hand to the Secretary the amendments that he desires printed?

Mr. MORGAN. And after the word "property," in line 12, I propose to insert the words:

Declared by the courts to be.

So as to read:

And all such property so declared by the courts to be forfeited and escheated to the United States.

And after the word "buildings," in line 16, to insert:

Or the grounds appurtenant thereto.

So as to read:

Provided, That no building or the grounds appurtenant thereto shall be forfeited which is held and occupied exclusively for purposes of religious worship, &c.

Then strike out the word "religious" and insert the word "the," and after the word "worship" insert "of God;" so as to read:

Provided, That no building or the grounds appurtenant thereto shall be forfeited which is held and occupied exclusively for purposes of the worship of God.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator desire the amendments printed?

Mr. MORGAN. I think they had better be printed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That order will be made.

Mr. CALL. I move that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 5 o'clock and 20 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, January 6, 1886.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

Mr. BEACH. I ask that by unanimous consent the reading of so much of the Journal as relates to the introduction and reference of bills and resolutions be dispensed with.

There was no objection.

The Journal was read, the portions indicated being omitted, and was approved.

ESTATES OF KICKAPOO INDIANS IN KANSAS.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 15th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers upon the subject, a draught of a bill "to provide for the settlement of the estates of deceased Kickapoo Indians in the State of Kansas, and for other purposes."

The matter is presented for the favorable consideration of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

MISSION INDIANS IN CALIFORNIA.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 15th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers upon the subject, a draught of a bill for the relief of the Mission Indians in California.

The subject is presented for the action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

TIMBER DEPREDATIONS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States, which was read:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 15th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with accompanying papers on the subject, a draught of a bill to amend section 5388 of the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to timber depredations upon lands reserved or purchased for military, Indian, or other purposes, &c.

This is an important subject, and is commended to the early attention of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

The SPEAKER. The message which has been just read relates to timber depredations on the public lands, on lands reserved for military purposes, and also Indian lands. The Chair thinks the proper reference will be to the Committee on the Public Lands.

The message was referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

YAKAMA INDIAN RESERVATION.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith a communication of the 15th instant from the Secretary of the Interior, submitting, with the accompanying papers, a draught of a bill to accept and ratify an agreement with the confederated tribes and bands of Indians occupying the Yakama reservation in Washington Territory for the right of way of the Northern Pacific Railroad across the said reservation, &c.

The matter is presented for the consideration and action of Congress.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 21, 1885.

WYOMING LEGISLATURE.

The SPEAKER. The Chair also lays before the House, in accordance with the Rule, the bill (S. 602) to legalize the election of the Territorial Legislative Assembly of Wyoming.

The bill was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Territories, and ordered to be printed.

STATUE OF JAMES A. GARFIELD.

The SPEAKER. The Chair also lays before the House a concurrent resolution passed by the Senate, and in connection with it a letter from the governor of the State of Ohio, which will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read as follows:

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES, January 5, 1886.

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the thanks of Congress be presented to the governor, and through him to the people, of Ohio for the statue of James A. Garfield, whose name is so honorably identified with the history of that State and of the United States.

Resolved, That this work of art is accepted in the name of the nation, and assigned a place in the old Hall of the House of Representatives, already set aside by act of Congress for statues of eminent citizens; and that a copy of this resolution, signed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, be transmitted to the governor of the State of Ohio.

STATE OF OHIO, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF GOVERNOR,
Columbus, December 10, 1885.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that, in acceptance of the invitation contained in section 1814 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, the State of Ohio, in pursuance of an act of its General Assembly, has caused to be made by the sculptor Carl H. Nichaus, and placed in the old Hall of the House of Representatives, in the Capitol of the United States, in the custody of the Architect of the Capitol, a marble statue of that illustrious and lamented citizen of Ohio James A. Garfield, late President of the United States.

This work is now presented to the Congress of the United States as one of the statues contributed by the State of Ohio in pursuance of this invitation. It is hoped that it may be found worthy of acceptance and approval as a fit contribution from this State to the United States, in whose service President Garfield passed so much of his life, and whose chief executive officer he was at the time of his death.

Very respectfully,

GEO. HOADLY,
Governor of Ohio.

Hon. JOHN SHERMAN,
President of the Senate of the United States,
Washington, D. C.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that this resolution and the letter of the governor of Ohio be ordered printed and laid on the table for the present.

There being no objection, it was so ordered.

FEES FOR RETURNING EVIDENCE, ETC.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Attorney-General, transmitting a letter from the United States district attorney for the northern district of New York, and recommending legislation providing for the payment of fees for returning to United States district attorneys evidence taken before United States commissioners where parties arrested are held to bail; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

REAPPRAISEMENT OF CERTAIN IMPORTED MERCHANDISE.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting, in response to a resolution of the House adopted December 21, 1885, copies of letters and documents relating to the application of L. Lehman for a reappraisement of certain imported merchandise; which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PROPOSED BUILDING AT WILLETS POINT, NEW YORK HARBOR.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting plans and estimates of proposed building at Willets Point, New York Harbor, for the use of the engineer battalion; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

PERMANENT WHARF AT FORT MONROE.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting plans and estimates for the construction of a permanent wharf at Fort Monroe, Va.; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

QUARTERS FOR KEEPER OF MONUMENT AT YORKTOWN, VA.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of War, transmitting reports and asking an appropriation to provide quarters for the keeper of the monument at Yorktown, Va.; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

FUNDS OF MIAMI INDIANS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting a report from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs concerning moneys alleged to have been improperly taken from the funds of the Miami Indians of Indiana and Kansas and paid to other Indians; which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

STATISTICAL ABSTRACT.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting the statistical abstract prepared by the Bureau of Statistics; which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, by unanimous consent, obtained leave of absence for three days, on account of important business.

CALL OF STATES AND TERRITORIES.

The call of States and Territories for the introduction of bills was then resumed, beginning with the State of North Carolina.

T. W. LONG.

Mr. HENDERSON, of North Carolina, introduced a bill (H. R. 1737) for the relief of T. W. Long; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOICY RICHWINE.

Mr. HENDERSON, of North Carolina, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1738) granting a pension to Joicy Richwine; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNAL-REVENUE TAXES ON DISTILLED FRUIT SPIRITS.

Mr. SKINNER introduced a bill (H. R. 1739) to abolish the internal-revenue taxes on spirits distilled from apples, peaches, and other fruits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM K. HAMMOND.

Mr. SKINNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1740) for the relief of William K. Hammond; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM E. BOND.

Mr. SKINNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1741) for the relief of William E. Bond; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS ASKEW.

Mr. SKINNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1742) for the relief of Thomas Askew; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

H. W. STYRON.

Mr. SKINNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1743) for the relief of H. W. Styron; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

O. F. ADAMS.

Mr. SKINNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1744) for the relief of O. F. Adams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF ELIZA H. HOWLAND.

Mr. SKINNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1745) for the relief of the heirs of Eliza H. Howland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. AUGUSTA ELLISON.

Mr. SKINNER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1746) for the relief of Mrs. Augusta Ellison; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Mr. SENEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1747) to repeal an act to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States, approved January 16, 1883; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Reform of the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT TO SECTION 5151 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1748) to amend section 5151 of the Revised Statutes of the United States making shareholders in national banks individually liable for the debts of the banks; which was read a first and second time, and referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

TRADE-DOLLAR COINAGE.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1749) to retire the trade-dollar coinage; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

LETTER-CARRIERS.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1750) to amend section 3865 of the Revised Statutes of the United States respecting letter-carriers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

JURISDICTION OF CIRCUIT COURTS, ETC.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1751) to amend sections 2 and 3 of an act entitled "An act to determine the jurisdiction of circuit courts of the United States, and to regulate the removal of causes from the State courts, and for other purposes;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

COMMEMORATION OF BATTLEFIELDS, ETC.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1752) to aid the Maumee Valley (Ohio) Monumental Association to commemorate forts and battlefields of the war of 1812 in Ohio and Indiana; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

MATHEW H. FULTON.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1753) for the relief of Mathew H. Fulton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

OMAR P. NORRIS.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1754) for the relief of Omar P. Norris; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN FREUND.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1755) for the relief of John Freund; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COL. WILLIAM MUNGEN.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1756) for the relief of Col. William Mungen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SOLON DAVIS.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1757) granting a pension to Solon Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY RUTH.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1758) granting a pension to Henry Ruth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MATILDA SPANGLER.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1759) granting a pension to Matilda Spangler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZA STARTSMAN.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1760) granting a pension to Eliza Startsman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY KELLER.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1761) granting a pension to Henry Keller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM FERGUSON.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1762) granting a pension to William Ferguson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILSON KING.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1763) granting a pension to Wilson King; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH A. NEIBLING.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1764) granting a pension to Elizabeth A. Neibling; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES L. BOOTH.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1765) granting a pension to James L. Booth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY A. SHANNON.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1766) granting a pension to Mary A. Shannon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIAS WENTLING.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1767) granting a pension to Elias Wentling; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES WOLFE.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1768) granting a pension to James Wolfe; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK SEIBOLD.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1769) granting a pension to Frederick Seibold; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HELEN RAYMOND.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1770) granting a pension to Helen Raymond; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY C. SNODGRASS.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1771) granting a pension to Mary C. Snodgrass; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM KNIGHT AND WILLIAM H. REDDICK.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1772) granting pensions to William Knight and William H. Reddick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MONUMENT AT WYANDOT MISSION, OHIO.

Mr. SENEY also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 53) relating to the erection of a monument at the Wyandot Mission, Upper Sandusky, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES J. JOHNSTON.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois (by Mr. BUTTERWORTH), introduced a bill

(H. R. 1773) for the relief of James J. Johnston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

WARREN HALL.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois (by Mr. BUTTERWORTH), also introduced a bill (H. R. 1774) for the relief of Warren Hall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LIGHT-HOUSE TENDER LILLY.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois (by Mr. BUTTERWORTH), also introduced a bill (H. R. 1775) for the relief of the officers and crew of the light-house tender and the inspector of the fourteenth United States light-house district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FARAN & M'LEAN.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH introduced a bill (H. R. 1776) for the relief of Faran & McLean of Cincinnati, Ohio; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER. That, being a private claim, under the new rules of the House should go to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH. Such cases heretofore have gone to the Committee on Ways and Means, and I have so marked this bill for that reference.

The SPEAKER. Under the new rules the bill should go to the Committee on Claims, but the Chair understands the gentleman to ask unanimous consent for its reference to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH. No, I am not particular about it.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CORRECTION OF SOLDIERS' RECORDS.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1777) to authorize the Secretary of War to correct the record of certain meritorious soldiers of the war and secure to them an honorable discharge from the service and to provide for the payment of the salary and bounty withheld from such soldiers by reason of their alleged desertion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER SWIFT & CO., ETC.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1778) for the relief of Alexander Swift & Co., partners, and Alexander Swift & Co. and the Niles Works; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELON A. MARSH AND MINARD LAFEVER.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1779) for the relief of Elon A. Marsh and Minard Lafever; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

MARY A. FITZPATRICK.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1780) granting a pension to Mary A. Fitzpatrick, widow, and mother of the late Lieut. Patrick Fitzpatrick, United States Army, of Cincinnati, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL PAXTON.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1781) for the relief of Samuel Paxton, of Hamilton County, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CORNELIA W. ELLIS.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1782) granting a pension to Cornelia W. Ellis, widow of Edmund C. Ellis, late of the United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH JOHNS.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1783) granting a pension to Elizabeth Johns; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CATHERINE GREYBING.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1784) granting a pension to Catherine Greybing; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

A. G. COLLINS.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1785) for the relief of A. G. Collins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT CLARKE & CO.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1786) for the relief of Robert Clarke & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH BAUER.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1787) granting a pension to Elizabeth Bauer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS DUFFY.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1788) for the relief of Francis Duffy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BEACON LIGHTS, KANAWHA AND OTHER RIVERS.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1789) to provide for protecting the navigation of the Big Kanawha, Tennessee, and Cumberland Rivers, extending the system of beacon lights to said rivers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB S. LOWERY AND GEORGE A. GRAY.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1790) for the relief of Jacob S. Lowery and George A. Gray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN REID.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1791) for the relief of John Reid; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM BEARD.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1792) for the relief of William Beard, of Camp Dennison, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

E. M. SHIELD.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1793) for the relief of Edward M. Shield, of Hamilton County, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC R. LANGLY.

Mr. BUTTERWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 1794) granting a pension to Isaac R. Langly, late of Company B, Ninety-first Ohio Volunteer Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC GARDENS, WASHINGTON.

Mr. LE FEVRE introduced a bill (H. R. 1795) for the consolidation of the public gardens of Washington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

SETTLERS ON PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. LE FEVRE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1796) for the protection of settlers on the public lands of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES.

Mr. LE FEVRE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1797) to equalize the bounties of soldiers who served in the late war for the Union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. LE FEVRE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1798) to provide for the reorganization of the Department of Agriculture; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

RANK OF RETIRED OFFICERS.

Mr. LE FEVRE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1799) to fix the rank of officers of the Army hereafter retired by reason of wounds received in action; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID W. STOCKSTILL.

Mr. LE FEVRE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1800) for the relief of David W. Stockstill; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH W. BENNETT.

Mr. LE FEVRE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1801) for the relief of Joseph W. Bennett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MOSES B. WALKER.

Mr. LE FEVRE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1802) for the relief of Moses B. Walker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PETER MAITHRE.

Mr. BROWN, of Ohio, introduced a bill (H. R. 1803) granting a pension to Peter Maithre; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM G. HALPIN.

Mr. BROWN, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1804) for the relief of William G. Halpin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DONATION OF LAND TO CERTAIN SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Mr. BROWN, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1805) granting 160 acres of land to certain soldiers and sailors and marines who served in the late war of the rebellion and to their survivors; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

JOEL F. KINNEY.

Mr. BROWN, of Ohio (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 1806) for the relief of Joel F. Kinney, of Newport, Ky.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M'CLARY.

Mr. WILKINS introduced a bill (H. R. 1807) granting a pension to John McClary; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMANTHA WALKER.

Mr. WILKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1808) granting a pension to Samantha Walker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT ZANESVILLE, OHIO.

Mr. WILKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1809) to provide for the erection of a public building in the city of Zanesville, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

CAROLINE MARTIN.

Mr. WILKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1810) granting a pension to Caroline Martin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL BANKING ASSOCIATION.

Mr. WILKINS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1811) to provide for the issue of circulating notes to national banking associations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT HAMILTON, OHIO.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, introduced a bill (H. R. 1812) for the erection of a public building at Hamilton, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PATTISON & CALDWELL.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1813) for the relief of Pattison & Caldwell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

A. C. MORGAN.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1814) for the relief of A. C. Morgan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ELLEN CORCORAN.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1815) granting a pension to Ellen Corcoran; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY ANN MILLER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1816) granting a pension to Mary Ann Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CALEB PARIS.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1817) granting a pension to Caleb Paris; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

H. L. KYLER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1818) granting a pension to H. L. Kyler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB WITTENBACH.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1819) granting a pension to Jacob Wittenbach; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALFRED DENNY.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1820) granting a pension to Alfred Denny; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL KAIN.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1821) granting a pension to Daniel Kain; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY CALE.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1822) granting a pension to Mary Cale; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANNA NATION.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1823) granting a pension to Anna Nation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOUISA NOLAND.

Mr. WARNER, of Ohio, introduced a bill (H. R. 1824) granting a pension to Mrs. Louisa Noland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN KALBFLEISH.

Mr. WARNER, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1825) granting a pension to John Kalbfleish; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CONRAD KRIGBAUM.

Mr. WARNER, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1826) for the relief of Conrad Krigbaum; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN LAPPERT.

Mr. WARNER, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1827) granting a pension to John Lappert; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES L. CAMPBELL.

Mr. WARNER, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1828) to amend the war record of Charles L. Campbell, late first lieutenant Company H, Thirty-sixth Ohio Infantry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. SINES.

Mr. WARNER, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1829) granting a pension to John H. Sines; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES L. REEDER.

Mr. WARNER, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1830) granting a pension to Charles L. Reeder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS TO WIDOWS AND MINOR CHILDREN.

Mr. WARNER, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1831) extending pensions to all widows and minor children of deceased pensioned soldiers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Commitee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ARREARS OF PENSIONS.

Mr. McKINLEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1832) to repeal the proviso of section 2 of the act of March 3, 1879, making appropriations for the payment of arrears of pensions; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSION TO SOLDIERS WHO HAVE LOST AN ARM AND LEG.

Mr. McKINLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1833) granting a pension of $72 per month to soldiers who have lost an arm and leg by amputation or paralysis in the line of duty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SECTION 4787 OF THE REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. McKINLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1834) to amend section 4787 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH R. WHITE.

Mr. McKINLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1835) for the relief of Joseph R. White; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GILES B. HARBER AND WILLIAM H. SCHEUTZE.

Mr. McKINLEY also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 54) to credit Lieut. Giles B. Harber and William H. Scheutze with sea-duty and sea-pay while engaged in the search for Lieutenant Chipp and party, and also for the time employed in bringing home the remains of Lieutenant Commander De Long and party; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE SLACK.

Mr. ELLSBERRY introduced a bill (H. R. 1836) granting a pension to George Slack; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM T. AND ANNE SCALES.

Mr. ELLSBERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1837) for the payment of William T. and Anne Scales for mill property destroyed by order of General Lewis Wallace during the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB H. BROWN.

Mr. ELLSBERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1838) granting a pension to Jacob H. Brown; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

W. T. MOORE.

Mr. ELLSBERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1839) to remove the charge of desertion against W. T. Moore, and grant to him an honorable discharge; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL F. GARNETT.

Mr. ELLSBERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1840) granting a pension to Samuel F. Garnett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. STOUT.

Mr. ELLSBERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1841) granting a pension to George W. Stout; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALFRED URTON.

Mr. ELLSBERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1842) granting a pension to Alfred Urton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH N. GREENLEE.

Mr. ELLSBERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1843) granting a pension to Joseph N. Greenlee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HADASSAH H. JOHNSON.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR introduced a bill (H. R. 1844) granting a pension to Hadassah H. Johnson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DUTY ON WOOL.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1845) to restore the rates of duty on imported wool; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES H. LIGHT.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1846) granting a pension to Charles H. Light; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM W. BURNS.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1847) for the relief of William W. Burns; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE L. RIKER.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1848) granting a pension to George L. Riker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALMON C. BROCKWAY.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1849) for the relief of Almon C. Brockway; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

COLLINS MORSE AND HENRY C. GRAY.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1850) for the relief of Collins Morse and Henry C. Gray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. M. Z. GILMAN.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1851) granting a pension to Mrs. M. Z. Gilman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SEYMOUR D. BURR.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1852) granting a pension to Seymour D. Burr; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF JOHN BYRNES.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1853) for the relief of the heirs of John Byrnes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS FOR SOLDIERS, ETC., CONFINED IN CONFEDERATE PRISONS.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1854) granting a pension to soldiers and sailors confined in confederate prisons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ORRIS O. KING.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1855) granting a pension to Orris O. King; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC WINANS.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1856) granting a pension to Isaac Winans, of the Ohio militia, in the war of 1812; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ZEPHANIAH CRUBAUGH.

Mr. EZRA B. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1857) for the relief of Zephaniah Crubaugh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M'MULLIN.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, introduced a bill (H. R. 1858) granting an increase of pension to James McMullin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREDOLIN WEINMAN.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1859) granting an increase of pension to Fredolin Weinman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK ROBERTSON.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1860) granting a pension to Frederick Robertson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PATRICK BLAKE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1861) granting a pension to Patrick Blake; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREDRICK RONIKE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1862) granting a pension to Fredrick Ronike; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEAKAGE ALLOWANCE ON DISTILLED SPIRITS, ETC.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1863) to amend section 4 of an act authorizing an allowance for leakage or casualty to distilled spirits withdrawn from exportation, &c., approved May 28, 1880; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM J. HOPPER.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1864) granting a pension to William J. Hopper; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW J. KONKLE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1865) granting an increase of pension to Andrew J. Konkle; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM REED.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1866) granting a pension to William Reed; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MICHAEL SEX.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1867) granting a pension to Michael Sex; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB ROESCH.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1868) granting a pension to Jacob Roesch; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM J. M'PHERSON.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1869) granting a pension to William J. McPherson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MICHAEL F. MULLIN.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1870) granting a pension to Michael F. Mullin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES W. COLVILLE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1871) granting a pension to James W. Colville; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PETER WALSH.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1872) granting a pension to Peter Walsh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GODFREY LODGE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1873) granting a pension to Godfrey Lodge; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, DAYTON, OHIO.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1874) for the erection of a public building in the city of Dayton, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 1875) to amend section 7 of an act entitled "An act to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States," approved January 16, 1883; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Ohio, also introduced a bill (H. R. 1876) to amend certain sections of the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to pensions and certain laws relating to pensions enacted since the revision of the statutes, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M'NAUGHTON.

Mr. THOMPSON introduced a bill (H. R. 1877) for the relief of John McNaughton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES F. WAIT.

Mr. THOMPSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1878) for the relief of James F. Wait; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN DARLING.

Mr. THOMPSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1879) granting a pension to John Darling; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

H. S. SAYRE.

Mr. THOMPSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1880) granting a pension to H. S. Sayre; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH FISHER.

Mr. THOMPSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1881) for the relief of Joseph Fisher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT O. WILSON.

Mr. THOMPSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1882) granting a pension to Robert O. Wilson, late of Company A, One hundred and second Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY KING.

Mr. THOMPSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1883) to authorize the Secretary of War to remove the charge of desertion against Henry King, late private in Company I, Thirty-second Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and to grant him an honorable discharge; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, PORTSMOUTH, OHIO.

Mr. THOMPSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1884) providing for the erection of a public building at Portsmouth, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET GREATHONS.

Mr. THOMPSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 1885) granting a pension to Margaret Greathons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS HAMMOND.

Mr. GROSVENOR (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 1886) for the relief of Francis Hammond; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. E. H. WILDES.

Mr. GROSVENOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1887) granting a pension to Mrs. E. H. Wildes, widow of Bvt. Brig. Gen. Thomas F. Wildes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD F. VANCE.

Mr. GROSVENOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1888) granting a pension to Edward F. Vance; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC CARLETON.

Mr. GROSVENOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1889) granting a pension to Isaac Carleton, late of Company E, Fifteenth Regiment Ohio National Guards; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL D. STILES.

Mr. GROSVENOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1890) granting a pension to Samuel D. Stiles, late an employé of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES.

Mr. GROSVENOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1891) to equalize the bounties paid by the United States to the volunteer soldiers and sailors of the late war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. GROSVENOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 1892) to remove the limitations in pension cases, to increase certain pensions, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. HILL introduced a bill (H. R. 1893) to provide for the sale and disposal of the public lands of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

POST-OFFICE BUILDINGS.

Mr. HILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1894) to provide for the construction of post-offices in the United States and to increase the efficiency of the postal service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER H. BROWN, DECEASED.

Mr. HILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1895) for the relief of the legal representatives of Alexander H. Brown, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HOUSTON L. TAYLOR.

Mr. HILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1896) for the relief of Houston L. Taylor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ABRAM G. HOYT.

Mr. HILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1897) for the relief of Abram G. Hoyt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARTIN WEBB.

Mr. HILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1898) for the relief of Martin Webb, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS M. OLIVER.

Mr. HILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1899) granting a pension to Francis M. Oliver; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN S. CHISUM.

Mr. HILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 1900) for the relief of John S. Chisum; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT C. MURPHY.

Mr. HILL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1901) for the relief of Robert C. Murphy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SIMON J. FOUGHT.

Mr. OUTHWAITE introduced a bill (H. R. 1902) granting an increase of pension to Simon J. Fought; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY CANODE.

Mr. OUTHWAITE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1903) granting a pension to Henry Canode; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. OUTHWAITE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1904) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several States under the provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862, and of an act supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

THEODORE W. TALLMADGE.

Mr. OUTHWAITE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1905) for the relief of Theodore W. Tallmadge; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS M'CLANNAHAN.

Mr. OUTHWAITE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1906) granting a pension to Thomas McClannahan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC LAND, CLEVELAND, OHIO.

Mr. FORAN introduced a bill (H. R. 1907) donating to the city of Cleveland, Ohio, a certain tract of land for street and park purposes.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inquire of the gentleman from Ohio whether it is improved or unimproved property?

Mr. FORAN. It is improved ground.

The bill was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

TRIAL BY JURY.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1908) to amend section 566 of the Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM C. JONES.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1909) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of William C. Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALONZO S. GARDNER.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1910) granting a pension to Alonzo S. Gardner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY E. HOPKINS.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1911) for the relief of Mary E. Hopkins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD HERBERT.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1912) granting a pension to Edward Herbert; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. K. O'REILLY.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1913) granting a pension to Capt. J. K. O'Reilly; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WAGES GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1914) for the restoration of wages in the Government Printing Office; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

MICHAEL CLANCY.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1915) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Michael Clancy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

OWEN M'CAFFREY.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1916) to remove the charge of desertion from the naval record of Owen McCaffrey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN MURTUCK.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1917) to remove the charge of desertion from the naval record of John Murtuck; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ELIAS BROWN.

Mr. FORAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1918) granting a pension to Elias Brown; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT C. KIRK.

Mr. COOPER introduced a bill (H. R. 1919) for the relief of Robert C. Kirk; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COL. J. FRY.

Mr. COOPER also introduced a bill (H. R. 1920) granting a pension to Col. J. Fry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID H. PERRIN.

Mr. ROMEIS introduced a bill (H. R. 1921) granting a pension to David H. Perrin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

C. H. EDDY.

Mr. ROMEIS also introduced a bill (H. R. 1922) for the relief of C. H. Eddy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

OHIO JUDICIAL DISTRICTS.

Mr. LITTLE introduced a bill (H. R. 1923) to transfer the county of Logan, Ohio, from the northern to the southern district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ADAM L. EPLEY.

Mr. LITTLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1924) for the relief of Adam L. Epley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. M. E. A. FERGUSON.

Mr. LITTLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1925) for the relief of Mrs. M. E. A. Ferguson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FUNERAL EXPENSES OF LIEUT. J. G. KYLE.

Mr. LITTLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1926) for the payment of the funeral expenses of Lieut. John G. Kyle; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CONRAD SCHLEICHER.

Mr. LITTLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1927) granting a pension to Conrad Schleicher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THORNTON JONES.

Mr. LITTLE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1928) granting a pension to Thornton Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. LITTLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 1929) requiring the national banking associations to keep a certain proportion of their required reserves in coin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

MEDICAL HISTORY OF THE WAR.

Mr. LITTLE also submitted a resolution requiring of the Public Printer certain information relative to the printing of a new edition of the Medical and Surgical History of the war; which was read, and referred to the Committee on Printing.

PENSION-ARREARS ACT.

Mr. GEDDES introduced a bill (H. R. 1930) to repeal a proviso contained in an act entitled "An act making appropriations for the payment of the arrears of pension granted by act of Congress approved January 25, 1879, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1879, being the limitation clause thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS TO DEPENDENT RELATIVES.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1931) to regulate the granting of pensions to dependent relatives; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DISPUTED HANDWRITING.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1932) providing for evidence in cases involving disputed handwriting; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

E. J. PHILLIPS.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1933) granting relief to E. J. Phillips, postmaster at Oberlin, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT MANSFIELD, OHIO.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1934) for the erection of a public building at Mansfield, Ohio; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

SETH H. KELLOGG.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1935) for the relief of Seth H. Kellogg; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN NELSON.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1936) granting a pension to John Nelson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

A. SCHUYLER SUTTON.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1937) for the increase of pension to A. Schuyler Sutton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN R. PRATT.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1938) for the increase of pension to Benjamin R. Pratt, late a lieutenant in the Third Ohio Volunteers, Mexican war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CORNELIUS ALBERTSON.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1939) granting a pension to Cornelius Albertson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOUISA J. M'FARLAND.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1940) granting a pension to Louisa J. McFarland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. NANCY SMITH.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1941) granting a pension to Mrs. Nancy Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M'FARLAND.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1942) to relieve John McFarland from the charge of desertion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES L. M'CLARRAN.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1943) granting a pension to James L. McClarran; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHRISTIAN FRANSKI.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1944) rerating the pension of Christian Franski; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JEREMIAH M. FITGER.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1945) granting a pension to Jeremiah M. Fitger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY F. RUTH.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1946) granting a pension to Henry F. Ruth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABRAHAM OSTER.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1947) granting a pension to Abraham Oster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JONATHAN DORSEY.

Mr. GEDDES also introduced a bill (H. R. 1948) granting a pension to Jonathan Dorsey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF CITIZENS OF OREGON AND IDAHO.

Mr. HERMAN introduced a bill (H. R. 1949) for the relief of citizens of the State of Oregon and of Idaho and Washington Territories who served with the United States troops in the war with the Nez Percé and Bannock Indians, and for the relief of the heirs of such as were killed in such service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN GEISEL.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1950) for the relief of the personal representatives of John Geisel, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LOUIS BELFILS.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1951) for the relief of Louis Belfils for property destroyed by citizens and natives of New Grenada; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MICHAEL RILEY.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1952) for the relief of Michael Riley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT ROSEBURG, OREG.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1953) to provide for the construction of a public building at the city of Roseburg, State of Oregon, for United States land office, post-office, signal service, and United States timber inspector; which was read a first and second time, refefred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT OREGON CITY, OREG.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1954) to provide for the construction of a public building at Oregon City, Oreg.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN HAGENS.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1955) for the relief of John Hagens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH BATES.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1956) for the relief of Elizabeth Bates; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS J. MILLER.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1957) for the relief of Thomas J. Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BRIG. GEN. RUFUS INGALLS.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1958) to provide for the retirement of Brig. Gen. Rufus Ingalls (retired) as a major-general of the United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

SUPPLIES TO OREGON VOLUNTEERS IN 1855–'56.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1959) to pay the citizens of Oregon for supplies furnished the Oregon volunteers in 1855-'56, ordered by Philo Callender, war commissioner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AVERY D. BABCOCK AND WIFE.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1960) for the relief of Avery D. Babcock and wife, of Oregon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. H. SMITH.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1961) for the relief of J. H. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HADLEY HOBSON.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1962) for the relief of Hadley Hobson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS M. VANDERPOOL.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1963) for the relief of Francis M. Vanderpool; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE H. WASHINGTON.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1964) for the relief of George H. Washington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TUNIS SWICK.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1965) for the relief of Tunis Swick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN ALEXANDER.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1966) for the relief of John Alexander; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. OATMAN.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1967) for the relief of John B. Oatman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SALARIES OF DISTRICT JUDGES.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1968) fixing the salaries of the several judges of the United States district courts at $5,000 per annum; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, and ordered to be printed.

B. JENNINGS.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1969) for the relief of B. Jennings; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

P. C. DAVIS.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1970) for the relief of P. C. Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT PORTLAND, OREG.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1971) to provide for the erection of a public building at Portland, Oreg.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

OREGON DONATION LAW.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1972) further defining the class of persons included in the provisions of section 5 of the act of July 17, 1854, amendatory of the Oregon donation law of September 27, 1850; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS OF STATES AND TERRITORIES.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1973) for the benefit of the States of Texas, Colorado, Oregon, Nebraska, California, Kansas, and Nevada, and the Territories of Washington and Idaho, and Nevada when a Territory; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN FITZHUGH.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1974) for the relief of John Fitzhugh, of Oregon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

S. B. CRANSTON.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1975) for the relief of S. B. Cranston, of Oregon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS GUINEAN.

Mr. HERMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 1976) for the relief of Thomas Guinean; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COINAGE OF SILVER DOLLARS.

Mr. KELLEY introduced a bill (H. R. 1977) for the further limitation of the coinage of silver dollars; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

STAFF OFFICERS OF THE NAVY.

Mr. KELLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1978) to equalize the rank and pay of certain staff officers of the Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS OF VESSEL-OWNERS, ETC.

Mr. KELLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1979) to permit the owners of certain vessels and the owners or underwriters of cargoes laden thereon to sue the United States; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. SPRINGER). In the opinion of the Chair this bill should go to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. KELLEY. I thought it ought to go to the Committee on the Judiciary, as it involves a modification of the law.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It confers jurisdiction upon the courts of the United States to hear and determine a particular case for the purpose of assessing damages against the United States to be awarded to the owners of vessels.

Mr. KELLEY. I understood it to be a general rather than a particular provision.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If the gentleman so desires the Chair will ask unanimous consent that the bill be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. KELLEY. I am willing the Chair should decide as to the proper reference.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD C. RIDGWAY AND OTHERS.

Mr. KELLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1980) for the relief of Richard C. Ridgway and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. GILE.

Mr. KELLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1981) to correct the record and fix the rank and pay of George W. Gile, a lieutenant-colonel in the United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN FRASER.

Mr. KELLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 1982) for the relief of John Fraser; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, READING, PA.

Mr. ERMENTROUT introduced a bill (H. R. 1983) to increase the appropriation for the erection of the public building at Reading, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

SAFETY OF PASSENGERS.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1984) to amend article 3 of chapter 354 of the United States Statutes at Large, passed at the second session of the Forty-eighth Congress; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

CIGAR MANUFACTURE.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1985) reducing the penal sum of the bond required to be given by persons engaging in the manufacture of cigars under the provisions of section 3387, chapter 7, title 35, Revised Statutes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN F. DONABOWER.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1986) granting a pension to John F. Donabower; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY LICHTY.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1987) granting a pension to Henry Lichty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PETER F. SAEMAN.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1988) granting a pension to Peter F. Saeman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN C. FREES.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1989) granting a pension to John C. Frees; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN HUNTER.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1990) granting a pension to John Hunter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY ANN WESNER.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1991) granting a pension to Mary Ann Wesner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

A. H. HERR.

Mr. ERMENTROUT (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1992) for the relief of A. H. Herr, of the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAINT MARK'S PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH, D. C.

Mr. ERMENTROUT (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 1993) for the relief of Saint Mark's Protestant Episcopal church, in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNATIONAL NAVIGATION COMPANY.

Mr. SCOTT introduced a bill (H. R. 1994) for the relief of the International Navigation Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

STANDARD SILVER DOLLAR.

Mr. SCOTT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1995) to regulate the coinage of the standard silver dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

RE-ENLISTED SOLDIERS.

Mr. SCOTT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1996) to provide for the payment of bounty to re-enlisted volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NANCY R. BROWN.

Mr. SCOTT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1997) granting a pension to Nancy R. Brown; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM MORAN.

Mr. SCOTT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1998) for the relief of William Moran; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM RICKARDS.

Mr. SCOTT also introduced a bill (H. R. 1999) for the relief of William Rickards; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. GARETTA H. PIERCE.

Mr. SCOTT also introduced a bill (H. R. 2000) granting a pension to Mrs. Garetta H. Pierce; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIM OF SCHUYLKILL COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

Mr. BRUMM introduced a bill (H. R. 2001) to authorize the proper accounting officers of the Treasury to audit and pay the claim of the county of Schuylkill, in the State of Pennsylvania, for money advanced by it under allotments made by soldiers from said county during the late rebellion by virtue of section 12 of the act of Congress entitled "An act to authorize the employment of volunteers to aid in enforcing the laws and protecting public property," appproved July 22, 1861; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RETIREMENT OF NATIONAL-BANK NOTES.

Mr. BRUMM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2002) to retire national-bank notes and substitute therefor Treasury notes; which was read a a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC DEBT—UNIFORM PAPER CIRCULATION.

Mr. BRUMM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2003) to facilitate the payment of the public debt and to provide a uniform paper circulation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES REILLY.

Mr. BRUMM also introduced a resolution to pay the funeral expenses of James Reilly, late an employé of the House; which was referred to the Committee on Accounts.

ELECTION OF CERTAIN UNITED STATES OFFICERS BY THE PEOPLE.

Mr. BAYNE introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 55) proposing an amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of certain United States officers by the people; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNAL-REVENUE TAX ON TOBACCO.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2004) repealing all internal-revenue taxes on domestic tobacco; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

MONONGAHELA NAVIGATION COMPANY, PENNSYLVANIA.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2005) to provide for the purchase or condemnation of the works, locks, and dams and appurtenances of the Monongahela Navigation Company of Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair this bill should be referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals.

Mr. BAYNE. No; to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors. This relates to a navigable river which is already improved by locks and dams, partly by the Government of the United States and partly by this private company. It is not a canal.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If it is for the improvement of a river or harbor, then it would go into the petition-box.

Mr. BAYNE. The Government has been already expending money in improving the navigation of this river above where these locks are, and the River and Harbor Committee has always reported such appropriations.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The jurisdiction of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors relates to the improvement of rivers and harbors. This appears to be a bill providing for the purchase of certain works, locks, and dams on a stream which has been made navigable by a private corporation, and therefore it does not relate to, or is not an appropriation for, the improvement of a river or harbor.

Mr. BAYNE. This is for the improvement of rivers and harbors. The Government has already expended money in the construction of the locks and dams above those belonging to this private corporation; and the object of this bill is to take away from a private corporation the control of a navigable stream of the United States, a stream which has been recognized as such, and place it in the hands of the Government of the United States, just as the Kanawha River improvements were taken possession of by the Government.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If this is in continuance of a work already in progress it might be sent to that committee; otherwise the Chair thinks not.

Mr. BAYNE. Part of this river has been improved by the Government and part of it has not.

The bill was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, ALLEGHENY, PA.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2006) to provide for the construction of a public building for the accommodation of the post-office and other Government offices in the city of Allegheny, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PROTECTION OF PUBLIC WORKS AGAINST TRESPASS.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2007) to provide for the protection of public works against trespass or injury.

Mr. BAYNE. This, Mr. Speaker, is a long bill, prepared by the Engineer Department of the Government, and has for its object the protection of rivers and harbors upon which the Government has expended money. Its proper reference is, therefore, to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It may properly go to the Committee on Commerce or to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors. If the gentleman desires it to go to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, the Chair thinks that reference will be proper.

Mr. BAYNE. That is the committee to which I desire to have it referred.

The bill was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS FOR INDIGENT SOLDIERS.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2008) providing pensions for Union soldiers of the war of the rebellion who are or shall become disabled or dependent on their own labor for support, and the dependent widows and minor children and parents of Union soldiers of the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF SALARIES OF UNITED STATES JUDGES.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2009) to increase the salaries of judges of the United States district and circuit courts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. BAYNE. That bill, I think, should be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It was decided on the first day of the session that bills fixing the salaries of judicial officers should go to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice.

Mr. BAYNE. Heretofore these have been referred to the Judiciary Committee, and in the last Congress a bill was reported by that committee on this subject. The Judiciary Committee of the Senate also reported a similar bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Bills of a similar character have gone uniformly at this session to the Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice.

Mr. BAYNE. This bill changes existing law and regulates the salaries of judges. I can not see how the Committee on Expenditures in the Department has a right to formulate new law.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The new rule makes a part of the jurisdiction of this committee, as the gentleman will find on examination, in the following words:

The reduction or increase of the pay of officers.

That is a subject pertaining to the jurisdiction of this committee under the rule, and the Chair must adhere to the opinion that proper reference has been given to the bill.

MUSTER AND PAY OF CERTAIN OFFICERS.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2010) to provide for the muster and pay of certain officers and enlisted men; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH CHALFANT.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2011) granting a pension to Joseph Chalfant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER CASKEY.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2012) granting a pension to Alexander Caskey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MYRON E. DUNLAP.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2013) for the relief of Myron E. Dunlap; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALFRED PLEASONTON.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2014) authorizing the President to appoint and retire Alfred Pleasonton, late a major-general in the United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M. PAGE.

Mr. BAYNE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2015) granting a pension to James M. Page; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISABELLA M'DOWELL.

Mr. BAYNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2016) granting a pension to Isabella McDowell, widow of James McDowell, deceased, late a private of Company I, Second Pennsylvania Artillery Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RIGHT OF WAY TO SCHUYLKILL RIVER RAILROAD.

Mr. BINGHAM introduced a bill (H. R. 2017) granting a right of way to the Schuylkill River East Side Railroad Company through the arsenal and naval asylum grounds at Philadelphia, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET S. MEADE.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2018) granting a pension to Margaret S. Meade, widow of George G. Meade, late a major-general in the United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES NAVAL HOMES.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2019) for the relief of sailors and marines in the United States naval homes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

J. F. BAILEY & CO.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2020) for the relief of Josiah F. Bailey and Samuel W. Groome, lately trading as J. F. Bailey & Co.; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill will be referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. BINGHAM. A bill similar in character, to refund what is assumed to have been illegally exacted as customs duty, was introduced yesterday by the gentleman from New York [Mr. HEWITT] and was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. This covers a question of the same character. I ask that, if not in accordance with the rule, the reference, by unanimous consent, be made to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is of opinion that the bill referred to as having been introduced by the gentleman from New York was not similar to this.

Mr. BINGHAM. It is similar in character.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill by the terms of the rule should go to the Committee on Claims. The gentleman may ask unanimous consent for reference to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. BINGHAM. I ask unanimous consent.

There being no objection, the bill was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET A. BLAKE.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2021) granting a pension to Margaret A. Blake, widow of Col. George A. H. Blake, United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELLEN M. MITCHELL.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2022) to increase the pension of Ellen M. Mitchell, widow of William G. Mitchell, major and assistant adjutant-general, United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD G. PENDLETON.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2023) for the relief of Edward G. Pendleton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

COMMODORE LOUIS C. SARTORI.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2024) to promote Commodore Louis C. Sartori, now on the retired-list of the Navy, to be a rear-admiral on said list, in accordance with his original position on the Naval Register; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM F. PRATT.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2025) authorizing the President of the United States to appoint William F. Pratt, late a second assistant engineer in the United States Navy, upon the retired-list of the Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JABEZ BURCHARD.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2026) for the relief of Jabez Burchard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSHUA ARMSTRONG.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2027) granting a pension to Joshua Armstrong; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY HERMAN.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2028) for the relief of Henry Herman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LETTER-CARRIER AND FREE-DELIVERY SERVICE.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2029) extending the letter-carrier and free-delivery service to places containing a population of not less than 10,000 within the corporate limits, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committe on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

LOTTERY ADVERTISEMENTS IN MAILS.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2030) to prohibit the mailing of newspapers and other publications containing lottery advertisements, and prescribing a penalty for violation of the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

RATES OF POSTAGE.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2031) to regulate rates of postage on second-class and mail matter at letter-carrier offices; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

POSTAL TELEGRAPHIC SYSTEM.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2032) to provide for the establishment of a postal telegraphic system; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

FRANKING PRIVILEGE TO JULIA D. GRANT.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2033) granting a franking privilege to Julia D. Grant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

RAILWAY POSTAL CLERKS.

Mr. BINGHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2034) for the appointment of railway postal clerks, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

HIRAM J. STEINBERGER.

Mr. CURTIN introduced a bill (H. R. 2035) to remove the charge of desertion against Hiram J. Steinberger, late private Company K, One hundred and thirty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES MILLENGER.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2036) for the relief of James Millenger, of New Jersey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

INCREASE OF PENSIONS.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2037) to increase pensions in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS TO UTTERLY HELPLESS SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2038) to equalize the pensions of all "utterly helpless" pensioned soldiers and sailors; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2039) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with colleges established in the several States under the provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862, and of acts supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF JOHN S. FILLMORE.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2040) for the relief of the heirs of John S. Fillmore, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM BRINDLE.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2041) to empower the circuit courts of the eastern district of Pennsylvania to hear and determine the claims of William Brindle; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REFUNDING IMPROPERLY PAID FEES.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2042) to require certain fees improperly paid into the Treasury of the United States to be refunded, and to pay certain other moneys; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY KASTATHE.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2043) to place Mary Kastatte, widow of Jacob Kastathe, on the pension-roll as the widow of a soldier; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED BRETHREN.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2044) for the relief of the Society of the United Brethren in Christ, of Tyrone, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT TO SECTION 1661 REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2045) to amend section 1661 of the Revised Statutes, making an annual appropriation to provide arms for the militia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Militia, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY M. BOSSERT.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2046) granting a pension to Henry M. Bossert; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN WIGHTMAN.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2047) for the relief of John Wightman, a contractor for carrying the mail in Pennsylvania; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. CURTIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2048) for the relief of certain pensioners; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TARIFF REVISION.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, before introducing a resolution against any revision of the tariff, I ask unanimous consent to be permitted to present some two or three hundred protests of manufacturers all over this country, these manufacturers employing some fifty thousand men. I wish to present these protests as a part of the proceedings of the House, though of course not to be printed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Pennsylvania asks unanimous consent to present at this time remonstrances against any change in the tariff laws. If there be no objection they will be received for reference to the Committee on Ways and Means without printing. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and it is ordered accordingly.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a resolution against the revision of the tariff; which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

SHIP-CANAL BETWEEN DELAWARE RIVER AND ATLANTIC OCEAN.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2049) for the construction of a ship-canal to connect the Delaware River with the Atlantic Ocean; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill will be referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania. I think the proper reference is to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors. It has relation to the same class of works as the Hennepin Canal and other works which propose to connect the inland waters of this country. This bill simply proposes that we appropriate money after surveys are made to connect the Delaware River somewhere in the vicinity of Camden with the Atlantic Ocean, at a point probably adjacent to Atlantic City. I call the attention of the Chair to the fact that when a similar bill to connect the waters of the Chesapeake and Delaware Bays was presented it was referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and that committee recommended an appropriation to commence the work.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill provides only for surveys; and the Chair remembers that surveys have generally been included in the river and harbor bill. Therefore, unless objection is made, it will go to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Mr. WILLIS. I object to that reference.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. WILLIS] having objected to the reference proposed, may move whatever reference he prefers. The present question is on referring the bill to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors. What reference does the gentleman from Kentucky move?

Mr. WILLIS. I ask for the reading of the bill.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania. It embraces an appropriation.

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, &c., That there be made by the Secretary of War an immediate survey for the construction of a ship-canal to connect the Delaware River in the vicinity of the city of Camden with the Atlantic Ocean, so that the line of the said canal shall be as near east and west as possible, and that the estimates of the United States engineers be prepared at an early day, so that the report can be made during the present session of Congress and an appropriation for the commencement of the work be recommended.

Mr. WILLIS. Mr. Speaker, that question has already been presented in the present Congress and passed on by the Speaker in the case of the Michigan canal. The Speaker then examined and decided it. I submit, therefore, it is res adjudicata as far as the Chair is concerned.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The present occupant of the Chair stated he was of opinion the bill should go to the Committee on Railways and Canals, but at the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. O'NEILL] the reference to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors was proposed. If objection be made, the question will be submitted to the House.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania. The gentleman from Kentucky [Mr. WILLIS] will remember that we are now acting under the new rules——

Mr. WILLIS. I am perfectly aware of that.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania. And those rules designate the appropriate reference of bills.

I presume, of course, the bill for the construction of the Hennepin Canal would go to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, just as did the bill proposing to connect the Chesapeake and Delaware Bays. I insist, therefore, that this bill should go to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Debate is not in order at this time.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania. I supposed it was proceeding by unanimous consent.

Mr. WILLIS. I understand it is the decision of the Chair that this bill properly belongs to the Committee on Railways and Canals.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That is the opinion of the Chair.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania. And I propose that it shall be referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair was about to refer it without objection to that committee, but objection having been made, the question must be submitted to the House.

Mr. WILLIS. I ask, as a parliamentary question, whether that does not require a two-thirds vote?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Speaker ordinarily refers the bill under the rule, but the question of reference is one entirely under the jurisdiction of the House and can be controlled by the House by a vote to that effect.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania. I desire it to be known that this bill proposes an appropriation, and comes before the House through the proper channels, just as every other case does which is referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Mr. WILLIS. As the gentleman has been heard in behalf of his view of the question, I ask to be heard briefly in reply.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection?

Mr. WILLIS. At the suggestion of a number of gentlemen, and as the House seems to understand the question, I will not occupy the time of the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Objection having been made to the motion of the gentleman from Pennsylvania that the bill be referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, the question will be submitted to the House.

The House refused to refer the bill to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

The bill was then referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals, and ordered to be printed.

DRY-DOCK AT THE LEAGUE ISLAND NAVY-YARD.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2050) to authorize the construction of a dry-dock at the League Island navy-yard by contract and appropriating money for the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES STEAMER ASHUELOT.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2051) for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamer Ashuelot; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PRIZE-MONEY TO FARRAGUT'S FLEET.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2052) appropriating prize-money due to the survivors of Farragut's fleet for captures made in the Mississippi River in April, 1862; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RACHAEL J. FLOYD.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2053) for the relief of Rachael J. Floyd; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REBECCA MARCHANT.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2054) granting a pension to Rebecca Marchant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THEODORE ARTZ.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2055) granting a pension to Theodore Artz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE BERNHART.

Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2056) granting a pension to Catharine Bernhart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TRADE-DOLLARS.

Mr. EVANS (by Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania) introduced a bill (H. R. 2057) to authorize the redemption, exchange, and recoinage of trade-dollars; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

STANDARD SILVER DOLLAR.

Mr. EVANS (by Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2058) to suspend the coinage of the standard silver dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

ESTABLISHMENT OF AN INTERNATIONAL TRIBUNAL.

Mr. EVANS (by Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2059) to promote peace among the nations by the establishment of an international tribunal or some fixed principle of arbitration; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET D. MARCHAND.

Mr. EVANS (by Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2060) granting a pension to Margaret D. Marchand; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHRISTIANA B. SCHIVELY.

Mr. EVANS (by Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2061) for the relief of Christiana B. Schively; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MAGDELINA FONISH.

Mr. EVANS (by Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2062) for the relief of Magdelina Fonish; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY KERR.

Mr. EVANS (by Mr. O'NEILL, of Pennsylvania) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2063) granting a pension to Mary Kerr; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL BANKING ASSOCIATIONS.

Mr. STORM introduced a bill (H. R. 2064) to provide for the issue of circulation to national banking associations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

CADETS AND CADET-ENGINEERS.

Mr. STORM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2065) for the relief of cadets and cadet-engineers who were in the naval service at Annapolis on the 5th day of August, 1882; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALFRED M'MURTRIE.

Mr. STORM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2066) for the relief of Alfred McMurtrie; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES WEEKS.

Mr. STORM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2067) for the relief of James Weeks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COMPENDIUM TENTH CENSUS.

Mr. STORM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2068) authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to purchase 100,000 condensed statements of the Compendium of the Tenth Census as prepared by John C. Welsh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

TRADE-DOLLARS.

Mr. STORM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2069) for the retirement of trade-dollars from circulation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. This bill the Chair is of opinion should be referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency.

Mr. BLAND. I ask to have the bill read. That question came up in the last Congress, and was referred by a direct vote of the House to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will read the bill.

The bill was read at length.

Mr. BLAND. That is purely a matter of coinage, and the last Congress, as I have stated, when the question was raised, took a similar measure from the Committee on Banking and Currency and referred it, by a vote of the House, to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures. I raise that question now. It properly belongs to coinage.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is informed that the Speaker sent a similar bill to the Committee on Banking and Currency. The present occupant of the Chair is of opinion, on examination, that this bill, owing to the provision which amends the coinage act, should go to the Committee on Coinage, and it will be so referred.

Mr. BLAND. I was not aware that any bill relating to the trade-dollar had been referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency. Certainly the House took jurisdiction of the subject from that committee during the last Congress.

The bill was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM PAUGH.

Mr. STORM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2070) for the relief of William Paugh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES F. EILBER.

Mr. STORM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2071) granting a pension to Charles F. Eilber; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RACHEL T. ABBOTT.

Mr. STORM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2072) granting a pension to Rachel T. Abbott; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LIABILITY OF SHIP-OWNERS.

Mr. NEGLEY introduced a bill (H. R. 2073) to amend and re-enact section 4289 of the Revised Statutes relative to the liability of the owners of vessels; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests, and ordered to be printed.

MEXICAN AND OTHER PENSIONS.

Mr. NEGLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2074) granting a pension to soldiers and sailors of the Mexican war and other wars therein named, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BRANCH HOME FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS.

Mr. NEGLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2075) to provide for the location and erection of a branch home for disabled volunteer soldiers west of the Rocky Mountains; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE MONONGAHELA AND OTHER RIVERS.

Mr. NEGLEY also introduced bills for the permanent improvement of the Upper Ohio River, for the navigation of the Allegheny River near Pittsburgh, and the permanent improvement of the Monongahela River in the States of West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the rule these propositions will be referred through the petition-box to the appropriate committees.

Mr. NEGLEY. A bill providing for the permanent improvement of the Monongahela River is now under the control of Congress. A bill of a similar purport has already been presented to-day by my colleague from Pennsylvania [Mr. BAYNE].

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That bill was for the purchase of certain works owned by a corporation on the river.

Mr. NEGLEY. That is contemplated also.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Bills for the improvement of the navigable waters of the United States are, under the rules of the House, to be referred through the petition-box, and the Clerk will read clause 5 of Rule XXI, relating to the subject.

The Clerk read as follows:

All bills for the improvement of rivers and harbors, and for the establishment or change of post-routes, shall be delivered to the Clerk, as in the case of petitions and memorials, for reference to appropriate committees.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The propositions submitted by the gentleman from Pennsylvania will therefore be referred through the petition-box to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

UNITED STATES MERCHANT MARINE.

Mr. NEGLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2076) for the relief of the merchant marine of the United States engaged in the foreign trade; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests, and ordered to be printed.

MANUFACTURE OF STEEL FOR HEAVY ORDNANCE, ETC.

Mr. NEGLEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2077) to authorize the manufacture of steel suitable for heavy ordnance, armor, and other army and naval purposes, with the necessary equipment adapted to the present improvement in modern warfare; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICES OF PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT.

Mr. RANDALL introduced a bill (H. R. 2078) in relation to the manner of filling vacancies in the offices of President and Vice-President; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2079) limiting the time within which claims against the United States may be filed and prosecuted; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY MORTIMER SEMMES.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2080) granting a pension to Mary Mortimer Semmes, widow of Commodore Alexander A. Semmes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REPRESENTATIVES OF PETER LYLE.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2081) for the relief of the legal representatives of Peter Lyle, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TRADE-DOLLARS.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2082) to provide for the exchange of trade-dollars for standard silver dollars and other silver coin of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL PHARMACOPŒIA.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2083) to prepare and publish a national pharmacopœia for the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN W. DAVIDSON.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2084) granting a pension to John W. Davidson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

VETO OF APPROPRIATION ITEMS.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 56) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States authorizing the President to veto any item or items of an appropriation bill while approving of the other portion of the bill; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITION TO REPORT ON WAGES.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 57) to print an addition to a report on wages ordered printed January 17, 1884; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

PRINTING OF NAVAL REPORT.

Mr. RANDALL also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 58) authorizing the printing of a naval report; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

TESTS OF BUILDING MATERIALS.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill (H. R. 2085) authorizing the President to appoint a commission of experts skilled in the investigation, production, and use of metallic substances and other structural materials, to execute tests and experiments on iron, steel, and other materials used in the construction of bridges, buildings, and mechanical structures, and deduce useful rules therefrom; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Manufactures, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS M. BELL.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2086) for the relief of Francis M. Bell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TERRENCE DELOZIER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2087) for the relief of Terrence Delozier; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW SHOENFELT.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2088) for the relief of Andrew Shoenfelt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN RICHARDS.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2089) for the relief of John Richards; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB D. TETWILER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2090) granting a pension to Jacob D. Tetwiler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABRAHAM HOWARD.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2091) granting a pension to Abraham Howard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAIAH W. BUNKER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2092) to increase the pension of Isaiah W. Bunker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADAM J. GRIER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2093) granting a pension to Adam J. Grier; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM R. WEIMER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2094) granting a pension to William R. Weimer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH EVERHART.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2095) granting an increase of pension to Elizabeth Everhart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM FLICK.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2096) granting a pension to William Flick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HARRISON DINGES.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2097) granting a pension to Harrison Dinges; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

B. F. TUCKER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2098) granting a pension to B. F. Tucker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SOPHIA GUMP.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2099) granting a pension to Sophia Gump; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY M. STIFFLER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2100) granting a pension to Henry M. Stiffler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHRISTENIA SNYDER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2101) for the relief of Christenia Snyder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE KNOPSNYDER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2102) granting a pension to George Knopsnyder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN ELLENBERGER.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2103) granting a pension to John Ellenberger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALBERT L. BURKET.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2104) granting a pension to Albert L. Burket; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM GEBLER.

Mr. HARMER introduced a bill (H. R. 2105) granting a pension to William Gebler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ASSISTANT NAVAL CONSTRUCTORS.

Mr. HARMER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2106) regulating the appointment of assistant naval constructors; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

RIGHT OF WAY THROUGH ARSENAL GROUNDS, BRIDESBURG, PA.

Mr. HARMER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2107) granting the right of way for railroad purposes through the United States arsenal grounds at Bridesburg, Pa., to connect the manufacturing establishments of Bridesburg with the Philadelphia and Trenton Railroad; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS M'BRIDE.

Mr. HARMER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2108) for the relief of Thomas McBride; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EFFICIENCY OF THE ARMY.

Mr. HARMER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2109) to promote the efficiency of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

SUFFERERS BY THE WRECK OF THE STEAMER ASHUELOT.

Mr. HARMER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2110) for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamer Ashuelot; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY C. PARRY.

Mr. HARMER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2111) for the relief of Henry C. Parry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICERS AND CREW OF THE JEANNETTE.

Mr. HARMER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2112) to reimburse the officers and crew of the United States arctic exploring steamer Jeannette for loss of baggage and personal effects; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GRATUITY TO EMPLOYÉS IN POSTAL SERVICE.

Mr. HARMER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2113) granting a gratuity to persons having served faithfully twenty-five continuous years in the postal service of the United States or who after ten years of faithful service shall become physically or mentally disabled; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN DOLAN.

Mr. EVERHART (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 2141) granting a pension to John Dolan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MINOR HEIRS OF ALFRED M. OWEN.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2115) granting a pension to Alfred M. Owen, Christine Q. Owen, Kathleen D. Owen, and Albert T. Owen, minor children of Alfred M. Owen, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICE OF PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT UNITED STATES.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2116) to provide for a vacancy in the office of both President and Vice-President of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President, and ordered to be printed.

ASSIGNEES OF CHARLES W. JONES.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2117) for the relief of the assignees of Charles W. Jones by the extension of a patent; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, WEST CHESTER, PA.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2118) to provide for a public building at West Chester, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

METRIC SYSTEM OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2119) to establish the metric system of weights and measures in the Departments of the Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE HALL.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2120) granting a pension to Catharine Hall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZA M'CONNELL.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2121) granting a pension to Eliza McConnell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WIDOW AND HEIRS OF LIEUT. COMMANDER HENRY CLAY NIELDS.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2122) to increase the pension of the widow and heirs of Lieut. Commander Henry Clay Nields; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DE WITT CLINTON LEWIS.

Mr. EVERHART also introduced a bill (H. R. 2123) granting a pension to De Witt Clinton Lewis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURTS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Mr. SCRANTON introduced a bill (H. R. 2124) amendatory of and supplementary to "An act to alter the judicial districts of Pennsylvania, and for other purposes," approved May 25, 1824, and providing an additional place for holding the several courts thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS J. CONLAN.

Mr. SCRANTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2125) for the relief of Francis J. Conlan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL E. BRYANT.

Mr. SCRANTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2126) granting a pension to Samuel E. Bryant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB DUNDORE.

Mr. BOUND introduced a bill (H. R. 2127) for the relief of Jacob Dundore for the loss of a barge in the United States service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. REED.

Mr. BOUND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2128) for the relief of John B. Reed, late a lieutenant of the Seventh Cavalry Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ASSISTANT ENGINEER HOWARD D. POTTS.

Mr. BOUND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2129) for the relief of Assistant Engineer Howard D. Potts, United States Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES K. SHAY.

Mr. BOUND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2130) granting a pension to James K. Shay, of Company I, Ninetieth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES D. LONGAN.

Mr. BOUND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2131) for the relief of James D. Longan, of the regimental band of the Fifty-third Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH LIGHT.

Mr. BOUND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2132) granting a pension to Elizabeth Light, widow of Capt. Elias R. Light, of Lebanon, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SALARIES OF POSTMASTERS.

Mr. BOUND also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 59) directing the Postmaster-General to pay the salaries of certain postmasters out of the regular appropriation for compensation of postmasters; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

S. DILLINGER & SONS.

Mr. BOYLE introduced a bill (H. R. 2133) for the relief of S. Dillinger & Sons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL L. WHITESELL.

Mr. SOWDEN introduced a bill (H. R. 2134) to increase the pension of Daniel L. Whitesell, late a sergeant of Battery C, Fifth United States Artillery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT ALLENTOWN, PA.

Mr. SOWDEN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2135) to authorize the purchase of a site and erection of a suitable building for a post-office and other Government offices at the city of Allentown, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT LANCASTER, PA.

Mr. HIESTAND introduced a bill (H. R. 2136) for a public building at Lancaster, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

DUTIES ON LEAF-TOBACCO.

Mr. HIESTAND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2137) regulating the duties on leaf-tobacco; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

REDEMPTION OF THE TRADE-DOLLAR.

Mr. HIESTAND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2138) for the redemption of the trade-dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL BANK OF LINCOLN.

Mr. HIESTAND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2139) authorizing the National Bank of Lincoln to change its location and name; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

COLUMBIA BANK, PENNSYLVANIA.

Mr. HIESTAND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2140) for the relief of the Columbia Bank, of Pennsylvania; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY MULLEN.

Mr. HIESTAND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2141) for the relief of Henry Mullen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. THOMAS H. CARPENTER.

Mr. HIESTAND also introduced a bill (H. R. 2142) authorizing the restoration of the name of Thomas H. Carpenter, late captain Seventeenth United States Infantry, to the rolls of the Army, and providing that he be placed on the list of retired officers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LIEUT. CHARLES MORROW.

Mr. OSBORNE introduced a bill (H. R. 2143) for the relief of Charles Morrow, late second lieutenant Company I, Fifty-sixth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

C. K. HUGHES.

Mr. OSBORNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2144) granting a pension to C. K. Hughes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REBECCA ELDRIDGE.

Mr. OSBORNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2145) for the relief of Rebecca Eldridge, late of Company G, First Maine Heavy Artillery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AGNES HARKNESS.

Mr. OSBORNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2146) granting a pension to Agnes Harkness; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, WILKES BARRE.

Mr. OSBORNE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2147) to authorize the purchase of a site and the erection of a suitable building for a post-office and other Government offices in the city of Wilkes Barre, Pa.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, WILLIAMSPORT, PA.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill (H. R. 2148) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide a building for the use of the United States circuit and district courts of the United States, the post-office, and other Government offices at Williamsport, Pa., and making an additional appropriation therefor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

HENRIETTA LOEB.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2149) granting a pension to Henrietta Loeb; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF PENSION LAWS.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2150) to amend the pension laws of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MAJ. WILLIAM KENDALL, DECEASED.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2151) for the relief of the legal representatives of Maj. William Kendall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL S. GRAVES.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2152) granting a pension to Daniel S. Graves; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SILVER CERTIFICATES.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2153) regulating the coinage of silver dollars and the issuing of silver certificates thereon and upon silver bullion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM D. PORTER.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2154) for the relief of William D. Porter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BERNHARD STUEBER.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2155) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Bernhard Stueber, late sergeant Company F, One hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MARTIN MURPHY.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2156) for the removal of the charge of desertion from the name of Martin Murphy, late a soldier in Company I, Ninety-first Regiment New York Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOEL SECHRIST.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2157) for the removal of the charge of desertion from the name of Joel Sechrist, late a soldier in Company B, Seventh Regiment Pennsylvania Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PETER J. HILL.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2158) for the relief of Peter J. Hill; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

D. P. SIMMONS.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2159) for the relief of D. P. Simmons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

D. S. GRAVES.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2160) for the relief of D. S. Graves; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW J. PUTNAM.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2161) granting a pension to Andrew J. Putnam; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. WEBSTER.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2162) granting a pension to William B. Webster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SALE OF INTOXICATING LIQUORS IN THE TERRITORIES.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2163) to regulate the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in the Territories, with a provision to submit the same to the voters thereof for ratification; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

LINAS TOLES.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2164) for the relief of Linas Toles, a soldier in Companies L and E, Second Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PHINEAS GOODWIN.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2165) for the relief of Phineas Goodwin, dependent father; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOUIS F. ELLIS.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 60) granting a medal to Lieut. Louis F. Ellis for heroic conduct in joining the "forlorn hope storming party" at Port Hudson, June 15, 1863; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HIRAM PEDRICK.

Mr. BUNNELL introduced a bill (H. R. 2166) granting a pension to Hiram Pedrick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NORTON L. NEWBERRY.

Mr. BUNNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2167) for the relief of Norton L. Newberry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS HOLMES.

Mr. BUNNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2168) for the relief of Lewis Holmes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN LORD.

Mr. BUNNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2169) granting a pension to John Lord; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SEYMOUR F. ARNOLD.

Mr. BUNNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2170) to remove the charge of desertion from the record of Seymour F. Arnold; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARY A. TEEL.

Mr. BUNNELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2171) for the relief of Mrs. Mary A. Teel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ESTHER A. REYNOLDS.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill (H. R. 2172) for the relief of Esther A. Reynolds, widow of Thomas H. Reynolds, who was a sutler in the Seventy-eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. COUSINS.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2173) for the relief of George W. Cousins, late private Company K, One hundred and fourth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

J. D. GOLDEN.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2174) for the relief of J. D. Golden, late a musician Company B, Ninth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers (three months); which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DR. W. S. HOSACK.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2175) for the relief of Dr. W. S. Hosack; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER GOBLE.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2176) for the relief of Alexander Goble; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL BLACK.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2177) for the relief of Daniel Black; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH HENDERSON.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2178) for the relief of Elizabeth Henderson, mother of James F. Henderson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY BARR.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2179) granting a pension to Henry Barr, father of Jacob Barr, of Company A, One hundred and third Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LENA KEBLER.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2180) granting a pension to Lena Kebler, widow of John Kebler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH RICHARDS.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2181) granting a pension to Joseph Richards; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELLEN DECKER.

Mr. WHITE of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2182) granting a pension to Ellen Decker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH BARR.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2183) granting a pension to Sarah Barr, widow of Thomas Barr; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SOLDIERS OF LATE WAR.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2184) for the relief of soldiers of the late war in regard to bounties; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2185) for the relief of soldiers of Company E, First Regiment Missouri Light Artillery, late Light Battalion Mississippi Marine Brigade; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SOLDIERS OF THE WAR OF 1861.

Mr. WHITE, of Pennsylvania, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2186) for the relief of soldiers of the war of 1861 and their dependent relatives; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL A. SANDERSON.

Mr. ATKINSON introduced a bill (H. R. 2187) for the relief of Samuel A. Sanderson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PREFERENCE FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Mr. ATKINSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2188) to revise section 1754 of the Revised Statutes relative to the employment of persons discharged from the military or naval service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

JESSE MEADATH.

Mr. ATKINSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2189) granting a pension to Jesse Meadath; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. ATKINSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2190) granting a pension to the soldiers and sailors of the Mexican war, soldiers and sailors who served in the United States Army and Navy during the war of the rebellion, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE N. ARNOLD.

Mr. ATKINSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2191) granting a pension to George N. Arnold; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CORNELIUS WETZLER.

Mr. ATKINSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2192) granting a pension to Cornelius Wetzler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMELIA M. GREEN.

Mr. ATKINSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2193) granting a pension to Amelia M. Green; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. ATKINSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2194) to exempt the property of the Young Men's Christian Association of Washington, District of Columbia, from taxation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

CHRISTOPHER SCHAEFNOCKER.

Mr. JACKSON introduced a bill (H. R. 2195) for the relief of Christopher Schaefnocker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committe on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH A. GETTIS.

Mr. JACKSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2196) granting a pension to Sarah A. Gettis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FIDELIA A. CHENEY.

Mr. JACKSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2197) granting a pension to Fidelia A. Cheney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, an ordered to be printed.

R. AND M. SPENCE.

Mr. JACKSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2198) for the relief of Rebecca and Matilda Spence; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY THORN.

Mr. JACKSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2199) granting a pension to Mary Thorn, mother of Surgeon James S. Thorn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM GILLMORE.

Mr. JACKSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2200) granting a pension to William Gillmore, a soldier of the Mexican war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE H. RIDER.

Mr. JACKSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2201) granting a pension to George H. Rider; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL B. STEWART.

Mr. FLEEGER introduced a bill (H. R. 2202) granting arrears of pension to Samuel B. Stewart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ZACHARIAH H. CONN.

Mr. FLEEGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2203) granting an increase of pension to Zachariah H. Conn, which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN T. WICK.

Mr. FLEEGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2204) granting a pension to John T. Wick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PATTERSON T. CAMPBELL.

Mr. FLEEGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2205) authorizing the payment of bounty to Patterson T. Campbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF MATTHEW METTLER.

Mr. FLEEGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2206) for the relief of the heirs of Matthew Mettler, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZA J. RAY.

Mr. FLEEGER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2207) for the relief of Eliza J. Ray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

BOXES DEPOSITED IN TREASURY BY SECRETARY OF WAR.

Mr. DIBBLE introduced a bill (H. R. 2208) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to deliver to the rightful owners the contents of certain boxes deposited in the Treasury Department by the Secretary of War; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

REVENUE CUTTER FOR CHARLESTON, S. C.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2209) for the construction of a revenue-cutter to be stationed at Charleston, S. C., and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

FREEDMAN'S SAVINGS AND TRUST COMPANY.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2210) to reimburse the depositors of the Freedman's Savings and Trust Company for losses incurred by the failure of said company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TAXATION OF NOTES OF STATE BANKS.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2211) to repeal all acts and parts of acts discriminating in taxation against the circulating notes of State banks and State banking associations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

BOARD OF FIELD OFFICERS FOURTH BRIGADE, SOUTH CAROLINA VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2212) for the relief of the board of field officers of the Fourth Brigade of South Carolina Volunteer State troops; which was read a first and second time, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

RENT FOR THE CITADEL ACADEMY, SOUTH CAROLINA.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2213) providing for the payment to the State of South Carolina of rent for the Citadel Academy, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF THOMAS BLACK.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2214) for the relief of the heirs of Thomas Black; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PETER F. SPARKMAN.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2215) granting a pension to Peter F. Sparkman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT ADGER.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2216) to empower Robert Adger to bring suit in the Court of Claims for rent alleged to be due him; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MITCHELL KING.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2217) to empower Mitchell King, executor, to bring suit in the Court of Claims for rent alleged to be due him; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES MARSH.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2218) referring the claim of James Marsh to the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM R. HERRON.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2219) for the relief of William R. Herron; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

F. W. CLAUSSEN.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2220) authorizing the Court of Claims to grant a rehearing in the case of F. W. Claussen vs. The United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. WILLIAMS.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2221) for the relief of George W. Williams and other persons therein named; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH WATTS.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2222) for the relief of Sarah Watts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. LOUISA H. HASELL.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2223) for the relief of Mrs. Louisa H. Hasell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AUGUSTUS FITCH, M. D.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2224) for the relief of Augustus Fitch, M. D.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF GEORGE JACOB HUTHMACHER.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2225) for the relief of the heirs of George Jacob Huthmacher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY O'CONNOR.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2226) for the relief of Mary O'Connor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF BOSTON FOWLER.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2227) for the relief of the heirs of Boston Fowler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN R. READ.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2228) for the relief of John R. Read; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RUDOLPH LOBSIGER.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2229) for the relief of Rudolph Lobsiger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF ROBERT S. CHISOLM.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2230) for the relief of the heirs of Robert S. Chisolm; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. BRUNING.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2231) for the relief of John H. Bruning; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2232) for the relief of John

H. Bruning, assignee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF HAMILTON SLAWSON, JR.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2233) for the relief of the heirs of Hamilton Slawson, jr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT D. WHITE.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2234) for the relief of Robert D. White; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SILVERWARE IN THE TREASURY.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2235) to restore certain articles of silverware in the Treasury to the owners thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CONGRESSIONAL CEMETERY.

Mr. DIBBLE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2236) granting parts of certain streets in Washington city to the vestry of Washington parish for the use of the Congressional Cemetery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

FRANK P. MURPHY.

Mr. DIBBLE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2237) for the relief of Frank P. Murphy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. DIBBLE also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 61) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, creating and defining the office of Second Vice-President of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President, and ordered to be printed.

WAR CLAIMS, 1812.

Mr. HEMPHILL introduced a bill (H. R. 2238) directing the Secretary of the Treasury to examine and settle the accounts of certain States and the city of Baltimore growing out of moneys expended by said States and the city of Baltimore for military purposes during the war of 1812; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RESTORATION OF CERTAIN PROPERTY.

Mr. HEMPHILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2239) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to deliver to the rightful owners the contents of certain boxes deposited in the Treasury Department by the Secretary of War; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. A. THOMAS.

Mr. HEMPHILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2240) restoring to the pension-roll the name of J. A. Thomas, of South Carolina; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ZACHARIAH CANTEY AND S. AMELIA CANTEY, HIS WIFE.

Mr. HEMPHILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2241) to restore certain articles of silverware to Zachariah Cantey and S. Amelia Cantey, his wife; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

K. G. BILLINGS.

Mr. HEMPHILL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2242) restoring to the pension-roll the name of K. G. Billings, of South Carolina; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT GREENVILLE, S. C.

Mr. PERRY introduced a bill (H. R. 2243) for the erection of a public building at Greenville, S. C.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

ESTATE OF RICHARD FITZPATRICK, DECEASED.

Mr. PERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2244) for the relief of L. M. English, administrator of the estate of Richard Fitzpatrick, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LACON R. TILLMAN.

Mr. PERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2245) for the relief of Lacon R. Tillman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SOUTH CAROLINA JUDICIAL DISTRICTS.

Mr. PERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2246) to amend sections 546, 552, 572, 767, and 776 of the Revised Statutes of the United States in so far as said sections relate to the State of South Carolina; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

THEODORE DEHON.

Mr. PERRY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2247) for the relief of Theodore Dehon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MAGISTRATES FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. TILLMAN introduced a bill (H. R. 2248) to provide for eight magistrates for the District of Columbia, who shall have civil and criminal jurisdiction as herein provided; to define the jurisdiction, powers, and functions of said magistrates, and to abolish the police court and office of justice of the peace in and for said District, &c.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committeee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITORY.

Mr. TILLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2249) to establish a postal savings depository as a branch of the Post-Office Department; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

LANDS SOLD FOR DIRECT TAXES.

Mr. TILLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2250) for the relief of sufferers and purchasers of lands sold for direct taxes in insurrectionary States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

UNLIMITED COINAGE OF SILVER DOLLAR.

Mr. TILLMAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2251) to provide for the free and unlimited coinage of the silver dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

SCHOOL FARM LANDS.

Mr. TILLMAN also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 62) to provide for the redemption and sale of school farm lands in South Carolina; which was read a first and second time.

Mr. TILLMAN. Let the bill be referred to the Committee on War Claims.

The SPEAKER. The question is whether it should go to the Committee on Public Lands or the Committee on Education.

Mr. TILLMAN. I have marked it on the back to be referred to the Committee on War Claims. It properly belongs to the Committee on War Claims.

The SPEAKER. It does not seem to involve the adjudication or payment of any claim arising out of the war. It appears to be a bill to permit the redemption of certain school lands in South Carolina.

Mr. TILLMAN. Occurring out of the direct taxes. It originated in that way.

The joint resolution was referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FARM LANDS, BEAUFORT COUNTY, SOUTH CAROLINA.

Mr. SMALLS introduced a bill (H. R. 2252) to provide for the redemption and sale of the school farm lands now held in Beaufort County, South Carolina, by the United States; which was read a first and second time.

Mr. SMALLS. I move the bill be referred to the Committee on Education. This land was set apart for school purposes.

The SPEAKER. The Chair supposes it to be a bill similar in nature to the one just referred by the gentleman's colleague to the Committee on War Claims.

Mr. SMALLS. I do not know how that may be. These lands were set apart expressly for the purpose of education. I ask by unanimous consent it be referred to the Committee on Education.

The SPEAKER. Does it have any connection with the taxes imposed on the States during the war?

Mr. SMALLS. Only in this way: Under the operation of that law these lands were set apart for school purposes, and this bill provides for their disposition. It is strictly a school matter, and everybody is in favor of making this disposition of these lands.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, BEAUFORT, S. C.

Mr. SMALLS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2253) for the erection of a public building at Beaufort, S. C., for the use of a post-office, custom-house, and other Government offices; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JANE M. LANGLEY.

Mr. SMALLS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2254) for the relief of Jane M. Langley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BEAUFORT MOUNTED GUARDS.

Mr. SMALLS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2255) for the relief of the Beaufort Mounted Guards; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PAY AND RETIREMENT OF MATES IN THE NAVY.

Mr. BALLENTINE introduced a bill (H. R. 2256) relating to the pay and retirement of mates in the Navy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

NAVAL APPROPRIATIONS, 1883.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2257) limiting a portion of an act entitled "An act making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1883, and for other purposes;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WRECK OF THE TALLAPOOSA.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2258) for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamer Tallapoosa; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY M'GRAW.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2259) for the relief of Mary McGraw; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed:

ARREARS OF PENSION.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2260) to allow arrears of pension to certain invalid pensioners whose names were dropped from the pension-roll and by act of Congress subsequently restored; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID DICKSON AND OTHERS.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2261) for the relief of David Dickson and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EGBERT THOMPSON.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2262) for the relief of the legal representatives of Egbert Thompson, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

BASIL MORELAND.

Mr. BALLENTINE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2263) for the relief of Basil Moreland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES MILLINGER.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2264) for the relief of James Millinger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM M. MAYNADIER.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2265) for the relief of Maj. William M. Maynadier; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ELIZA E. HEBERT.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2266) for the relief of Mrs. Eliza E. Hebert, widow of Jules J. Hebert, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. CROOK.

Mr. BALLENTINE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2267) for the relief of William H. Crook; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. PETTIBONE introduced a bill (H. R. 2268) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several States under the provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862, and an act supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

JURORS UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2269) prescribing the method of drawing jurors in the courts of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL P. EVANS.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2270) for the relief of Samuel P. Evans; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS FANE.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2271) for the relief of Thomas Fane; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

M'HENRY BRAY.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2272) for the relief of McHenry Bray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID F. MANLY.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2273) for the relief of David F. Manly; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COL. S. K. N. PATTON.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2274) for the relief of Col. S. K. N. Patton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. H. PAINTER.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2275) for the relief of J. H. Painter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MADISON TRENT.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2276) for the relief of Madison Trent; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES O'BRIEN.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2277) for the relief of James O'Brien; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM M. HENRY.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2278) for the relief of William M. Henry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH TIPTON.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2279) granting a pension to Elizabeth Tipton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JEREMIAH B. HALE.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2280) granting a pension to Jeremiah B. Hale; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLEVLIN C. CREECH.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2281) granting a pension to Clevlin C. Creech; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN R. SHULTZ.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2282) for the relief of John R. Shultz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS PEMBERTON.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2283) for the relief of Thomas Pemberton, late of Company D, Fourth Tennessee Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS F. SELF.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2284) for the relief of Lewis F. Self; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES WHITE AND OTHERS.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2285) for the relief of James White and the legal representatives of William White, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS W. HUMES.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2286) for the relief of Thomas W. Humes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELNATHAN MEADE.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2287) granting a pension to Elnathan Meade; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW BURGESS AND OTHERS.

Mr. PETTIBONE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2288) for the relief of Andrew Burgess, John Hall, and William T. Roundtree, of the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TAX ON TOBACCO.

Mr. GLASS introduced a bill (H. R. 2289) to enable tobacco-planters to sell tobacco raised by them free from any internal revenue-tax; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICIAL RECORDS OF THE WAR.

Mr. GLASS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2290) to provide for the publication of additional copies of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Printing, and ordered to be printed.

REFUND OF COTTON TAX.

Mr. GLASS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2291) to refund to producers the taxes collected by the United States on raw cotton in the years 1863 to 1868 inclusive, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM M. HENRY.

Mr. GLASS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2292) for the relief of William M. Henry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PROMOTION OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. GLASS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2293) to promote agriculture, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

LOTTERY TICKETS IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. GLASS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2294) to punish the selling and advertising of lottery tickets in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

REGISTERED LETTERS.

Mr. GLASS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2295) to amend sections 3929 and 4041 of the Revised Statutes, authorizing the Postmaster-General to prohibit the delivery of registered letters and providing for the return of the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

LOTTERY ADVERTISEMENTS.

Mr. GLASS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2296) to prohibit the mailing of newspapers and other publications containing lottery advertisements, and prescribing a penalty for the violation of the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

R. H. CRIDER.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR introduced a bill (H. R. 2297) for the relief of R. H. Crider, of Carroll County, Tennessee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

W. J. BARNES.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2298) to reimburse W. J. Barnes for revenue illegally assessed and collected; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SURVIVING CHILDREN OF HERBERT H. DODD.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2299) to pay the surviving children of Herbert H. Dodd the amount due their mother, his widow, at the time of her death; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM SIMPSON.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2300) for the relief of William Simpson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES ARNOLD.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2301) for the relief of James Arnold, of Benton County, Tennessee, a soldier of the war of 1812; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

M. V. B. VALENTINE.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2302) for the relief of M. V. B. Valentine; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SILAS A. BROOKS.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2303) for the relief of Silas A. Brooks, of Tennessee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID L. LITTLE.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2304) for the relief of David L. Little; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. C. MARTIN AND OTHERS.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2305) for the relief of J. C. Martin, Mary E. Brice, Lelia A. Martin, and Florence A. Martin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HIRAM JOHNSON.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2306) for the relief of Hiram Johnson and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ISSUE OF WARRANTS FOR ARREST.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2307) restricting the authority of United States commissioners in issuing warrants for arrests; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

JESSE A. BROWN, OR R. P. COLE, ASSIGNEE.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2308) for the relief of Jesse A. Brown, or of R. P. Cole, assignee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE TENNESSEE RIVER.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2309) to give the assent of Congress to the construction of a bridge by the Nashville, Jackson and Memphis Railroad Company over the Tennessee River; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

ISAIAH SWEAT.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2310) for the relief of Isaiah Sweat; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES B. GUTHRIE.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2311) for the relief of James B. Guthrie, late postmaster at Paris, Tennessee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC M. JOHNSON.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2312) granting a pension to Isaac M. Johnson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MICAJAH JAYNER.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2313) to pay the legal representatives of Micajah Jayner, deceased, a pension; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCES M. KIRBY.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2314) for the relief of Frances M. Kirby, and to amend military record; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

W. C. DILLAHUNTY.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2315) to pay W. C. Dillahunty for cotton seized by the United States authorities in 1863; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. SARAH G. BENNETT.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2316) granting a pension to Mrs. Sarah G. Bennett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET A. M'GARY.

Mr. JOHN M. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2317) for the relief of Margaret A. McGary, former widow of John W. Roach, deceased, late of Company K, Seventh Tennessee Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SIGNAL SERVICE.

Mr. CALDWELL introduced a bill (H. R. 2318) for the relief of the farmers of the United States, by extending to them the benefits of the Signal Service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

AID TO COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2319) to appropriate and set apart the proceeds of the sales of the public lands annually to the aid of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2320) to add Nashville, Tenn., to the list of "reserved cities" mentioned in sections 5191 and 5192 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURT AT CLARKSVILLE, TENN.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2321) to establish a district and circuit court at Clarksville, Tenn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM A. AND ADELICIA CHEATHAM.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2322) for the relief of William A. and Adelicia Cheatham, for money illegally assessed and paid the Government under protest; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TRUSTEES OF STEWART COLLEGE, TENNESSEE.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2323) for the relief of the trustees of Stewart College, Montgomery County, Tennessee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ANN B. ARMSTRONG.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2324) for the relief of Mrs. Ann B. Armstrong; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL B. SEAT.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2325) for the relief of Samuel B. Seat, administrator of Christian Kropp, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

A. H. BUCHANAN.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2326) for the relief of A. H. Buchanan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH RYMARKIEWISCZ.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2327) for the relief of Joseph Rymarkiewiscz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

D. W. AND MINNA H. GLASSIE AND JOSEPH C. NASH.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2328) for the relief of D. W. and Minna H. Glassie and Joseph C. Nash; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DUNCAN MARR.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2329) for the relief of Duncan Marr; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CUMMINGS, DOYLE & CO. AND DOYLE & CO.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2330) for the relief of Cummings, Doyle & Co. and Doyle & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARTHA A. STEVENS.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2331) for the relief of Martha A. Stevens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. GORDON.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2332) for the relief of William H. Gordon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS CHADWELL.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2333) for the relief of Thomas Chadwell, administrator; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

B. B. TAYLOR.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2334) for the relief of B. B. Taylor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK SMITH.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2335) for the relief of Frederick Smith, to pay back $390 erroneously collected from him by the Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES W. EASTWOOD'S ESTATE.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2336) for the relief of James W. Eastwood's estate, of Warren County, Tennessee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. TWIDWELL.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2337) for the relief of George W. Twidwell, of Smith County, Tennessee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. E. G. C. ABBOTT.

Mr. CALDWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2338) for the relief of Mrs. E. G. C. Abbott; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ESTATE OF H. S. FRENCH.

Mr. CALDWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2339) for the relief of the estate of H. S. French, of Nashville, by authorizing suit in Court of Claims for the recovery of the net proceeds of 230 bales of cotton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

M'MINNVILLE AND MANCHESTER RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. RICHARDSON introduced a bill (H. R. 2340) directing the Quartermaster-General to settle with the McMinnville and Manchester Railroad Company, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SURVIVORS OF THE MEXICAN AND INDIAN WARS.

Mr. RICHARDSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2341) granting pensions to the survivors of the Mexican and Indian wars; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. NANCY J. THOMAS.

Mr. RICHARDSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2342) granting a pension to Mrs. Nancy J. Thomas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EDMUND COOPER.

Mr. RICHARDSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2343) for the relief of Edmund Cooper; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM T. LEAGUE.

Mr. RICHARDSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2344) for the relief of William T. League; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

B. B. TAYLOR.

Mr. RICHARDSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2345) for the relief of B. B. Taylor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

STREET ACROSS UNITED STATES GROUNDS AT CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

Mr. NEAL introduced a bill (H. R. 2346) to grant for the use of the public a street across the United States grounds at Chattanooga, Tenn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2347) to amend chapter 147 of the acts of the Forty-eighth Congress, it being an act for the erection of a public building at Chattanooga, Tenn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM CLIFT.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2348) for the relief of William Clift; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN PRICE.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2349) to restore John Price to the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LUTHER M. BLACKMAN.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2350) for the relief of Luther M. Blackman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

D. C. TREWHITT.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2351) for the relief of D. C. Trewhitt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILSON PURDOM, DECEASED.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2352) for the relief of the heirs of Wilson Purdom, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. M'GHEE.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2353) for the relief of John B. McGhee, administrator of Ann E. McGhee, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT P. CROWDER.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2354) to place Robert P. Crowder on the muster-roll as assistant surgeon of the Third Tennessee Mounted Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PHŒBE BAIN.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2355) to pay Phœbe Bain, widow of William Bain, a pensioner, for services in the war of 1812, the pension due him from February 9, 1871, to his death; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HARTFORD MATHERLY.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2356) granting a pension to Hartford Matherly, late a private in Company I, Third Kentucky Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

H. H. FAULKNER AND MARY WOODLEE.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2357) for the relief of H. H. Faulkner and Mary Woodlee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY RENFRO.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2358) granting a pension to Mary Renfro; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MEXICAN PENSIONS.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2359) to pension soldiers, sailors, and others engaged in the war with Mexico, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M. ALLISON.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2360) to restore James M. Allison, a soldier in the war with Mexico, to the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS FOR INDIAN WARS.

Mr. NEAL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2361) granting pensions to soldiers engaged in any of the Indian wars prior to 1847; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GREGORY JARRATT.

Mr. ZACH. TAYLOR introduced a bill (H. R. 2362) for the relief of the estate of Gregory Jarratt, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LUCINDA M'GUIRE.

Mr. ZACH. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2363) for the relief of Lucinda McGuire, of Memphis, Tenn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

C. B. BRYAN & CO.

Mr. ZACH. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2364) for the relief of C. B. Bryan & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CLOCK FOR MEMPHIS CUSTOM-HOUSE.

Mr. ZACH. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2365) to authorize the purchase of a clock for the custom-house at Memphis, Tenn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

H. B. WILSON.

Mr. ZACH. TAYLOR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2366) for the relief of H. B. Wilson, administrator of the estate of William Tinder, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF INTERNAL TAXES.

Mr. HOUK introduced a bill (H. R. 2367) to repeal the internal tax laws of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF BOUNTIES.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2368) to equalize the bounties of soldiers who served in the late war for the Union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF CERTAIN NON-COMMISSIONED OFFICERS.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2369) for the relief of certain honorably discharged non-commissioned officers named therein; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELECTIVE FRANCHISE.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2370) to preserve the unity of the elective franchise, and to punish bribery and other offenses against a free ballot; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MEXICAN WAR PENSIONS.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2371) granting a pension to the soldiers and sailors of the war with Mexico and to the widows of such as are deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF PENSION LAWS.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2372) to amend the pension laws and to prescribe certain rules of evidence in pension cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF CERTAIN OFFICERS OF THE ARMY.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2373) for the relief of certain officers of the Army for services actually performed during the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COLLECTION OF ABANDONED PROPERTY.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2374) to amend the act approved March 12, 1863, entitled "An act to provide for the collection of abandoned property and for the prevention of frauds within insurrectionary districts within the United States and acts amendatory thereof, and to extend the provisions of the act of May 18, 1872;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PAY OF CERTAIN MILITARY ORGANIZATIONS.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2375) to pay members of certain military organizations therein named; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PAYMENT OF LOYAL CLAIMANTS.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2376) to provide for the payment of loyal claimants, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JEREMIAH FRITTS.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2377) for the relief of Jeremiah Fritts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. GRAHAM.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2378) for the relief of George W. Graham; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS J. PROSISE.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2379) for the relief of Thomas J. Prosise; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH FRENCH.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2380) restoring the name of Elizabeth French to the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TRUSTEES OF MOSSY CREEK COLLEGE.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2381) for the relief of the trustees of Mossy Creek College, located at Mossy Creek, Tenn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD STERN.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2382) for the relief of Edward Stern; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ED. WALLACE.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2383) for the relief of Ed. Wallace; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M'KAMEY.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2384) for the relief of James McKamey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH C. HODGES.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2385) for the relief of Joseph C. Hodges; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WARHAM EASLEY.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2386) for the relief of War-ham Easley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FREEMORTON YOUNG.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2387) granting an increase of pension to Freemorton Young; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M'KAMEY.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2388) for the relief of James McKamey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LITTLETON O. GOOCH.

Mr. HOUK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2389) for the relief of Littleton O. Gooch; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

RELIEF OF CERTAIN CLAIMANTS.

Mr. MILLS introduced a bill (H. R. 2390) for the relief of certain persons therein named; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES 3 PER CENT. BONDS.

Mr. MILLS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2391) directing the Secretary of the Treasury to call and pay fifty millions of the 3 per cent. bonds of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. WHITESIDE & CO.

Mr. MILLS (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2392) for the relief of William H. Whiteside & Co., of Camden, Ark., or their assignees; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HAWAIIAN TREATY.

Mr. MILLS also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 63) as to giving notice to terminate the convention of June 3, 1875, with his Majesty the King of the Hawaiian Islands; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT SAN ANTONIO, TEX.

Mr. SAYERS introduced a bill (H. R. 2393) providing for the erection of a public building at San Antonio, Tex.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

W. C. PHILLIPS.

Mr. SAYERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2394) for the relief of William C. Phillips; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. G. C. LEE.

Mr. SAYERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2395) to authorize J. G. C. Lee, major and quartermaster of the United States Army, to issue a duplicate check, and the Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New York to pay the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

J. W. SNYDER.

Mr. SAYERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2396) for the relief of J. W. Snyder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS F. PURNELL.

Mr. SAYERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2397) for the relief of Thomas F. Purnell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SIDNEY P. GAMBIA.

Mr. SAYERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2398) for the relief of Sidney P. Gambia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF HENRY VOLCKER.

Mr. SAYERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2399) to confirm the title of the heirs or legal representatives of Henry Volcker, deceased, to a certain tract of land in the Territory of New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. LITTLEFIELD.

Mr. SAYERS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2400) for the relief of George W. Littlefield; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC D. JOHNSON.

Mr. WELLBORN introduced a bill (H. R. 2401) for the relief of Isaac D. Johnson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WIDOW AND HEIRS OF JOHN SHIRLEY.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2402) for the relief of the widow and children of John Shirley, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. WRIGHT.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2403) for the relief of William H. Wright; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ULYSSES MERCHANT.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2404) for the relief of Ulysses Merchant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2405) for the relief of Ulysses Merchant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE R. SMITH.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2406) for the relief of George R. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RIGHT OF WAY THROUGH INDIAN TERRITORY.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2407) to grant to the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company a right of way through the Indian Territory, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH HAMMONS.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2408) granting a pension to Joseph Hammons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

A. B. NORTON.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2409) for the relief of A. B. Norton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, DALLAS, TEX.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2410) for the addition of a third story to the public building in Dallas, Tex.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

ALLOTMENT OF LANDS TO INDIANS.

Mr. WELLBORN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2411) to provide for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians on various reservations, and to extend the protection of the laws of the States and Territories over the Indians, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PRINTING THE DIGEST.

Mr. WELLBORN also offered the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That 200 additional copies of the Digest for the present session be printed and bound for distribution to the committees and officers of the House and heads of Departments and bureaus.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

Mr. REAGAN introduced a bill (H. R. 2412) to regulate interstate commerce and to prevent unjust discriminations by common carriers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

REGISTER OF FOREIGN-BUILT SHIPS.

Mr. REAGAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2413) to amend the Revised Statutes of the United States so as to allow the purchase and register of foreign-built ships by citizens of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC SHIP-RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. REAGAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2414) to incorporate the Atlantic and Pacific Ship-railway Company, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

COINAGE OF THE SILVER DOLLAR.

Mr. REAGAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2415) to provide for the free and unlimited coinage of the silver dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

ISSUE OF SILVER CERTIFICATES.

Mr. REAGAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2416) to provide for the issue of silver certificates on the deposit of the standard silver dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES S. CLARK & CO.

Mr. REAGAN (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2417) for the relief of James S. Clark & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CERTAIN SOUTHERN MAIL CONTRACTORS.

Mr. REAGAN also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 64) to reappropriate and apply the amount appropriated by the act of Congress approved March 3, 1877, to pay certain Southern mail contractors; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF CONSTITUTION IN RELATION TO TAXATION.

Mr. REAGAN also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 65) proposing amendments to the Constitution of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

INTRODUCTION OF DISEASED CATTLE INTO NEW MEXICO.

Mr. LANHAM introduced a bill (H. R. 2418) to disapprove chapter 49 of the acts of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of New Mexico, entitled "An act to prevent the introduction of diseased cattle into the Territory of New Mexico," approved March 19, 1884; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

DEPOSITIONS IN UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2419) to provide for taking the depositions of witnesses in the circuit and district courts of the United States, so as to conform to the practice in the State courts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT EL PASO, TEX.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2420) to provide for the purchase of the necessary land and erection thereon of a custom-house, post-office, and Federal court building in the city of El Paso, in the State of Texas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM BEDDO AND OTHERS.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2421) for the relief of William Beddo and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES MARR.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2422) for the relief of James Marr; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

C. L. CARTER AND OTHERS.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2423) for the relief of C. L. Carter, James C. Loving, Spencer Bevers, and D. J. Murphy, citizens of Texas, on account of Indian depredations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CALVIN T. HAZLEWOOD.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2424) for the relief of Calvin T. Hazlewood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. SUSAN M. ROACH.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2425) for the relief of Mrs. Susan M. Roach; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

OSCAR M. BROWN.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2426) for the relief of Oscar M. Brown; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

OVERTON LOVE AND WYATT GILSCHRIST.

Mr. LANHAM (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2427) for the relief of Overton Love and Wyatt Gilschrist; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

V. F. GORRISEN.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2428) for the relief of V. F. Gorrisen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL MURPHY.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2429) for the relief of Daniel Murphy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MARY BURKETT.

Mr. LANHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 2430) for the relief of Mary Burkett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LETTING OF MAIL CONTRACTS.

Mr. JONES, of Texas, introduced a bill (H. R. 2431) to regulate the letting of mail contracts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF REVISED STATUTES.

Mr. JONES, of Texas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2432) to amend section 914 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

HORACE BOUGHTON.

Mr. CULBERSON introduced a bill (H. R. 2433) for the relief of Horace Boughton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PAYMENT OF NATIONAL DEBT.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2434) to compel the Secretary of the Treasury to pay out the surplus or unappropriated money in the Treasury upon the matured obligations of the Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS IN TEXAS.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2435) to change the eastern and northern judicial districts of the State of Texas, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

CONTRACTION OF THE CURRENCY.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2436) to prevent the contraction of the currency; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to to be printed.

NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2437) to repeal the proviso to section 12 of an act entitled "An act to enable national banking associations to extend their corporate existence, and for other purposes," approved July 12, 1882; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

RESTRICTION ON COINAGE OF SILVER DOLLAR.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2438) to repeal the restriction upon the coinage of the silver dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

LIENS OF JUDGMENTS IN UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2439) to regulate the liens of judgments in the courts of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF TENURE-OF-OFFICE LAW.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2440) to repeal the tenure-of-office act; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

REMOVAL OF CAUSES, ETC.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2441) to amend sections 1, 2, 3, and 10 of an act to determine the jurisdiction of the circuit courts of the United States and to regulate the removal of causes from State courts, and for other purposes, approved March 3, 1875; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, JEFFERSON, TEX.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2442) for the erection of a public building at Jefferson, Tex.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT TEXARKANA.

Mr. CULBERSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2443) providing for the erection of a public building at the city of Texarkana, situate on both sides of the boundary line between the States of Arkansas and Texas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

LIABILITIES OF BANKING ASSOCIATIONS.

Mr. MILLER introduced a bill (H. R. 2444) to amend section 5200 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

REDEMPTION OF THE CIRCULATION OF NATIONAL BANKS.

Mr. MILLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2445) to provide for the redemption of the circulation of national banks in liquidation; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF ESTHER M'MULLEN AND JAMES M'GLOIN.

Mr. MILLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2446) for the relief of the heirs of Esther McMullen and James McGloin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD A. WEYMAN.

Mr. MILLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2447) referring the claim of Edward A. Weyman to the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HARRIET J. CAMPBELL.

Mr. MILLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2448) granting a pension to Harriet J. Campbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JULIUS L. DEWEY.

Mr. MILLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2449) granting a pension to Julius L. Dewey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL LIVE-STOCK HIGHWAY, ETC.

Mr. MILLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2450) to establish a national live-stock highway and to promote commerce in live-stock between the States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

H. W. BRANCH.

Mr. MILLER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2451) to authorize payment for certain mail service rendered by H. W. Branch; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CONVENTION WITH MEXICO.

Mr. STEWART, of Texas, introduced a bill (H. R. 2452) to carry into operation a convention between the United States of America and the United States of Mexico, signed on the 20th day of January, 1883; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

NAMING OF POST-OFFICES.

Mr. STEWART, of Texas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2453) regulating the naming of post-offices in cities, towns, and villages of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

CONVICT LABOR.

Mr. STEWART, of Texas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2454) to prohibit the use or employment of convict labor by or under the authority of the Government of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

HOUSTON A PORT OF ENTRY.

Mr. STEWART, of Texas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2455) making the city of Houston, Tex., a port of entry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

SIGNAL STATION, HOUSTON.

Mr. STEWART, of Texas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2456) to establish a signal station at Houston, Tex.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, HOUSTON, TEX.

Mr. STEWART, of Texas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2457) authorizing the construction of a public building for a post-office in the city of Houston, Tex.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

RETIRED-LIST FOR PRIVATES, ETC.

Mr. STEWART, of Texas (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 2458) to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize a retired-list for privates and non-commissioned officers of the United States Army who have served for a period of thirty years; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. THROCKMORTON introduced a bill (H. R. 2459) to amend an act entitled "An act to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean, and to secure to the Government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes," approved July 1, 1862; also to amend an act approved July 2, 1864, and also an act approved May 7, 1878, both in amendment of said first-mentioned act; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and ordered to be printed.

JURISDICTION, COURT OF CLAIMS.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2460) to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims to all claims growing out of treaties between the United States and Indian tribes and the laws pertaining thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS, MEXICAN AND OTHER WARS.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2461) granting pensions to certain soldiers and sailors of the Mexican, Florida, and the Black Hawk wars, and to certain widows of deceased soldiers and sailors of the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL DISTRICT, NORTHERN TEXAS.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2462) to create the judicial district of Northern Texas and Indian Territory; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

H. J. T. MOSS.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2463) for the relief of H. J. T. Moss; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. LAURA HENTIG.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2464) to increase the pension of Mrs. Laura Hentig; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY C. DE AHNA.

Mr. THROCKMORTON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2465) for the relief of Henry C. De Ahna; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN JACKSON.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2466) for the relief of John Jackson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Z. W. RAINS.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2467) for the relief of Z. W. Rains; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

W. A. WESTOVER.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2468) for the relief of W. A. Westover, which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JEROME M'ALLISTER.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2469) for the relief of Jerome McAllister; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM MEDKIFF.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2470) for the relief of William Medkiff; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY A. WHALEY.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2471) for the relief of Henry A. Whaley, of Clay County, Texas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

J. M. WAIDE.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2472) for the relief of J. M. Waide, of Denton County, Texas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

VOLNEY V. MILAR.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2473) for the relief of the legal representatives of Volney V. Milar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. THROCKMORTON. Mr. Speaker, several of the bills which have been introduced by me were for the payment of Indian depredations, and should have been referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs instead of the Committee on Claims.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state that in accordance with his interpretation of the rule those bills which propose to pay the Indian depredations out of the Indian funds have been referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, whereas those that propose to pay for Indian depredations out of the Treasury of the United States go to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. THROCKMORTON. I understand that; but all of these would seem to go to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

The SPEAKER. They have been referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs where they related to depredations.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Mr. THROCKMORTON also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 66) proposing an amendment to the Constitution in relation to appropriations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

EXAMINATION OF ARMY OFFICERS.

Mr. CRAIN introduced a bill (H. R. 2474) to provide for examination of officers of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT GALVESTON, TEX.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2475) to amend an act approved May 25, 1882, entitled "An act for the construction of a public building at Galveston, Tex.;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS IN TEXAS.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2476) to amend sections 2, 4, 5, and 9 of an act approved February 24, 1879, entitled "An act to create the northern judicial district of Texas and to change the eastern and western judicial districts of said State, and to fix the times and places for holding courts in said districts," as amended by act approved June 3, 1884, and to provide for holding terms of the court of the western judicial district of Texas at the city of Laredo and for holding terms of the court of the eastern judicial district of Texas at the city of Brownsville, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF G. W. BARNS.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2477) for the relief of the heirs of G. W. Barns; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN FRIERY.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2478) for the relief of John Friery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF DAVID G. BURNETT.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2479) for the relief of the heirs of David G. Burnett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SANTIAGO DE LEON.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2180) for the relief of Santiago de Leon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT BROWNSVILLE, TEX.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2481) to provide for the purchase of the necessary land and the erection thereon of a custom-house, post-office, and Federal court building in the city of Brownsville, in the State of Texas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

REPRESENTATIVES OF CHARLES EICHLITZ.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2482) for the relief of the legal representatives of Charles Eichlitz, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

STEAMER DE SOTO.

Mr. CRAIN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2483) granting jurisdiction and authority to the Court of Claims in the case of the steamer De Soto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. D. MORRISON.

Mr. TUCKER introduced a bill (H. R. 2484) for the relief of J. D. Morrison, surviving partner of C. M. & J. D. Morrison; which was read a first and second time.

Mr. TUCKER. This bill has been for several sessions of Congress referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and has been reported upon by that committee. I ask unanimous consent that it may go to that committee again.

Mr. BRAGG. What is the object of the bill?

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the bill.

The bill was read; and there being no objection, it was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY H. SIBLEY.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2485) for the relief of Henry H. Sibley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ALBEMARLE AND CHESAPEAKE CANAL COMPANY.

Mr. TUCKER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2486) for the relief of the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

Mr TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2487) to increase the number of judges for the courts of the United States and prevent delay in the administration of justice in their courts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2488) to increase the judicial force of the United States and to prevent delays in the administration of justice in their courts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

COURT OF APPEALS, ETC.

Mr. TUCKER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2489) to establish a court of appeals, to provide additional circuit judges, and to make certain changes in the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

REMOVAL OF CAUSES FROM STATE COURTS, ETC.

Mr. TUCKER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2490) to amend an act of Congress of March 3, 1875, entitled "An act to determine the jurisdiction of the circuit courts of the United States and to regulate the removal of causes from State courts, and for other purposes," and to repeal sections 639 and 640 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

APPELLATE POWERS OF SUPREME COURT.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2491) to extend the appellate powers of the Supreme Court of the United States in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

REGULATION OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2492) to regulate criminal procedure in cases of crimes punishable by loss of life or liberty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

Mr. TUCKER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2493) to establish an international copyright; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

BUSINESS IN SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. TUCKER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2494) to facilitate the transaction of business in the Supreme Court of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

JURISDICTION OF CIRCUIT AND DISTRICT COURTS, UNITED STATES.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2495) to define the jurisdiction of the circuit and district courts of the United States in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

LIMITATION OF TIME TO PRESENT CLAIMS AGAINST UNITED STATES.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2496) limiting the time for the presentation and payment of claims against the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

EFFECT OF JUDGMENTS IN UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2497) to regulate the effect of judgments and decrees of courts of the United States in the several States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ACCOUNTS WITH CERTAIN STATES AND BALTIMORE CITY.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2498) directing the Secretary of the Treasury to examine and settle the accounts of certain States and of the city of Baltimore, growing out of moneys expended by said States and the city of Baltimore for military purposes during the war of 1812; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ADVANCES TO UNITED STATES BY MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2499) to provide for paying certain advances made to the United States by the States of Maryland and Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNAL-REVENUE TAXES ON FRUIT BRANDIES.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2500) to repeal all laws imposing internal-revenue taxes upon brandy and wine manufactured from fruits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNAL-REVENUE TAXES ON TOBACCO.

Mr. TUCKER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2501) to repeal all internal-revenue taxes upon tobacco in all forms and upon the dealers therein; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

POTTAWATOMIE INDIANS.

Mr. TUCKER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2502) to provide for the final settlement with the Mexican Pottawatomie Indians of Kansas in accordance with certain treaty stipulations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS J. PATRICK.

Mr. CABELL introduced a bill (H. R. 2503) for the relief of Thomas J. Patrick, of Danville, Va., refunding taxes improperly collected from him on manufactured tobacco; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ADVANCES TO THE UNITED STATES BY MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2504) to provide for paying certain advances made to the United States by the States of Maryland and Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

INTERNAL-REVENUE TAXES.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2505) to repeal the law imposing internal-revenue taxes upon tobacco and liquors distilled from fruits, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

SIGNAL SERVICE.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2506) for extending the benefits of the Signal Service to the farmers of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN R. PACE & CO.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2507) to refund to John R. Pace & Co., of Danville, Va., the sum of $236.20, improperly collected of them by William L. Fernald, collector of internal revenue for the fourth district of Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT HUFF.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2508) for the relief of Robert Huff; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF INTERNAL-REVENUE LAWS.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2509) to repeal the internal-revenue laws of the United States and to abolish all taxes and all offices created by them; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL CEMETERY, DANVILLE, VA.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2510) to provide for grading and paving the approaches to the national cemetery at Danville, Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

IMPORTATION OF LICORICE AND LICORICE PASTE.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2511) to permit manufacturers of tobacco to import licorice and licorice paste in bond and to exempt the same from duty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

GREEN PENN.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2512) for the relief of Green Penn; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. CABELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2513) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2514) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

OFFICERS, ETC., OF SLOOP-OF-WAR CUMBERLAND.

Mr. WISE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2515) for the relief of the officers and crew of the United States sloop-of-war Cumberland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SUFFERERS BY WRECK OF STEAMER ASHUELOT.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2516) for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamer Ashuelot; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ESTATE OF EDWIN T. PILKENTON.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2517) for the relief of the estate of Edwin T. Pilkenton, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. WISE subsequently said: I ask unanimous consent that the reference of the bill for the relief of the estate of Edwin T. Pilkenton, deceased, be changed from the Committee on Claims to the Committee on Ways and Means, to which it was referred in the last Congress.

Mr. MILLS. I must object to the reference of any claim to the Committee on Ways and Means.

NATIONAL CEMETERY NEAR RICHMOND, VA.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2518) to construct a road from the city of Richmond to the national cemetery in the county of Henrico, in the State of Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2519) to amend and re-enact section 3709 of the Revised Statutes and to regulate the making of contracts and purchases of supplies or services for the Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

LAND FOR GOSPORT NAVY-YARD.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2520) authorizing and directing the Secretary of the Navy to contract for the purchase of a lot of land opposite to the Gosport navy-yard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

TOBACCO FOR THE ARMY.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2521) to regulate the method of purchasing tobacco for the use of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

EXPORTED TOBACCO.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2522) to authorize the establishment of export tobacco manufactories and for drawback upon imported articles used in manufacturing exported tobacco; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

COMMANDER IN THE NAVY.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2523) touching the grade of commander in the Navy and to correct an error in relation to an appointment therein; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

DR. W. LEIGH BURTON.

Mr. WISE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2524) authorizing the Commissioner of Patents to grant an extension of letters patent upon the application of Dr. W. Leigh Burton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF MARK DAVIS.

Mr. WISE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2525) for the relief of the heirs of Mark Davis, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PRIZE-MONEY.

Mr. WISE (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2526) to extend the provisions of section 4631, Title LVI, Prize, of the Revised Statutes, and of the act of June 8, 1874, in relation to prize-money to fleet officers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. ISAACS & CO.

Mr. WISE also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 67) for the relief of William B. Isaacs & Co.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

APPROPRIATION FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Mr. WISE also presented a resolution of the Legislature of the State of Virginia, instructing Senators and requesting Representatives to vote for an appropriation for the benefit of the public free-school system; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

A. M. KEILEY.

Mr. WISE also submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs:

Resolved, That the President be requested, if not incompatible with the public interest, to transmit to the House of Representatives the correspondence between the Government of the United States and the Governments of Italy and Austria-Hungary in relation to the appointment by this Government of A. M. Keiley as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, first to the Government of Italy and then to that of Austria-Hungary; also any other correspondence or information which may be deemed by the President of importance and pertinent to the subject-matter of this resolution.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. O'FERRALL introduced a bill (H. R. 2527) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

GRAVE OF GENERAL DANIEL MORGAN.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2528) to preserve the grave of General Daniel Morgan and erect a monument over the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

DR. A. SIDNEY TEBBS.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2529) to make Dr. A. Sidney Tebbs surgeon in the United States Marine-Hospital Service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

C. A. WORTHINGTON.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2530) for the relief of C. A. Worthington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN SOUTHERICK.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2531) for the relief of John Southerick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. WOODWARD.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2532) for the relief of William H. Woodward for property taken during the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ST. CLAIR D. KIRTLEY AND FRANCIS W. KIRTLEY.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2533) for the relief of St. Clair D. Kirtley and Francis W. Kirtley for property taken during the war of the rebellion; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES A. VAN HORT.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2534) granting a pension to James A. Van Hort; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN W. BRYARLY, ALIAS JOHN OR JOHN B. WILLIAMS.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2535) granting a pension to John W. Bryarly, alias John or John B. Williams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES H. DAY.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2536) granting increased pension to Charles H. Day; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM E. LOGAN.

Mr. O'FERRALL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2537) for the relief of William E. Logan, of Virginia, late mail contractor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. KITTY BERRY.

Mr. TRIGG introduced a bill (H. R. 2538) granting a pension to Mrs. Kitty Berry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, ABINGDON, VA.

Mr. TRIGG also introduced a bill (H. R. 2539) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to exchange property purchased at Abingdon, Va., as site for public building for more suitable property; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY SIMON.

Mr. TRIGG also introduced a bill (H. R. 2540) for the relief of Henry Simon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PHILIP ROHR.

Mr. TRIGG also introduced a bill (H. R. 2541) for the relief of Philip Rohr; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REPEAL OF TAX ON TOBACCO AND FRUIT BRANDY.

Mr. TRIGG also introduced a bill (H. R. 2542) repealing the law imposing taxes upon tobacco and spirits distilled from fruit; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

IRON PIER AT FORTRESS MONROE, VA.

Mr. LIBBEY introduced a bill (H. R. 2543) providing for the construction of an iron pier at Fortress Monroe, Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PETER GIACCHETI.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2544) for the relief of Peter Giaccheti; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL BRADFORD.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2545) granting a pension to Samuel Bradford; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LIGHT-HOUSE AT NEWPORT NEWS POINT, VIRGINIA.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2546) to provide for a light-house at Newport News Point, Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID BOYD.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2547) granting an increase of pension to David Boyd; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES ROBINSON.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2548) granting a pension to James Robinson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MILTON R. MUZZY.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2549) granting a pension to Milton R. Muzzy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES B. MITCHELL.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2550) for the relief of James B. Mitchell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. JOHNSON.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2551) for the relief of John M. Johnson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN BROWN AND OTHERS

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2552) for the relief of John Brown, James Payne, and A. G. Lee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANNA M. MIXSON.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2553) for the relief of Anna M. Mixson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH P. AND EMILY J. TUTTLE.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2554) for the relief of the heirs of the late Joseph P. and Emily J. Tuttle; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES WINDSOR HICKMAN.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2555) for the relief of Charles Windsor Hickman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LUKE F. JOHNSON.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2556) for the relief of Luke F. Johnson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THREE MONTHS' PAY TO MEXICAN SOLDIERS.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2557) explanatory of an act entitled "An act for the payment to the officers and soldiers of the Mexican war of the three months' extra pay provided by the act of July 19, 1848," and amendments thereto by act approved February 19, 1879, without any limitation or discrimination, to all concerned, officer or man or heirs thereof, which said amendment of February 19, 1879, justifies, and which was the full intention of the act to secure to each and every one thereunto entitled by virtue of said amendment; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

NANCY BROWN AND OTHERS.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2558) for the relief of Nancy Brown and the heirs of William W. Brown, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SYLVIA ROBINSON.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2559) for the relief of Sylvia Robinson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, FORTRESS MONROE.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2560) for the erection of a public building at Fortress Monroe; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, NEWPORT NEWS.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2561) for the erection of a public building for the use of the custom-house and post-office at Newport News, in the district of Yorktown, Va., and making an appropriation therefor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

RECOGNITION OF MEXICAN SOLDIERS.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2562) requesting the President to recognize the soldiers of the Mexican war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

LAUNDRESSES IN THE ARMY.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2563) relating to laundresses in the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PAY OF DISCHARGED ARMY OFFICERS.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2564) allowing discharged officers of the Army one year's pay and allowances; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WRECK OF UNITED STATES STEAMER TALLAPOOSA.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2565) for the relief of the survivors of the wreck of the United States steamer Tallapoosa; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. H. AND CHARLES H. ROWLAND.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2566) for the relief of J. H. and Charles H. Rowland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CITIZENS OF NORTHAMPTON COUNTY, VIRGINIA.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2567) for the relief of certain citizens of Northampton County, Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

A. JOSEPH AND P. J. JARAMILLO.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2568) for the relief of Anthony Joseph and Pedro J. Jaramillo; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MECHANICS' LIENS IN THE DISTRICT.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2569) to amend the law concerning mechanics' liens in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

WAGON-MASTERS.

Mr. LIBBEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2570) providing for the retirement of wagon-masters; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

REMOVAL OF DISABILITIES.

Mr. BRADY introduced a bill (H. R. 2571) for the removal of all disabilities imposed by the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

SUPPORT OF COMMON SCHOOLS.

Mr. BRADY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2572) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT PETERSBURG, VA.

Mr. BRADY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2573) for the improvement and enlargement of the public building at Petersburg, Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

INSPECTORS OF TOBACCO.

Mr. BRADY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2574) to repeal section 3151 of the Revised Statutes of the United States concerning inspectors of tobacco and cigars; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. WELLBORN). The bill will be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. BRADY. It should be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary. The bill does not affect the revenue, but repeals the law as to the appointment of tobacco inspectors who are not paid by the Government. They are paid by fees.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thinks the provisions of the bill affect the revenues of the Government. The proper reference is to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

FRUIT BRANDIES AND WINES.

Mr. BRADY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2575) to repeal all laws imposing internal-revenue taxes upon brandy and wine manufactured from fruits; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

TAX ON TOBACCO.

Mr. BRADY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2576) to repeal all laws imposing internal-revenue taxes upon smoking and manufactured tobacco, snuff, cigars, cheroots, and cigarettes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

TAXES ON BREWERS AND DISTILLERS, ETC.

Mr. BRADY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2577) to repeal all internal-revenue laws imposing special taxes upon brewers, dealers in malt liquors, dealers in leaf and manufactured tobacco, manufacturers of tobacco and cigars, rectifiers, liquor dealers, and manufacturers of stills and worms; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

J. R. JONES.

Mr. BRADY (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2578) for the relief of J. R. Jones, late postmaster at Boydton, Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS POTOMAC.

Mr. BARBOUR introduced a bill (H. R. 2579) to authorize the construction of a bridge across the Potomac River at the Three Sisters, near Georgetown, D. C.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL SEMINARY, VIRGINIA.

Mr. BARBOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2580) for the relief of the Trustees of the Protestant Episcopal Seminary and High School in Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF R. B. MASON.

Mr. BARBOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2581) to provide for payment of the outstanding claims of the heirs of Richard B. Mason, deceased, late of Virginia, against the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

E. C. KITTLE AND OTHERS.

Mr. BARBOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2582) for the relief of E. C. Kittle and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD L. ROTCHFORD.

Mr. BARBOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2583) for the relief of Richard L. Rotchford; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BENWOOD HUNTER.

Mr. BARBOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2584) for the relief of Benwood Hunter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MALITTY ROSE.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2585) for the relief of the estate of Malitty Rose; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. HORATIO NELSON.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2586) for compensation, salvage, and medal of honor to Capt. Horatio Nelson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

C. W. ADAMS.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2587) to refer the claim of Charles W. Adams to the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD RIGGLES.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2588) granting a pension to Richard Riggles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NATIONAL SAFE DEPOSIT COMPANY, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Mr. BARBOUR also introduced a bill (H. R. 2589) to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the National Safe Deposit Company of Washington, in the District of Columbia," approved January 22, 1869; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

CLAIM AGAINST THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2590) to pay for work done and labor performed and materials furnished to the use of the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

NORTH WASHINGTON CABLE RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2591) to incorporate the North Washington Cable Railway Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. DEERY.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2592) for the relief of William H. Deery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS N. MALLOY.

Mr. BARBOUR (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2593) for compensation and medal of honor to Thomas N. Malloy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

The State of Wisconsin was called.

Mr. MORRISON. Mr. Speaker, it is very evident that we can not complete this order of business to-day, and, therefore, I move that the House do now adjourn.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Pending the vote on the question of adjournment,

Mr. OUTHWAITE, by unanimous consent, obtained leave of absence for four days, on account of important business.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of Ohio, for a like reason, obtained leave of absence for the remainder of the current week.

The motion of Mr. MORRISON was agreed to; and accordingly (at 4 o'clock and 45 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned.

PETITIONS, ETC.

The following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk, under the rule, and referred as follows:

By Mr. BAKER: Petition of citizens of Rochester, N. Y., urging the passage of the bill introduced by Mr. BAKER, January 5, 1886, to increase the amount appropriated for a public building at Rochester—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. BAYNE: Resolution of the councils of the city of Allegheny, Pa., in favor of a national public building in that city—to the same committee.

By Mr. BEAN: Memorial of the Legislature of Arizona, asking for the appointment of a fourth United States judge and an increase of salaries of judges—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, memorial of same, in reference to certain lands in said Territory—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, memorial of the same, asking protection of the border between the Territory and the States of Sonora and Chihuahua, in Mexico—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Also, petition for an appropriation of $100,000 for improvement of Colorado River of the West—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. BELMONT: Petition of Austin Corbin, representing the American Steamship Company, asking the passage of an act authorizing the registering of the vessels of said company, under certain regulations, whether built in the United States or elsewhere—to the Committee on American Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests.

By Mr. W. W. BROWN: Memorial from the convention at Chicago of third-class postmasters, in which relief is urged—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

Also, memorial from the Civil Service Reform Association of Philadelphia, praying for the passage of a law making it a misdemeanor in office for a member of Congress to solicit the appointment of any one to office—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. BUCHANAN: Resolution of Aaron Wilkes Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of New Jersey, asking the erection of a monument at Washington to General U. S. Grant—to the Committee on the Library.

Also, resolutions of the board of agriculture of Burlington County, New Jersey, relating to contagious diseases—to the Committee on Agriculture.

Also, resolutions of the same, asking that the Commissioner of Agriculture be made a Cabinet officer—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Also, resolutions of the same, asking an investigation into the cause of the low price of pork—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. CATCHINGS: A bill to preserve and improve the harbor at Vicksburg, in the State of Mississippi—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. CRISP: Petition of Moses Speer, Harrold Johnson & Co., and others, citizens of Americus, Ga., asking the repeal of the act requiring the coinage of silver—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

By Mr. DAVIS: Petition of the citizens of Edgartown, for the establishment of a life-saving station at Cape Page—to the Committee on Commerce.

Also, petition for legislation against the importation of mackerel caught between December and June—to the Committee on Ways and Means.

By Mr. ERMENTROUT: Petition of Thomas Clyde, Henry Windsor, and others, owners and managers of vessels, for legislation to prevent collisions of vessels—to the Committee on Commerce.

By Mr. FORAN: Joint resolution to authorize the application of money appropriated by act of July 5, 1884, for continuing improvement of harbor at Cleveland, Ohio, to construction of an eastern arm to the breakwater—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. FORNEY: A bill making an appropriation to continue the work on the Coosa River in the States of Alabama and Georgia—to the same committee.

By Mr. GALLINGER: Petition of Charles M. Smith and 80 others, citizens of Littleton, N. H., for national aid to education—to the Committee on Education.

Also, petition of C. H. Wells, rear-admiral, and other naval officers, asking for increase of pension to Mrs. Butler, widow of Maj. George Butler, late of the United States Marine Corps—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. EUSTACE GIBSON: Petition for reference of claim of John Waldron to the Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of citizens of West Virginia, asking for the improvement of Little Kanawha River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. T. J. HENDERSON: Petition of Mrs. Julia A. Robinson, widow of Alfred Robinson, for relief—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. HERMAN: Bills for making appropriations for the continued improvement of the Willamette and Columbia Rivers, in Oregon, below the city of Portland; for the commencement of construction of a harbor of refuge at Port Orford, on the Pacific Ocean, in Oregon; for the continued improvement of the entrance of Yaquina Bay, in the State of Oregon; for continuing the improvement of the Upper Willamette and Yam Hill Rivers, between Portland and Eugene City, in Oregon, and for construction of a snag-boat; for the continued improvement of the mouth of the Columbia River, in the State of Oregon and Territory of Washington; for the continued improvement of the Upper Columbia and Snake Rivers, in Oregon and the Territory of Washington; for continuing the present improvement at the entrance of Coos Bay, in the State of Oregon; for continuing the construction of the canal and locks at the cascades of the Columbia River, in Oregon; and for continuing the present improvement at the mouth of the Coquille River, in Oregon—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, memorials of the Legislature of Oregon, for the improvement of the Umpqua River and of the Columbia River at its mouth, continuing work in process of construction—to the same committee.

Also, memorial of the Oregon Legislature, asking pay for the spoliation of the Indians—to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

By Mr. HITT: Petition of L. R. Hurlbert, late postmaster at Durand, Ill., for joint resolution requiring the Postmaster-General to carry out act of March 3, 1883, adjusting claims—to Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. HOUK: Memorials of Jacob S. Fritts; of Theodore T. Coffin; of Nancy Morris, and of Michael A. Staples, asking reference of their several claims to the Court of Claims under act of March 3, 1883—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. LIBBEY: Petition for the relief of Domingo Lawrence—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. McCOMAS: Petition of A. T. Sneuffer, administrator of Richard Thomas, Frederick County, Maryland, asking reference of claim to Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, paper relating to claim of Henry F. Newkirk, of Washington County, Maryland—to the same committee.

Also, paper relating to claim of Benjamin F. Middlekauff, administrator of Henry G. Lowman, of Washington County, Maryland—to the same committee.

By Mr. MATSON: Petition of A. D. Kelly and 89 others, ex-Union soldiers, for the passage of a bill giving a pension of $8 per month to all honorably discharged Union soldiers—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. MILLS: Petition of J. W. McKee, for relief—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. NEGLEY: Petition of Matt W. Goff, late a private in Company A, Eighteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, bills for the improvement of the Alleghany River near Pittsburgh, for the improvement of the Upper Ohio River, and for the improvement of the Monongahela River in the States of West Virginia and Pennsylvania, and maintaining the same free to the commerce of the United States—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. CHARLES O'NEILL: Resolutions of the Grocers and Importers' Exchange of Philadelphia, urging an appropriation to maintain the United States Signal Service and to extend its usefulness—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. RANDALL: Petition of Albert Hale, for relief—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. RICHARDSON: Petition of Nancy J. Thomas, of Marshall County, Tennessee, for a pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of Elizabeth A. Ridout, of Tennessee, for a rehearing of her claim—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. ROGERS: Papers relating to the claims of Warren Drake, of Ruth C. Wallace, of William Brents, of John W. Hopkins, and of Phillip R. Jones—to the same committee.

By Mr. SNYDER: Petition of citizens of Greenbrier, Nicholas, and Fayette Counties, West Virginia, asking that an appropriation be made to improve Meadow River, in said State—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, petition of Isaiah Martin, of Upshur County, West Virginia, for allowance of claim—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of James A. Milan, of Wyoming County, West Virginia, asking that his name be placed on the pension-roll—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. SPRINGER: Memorial of officers of the United States Army, praying the passage of a bill to facilitate promotions throughout the Army by retiring from active service, upon their own application, officers of the Army who served in the late war—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. STEELE: Petition of H. H. Miller, relating to pension claims of William Boone—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of William A. Gable and 312 others, of Blackford County, Ind., for the enactment of a law giving a service pension to the soldiers and sailors of the late war—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Price Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of Indiana, praying for the relief of Alexander McCrary—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. CHARLES STEWART: Bill appropriating $10,000 for removing obstructions to navigation at the mouth of Cedar Bayou, in Harris County, Texas—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

Also, bill for improving the navigation of Buffalo Bayou, Texas—to the same committee.

Also, bill for harbor improvement at Sabine Pass, Texas—to the same committee.

By Mr. J. M. TAYLOR: Petition of Mary J. Brown, of Tennessee, asking that papers in her application be referred to the Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition of Mary F. Bradford, widow of the late Lieut. Robert Y. Bradford, for relief—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of John Spellings, of the Seventh Tennessee Cavalry, for a pension—to the same committee.

By Mr. TRIGG: Bill for the improvement of New River, in the counties of Wythe and Grayson, Virginia, and to improve Louisa Fork of Sandy River, in the States of Virginia and Kentucky—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. VAN EATON: Papers relating to the claim of Elijah Patrick, executrix of J. C. Patrick—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. VAN SCHAICK: Petition of wholesale grocers of Milwaukee, favoring appointment of commissioners to settle the "fisheries question"—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

By Mr. WADE: Papers relating to the claim of Joseph Diehl, for supplies—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, papers relating to the claims of Reinhart Breinneirs, John H. Moas, Henry W. Kolkmeyer, Frank Breinneirs, and Louis Tompkins—to the same committee.

By Mr. WADSWORTH: Petition of sundry citizens of Lewis County, Kentucky, in behalf of Milton Wallace Fondray—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. WILKINS: Petition of John McClary, late private Company C, Ninth Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, asking to be placed on the pension-roll—to the same committee.

The following petitions, praying Congress to place the coinage of silver upon an equality with gold; that there be issued coin certificates of one, two, and five dollars, the same being made a legal tender; that one and two dollar legal-tender notes be issued, and that the public debt be paid as rapidly as possible, by applying for this purpose the idle surplus now in the Treasury, were presented and severally referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures:

By Mr. BEAN: Of the Legislature of the Territory of Arizona.

By Mr. COMSTOCK: Of 163 citizens of Tyrone and Casnovia townships, Mich.; of 92 citizens of Ionia County, Michigan.

By Mr. EDEN: Of W. H. Hobson and 103 others, citizens of Montgomery County, Illinois.

By Mr. GIFFORD: Of John Andrews and others, of Grand Forks, Dak.

By Mr. T. J. HENDERSON: Of W. G. Fisher and 86 others, citizens of Henry County, Illinois.

By Mr. KLEINER: Of citizens of Pike County, Indiana.

By Mr. MATSON: Of M. V. Kindle and 109 others, of Johnson County; and of Levi Groseclose and 29 others, citizens of Johnson County, Indiana.

By Mr. NEECE: Of citizens of Illinois.

By Mr. O'FERRALL: Of W. H. Baker, John I. Williams, and others, citizens of Winchester, Va.

By Mr. PERRY: Of citizens of Union, S. C.

By Mr. J. B. WEAVER: Of citizens of all parties of Iowa.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, January 7, 1886.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. E. D. HUNTLEY, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

REPORTS ON ALASKA.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Chief Signal Officer, transmitting reports of L. M. Turner and E. W. Nelson, entitled "Contributions to the natural history of North America: Results of explorations in Alaska."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair informs the Senate that this communication is accompanied by a large package of very voluminous documents, the printing of which would be very expensive. Therefore, if there be no objection, the question of printing these documents will be referred to the Committee on Printing. The communication from the Chief Signal Officer will be printed.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, transmitting, in response to a resolution of December 16, 1885, certain information respecting the Seventh New York Cavalry, commonly called the "Second Black Horse Cavalry;" which, with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore presented a communication from the Secretary of War, transmitting a petition of West Point cadets of the class which will be graduated in June, 1886, praying for legislation that will secure them appointments in the Army; which, with the accompanying petition, was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. VANCE presented a petition of citizens of New Berne, N. C., praying for the erection of a public building in that city; which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. SEWELL presented a resolution adopted by Wilkes Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of Trenton, N. J., favoring the erection of a national monument to the memory of General U. S. Grant; which was referred to the Committee on the Library.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, presented a petition of James Carroll and 24 other citizens of Iowa, and a petition of Jonas R. Hedine and 21 other citizens of Iowa, praying for the absolute forfeiture of the unearned lands within the grant to the Sioux City and Saint Paul Railroad Company; which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. HARRISON presented a petition of James Shields Post, No. 367, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Indiana, praying for the passage of a bill granting a service pension to all soldiers and sailors of the late war and for other legislation favorable to ex-Union soldiers; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. SAWYER presented the petition of William C. Shimoneck, late a musician in the Third Regiment United States Infantry, praying that he may be retired from the service on pay; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. BLAIR. I present a petition for the establishment of national homes for indigent maimed ex-confederate soldiers, which is sent to me, with the request that I present it, by Union soldiers. I present this petition, and as it is very short and is accompanied by a letter in which the petitioners are quite anxious that their views may be made known to the Senate and the country and say that other petitions of a like character may follow, I will ask that the petition be printed in the RECORD. It is very short.

The petition was ordered to be printed in the RECORD and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, as follows:

NATIONAL HOMES FOR INDIGENT MAIMED EX-CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

The undersigned, ex-Union soldiers, pray the enactment of a law providing for the establishment and maintenance by the United States of homes for indigent maimed soldiers of the late armies of the so-called Confederate States whose wounds were received at the hands of United States troops.

We believe such a measure wise, patriotic, and humane; that its adoption would mark a distinct advance of the line of civilization in the history of the world, promote the welfare of the Union, and strengthen the cause of republican institutions among the nations of the earth, by demonstrating, as an example, that a people may within themselves possess the power of rising superior to passion—the necessary qualification of self-government.

The men for whose relief these homes are intended are growing old. A new generation is around them—a people to them and to the stormy times of the civil conflict strangers, and necessarily unappreciative of their sacrifices and sufferings. With the flight of years their physical disabilities and tortures increase, and with mental agony they perceive the darkening skies of their future. At every step of their weary and dreary lives they are confronted by actual want. Each day removes them further from that popular approval which was the support of the steadfast soldier in his hour of trial. The glory of their achievements is a thing of the past. The shouts of applause for brave deeds performed have died out forever. The inevitable fate of the vanquished is theirs—by the busy world the unsuccessful are forgotten, or are regarded with an indifference yet more painful to the sensitive soul than oblivion.

It might be said a moral obligation rests on the Federal Government to care for these men. It was the unwritten law of the battlefield that the wounded prisoner, until returned to the custody of his military authorities, should receive the attention accorded our injured ones—a law founded in the humane instincts of mankind. The United States Army destroyed the de facto government they served, and thus they were left on our hands. Does not the spirit of that law impose on us—even at this late day and in these peaceful times—the duty intuitively recognized during the tumultuous period of the war? And if at that period we felt none of the principles for which the armies of the Union contended were by obedience to this law compromised, can it be said any of these principles would be compromised by obedience at this time?

Such are some of the reasons that impel your memorialists to commend to your consideration the object for which they pray. Let the strong arm of the Republic be stretched out in the hour of their affliction to these its unfortunate—if you will misguided—sons, that they may know that it, like the God of the Israelites in the olden time, remembers and pities and will provide for them.

JOHN N. BOVEE,
Company E, Eighteenth New York Volunteers.
CHARLES KEEGIN,
Battery K, First United States Artillery.
F. B. HEITMAN,
Company B, Third United States Infantry.
ALEX. CUNNINGHAM,
Company A, Second Maryland Volunteers (Infantry).
GRANVILLE HARFORD,
Company E, Light Infantry, District Volunteers.
J. H. COOK,
Captain Company L, First Maryland Cavalry.

Mr. EVARTS. I present the petition of W. W. Story, R. S. Greenough, and other eminent artists, both painters and sculptors, in Rome, I believe comprehending all the American artists who are living there, praying for the repeal of the present duty on the importation of works of art. The petition is accompanied by a very considerate and discreet exposition of the grounds which affect the minds of our American artists abroad, and I venture to ask of the Senate permission that it may be printed either in the RECORD or as a document, as it presents the views of those artists and may very properly affect the judgment of the Senate in their formation of opinion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The petition will be referred to the Committee on Finance. The Senator from New York asks unanimous consent that the petition be printed as a document. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and that order will be entered.

Mr. DOLPH. I present a memorial adopted by the Columbia water-way convention, held at The Dalles, Oreg., December 2, 1885, favoring appropriations for the improvement of the Columbia River, and the reservation from settlement and sale of lands adjacent to the river necessary for permanent improvement of the river at places where obstructions exist. I ask that the memorial may be printed in the RECORD and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

The memorial was referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

Extract from the official proceedings of the Columbia water-way convention, held at The Dalles, Oreg., December 2, 1885, and its memorial to Congress.

Pursuant to a call issued by and under the authority of the boards of trade, chambers of commerce, and city councils of the principal cities of the Columbia River Valley, the Columbia water-way convention assembled at The Dalles, Oreg., on Wednesday, December 2, 1885, at 11 o'clock a. m., sixty-five delegates being present, representing ten of the leading cities.

The convention was permanently organized with J. Q. A. Bowlby, of the Astoria Chamber of Commerce, president, and W. Bryon Daniels, of the Vancouver Board of Trade, secretary.

A committee on memorial and resolutions was appointed, as follows: D. P. Thompson, of Portland; Louis Sohns, of Vancouver; John Adair, of Astoria; Robert Mays, of The Dalles; William R. Dunbar, of Goldendale; J. M. Boyd, of Walla Walla; S. Rothchild, of Pendleton; J. S. White, of Weston; William F. Courtney, of Wasco; R. W. Crandall, of Union; Louis Mayer, of Colville and O'Kanogan.

A committee of six, on statistics, was appointed, as follows: T. S. Lang, of The Dalles; J. P. Wager, of Pendleton; James Young, of Portland; J. Hunsaker, of Klibitat; H. D. Chapman, of Walla Walla; William B. Adair, of Astoria.

An executive committee was also appointed, as follows: J. C. Trullinger, of Astoria; D. P. Thompson, of Portland; L. M. Hidden, of Vancouver; Robert Mays, of The Dalles; H. E. Holmes, of Walla Walla.

The committee on memorial and resolutions reported the following memorial, which was unanimously adopted by the convention:

Memorial.

To the honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

Your memorialists, the Columbia River water-way convention, composed of delegates from the boards of trade and chambers of commerce of the principal cities of Oregon and Washington Territory along the valley of the Columbia, respectfully represent:

That with the exception of the obstructions hereinafter referred to the Columbia River is navigable for steamboats of heavy tonnage from the sea to a point 1,032 miles inland, with tributaries aggregating not less than 300 additional miles of navigable water, of which distance 752 miles of the Columbia River proper are within the United States, and for almost that entire distance it flows through a country well adapted to agriculture, a country of great productiveness, with a mild and genial climate, and possessing all the qualities requisite to sustain a dense and prosperous farming population, and also along and near its banks there are extensive and valuable mines. This region referred to, east of the Cascade Mountains, lying along the Columbia River and its navigable tributary the Snake River, though but recently settled, already contains a large and rapidly increasing population.

That a very large part of said region is wholly without means of transportation to the seaboard, and in no part thereof are there any facilities, excepting the Columbia and Snake Rivers and a single line of railway, and by reason of natural obstructions to navigation of said rivers competition in transportation is impossible.

That the only places where canals and locks are required to make steamboat navigation practicable are the Cascades, 160 miles, and The Dalles, 220 miles from the mouth of the Columbia, and from the latter point to Kettle Falls, more than 700 miles from the mouth of the river, the only improvements requisite to practical navigation are the removal of rocks, which can be removed at small expense.

That the improvements above referred to would provide facilities for water transportation to an extent of country embracing not less than 25,000 square miles of land susceptible of cultivation, for the productions of which the natural channel and outlet is the Columbia River.

That the Government of the United States has already expended upon the work of constructing a canal and locks at the Cascades $955,000, and it is estimated by the United States engineer in charge that $750,000 more will so far complete that improvement as to make it practicable to pass boats through the canal.

That the obstruction at The Dalles would require for its removal the improvement of the river for a distance of about 7 miles, but the work would be of such a character that the amount of money necessary to its completion would not greatly exceed that required for the improvements now in course of construction at the Cascades.

That the topography of this region of country is such as to preclude the building of railways, except at an enormous expense, and therefore the opening of the Columbia River to the northern boundary of the United States is not only practicable but is absolutely indispensable to the development and prosperity of the vast region through which it flows.

That the tonnage over the bar at the mouth of the Columbia River for the year ending September, 1885, was 869,943 tons, and this amount is but a small fraction of that which is destined to be carried in the near future.

That the work of improving the channel at the entrance of the river, as well as at the Cascades and other points where improvements have been begun, has been heretofore prosecuted under such disadvantages, arising from insufficiency of appropriations, as rendered it impossible to carry it forward rapidly or economically.

That for the past two years the citizens of Portland have been compelled to raise large amounts of money by private subscriptions, which have been expended in temporary improvements of the Columbia River between Portland and the sea, in consequence of the inadequacy of the appropriations made by the General Government for that purpose.

That in a few places, both above and below the Willamette River, notably at Saint Helen and Vancouver, bars have formed in the Columbia River, which can be removed easily and at small expense; the one at Saint Helen having been temporarily removed by private contributions, so as to admit of the passage of deep-draught sea-going ships.

That the immense deposits of mineral that exist along the upper Columbia, near Colville, O'Kanogan, and Osoyoos Lake, and other points near the banks of the Columbia, which would yield millions of dollars in wealth were the river open to transportation, can not now be worked successfully for the want of the means by which to transport the same to the markets of the world.

Your memorialists therefore respectfully but earnestly pray that the appropriations for the improvements already in progress be of such amounts as that the prosecution of said works may be continuous until the same be fully completed, under the direction of the Secretary of War, as to the amount to be expended each year; and that steps be immediately taken to begin improvements of the channel of the Columbia River wherever the same may be necessary for the practical navigation thereof.

And your memorialists further pray that the lands bounded by the Columbia River, at all places where obstructions exist requiring the use of the banks for permanent improvements, be reserved from settlement and sale, to the end that the same may be occupied for such permanent improvements by the Government when needed.

Respectfully submitted.

D. P. THOMPSON, Chairman.

Official.

J. Q. G. BOWLBY, President.

Attest:

W. BYRON DANIELS, Secretary.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. HAWLEY introduced a bill (S. 929) for the relief of Albert H. Emery; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. PLATT (by request) introduced a bill (S. 930) for the relief of Frank P. Murphy; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HARRIS introduced a bill (S. 931) for the relief of William Clift; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 932) to extend the provisions of an act approved March 2, 1885, entitled "An act for the relief of purchasers and locators of swamp and overflowed lands;" which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. HAMPTON introduced a bill (S. 933) for the relief of M. C. Mordecai; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (S. 934) making an appropriation to enable the Secretary of the Interior to settle the accounts of Norman Thacher, late a receiver of public moneys at Menasha, Wis.; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill (S. 935) granting an increase of pension to Elnathan Meade; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. HALE introduced a bill (S. 936) for the relief of John M. McClintock; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. INGALLS introduced a bill (S. 937) to regulate the fees and limit the compensation of the recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia and of the register of wills for the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced a bill (S. 938) for the relief of Chittenden Brothers; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 939) to increase pensions in certain cases; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MORGAN. I am requested by the Senator from California [Mr. MILLER], who is detained out of the Senate by sickness, to introduce a bill and ask its reference to the Committee on Public Lands.

The bill (S. 940) to promote the introduction of fresh water on the Colorado Desert was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 941) for the relief of James J. Gideon; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. MCMILLAN (by request) introduced a bill (S. 942) to amend section 4472 of the Revised Statutes, relating to the transportation of passengers and merchandise; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. SEWELL introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 23) for the printing of the report of the international polar expedition to Lady Franklin Bay, Grinnell Land, by First Lieut. A. W. Greely, Fifth Cavalry, United States Army, acting signal officer; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 24) to credit Lieuts. Giles B. Harber and William H. Schuetze with sea-duty and sea-pay while engaged in the search for Lieutenant Chipp and party, and also for the time employed in bringing home the remains of Lieutenant-Commander De Long and party; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

PAPERS WITHDRAWN AND REFERRED.

On motion of Mr. HAWLEY, it was Ordered, That Samuel B. Horne have leave to withdraw his papers from the files of the Senate.

On motion of Mr. HARRIS, it was Ordered, That the papers in respect to the claim of William Clift be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims, there having been no adverse report thereon.

On motion of Mr. BLACKBURN, it was Ordered, That the petition and papers in the case of William H. Gray be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion of Mr. JACKSON, it was Ordered, That the petition and papers in connection therewith of Edmund Mason be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion of Mr. COKE, it was Ordered, That the papers in the claim of William H. Gill be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

PUBLIC LAND SURVEYS IN NEBRASKA.

Mr. MANDERSON submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be, and hereby is, directed to communicate to the Senate whether any surveys of the public lands have been made within the last two years in the State of Nebraska, whether there are any unsurveyed public lands within said State; also, what recommendations have been made within the last three years by the surveyors-general of said district as to the discontinuance of said office, and whether it is advisable that the office of surveyor-general of said district should cease and be discontinued under the provisions of section 2218 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

EFFICIENCY OF THE ARMY.

Mr. MANDERSON. I give notice that on Monday next, at such time as I may be able to procure the attention of the Senate, I shall ask to take from the table the bill (S. 137) to increase the efficiency of the infantry branch of the Army, that I may submit some remarks before moving the reference of the bill to the Committee on Military Affairs.

DISTRICT METROPOLITAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no further "concurrent or other resolutions" the resolution submitted by the Senator from Nebraska [Mr. VAN WYCK] yesterday, which comes over under the rule, is now pending and will be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That the president of the Metropolitan Railway Company, in the District of Columbia, be, and he hereby is, directed to furnish the Senate a sworn statement of the amount of their capital stock, the amount of their bonded and floating indebtedness, the amount of their gross and net earnings, the amount of their operating expenses, and the amount of dividends paid annually since June 30, 1878; also why said railway company has not made the annual report required by the act of 1864 incorporating said company.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the resolution.

Mr. HOAR. I should like to understand the resolution. I do not wish to interfere at all with the purpose of the Senator from Nebraska. I suppose there is some authority by which the Senate is entitled to direct this officer to make a sworn statement—I hope there is—but I should like to know what that authority is. Of course the Senate should not be put in the position of giving orders which it has no lawful right to give. I should like to be instructed on that point.

Mr. VANCE. I understand that in the act of incorporation of this company they are required to make annually the statement which is called for by the resolution, and that such a statement has not been made for six or eight years past. There is, and has been for a considerable time, complaint about the insufficiency of the public accommodation afforded by this railroad company, and bills have been introduced time and again for the purpose of redressing that complaint. The railroad officials have had interviews with me, and I suppose with other members of the Committee on the District of Columbia, and have intimated that the state of their finances and their earnings would not justify them in putting on the additional accommodations that the public demand.

It was for the purpose of ascertaining how that is, and whether we should push this demand upon them or whether it would be unjust to do so, that this information is sought. I think the resolution ought to pass.

Mr. HOAR. The Senator does not answer my question. Perhaps he will do that before he sits down.

Mr. VANCE. What is the question of the Senator?

Mr. HOAR. My question is as to where the authority is for the Senate to give a peremptory order to a citizen to make a sworn statement about something. The fact that the law requires an officer of a corporation created by Congress to make annual reports to somebody else, or to make annual reports anywhere under oath, does not confer that authority upon one branch of Congress. The fact that the corporation neglects its duty and has not made the returns, and that it does not afford sufficient accommodation to the public, does not give the Senate this authority.

With deference to my honorable friend from North Carolina, it seems to me the best way would be to refer the resolution to some committee and give them authority to send for persons and papers. The committee can then direct the president of the road to come into their presence and to make all the disclosures which they require and after hearing one disclosure they can put forth a further demand. My point is not as to the substance of what the Senator wants, but the method of getting at it.

Mr. VANCE. I do not know that I can answer the question of the Senator from Massachusetts as to whether it is exactly lawful to call for this information or not. I am not the author of the resolution. The author of it probably can do that and he may have found a precedent for this case. All I want as a member of the Committee on the District of Columbia is the information so as to know whether we should be justified in pushing the demand upon the railroad company.

Mr. HARRIS. Does the Senator know whether the charter requires the company to make a statement under oath?

Mr. VANCE. I understand that it does. My information is that the charter requires reports to be made annually, and that they have not been made.

Mr. HARRIS. Under oath?

Mr. VANCE. I do not know as to that.

Mr. HOAR. But suppose the charter does require a report to be made annually under oath; as I understand the resolution it is an order by the Senate to this man to make to the Senate a certain report under oath and to explain certain conduct. It is a very serious thing to put the Senate in the position of asserting an authority which it does not possess, and I should like to know where the authority is. I presume there may be some, but I have not heard of it. If there is no authority, then it seems to me that the Senate had better confer on the Senator's committee authority to send for persons and papers, and then they will have the whole matter in their control.

Mr. VAN WYCK. If the Senator from North Carolina will allow me, I will state that in 1878 the Senate of the United States passed a resolution on finding that the Metropolitan Railway had disobeyed the law for fourteen years, because by their act of incorporation they were required to make annual reports. The statute detailed on what different subjects and topics and the manner in which the reports should be made. In 1878 the Senate passed precisely this same resolution, except that they used the words "the proper officers," and the information was demanded from all the street railways in this city. The resolution of 1878 read:

That the proper officers of the several railway companies of the District of Columbia be, and they hereby are, directed to furnish, &c.

The language of this resolution is precisely the same as that of the resolution of 1878, except that the pending resolution calls upon the president of a particular road instead of saying the proper officers of the various street railways. The statute designates who are the proper officers by saying that the president or treasurer or directors of the railway companies are the proper officers to make the annual sworn report required.

Mr. HOAR. Does the statute say that either House of Congress shall have the authority itself to order the company or its officers to make additional reports or to make these reports?

Mr. VAN WYCK. I am not aware that when the Congress of the United States required the Pacific Railroad Company to make annual reports anybody ever rose and asked, Did Congress go so far as to say that if they did not do it then the Senate or either branch would have the right to ask it of them? Would it not be as fair to excuse the Pacific Railway Companies if they neglected to make their reports and the Senate asked them to do it? In that case would it not be as fair for some Senator to rise in his place and say that that power had not been delegated to the Senate or the other branch of Congress?

Mr. HOAR. If the Senator will pardon me, he is asking this man to do it, and it is a pretty undignified thing for the Senate to make such a request, ordering a private citizen.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I suppose my friend will not admit that in the past the Senate has ever been guilty of doing an undignified thing. I think, with all his regard to precedent, the Senator is not willing to assert that this will be an undignified thing.

Mr. HOAR. If the Senator will pardon me——

Mr. VAN WYCK. Certainly.

Mr. HOAR. My proposition is to have the thing done in the right way, not in the wrong way; to do it in the way in which we have a right to do it, and not to do it in a way in which we have no right to do it. No legislative body except as it exercises the authority to send for persons and papers has the right to issue orders to citizens to answer questions; and when I ask the Senator where his authority is I do not think it is quite satisfactory, it certainly does not quite satisfy my mind, to have him make the answer he does, because while he answers a great many other things he does not answer that. Will the Senator be good enough to tell me, do you yourself believe now at this moment that the Senate of the United States has a right to order this citizen or any other to make a sworn statement as to facts?

Mr. VAN WYCK. I have no doubt about that.

Mr. HOAR. You think it has?

Mr. VAN WYCK. No doubt of it.

Mr. HOAR. Where does that authority come from?

Mr. VAN WYCK. I suppose the Senate and the House of Representatives composing the Congress of the United States have like powers. That is the point. They have exercised them. The Senator said that the Senate ought not to do an undignified thing. Certainly not. Then I desired to know if the Senator thought the American Senate had ever done an undignified thing or would ever be guilty of doing an undignified thing. To that he did not answer.

Mr. HOAR. I did not hear the question.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I regret to have to state it over. I hope he will give his attention to that one thing until we get that point out of the way. I understood the Senator to say that this resolution would be a very undignified procedure. Was I correct?

Mr. HOAR. You were not.

Mr. VAN WYCK. The Senator will then please state to what he applied the term "undignified."

Mr. HOAR. The Senator will see that it would be undignified for the Senate to give an order to a citizen that it had no authority to give; and I wanted to know whether that authority existed.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Then the Senator said precisely what I said he did. He said there was no authority to do this thing, and he said it would be a very grave and undignified thing for this body to do something it had no business to do. Then I asked the question, if he believed that to be the case, whether he was willing to reflect on this grave body in the past by saying that it had ever been guilty of doing an undignified thing? To that he gave no response, because here was the fact that this matter which the Senator calls undignified has been done by the Senate of the United States. I presume the Senator will modify or withdraw the charge that there is a want of dignity in this proceeding.

Is it not well known to this body that there is a precedent for this thing? The Senate have called for this information. The statute under which the company was incorporated in 1864 provides that it shall make an annual sworn statement, and it designated the officer who should make the sworn statement. They refuse to do it; they decline to do it. Then what? The Senator says there is no further power given in the act to the Senate; that if these officers refuse to furnish the information we have no authority to call upon the officers of the road, the creatures of Congress, the creatures of law, to furnish the information.

Then I stated to the Senator, which I thought was legitimate, that in the incorporation of the Union Pacific Railway the act required certain reports to be made by the officers of the road, and I asked him if they neglected to do so, and the Senate of the United States called for those reports and asked the reason why, whether it would be an answer for a Senator to rise in his seat and demand the authority to ask whether the law had suggested or imposed that duty upon the Senate.

Here is the law upon the statute-book. It was believed to be important or Congress would not have put it there. Yet it seems for fourteen years this railway company has neglected its duty. In 1878 the Senate asked for the information precisely as we are asking for it to-day, and the president of the road made a report covering fourteen years of the existence of the road from 1864 to 1878. The president of the road had no difficulty in making a report, which fills not one page of printed matter. Here is the report made in 1878. [Exhibiting.] From 1878 until now this corporation has been continually neglecting its duty, refusing to make the reports, and is it not competent for the Senate of the United States to ask that it shall continue that report which it was obliged by the law to make?

With all due deference to the Senator from Massachusetts, there is here no investigation for any committee to make. There is no more necessity to send for persons and papers than if you were asking for the report of the Pacific Railroad Company. The officer of this road can sit down and in a few minutes answer the resolution, answering it probably in another printed page, as it was answered in 1878.

This railroad company have set at defiance the laws of Congress, and done it boldly. They have set at defiance the laws of Congress in the imposition of taxes and boldly refused to pay them. Congress required that the road should be run in its cars and management for the comfort and convenience of the public. In 1864 there was some little respect paid at least to the language of the act as regards the comfort and convenience of the public, but for the last few years that has been ignored by this corporation. They set your laws at defiance by refusing to make a report. They set your laws at defiance by refusing to pay their taxes. They set the laws at defiance by refusing to furnish comfort and convenience to passengers who are required to ride over the road.

They were clamoring years ago that they made no money, that they were running their road at a loss; and yet in their sworn statement for the first fourteen years of their existence, when their business was probably meager, they say that their dividends averaged 4½ per cent. each year. Yet it has been dinned in our ears for years gone by that this railroad was being run at a loss, when it made annually, in its infancy, in its feebleness, 4½ per cent. each year.

From 1878 to now we ask what, and this people ask what? The commissioners appointed to regulate the affairs of the District have appealed to Congress, citizens of this District have appealed to Congress, the Senator from North Carolina at the last Congress presented a bill asking some little observance of the law by compelling the company to study a little the convenience and comfort of the people of this District. In 1884 the commissioners of the District, who have no power over this matter, strange as it may appear, said:

> Everything in these charters looking to the obligations of the companies in these respects to the people is left to the determination of the companies. No authority is clothed with power to say whether the cars are or are not first-class, &c., and none with power to say whether the cars are run as often as public convenience requires. Obviously the interest of the companies regulates the convenience of the public, and although these corporations allege that the public convenience is their greatest interest, yet it is an arbitration between public convenience on one side and the interests of corporations on the other, where the decision lies solely within the power of the interested party.

That is the report made a year ago by the commissioners of the District, and what has Congress done? The people of the District in this as in other matters have been stretching forth their hands for some relief from the exactions of this and other corporations in the District of Columbia, holding up their hands until they are tired in begging supplication to the only power which is supposed to control these corporations and yield a little of time and care for their comfort and convenience.

Now it is asked that the corporation furnish this information, which can easily be done. There is no necessity really that this plain, simple matter should go to a committee. Is it not proper? Suppose the resolution contained only one suggestion, that the Metropolitan Railroad Company should inform the Senate why they have not made their annual report; would that be competent? That is one of the branches of the resolution. Undoubtedly the object beyond it all, when the information is obtained, is to compel the railroad corporation to do what the charter of 1864 demanded of it, to consult the public convenience.

I presume that it is not necessary to state the manner in which the people of this District are treated. It will be suitable to do that probably at another time. If the resolution should go to a committee, and if it should ever come out of it, then would probably be a more proper time; but I think the Senate is fully advised as to the injustice and the wrong that are heaped upon the citizens of this city by the extortions and exactions of this railroad company. It is true that it is not proposed by the resolution to remedy them, but the object is to obtain such facts as will form a foundation hereafter to demand that the corporation shall do what its charter requires shall be done.

Mr. HOAR. I move to amend the resolution by striking out, in the beginning, the words down to and including the word "Senate" and substituting what I have written, and then by adding at the end what I have last written. I wish the Senator from Nebraska would hear the amendment, if he pleases.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I will, sir.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to strike out from the resolution the words "That the president of the Metropolitan Railway Company, in the District of Columbia, be, and he hereby is, directed to furnish the Senate" and to insert "That the Committee on the District of Columbia be directed to obtain from the proper officers of the Metropolitan Railway," and to add to the resolution the words "and have power to send for persons and papers and administer oaths;" so as to make the resolution read:

> Resolved, That the Committee on the District of Columbia be directed to obtain from the proper officers of the Metropolitan Railway a sworn statement of the amount of their capital stock, the amount of their bonded and floating indebtedness, the amount of their gross and net earnings, the amount of their operating expenses, and the amount of dividends paid annually since June 30, 1878; also why said railway company has not made the annual report required by the act of 1864 incorporating said company; and have power to send for persons and papers and administer oaths.

Mr. HOAR. That directs the Committee on the District of Columbia to order the proper officers of the road into its presence and to require them under oath to make these statements, and gives it power to send for persons and papers. It has the great advantage over the original resolution of my honorable friend from Nebraska that if the first statement should be vague or unsatisfactory or in any way not come fully up to his requirements, the committee would have authority to direct a further statement without having to come back to the Senate. I think the Senator will find the form which I suggest more convenient.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Now, I most cheerfully yield to the suggestion of my friend. As this is a direction from the Senate to the committee to make this examination, I take it for granted it will be made.

Mr. INGALLS. Mr. President, the street-car service in this city is exceedingly unsatisfactory. The street-railway companies have received vast and valuable franchises from Congress for which they have given no adequate equivalent. The accommodations that they furnish are insufficient; and as the Senator from Nebraska has said, for some reason or other these corporations have declined hitherto to contribute voluntarily their share of the taxation which is imposed upon the different institutions in this District, and have interposed every conceivable objection to all efforts which have been made to compel them to contribute their share toward bearing the burdens that are imposed on the people here. But these observations do not apply to one corporation alone, and I trust that before this resolution leaves the consideration of the Senate either the Senator from Nebraska or the Senator from Massachusetts will so amend the resolution as to make it apply to all the street-railway corporations in the District of Columbia.

It is of course to me a matter of indifference personally whether the Senate adopt this resolution on sight or whether it is referred to the committee. I can say, however, to those who are interested in action upon this matter, that if the subject is referred to the committee it shall receive very prompt and very careful consideration; but I trust before the resolution passes it will be so amended as to apply to all the street-railway corporations in this district. There is no need of stigmatizing one at the expense of all. They are all equally guilty.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I am very thankful that the chairman of the District Committee has made that statement. It will give great relief to the downtrodden people here, to the overcrowded cars and the overworked horses of whatever railroad it may touch. The citizens of this District and others who sojourn here temporarily should not be required to act as conductors on street cars, particularly when these companies scarcely furnish standing room for the person who wishes to ride to do so and properly discharge his duties as conductor of the car.

The Senator from Kansas made a further suggestion to the Senate very properly, and I desire to have the resolution amended to include all the street railways. The reason I did not include the Washington and Georgetown road was because I discovered that they had been making an apparent obedience to that demand of the statute which required them to make annual reports. That company, it seems, have had respect enough to obey the letter of the law by making reports; whether every year or not I do not know, but they have made reports, and therefore I did not include them, but I most cheerfully do now, and will ask, as the Senator from Kansas has suggested, that the resolution be amended to include all the street-railway companies in the District of Columbia.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts has not yet been disposed of.

Mr. INGALLS. Let it be modified; and let it be read as modified.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands the Senator from Massachusetts to accept the modification proposed.

Mr. HOAR. When this is adopted that amendment would then come in by adding after "the Metropolitan Railway Company" the words "and all other street railways in the District of Columbia."

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts will be so modified.

Mr. INGALLS. Let it be read as modified, that we may understand it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the District of Columbia be directed to obtain from the proper officers of the Metropolitan Railway Company and all other street railways in the District of Columbia a sworn statement of the amount of their capital stock, the amount of their bonded and floating indebtedness, the amount of their gross and net earnings, the amount of their operating expenses, and the amount of dividends paid annually since June 13, 1878; also why the said railway companies have not made the annual report required by the act of 1864 incorporating said companies.

Mr. INGALLS. Strike out the year there, because they may not have been all incorporated in that year.

The CHIEF CLERK. As proposed to be modified it would read:

Also why said railway companies have not made their annual reports required by the law incorporating said companies; and have the power to send for persons and papers and administer oaths.

Mr. PLUMB. This is, I have no doubt, a very proper investigation, but my objection is that it does not go far enough. I am not specially caring about the inconvenience to which I in common with other persons are subjected by being obliged to stand up in the street cars, but there are many persons no doubt to whom that is a very serious inconvenience and one which ought to be remedied. But when we go into the question of the organization of these street-railway companies and their relations to the convenience of the public, I should like to have the District Committee consider whether or not we have the power, and whether we ought not to exercise it, to compel them to put down a rail which will leave the streets in a condition to be navigated by the ordinary wagon without danger to life or limb. I am told that there is in use in this country in some places and in all the capitals of Europe, or at any rate in a number of them, a rail, not inordinately expensive, for the use of street-railway cars which leaves the streets as navigable for all kinds of vehicles as if it was not there. The streets of Washington are exceptionally beautiful and splendid and new, with the exception of the places where they are cut up and disfigured and made impassable by means of the totally unnecessary incubus of a cumbersome rail for the use of street-railway cars. I think we might as well go into the whole thing. If there is a disposition to do something for Washington, to help it along, to make it more habitable and more beautiful, I can not conceive of anything which would more conduce to convenience than to require a perfect system of street-railway navigation. I would suggest, therefore, that the resolution lie over until to-morrow, in order that the whole subject may come up and the District Committee be fully instructed in the premises.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Kansas moves to postpone the consideration of the resolution until to-morrow.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Is that a debatable motion?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair thinks a motion to postpone is debatable.

Mr. PLUMB. I will withdraw the motion if the Senator desires to debate the question.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I do not remember whether under the new rules it is debatable or not.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair is informed that it is debatable.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I had forgotten how it was.

I merely rose to say that I hope the Committee on the District of Columbia when it is procuring this information will also try to find out why it is that one or more of these great corporations have resisted the payment of their taxes and assessments year after year for a good many years, and why it is that the commissioners of the District and their counsel can not compel these companies to pay their taxes as other people are obliged to do and most people I hope are glad to do.

I have been trying for three or four years in a private way so far as the body of the Senate Chamber is concerned, and as a Senator, to find out how that was and why it was; and at last I understand as to one of the railroad companies a judgment has been obtained for the back assessments and taxes for a very large sum. An appeal of course was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States.

I should be glad to have the committee find out why it is that the Attorney-General or somebody in a public tax case does not, as he may, get that case advanced so as to have it decided, and if decided against the company to have the tax paid. It is a reproach that these great corporations in this District have been able by one scheme and another to avail themselves of the money that the United States furnishes and the tax-payers of the District furnish to keep up the pavements alongside of their tracks, and to do a variety of things that they have refused to pay for, as well as other taxation, without these companies being compelled, in a summary way, as other tax-payers are, to come to time and pay their money, if they think the assessment is illegal to sue and get it back, instead of forcing the District and the United States to wait and wait and wait years of litigation.

Mr. INGALLS. Mr. President, while the Senator from Vermont was absent from his seat I alluded to the fact that the companies had been delinquent in the payment of their taxes. I suppose that they refuse to pay taxes from a natural feeling of reluctance to contribute the quota of their estate for public purposes, which applies not only to corporations but to individuals as well.

Mr. EDMUNDS. They are not delinquent in paying dividends.

Mr. INGALLS. The Senator from Vermont with his usual asperity suggests that they are not delinquent in paying dividends, which of course is an observation that needs no comment at this time; but if the Senator from Vermont will advise me what the Committee on the District of Columbia has to do with the refusal of these corporations to pay their taxes when the whole matter is pending before the courts I shall be very much enlightened. These corporations are creatures of law, like individuals, and when they refuse to pay their taxes the proper authorities proceed against them before the judicial tribunals of the District. These proceedings have been commenced and carried forward to a certain state by which judgment has been rendered for very large amounts. The corporations, as they had a right to do, I suppose, under the law, have taken an appeal for the purpose of having this decision reviewed; and I am unwilling that the Committee on the District of Columbia should be held up as an object either of public indignation or public censure because they have been unable to take the courts of justice by the throat and compel them to advance more rapidly the trial of these causes, and I respectfully submit to the Senator from Vermont that his intimation that in some way or other the Committee on the District of Columbia by their inactivity or by their failure to exert their appropriate functions have in any way whatever contributed to the delay of justice, which we all admit has occurred in these cases, is entirely uncalled for.

I can assure the Senator from Vermont that I am as anxious as any one can be to compel these corporations to contribute their share to the public burdens of the District; and if we can be advised in what way we as the organ of this body can compel the courts of justice before whom these proceedings are pending to advance these cases and compel the enforcement of these judgments, I shall be very glad to co-operate with him to that end.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President, I am sure my friend from Kansas misunderstood me if he supposed that I had made any intimation injurious to the Committee on the District of Columbia. I certainly intended no such intimation at all. I was speaking in order to call the attention of that committee, when this resolution goes to them, to the whole subject, to see if they can not devise some way, first, of getting information about all these things, which, certainly, if we give them authority, they will undertake to do and will do gladly; and secondly (which I had not thought of when I was up before, but which the remarks of the Senator from Kansas bring to my mind), to see if they can not report a bill which will put the tax-paying duty of this company on the some footing with that of everybody else, so that if they fail to pay their taxes at the time they are due the proper executive officer of this District shall have a warrant from some other proper officer which will seize their property, their horses and cars and franchises and everything else, and sell them for taxes and deliver them to the purchaser then and there; and then if they think the taxes are illegal, having paid them, they can sue the Government to recover them back, as everybody else does.

Mr. PLUMB. I renew my motion to postpone the consideration of the resolution until to-morrow

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Kansas moves that the further consideration of the resolution be postponed until to-morrow.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. INGALLS. I ask that meanwhile the resolution may be printed as amended.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Kansas asks that an order be made to print the resolution as it stands amended. That order will be made if there be no objection.

PORTLAND, OREG., AND PORT TOWNSEND, WASH.

Mr. DOLPH. By direction of the Committee on Commerce I report the bill (S. 82) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," approved June 10, 1880, favorably and without amendment; and as it is a mere local matter, to place Portland, Oreg., and Port Townsend, Wash., in the list of ports of entry, through which the immediate transportation of dutiable goods under the act of June 10, 1880, can take place, and as a similar bill passed the Senate without question at the last session of Congress, and the same provision passed the House in connection with another bill for the amendment of the act referred to, which, however, was not reached in the Senate, I ask for the immediate consideration of this bill, supposing that it will pass without question.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oregon asks unanimous consent of the Senate to consider the bill reported by him at this time. It will be read for information.

The bill was read; and by unanimous consent the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider it.

It provides that the privileges of the first section of the act approved June 10, 1880, entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," shall be extended to the port of Portland, Oreg.; and that the privileges of the first and seventh sections of that act shall be extended to the port of Port Townsend, in Washington Territory.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

PORT OF OMAHA.

Mr. DOLPH. By direction of the Committee on Commerce I am instructed to report the bill (S. 141) to extend the provisions of the act of June 10, 1880, entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," to the port of Omaha, in the State of Nebraska, favorably, with an amendment.

The history of this bill is the same as the history of the one just passed. It passed the Senate in its present shape, substantially as now reported at least, and passed the House also in connection with the bill referred to by me just now. I am directed to ask the immediate consideration of the bill, the effect of which is to place Omaha in the list of the cities mentioned in the seventh section of the act of June 10, 1880.

By unanimous consent, the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The amendment reported by the Committee on Commerce was to add to the bill:

As provided for as to the ports mentioned in section 7 of said act.

So as to make the bill read:

That the privileges of immediate transportation of dutiable merchandise conferred by the act of June 10, 1880, entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," be, and the same are hereby, extended to the port of Omaha, in the State of Nebraska, as provided for as to the ports mentioned in section 7 of said act.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

ALLOWANCE OF PENSION CLAIMS.

Mr. VOORHEES. Before the holidays my colleague [Mr. HARRISON] introduced a resolution asking for an investigation touching some matters set forth in the report of the Commissioner of Pensions. I desire to offer a substitute therefor, which I ask may be read at the desk, ordered to be printed, and go over under the rules.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Indiana offers a substitute to a resolution submitted by his colleague. It will be printed, and go over under the rules. Does the Senator desire it read now?

Mr. VOORHEES. I will not ask for its reading.

Mr. ALLISON. I want to hear it.

Mr. VOORHEES. Let it be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Whereas the Commissioner of Pensions in his annual report dated November 18, 1885, has stated and alleged as follows: "At one time the Pension Bureau was all but avowedly a political machine," intending thereby that the Pension Bureau was methodically employed for partisan purposes; and has, in support of said allegation, stated in said report that the said Bureau was at such time, meaning a period prior to the 4th of March, 1885, "filled from border to border with uncompromising adherents of a single organization," meaning the Republican party, "who had for the claimants other tests than those of the law, and who often required in addition to service in the field" (that is to say, in the military or naval service of the United States), "that applicants for pension should submit to and support said party, as a consideration, in addition to the considerations required by law, before said pensions should issue;" and

Whereas said Commissioner has stated that such tests and requirements were applied surely, if not openly; and

Whereas said Commissioner has further stated in support of said allegation that the medical boards attached to said Pension Bureau, and a part thereof, were composed almost wholly of surgeons of one political faith, that is to say, the Republican; and

Whereas, in further support of said allegation, said Commissioner has stated that all of the eighteen pension agents were Republicans; and

Whereas, in further support of said allegation, said Commissioner has stated that the special examiners attached to and forming part of said bureau were actively engaged in partisan work in behalf of the Republican party; and

Whereas in further support of said allegation said Commissioner has stated that almost the entire force of said Pension Office, from messenger boys to chiefs of divisions, were members of the Republican party; and

Whereas in further support of said allegation said Commissioner of Pensions has stated that discharges from office were made in spite of long service at the demand of partisans of the Republican party outside of said Pension Bureau, and that the places of such employés were filled by partisans of said Republican party; and

Whereas in further support of said allegation said Commissioner has stated that leaves of absence were granted to the employés of said Pension Office to enable them to take active part in elections; and

Whereas in further support of said allegation said Commissioner has stated that large numbers of men and large sums of money were used by the said bureau during the pendency of political struggles preliminary to elections; and

Whereas in further support of said allegation said Commissioner has stated that it was declared and publicly proclaimed (meaning thereby that said declaration and proclamation were made by the employés, or some of them, of said bureau) "that the pension system of the United States depended for its continuance upon the success of the Republican party, and that the same would cease if the Democratic party succeeded to power;" Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Committee on Expenditures of Public Money is hereby directed to inquire into the truth of said allegations and of each specification thereunder, and to report the facts and testimony presented before them to the Senate.

Said committee is authorized to send for persons and papers, and to employ a stenographer, and is hereby directed to advance the witness fees and the expenses incident upon such investigation from the contingent fund of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be printed and lie over under the rules.

Mr. LOGAN. I should like to ask the Senator a question before that is done. As I understand, this resolution is proposed as a substitute for a resolution offered a few days ago. Do I understand it correctly as being the intention to confine the examination to the specific statements in the resolution?

Mr. VOORHEES. It was the intention to very much enlarge the scope of the investigation as it appeared to be contemplated by the resolution of my colleague. It is not intended to so confine the investigation to any alleged point as to exclude anything else on that subject.

Mr. LOGAN. I certainly can have no ill feelings toward the Commissioner of Pensions, for I have a high respect for him; but inasmuch as he complains that Republicans were retained in office, I should like to have the inquiry enlarged a little. Col. Ferdinand D. Stephenson—I will give his name—who was a gallant soldier, shot through the body four times, was at the head of one of the divisions in the Pension Office, with never a charge or an allegation against him. He was there twelve or fourteen years; but he has been removed summarily, without any charges whatever. In order that things of that kind may be examined, as well as others, I propose an additional amendment to the resolution of the Senator from Indiana.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The proposed amendment will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, further, That said committee be also directed to inquire into the manner in which the Pension Office has been conducted and administered by the present Commissioner of Pensions, and to report the facts to the Senate.

Mr. VOORHEES. I have no objection to that, but I will further state that so far as discharging soldiers is concerned we can make a showing that will be satisfactory to any unprejudiced and impartial soldier's mind. I do not mean to say that the Senator himself is prejudiced on the subject, and yet if I did say it I should only attribute to him what is common to human nature. We sometimes, Mr. President, deceive ourselves very much in supposing that we can get into a sentimental mood that relieves us from the failings and infirmities of human nature. We do not. I mean to say, however, that neither General Black nor his friends will shrink from any investigation as to the removal of Mr. Stephenson or anybody else; and if we do not show that he has taken as good care and better of the soldier element, irrespective of party, than his predecessors in office, he will stand condemnation before the public. I think very likely it will be found that General Black has appreciated the fact that there were some soldiers of the Democratic party in the late war and that there are some men now who bear the scars of bullets who vote the Democratic ticket, and that he has thought they had some merits to be recognized in appointments to office.

Mr. LOGAN. Mr. President, the remarks of the Senator will call from me a very short reply. I am as far from making accusations against General Black as the Senator from Indiana; but in reply to what he says about some Democratic soldiers, let me state to the Senator from Indiana that I have never heard of any one claiming that all the soldiers were Republicans. No one claims that. I will say further to the Senator that the distinction has never heretofore been made, so far as I have known, in any of these Departments as to the political complexion of the clerk, whether a Democrat or a Republican; and I will say now to the Senator from Indiana that there are many Democratic soldiers in these Departments to-day who have been there for a number of years, placed there on my recommendation.

I only give the case I have named as one, and I do not wish to go further into it; but when bills are introduced here to make it a penalty for a Senator or Representative in Congress to ask for the appointment of a clerk, bills coming from Democratic authority, why should we not want to know if Senators or Representatives who ask that clerks shall be dismissed should not be subject to some penalty?

I do not accuse General Black of any wrong. Let the committee examine into what has been done. But I understand the fact to be that a certain Representative representing the district in which Colonel Stephenson resided——

Mr. VOORHEES. What district is that?

Mr. LOGAN. A district in Southern Illinois just opposite where the Senator resides. I do not remember the name of this Democratic member. I am sorry I do not, for I ought to know it, because great men's names ought always to be remembered. On the demand of this Representative Colonel Stephenson was removed from the head of a division in the Pension Office. Why was this demand made? Because a soldier, who, perhaps, the Senator knows, was an independent Democratic candidate for Congress, his opponent, whose name I do not now remember, having been of the other stamp, and this man Stephenson concluded that it was his duty to support the soldier and he did so. On that account this man demanded his removal, and he was removed. I understand that these are the facts. I will not state that these are all the facts; but I understand that they are and that that was the cause of the removal.

I remember on reflection that the candidate against Mr. LANDES was James W. McCartney, who was a colonel in the Army, and he is denominated in the statement made by Mr. LANDES, in reference to his own candidacy, in the Congressional Directory as the "Republican, Independent Greenback, and Soldiers' candidate" in that district. I am willing that that should go, inasmuch as Mr. LANDES has himself made that statement in the Directory.

I have given the reason why I introduced this amendment so that such cases as that—I give that as one—may be inquired into, and it may be seen whether or not members of Congress are demanding the removal of wounded soldiers from the Departments, not for the benefit of a soldier, for a soldier was not put in the place in this case.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be printed and lie over.

Mr. HARRISON. I desire to say just a word. In introducing the original resolution, which was directed to a particular matter, I did not intend to express any opinion as to whether there were any other matters of allegation in the report of General Black that might not well be looked into. I selected the important and serious and central allegation of those which he has made against his predecessors in office, namely, the allegation that applicants for pension were required to prove before their pensions were granted that they belonged to a particular party, intending, of course, the Republican party.

I had the impression that that was a very great scandal in office or a very great slander, one or the other, and that it was important that this body and the country should distinctly identify it as one or the other. I felt also that if General Black made good that allegation he had made good almost anything else he could say or had said against the Pension Office; that if he could not make it good and it was shown to be untrue we should from one know all, and that by thus concentrating the inquiry we should be able to get a speedy and effective report that would bring the Commissioner down to the exact case in which this thing was said to have occurred.

But, Mr. President, if there is any other Senator here or any friend of General Black's anywhere who feels that it is appropriate that other allegations in his report should be verified and supported by evidence, I desire to express my entire willingness that he shall make the inquiry as broad as he or any friend of his desires it to be made, and my entire willingness that the amendment of the Senator from Illinois shall be adopted, so that we shall make the circle of this inquiry wider and embrace all these matters that have been said by General Black in his report and the further matter to which the Senator from Illinois has called our attention.

The only point I desire to look into now, I say to my colleague, is, as his resolution is proposed as a substitute for my own, to see whether it embraces the matter contained in mine with sufficient distinctness, and whether the recitals which his contains are correct, as I have no doubt he intended them to be and understands them to be a correct recital of the statements in General Black's report. If that be true I shall at once consent to the adoption of the substitute in the place of my original resolution.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, I had so understood my colleague when I very frankly showed him the substitute a few days ago, and I have offered it now and asked that it be read and go over under the rule, so that the verification of these quotations can be made with the report; and when the original resolution offered by my colleague and this which I offer as a substitute, as well as the amendment offered by the Senator from Illinois, shall come up, then we can see whether they correspond with the original report.

There is much I might say which I will not now utter on the general theme touched upon by the Senator from Illinois. There may come a time, and doubtless will, when discussion will arise upon it, and then I trust to be able to treat the subject with entire frankness and candor. I think we do not want to cover up anything in the administration of this Government, and especially upon so delicate and sacred a branch of the public service as that to which these proceedings relate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The proposed amendment will be printed.

INTERNATIONAL RATIO OF METALLIC COINAGE.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Finance, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate:

I transmit herewith, in response to a resolution of the Senate of the 9th ultimo, a report of the Secretary of State in answer to the request for any documents or information received from our consul-general at Paris or from the special agent sent to the financial centers of Europe in respect to the establishment of an international ratio of gold and silver coinage as would procure the free coinage of both metals at the mints of those countries and our own.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington, January 7, 1886.

J. M. LOBBAN.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The next business in order is the consideration of the Calendar under the eighth rule. The first bill on the Calendar will now be stated.

The bill (S. 416) for the relief of J. M. Lobban was announced as first in order, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider it. It proposes to instruct the Secretary of War to direct Maj. G. B. Dandy, quartermaster, United States Army, to issue duplicate check numbered 20, for $4,608.50, dated April 26, 1884, in favor of J. M. Lobban, on the Stock-Growers' National Bank, Cheyenne, Wyo., in place of one lost on or about May 3, 1884, if the Secretary of War be satisfied the same has not been paid. Lobban is to first execute a bond, with sureties to be approved by the Secretary of War, in due form, to save the United States harmless against any loss or injury by reason of such duplicate check or the payment of the original.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

S. B. CRANSTON.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 68) for the relief of S. B. Cranston, of Oregon; which was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It provides for the payment to S. B. Cranston, of Oregon, of $40, on account of traveling and contingent expenses by him incurred in taking depositions in Oregon in the land case of William Bauermeister, as instructed by the Commissioner of the General Land Office in 1877.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REIMBURSEMENT OF STATES.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 59) to reimburse the several States for interest paid on war loans, and for other purposes.

Mr. ALLISON. I object to the consideration of that bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill, being objected to, goes over under the rule.

COUNTING OF ELECTORAL VOTES.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 9) to fix the day for the meeting of the electors of President and Vice-President, and to provide for and regulate the counting of the votes for President and Vice President, and the decision of questions arising thereon.

Mr. HALE. Let that go over.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill, being objected to, goes over under the rule.

SYSTEM OF BANKRUPTCY.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 714) to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States.

Mr. HARRIS. Let that go over, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill, being objected to, goes over under the rule.

COIN DUTIES ON IMPORTED GOODS.

The next business on the Calendar was the resolution submitted by Mr. BECK December 18, 1885, relative to the payment of customs dues and the disbursements thereof, &c.

Mr. HARRIS. Let that go over.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The resolution will be passed over under the rule.

ALLOWANCE OF PENSION CLAIMS.

The next business on the Calendar was the resolution submitted by Mr. HARRISON December 21, 1885, relative to certain statements made in the last annual report of the Commissioner of Pensions.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That has already been postponed under the order of the Senate.

AID OF COMMON SCHOOLS.

The next business on the Calendar was the bill (S. 194) to aid in the establishment and temporary support of common schools.

Mr. BLAIR. That bill should go over; but I wish at this time to give notice that I desire to press it for hearing as soon as gentlemen interested in the debate are ready to go on. I understand several gentlemen desire to speak. I hope that we shall be able to reach the bill and dispose of it in the course of two weeks.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will go over under the rule.

ALEXANDER SWIFT & CO. AND OTHERS.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 208) for the relief of Alexander Swift & Co., partners, and Alexander Swift and Co. and the Niles Works, which was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It authorizes and directs the Court of Claims to grant a rehearing in the cases of Alexander Swift & Co., and Alexander Swift & Co. and the Nile Works, against the United States, with jurisdiction to hear and determine the increased cost of the construction of the steam iron-clad batteries Klamath, Yuma, Catawba, and Oneota, and which increased cost was caused by delays occasioned in such construction by the acts of the Government, its officers or agents, beyond the periods specified in the contracts for the construction and completion of the steam iron-clad batteries named. The court is to give judgment for such increased cost, if any, as shall be established by the evidence. In the trial both parties may give in evidence any pertinent and relevant testimony and documents which have heretofore been taken and filed in the court in actions heretofore prosecuted therein upon these respective claims, and also any other competent and relevant testimony which either party may present to the court. The actions are to be prosecuted in separate suits, one in favor of Alexander Swift & Co., and the other in favor of Alexander Swift & Co. and the Niles Works. The increased cost so found to be equitably due shall be recoverable, any discharge, receipts, or acquittances by either of the parties, or any statutes of limitation, to the contrary notwithstanding. The recovery, if any, is to be limited to the increased cost which shall be shown to have resulted from delays caused by the Government, or its officers and agents, in fulfilling the original contracts for the construction of the batteries.

Mr. HOAR. This bill first passed the Senate once, and is one of three or four similar bills which have been very fully discussed in the Senate once or twice and after discussion passed, I think without any objection. The Senator from Missouri will remember the Chouteau case, which is one of the class of cases. I will make a brief statement of the case, and then if any Senators think the report needs to be read we can have it read, but I think my statement will answer the purpose.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I desire to inquire of the Senator from Massachusetts whether I understood the reading of the bill correctly, that it not only authorizes but directs the Court of Claims to hear the case again?

Mr. HOAR. Yes, sir.

Mr. SAULSBURY. Is it customary after authorizing a hearing for Congress to direct any court to rehear a claim and give it a second consideration?

Mr. HOAR. It is the same thing in result in this case.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I prefer that that word "directed" be stricken out of the bill.

Mr. HOAR. I think the law-making power should direct a rehearing. I think it is a case where under the peculiar circumstances the word "directed" is legitimate.

Mr. SAULSBURY. The court have heard the claim, and are competent to decide, I presume, whether the claim is one which ought to be reargued and reheard by the court. I am perfectly willing to give them the absolute authority to allow a rehearing, but it is as I think without precedent to direct a court to do such a thing.

Mr. HOAR. I think my friend from Delaware hardly understands the way in which this matter stands before the Senate.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill is still open to objection.

Mr. HOAR. The bill has been read, and I said that I would make a brief statement of the case so that the Senate might see what it was, and then the report could be read if any Senator desired to hear it.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I know nothing about the merits of the case, but——

Mr. HOAR. My friend will pardon me. He would hardly think it worth while before that statement was made to interrupt it to make a criticism of the particular remedy which the committee had agreed upon, because it would be putting the criticism before the statement of the case.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I desire to say to the Senator from Massachusetts that I know nothing personally about the merits of this case, and I am not objecting to the bill on the ground of any want of merit. All I object to is that we are giving a mandatory decree to the court that has heard the claim once to reopen the case and permit the parties to go before them; and I notice another provision, that we attempt to fix the evidence or part of the evidence which shall be reviewed in the case. I am perfectly willing to grant the court full authority to open the case and take it up and give it a proper rehearing; but to issue a mandatory order to the court to rehear the case I can not agree to.

Mr. HOAR. Has my friend from Delaware read the report?

Mr. SAULSBURY. I have not.

Mr. HOAR. Has he heard my statement of the case?

Mr. SAULSBURY. I have not heard anything about it, only the bill itself.

Mr. HOAR. Perhaps, after hearing the case stated he will see that there is some propriety in the method which the committee have recommended. I hope so, and I think it will commend itself to his judgment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. This bill is now before the Senate as in Committee of the Whole and open to amendment. It is being considered under the eighth rule, which limits debate to five minutes by each Senator.

Mr. COCKRELL. Now I should like to hear the explanation of the Senator from Massachusetts. I understand the report has not yet come in from the Public Printer. I have sent for it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is now on the table.

Mr. COCKRELL. The Senator can explain it more briefly than the report does, I have no doubt.

Mr. HOAR. It is precisely like, with one single exception, the case of Chouteau, which the Senator from Missouri was very familiar with when he was upon the Committee on Claims.

Early in the war, I think shortly after the construction of the Monitor, at any rate about that time, the Government of the United States made contracts with four or five different persons to build what they called iron-clad batteries, which were iron-clad vessels, floating batteries, according to a plan and construction indicated in the contracts and specifications and drawings which accompanied them. They stipulated in the contracts that the United States might during the progress of the work make any change they saw fit in the design and plan of construction of these iron-clad vessels, allowing the parties the cost of the extra work, and further that if the parties failed to carry out the contract the United States might take possession of their works, factories, materials, and incomplete vessels, and proceed to finish them itself.

Thereupon the inventions which were made so rapidly during the war in armored vessels and ships of war were going on, and the United States made enormous changes in all these vessels, so that instead of being completed within the space of ten or twelve months—I have forgotten the exact time stipulated, but it was a brief space—it took the contractors two or three years to complete them. It was very much as if a man who should stipulate to build a dwelling-house for a country farm had in his contract a provision that at the election of the other party that might be converted into the Capitol at Washington or into the Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York. That was the nature of the contract, and as I said that was pretty much the nature of its execution.

When the parties came to bring in their bills they brought in their bills for the work which they had done and the extra expense which had been caused by these changes—the additional price of the changes, in other words. The United States paid that; and at the time of the payment a receipt was given by the agent of the contractor—in one case a New York banker who had been designated to receive the payment. The receipt was given so-and-so to the United States for building the vessel and for extras. The contractor in each case, however, claimed that he was entitled to recover for the loss in so much of the contract as related to the original scheme of the vessel, for the reason that by the detention for two or three years the cost of iron and the cost of labor had largely increased, I think in the case of iron it had doubled or trebled. The officer of the United States said, "Why, this receipt does not cut you off from that claim. It is the intention of the Government to pay you hereafter. It is only an acknowledgment of the receipt of the contract price and the price of the extras." Thereupon the money was paid and the receipt signed, it being a receipt in the usual form prescribed by the Department.

Then the Government appointed a commission, of which Mr. Cragin, late Senator from New Hampshire, was a member, with two or three other persons of high standing, and they reported what was due to these various contractors by reason of the increased price of iron and of labor, and the Secretary of the Navy recommended payment; but there was no authority in the Department to pay it. Thereupon the parties went to the Court of Claims, and the Court of Claims found all the facts just as I have stated them, and in one case I think the matter went to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the Supreme Court of the United States found that these receipts operated as a receipt in full upon the whole claim. They found all the other facts, that the contractor had not been paid, that he ought to be paid, that he was entitled to be paid under the contract, and that both the Government agent and the party's agent understood the receipts as not cutting off this demand. Both the Court of Claims and the Supreme Court of the United States in one of the cases cited in the report expressed very strongly their sense of the justice of the claim, but the latter said that the technical effect of the receipt prevented judgment. Thereupon the parties came to Congress, and two of the claims have been paid, and on the statement made this bill passed the Senate heretofore unanimously, if I am not mistaken in my recollection. Perhaps the Senator from Missouri can correct me.

Mr. COCKRELL. That is so.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is the duty of the Chair to remind the Senator from Massachusetts that his five minutes have expired.

Mr. HOAR. I ask unanimous consent to be allowed to complete the statement.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection the time will be extended.

Mr. HOAR. Now this bill directs the Court of Claims to rehear that case. Instead of the committee finding the amount due and directing its payment, which would be what we should be asked to do ordinarily, we thought it best to avail ourselves of our right to require by legislation the Court of Claims to hear the case.

I do not think my friend from Delaware will admit that he ought under the circumstances to leave any discretion about it. It is a matter unquestionably due from the Government, as the Government officers agree, as well as the Navy Department and the courts. It might very plausibly be urged that we ought to pass a law to pay this money; but instead of doing that, although we recognize the claim, we say it is better to have the Court of Claims hear the case over again, in order that there may be a careful scrutiny of the amount due on this account that can not be made in the ex parte way matters are conducted before a committee.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I desire to say that I shall not vote for the bill. It may have all the merit and all the equity that is claimed for it by the Senator from Massachusetts, but I do not believe it is a wise precedent to establish to direct a court to hear a case—after giving them authority to do so to direct them to do so. That is the point on which I shall vote against the bill, because it makes a mandatory order on the court to take up and hear a particular case, which may become a precedent hereafter to compel the court to hear claims that have no special merit in them. For that reason I shall vote against the bill.

Mr. HOAR. If I may be permitted to say one word, that is what we do in every case that is sent to the Court of Claims under the Bowman act. Not only the Senate or the House of Representatives, but any committee of either branch has under the Bowman act now the authority to give a peremptory order to the Court of Claims to hear a case.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

SALLIE JARRATT.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 16) for the relief of Sallie Jarratt, executrix of Gregory Jarratt, deceased; which was considered as in Committee of the Whole.

The bill was reported from the Committee on Claims with an amendment, in line 7, after the word "of," to strike out "five thousand two hundred and eight" and insert "three thousand four hundred and seventy-eight;" so as to make the bill read:

Be it enacted, &c., That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to pay to Sallie Jarratt, executrix of Gregory Jarratt, deceased, late of Hardeman County, Tennessee, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $3,478, in full compensation for supplies furnished to the Union Army by the said Gregory Jarratt, deceased, in the said county, in 1862 and 1863.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendment was concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

EMERSON ETHERIDGE AND WILLIAM B. STOKES.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 506) for the relief of Emerson Etheridge and William B. Stokes, which was considered as in Committee of the Whole. It proposes to release Emerson Etheridge and William B. Stokes, sureties upon the official bond of James T. T. Carter, given as security for the faithful performance by Carter of his duties as secretary of the Territory of Arizona, and dated June 13, 1866, from all and every obligation and liability whatsoever on account of the bond or any breach thereof.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I should like to hear the report read in that case.

Mr. MORRILL. I merely desire to know why these persons ought to be released.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The report is not in possession of the Senate at the present time. It has gone to the printer.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Then let the bill go over.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will lie over under the rule.

Mr. JACKSON. I ask that it lie over without losing its place on the Calendar.

Mr. DOLPH. I rose to ask that.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Vermont object to that?

Mr. EDMUNDS. No; it will be open to objection to-morrow. I make no objection. We ought to have the report before the matter is disposed of.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will lie over without being displaced.

Mr. HOAR. I suggest that all those cases where the printed reports have not come in be treated as maintaining their place and be passed over without prejudice.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. All the other reports, the Chair is advised, are here.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF NEWTON, MASS.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 7) making appropriation for the relief of the First National Bank of Newton, Mass.

Mr. EDMUNDS. That will take time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair understands that objection is made, and the bill goes over.

MARTIN AND P. B. MURPHY.

The next bill on the Calendar was the bill (S. 22) for the relief of Martin and P. B. Murphy; and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration. It directs the Secretary of the Treasury to pay to Martin and P. B. Murphy $10,000, in full payment and satisfaction for the site of the light-house on Point Concepcion, on the Pacific coast, conveyed to the United States by Martin and P. B. Murphy by deed dated April 18, 1881, the sum to be paid out of unexpended balances of appropriations made for the support of the Light-House Board and light-houses for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1881 and 1882.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Let the report be read, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report from the Committee on Claims, submitted by Mr. JONES, of Arkansas, January 6, 1886:

This claim was before the Senate during the last Congress, and the Committee on Claims at the first session of said Congress reported upon it favorably, and this committee believe that they can not present the facts involved therein better than by adopting the statement of that committee, as follows:

"The facts involved in the claim are fully stated in the following extracts from a letter addressed by the Light-House Board to the Secretary of the Treasury in response to a letter of inquiry from this committee:

"'On the 18th April, 1881, Martin and P. B. Murphy deeded to the United States, for $10,000, certain lands, with improvements, at Point Concepcion, Santa Barbara County, California, together with the right of way of landing. The deed is recorded in the registry of deeds at Santa Barbara in book W, pages 538 to 541, inclusive.

"'Owing to the frauds committed by John T. Best, clerk to the engineer of the twelfth light-house district, of which the board first learned on January 21, 1881, neither the $10,000 named in the deed nor any other compensation whatever was paid for the site to the Messrs. Murphy or any persons for them.

"'At the time of the commission of the frauds in question the Point Concepcion light-house sight was in the possession of the Government and has so remained ever since.

"'It does not appear that any check or draft or that any money was ever sent by any officer of the Government to the Messrs. Murphy in payment of the land in question. The money was sent to the engineer of the twelfth light-house district and was embezzled by his clerk. For this and other similar frauds he was tried and sentenced to serve a long term in the California penitentiary, and is now there serving out the sentence.'

"Under date of February 21, 1883, the Secretary of the Treasury, in a letter to the Speaker of the House (Ex. Doc. 87, Forty-seventh Congress, second session), submitted a list of claims against the United States arising from the embezzlements of John T. Best, late clerk to the engineer of the twelfth light-house district. The claim of Martin and P. B. Murphy was included in this list, and an appropriation for its payment was recommended.

"As appears from the report of the Light-House Board, the Government has possession of the land owned by the Murphys, while the owners have never received any compensation for it. The owners were not in any way responsible for the loss of the money appropriated for their payment."

The report of that committee was adopted and the bill passed the Senate, but it was not acted on in the House.

Your committee report the bill back and recommend that it pass.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The only criticism I have to make on that report is that it seems to me a case where interest ought to be allowed, and I believe the bill does not provide for it. Although we do not usually pay interest, if we have bought property of a gentleman and agreed to pay for it at a certain time and our clerks embezzle the money and the man does not get his pay, it seems to me it is a case where the only fault about the transaction is clearly that of the United States, and this land owner in justice ought to have interest on his money.

Mr. HARRIS. That is the exact fact. The check was embezzled and the owners of the land have never received a cent. The Secretary of the Treasury some two years ago or more recommended the payment, but it has never been made. The Senate passed the bill at the last Congress.

Mr. EDMUNDS. It is a case evidently where, without any dispute or other question, a citizen of the United States has sold to the Government a piece of land for a certain price to be paid at a certain time. The Treasury sent the money and the officer of the Government embezzled it and the man did not get his pay. It seems to me that that would take the case clearly out of every rule about not paying interest. I do not wish to interfere with the committee, but I should vote cheerfully in such a case to pay interest as well as principal.

Mr. JONES, of Arkansas. Mr. President, I would remark to the Senator from Vermont that as a subcommittee of the Committee on Claims this bill was referred to me, and I reported in favor of the bill, which only asked for $10,000, the original principal, without interest.

Mr. HARRIS. I introduced this bill at the instance of these claimants, and I omitted to ask for interest in deference to that rule which almost always, if not universally, prevails here that the Government does not pay interest upon claims of a private character. There is obvious justice in the interest being allowed, but I doubt very much whether it would be allowed at another place not very remote from this, and I believe I shall not attempt to amend the bill so as to provide for the interest.

Mr. CONGER. I should like to inquire of some member of the committee whether the $10,000 received by the engineer has been accounted for by the engineer.

Mr. JONES, of Arkansas. His clerk, the party to whom the money was sent, embezzled the money, as was afterward ascertained by Government officers. The clerk embezzling the money was prosecuted for his embezzlement, and is now serving a long term in the California penitentiary as the result of it.

Mr. CONGER. I suppose, notwithstanding that, the officer to whom the money was sent would be held responsible in the settlement of his accounts?

Mr. JONES, of Arkansas. It did not occur to me that the investigation of that fact affected the justice or injustice of this bill, and I did not inquire into that.

Mr. CONGER. On a bill for the relief of the officer who would be responsible for the money these facts would be very appropriate. I have no doubt the relief should be given to these parties, but between the Government and the officer who is chargeable with the money, that is a question for Congress hereafter.

Mr. HARRIS. I would say to the Senator from Michigan that an executive document referred to in the report gives the history of the transaction by the Treasury Department. As to whether or not any steps have been taken to make the engineer responsible, or require him to refund the money embezzled by his clerk, I do not know whether that document shows or not; but certainly that question is not pertinent, as it would seem to me, to the one pending here. The Treasury sent to its own agent moneys to be paid to these claimants. The moneys were embezzled by the clerk of the engineer—never reached their destination. The men who deeded their lands to the Government have never received a cent. The failure was on the part of the Government and not on the part of the vendors of this land, these claimants, and I do not think the question whether the engineer is liable or not, or, if liable, whether he has been compelled to refund or not, can have any earthly connection with the question pending in respect to this bill.

Mr. CONGER. It has this connection with it: If the engineer is chargeable with that money he must pay it either to these claimants or back to the Government unless relieved from responsibility by action of law.

Mr. HARRIS. These claimants have nothing to do with the engineer. They look to the Government. The Government promised to pay them.

Mr. JONES, of Arkansas. The Government sent the money to the engineer as the Government agent, and these parties had no connection whatever with the money in the hands of the agent.

Mr. CONGER. No; but if there is money in the hands of the agent to pay this, we are appropriating it again when there is money in the hands of the engineer to pay it, or else he is indebted for that money, and his bondsmen are responsible for it.

Mr. HARRIS. I suggest to the Senator that this bill does not contain an appropriation from the moneys of the Treasury, but it provides for payment from unexpended balances heretofore appropriated to the Light-House Board.

Mr. CONGER. Withdraws that amount of money from the uses in the different places where Congress has authorized appropriations to be used without the direct action of Congress for the small light-houses all over the country. There had better be a direct appropriation.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Pending the bill it is the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business, the hour of 2 o'clock having arrived.

Mr. HOAR. I move that the Senate proceed with the consideration of the bill.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I hope that will not be done. I have no objection to laying aside the unfinished business informally for five minutes; but I asked the Senate yesterday, and I ask it again now, to sit till it finished the Utah bill to-day, and we ought not to take up much time with other matters. I do not object to its being laid aside informally.

Mr. HARRIS. I think this bill can be disposed of in two minutes.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Very well.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection the bill under consideration at 2 o'clock will be considered as still before the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, and still open to amendment.

Mr. HOAR. I suggest a clerical amendment in the fourth line, that "Martin and P. B. Murphy" be amended so as to read "Martin Murphy and P. B. Murphy."

Mr. HARRIS. That amendment will improve the bill, and I hope it will be made.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HOAR. I move also the same amendment in the eighth line.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HOAR. I think I will venture to move, in consideration of the entire acquiescence of the whole Senate in the suggestion of the Senator from Vermont, to add, after the words "ten thousand dollars," in line 5, the words "with interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum from the 18th day of April, 1881." I think there will be no objection to that.

Mr. HARRIS. I hope not.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment of the Senator from Massachusetts will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. After the word "dollars," in line 5, it is proposed to insert:

With interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum from the 18th of April, 1881.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

Mr. HARRIS. The title should be amended so as to conform to the body of the bill.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill for the relief of Martin Murphy and P. B. Murphy."

COIN DUTIES ON IMPORTED GOODS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The unfinished business——

Mr. BROWN. Mr. President, I gave notice yesterday that at this hour I would move to take up the resolution introduced by the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BECK], as I desired to submit some remarks upon the questions embraced in that resolution; but as the Senator from Vermont [Mr. EDMUNDS] desires to proceed at this hour with the Mormon bill and has properly the right of way, I simply desire now to state that I shall not ask to be heard at this hour, but will ask to be heard on the resolution referred to on Tuesday next at 2 o'clock.

REFERENCE OF A BILL.

Mr. TELLER. I ask to have joint resolution (S. R. 2) directing the cancellation of the one and two dollar United States notes, which was laid on the table at my request, referred to the Committee on Finance.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The motion to refer the joint resolution to the Committee on Finance will be entertained if there be no objection.

The motion was agreed to.

POLYGAMY AND AFFAIRS IN UTAH.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is the duty of the Chair to lay before the Senate the unfinished business.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 10) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882, the pending question being on the amendment of Mr. MORGAN to strike out all of section 12 after the word "annulled," in line 7, and insert the following:

And the property of said corporation, of every kind, shall be disposed of according to the rules and principles of the common law as in case of the dissolution of a coporation.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, the several amendments which I have proposed to sections 12 and 13 depend upon each other somewhat; that is, if the first amendment I propose is adopted it makes the others necessary; and perhaps in some cases the subsequent amendments I propose are necessary whether the first one be adopted or not.

I believe, Mr. President, that the Senator from Vermont and myself agree that the effect of section 12, as it appears in this bill, if enacted, would be to put the Government of the United States, through its trustees, in the attitude of operating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, continuing it in operation and effect as long at least as these trustees hold office, which is for two years. I do not know what may be the purpose of the framer of the bill beyond the two years, whether it is the intention to continue this church in organization and continue it in force under the control of the Government of the United States or not. I think, sir, that the necessary legal effect of the enactment of the twelfth section, as it appears in this bill, would be also to confirm and ratify those acts of the Territorial Legislature of the Territory of Utah which incorporated this Church of the Latter-day Saints, except so far as the amendment goes. In other words, the only effect of the amendment upon these Territorial laws is to furnish an opportunity to the United States Government to substitute trustees for the purpose of carrying into effect and completely executing all the purposes of those acts of incorporation.

If I have correctly stated the intent and effect of this section 12, I do not hesitate to express my entire opposition to it, although I concur in the purpose which I think is animating the supporters of this bill, to destroy entirely the act of incorporation of this so-called Mormon Church. The act of legal incorporation of this Mormon Church is the one act from which it has derived its power to do mischief in that Territory. The doctrines of the Mormon Church to the extent that they include polygamy, and the doctrines of that church as based upon a supposed revelation to Smith and others, in my judgment would never have found the support even of the most ignorant and superstitious class of the people who have assembled in that Territory but for the assistance which has been given in the nature of legislation in putting many and other very high powers in the control of that institution. I believe that if ten or twenty years ago we had exercised the unquestioned power residing in Congress of repealing that church charter out and out, disbanding its organization, and scattering its property into the hands of whoever it might properly belong to, we should by this time have arrested entirely the evil of polygamy in Utah; for it must be remembered that it is a fact that that evil has the support, even among Mormon communities, only of a small minority of those people at this time.

It has been dying out in the presence of the milliners, the mantuamakers, and the persons who promulgate fashions and those who inculcate luxurious living and decent living, and in the presence of the Protestant churches, all of whom are represented in that community by large congregations and by a very considerable amount of wealth. It has been dying out in public sentiment and public esteem, and would long before this have lost its temporal influence entirely and its spiritual influence, if it ever had any, but for the fact that it has been kept in organization by this act of the Territorial Legislature of Utah.

The church as a legal incorporation, with its board of trustees, and outside of that its president and its twelve apostles and its numerous bishops and its missionaries and its tithing power and its co-operative store and its Emigrant Aid Association (which is also an incorporation under the church), has been enabled to assemble upon the virgin soil of that Territory a large number of indigent people, most of whom are industrious, thrifty, and economical people, who under other auspices and under different circumstances would have made a most excellent community. Indeed, sir, it must be said in their behalf that the evil influences of this polygamous organization have had so little effect upon their industries, upon their social and apparent moral condition, upon their schools, and upon their general public demeanor, that the Gentiles who go there for the purpose of looking into those institutions are almost uniformly astonished that such doctrines and such practices could be associated with that degree of civilization and progress that those people have made. The exertion of the power of that community in honest and legitimate industrial pursuits has been such that they have almost lived down the shame of the polygamous institution which effaces and in the mind of the world condemns almost every phase of their social organization. Their material prosperity is almost a plea in favor of polygamy when we come to witness the effects of their industry in opening up and in beautifying that country and in making it convenient for human habitation and prosperity.

But, sir, this legal organization, this act of incorporation, concentrates the whole power of that church in the hands really of its temporal authorities far more than of its spiritual authorities, for there is not a bishop or a priest or any other person connected with the Mormon religious government in the Territory of Utah who does not look to the legal power that he has got rather than to his spiritual influence in controlling public sentiment in that Territory and in fastening upon those people the hierarchy which exists there, and which is an absolute despotism within the bosom of that church, as it is called. I therefore feel that we ought to strike this corporation out of existence. I believe that that is the one potent influence we are to exert in this tribunal for the purpose of reforming, absolutely, root and branch, the whole of that Mormon community.

There is not a Senator on this floor, it makes no difference how he may regard this polygamous taint in the moral atmosphere of Utah, who desires to inflict any persecution or any wrong upon those people. Even this bill as framed by the honorable chairman of the Judiciary Committee, as he announced yesterday, contains what he supposes to be a merciful measure in reference to the future conduct of this church. In other words, realizing the necessity of striking down the legal corporation, the committee have reported a bill here merely to transfer its powers into the hands of trustees appointed by the Government, rather than to strike the blow at the root of the evil and exterminate it.

Now, sir, I am afraid to do this in the manner in which the committee have advised us to do it. I do not wish to make myself a party to the re-enactment in any form whatever, whether by ratification or otherwise, of that act incorporating the church in Utah. That act was planted in evil and ought never to have been passed, and it should not have been allowed to remain on that statute-book any longer than the Congress of the United States could have gotten hold of it to repeal it.

I do not aspire, Mr. President, to the honor of assisting in conducting the Church of the Latter-day Saints through a commission organized by the appointment of the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate. What are we to do with that commission after they get into possession? They are our officers and subject to our instruction. Shall we organize the Senate and House into a church board for the purpose of directing the affairs, either spiritual or temporal, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; or shall we strike it down, dissipate and destroy it, so that it shall never be resurrected or never again have power in any form whatever? I am in favor of striking it down.

Unless the Senate have taken the pains to look into this subject, I suppose they are not very well informed as to the powers and effect of this act of the Territorial Legislature of Utah upon this church. Now, assuming that section 12 of this bill ratifies all the powers that I shall read to this body, the question arises, is the Senate of the United States willing by its act to give these powers to that corporation and maintain the corporation in the use of them, even though we substitute new trustees to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate? The first section is:

That all that portion of the inhabitants of said State which now are, or hereafter may become, residents therein, and which are known and distinguished as "The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints," are hereby incorporated, constituted, made, and declared a body corporate, with perpetual succession, under the original name and style of "The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints," as now organized, with power and authority to sue and be sued; defend and be defended in all the courts of law or equity in this State; to establish, order, and regulate worship, and hold and occupy real and personal estate, and have and use a seal, which they may alter at pleasure.

We do not take away, but we confirm by section 12 of this bill the power "to establish, order, and regulate worship." Shall our fourteen trustees be engaged out there for the next two years in regulating the worship of this Mormon Church? That, sir, is a new function for the Congress of the United States to undertake, either directly or through a board of trustees. In my judgment, it is an inadmissible assumption of authority, for in regulating worship we must to some extent touch the question of establishing or disestablishing some religious tenet or sect. There is an encroachment, in my judgment, upon the spirit, if not upon the language, of the Constitution of the United States in respect of this very delicate subject.

Now section 2:

And be it further ordained, That said body or church, as a religious society, may, at a general or special conference, elect one "trustee in trust," and not to exceed twelve assistant trustees—

We do not strike out that portion of it in respect of the action of the trustees as a religious society, but we substitute trustees and confirm the authority given by this act, in which event we should have a religious society of fourteen trustees, who may "at a general or special conference elect," &c. What are their powers?—

to receive, hold, buy, sell, manage, use, and control the real and personal property of said church, which said property shall be free from taxation—

There is another very objectionable feature in this act that the Legislature of Utah, whether as a Territory or as a State, can not have power to tax the great domain that is alleged to belong to this Church of Latter-day Saints.

which trustee and assistant trustees, when elected or appointed, shall give bonds, with approved security, in whatever sum the said conference may deem sufficient, for the faithful performance of their several duties—

That would be a bond, of course, payable to the corporation, and under the act as it stands and is proposed to be amended by section 12 of this bill our trustees would have to give bond to that corporation—which said bonds, when approved, shall be filed in the general church recorder's office, at the seat of general church business, when said bonds are approved by said conference; and said trustee and assistant trustees shall continue in office during the pleasure of said church—

We continue them in office during two years—and there shall also be made, by the clerk of the conference of said church, a certificate of such election or appointment of said trustee and assistant trustees, which shall be recorded in the general church recorder's office, at the seat of general church business, and when said bonds are filed, and said certificates recorded, said trustee or assistant trustees may receive property, real or personal, by gift, donation, bequest, or in any manner, not incompatible with the principles of righteousness or the rules of justice—

Here, then, the Congress of the United States is to empower fourteen trustees who, under this act, are to receive "by gift, donation, or bequest, or in any manner not incompatible with the principles of righteousness or the rules of justice." Who ordains "the principles of righteousness?" This Mormon Church. It remains as a corporation with the power of determining whether a bequest shall be made to it according the "the principles of righteousness" as it ordains them—inasmuch as the same shall be used, managed, or disposed of for the benefit, improvement, erection of houses for public worship and instruction, and the well-being of said church.

Then these donations are to be applied by the trustees that we appoint "for the benefit, improvement, erection of houses for public worship and instruction, and the well-being of said church." That is to say, they are to become an association of propagandists of the Mormon Church, to build its houses of worship in different places, and its houses of instruction. That would seem to cover at least as much as any religious denomination could expect to find incorporated among the powers given to it in a legal sense in any act that any legislative tribunal could enact for its benefit.

Now we come to section 3, and the subject grows very rapidly. The power of this church, which is not touched by the bill, as I understand, except in the one particular which I have mentioned, is thus defined in section 3:

That, as said church holds the constitutional and original right, in common with all civil and religious communities, "to worship God according to the dictates of conscience;" to reverence communion agreeably to the principles of truth, and to solemnize marriage compatible with the revelations of Jesus Christ, for the security and full enjoyment of all blessings and privileges embodied in the religion of Jesus Christ free to all, it is also declared that said church does, and shall possess and enjoy continually, the power and authority, in and of itself, to originate, make, pass, and establish rules, regulations, ordinances, laws, customs, and criterions, for the good order, safety, government, conveniences, comfort, and control of said church, and for the punishment or forgiveness of all offenses, relative to fellowship, according to church covenants.

That is conferring by law upon this church some very broad powers, broader than can be found, I suppose, in any act of incorporation in any of the American States or Territories. No church has ever before gone to the sources of legal authority and power for the purpose of getting a delegation of power to control their congregations and their individual membership in the manner and in the matters referred to in this clause that I have just been calling attention to. It is scarcely necessary to enlarge by way of commentary to explain or alter what I have just read, for it shows that the purpose of this original act of incorporation was to lodge in the legal power of the church the right to punish for offenses against the church, the right to extend forgiveness for offenses against the church, the power to control and regulate the ordinances of the church, including marriage; and it is through this very power of the church in Utah, given to it by this act of the Legislature of that Territory, that these men have assumed the right to build a temple there, not for worship, but for the carrying on of the secret ordinances of marriage which they conduct under their institutions, under what they assume and assert they believe is righteousness and purity and morality.

The sealing of second and third and other wives, up to I believe sometimes as high as nineteen, occurs in the temple in secret; and the temple is built not for worship but for that purpose—the tabernacle there in which the people worship and the temple in which they execute the powers conferred by the third section of this act of the Territorial Legislature. There is the power giving legal sanction through the authority delegated to this corporation to these marriages and this sealing process by which a man is permitted to have as many wives as he can get to follow him.

Now I proceed further:

That the pursuit of bliss and the enjoyment of life in every capacity of public association and domestic happiness, temporal expansion, or spiritual increase upon the earth, may not legally be questioned: Provided, however, That each and every act, or practice so established, or adopted for law or custom, shall relate to solemnities, sacraments, ceremonies, consecrations, endowments, tithings, marriages, fellowship, or the religious duties of man to his Maker; inasmuch as the doctrines, principles, practices, or performances support virtue and increase morality, and are not inconsistent with or repugnant to the Constitution of the United States or of this State, and are founded in the revelations of the Lord.

I do not wish to reaffirm anything of that sort in an act of Congress; but when we amend that act in part and leave the rest to stand I can not understand how it is that we do not reaffirm it. We send forth this budget of trash, this presumptuous intrusion upon the true and beautiful spirit of the Christianity of our Saviour fortified by an act of Congress, and say to these commissioners that this corporation which we preserve had these powers in the original act of incorporation, and we not only have not interfered with them but we have substantially ratified and reaffirmed them, and we command you to carry them into execution. For there is the responsibility of these trustees, and to whom are they responsible? They are responsible to that corporation while it exists and while they are made members of it by an act of Congress for the literal fulfillment of and compliance with all the requirements of the act of the Legislature of the Territory of Utah.

Then they proceed in another section, section 4:

And be it further ordained, That said church shall keep, at every full organized branch or stake, a registry of marriages, births, and deaths, free for the inspection of all members, and for their benefit.

We do not change that here, so far as I know. Perhaps some provision of an existing statute does authorize us through our courts also to call for these marriage registries, which are held in secret, and to have them inspected and made public; but this is the feature of the law which preserves the secrecy of the marriage relation and prevents the Gentile from peering into the sacred secrets of the Mormon hierarchy, for it provides that this registry shall be free for the inspection of all members and for their benefit, but being free for the inspection of all members and for their benefit necessarily excludes the outer world from having any right to inspect it.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The bill provides for that in terms, you know.

Mr. MORGAN. In terms?

Mr. EDMUNDS. They are to be open to inspection.

Mr. MORGAN. I proceed further with the act:

SEC. 5. And be it further ordained, That the presidency of said church shall fill all vacancies of the assistant trustee necessary to be filled until superseded by the conference of said church.

That of course is stricken out by the pending bill.

Mr. EDMUNDS. No, not the assistant trustee; those are the Mormons. We do not touch them at all; we only put in a majority of people who are supposed to be for fair play.

Mr. MORGAN. I proceed still further with the act in question.

SEC. 6. Be it further ordained, That no assistant trustee or trustees shall transact business in relation to buying, selling, or otherwise disposing of church property without the consent or approval of the trustee in trust of said church.

I have not looked through these laws to see how far this act may have been amended by the Utah Legislature, but I think I have given the true substance and pith of the enactment, and that the Utah Legislature have not repealed any essential provision that I have read.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Not any at all.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to call the attention of the Senator from Alabama to the fact that the clause as to taxation was repealed by the statute of 1878.

Mr. MORGAN. The taxation clause has been repealed?

Mr. TELLER. Yes; the taxation clause has been repealed.

Mr. MORGAN. Will the Senator from Colorado be good enough to read that section?

Mr. TELLER. It is as follows:

SEC. 2. All property, real and personal, situate and being in this Territory, is taxable, except: 1, property owned by the United States; 2, bonds and other obligations of the United States; 3, property owned by this Territory, or by any county, city, and school district; 4, houses and other buildings and land occupied for public worship, owned by any religious denomination, so long as the same is used for public worship and no income is derived therefrom; but this subdivision does not include the residence of the minister, parson, or other person attendant upon such denomination.

Then all acts inconsistent with the act are repealed by this act of 1878.

Mr. EDMUNDS. That only repeals it, if it repeals it at all, so far as mere temporal property, estates that they have which do not belong to the church.

Mr. TELLER. That takes away the power of taxation from the church organization.

Mr. EDMUNDS. No; I submit, with the consent of my friend from Alabama, that the effect of that only is to subject to taxation the property of the church that is or may be properly called temporal, estates not connected with the church establishment as such.

Mr. TELLER. The honorable Senator has not read the act. I am only reading this as a revenue act providing for the collection of revenue, and, as I understand, it takes it out of the hands of the church and puts it in the hands of the civil authorities of the Territory. The Senator may look at the book and see if that is not the case.

Mr. MORGAN. It is not necessary for the purpose of trying to make the Senate comprehend the scope of my amendment that I should enter into that particular discussion now. Another act which I believe was originally an ordinance—at all events it is an act of the Utah Legislature, approved January 12, 1856, incorporates what is called the Perpetual Emigrating Fund Company. That is a company which is under the control of the church. I shall not stop to read the act, but I think there can be no doubt that this Perpetual Emigrating Fund Company is one that is under the control of the church as a legal organization; that is to say, the church incorporation controls this other incorporation, and the accountability of the officers and agents of the emigration society is entirely to the church and not to any civil officer of the government of Utah outside of the church.

It is true that with the assistance of this emigration society or incorporation these people have been brought from all the quarters of the earth. It is one of the doctrines of the Mormon Church that all the saints are to assemble at Salt Lake; they are to be there in person; and a provision will be made from time to time for the congregation of the saints in that vicinity. It is a very wise provision of theirs in order to increase rapidly their communities and to give them strength in every particular. All of the missionary effort which they are making in other parts of the world, which by far exceeds some of the most prominent of the Protestant churches of this country in its scope and in its results, has been intended to gather population around Salt Lake City, in the provinces that surround that religious center, so that the whole body and power of the church, spiritual and temporal, may be concentrated at one point. Hence it was necessary, to carry out their plan of operations, that this emigrant society should be kept strictly within the government and control of the Mormon Church.

Connected with that also is the tithing system. Let any one go to Salt Lake City and look at the tithing houses and see those people come in on tithing days loaded down with one-tenth part of all the productions that they make, whether it is salt that they collect on the margin of Salt Lake; or wheat, or barley, or rye, or oats, or corn that they grow in their fields; poultry or pigs; goats, cows or calves; shoes, hats, clothing, watches, anything and everything that they make and that they earn and that they have, and see them bringing in their contributions and turning them over to the receivers of taxes; it is a marvel of influence, and it is a wonder in this enlightened age of mankind that any set of people, however stupid, can have these exactions practiced upon them and that they are so entirely faithful in complying with them. It becomes a religious sentiment with them, and they would feel condemned absolutely if they were not to come in with their tithes and pay the tenth part of all that they get into this tithing house for the benefit of the church.

These tithes, as I understand, find their way then to what is called the co-operative store, in which Mormons place capital upon some basis of stock, and they are from there transported, on the railways and otherwise, to markets, if a market is not found at home. In this way many millions of merchandise pass through this store annually, and the products of the Mormons are converted into money, and the proceeds, after paying a certain percentage of profit to the stockholders, are turned into the church treasury, and it is out of this fund that the emigration society receives its largest support.

It is scarcely any wonder, after we look at the careful particularity and the wonderful skill and wisdom with which those men organized this ecclesiastical power, that they should be able to go to the Feejee Islands, to Ireland, to the different states of Europe, to the different States of the American Union, and that they should be continually importing their converts as they are called, their dupes as we know them to be, from foreign countries, and that they bring in such numbers here that the President of the United States in his message has to suggest to Congress that there ought to be some provision of law enacted by which a discrimination shall be made against the immigration into this country of persons belonging to that institution.

When you strike the Mormon Church as a legal organization in this act of incorporation you strike everything that is connected with it, and that is what I propose to do. I propose to amend the bill so as to repeal absolutely out and out these acts of incorporation.

Then the question arises, what are you going to do with the property? I propose to allow that to be disposed of according to the rules and principles of the common law. According to my judgment about it that will be a nearer approximation to justice than anything else we could do.

As I understand the common law of England in regard to the dissolution of a corporation, it is this: Whenever a corporation is dissolved for any cause or by any means, whether under the decree of a court because it has forfeited its charter, or under an act of Parliament because Parliament declares that it is dissolved, or whether from any accident (for corporations are sometimes dissolved, we are told, by accident), the debts which that corporation owes are extinguished, the debts owing to it are extingused, its real estate reverts to the original donor, and whatever of personalty may remain is subject to the disposal of the law, which I propose shall be escheated to the Treasury of the United States.

The ordinary doctrine of escheats at common law does not apply exactly or literally to the dissolution of a corporation. When real estate escheats to the Crown of Great Britain, for instance, on the death of the owner, the heir at law being an alien, the title inures to the Crown of Great Britain, ipso facto, but until the Crown has united that title with an actual possession of the property the heir at law holds subject to the will of the Crown only to determine his rights, and no one else can dispute his rights.

So in the case of a devise of property to one who is an alien, the title of the Crown in a case of that kind does not inure to it absolutely but only after office found; that is to say, after a legal adjudication has been made that the party who died left no heir in the realm of Great Britain capable of inheriting, but he left heirs who are aliens, or the devisee in the case of a devise is an alien or even an alien enemy, in which case the court proceeds to declare that the Crown is entitled to be admitted as of its right to the property. Office is thereby found, and the title of the Crown by the act of the court becomes complete and absolute.

It is not so in regard to corporations which are dissolved, for every corporation takes all the property that is granted to it, at least all the real estate, subject to the condition attached to it by law that it will revert to the donor on the death or dissolution of the corporation. That is a tacit condition annexed by law to every donation that is made to a corporation, it makes no difference how broad or how powerful the words of donation may be. The fact is, you can scarcely frame a deed under the principles of the common law by which you could so convey real estate out of you into the hands of a corporation as that it would not revert to you in the case of the dissolution of that corporation, which means its death.

I do not know from what source the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, this legal incorporation under this act of Utah, acquired its title to the real estate that it holds, but I presume that no entries were made directly from the Government of the United States. I presume the land offices would not disclose that any title to land had been taken up in the name of this corporation, either by private entry or otherwise. The land must have been taken up by some Mormon who either sold it or donated it to this church. Some Mormon gave this land to this church or some Mormon sold the land to this church and made a deed of it. So if we dissolve this corporation and apply to it the principles of the common law this property goes back to that donor; the Mormon gets it if the church loses it. I dare say that there are very many debts due to that incorporation, because in the last section of the act to which I have just called attention the Senate will notice the following provision:

All persons receiving assistance from the Perpetual Emigrating Fund Company shall be held responsible therefor until paid.

There are doubtless debts due to the church either through this second corporation or directly due to it. These would be extinguished according to the principles of the common law. It may owe debts. If it does, it owes them to Mormons. It has contracted no debts to Gentiles, to outside people. These are extinguished according to the principles of the common law, which I seek to apply to this measure by the amendment which I offer. They may have personal property which would not, in strictness of law, be the subject of that sort of escheat which affects the distribution of the assets of a corporation which is dissolved under the common law in England. In order to meet that particular case my amendment provides that this property shall be escheated to the Government of the United States. When I say "escheated," I do not mean that the property escheats by this act of Congress simply. I would not do that.

Mr. MAXEY. I should like to know from the Senator whether it was an act of the Territorial Legislature which granted the incorporation.

Mr. MORGAN. It was an act of the Territorial Legislature. It was first an ordinance of the convention called to organize a State called Deseret, and afterward that ordinance was enacted by the Legislature of Utah.

Mr. MAXEY. So it is under the control of Congress.

Mr. MORGAN. It is directly under the control of Congress. I suppose that no Senator doubts our power to repeal or modify that act of the Legislature in any respect that we choose. I have assumed all the time, of course, that we have full power over the whole subject, and I see no reason to doubt the correctness of the conclusion.

As I was observing, I have for the reasons that I have stated incorporated here a provision of escheat. I do not think it is proper under our system of government and particularly under the restrictive clause in our Constitution, which provides that property shall not be taken except by due course of law, that an act of Congress should take from any person claiming property and dispose of it by gift or grant or otherwise to another person. I would always have the intervention of a court to determine whether the conditions existed upon which the escheat was to take place and to determine by judicial sentence what should be done with the proceeds of the escheated estate. My amendment does not cover that proposition very distinctly, but of course if we adopt the amendment I have suggested that can easily be put in. I did not have time last night to prepare the entire scope of the amendment so as to include that feature of it.

But I intended to call the attention of the Senator from Vermont to two propositions. One is that he has not provided, as I understand, any special tribunal for hearing the case that is required to be brought by the Attorney-General in the thirteenth section of the bill. I suppose the Senator found that the jurisdiction of the district court of the United States for Utah was broad enough to cover the subject; but it might be better, I will suggest to him, to say what court shall take jurisdiction for the purpose of escheating this property. But I will insist, so far as I am concerned, that a proceeding for the escheating of the property shall take place after we have declared the escheat, so as to determine what portion of this property would pass under the common law directly back to the original donors and what portion of it would pass under the provision of this act of Congress into the Treasury of the United States in pursuance of the requirement that it shall be escheated, and also to determine whether there may be other claimants to any portion of this personal property. I believe that it is our duty in enforcing laws of forfeiture or escheat of whatever kind or character to bring the subject to the attention of a court, and the subject should not be considered as conclusively determined until a court passes upon it. That is a doctrine to which I adhere very closely.

I have explained the reasons why I have offered this amendment. I do not know that I have anything more to say about it, at least for the present.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, section 12 of the proposed statute which is now sought to be amended provides that fourteen trustees shall be appointed who shall take possession of the property of this corporation. The Constitution of the United States provides that private property shall not be taken for public use without compensation. Is this private property or not? Is the property of this corporation private or public property? It seems to me there can be no question in regard to that. This property was acquired by this corporation under the protection of the law. It belongs to it and to those who are its cestuis que trust. There can be no question about that.

What, then, is the taking prohibited by the Constitution? Does it allow Congress to take possession for either a longer or a shorter time? Does it vest power to dispossess persons of their property and substitute others in the control and management of it? There can be no question that a taking, a dispossession, for a moment is as much as a dispossession for an age or a conversion in perpetuity.

The Constitution is imperative. It says, "nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation." This provision of the proposed statute not only takes it but converts it to public use, to the education of the children of Utah, without reference to the wishes of its owners. To my mind there can be no question whatever that this is clearly within the inhibition of the Constitution.

But in regard to another point, the Constitution says that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion." Senators here say that although you may make no law respecting an establishment of religion, you may legislate to destroy the chartered rights of an establishment of religion; that you may impose disabilities upon those who practice it, and you may indirectly deprive them of political rights and privileges and of all rights for the purpose of suppressing and destroying it. That is manifestly the object of this section and of this bill and is avowed in the argument and the discussion of the legislation proposed in the section under consideration.

Whatever may be the evils of this association, whatever may be the calamities that it may or may not produce, the question which we are bound to consider is whether it is or is not an establishment of religion. By all our traditions and by all the history of the English race and by all our legislation previous to the commencement of this crusade upon these people, the Mormon church must be regarded as an establishment of religion. Senators say it is not the true religion. Does the Constitution say you shall not legislate respecting the establishment of the true religion or the false religion? The act of toleration of King William and Queen Mary—which was the outcome of all the persecution which the people of England and this country as well as the people of Europe suffered for many years, the tortures of the Inquisition, the burnings, the hangings which every church and every creed have practiced upon the others—the act of toleration, which is the foundation of our principle of religious freedom, says in express terms what is and what is not an establishment of religion, and leaves no ground of doubt as to the meaning of the terms used in the Constitution. Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion.

Before we embark in this system of religious persecution, before we abandon the principles of our Government, of our civilization, and of the religion of Christ, it is well for us to consider something of the past history of this and other countries. That great society of Christian people the followers of John Wesley, who in every period of the history of this country have been its loyal and faithful citizens, who have sustained the Christian religion in heathen lands and in civilized lands, those apostles of the poor and humble have defined what they consider as religious freedom. Let us see whether it is the right of any Congress or any set of men to say what is religion or what is not. In the days when the English Parliament undertook so to declare, a committee of the followers of John Wesley put forth this declaration:

> That it is the unquestionable right of every man to worship God agreeably to the dictates of his own conscience, and that he has a right to hear and to teach those truths which he conscientiously believes, without any restraint or judicial interference from the civil magistrate, provided he d › not thereby disturb the peace of the community, and that on no account whatever will this committee ever concede this fundamental principle.

The society which proclaims this as the meaning of religious establishments as defined in our civilization and our Constitution constitutes an immense portion of the Protestants of this country. *If a man have the right to worship God according to the dictates of his conscience, if he believes, as many do believe in foreign lands, the benighted doctrine and the unholy practice, as we conceive it, of polygamy, while we have the right to punish the practice and if possible to suppress it, have we the right to establish a system of religious persecution to destroy the religious establishment because it professes and believes a falsehood? Shall we disregard the very proposition upon which our own religious liberty stands? Shall we overthrow free speech and free thought and the Bible and religion of Christ, and substitute for them the secular power, the sword of civil power for the sword of the Spirit? This is but to repeat the history of the Dark Ages; this is to re-enact the Inquisition of Spain with all its horrors; to light anew the fires of religious persecution, and by fire and torture and suffering to force the human mind to accept as true our opinions and our creeds.

This bill and this section of the bill undertakes to do this? It declares that the chartered rights of succession and ownership of property granted to the religious establishment of the Mormon Church shall not only be taken away from them, but that their property shall be confiscated, taken from them, and used according to the will and discretion of Congress; and to what end? To the avowed end declared in the bill, that this form of heretical belief, that this false religious establishment, shall be suppressed and destroyed, to the end that true religion, as we conceive it to be, may be maintained.

Mr. President, this is not the punishment of polygamy; this is not the suppression of the practice of polygamy; it is the destruction of a religious establishment, a false religious establishment; it is the persecution of its votaries to the end that by that means it may be extirpated.

Sir, we can not indirectly legislate for the purpose of destroying any religion, whether false or true. We can not take away its chartered rights which have been given to it by law, selecting it as one out of many to the end that it may be destroyed, without violating not only the principles of the Constitution, but the essential principles of the religion of Christ.

This provision of the bill, as well as the whole bill, is an assault on the Christian religion, which undertakes by persuasion, by conviction, by teaching the doctrines of Christ, to convert and convince men, and not to compel them to believe by the sword. It is a revival of the Dark Ages. When the religious persecutions which consigned so many hundred thousand people to the stake in the mediæval ages commenced they began with comparative mildness, and they proceeded from mild forms of restraint to punishments so horrible that they make the blood run cold. These cruelties were practiced by every sect and every church in turn upon those who dissented from it.

Motley, in the History of the Dutch Republic, says:

> Tyranny, ever young and ever old, constantly reproducing herself with the same strong features, with the same imposing mark which she has worn through all the ages, can never be too minutely examined. * * * The history of Alva's administration in the Netherlands strikes us almost dumb with wonder. * * * Why has the Almighty suffered such crimes in His sacred name?

Mr. President, what can we say of a proposition here in this day of religious liberty, in the face of a provision of the Constitution of the United States that property shall not be taken for public use without compensation, which requires that the property of a corporation, a private corporation, a corporation for purposes either religious or benevolent, so avowed upon its face, so stated in its charter, may be taken by law and appropriated by the Congress of the United States to purposes not contemplated by, and against the will of, its owners, and to the avowed end that certain people who believe, and falsely believe, that the interpretation of the Bible and the religion of Christ justify and require them to establish a marital relation which we forbid and regard with horror, to the end that by religious persecution it may be exterminated and done away with? It is true that this section of the bill describes this confiscation as an escheat to the Government; but the learned men who prepared this bill knew that there could be no such thing as an escheat of the property of a corporation which within the limits of its chartered term of life was performing the acts required by its charter, the life of which was terminated by the arbitrary act of the Government as a measure of public and religious policy.

I can not see what possible ground there is for any opinion that the Congress of the United States has a right, in order to suppress polygamy, to confiscate the property of persons, of corporations, and apply it to any use they see fit. I do not believe that there can be any argument made in support of it. The Senator from Vermont, with very great ability and very great ingenuity, proposed to discriminate between what he called the political or the temporal and the ecclesiastical features of this organization. Suppose we were to attack the great Catholic Church, with its hundreds of millions of property in its corporate institutions, using them as it does for benevolent purposes, and to declare that we saw fit, to the end that the Catholic Church and her form of belief might be extirpated, to withdraw her charters, confiscate her property, and apply it to other uses, who would for a moment entertain the idea? Who would regard it as within the power of this body? Who would dare to propose this of any of the great churches into which Christians are divided. This demonstrates that we have no right and no power to proscribe and punish any form of belief, religious or political—to legislate men into other beliefs and other opinions. It is with practices, with acts alone, that we can deal.

When the time comes I shall move to strike out from the first section of the bill the words "and may be compelled to testify." The bill requires that the wife shall be compelled to testify against her husband—not permitted, but compelled—with the privilege of reserving from such testimony any confidential statement or communication made by either during the existence of the marriage relation. What knowledge is there on the part of husband or wife that is not confidential? How can you compel one to testify against the other without violating the relation? What is the object of that provision? Is it to the end that in criminal cases generally this testimony may be made available? It is to the suppression, as avowed in the bill, of this form of religious belief. It is legislation respecting a false establishment of religion. No one denies that this is false religion; that it is a form of religious belief; that it is an establishment of religion; that the 180,000 people who profess it believe and profess to believe that it is religion, and a true religion. We say it is no religion, and that it is hurtful; but all churches and creeds have said that of those who differ from them, and they have used the power of the state to burn, torture, and kill all who differed from them. This bill proposes to punish and exterminate this false belief by the secular power.

The Senator from Alabama testifies that these people, with a fanaticism and a superstition which he regards as wonderful, bring the tenth part of all their labor, day after day and year after year, as a voluntary contribution. Why do they do it? Because they believe, falsely if you please, that it is a duty to their God to do so. We say that this fanaticism encourages them in the practice of polygamy and is hurtful to the State; and we make laws to prevent them from spreading their belief, from bringing in recruits to their faith, and impose on them some penal laws and processes unknown elsewhere to our laws. I am opposed to Mormonism, and because I am opposed to it I oppose this law and these methods, which can only result in increasing it by dignifying those who are persecuted as martyrs in the eyes of their deluded followers.

But the second section of the bill, in face of the provision of the Constitution that "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated," provides that at the hour of midnight, at any hour of the day or night, without previous charge or accusation, without notice, without a subpœna, the officers of the law may drag from their bed any man or woman and hold them in confinement because there is an opinion on the part of some officer that they will not obey a legal process; not that they had done wrong, not that they had refused to obey the law, but because there is an opinion that they will. It is a discretion committed to the marshal or a judge, a commissioner or a grand jury, or a justice of the peace, that attachment for a witness may be issued, without a previous subpœna, compelling the immediate attendance of such witness when it shall appear "that there is reasonable ground to believe that such witness will unlawfully fail to obey a subpœna issued and served." Is that an unreasonable seizure or is it a reasonable one? What is the object of this provision? It is because it is apprehended that, under the influence of this superstition these people will be reluctant to obey the process of the court.

In all ages these things run together. The difference between persecution and the religion of Jesus Christ with its pure method as defined by Wesley and his followers, that religion which goes with the power of conviction and not with the stake and the fagot and the secular arm to enforce it, and that superstition, that religious persecution which seeks to advance the opinions of sectaries by the secular arm of the state, by power, as they did in the days of the Inquisition, finds in its methods always from that time to this precisely the same characteristics. I read from a history of religious persecutions by a distinguished divine of the Protestant Church, which is impartial in its reference to all creeds and all churches and all people, and is designed simply to establish the proposition that heresies in religion, false opinions and false practices proceeding from superstitious beliefs, are not to be eradicated by the secular arm of power, but only by the milder methods of the gospel, by the principles of the Christian religion. In the year 1656 a law was passed in the colony of Massachusetts the methods of which are precisely those adopted in this bill—the law of arbitrary imprisonment, the law of arrest without hearing, without previous charge, without evidence. I will read the law as it was established in one of our then colonies:

That whosoever of the inhabitants should, directly or indirectly, cause any of the Quakers to come into that jurisdiction, he "should forfeit one hundred pounds to the country, and be committed to prison," there to remain till the penalty should be satisfied.

* * * * * * *

Whereas there is a pernicious sect, commonly called Quakers, lately risen, who by word and writing have published and maintained many dangerous and horrid tenets, and do take on them to change and alter the received laudable customs of our nation, in giving civil respect to equals, or reverence to superiors, whose actions tend to undermine the civil government, and also to destroy the order of the churches by denying all established forms of worship, and by withdrawing from orderly church fellowship allowed and approved by all orthodox professors of the truth, whereby divers of our inhabitants have been infected;—for prevention thereof this court doth order and enact, that every person or persons of "the cursed sect" of the "Quakers," who is not an inhabitant of, but is found within this jurisdiction, shall be apprehended without warrant where no magistrate is at hand, by any constable, commissioner, or selectman, who shall commit the said person to close prison, there to remain without bail until the next court of assistance, where they shall have a legal trial, and "being convicted to be of the sect of the Quakers, shall be sentenced to be banished, upon pain of death." And that every inhabitant of this jurisdiction, being convicted to be of the aforesaid sect, either by taking up, publishing, or defending the horrid opinions of the Quakers, or the stirring up mutiny, sedition, and rebellion against the government, or by taking up their absurd and destructive practices, namely, denying civil respect to equals and superiors, and withdrawing from our church assemblies, and instead thereof frequent meetings of their own, in opposition to our church order, or by adhering to, or approving of, any known Quaker, and the tenets and practices of the Quakers, that are opposite to the orthodox received opinions of the godly, and endeavoring to disaffect others to civil government and church orders, or condemning the practice and proceedings of this court against the Quakers, manifesting hereby their complying with those whose design is to overthrow the order established in church and state; every such person, upon conviction before the said court of assistance in manner as aforesaid, "shall be committed to close prison for one month." And then, unless they choose voluntarily to depart this jurisdiction, shall give bond for their good behavior, and appear at the next court; where, continuing obstinate and "refusing to retract or reform the aforesaid opinions," they shall "be sentenced to banishment, upon pain of death."

Here we have the same method of arbitrary arrest, of arbitrary punishment without notice, the same proposition that a particular sect of people with a particular religious belief are unfriendly to the State and to the cause of good order. That is what this bill is. The author of this work, himself a Christian and a representative of the Christian sentiment of New England, proceeding to speak of this law, says:

Here endeth this sanguinary act, being more like to the decree of the Spanish Inquisition than the laws of a reformed Christian magistracy; consisting of such who themselves, to shun persecution (which was but a small fine for not frequenting the public worship), had left Old England.

I say, therefore, that this proposed measure and its whole theory is in violation of the spirit of our institutions and all the provisions of our Constitution; that it is in violation of the whole theory of Christian liberty and Christian civilization; that it ignores and distrusts and disparages the power and influence of the religion of Christ, the divine teacher; that it denies and distrusts the power of free speech and free thought, the great agencies of our civilization.

I am as much in favor of the suppression of the practice of polygamy as any man, but I am not in favor of religious persecution to the end that it may be suppressed. I do not believe that we can violate the laws which secure a fair and impartial trial in the spirit of our Constitution to all men accused of crime. I do not believe that we can violate the laws that give personal security except upon a charge of crime and probable cause. I do not believe that we can lawfully engage in a crusade against the Mormon Church, this false establishment of religion, by the secular arm of the State to suppress polygamy. The Christian sentiment of this country, the criminal laws administered, the temperate laws, not extreme, but punishing this offense as others are punished, are amply sufficient and far more efficient than this iron-clad bill, which in every letter and in every word of it is designed and avows itself to have the purpose of suppressing this form of false religious belief by the power of the State as the means of destroying polygamy. I prefer the influences of the Christian religion, with the criminal laws fairly and impartially enforced. If our institutions are not strong enough and our Christian religion is not strong enough to overcome it, then no secular power can do so.

For these reasons, Mr. President, I am opposed to the bill, and I hope the amendment of the Senator from Alabama, which will improve it in some respects, will be adopted. But I do not believe that we have any right to destroy an establishment of religion, false or true, to the end that we may suppress a crime.

I believe that the provisions of this bill, while they violate the Constitution and are the beginning of religious persecution of other churches and other sects, will have no effect on the Mormons except to increase their numbers and give them dignity and respect in their own eyes. I believe the preaching of the true religion by its faithful ministers, the upholding of the national authority in the Territory by an armed force adequate to give protection to all who may wish to leave the Mormon church, will do what this bill will fail to do.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. HAWLEY in the chair). The pending question is on the first amendment proposed by the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN]. The Secretary will report the amendment.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to strike out all of section 12 after the word "annulled," in line 7, and to insert:

And the property of said corporation of every kind shall be disposed of according to the rules and principles of the common law as in case of the dissolution of a corporation.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I think it due to my friend from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN], whose support in favor of the general scheme of the bill I count upon, to say a few words in friendly reply to him.

I do not think that the bill if passed into a law affirms the residue of the corporation act of the Church of the Latter-day Saints. The bill in terms only declares that it annuls so much of that act as prevents the United States from appointing a certain number of trustees to act with the other trustees of the church in regard to its temporal affairs, by which I expect that the Mormons who do not believe in polygamy, and the Gentiles, as they are called, and the rest of decent people in the United States, will be able to know something of the business operations of that concern.

Without touching its doctrines or its faith or anything else, if it could be supposed that such an act would affirm the residue of the charter, as I will call it, as it is, then Congress more than twenty years ago did affirm the whole charter; because Congress then annulled that part of the charter which related to marriages and provided for polygamy, &c., completely and entirely, but took express pains to say in the act, which is here before me, that Congress did not intend to interfere with any of the religious and worshiping parts of it. I do not think that Congress thereby became the affirmative proponent of the residue of the charter. Certainly the language of the Congress of the United States at that time would come much nearer to sustaining my friend's argument than what this proposed act does. I think that is enough for that part of my friend's argument.

My friend suggests that these trustees are really the church. I think he is mistaken about that. The first section provides for a church, and the third section provides for a church and what the church may do. The second section provides simply and purely for trustees to hold, own, regulate, manage, buy, and sell property to be devoted to the uses of the church and for its general utility; a very sweeping and important phrase, as my friend has pointed out. There is the distinction.

So, too, without referring to what the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL] has so vigorously stated with his usual clearness and perspicuity in regard to religious faiths and beliefs, no matter how wild they may be, it only goes to touching the temporal concerns and temporal operations of a corporation that exists by the sufferance of the United States, so far as those operations may be devoted to promoting the practice of what we all agree in calling a crime.

We do not affirm the third section, which has nothing to do with the second section, but is connected with the first section. We do not say anything about their doctrines, or covenants, or ordinances, &c.; and the punishments, and promotions, and regulations that are there provided for are in substance like those of almost all Christian church organizations in their words. When it speaks of a punishment there it speaks of a church punishment; that is, if a member of the Mormon Church is guilty of something that the Mormon Book of Doctrines and Covenants

(which I have been studying while this debate has been going on and before) forbids, he may be expelled from the church, excommunicated, or whatever you call it, and that is all. It is a spiritual punishment, with which the affirmative laws of a country never undertake to have anything to do, because it is a mere question, like in a club, whether you are willing to have a man in it or to have a man out of it. It is a question of association and nothing else, that the laws of a civilized country do not undertake to deal with at all, because it is pure sentiment; it does not affect the life, the liberty, or the property or the legal obligations of any man. That is what this third section means about imposing punishment and so on.

My friend from Alabama speaks of the Emigrating Fund Company as being a thing that will be repealed if the church corporation is repealed. He is mistaken. If we repeal the church corporation alone and leave the emigrating fund society by name, it will continue to go on; but this bill reported by the committee specifically provides for abolishing that corporation entirely, because it does not pretend to be a religious corporation.

Mr. MORGAN. That is the way I understand it. I did not mean that the repeal of the act of the Utah Legislature incorporating the church would necessarily repeal the other act of incorporation. The bill itself repeals that. So my amendment in connection with what is in the bill would sweep them both out.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Yes; but the bill itself sweeps out the Emigrating Company, because the Emigrating Company in the terms of its charter does not profess to have either faith or worship or discipline. It does not purport to be a religious corporation either by name or by substance. It is a political corporation. I am not speaking of "political" in the sense of party politics or governmental politics, but in the legal sense of the word, a political corporation, one that deals with men and affairs to build up a community in a particular Territory, and that is all.

Now, then, inasmuch as we know from our experience and observation that that corporation is devoted to gathering the most ignorant and degraded of all classes of community in all the States and in all other countries in there for the purpose of imposing upon them the doctrines and the practice of polygamy, and inasmuch as that corporation lives by the sufferance of the United States, we propose to wipe that out; and inasmuch as it is not a stockholding corporation, instead of (on the old common-law doctrine, but not what I think is now the true common-law doctrine that my friend has stated) giving the fund to the ten thousand persons who in the last twenty-five years have by tithings and otherwise contributed to make up the fund of that corporation back to them, as they can never be found, we propose to devote it to the education of the children of that Territory, subject by a judicial investigation to the private claim and the private right of every human being who comes forward to make any demand upon the fund.

Mr. MORGAN. The Senator has not considered the second branch of the amendment. I provide in that for the escheat of the personal property to the Government of the United States. It is the land under the old common law that reverts to the original donor.

Mr. EDMUNDS. But I do not mind about that. I do not care whether it takes the land or the personal property on these distinctions, because the purpose and the scope of the bill as to the emigrating society is to take all of this property, real and personal, whatever it may be, and devote it to the use of common schools, subject to the private right of anybody who can establish, in a court of justice there, his right to any part of it, and if he establishes that right he has it; but what belongs to the public, what under the old law would go to the sovereign or to the lord superior or whatever, goes to the education and enlightenment of the children of these Mormons themselves. That is what we propose to do with it.

Then if this first amendment of my friend, which is the critical and governing one, as he says himself, is adopted, you have struck a blow not only at polygamy, but still more at the faith of those Mormons who do not believe in polygamy; and as my friend has said there are a great many of them, and whose temple and whose tabernacle are as sacred to them as my friend's church is to him and to me, and who are willing and anxious that this bill as the committee has framed it shall pass, who have said in order to accomplish this end you have undertaken to destroy us when it was not necessary, and you have struck at rights that my friend from Florida has so eloquently described as sacred.

The committee therefore has undertaken to leave all that belongs to faith or religion, however erroneous we may think it to be, to continue to live, and as to what is not faith and religion and goes to mere temporal affairs, to investigate it and look into it and to destroy by the means and agencies that we can outside of the question of faith and worship all that belongs to the propagation of and inducements to polygamy.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to ask the Senator from Vermont if he regards the disincorporation of a church association or corporation as an attack upon its religion? I ask him if it is not a fact that that is a sort of gratuity extended to religious organizations and not at all inconsistent to withhold it from the exercise of the fullest freedom of religious thought and opinion?

Mr. EDMUNDS. That might be so in a technical sense, and if the Senator from Colorado and the Senator from Alabama would unite in a bill which should provide that all of these corporations in Utah and every other Territory should be dissolved, then they would be up to the logic of their proposition. I should be opposed to all of them. I agree that whatever the sovereign power gives it may take away; but I do not agree at this present moment that it is wise or prudent for the purposes we have in view of building up, as there must be built up in that Territory at some time, a community of some character by going to war with the people who believe as we do and who wish to accomplish the ends that we have, and by striking them down and leaving them without any title to their churches and establishments of religion alone when we do not strike down any other sect or any other faith.

That is the proposition; and therefore I am opposed to the amendment of the Senator from Alabama. If I were the head president—the first presidency, as it is called—of that concern, and wanted to kill this measure by a course of amendment which should make it so out of unity with all that we do as to other religious corporations that are religious corporations purely and simply, and wanted to break it down by making it so odious that it could not be gotten through both Houses of Congress, I should have tried to persuade somebody to invite some Senator to move exactly that amendment. I know that my friend is not influenced by any such purpose—quite the reverse; but I think his zeal has outrun what, after reflection, would be his sober judgment about it.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, I have not taken much part in the debates upon the bill either now or heretofore. It is an intricate subject, and one that requires very mature reflection in order to do what is just and right and in accordance with the evident sentiment of the American people, to which I avow my assent, and I do it accordingly.

I regret that it did not occur to me to send along with the bill the amendment which I have now presented in order that the Committee on the Judiciary might have had a fairer opportunity for considering its merits. I regret also that we are here before a very thin Senate, where the debate upon the proposition of course can produce almost no effect at all. When the vote is taken upon this proposition it will doubtless be voted on by many Senators without having considered the importance and value of the amendment that I have had the honor to suggest.

I am somewhat chary in endeavoring to array my opinion against the Senator from Vermont, who has studied this question very thoroughly, and I must say that I believe he has studied it in a spirit of justice and fairness, with a disposition to do what the American people require to be done and what should be done to remove this flagrant outrage from the American society, to say nothing of taking it out of the pale of the American Christianity. But I must differ with the Senator from Vermont as to the nature of the remedy that he proposes. For one, I must say I do not consider that the measure which the Senator from Vermont brings forward is as heroic and as radical as it ought to be. He is not given to stopping on his center. When that Senator conceives that something ought to be done for the public welfare, he is usually willing to take up the subject by its rough handle and to carry it through to all of its logical consequences without turning back or looking back; but on this occasion I think the honorable Senator from Vermont has been alarmed by his own regard for what should be the propriety of action on the part of the Congress of the United States in dealing with a subject of natural delicacy, the subject of the establishment of religion. I might say for myself, but I would not say it as a lawyer, that in dealing with this corporation or with its associated ecclesiastical organization I do not feel that I am dealing with a religious establishment. I feel that I am dealing with something that is entirely irreligious, that has no just pretension at all to be called a religion in a Christian country. It would be a very fair religion in China or in any Mohammedan country; it would do very well for the Congo Free State perhaps; but in Christian America this can hardly be rated as an establishment of religion. It is an establishment of vice, which is controlled by an autocracy or a hierarchy which calls itself a church, and professes to be founded upon a relevation made to a human being in these latter days in the United States through books which were transmitted here and translated by himself, a relevation from the Almighty, which in its essence and in its quality and in every particular denies and reprobates and overturns what we understand to be the revelations upon which the Christian system is founded.

If the priests of the Mohammedan religion were here for the purpose of establishing themselves in any Territory of the United States and for the purpose of propagating that well-known system (which includes some very virtuous elements, particularly that of temperance) in one of our Territories, and if they should call upon the Territorial Legislature and through that Legislature in effect upon Congress to grant a legal charter for their church, I do not suppose that in a case of that kind any lawyer in the United States would regard me as at all departing from the traditions of the profession or as violating any known principle of constitutional law if I should object that we had no power to confer a legal charter upon a Mohammedan church in a Territory in order to organize it as a religious establishment. I would deny the power in a case of that kind, because the exercise of that legislative power in the organization of that sect in this Christian country would be in effect to overturn the spirit and substance and foundation of the whole of the Christianity which pervades this country, and which enters into our society and through that into our laws. If I should find an act of a Territorial Legislature giving incorporation to a Mohammedan church, one of whose tenets is that a man shall have a plurality of wives if he chooses, I would not hesitate to repeal that law, because it would violate the whole sentiment of the American people and it would violate the spirit of the Constitution.

Now, when the Legislature of Utah organized this miserable pretension of a church, which was organized for the purpose of covering up and protecting by the sanctity of religion the allowance of low, flagrant crimes in the community to which the whole sentiment of the people of the United States is adverse; when they passed this act of legislation of this so-called church, they violated if not the letter the spirit of the Constitution, for they legislated for the purpose of establishing a religion. They did not legalize action in reference to a religion which existed and was recognized by the American people. They did not legislate as we would legislate in respect of any of the great Catholic or Protestant denominations known to these Christian communities, to give legal power and organization to them in order to hold property merely. That act of the Legislature of Utah was an act for the establishment of a religion which before that time had no foundation in public acceptance and no foundation in law. That act was the building up of the Mormon Church. These men had been scouted from communities to the east of the Mississippi River and driven like public enemies abroad into the wilderness. They were routed from Illinois, Missouri, and other States, as nuisances to the community. Their temples were torn down or burned down about their heads, and their propagators and pretended priests and prophets were imprisoned and punished by the populace. Taking refuge in the wilderness, at that time within the domain of Mexico, coming to us by an annexation of territory, when they got the power of a Territorial Legislature out there, the first thing they did with it was to use that power contrary to the Constitution of the United States to establish a religion. But for the exercise of that power of legislation in the Territory the Morman religion would never have been established in that country. It would have lingered along in a miserable way under the condemnation of public sentiment abroad as well as of public sentiment that was rapidly forming and growing in the midst of those people, and it would have utterly perished and passed out of view, as the Oneida settlement has done in New York.

But the purpose of that act and its whole intention was to establish a religion, and well and wisely did they legislate. They formed their legal organization, but in forming it they enacted into the law some of the precepts of their pretended religion, and they gave to this church as a body corporate the power to do much else than merely to hold property in a legal way for the advantage of the institution. I read to the Senate this morning a long array of the powers that they have.

The corporation is formed under a law, and the uses and trusts and purposes of that corporation are in that law distinctly and clearly defined. What are they? When read even between the lines, when read according to the interpretation of the very men who enacted the laws, they are for the propagation of polygamy; they are for the establishment of a church hierarchy there, having more power than any Legislature in the United States; they are for the taxing of the people to one-tenth of the product of their annual labor; they are for giving power to the ruling authorities in that church, the priests and apostles and bishops and other men in authority, so that they may exercise upon individuals a degree of duress, not merely spiritual duress, but personal and physical duress and control over their property, which shall compel them to bow in submission to any decree that the church may put forward.

Here, then, are the uses and trusts and purposes of the act of incorporation declared in the act itself. When these tithes flow in and are converted into money, when the voluntary contributions which are made to this church go into the treasury, when the money that they receive from their stocks in railroad corporations comes in, who has the power to control it? Says the Senator from Vermont, not the trustees; they have only the power to hold it. That is true; but in the act you have got the trustees and you have got the church, but with all the controlling power physically and morally that that church can exercise, and that church can exercise the control and direction of the fund so as to apply it to the uses specified in the act.

What then are our fourteen trustees to do? They are to go there and receive the property—yes, the tithes received, all contributions, all donations that may be made in pursuance of law. The law that is upon the statute-book of Utah holds them in their treasury accountable to whom for them? This bill does not make them accountable to the United States. The trustees are accountable to the church. Will you substitute trustees in the act and say to those trustees, you shall execute the trusts and uses and purposes for which the act was made? Will the Congress of the United States undertake the task of running the Mormon Church so as to collect its revenues from time to time and apply them to the uses prescribed by law? That is the question as I understand it.

The honorable Senator from Vermont says that these funds, when received by the trustees, are to be put into a common-school fund. The act does not so provide, except as to those corporations which have violated the provisions of the act of 1861, in which case an escheat takes place by a proceeding in some court, and the fund escheated is carried into the common treasury of the school fund—diverted from the church and carried to the school fund. That, sir, is a confiscation. That in another form is an escheat. You take the fund away from the church in that case and you carry it into the common-school fund.

But up to the $50,000 that they have a right to hold, and also in reference to the revenues that they derive from the tithing, I can see nothing in this bill that will prevent these trustees from being compelled to execute the trusts of the original act. Here stands a church, call it a Baptist church, or a Methodist church, or a Presbyterian church, in order to see now exactly what the powers of the trustees are. Here is a Presbyterian church in the Territory into whose government and into whose act of incorporation Congress has injected fourteen trustees to take and hold the property. The act of organization of that Presbyterian church requires that the moneys which shall fall into the treasury of that church, it makes no difference how, shall be applied to certain religious uses, and instead of applying that money to the religious uses of this orthodox denomination of Presbyterians, as is prescribed by the act of the Territory of Utah, you take that money and convey it into the treasury of the common-school system.

Why, sir, the whole United States would revolt at it. Yes, the Christian world would revolt at an act of that kind prepetrated in respect of the Presbyterian denomination.

Now, we will change it, and we will call it the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and apply the very same provisions to it. Under this bill the money comes in through the act of the Legislature of Utah Territory; it is carried into the treasury of the church, and charged there in the hands of these trustees with certain uses and trusts to which the law has subjected it. That law is not repealed, not modified, not changed in any particular. It stands there in the case of the Church of the Latter-day Saints precisely as it would in the other cases that I have supposed of the Presbyterian Church. Would not the courts be compelled to rule that these trustees should execute the trusts and purposes for which that money was paid into the treasury? You have not altered it in any way; you leave it precisely as the Utah Legislature left it; and having thus left it, the courts would compel your trustees to pay it to the uses and trusts which you have not seen proper to repeal.

Sir, I cannot get my consent to leaving this statute in force to the effect and to the extent of enabling a court of justice to require these trustees to execute the uses and purposes of that original trust. In doing it we uphold the spirit, intent, and purpose with which the original act incorporating this church was enacted. I would, as I said, put the ax to the root of the tree. If you will repeal this establishment of religion there, which establishment, in its spirit, as I have argued, was contrary to the Constitution of the United States when it was established—if you will repeal that, then allow the property of this corporation to go as the common law directs the property of dissolved corporations shall go, you have grasped the whole subject, and the downfall of that pretension of a church comes immediately. That will relieve us hereafter of all the power of these presidents, apostles, and bishops, who are now no more and no less than a mere political organization for the purpose of holding in their control the power to levy one-tenth out of every man's annual income for the support of the agents and the missionaries who surround them. Take that power away from them, and do it by tearing down the corporation. We have the right to do it. The Senator from Vermont does not deny it. We should have the right even if this corporation had been enacted in the first instance in the very best spirit and for the holiest of purposes; but being enacted, as it was, in a bad spirit and to back up a pretension and to violate and overturn the whole public sentiment of Christianity, surely we have the right in morals, under the Constitution and in justice and equity, to take down that corporation and destroy it.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The Senator will pardon me for a suggestion, as I do not want to take time on the subject of tithes. If the Senator really supposes that the use of that word in that old charter implies any legal obligation on the part of a member of the church to pay tithes, or any legal power on the part of the church or any officer in it to exact them, if he will propose an amendment to remove that word I will cheerfully vote for it; but I understand the law to be clear. Perhaps I am mistaken, probably I am if the Senator thinks so; but I understand the law to be that that matter of tithing, which is the exaction of a duty as distinguished from the performance of a marriage under ordinances that may have authorized the performance of marriages that otherwise under the law would not be admitted, is one that relates merely to church government, so that if a man does not pay his tithes they may say "You shall not come to the communion; we will not associate with you any more," just as it might be provided in any Episcopal or other church, where there were pews, that if a man did not pay his pew rent he should not be a member of that spiritual organization any longer, because he did not understand the duty of carrying on the gospel as they did. If my friend thinks there is any legal force of a right to exact or a duty to pay tithes drawn from that phrase I have not the least objection to striking it out.

Mr. MORGAN. I have been very unfortunate in my remarks if I have conveyed to the Senator from Vermont the idea that this paying of tithes was made compulsory by the act incorporating this church. I had no such idea.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I am glad to understand it.

Mr. MORGAN. Of course it is not so. It is entirely a votive offering, free on the part of the members of the church; nevertheless they exact it of themselves and they pay it into the treasury; but the receiving of these tithes by the organized officers of this church was one of the functions given to them by this law, the right to receive and the duty of accounting for these tithes and voluntary contributions of any kind. Now, sir, there are said to be millions of money paid in by these tithes heretofore which are vested in the co-operative store, in the stock of it and in the goods that are there and held in railroad stock, held indeed in various ways. For what purpose were these tithes paid in? That is the question. They were not paid in for the benefit of common schools in towns; they were paid in for the purposes declared in that charter as "the church purposes," they were paid in as a fund the application of which the church had a right to make to the uses mentioned in the act. That is the situation.

Mr. TELLER. The act does not provide for paying them in.

Mr. MORGAN. No, but I am assuming that the object of this whole transaction is to carry this fund into the common-school system of Utah Territory. I do not think the act does it; but we find a fund paid in by a voluntary tithe contribution amounting to millions of dollars to-day, I am informed and I have no doubt of it, the uses and purposes of which the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, as an incorporation, as a legal body, has a right to prescribe. That is the situation.

Now let us look at that situation. I have not defined it improperly. I think I have defined it accurately. Now let us look at it. We interpose fourteen trustees there; we leave the church standing; we leave its legal organization intact; we leave all the powers that were conferred upon it by this act of incorporation without amendment and without alteration. We have in no way undertaken to break their influence that I can see. If their influence is broken or interfered with in any way by the provisions of this proposed law, it is done in some way that I can not understand. I do not see it. There is the church and there are the millions now in the hands of the trustees of the Mormon Church which we transfer into the hands of our trustees. Do we affect the use in any way by the transfer of the mere legal holdership? By substitution of trustees appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate do we affect the purpose, the use to which that money must be applied?

Mr. EDMUNDS. It certainly could not be used for the promotion of polygamy, even if the majority of the trustees voted for such use, and the money would not be paid out, inasmuch as polygamy is a crime.

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, whenever you promote Mormonism you promote polygamy; whenever you promote the power of that church, you promote polygamy. They are one and inseparable. If polygamy is a mere disease in the Mormon Church of which it can recover, we ought to let it alone and let it have time to recover; but if polygamy is a part of the moral constitution of that church, and if the propagation of that evil is one of the things intended to be accomplished both by the legal organization and by the ecclesiastical organization, then we ought to strike it at the root whenever we have a chance. If you promote the sending of missionaries to foreign countries to hunt among the lower classes of the females there—the poor, impoverished, and ignorant wretches who never dreamed that they would own a handful of the soil in the world—for those who have a disposition to come to this country where they can become the owners of broad acres under the condition that they will subject themselves to the priests, follow their advice, take their spiritual counsel, and also their counsel in temporal affairs—if you do that by the use of this money, you accomplish all the purposes of Mormonism, except something that can be accomplished by concealment. All the public and open purposes of Mormonism are effectuated by such a use of the money as that.

Here are your trustees; here is a declaration of one of the uses for which this money was paid into the Treasury; you leave the law to stand as a guide and direction to the trustees; you leave the law to stand to be enforced by the courts, and when the church decrees that missionaries shall go abroad and shall be paid out of the church fund, your trustees must obey the command of that church, or else they must break the law under which they are appointed. Sir, I conceive that it is absolutely impossible to inject into the Mormon Church, either in its ecclesiastical or in its legal and temporal affairs, a body of fourteen trustees who can possibly execute the purposes and trusts of this original act of incorporation without at the same time maintaining and propagating the polygamous practices of that church throughout all of its dominion.

I believe, Mr. President, that the right way to do is to stop the evil by undoing that act of the Mormon Legislature, and if we had done that twenty years ago, as I remarked when I was on the floor before, I believe that by this time Mormonism would have no more influence upon the politics of the United States or upon public sentiment than that miserable Oneida community, which has dissolved itself and is now escaping from the State of New York.

While we are doing this work let us do it effectually. Let us do it in a way that will leave us no embarrassment, no partnership with the Mormon Church to assist them in conducting it in order to reform it. I do not wish to vote for a bill that puts a body of trustees selected by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate into any church upon any pretext. If this is to be regarded as a religion and a church and a religious establishment, if our duty to the Constitution compels us to regard it in that light, why do we invade it with a body of trustees? Why should we not invade the Catholic Church and appoint trustees for the college they are about to build out here, or the Methodist Church and appoint trustees to hold title to their property, or the Methodist General Conference of the United States and appoint trustees to hold their property and to manage it according to the will of those trustees? No, sir; we must either treat this as a religious establishment with which we have no right to interfere, or we must treat it as an establishment that is not entitled to the protection of the Constitution of the United States so far as to claim at the hands of Congress or of a Territorial Legislature the enactment of any law for its maintenance and its propagation. That is the view I take.

If we are prepared to strike at the Mormon Church, let us strike it a bold and a manly lick. Let us not undertake to interpolate our trustees in there for the purpose of disturbing the harmony of their progress and seeing if we can not reveal something about the villainies that they have perpetrated. Let us not undertake to run a tap upon their resources so as to draw them out in a different direction and starve them into subjection to us. Let us meet the question upon the ground that we are entitled to meet it upon, that it is an iniquity upheld in all of its legal relations, in its real power, by an act of the Legislature of a Territory, and that we as the Congress of the United States have the right to repeal that act when we are finding that mischievous consequences are likely to result from it. That is the view in which I wish to treat this question. If the honorable Senator from Vermont aspires to any control in the Mormon Church through a board of trustees or otherwise, let him have the honor. I do not wish to participate in it. I should not enjoy the idea that I was in any sense whatever, now or hereafter, responsible for the conduct of that church. It is something that we all denounce as being heathenish and barbarous, not civilized and not Christianized. It holds its legal status to-day under an act of the Legislature of Utah, for which we are responsible, because we have the right to repeal that law, and I propose now to repeal it.

Mr. CULLOM. Mr. President, I shall take up but very few minutes' time in what I shall say in reference to this bill. I am inclined to believe at present that I shall vote for most of the bill now before the Senate, if not all of it; but I have not believed at any time that the plan proposed was the correct course for the Congress of the United States to pursue in reference to this question. As some of the Senators know, early after I had the honor of taking a seat on this floor I introduced a bill, the purpose of which was to substitute a legislative commission for the Territorial Legislature of the Territory of Utah, and I still believe that we shall come to that sooner or later, whether we do so now or not; but I am not inclined at this stage of the discussion of this bill to offer that measure or any part of it as a substitute for this, for the reason that for a couple of years we have been proceeding upon the line of this bill, and all the progress we have made in punishing offenses in that Territory has been made in the past few years for the first time in the history of the effort on the part of the Government of the United States to suppress polygamy. So it may be that a change of programme in reference to legislation connected with that Territory might serve as an encouragement to those people to believe that we were going to change our policy every year or two, and result in good to them.

But, Mr. President, I am not one of those who entertain the slightest belief that those people have been persecuted by the Government of the United States. It would seem to be inferred from what appears in the RECORD and from what I heard from my distinguished friend the Senator from Colorado [Mr. TELLER], that there had been in the history of Mormonism in this country and of Congressional action a disposition to persecute those people. I have never understood it in that light. I have been foolish enough to suppose that we had done scarcely anything since the passage of the act of 1862 to interfere with their conduct as Mormons or as people engaged in the practice of polygamy.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to interrupt the Senator from Illinois to say that he must have either carelessly read my remarks or I must have carelessly made them. I made no statement whatever that the Government of the United States had oppressed these people or persecuted them. I said the agencies sent there by the Government had been unwisely selected and had been injudiciously administered; and there is where the complaint came, and not from any legislation or from any action of the General Government.

Mr. CULLOM. I am very glad to get any sort of explanation of the remarks the Senator made yesterday.

Mr. TELLER. I did not say so.

Mr. CULLOM. I will see what the Senator did say directly. But whatever the Senator may have said, I undertake to assert that never in the history of this Government, or any other, has such an infamous establishment, in the face and in defiance of law and government, gone on as has that institution in the Territory of Utah in defiance of law. Why, let us see a little about the history of these people. The word "persecution" is certainly in the remarks of the Senator, and I will read them directly so that he may not be misunderstood.

Mr. TELLER. Certainly I did not say what has been attributed to me. I say they have been persecuted by Government agencies, by the improper conduct and service of the officers sent there to enforce what I admit to be a proper and just law.

Mr. CULLOM. Before we go further let us see just what the Senator said, because I certainly would not misrepresent him on this question or on any other. He said:

I have had some knowledge of the persecutions they have endured at the hands of Government officials, and I say here, as I have said again and again, with a full knowledge of how unpopular it might be to say it, that if the Government officials had been sent there, who would have faithfully administered the old law, existing for twenty years, polygamy would now be as dead as any other wicked institution that has departed with the light of civilization.

Again:

Men who were Mormons and who adhered to the faith of Joseph declared that polygamy was not a part and parcel of the Mormon religion. By our persecution we drove that class of people to silence. We silenced them as you will always silence the voice of a considerable minority when persecution and outrages are resorted to to accomplish even what may be a good end.

And again:

This bill, in my judgment, bristles everywhere with vengeance and blood.

Mr. TELLER. That I do not take back.

Mr. CULLOM. Again the Senator said:

I am as anxious to clear the country from the crime at which it professes to aim as anybody, and I shall vote for all proper and respectable and constitutional measures for that purpose. But, Mr. President, in my judgment it is quite as creditable that polygamy should exist untouched within our borders as that we should go beyond the constitutional powers of the Government and establish a precedent here that may come back some time to rebuke us and to cause us immense trouble.

Where has been the persecution of those people? It may be true that there have been some judges sent out there who were not the best men to have been sent; and I want to say here that I believe the Government of the United States has been less careful in the selection of public officers for the Territories, not only Utah but all the rest, than it has been in almost any other respect; but the simple fact exists that in 1862 Congress passed a law declaring polygamy a crime and providing for its punishment, and from that day until within the last year or two there has been nothing done to enforce the law effectually, and the Mormon people of that Territory have been going forward in open defiance of the law and the Government authorities. Is not that true? Every man knows that that is the history of the Territory, and I say it is an open and burning shame that the Government of the United States, if it believes that to be a crime and presumes to believe it in the light of its institutions and of the law which stands upon the statute-book, should trifle with the question any longer.

As far as I am concerned, I have been in favor of going right to the bottom of the whole question and wiping out the Territorial Legislature which has existed there, and which, as the Senator from Alabama has said, is made up of bishops and priests and officers of the Mormon Church. I undertake to say that while I shall vote for this bill or the most of it as the best thing that we can probably get through Congress to-day, in my judgment we shall fail by passing it of getting rid of that institution. It may help somewhat, but in the end we shall have to come to the proposition of taking out of those people's hands the political power which has existed in them ever since the Territory was established. We can not get rid of the evil as long as the heads of the church are running the political organization of the Territory. I should like to see a bill passed by the Congress of the United States stripping that Territory of all political control and placing it in the hands of a legislative commission composed of nine or thirteen men, including the governor, to be appointed by the President, confirmed by the Senate, and have their laws subject to the approval or disapproval of the Congress of the United States.

Let me say another word about this Mormon population. The truth is, sir, that instead of persecution having been attempted upon those people because of their religion or any other cause, history shows that from their very first organization, beginning at Palmyra, N. Y., from thence to Kirtland, Ohio, in your own State, sir, from thence to Independence, Mo., from thence to Nauvoo, Ill., from thence to Council Bluffs, in Iowa, and from thence to Salt Lake, their track has been one of outrage, one of disregard of law, one of disregard of the public or private rights of the surrounding people, and such course has made it absolutely necessary that they should be driven from the communities or localities in which they had settled. There has been no persecution of them. I would be among the last ever to cast my vote for persecution of any man or the injury of any man or set of men on account of religion; but, as the Senator from Alabama has said, I do not regard their conduct as in any way involving a question of religion. Their conduct is in open defiance of law. I would apply the same rule to members of other religious denominations—Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists, or what not. If they set themselves up in defiance of the laws of the country, as individuals they should be prosecuted and made to obey the law as other citizens of the Republic; and there is no purpose, I trust, in this bill, so far as the committee reporting it is concerned, to persecute anybody on account of his religion.

But, sir, we must either quit talking about this question, repeal the law of 1862 and say to those people "Go on with your practices as you have done for the last twenty or thirty years," or bring the power of this Government to the proposition that the defiance of law by those people shall be stopped.

That is all I have to say. I shall vote, as I said, for this bill. I would much prefer going to the simple proposition of divesting those people of their political power, placing it in the hands of a commission under the control of the President and Senate, and allowing them to legislate for the Territory until the evil has been gotten rid of. But I suppose it is of no use for me to-day to offer such an amendment to this bill, because, as was said yesterday, it probably would not receive the sanction of the Senate. In other words, this bill is to go through as it is. But I wanted to say this much before we come to a vote on the bill, because I have faith that within four years' time we shall be passing just exactly the bill I have proposed to-day or something like it.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President, I expressed my idea yesterday of perhaps the folly of a man saying anything against this bill; first, because it comes from a committee of so high authority in this body; secondly, because it touches a question that I do not think the mass of the people are capable of coolly, carefully, dispassionately discussing, and no better illustration can be made of that than when a Senator on this floor who has read my remarks arises and attributes to me what I never said, either in letter or in spirit. On any other subject the honorable Senator from Illinois would not have made that blunder. On this subject he, like the great mass of men, thinks from his prejudices, thinks from his anger at an evil that I am as free to condemn and as anxious to extirpate as he is; but I am anxious to do it under the forms and under the color of law. I have been educated in a school which taught me that whenever a government attempted to repress crime by methods unknown to the law it was a greater crime than that which it attempted to repress, because it is the greatest of all crimes.

Mr. President, polygamy is a crime; but it is not greater than murder, it is not greater than other crimes known in the catalogue of human vice. It is contrary to our ideas of civilization; it is contrary to our judgment of what is to the best interest of a political organization; it is contrary to our religious convictions, and therefore we do not look at it with calm consideration, and we do not consider when we come to attempt to put our hand upon it how we are to best do it. We want, as a Senator said to me to-day, to put the knife in. So say I, but put the knife in under the color of law; put the knife in by a constitutional movement.

I believe the act of 1862 was sufficient to have eradicated this evil if it had been properly administered. I believe it was a proper law. I have never criticised it; I have never criticised the action of the General Government; but I say its agencies sent there from time to time were of a character that was calculated to defeat the laudable purpose of the law. I joined, as a member of the committee and as a member of the Senate, in the passage of the act of 1882. I believe that act is now capable of carrying out and completing the end which we all are so desirous to attain. I did not intend yesterday in my criticisms to criticise the past transactions under this law, but to criticise the actions under the old law. The honorable Senator says we all know that no effort was made to enforce it. That is what I complain of. For fifteen years the Government made practically no effort at all; it sent men out there who professedly for a time attempted to enforce it in the most odious and most objectionable manner possible, and yet did nothing.

Whether these people have been persecuted or not is a matter of judgment. I do not yield to any man on this floor in knowledge on this question. I know these people as well as anybody here does, and I know their history as well; but I am no believer in their religion. I regard their chief prophet as an arrant knave. I do not believe any revelation was ever made to Joe Smith or to Brigham Young or to anybody else. I regard this as an oligarchy or a religious despotism that ought to be wiped out, but it must be done by law. If you can justify the transgression of fundamental principles of constitutional law in this case, you can do it in a hundred others. If the enormity of the crime that is to be stricken down is a justification for the transgression of law, then you may find it everywhere, and no rights are sacred. It becomes a question of prejudice and of passion and of hate.

I did say that this bill bristled with blood and with vengeance, and I repeat it, and I propose to show it. I propose to show here that there never was such a bill introduced in any legislative body in the world, and no such bill was ever enacted into a law, and that too when, by the report of the commission that we sent out there, it is evident that there is no necessity for this extreme and new legislation.

Yesterday it was said that the wife could be compelled anywhere in the States to testify against the husband. I deny it. I do not know but that there may be some State where the expression has been used that the wife may be compelled to testify against the husband. I doubt it, however. She may testify, but she is not compelled to do so. If she does not testify, what is the result? She is committed for contempt, she goes to jail, she remains there till her scruples are overcome or until the judge relents.

Mr. President, however good may be the judges, however good may be the marshal, however good may be the governor of this Territory—and I have not a word to say against one of them—they are sitting there amidst the greatest possible excitement, with the greatest possible prejudice surrounding them, and that which might be tolerable and might be endured in some communities may be used as a grievously oppressive measure to those people and compel the woman to testify whether she will or no. Why, Mr. President, you would not do so in murder. Is this a greater crime than murder? You would not do it in rape; you would not do it in any of the great crimes known to the statutes. Why should you do it in this?

There are many other things in this bill that I say are inconsistent with good legislation, and it will not be any answer to me if the Senator from Vermont should discover that some State had enacted even a law like unto it. I upon this question must act upon my judgment and not upon the precedent of somebody else. I do not believe he can find such a precedent; but if he can, it would not be sufficient to induce me to vote for that kind of a law.

Now another point. I called attention to it yesterday. Section 2 of this bill provides:

That in any prosecution for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation, under any statute of the United States, whether before a United States commissioner, justice, judge, a grand jury, or any court, an attachment for any witness may be issued by the court, judge, or commissioner, without a previous subpœna, compelling the immediate attendance of such witness, when it shall appear to the commissioner, justice, judge, or court, as the case may be, that there is reasonable ground to believe that such witness will unlawfully fail to obey a subpœna issued and served in the usual course in such cases; and in such case the usual witness-fees shall be paid to such witness so attached: Provided, That no person shall be held in custody under any attachment issued as provided by this section for a longer period than ten days.

That is to say, under this section, if the court should conclude that the witness may not appear, he may be arrested and held for ten days and no longer. This does not interfere with the other question that I presented, that the woman who should decline to answer might be guilty of contempt and might be indefinitely imprisoned. I know there is a similar statute in the States with reference to the holding of witnesses to bail, but I know that it is a dangerous power to put in the hands of anybody at any time, much less in such states of excitement as will and must necessarily exist in the execution of these laws.

Mr. President, I called attention yesterday to the marshalship. I called attention to the fact that the marshal and all his deputies, with unlimited power to make them by the hundred or the thousand, was made the committing magistrate for every offense known to the law. The Senator from Vermont said in reply to the Senator from Alabama that it would be a discrimination if this corporation should be annulled, and yet I find that yesterday, with his sanction and support, the Senate almost unanimously voted that the provision for repealing the act conferring suffrage upon women should be abolished in Utah, while it was left to exist in Washington and Wyoming Territories.

There are many harsh methods employed here. The superintendent of schools, who I find by the report of the commission can be appointed by the governor of the Territory, who is not a Mormon, is to be appointed by whom? By the court. I deny, in the first place, the power of this Congress to constitute a judicial tribunal the appointing power in that Territory; but if they had the power, is it wise and proper to exercise it when it is known by everybody that the great hatred of the whole community is focused upon this court? I do not say rightfully, I do not say the court deserve it, but nevertheless that is a fact which no man will deny. Why select a tribunal that is the most odious of all to these people and say this tribunal may make this appointment? Why not confer it upon the governor? Why not confer it upon the President? I do not say that intentionally, but I do say that, unfortunately, throughout this bill there is a look as if it were as much for vengeance as for anything else.

I said yesterday, with the little poetic license that a man speaking will sometimes use, that the Government should put its strong hand upon these people with a velvety touch. The honorable Senator from Vermont took me up and said in substance that it would not do to have a velvety touch. I meant by that that all punishment should be for reformation; that punishment should not be for vengeance, but for reform. I believe it to be the truest principle ever enunciated that all legislation looking to the punishment of crime should be with reference to the reformation of the criminal and not to punishing him in the strictest sense of the term, not for vengeance but for reform; and so I say that all those people living in that Territory have their prejudices, and we, step by step, are undoing what the commission has been so valiantly and, I believe, so effectively doing. This commission reported that in the year 1884 four hundred and some odd plural marriages were solemnized in the Territory, and that last year practically none were. This commission has undoubtedly done an effective work. They have met with much opposition, with much hostility, not only from Mormons, but, I am sorry to say, from people who differed with them as to the means of executing the law and the ability of this commission under the law to eradicate the evil. We are all seeking the same purpose, and that is ridding this fair Territory of the evil of polygamy. It is not a part of the Mormon religion; it is an excrescence that has been put upon it by its false prophets and leaders.

The honorable Senator from Illinois says these people have never been persecuted. I do not say that there is any legislation on the statute-book now that I would not have voted for had I been a member of this body. I do not say that the Government in its governmental capacity has ever made a movement against these people that was unfair or unjust; but I say just what he said. He said he thought the Government had been careless in the selection of its agents. I say the Government has been unwise in the selection in former times of its agents, and persons have been sent there to hold high official positions who have done nothing toward enforcing your law and, in my judgment, did not want to enforce it, because if they did their stock in trade would be gone.

Mr. CULLOM. What does the Senator think of the present chief-justice of that Territory?

Mr. TELLER. I do not know who the chief-justice is. I have not made an accusation against any judge or any member of that court, and I did not refer to them yesterday at all in any terms but those of approval. I do not now. I think that perhaps they are all right. I do not know anything about it. I have heard no complaint about that court at all.

Mr. CULLOM. Is it not true that the laws have been, to some extent at least, executed there within the last year?

Mr. TELLER. I understand to-day under the law now in existence that by the aid of the court and the commission twenty-three prominent officials of the Mormon Church have been convicted, and I do not know how many subordinates; that to-day the principal leaders of that church are either in the penitentiary or hiding. That is what I approve of, and that is what I say is legislation in the right direction, and that is what will ultimately accomplish the destruction of the objectionable system.

The honorable Senator from Illinois seems to think that I am an especial advocate of the Mormon people, and the honorable Senator from Vermont yesterday referred to me as being tender-hearted. Why, Mr. President, I believe that my ear has always listened to the cry of the oppressed and distressed. I believe that I may have a weakness, when people complain of oppression, no matter from whence it comes, and a desire to look into it. I ought to have. I come of a race that has had it, and I glory in it. It is not that I propose to wink at the infraction of law; it is not that I want these men to go unpunished if they continue to violate the statutes of the United States, but I want it done in such a manner that the enemies, the neighbors of the men in Mormondom who are anxious to submit themselves to the law can not say, "Why, this is not a proper execution of the law; this is oppression, this is persecution, and you must resist it." That is what I meant when I complained yesterday that we were driving this minority, that a few years ago could be heard everywhere denouncing polygamy, into silence and death.

Mr. CULLOM. Will the Senator allow me a word?

Mr. TELLER. Certainly.

Mr. CULLOM. I believe the Senator has announced that he was not in favor of the bill now before the Senate.

Mr. TELLER. I have, most emphatically.

Mr. CULLOM. I will inquire whether he would favor a substitute providing for a legislative commission to take the place of the Territorial Legislature?

Mr. TELLER. When that question comes before the Senate I will examine it. I will state what I favor. I favor taking away from the Mormons the entire legislative authority and vesting it in Congress. That is what I think ought to have been done years ago. I think we ought to take the initiatory, and when any legislation is wanted for that Territory give it to them. That is my judgment about it. It will depend on how the commission is formed whether I will favor a commission. I am in favor, as the Senator is, of taking from these people the right of legislation, because it is an unquestioned right of Congress to legislate for them if it sees fit, and it is no denial of the right of citizenship and freedom to do that in the Territories, as has been repeatedly held both by this body and by the other.

I believe, Mr. President, that I have had some, perhaps a little more, opportunity to know personally some of these people than any other member of this body. I do not believe that all these Mormons are simply knaves. I believe the great mass of the Mormon Church are fanatics, steeped in fanaticism, believing in that religion of theirs as the true religion. I can not account for it; I can not understand it; but yet I know that more than two hundred millions of people are believers in Mohammedanism. I know that an obscure individual put upon the world a religion that has dominated a third of the surface of the earth; and I know that history records the fact that the Mahommedans have gone to the stake, they have gone to battle and died in defense of their religion. They have been aggressive fanatics. Who says they did not believe in it?

The Mormons have been bad men, says the Senator, and they got up strife in Kirtland, they got it up in Nauvoo. Who has written their record? Who makes the statement? Their enemies. False religion ought to and must necessarily beget false conduct in its devotees. It is only pure religion that makes men better. When I have admitted that their religion was false, the premises are established and the conclusion must be drawn that they can not be the best of men under it. I do not defend them; but I do say to the Senator that he can go back to the history of Kirtland, or he can take their history in Missouri, or he can take their history in Illinois, and there are many phases of it that neither he nor I ought to read without blushing for our own people. I will not take their testimony; but let some man read from the work before me the testimony of Governor Ford, of Illinois. The Senator knows him, or knows of him at least. He is dead now. The Senator knows that he made probably a truthful statement, surrounded as he was by an excited populace who hated the Mormons and who hunted them to the death; and what does he say? He lays the blame of what occurred at Nauvoo upon his own constituents and not upon the Mormons. Fifteen thousand people, with all the arts and sciences, with commerce and trade, were attacked in open daylight and driven to the death across the river and into a foreign land, taking their household goods and their families and going into the wilderness; and do you tell me that they went that they might practice polygamy? They went for a sentiment, false it may have been. They went, as they supposed, that they might worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience and as they believed they ought to do. They went up to what is now the city of Council Bluffs. There was nobody there except the red man to welcome them. There was no one for them to come in contact with. They sat down there and they waited. They gave to the Government that had failed to protect them in Nauvoo, that had failed to protect them in Missouri, five hundred of their stalwart men to go out and battle for the flag, and then they began their weary march for 1,200 miles across the desert. Do you believe they went there to practice polygamy? They could have practiced it in any of the great cities of this country with as little fear as men now practice another vice, which is the same thing save and except that in the one instance the man gives to the woman the character of wife.

They went out there and they came in July, 1847, into the valley of the Salt Lake. They endured hunger and thirst and were in danger of savage hordes.

No man can read that history without feeling for them some little sympathy, not that he need necessarily approve of their false ideas, but he can at least recognize the fact that they are men, and he can recognize the fact that they possess the noblest of human aspirations, the determination to exercise free and uncontrolled their religious belief. It is a virtue of the Anglo-Saxon race. It is a virtue we ought all to be proud of, though sometimes it may be debased in a wicked cause. They built up that country as I said. I hold in my hand a letter written by Mr. Bowles, whom you all recollect as the able editor of the Springfield Republican, who visited Salt Lake City in 1865. He says: "My visit has increased my admiration for these people, and it has also increased my detestation of the barbarous system of polygamy." My observation there has had the same effect on me. Coming in contact with them you find them possessed of many virtues, not that all their virtues should overcome this one vice, but they have some virtues.

Mr. President, I know it has been said to me here to-day "you ought not to have defended those people; you ought not to put yourself in the position of being an advocate for a people of this character." Why, Mr. President, I will bear testimony to their virtues and I will condemn their vice. I am not to be deterred because somebody says "you must be a Jack Mormon." I will not vote contrary to my conscience and judgment for anything although it may accomplish, even if I believed it would accomplish, the purpose for which it was intended if it was contrary to law. I hold my allegiance to the law, to the fundamental principles that pervade all civilized governments now, that there shall be no interference with men's religious belief. The honorable Senator from Alabama says he does not call it religion. It is immaterial whether it is religion or not; we can reach the evil, the excrescence attached to it, without violating any of the fundamental principles which I have mentioned; we can disestablish this church, we can wipe out this organization. That I am in favor of, whether the Mormons like it or whether they do not. I am in favor of abolishing it, because I find that to do so is consistent with law. I believe myself we have a right to dissolve every corporation within the jurisdiction of the National Government if in our judgment it is not subservient to the good of the people.

I hope nobody will understand me as finding fault either with the act of 1862 or the act of 1882, twenty years later. I hope nobody will misunderstand me and suppose because I have stood here and said these people had some virtues, that I am ignorant of the fact that they have a system which is destructive of the marriage relation, and I believe is the outgrowth of barbarism and not of civilization. I trust that I shall have accorded to me in this body at least the idea that I am honest when I say I do not believe in polygamy. I think that at least I may have the credit of speaking in defense of a people who are without friends, and I think I ought to have at least the credit of being considered sincere when I take up so forlorn a hope as this with the absolute certainty that the great power of the Senator from Vermont with his great committee will put through this bill substantially as it now is before the Senate.

Mr. CULLOM. As the Senator from Colorado has referred to my State and to one of the governors of the State, I should like to read here one paragraph that Governor Ford uttered.

Mr. TELLER. I should be glad if the Senator would then read one or two paragraphs that I shall hand him.

Mr. CULLOM. Governor Ford says in his history:

"Smith had the idea of making himself a temporal prince as well as spiritual leader of his people. He caused himself to be crowned and annointed king and priest far above the rest." He further says that the Mormons openly denounced the Government of the United States as utterly corrupt and about to pass away, to be replaced by the government of God, to be administered by his servant Joseph.

That is the language of Governor Ford of my State.

I will make another remark. The Senator said the Mormons went from Illinois to Council Bluffs, that they settled among the Indians, there being no white people there. The fact is that there were white people in that neighborhood, although the country was sparsely settled, and that the Mormons were driven out of there because they were stealing those people's property and everything they could get their hands upon, just as they did at Kirtland, Ohio, at Independence, Mo., at Nauvoo, Ill., and so on around the whole tramp that they made.

Mr. TELLER. As the honorable Senator has read from the statement made by Governor Ford I think I may at least present him and the Senate the views of Governor Ford upon that subject. They are too lengthy to read at this late hour of the day, but I will state in substance what the governor said, and the Senator may look it over and correct me if I am incorrect.

The governor in his report of the trouble that arose at Nauvoo in 1844 gives a detailed account of the complaints that were made against the Mormons. He then gives an account of the attack made upon the city of Nauvoo and the little town of Lima, where the people came and massacred the Mormons without excuse. We ought not to overlook the fact that this was in an old and settled region of the country, that there was a civilized and established government in Illinois, that it had a governor and all of the paraphernalia of government ready to punish any offense the Mormons might commit. The courts were not in their interest; the courts were not in their sympathy. Unable to convict these people of the crimes that were laid at their door, the people armed themselves for the purpose, as it was said, of a wolf-hunt, and they went out and when they came to the Mormon settlement they destroyed it; when they came to the city of Nauvoo they took possession of it; and the governor details how they turned these people out without even their goods, and turned them across the river, and he details the sufferings and the destitution of these people as they went from that section of the country.

Mr. President, I do not doubt but what when they got to Council Bluffs they stole all the stock they could get. I should not be surprised if they stole some in Illinois. It is a notorious fact which needs only to be mentioned to have everybody admit it that force begets force and wrong begets wrong, and whether the Mormons were the originators or whether the others were is immaterial; but a conflict had arisen in Illinois between the Mormons amounting to many thousands and the people thereabout. They had not yet adopted polygamy, publicly at least; that charge was not then brought against them; all the other charges were, and it is possible that they were guilty. I will leave that question. I do not know but that they were guilty, and I do not know that they were; but I do know that the governor condemns in the strongest possible terms the conduct of the citizens of Illinois as being contrary to justice and right.

Mr. CULLOM. Does the Senator know also that there could not be writs served on persons inside of the city limits of Nauvoo except by consent of Joseph Smith?

Mr. TELLER. No, Mr. President, I do not.

Mr. CULLOM. I do know it.

Mr. TELLER. I know that was charged, but I know that the great State of Illinois, within whose borders I lived some years, has always since 1818 had the power to enforce its precepts. I know that the governor called out the militia and I know that the precepts of the State could be enforced, and I have no doubt they were. The complaint that the governor made was that the people would not wait until he could enforce the law. They took it into their own hands.

Mr. CULLOM. The fact is that civil writs by sheriffs and constables could not be served on the people inside of the city limits of Nauvoo; and that difficulty, in connection with the outrages committed by those people outside of the city limits upon the inhabitants generally, brought on the difficulty, which perhaps was somewhat irregular in its beginning. The Senator seems disposed to take the side of the Mormons all the way through.

Mr. TELLER. Mr. President, I knew that my conduct would be liable to that construction, at least from those who can not see beyond their prejudice and their passion. I knew the risk that I took in defense of what I believe to be a constitutional right that these people have, not the right to practice polygamy, but the right to be treated as we treat every other citizen of this great country until they infringe the law, and then that they may be punished according to the forms and methods known to the law. I do not charge the people of Illinois with anything that would not have occurred in any other section of the country. I do think the people of Illinois are equal to the people of any other section of the country. I have made no charges against them. I simply said that force begat force; and when these people were robbed, as he must admit they were, of their property and driven from their homes, they would, in the nature of things, retaliate in kind. Every person in the world, especially one moved by a false religion and false ideas, would do that. It is only the people who yield to the precepts of the Saviour, who says that you shall forget and forgive, who would have yielded and gone out and obeyed the laws after that. They said, "We have been plundered and robbed; we will plunder again."

Mr. CULLOM. Does the Senator say, or mean to be understood as saying, that in these different localities the people who were not Mormons were the persons who inaugurated the stealings and plunders?

Mr. TELLER. I said I did not know about that and did not pretend to know.

Mr. CULLOM. The Senator states that it is no wonder the Mormons would steal from those who would steal from them, or substantially that. All the way through his remarks he puts the people who were not Mormons upon the defensive, and advocates the side of these persons who have been so outrageous in their conduct that the people drove them out of the different localities where they settled. The Senator must know that there is something wrong about any population or class of people who can not be allowed to live in the midst of other people, as has been the fact with reference to the Mormons. As I said in the beginning, they were driven out of Palmyra, in New York. Could not they live with the people of New York if they behaved themselves? Are not the people of Kirtland, that these innocent Mormons could not live with, worthy people? So at Independence and Nauvoo and Council Bluffs. The very fact that these people have been driven from place to place is evidence, to my mind conclusive, that they were not law-abiding citizens, and therefore the citizens of the locality had to drive them away.

Mr. TELLER. The honorable Senator seems to think because these people violated law, because they stole horses in Illinois, the people of Illinois were justified in stealing horses from them. That is a logic that I have not been accustomed to hear.

Mr. CULLOM. The Senator from Illinois never made the statement that the people of Illinois ever stole anything from the Mormons.

Mr. TELLER. The governor of the State so declares, and the Senator has read it over and over again, for he can not be ignorant of the history of Illinois. The governor declares that they had destroyed their property and robbed them of it; in so many words appears the proof. If there was time I would read it, and if the Senator insists on it it can be read. I say that wrong begets wrong. Now, allow that the Mormons were the aggressors; allow that they went out and stole the horses and outraged the people of that community, does the Senator say it justified an attack upon the town of Nauvoo and its destruction by a disorderly mob? Does he not know that it was the duty of the authorities of that State to have redressed the wrongs of the people who had been outraged by the Mormons in the rightful and proper manner? They took the law into their own hands, and then, of course, whether they were right in the beginning or whether they were wrong, it came back in just the kind that they meted out to these people.

The honorable Senator alludes again to the fact that I seem to be defending the Mormons. I am not defending the Mormons. I am stating facts of history that the Senator can not, by misinterpretation of what I say, get rid of facts that are recorded by not their friends, but by their enemies; facts recorded by the governor of the State, who had every interest in that great community, excited as they were, to give a coloring in favor of his own constituents and against these people who had already fled from his borders.

Mr. BLAIR. I wish, as it is impossible to conclude the bill to-night, to offer an amendment to be printed.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I intend to have it concluded if it be possible.

Mr. BLAIR. I desire to offer this amendment to be added as another section to the bill:

> In all prosecutions for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation, or conspiracy to commit, or conspiracy to aid or abet the commission, of any one of said crimes, by direction of the Chief-Justice of the United States, the charge may be investigated by a grand jury and indictment found, and trial, conviction, and sentence, and all proceedings had thereon in the proper court of the United States in such State or Territory outside the Territory of Utah as will, in the judgment of the Chief-Justice, best afford the opportunity of impartial proceedings and promote the ends of justice; and either party may apply to the Chief-Justice to fix the place for any of the steps taken in such proceeding.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be received and printed if there be no objection. It is not now in order.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN.] I only wish to take a minute in stating for the committee that we hope this amendment will not be adopted. The policy of this bill has been to preserve the people of that Territory, and not to consolidate the different sects of the Mormon Church as they now exist there. His amendment strikes at the whole church and disestablishes every part of the Mormon Church, whether polygamous or anti-polygamous. The committee do not think that it is the wise way at this time to deal with that Territory. We therefore hope the amendment will not be agreed to.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Mr. President, without desiring to say a word upon the merits of this bill or any of its provisions, I still think it proper to make a correction of a portion of the statement made by the Senator from Vermont yesterday, as I understood it, that the provision of this bill as it affects the power to compel the testimony of husband or wife against each other is substantially the same as the statutes of New Hampshire and Nebraska and twenty-five States of this Union. Did I understand the Senator correctly?

Mr. EDMUNDS. I do not know whether the Senator did or not. I have not looked at my remarks.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Then, to refresh the Senator's recollection, I will read what he said:

> There is nothing, therefore, in the penal part of this bill relating to the punishment of the crime of polygamy that does not exist in substance and almost in form, going to the extent of giving evidence by husbands and wives against each other, in every single State in this Union. I have looked at the statutes of Nebraska since my friend from Nebraska alluded to that point, and found that the laws of Nebraska, their standing statutes, are in substance just the same thing.
>
> Mr. TELLER. On what point?
>
> Mr. EDMUNDS. On the point of husband and wife giving evidence against each other in criminal prosecutions that affect either the one or the other. I looked at the statutes of New Hampshire after my friend from New Hampshire alluded to that point yesterday, and I found they had the same.

Is the Senator's recollection refreshed by the reading of his speech?

Mr. EDMUNDS. Not much. [Laughter].

Mr. VAN WYCK. Then I take it for granted that the Senator believes to-day as he stated yesterday.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Yes.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I take that for granted. His memory is not refreshed sufficiently at least to contradict the statement he made yesterday. Now, Mr. President, I fail to see in the statute of Nebraska, as my friend from New Hampshire does in the statute of New Hampshire, that the features are the same as this bill contains. I think the Senator from Vermont will not find in the statutes of any State of this Union provisions such as that which is incorporated in this bill. I do not now say whether this provision is right or wrong, or whether the enormity of the crime to be stricken at in Utah is not so great that that people should be visited by legislation such as is not found in any statute in this Union or probably in any civilized country on the globe.

The statutes of some States provide so carefully that they deal in minute particulars wherein they allow a departure from the great principle of the common law as to the sacred bond that holds the virtuous marriage relation upon the foundation on which it was builded. It has been guarded so tenderly that a statute has never dared to touch it unless it pointed out particularly the respects wherein the testimony should be receivable. That is the legislation of his own State of Vermont. Now let me show this just for a moment, because this is apart from the consideration of polygamy and its crime. It is higher, and above, and beyond that. This bill provides:

> In any prosecution for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation, under any statute of the United States, the lawful husband or wife of the person accused shall be a competent witness.

Does it do as the statute of every State says on what points husband or wife may testify? No. "A competent witness" in the case as any other witness, and therefore a witness to prove any transaction or crime or offense which the prosecutor chooses to ask of that witness. This bill makes the husband and wife competent witnesses against each other in the case to prove anything. That is my point. Now, I should like my attention to be called to the statute of any State which justifies or allows or compels a husband or a wife to be a competent witness for anything that may be sought to be proved in the suit pending. This bill says:

> And may be called and may be compelled to testify in such proceeding, examination, or prosecution without the consent of the husband or wife, as the case may be; but——

Mr. EDMUNDS. Yes.

Mr. VAN WYCK. The Senator says "yes;" precisely. It is not so in any other State to which he can call our attention. There is one negative my friend says triumphantly—

> But such witness shall not be permitted to testify as to any confidential statement or communication made by either husband or wife to each other during the existence of the marriage relation.

He or she may testify to everything else, is a competent witness as to everything else, which she or he is not made I think by the statute of any State in this Union, so carefully are their laws guarded. Let me call the attention of the Senator to his own State in her revised statutes. In a case of civil damage, where the sale of intoxicating drinks has produced a cause of action, the Vermont law says:

> No person shall be disqualified as a witness by reason of the marriage relation in a proceding under this section.

Again, by the Vermont statutes, in actions against a savings-bank by a husband to recover for moneys deposited by his wife in her name or as her money, the wife may be a witness as if she were an unmarried woman.

Is there any statute in the State of Vermont which compels a husband or wife to be a witness against the other, even in an immaterial matter, where he or she is indicted for an offense? If so, I have not found it. If that exists, the Senator from Vermont can call our attention to it.

Then look at Massachusetts; and we look upon Massachusetts as the height. In one provision the Massachusetts law is—

Neither husband nor wife—

Part of the provision in this bill is in the law of Massachusetts, but the other part is not—

Neither husband nor wife shall be allowed to testify as to private conversations with each other.

Oh, yes, the Senator from Vermont says that provision of the Massachusetts law is here, but that is all of it there is here. It is only the negative part of this law which is proposed by the Judiciary Committee:

Neither husband nor wife shall be allowed to testify as to private conversations with each other.

There is more in the Massachusetts law, that there may be no doubt about permitting the virtuous marriage relation being disturbed:

Neither husband nor wife shall be compelled to be a witness in any trial upon an indictment, complaint, or other criminal proceedings against the other.

That is the Massachusetts law. She is entitled to all the glory which the world gives her. She preserves good laws in her statute-book yet. No such law as this could the Senator from Massachusetts from the Judiciary Committee inflict upon any other portion of the country.

Now we come to New York, not so virtuous probably as New Hampshire or as Vermont, because the region is not so cold, not so good as Massachusetts, because Massachusetts is nearer to Vermont than New York is, but New York has a very large city and it is probably necessary to go a little further there, but even she guards the marriage relation. New York says:

Nothing herein contained shall render any husband or wife competent or compellable to give evidence for or against the other in any criminal action or proceeding (except to prove the fact of marriage in case of bigamy)—

That is all she can prove. You may put the wife or husband on the stand, but you can prove by him or her only one thing, and must stop there. That is what New York says, nearly as wicked probably as Utah, by comparison. New York says you can only compel the husband or wife to prove the fact of bigamy. Will the Senator from Vermont put that language in this bill to restrict the effect of it as the statute of New York says, providing that in case of bigamy one or the other may be a witness, but only to prove one fact, and there they must stop—prove the fact of marriage, nothing more—

Or in any action or proceeding instituted in consequence of adultery, or in any action or proceeding for divorce on account of adultery (except to prove the fact of marriage), or in any action or proceeding for or on account of criminal conversation.

Where are the twenty-five States that have the provision of this bill? I have gone from Vermont away down to New York, and probably it is not necessary to go either up or down any further. The others probably are the same. In his own State the witness is not allowed, and in the good old State of Massachusetts it expressly says it can not be done, and in New York, where probably there may be greater necessity, it says it can only be done to prove one fact, and that is the fact of marriage. If it be that we are making a great divergence let it be understood, not that this is in conformity with the legislation of the States of this Union, but that it is an innovation, going further beyond the settled law than ever has been gone before. Let it be so understood, and then let the justice, or rather the emergency, of this occasion be the only excuse upon which we seek to make this innovation which never has been proposed by any State statute to which my attention has been called. It may be that the Senator from Vermont with his vast experience and greater knowledge will be able to call our attention to such a statute, but I have not found it.

Mr. VEST. I should like to ask a question of the Senator from Vermont who has charge of this bill. I should like to know how these fourteen commissioners are to be paid for their services and what amount?

Mr. EDMUNDS. The bill does not make any provision.

Mr. VEST. Is it proposed to pass this law and leave that matter in its present condition?

Mr. EDMUNDS. That is my proposition.

Mr. VEST. Then it is to be a matter for subsequent legislation, I suppose.

Mr. EDMUNDS. It is to come into an appropriation bill if this bill passes.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Alabama [Mr. MORGAN].

Mr. MORGAN called for the yeas and nays; and they were ordered.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the amendment be again read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It will be again read.

The CHIEF CLERK. It is proposed to strike out all of section 12 after the word "annulled," in line 7, and insert in lieu thereof:

And the property of said corporation, of every kind, shall be disposed of according to the rules and principles of the common law as in case of the dissolution of a corporation.

Mr. MORGAN. I wish to have the amendment read in connection with the section, so that the Senate will catch the whole idea.

Mr. HOAR. I think we all understand it.

Mr. MORGAN. Not on this side of the Chamber.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The section will be read as proposed to be amended.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

SEC. 12. That the acts of the Legislative Assembly of Utah incorporating, continuing, or providing for the corporation known as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the ordinance of the so-called General Assembly of the State of Deseret incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, so far as the same may now have legal force and validity, are hereby disapproved and annulled, and the property of said corporation of every kind shall be disposed of according to the rules and principles of the common law as in the case of the dissolution of a corporation.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BROWN (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. PIKE]. I do not see him in the Chamber. If he were present, I should vote "yea."

Mr. DAWES (when his name was called). Upon this question I am paired with the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PLUMB]. If he were here, he would vote "yea" and I should vote "nay."

Mr. JACKSON (when his name was called). I am paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. MILLER]. Not knowing how he would vote, I withhold my vote.

Mr. SABIN (when his name was called). On this bill I am paired with the Senator from West Virginia [Mr. KENNA]. If he were here, he would vote "yea" on this amendment and I should vote "nay."

The roll-call having been concluded, the result was announced—yeas 18, nays 32; as follows:

YEAS—18.

Berry,	George,	Morgan,	Vest,
Blackburn,	Gibson,	Payne,	Voorhees,
Call,	Gray,	Saulsbury,	Walthall.
Eustis,	Hampton,	Teller,
Evarts,	Jones of Arkansas,	Vance,

NAYS—32.

Allison,	Dolph,	Logan,	Palmer,
Blair,	Edmunds,	McMillan,	Platt,
Cameron,	Frye,	Mahone,	Pugh,
Chace,	Hale,	Manderson,	Sawyer,
Cockrell,	Harrison,	Maxey,	Sherman,
Coke,	Hawley,	Mitchell of Oreg.,	Spooner,
Conger,	Hoar,	Mitchell of Pa.,	Van Wyck,
Cullom,	Ingalls,	Morrill,	Wilson of Iowa.

ABSENT—26.

Aldrich,	Dawes,	Kenna,	Riddleberger,
Beck,	Fair,	McPherson,	Sabin,
Bowen,	Gorman,	Miller of Cal.,	Sewell,
Brown,	Harris,	Miller of N. Y.,	Stanford,
Butler,	Jackson,	Pike,	Wilson of Md.
Camden,	Jones of Florida,	Plumb,
Colquitt,	Jones of Nevada,	Ransom,

So the amendment was rejected.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question now is on the next amendment of the Senator from Alabama, which will be read.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I presume all these amendments depend on the one just voted on; do they not?

Mr. MORGAN. Not every one.

Mr. EDMUNDS. They all depend on that one, I believe.

Mr. MORGAN. No, sir; I have an amendment to section 13, line 16.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does not the Senator wish the question put on the amendments already printed?

Mr. MORGAN. No, sir; except this. They depended upon the one which has been voted down. I propose to insert after the word "building," in line 16 of section 13, the words "or the grounds appurtenant thereto;" so as to read:

Provided, That no building on the grounds appurtenant thereto shall be forfeited, &c.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I agree to that amendment. I think it is right.

Mr. HARRISON. May I suggest to the Senator from Alabama whether the language is not a little broad? It might include a good deal of land.

Mr. EDMUNDS. "Occupied for religious uses." I think that will do.

Mr. HARRISON. Very well.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Alabama.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. MORGAN. Then in the same section, line 17, I move to strike out the word "religious" and insert the word "the," and at the end of the same line to insert "of God," so as to make the proviso read:

Provided, That no building, or the grounds appurtenant thereto, shall be forfeited which is held and occupied exclusively for purposes of the worship of God.

Instead of "religious worship." I am afraid some people may take up an idea that the temple and that other building, the tabernacle, are not occupied for purposes of religious worship as understood in the States generally, but some other kind of worship.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Alabama.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The meaning is precisely the same. I do not care which form is adopted.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection the amendment will be considered as agreed to. It is agreed to.

Mr. VOORHEES. As a matter of justice to the commission which is now in existence in Utah, I ask that the dispatch just received by me which I send to the desk be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The paper will be read.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

SALT LAKE, UTAH, January 7, 1886.

To Hon. D. W. VOORHEES,
United States Senate, Washington, D. C.:

Van Wyck mistaken about clerks of commission. Average permanent clerks from beginning to date does not exceed three, possibly four, including temporary clerk. Only one clerk now employed.

A. S. PADDOCK.

Mr. VAN WYCK. The permanent clerks average three, did I understand correctly, meaning three clerks all the time, possibly four some one says? Do they not know whether the number is three or four? Do not the members of the commission know? Have they taken the trouble to telegraph from Salt Lake here that it averages three, possibly four? We wish to know. If they employ another clerk they can solve that problem and let us know just what it is exactly—four, possibly five. Discounting the distance and the mistakes of telegraphing it is about as I said, six. [Laughter.]

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill is open to amendment.

Mr. VEST. I move to strike out all of section 16 after the word "law," in line 5. This section as it reads now is:

SEC. 16. That it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the United States to cause such proceedings to be taken in the supreme court of the Territory of Utah as shall be proper to dissolve the said corporation and pay the debts and to dispose of the property and assets thereof according to law.

The remainder, which I propose to strike out, is in these words:

Said property and assets, in excess of the debts and the amount of any lawful claims established by the court against the same, shall escheat to the United States, and shall be taken, invested, and disposed of by the Secretary of the Interior, under the direction of the President of the United States, for the benefit of common schools in said Territory.

I have no disposition to continue the discussion of the bill. It seems to me, as a lawyer, that when the Senate enacts that this property shall be disposed of according to law, that accomplishes all that can be demanded of the most extreme and inveterate enemy of polygamy or of any other institution in this Territory. That leaves the question to the courts, and I can not, as a lawyer, give my assent to this extraordinary legislation which takes the property of any corporation that has a legal existence and disposes of it, and takes the money and puts it into the Treasury of the United States and applies it to any purpose that Congress may designate

If there is any parallel to this legislation on the statute-books of the United States I am utterly ignorant of it, and I should be obliged to any lawyer who would point me to anything like it.

A great deal has been said here about the common law of England. The ancient rule in England was that when a corporation ceased to exist its real estate went back to the donors, and its personel property, after paying off the debts, escheated to the Crown. But that is not the law in the United States, as I understand it. The Senator from Vermont, I take it, will hardly say that that obtains in any of the States of the Union or in any of the Territories of the Union.

If this property is disposed of according to law by the courts, that is sufficient. But you go further than that in this legislation, and after paying the debts of the corporation the balance of the money is arbitrarily seized by Congress and perverted to an object never contemplated by the original purpose of the corporation itself.

One question in the case is, Has this corporation a legal existence? It was incorporated under the laws of the Territory of Utah, there being a provision in the enabling act which said that all legislation of the Territory should remain valid until disapproved by Congress. This act has stood without any disapproval by Congress, and these people have acquired certain rights under it.

Mr. CONGER. Allow me to say that I think in regard to Utah the Senator is mistaken. That provision, that the Territorial laws should not have force in certain Territories until approved by Congress, was in several acts, and within a very short time, a few years, the restriction has been removed from some of the other Territories and left in regard to Utah, the others making it the duty of Congress to disapprove by a positive act and this requiring an approval. If I am not mistaken that is the condition of the law in regard to Utah.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President——

Mr. EDMUNDS. If the Senator will pardon me, I think I can state to the Senator from Michigan what the law about Utah is. According to the organic act, as I read it, the laws of the Territorial Assembly in Utah are valid until disapproved by Congress, and we propose in the fifteenth section to annul and disapprove of the Territorial law creating this emigrating corporation.

Mr. VEST. I believe I stated it correctly. I have the book before me, but I have lost the place.

Mr. EDMUNDS. That is the law.

Mr. VEST. Then this corporation has had a legal existence. The Senator from Vermont states that there are no stockholders. What may be the meaning exactly of a stockholder I do not know, but this corporation was established for the church and the church is the sole stockholder. The language of the act of incorporation shows that. It is exactly on a par with the creation of this sort of commission on the part of the denominations in the United States. The Methodist Episcopal Church meets and creates certain commissions to take charge of certain property which is put into the hands of agents; they manage it, but the real owner is the church. In this act of incorporation to which no assent of Congress was necessary, this Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Utah were recognized, and they appointed certain commissioners to take charge of the property, manage it, pay the taxes, and control it for the benefit of the church.

Until disapproved by Congress that is as valid a corporation as any in the United States. If that is not a vested right, I know not how a vested right can be created. If we provide that whatever remains after paying the debts shall be distributed according to law, we do simple justice. On the other hand, if we adopt the latter part of the section, I undertake to say it is anomalous, without a parallel, in violation of the jurisprudence of this country. How a lawyer can look upon it with anything else than distrust is beyond my comprehension.

Mr. EDMUNDS. If my friend from Missouri were correct in his estimation of the nature of this section I should be inclined to agree with him; but I think he has not studied it with his usual care. First, I may say I think he is mistaken about the act incorporating this emigrant company, as it is called, but the statute-book is gone out and I can not refer to it at this moment, but I am pretty sure in what I say, that the church is not a stockholder, nor is anybody else; it is an entirely independent concern. It is true that the first president of the church, the one-man despot there, controls this corporation.

Now, coming to the precise point of striking out this last clause, if you stop where the Senator wishes to stop, "dispose of the property and assets thereof according to law," then you will have given back, it is true, to the donor the real estate if he turns out to be entitled to it, and to the United States the personal estate if it turns out to be entitled to it after the payment of debts, and there you will have stopped, and whatever there is to which private persons are not entitled or corporations or anybody else are not entitled shall go into the Treasury of the United States, into its general funds. The Committee on the Judiciary did not wish it to go into the United States Treasury. They wished to devote it to the promotion of education in that Territory. So we say that—

Said property and assets—

That is what the Senator wishes to strike out—in excess of the debts and the amount of any lawful claims established by the court against the same shall escheat to the United States—

And be devoted to the use of schools in that Territory. The last part of the section is essential to dispose of any residue, after all claims of every kind are disposed of, of this property that may be left. Striking this out, it goes into the Treasury. Leaving it in, it goes to the use of common schools in that Territory.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST].

Mr. VEST. I want to settle one question. I have before me the act of incorporation. This is the amendatory act under which it is now operating, in the compiled laws of Utah. This act says:

Be it ordained by the General Assembly of the State of Deseret—

Approved by the Territorial Legislature afterwards—

That a general conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, or a special conference of said church, to be called at such time and place as the first presidency of said church shall appoint, is hereby authorized to elect, by a majority, a company of not less than thirteen men, one of whom shall be designated as their president, and the others as assistants.

SEC. 2. This company is hereby made and constituted a body corporate, under the name and style of "The Perpetual Emigrating Fund Company," and shall have perpetual succession, and may have and use a common seal, which they may alter at pleasure."

Then it goes on with general provisions of a corporation, that they shall defend and be defended, plead and be impleaded, hold property, and so forth. This is as lawful a corporation now as exists on the soil of the United States, and Senators need not disguise from themselves the simple fact that we are asked now to take possession of a corporation which was organized for a legal purpose so far as appears, which the Congress of the United States has permitted to exist, under which rights of property have been acquired; we are asked to take possession of that corporation and administer upon its effects and take what is left out of the possession of these parties, and say that the courts shall have nothing to do with it, but put it into the Treasury of the United States or give it to the common schools or anything else.

Mr. President, as a lawyer I will never agree to any proposition upon this or any other subject which says that the courts of this country shall not determine the rights of corporations or individuals.

Mr. EDMUNDS. That is precisely what this part that the Senator wishes to strike out says, that the court is to establish the rights of the claimants and if there is anything left it is to be devoted to schools.

Mr. VEST. Let me read the first part of the sixteenth section of the bill. It says:

That it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the United States to cause such proceedings to be taken in the supreme court of the Territory of Utah as shall be proper to dissolve the said corporation mentioned in the preceding section and pay the debts and to dispose of the property and assets thereof according to law.

There is a proceeding by due process of law in the courts of the country, which is the only mode, in my judgment, known to the Constitution of the United States or to our jurisprudence by which property rights can be settled. But this provision goes further than that. That would seem to be enough for a lawyer, but it goes further and says:

Said property and assets, in excess of the debts and the amount of any lawful claims established by the court against the same, shall escheat to the United States.

There it is taken out of the courts. There Congress steps in arbitrarily and after saying that the court shall determine according to law that matter, says that the surplus after paying the debts shall go into the Treasury.

Mr. HOAR. May I ask the Senator a question? What does he understand would become of it if his proposition prevailed?

Mr. VEST. That is a question which the law will determine. If the Senator wants my opinion as a lawyer I can give it to him. My judgment is that it would not go to the Treasury of the United States.

Mr. HOAR. The question is not where it would not go, but where would it go? The Senator will pardon me; I understand that this section remits to the courts, just as he says it ought to be remitted, the question of every claim whatever against that property, the right of the creditor, the right of the donor, the right of the sovereign; but if the court finds after all claims against it are established that there is property in the corporation which would be left derelict after the disposition of it under the law as provided to anybody who has a legal claim to it, then that is to be put into the Treasury of the United States, and by a sort of rude doctrine of cy pres used for common schools and not for the general public purposes of the country.

Mr. VEST. I do not understand how the doctrine of cy pres applies to it. I do not understand that any trust has been created here for common schools by anybody. The doctrine of cy pres simply steps in and furnishes a trustee where the first objects of the trust have failed. There is no such trust certainly for common schools. It is nothing else but an arbitrary seizure of the property of this corporation, taking it out of the courts and disposing of it as Congress sees proper; and if it can be done in this case it can be done as to any Baptist, Methodist, or Presbyterian church in any of the Territories if a majority of Congress thinks it ought to be done.

Mr. HOAR. The Senator does not answer my question, if he will permit me to interrupt him. I do not want to interrupt him improperly.

Mr. VEST. Certainly; I yield to the Senator.

Mr. HOAR. Suppose it were a Baptist church, or a Methodist, or a Unitarian church, to which last denomination I have the honor to belong, and it were within the jurisdiction of the legislation of Congress relative to the Territories. The corporation is dissolved and its property is taken possession of by the court by a receiver or other judicial officer, by a proper process, and the court having established every possible lawful claim, if there were no other legislation on the subject, if there were anything left, that would have to remain in the treasury of the court forever, and when Congress found it out they would then come in and do something with it.

Here is a fund which belongs to nobody as far as the court knows. We should undoubtedly do something with it, and instead of waiting for that occasion to arise this simply provides for it in advance, and says that when every possible lawful claim against that fund is established by the court and satisfied, if there is anything which otherwise would be left derelict or left in the treasury of the court to abide there forever, we provide now what shall be done with it; that is all.

Mr. VEST. Mr. President, it is remarkable legislation—I confess I know of no parallel to it—where Congress assumes a certain state of facts in advance of the finding of a court. The Senator from Massachusetts says "assuming that nobody owns this property." That is a question of law. That is a question which every American citizen and corporation has a right to have determined by the law of the land.

Mr. HOAR. The bill says the court shall decide, in the first part, according to law.

Mr. VEST. The bill says in the first part according to law, and then goes on and takes the court by the throat and says, "You shall do so and so." In other words, it declares an escheat when an escheat may not exist according to the facts. It says in advance of the facts that it shall escheat. The doctrine of escheats is a well settled one. I understand that the sovereignty of a country is entitled in certain contingencies to take possession of property, and not before; but they must be declared, they must exist, they must be judicially determined; and whenever Congress steps in and declares in advance that property shall escheat, it is not due process of law, it is not the law of the land as I understand it.

Mr. EVARTS. Mr. President, the first clause of this section disposes of all rights of property according to law. If the second clause now presently lays down a new law of escheat or forfeiture that was not the law at the time the disposition by the courts was accorded by the first clause of the section, it seems to me it is contrary to correct principles; and the explanation I understand now to be made, and perhaps properly, is that no property will be taken away from anybody under this second clause that would not be taken away from such owner by the authority of the court under the first clause. Is it understood that the second clause is intended to provide for a disposition of property that according to law belongs to no private persons and declare that it may go into the Treasury of the United States as a part of its general assets, and that the purpose of the second clause is to make a present and special disposition of what otherwise would go into the Treasury of the United States to its general purposes?

If that be so, and that be the proper accord between the two clauses, it might be expressed so as not to carry that in the præsenti law of escheat then presently established. I propose that that difficulty might be met, and probably it would meet the views of the Senator from Missouri by making the section read, commencing at the seventh line, "if any lawful claims established by the court against the same, and that by law shall escheat to the United States, shall be taken" possession of. Then the whole disposition, according to law, as expressed in the first clause of the section, will have its free course by law and no new imperative forfeiture inflicted against existing law.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I have no objection to the amendment of the Senator from New York. It is just what the bill is now.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from New York proposes to amend the part proposed to be stricken out by inserting the words which will be read.

The SECRETARY. At the end of line 7, after the word "same," it is proposed to add "and that by law;" and in line 8, after the word "States," to strike out the word "and;" so as to read:

Said property and assets, in excess of the debts and the amount of any lawful claims established by the court against the same, and that by law shall escheat to the United States, shall be taken, invested, and disposed of by the Secretary of the Interior, under the direction of the President of the United States, for the benefit of common schools in said Territory.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment of the Senator from New York [Mr. EVARTS].

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. EVARTS. That, as I understood, might meet the views of the Senator from Missouri if it were not now presently decreeing forfeiture, and if that be so, then there would be no occasion for insisting on the amendment striking out.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST] to strike out the second clause of section 16.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. MORGAN. I wish to call the attention of the Senator from Vermont to the thirteenth section, which reads:

That it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the United States to institute and prosecute proceedings to forfeit, &c.

In what court will the bill require those proceedings to be instituted?

Mr. EDMUNDS. The general laws provide for the Territorial courts. It will be, according to their autonomy there, instituted in the first place in the disirict court in that division of the Territory in which the property might be situated, and from that on appeal would go to the supreme court of the Territory, and from that to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mr. MORGAN. I will state the reason why I made the inquiry. I do not know that any court is empowered by statute in the United States to consider the question of escheats.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The territorial courts are all invested with a general jurisdiction to try every law question that can arise before them on any statute or law that exists and is in force in the Territory. There is no question about that at all.

Mr. BROWN. I wish to call the attention of the chairman of the Judiciary Committee to an amendment which I propose to the nineteenth and twentieth sections of the bill. The nineteenth section prescribes the penalty for adultery and the twentieth section for fornication. There has been a good deal of comment in the newspapers about some of the rulings of the Territorial court in Utah under the Edmunds act of 1882, and it has been claimed by the Mormons that there is one law for them and one for the Gentiles, so far as illegal sexual practices are concerned, and a construction put upon the term "unlawful cohabitation" which they thought, as I understand it, ought to embrace a Gentile who was living in disorder or in the commission of a crime as well as a Mormon. The law as reported by the newspapers has been construed to mean and apply only to the Mormons. As the act was passed for the purpose of suppressing polygamy, I desire to add to section 20:

This and the preceding section shall apply as well to so-called Gentiles as to Mormons in the Territory of Utah.

Thus applying that to the two sections, the nineteenth section and the twentieth section, so that there may be no room for question or construction about it that adultery by Gentiles shall be punished as is adultery by Mormons.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I am surprised that the Senator from Georgia should seriously suggest such an amendment. The laws of the United States know no distinctions and make no distinctions between one race, sect, or class in community, or a religious faith, or anything else, and no court in Utah has ever intimated any such thing. The Senator is being misled by the talk of Mormon newspapers.

Mr. BROWN. No; it was both Democratic and Republican newspapers, I believe, not published in Mormondom, which gave the version of it I have seen.

Mr. EDMUNDS. They may have been Mormon newspapers notwithstanding.

Mr. BROWN. I will ask the Senator from Vermont whether there was not a ruling there to the effect that the term "unlawful cohabitation" did not apply to a Gentile.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I have not heard of any such ruling and I do not believe any such ruling was ever made, because it would be perfectly preposterous.

Mr. BROWN. I have seen it stated in several newspapers of good standing, and I have a strong reason to believe that such a ruling was made by a court in Utah.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Any judge who made it ought to be impeached.

Mr. BROWN. I want to guard against any possible misconstruction.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Do not put any such thing in a statute of the United States.

Mr. BROWN. I think the amendment ought to be made for the reason that I believe the law has been misconstrued by judges, and I think the language ought to be made very plain.

Mr. EDMUNDS. We will get some better judges there.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment proposed by the Senator from Georgia will be read at the desk.

The CHIEF CLERK. At the end of section 20 it is proposed to insert:

This and the preceding section shall apply as well to so-called Gentiles as to Mormons in the Territory of Utah.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. BROWN. I propose an amendment to the first section of the bill. I do not think that the first section of the bill ought to become a law if the rest of the bill should become such. I presume in all or in very nearly all the States to which the Senator from New Hampshire has referred where there are provisions about husband or wife testifying against each other they are not required to do so, but only permitted to do so in certain cases.

In the eighth line of the first section I move to strike out the words "and may be compelled;" in the ninth line to strike out the word "without" and insert "with," and in the tenth line, after the word "be," to insert the words "who is to be examined;" so as to read:

The lawful husband or wife of the person accused shall be a competent witness, and may be called to testify in such proceeding, examination, or prosecution with the consent of the husband or wife, as the case may be, who is to be examined; but such witness shall not be permitted to testify as to any confidential statement or communication made by either husband or wife to each other during the existence of the marriage relation.

To make the husband or wife a competent witness, but not to make it compulsory for either to testify against the other is the object of the amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on agreeing to the amendment proposed by the Senator from Georgia.

Mr. EDMUNDS. That means to provide that neither shall testify against the other without the consent of the person accused.

Mr. BROWN. No; without the consent of the person to be examined.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The legal construction would be without the consent of the other party. But I will pass that. That is the way it would be if the amendment were adopted, but I will just say one word on the question of compulsory examination.

At the common law the husband and wife were competent witnesses in cases where violence and wrongs of that nature were inflicted by one upon the other, and perhaps in some others that I need not now go into. In the statutes, as I repeat, of almost all the States, in some form or another, the provision for competency without the consent of the other—although the words "without the consent" were not put in, but the provision for competency, which enables the court to put that witness on the footing of every other witness and compel him to testify, does exist with certain limitations that are very like these we have provided here about confidential communications. The reason upon which it all goes, and upon which it went at common law, was not merely (which for the purposes of this bill would be enough) that it is a wrong upon the wife if it is a case of bigamy, or a wrong upon the husband if it is a case of polyandry—if that is the proper phrase, the Senator will know whether it is or not—but something more; and the reason in general is that society has an interest in the punishment of these crimes, and therefore whether under coercion or duress or favor or a criminal conspiracy the wife or the husband refuses to testify, society has a right to say in respect of this independent matter, you shall testify as in a case of bigamy or adultery, and the testimony of the first wife or the first husband to prove the first marriage is to be compelled, whether the wife or the husband, as the case may be, is willing to say that he or she was married to the other or not, because it is an independent fact in which society is interested as well as the individual.

Mr. BLAIR. Mr. President, there has been somewhat frequent allusion made to the statutes of the States upon this point. I think that the Senator from Vermont almost entirely misconceives the force and effect of those statutes where they exist.

What the Senator says is true, that the common law has been relaxed and modified to some extent by the statutes of the various States, but there are no statutes of any State, so far as I have been enabled to examine them, where the great leading principle which led to the original prohibition of husband and wife being witnesses for or against each other is not carefully preserved. Wherever there is any infringement upon marital confidence, as the legal expression made use of is, wherever there is likely by the testifying of the husband or wife for or against each other to be any infringement upon this great principle founded in justice and essential to the preservation of society, there it is prohibited.

In most of the statutes particular instances are specially mentioned and the prohibition is made specific; and in all of them, so far as I know, where there is any substantial relaxation whatever, the general expression is made use of that in the discretion of the court there shall never be the testimony of the wife allowed as against the husband, nor of the husband as against the wife, if it leads to any infringement upon marital confidence. Now, what is that? It is not that information which may be given to the husband or to the wife in express terms; it is not simply that which may come from conversation; it is not simply that which may be included in the term "communication," which is the one made use of in this proposed statute; but it is such information as comes from one party to the other by reason of the existence of the marriage relation; and wherever the testimony of the party may be a revelation of knowledge which comes by virtue of the fact that the parties are married and are associated together, that information which passes interchangeably from one to the other and which would not be likely to be the case if that were not the relation, the statute expressly prohibits it.

I have not the bill here; but the language made use of by the Senator excepts nothing but confidential communications from one party to the other. The statute of my own State excepts all confidential communications whether from one party to the other or which may have been made from either party to another person in the presence of the other party, and so by general expression restricting anything which can infringe upon marital confidence. It has come to be the settled rule in our State that nearly everything which can be really available in the maintenance of a prosecution against any party by virtue of the testimony of the wife or of the husband is excluded.

Nothing could be much broader than the language made use of in the first section of the bill, which I have now before me, and which reads:

The lawful husband or wife of the person accused shall be a competent witness, and may be called and may be compelled to testify in such proceeding, examination, or prosecution without the consent of the husband or wife, as the case may be; but such witness shall not be permitted to testify as to any confidential statement or communication made by either husband or wife to each other during the existence of the marriage relation.

Any statement that may have been made before is, under this provision, competent testimony; but such a statement is just as likely to interfere with the sacredness of the marriage relation, the marital confidence, as though it were made afterward. What is the specific object of this testimony? It is to afford the foundation of the prosecution, which would not otherwise be maintained.

Now, let us see how this will operate in practice. Here is the lawful wife living in association with it may be one or nineteen or twenty females. She has the rights of the legitimate wife and her children have all the rights of legitimate children. When there is no power by which a prosecution can be initiated and maintained from all these other sources of testimony, she is to be dragged upon the witness-stand against her consent and compelled so to testify as to maintain the prosecution and liberate the man who has committed this wrong upon herself and upon her children from all obligation for her sustenance and place him in the common jail or the penitentiary. Besides the wrong which she has already suffered she is obliged to subject herself to this in addition to all the rest. It seems to me inconceivable that a statute of the United States should be enacted into a law at this stage of the nineteenth century with such a palpable result of injustice and outrage and wrong as this.

Of course it is not necessary to call the wife at all if the prosecution can be maintained otherwise. She is to be put upon the stand simply because by her testimony she is to convict; and thus this woman, having all legal rights, having suffered all these legal outrages for which the husband is to be prosecuted, is to be made the instrument of depriving herself and her children of all sustenance and all support such as she is entitled to receive from the man who has committed the wrongs.

There is no statute of any State in the United States or any Territory of the United States that is capable of inflicting this infamy, and for the Senator from Vermont to claim that the statutes of New Hampshire or the statutes of any State that have been adduced here are capable of any such violation of what is called marital confidence and inflicting an injury of this description upon society, I think it is a very great misapprehension. I do not say that it is a perversion, for in the hurry and rush incident to the management of this bill, so full of new ideas and novelties, he has overlooked perhaps, I know he has overlooked, the real force and effect of the statutes so carefully guarded, which do to some extent relax the common law, but every one of them has been enacted for the purpose of promoting, vindicating, strengthening, and building up the sanctity of the marriage relation rather than destroying it.

Mr. HARRIS. Will the Senator from New Hampshire yield to me in order that I may move that the Senate adjourn?

Mr. BLAIR. Certainly.

Mr. HARRIS. Then I make that motion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Tennessee moves that the Senate do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 6 o'clock and 17 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, January 7, 1886.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. W. H. MILBURN, D. D.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings; when, on motion of Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, the reading of so much of the Journal as recorded the introduction of bills was dispensed with.

The Journal as read was approved.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting an account of the expenditures of the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1885; which was referred to the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department, and ordered to be printed.

SUSPENDED ENTRIES OF PUBLIC LANDS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Interior, transmitting a list of adjudications of suspended entries of public lands for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885; which was referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

APPOINTMENTS IN THE ARMY.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitting the petition of cadets of the United States Military Academy, praying for legislation that will secure them appointments in the Army; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

REPORT OF NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the president of the board of managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, transmitting their report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1885; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CONTINGENT EXPENSES, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a letter from the president of the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia, transmitting a statement of contingent expenses for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1885; which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

MARY A. FITZPATRICK.

The SPEAKER. A bill (H. R. 1780) introduced yesterday by the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. BUTTERWORTH, granting a pension to Mary A. Fitzpatrick, was by inadvertence referred to the Committee on Claims. If there be no objection, the Committee on Claims will be discharged from its further consideration, and the bill will be referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

There was no objection, and the bill was so referred.

The call of States was resumed, beginning with the State of West Virginia.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE FOR EMPLOYÉS GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, introduced a bill (H. R. 2594) granting leaves of absence to employés of the Government Printing Office and pay when actually sick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Labor, and ordered to be printed.

TO MAKE HUNTINGTON, W. VA., A PORT OF ENTRY.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2495) making the city of Huntington a port of entry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

CUSTOM-HOUSE, HUNTINGTON, W. VA.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2496) providing for a custom-house in the city of Huntington, W. Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

G. W. M'CULLOUGH.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2497) for the relief of G. W. McCullough, late second lieutenant of Company C, Eighth Regiment Maryland Volunteer Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE J. CUNY.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2498) for the relief of George J. Cuny, late private of Company L, First Regiment West Virginia Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. S. HALL.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2599) to increase the pension of J. S. Hall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF DANIEL G. JEWELL.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2600) granting a pension to the widow and infant heir of Daniel G. Jewell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN D. RUNNELS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2601) granting a pension to John D. Runnels; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EPHRIAM HESS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2602) for the relief of Ephriam Hess; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. JORDAN.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2603) granting a pension to William H. Jordan, late of Company K, First Regiment Ohio Light Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALEXANDER THACKER.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2604) granting a pension to Alexander Thacker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SUSIE E. CLARK AND OTHERS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2605) granting a pension to Susie E. Clark, widow, and Frank D. Clark, Harry L. Clark, Eddie R. Clark, Annie B. Clark, and Maud M. Clark, infant heirs of the late Roland Clark; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALBERT G. S. BALL.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2606) to increase the pension of Albert G. S. Ball; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC FORTNER.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2607) granting a pension to Isaac Fortner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIJAH C. SNODGRASS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2608) granting a pension to Elijah C. Snodgrass; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL J. MORGAREIGE.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2609) to increase the pension of Daniel J. Morgareige; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

J. P. M'CARDELL.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2610) for the relief of J. P. McCardell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY B. MONKS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2611) for the relief of Henry B. Monks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN WALDRON.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2612) for the relief of John Waldron; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. MORRIS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2613) for the relief of William H. Morris; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID HARSHBARGER.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2614) for the relief of David Harshbarger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN R. HARSHBARGER.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2615) for the relief of John R. Harshbarger; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN FLESHER.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2616) for the relief of John Flesher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ADELAIDE BOWEN.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2617) for the relief of Mrs. Adelaide Bowen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARY WHEELER.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2618) for the relief of Mrs. Mary Wheeler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

E. C. HOPKINS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2619) for the relief of E. C. Hopkins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JEPTHA SMITH.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2620) for the relief of Jeptha Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

F. T. HUGHES.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2621) granting a pension to F. T. Hughes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES H. GRAHAM.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2622) to increase the pension of James H. Graham; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH O. DRUMMOND.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2623) granting a pension to Sarah O. Drummond; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SYNTHA DUGLAS.

Mr. GIBSON, of West Virginia, also introduced a bill (H. R. 2624) granting a pension to Syntha Duglas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD JACKSON.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill (H. R. 2625) granting a pension to Richard Jackson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SILAS K. HAINES.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2626) granting a pension to Silas K. Haines; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES GUTHRIE.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2627) granting a pension to James Guthrie; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELK BRANCH CHURCH, JEFFERSON COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2628) for the relief of the trustees of the Elk Branch church, of Jefferson County, West Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM M. MORRISON.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2629) for the relief of William M. Morrison; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRIETTA M. WAUGH.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2630) for the relief of Henrietta M. Waugh; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. ENGLE.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2631) for the relief of John M. Engle; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PROMOTION OF ANATOMICAL SCIENCE, ETC.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2632) for the promotion of anatomical science and to prevent the desecration of graves in the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

EDMUND H. CHAMBERS.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2633) for the relief of Edmund H. Chambers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES ALLENDER.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2634) for the relief of James Allender; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PHILIP PENDLETON.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2635) for the relief of Philip Pendleton, late paymaster United States Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN F. SMITH.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2636) for the relief of John F. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH RAMSEY.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2637) granting a pension to Sarah Ramsey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JONATHAN B. DAVIS.

Mr. WILSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2638) granting a pension to Jonathan B. Davis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH KING.

Mr. WILSON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2639) for the relief of Sarah King; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EAST WASHINGTON COLORED M. E. CHURCH.

Mr. WILSON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2640) for the relief of the trustees, pastor, and congregation of the East Washington Colored Methodist Episcopal Church of the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. M'CHESNEY.

Mr. WILSON (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2641) for the relief of John H. McChesney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT CHARLESTON, W. VA.

Mr. SNYDER introduced a bill (H. R. 2642) appropriating the sum of $52,000 for the enlargement and improvement of the United States Government building at Charleston, W. Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

CAPT. WOODSON BLAKE.

Mr. SNYDER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2643) granting a pension to Capt. Woodson Blake; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE PFEIFFER.

Mr. SNYDER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2644) for the relief of George Pfeiffer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES A. MYERS.

Mr. SNYDER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2645) granting a pension to James A. Myers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OHIO CENTRAL RAILROAD.

Mr. SNYDER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2646) granting to the Ohio Central Railroad Company the right to lay its track through United States lock and dam property in the great Kanawha Valley, State of West Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, FRENCH CREEK, W. VA.

Mr. SNYDER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2647) to compensate the trustees of the Presbyterian church at French Creek, W. Va., for the destruction of their church edifice by Union troops during the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BAPTIST CHURCH, RALEIGH, W. VA.

Mr. SNYDER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2648) for the relief of the Baptist church at Raleigh Court House, in Raleigh County, West Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

METHODIST CHURCH, RALEIGH, W. VA.

Mr. SNYDER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2649) for the relief of the Methodist church at Raleigh Court House, in Raleigh County, W. Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

R. H. LEE.

Mr. SNYDER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2650) for the relief of R. H. Lee, of Saint Albans, W. Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JESSE EDENS.

Mr. SNYDER (by request) also introduded a bill (H. R. 2651) for the relief of Jesse Edens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW E. HIGGINBOTHAM.

Mr. SYNDER (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2652) for the relief of Andrew E. Higginbotham; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WEST VIRGINIA TROOPS IN LATE WAR.

Mr. GOFF introduced a bill (H. R. 2653) for the relief of West Virginia troops acting under authority of the governor of said State during the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM B. LYNCH.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2654) for the relief of William B. Lynch, of West Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN F. KELLY.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2655) granting a pension to Benjamin F. Kelly; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

B. F. SHUTTLEWORTH & BRO.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2656) for the relief of B. F. Shuttleworth & Bro.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TRANSPORTATION OF DUTIABLE GOODS.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2657) extending the provisions of the act of June 10, 1880, in relation to the transportation of dutiable goods to the port of Wheeling, W. Va.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

WEST VIRGINIA WAR CLAIMS.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2658) to recognize and pay certain claims due by the State of West Virginia to citizens thereof for services to the United States in the late war and which are properly chargeable to the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TAX ON TOBACCO.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2659) to repeal all internal-revenue taxes upon domestic tobacco in all forms and upon the dealers therein; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

CATHARINE E. LURTY.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2660) for the relief of Catharine E. Lurty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELIJAH KING.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2661) for the relief of Elijah King; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CALVIN MEANS.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2662) for the relief of Calvin Means; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

C. A. REEDER.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2663) granting a pension to C. A. Reeder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH CROUSE.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2664) for the relief of Elizabeth Crouse; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN F. BATTEN.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2665) for the relief of Benjamin F. Batten; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES M. COEN.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2666) for the relief of Charles M. Coen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE A. HILL.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2667) for the relief of George A. Hill; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TAYLOR RICHMOND.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2668) granting a pension to Taylor Richmond; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN R. DOWLER.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2669) granting a pension to John R. Dowler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARGARET MEYERS.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2670) granting a pension to Margaret Meyers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN HOUCHIN.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2671) granting a pension to John Houchin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY J. CUNNINGHAM.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2672) for the relief Mary J. Cunningham; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY CUNNINGHAM.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2673) for the relief of Mary Cunningham; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RILEY H. SMITH.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2674) for the relief of Riley H. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN D. GRIMM.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2675) for the relief of John D. Grimm; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ELMER H. FETTY.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2676) for the relief of Elmer H. Fetty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB D. GEHO.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2677) granting a pension to Jacob D. Geho; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES A. DEMASTUS.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2678) granting a pension to James A. Demastus; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PATRICK HOLLAND.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2679) granting a pension to Patrick Holland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZABETH JONES.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2680) granting a pension to Elizabeth Jones; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID F. FLETCHER.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2681) granting a pension to David F. Fletcher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID K. CRAWFORD.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2682) granting a pension to David K. Crawford; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WIDOW AND CHILDREN OF PATRICK KEARNEY.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2683) granting a pension to the widow and children of Patrick Kearney, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN NAY.

Mr. GOFF also introduced a bill (H. R. 2684) granting a pension to John Nay; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OLEOMARGARINE.

Mr. CASWELL introduced a bill (H. R. 2685) to levy a tax upon oleomargarine and to collect the same through the Bureau of Internal Revenue; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

DUTIES UPON TOBACCO.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2686) to amend the second paragraph of Schedule F of chapter 121 of the laws of 1883, relating to the duties upon tobacco; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

ISAIAH H. CROUCH.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2687) granting a pension to Isaiah H. Crouch; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TIMOTHY C. CHASE.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2688) for the relief of Timothy C. Chase; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DELILAH KNILL.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2689) granting a pension to Delilah Knill; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LYDIA D. HOLTZ.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2690) granting a pension to Lydia D. Holtz; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PHILLIP FAY.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2691) granting a pension restoration and an increase of pension to Phillip Fay; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN GEIBEL.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2692) granting a pension to John Geibel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TIMOTHY C. CHASE.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2693) granting a pension to Timothy C. Chase; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PATRICK CURTIN.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2694) granting a pension to Patrick Curtin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANK FISHER.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2695) granting an increase of pension to Frank Fisher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS MOSHER.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2696) granting restoration of pension to Thomas Mosher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES WILKINSON.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2697) granting a pension to Charles Wilkinson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EDMUND GATLIN.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2698) granting a pension to Edmund Gatlin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CORNELIUS WESSELS.

Mr. CASWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2699) granting a pension to Cornelius Wessels; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS AT LAW OF DABNEY WALKER.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2700) for the relief of the widow and children as heirs at law of Dabney Walker, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM WALL AND HEIRS.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2701) for the relief of William Wall and his heirs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS AT LAW OF JACOB L. W. DOXTATER.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2702) for the relief of the widow and children, heirs at law of Jacob L. W. Doxtater, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN BURNS.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2703) referring the claim of John Burns against the United States to the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES H. FAUST.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2704) for the relief of Charles H. Faust; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM SWEENY AND OTHERS.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2705) for the relief of William Sweeny and other employés of the Census Office, Department of the Interior; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANN ANNIS.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2706) for the relief of Ann Annis; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MALINDA GRIMES.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2707) for the relief of Malinda Grimes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CATHERINE BRENNAN.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2708) for the relief of Catherine Brennan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN WHITTAKER.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2709) for the relief of John Whittaker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM T. DUVALL.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2710) referring the claim of William T. Duvall against the United States to the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM J. SANGSTON.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2711) for the relief of William J. Sangston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HECTOR F. PHELPS.

Mr. CASWELL (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2712) for the relief of Hector F. Phelps; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, OSHKOSH, WIS.

Mr. GUENTHER introduced a bill (H. R. 2713) for the erection of a public building at Oshkosh, Wis.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

TIMBER ON INDIAN LANDS IN WISCONSIN.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2714) to authorize the sale of timber on certain lands reserved for the use of the Menomonee tribe of Indians, in the State of Wisconsin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

IMPORTED ARTICLES STAMPED AS AMERICAN.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2715) to prohibit the importation of articles of foreign manufacture bearing a stamp, mark, or imprint conveying the impression that such articles are of American manufacture; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

IMPROVEMENT OF FOX AND WISCONSIN RIVERS.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2716) to pay the awards for damages for flowage caused by the building of dams by the United States in the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin Rivers, in the State of Wisconsin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN W. BRISBOIS.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2717) for the relief of John W. Brisbois; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HANNAH BUCK.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2618) to grant a pension to Hannah Buck; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH CONANT.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2719) for the relief of Joseph Conant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES W. FAUST.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2720) for the relief of Charles W. Faust; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD GOYIN.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2721) for the relief of Richard Goyin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES HOFFMAN.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2722) for the relief of Charles Hoffman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions and ordered to be printed.

GILBERT W. HUBBELL.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2723) for the relief of Gilbert W. Hubbell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID S. HAWLEY.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2724) to grant a pension to David S. Hawley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PLINY JEWETT.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2725) granting a pension to Pliny Jewett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM A. MASON.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2726) granting a pension to William A. Mason; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PETER MITCHELL, JR.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2727) for the relief of Peter Mitchell, jr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHRISTOPHER MOEGLING.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2728) authorizing Christopher Moegling to make application to the Commissioner of Patents for the extension of his patent for a new and useful ventilator for grain mills; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN MORTER, JR.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2729) granting a pension to John Morter, jr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DE WITT MYERS.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2730) for the relief of De Witt Myers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALMEDA PECK.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2731) granting a pension to Almeda Peck; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SIDNEY PALEN.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2732) for the relief of Sidney Palen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN F. SHIPLEY.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2733) granting a pension to Benjamin F. Shipley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES A. STEVENS.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2734) for the relief of Charles A. Stevens; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

S. B. STODDARD.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2735) granting a pension to S. B. Stoddard; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

IRA J. J. TURNEY.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2736) granting a pension to Ira J. J. Turney; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NIELS OLAVUS THORSEN.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2737) to pay to Niels Olavus Thorsen the sum of $100 for arrears of bounty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRIEDERIKA WINTER.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2738) granting a pension to Friederika Winter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PRISCILLA WOOD.

Mr. GUENTHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2739) granting a pension to Priscilla Wood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NORMAN S. BULL.

Mr. THOMAS, of Wisconsin, introduced a bill (H. R. 2740) for the relief of Norman S. Bull and to increase his pension; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT PATTERSON.

Mr. THOMAS, of Wisconsin (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 2741) granting a pension to Robert Patterson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES W. HARRIMAN.

Mr. THOMAS, of Wisconsin (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 2742) granting a pension to James W. Harriman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMPSON BEAVER.

Mr. THOMAS, of Wisconsin (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 2743) for the relief of Sampson Beaver and to grant him a pension; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE introduced a bill (H. R. 2744) granting pensions to disabled soldiers and sailors of the national Army in the war for the Union; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DUTIES UPON TOBACCO.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2745) to amend the second paragraph of schedule F, laws of 1883, relating to the duties upon tobacco; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS OF WIDOWS, ETC.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2746) increasing pensions of all pensioned widows, granting pensions to widows of pensioners, and granting pensions to certain widows of persons who die with applications for pensions pending, upon such widows completing proof in husband's case, without requiring widow to show that husband's death resulted from disability contracted in service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2747) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several States under the provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862, and of an act supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENTS TO PENSION LAWS.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2748) granting pensions to certain per diem and disabled soldiers and sailors of the war for the Union who were confined in so-called confederate prisons, and also granting a certain per diem to the widows of such soldiers and sailors as died in said prisons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2749) to amend chapter 136 of the laws of 1880, relating to certain pensioned soldiers and sailors who are utterly helpless from injuries received or disease contracted while in the United States service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RETIREMENT OF LIEUTENANTS OF THE LINE.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2750) for the voluntary retirement of lieutenants of the line of the Army after twenty years' service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

LUTITIA A. MEREDITH.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2751) granting a pension to Lutitia A. Meredith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB B. WOOD.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2752) for the relief of Jacob B. Wood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN W. ROBSON.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2753) for the relief of John W. Robson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS J. MARSDEN.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2754) for the relief of Thomas J. Marsden; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ROBERT MONAHAN.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2755) granting a pension to Robert Monahan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MICHAEL DALY.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2756) granting a pension to Michael Daly; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EVERHARD WELTER.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2757) granting a pension to Everhard Welter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD NOBLES.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2758) to increase the pension of Richard Nobles; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS SCOTT.

Mr. LA FOLLETTE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2759) to increase the pension of Francis Scott; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN UPCRAFT.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK introduced a bill (H. R. 2760) for the relief of John Upcraft, late of Company F, Sixty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM PORMANN.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2761) for the relief of William Pormann, late of Company I, Forty-eighth Wisconsin Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WALTER M'CARTY.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2762) to increase the pension of Walter McCarty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HIRAM HASKELL.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2763) for the relief of Hiram Haskell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BERNARD M'KENNA.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2764) for the relief of Bernard McKenna; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, MILWAUKEE, WIS.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2765) for the erection of a public building in the city of Milwaukee, Wis.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN CORDOVA.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2766) granting a pension to John Cordova; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN BARBER.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2767) granting a pension to John Barber; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DAVID RICHEY.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2768) to increase the pension of David Richey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM GANNON.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2769) granting a pension to William Gannon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW BARTON.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2770) for the relief of Andrew Barton; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES SHEAHAN.

Mr. VAN SCHAICK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2771) to increase the pension of James Sheahan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Mr. PRICE introduced a bill (H. R. 2772) to provide for a commission on the subject of the alcoholic liquor traffic; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Alcoholic Liquor Traffic, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2773) to grant pensions to survivors in the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2774) to amend subdivisions 4 and 5 of section 3244 of the Revised Statutes of 1878; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Alcoholic Liquor Traffic, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURTS AT EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2775) to authorize and establish a term of the district and circuit court of the United States at Eau Claire, Wis.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

REFUNDING DIRECT TAXES.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2776) to credit and pay the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia all moneys collected under the direct tax levied by the act of Congress approved August 5, 1861; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

JURISDICTION OF UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURTS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2777) to enlarge the jurisdiction of the United States district courts and to open the same to all claimants against the Government; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ARREARS OF PENSIONS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2778) amending section 2 of an act making appropriations for the payment of arrears of pensions, and for other purposes, approved March 3, 1879; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

OVERFLOWS IN CHIPPEWA RIVER, WISCONSIN.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2779) to provide for an inquiry into the causes of the extraordinary overflows of the Chippewa River, in the State of Wisconsin, and to prevent a recurrence of the same; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and ordered to be printed.

PENSION LAWS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2780) to extend the benefits of the pension laws; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FORFEITURE OF LANDS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2781) to forfeit certain lands, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

DAM ACROSS DEVIL'S CREEK, WISCONSIN.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2782) to authorize Malcom Dobie and Henry E. Ticknor, their associates and assigns, to erect and maintain a dam or dams across and to make other improvements in Devil's Creek, in Lac Court Oreille reservation of the Chippewa Band of Indians, in Sawyer County, Wisconsin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT SUPERIOR, WIS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2783) to provide for the erection of a public building at Superior, in the State of Wisconsin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT EAU CLAIRE, WIS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2784) to provide for the erection of a public building at the city of Eau Claire, in the State of Wisconsin; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2785) to equalize and increase pensions in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS CUMMINGS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2786) to remove the charge of desertion which now stands against the name of Thomas Cummings; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH CLANCEY.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2787) for the relief of Joseph Clancey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

FRANK SIGERIST.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2788) for the relief of Frank Sigerist; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MARY KEIFER.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2789) granting an increase of pension to Mary Keifer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANNA W. OSBORNE.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2790) for the relief of Anna W. Osborne; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE WELLS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2791) granting an increase of pension to George Wells; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN L. HUNTER.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2792) granting a pension to John L. Hunter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SILAS JAMES.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2793) granting a pension to Silas James; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN F. KELLOGG.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2794) for the relief of John F. Kellogg; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM WALL.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2795) for the relief of William Wall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM THATCHER.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2796) granting a pension to William Thatcher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN L. HUNTER.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2697) granting a pension to John L. Hunter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BRUNER D. HYATT.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2798) granting a pension to Bruner D. Hyatt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL BROTZMAN.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2799) granting a pension to Samuel Brotzman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY MANES.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2800) granting a pension to Mary Manes, mother of William Manes, late of Company D, Fourth Wisconsin Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ARMSTRONG MOORE.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2801) granting a pension to Armstrong Moore; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARA A. LOVELL.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2802) granting a pension to Sarah A. Lovell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. SNYDER.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2803) granting a pension to John H. Snyder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLAYTON E. ROGERS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2804) granting a pension to Clayton E. Rogers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY S. DOUGLAS.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2805) granting a pension to Mary S. Douglas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL BOICE.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2806) granting an increase of pension to Samuel Boice; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ORLANDO T. SOWLE.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2807) granting a pension to Orlando T. Sowle; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM F. D. BAILEY.

Mr. PRICE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2808) granting an increase of pension to William F. D. Bailey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. SACCHARISSA BAKER.

Mr. BEAN introduced a bill (H. R. 2809) granting an increase of pension to Mrs. Saccharissa Baker, widow of Maj. E. D. Baker, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DISPOSITION OF LAND FOR GRAZING PURPOSES.

Mr. BEAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2810) to dispose of certain lands for grazing purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

DR. WARREN E. DAY.

Mr. BEAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2811) for the relief of Dr. Warren E. Day, of Arizona; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

INSANE ASYLUM.

Mr. BEAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2812) to approve an act of the Thirteenth Legislative Assembly of Arizona entitled "An act to establish, maintain, and provide for the government of an insane asylum," approved March 9, 1885; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM YORK.

Mr. BEAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2813) for the relief of William York, of Arizona; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK FREDLEY.

Mr. BEAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2814) for the relief of Frederick Fredley, of Yuma, Ariz.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM FRANKLIN GROUNDS.

Mr. BEAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2815) for the relief of William Franklin Grounds; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EDWARD BRADEN & CO.

Mr. BEAN also introduced a bill (H. R. 2816) for the relief of Edward Braden & Co., asking appropriation to pay an amount of $2,006.17 awarded by Court of Claims, work done under Government contract; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ARIZONA.

Mr. BEAN also submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be requested to transmit to the House of Representatives copies of all official correspondence between the Interior Department and Governor Zulick, of Arizona, in reference to Indian affairs and other matters in that Territory.

EDWAY A. GRANT.

Mr. GIFFORD introduced a bill (H. R. 2817) for the relief of Edway A. Grant; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SUPREME COURT JUDGES OF DAKOTA.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2818) for two additional judges for the supreme court of Dakota; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2819) to amend section 9 of chapter 341, laws of the second session of the Forty-eighth Congress; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ADMISSION OF THE STATE OF DAKOTA.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2820) for the admission of the State of Dakota; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

SUPREME COURT, DAKOTA.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2821) to provide for two additional associate justices of the supreme court of Dakota, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

MONUMENT COMMEMORATIVE OF HOMESTEAD LAW.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2822) granting money to aid in the erection of a monument commemorative of the homestead law; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Library, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITIONAL LAND DISTRICTS, DAKOTA.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2823) to create two additional land districts in Dakota, and to define the boundaries of the Deadwood district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

GRANT OF PUBLIC LAND TO ABERDEEN, DAK.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2824) granting the southeast quarter of section 14, township 103 north, of range 64 west of the fifth principal meridian, in the Territory of Dakota, to the city of Aberdeen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

LANDS FOR REFORM-SCHOOL PURPOSES, DAKOTA.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2825) granting to Dakota Territory section 16, township 103, range 64 west, in the county of Aurora, in said Territory, for the purposes of a reform school, and granting to said Territory one section of land in lieu thereof for school purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

SCHOOL OF FORESTRY, DAKOTA.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2826) to grant lands to the Territory of Dakota for the purpose of establishing a school of forestry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

WILBUR F. STEEL.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2827) for the relief of Wilbur F. Steel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

NORTH DAKOTA UNIVERSITY.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2728) granting lands to North Dakota University; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

ABANDONED AND USELESS MILITARY RESERVATIONS.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2829) amending section 2 of chapter 214, Laws of the first session of the Forty-eighth Congress, approved July 5, 1884, entitled "An act to provide for the disposal of abandoned and useless military reservations;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

STERNE H. FOWLER.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2830) granting a pension to Sterne H. Fowler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INSURANCE COMPANIES, DAKOTA.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2831) to legalize the insurance companies of Dakota Territory, and to authorize the Legislature to pass general incorporation laws in reference thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB MATHIS.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2832) for the relief of Jacob Mathis, late bugler Company D, Thirty-ninth New York Volunteer Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RICHARD REDMOND.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2833) for the relief of Richard Redmond, late private in Company D, Thirty-first New York Volunteer Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS A. CARPENTER.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2834) to authorize the Secretary of War to restore the name of Thomas A. Carpenter, late captain of the Seventeenth United States Infantry, to the roll of the Army; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

TAFFRE SNOW.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2835) granting a pension to Taffre Snow; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH B. WALTERS.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2836) granting a pension to Joseph B. Walters; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M'DONALD.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2837) granting a pension to John McDonald; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE MISSOURI RIVER AT PIERRE, DAK.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2838) authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River at Pierre, Dak.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

A. G. SHAW.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2839) for the relief of A. G. Shaw; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY YOUNG.

Mr. GIFFORD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2840) for the relief of Henry Young; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

IDAHO AND WASHINGTON TERRITORIES.

Mr. HAILEY introduced a bill (H. R. 2841) to annex a portion of Idaho Territory to Washington Territory; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

COURTS IN IDAHO.

Mr. HAILEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2842) in relation to holding courts in the Territory of Idaho; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITIONAL JUDGE IN IDAHO.

Mr. HAILEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2843) to provide for an additional associate justice of the supreme court of the Territory of Idaho; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

AMENDMENT OF INDIAN APPROPRIATION ACT.

Mr. HAILEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2844) supplementary and amendatory of section 9 of an act entitled "An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department for fulfilling treaty stipulations of various Indian tribes for the year ending June 30, 1886," and approved March 3, 1885; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

INDIAN WAR CLAIMS.

Mr. HAILEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2845) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to adjust and pay to citizens of Idaho and Montana Territories expenses and losses incurred in the suppression of Indian hostilities in the years 1877 and 1878; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH K. VINCENT.

Mr. HAILEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2846) granting a pension to Joseph K. Vincent; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SHOSHONE AND BANNOCK INDIAN LANDS.

Mr. HAILEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2847) to authorize the Shoshone and Bannock Indians to sell to the Utah and Northern and Oregon Short Line Railway Companies certain lands situated upon the lands of said Indians in Idaho necessary to said companies for railway purposes, and for the relief of said railway companies; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

OUTRAGES BY INDIANS.

Mr. JOSEPH introduced a bill (H. R. 2848) to provide for the organization of a regiment of volunteers in New Mexico and Arizona for the purpose of suppressing outrages on settlers committed by hostile Indians; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC PARK IN NEW MEXICO.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2849) to set apart a certain tract of land situate upon the headwaters of the Pecos River, in New Mexico, as a public park; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITIONAL JUDGE, NEW MEXICO.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2850) providing for one additional associate justice of the supreme court of New Mexico, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PRIVATE LAND CLAIMS.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2851) to provide for ascertaining and settling private land claims in the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona and the State of Colorado; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COMMON SCHOOLS IN NEW MEXICO.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2852) to aid in the support of common schools in the Territory of New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Education, and ordered to be printed.

ARTESIAN WELLS IN NEW MEXICO.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2853) to provide for the boring of artesian wells in the Territory of New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

CHILDREN OF CHRISTOPHER CARSON.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2854) for the relief of the children and heirs of the late Christopher Carson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF MIGUEL DESMARAIS AND OTHERS.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2855) for the relief of the heirs of Miguel Desmarais and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT SANTA FÉ, N. MEX.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2856) for the completion of a public building at Santa Fé, N. Mex.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF ANTONIO JOSÉ LUNA.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2857) for the relief of the heirs of Antonio José Luna; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GRANT OF LAND IN NEW MEXICO.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2858) to confirm a grant of land to the town of Cevilleta, N. Mex.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM BETTS.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2859) for the relief of William Betts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

APOLINARIS ALMANZAR.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2860) for the relief of Apolinaris Almanzar, of San Miguel County, New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REPRESENTATIVES OF JOSÉ LUJAN.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2861) for the relief of the legal representatives of José de Jesus Lujan, of Mora County, New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW CAMERON.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2862) for the relief of Andrew Cameron; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

UNPAID UNITED STATES JURORS IN NEW MEXICO.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2863) in relation to certain unpaid United States jurors, and others, in New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ARMY AND NAVY HOSPITAL AT LAS VEGAS HOT SPRINGS, N. MEX.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2864) for the construction of an Army and Navy hospital at the Las Vegas Hot Springs, in the Territory of New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

FELIX M'KETTERICK.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2865) for the relief of Felix McKetterick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

R. B. HIGBEE.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2866) for the relief of R. B. Higbee; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ASSAY OFFICE, SOCORRO, N. MEX.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2867) to establish an assay office at Socorro, in the Territory of New Mexico; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, ALBUQUERQUE, N. MEX.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2868) for the erection of a public building at Albuquerque, N. Mex.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

JOSÉ ALBINA BACA AND OTHERS.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2869) for the relief of José Albina Baca, Romualdo Baca, and the heirs of Simon Baca, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANASTACIO SANDOVAL.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2870) for the relief of Anastacio Sandoval; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN WATTS.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2371) for the relief of John Watts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF ANTONIO BACA Y BACA AND OTHERS.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2872) for the relief of the heirs of Antonio Baca y Baca and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MANUEL CHAVEZ AND LORENZO LABADIE.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2873) for the relief of Manuel Chavez and Lorenzo Labadie; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PASCUAL BACA AND OTHERS.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2874) for the relief of Pascual Baca and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ANTONIO Y M. ABEYTA.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2875) for the relief of Antonio y M. Abeyta; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. A. LA RUE.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2876) for the relief of J. A. La Rue; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCISCO LOPEZ & SON.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2877) for the relief of Francisco Lopez & Son; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS COOPER AND OTHERS.

Mr. JOSEPH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2878) for the relief of Thomas Cooper and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST CHIRICAHUAN INDIANS.

Mr. JOSEPH also submitted the following resolution for reference:

Whereas the campaign against the Chiricahuan Indians, as conducted by General Crook and General Bradley, failed to suppress Indian hostilities, and from one to five persons are now being killed every day by the Indians and other outrages committed and constant misrepresentations of the situation have been made to headquarters as to the number of Indians off the reservation and the murders and other depredations committed attributed to cattle-men and Mexicans: Therefore,

Resolved, That the Speaker appoint a special committee of three to investigate the conduct of the campaign in New Mexico and Arizona against the Chiricahuan Apaches from May, 1885, to date, as conducted by General Crook; that said committee in its investigation shall seek information from citizens as well as from the military authorities, and that it have full power to send for persons and papers, with authority to conduct its investigation at such points as it may deem necessary.

Mr. STEELE. I think this resolution ought to go to the Committee on Military Affairs, as it pertains entirely to military matters. It proposes to investigate the conduct of a military campaign conducted by General Crook, and is certainly a matter coming properly within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Military Affairs.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. WELLBORN). The Chair thinks it should go to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. STEELE. It proposes to investigate the conduct of General Crook, and is a matter wholly within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Military Affairs.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The resolution proposes a new committee, thereby changing the rules of the House.

Mr. STEELE. That may be; but certainly the Committee on Military Affairs ought to pass on such questions as this resolution presents. It proposes to investigate the conduct of a military officer; and if the Committee on Military Affairs should not have charge of such a question I do not know what would come properly within their province.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair is very clearly of opinion that the resolution should go to the Committee on Rules; but if the gentleman so desires he will submit the question to the House.

Mr. STEELE. No, sir; I do not propose to raise an issue of that kind.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules.

PROCESS OF TERRITORIAL COURTS.

Mr. TOOLE introduced a bill (H. R. 2879) to authorize the service of civil and criminal process issued by Territorial courts within military and Indian reservations and the Yellowstone National Park; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS IN MONTANA.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2880) relating to the supreme court of Montana Territory and providing for the establishment of judicial districts therein; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

CINNABAR AND CLARK'S FORK RAILROAD.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2881) granting the right of way to the Cinnabar and Clark's Fork Railroad Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

TAXES ON RAILROAD GRANTS.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2882) to authorize and facilitate the collection of taxes upon certain railroad land grants; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS IN TERRITORIES.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2883) concerning the appointment of Federal officers in the Territories; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

FORT BENTON LAND DISTRICT.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2884) to create the Fort Benton land district, in the Territory of Montana; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT HELENA, MONT.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2885) for the erection of a public building at Helena, Mont.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

INDIAN RESERVATIONS IN MONTANA.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2886) to provide permanent reservations for the Indians in Northern Montana, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF LEANDER M. BLACK.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2887) for the relief of the heirs of Leander M. Black; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES R. BOYCE.

Mr. TOOLE also introduced a bill (H. R. 2888) for the relief of James R. Boyce; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ADDITION TO WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Mr. VOORHEES introduced a bill (H. R. 2889) to annex a portion of the Territory of Idaho to Washington Territory; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

ADMISSION OF STATE OF WASHINGTON.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2890) to provide for the formation and admission into the Union of the State of Washington, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2891) to declare forfeited certain lands granted to aid in the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

LANDS RELIEVED FROM RESERVATION.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2892) to relieve from reservation certain lands heretofore withdrawn for railroad purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

SETTLERS ON LAND GRANTS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2893) for the relief of settlers within the limits of railroad land grants; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL LANDS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2894) for the reduction of all agricultural lands within the limits of the grant of lands to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, exclusive of lands granted to said company, to the minimum price of $1.25 per acre, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

REGISTERS AND RECEIVERS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2895) authorizing registers and receivers of the United States land offices to enforce the attendance of witnesses in their respective districts; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

SURVIVORS OF WHITMAN MASSACRE.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2896) for the relief of the survivors of the massacre of Dr. Marcus Whitman and others, in the Columbia River Valley, and the heirs of those killed in said massacre; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SURVEY OF PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2897) to pay for the survey of certain public lands in Washington Territory; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

CIVIL-SERVICE REFORM.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2898) to promote the faithful administration of the public trusts, and to secure more efficient civil-service reform, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

MILITARY MEADOW RESERVE.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2899) to restore the abandoned military meadow reserve, in Walla Walla County, Washington Territory, to the public domain, and to dispose of the same to settlers thereon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

OREGON INDIAN WAR.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2900) amending section 2427 of the Revised Statutes so as to extend the benefits of the bounty-land law to the volunteers who served in the Oregon and Washington Indian war of 1855 and 1856; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

INSPECTORS OF HULLS AND BOILERS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2901) amending section 4414 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, fixing the compensation of inspectors of hulls and boilers in the several districts of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

BELLINGHAM BAY RAILROAD.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2902) authorizing the Bellingham Bay Railway and Navigation Company to build certain bridges, wharves, and docks in the Territory of Washington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

RATE OF PENSIONS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2903) to fix the rate of pensions in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SNOQUALMIE PASS WAGON-ROAD.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2904) to construct a wagon-road across the Snoqualmie Pass of the Cascade Mountains, in Washington Territory; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2905) amending section 1874 of the Revised Statutes and confirming the orders and proceedings of certain Territorial courts in cases arising under the naturalization laws of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE A. MILLER.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2906) for the relief of George A. Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM K. GRIFFITH.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2907) for the relief of William K. Griffith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN BRADLEY.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2908) for the relief of John Bradley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS J. MILLER.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2909) for the relief of Thomas J. Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB KUNTZ.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2910) for the relief of Jacob Kuntz, alias John Walters; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN L. BUTLER.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2911) for the relief of John L. Butler; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS R. LYTLE.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2912) granting a pension to Thomas R. Lytle, a soldier of the Mexican war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RUFUS G. NEWLAND.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2913) to confirm the title in certain lands to Rufus G. Newland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DENIS STORRS AND OTHERS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2914) for the relief of Denis Storrs, Marion Minnick, Fritz Dibberin, Donald McDonald, and Daniel Hines; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE B. HANSELL.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2915) for the relief of George B. Hansell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN S. HILL.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2916) for the relief of John S. Hill; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN Y. SEWELL.

Mr. VOORHEHS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2917) for the relief of John Y. Sewell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM HUNTINGTON.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2918) for the relief of William Huntington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY R. CROSBIE.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a bill (H. R. 2919) for the relief of Henry R. Crosbie; which was read a first and second time, referred to Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RAILROAD INDEMNITY LANDS.

Mr. VOORHEES also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 68) to restore to the public domain certain lands of the United States heretofore withdrawn for railroad indemnity purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

WIND RIVER VALLEY, WYOMING.

Mr. CAREY introduced a bill (H. R. 2920) for the relief of certain settlers in the Wind River Valley, Wyoming Territory; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. T. AND C. T. HULETT.

Mr. CAREY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2921) for the relief of J. T. and C. T. Hulett; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY, WYOMING.

Mr. CAREY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2922) to legalize the election of the Territorial Legislative Assembly of Wyoming, held November 4, 1884; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Territories, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY, LARAMIE, WYO.

Mr. CAREY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2923) for the improvement and repair of the United States penitentiary at Laramie City, Wyo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to he printed.

ADDITIONAL LAND DISTRICT, WYOMING.

Mr. CAREY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2924) to establish a new land district in the Territory of Wyoming; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

J. M. LOBBAN.

Mr. CAREY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2925) for the relief of J. M. Lobban; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, CHEYENNE, WYO.

Mr. CAREY also introduced a bill (H. R. 2926) for the erection of a public building at Cheyenne, Wyo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The call of States and Territories is now completed, and the Chair will recognize gentlemen who were not in their seats when their States were called for the introduction and reference of bills.

NEW YORK HARBOR.

Mr. PULITZER introduced a bill (H. R. 2927) providing for the appointment of a board of commissioners for New York Harbor; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGE OVER MISSISSIPPI RIVER.

Mr. HATCH introduced a bill (H. R. 2928) authorizing the construction of a bridge over the Mississippi River at or near Alton, Ill., and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Commitee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

MISSOURI JUDICIAL DISTRICTS.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2929) to amend the act dividing the State of Missouri into two judicial districts, and to divide the eastern and western districts thereof into divisions, establish district and circuit courts of the United States therein, and to provide for the times and places for holding such courts, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

TAX ON TOBACCO.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2930) to repeal so much of the sixth clause of section 3244 of the Revised Statutes of the United States as prohibits farmers and planters from selling leaf-tobacco at retail directly to consumers without the payment of a special tax, and to allow farmers and planters to sell leaf-tobacco of their own production to other persons than dealers in tobacco without a special tax; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

FREE SALT.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2931) to provide for the importation of salt free of duty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2932) to enlarge the powers and duties of the Department of Agriculture; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2933) to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several States under the provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862, and of acts supplementary thereto; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

CATHOLIC CHURCH, MACON CITY, MO.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2934) making an appropriation to reimburse the Catholic church of Macon City, Mo., for the use and occupation of their church building by United States troops during the late civil war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES PRICE.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2935) for the relief of James Price; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE M. OCHILTREE.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2936) for the relief of George M. Ochiltree; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH SNYDER.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2937) for the relief of Joseph Snyder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM A. DORNER.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2938) for the relief of William A. Dorner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY H. GREEN.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2939) granting a pension to Henry H. Green; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN T. PENNINGTON.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2940) granting a pension to John T. Pennington; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS MURPHY.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2941) for the relief of Thomas Murphy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES P. POOL.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2942) granting a pension to Charles P. Pool; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RALPH H. TUCKER.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2943) granting a pension to Ralph H. Tucker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN H. LASH.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2944) granting a pension to John H. Lash; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MATILDA HOLMES.

Mr. HATCH also introduced a bill (H. R. 2945) granting a pension to Matilda Holmes, widow of William W. Holmes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PRESERVATION OF WOODS AND FORESTS.

Mr. HATCH (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2946) for the preservation of the woods and forests of the national domain adjacent to the sources of the navigable rivers and their affluents in the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

J. C. RUDD.

Mr. LAFFOON introduced a bill (H. R. 2947) for the benefit of J. C. Rudd, of Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LEAF-TOBACCO.

Mr. LAFFOON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2948) to repeal all special tax on dealers in leaf-tobacco in certain cases; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

CIVIL SERVICE.

Mr. LAFFOON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2949) to amend an act entitled "An act to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States," approved January 16, 1883; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES ALBERT BONSAC.

Mr. DANIEL introduced a bill (H. R. 2950) for the relief of James Albert Bonsac; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

J. HENRY RIVES.

Mr. DANIEL also introduced a bill (H. R. 2951) for the relief of J. Henry Rives; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BLOOMFIELD LODGE, NO. 57, F. A. M., BLOOMFIELD, KY.

Mr. ROBERTSON introduced a bill (H. R. 2952) for the relief of Bloomfield Lodge, No. 57, F. A. M., in the town of Bloomfield, Ky.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN P. BUSH AND MARTIN GRIGSBY.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2953) for the relief of John P. Bush and Martin Grigsby; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

NANNIE JOHN GRAVES.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2954) granting a pension to Nannie John Graves; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOT C. READ.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2955) for the benefit of Lot C. Read; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADJUSTMENT OF ACCOUNTS.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2956) to adjust certain accounts between the United States and the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JEREMIAH JEFFRIES.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2957) for the relief of Jeremiah Jeffries; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL B. STORMS.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2958) granting a pension to Daniel B. Storms; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

D. O. RILEY.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2059) for the relief of D. O. Riley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

BENJAMIN A. STITH, ADMINISTRATOR.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2960) for the relief of Benjamin A. Stith, administrator; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN P. M'CLURE.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2961) for the relief of John P. McClure; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TICE METERS.

Mr. ROBERTSON also introduced a bill (H. R. 2962) to authorize suits to be brought in the Court of Claims for money paid and expenses incurred on account of Tice meters, and asked unanimous consent to have it referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. MILLS. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the bill be read.

The bill was read, and was then referred to the Committee on Claims.

LOUIS WHORLEY.

Mr. ERMENTROUT introduced a bill (H. R. 2963) granting a pension to Louis Whorley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABEL MICHLER.

Mr. ERMENTROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 2964) to restore to the pension-list the name of Abel Michler, of Pennsylvania; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURTS IN MICHIGAN.

Mr. FISHER introduced a bill (H. R. 2965) to provide for holding terms of the circuit and district courts of the United States for the eastern district of Michigan at Bay City, in said district; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT BAY CITY, MICH.

Mr. FISHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2966) to provide for the construction of a public building at Bay City, Mich.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM E. CHRISTIAN.

Mr. FISHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2667) for the relief of William E. Christian; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

HARRIET PEAK.

Mr. FISHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2968) granting a pension to Harriet Peak; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS T. NICHOLS.

Mr. FISHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2969) granting a pension to Francis T. Nichols; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DANIEL FOREMAN.

Mr. FISHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2970) granting a pension to Daniel Foreman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS DEMING.

Mr. FISHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2971) granting a pension to Francis Deming; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MOSES FOSTER.

Mr. FISHER also introduced a bill (H. R. 2972) granting a pension to Moses Foster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANN M. ELLIOTT.

Mr. WINANS introduced a bill (H. R. 2973) for the relief of Ann M. Elliott, widow of Robert F. Elliott, late major Sixteenth Regiment Michigan Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANK B. CASE.

Mr. WINANS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2974) for the relief of Midshipman Frank B. Case; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZA A. WEEKS.

Mr. WINANS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2975) granting a pension to Eliza A. Weeks; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LENFORD ROSE.

Mr. WINANS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2976) granting a pension to Lenford Rose; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. WRIGHT.

Mr. WINANS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2977) for the relief of William H. Wright; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANK LESTER.

Mr. WINANS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2978) granting a pension to Frank Lester; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIAS SHAFER.

Mr. WINANS also introduced a bill (H. R. 2979) granting an increase of pension to Elias Shafer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LAND TITLES IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr. BLANCHARD introduced a bill (H. R. 2980) to amend the laws in relation to land titles in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia, and ordered to be printed.

PRIVATE LAND CLAIMS.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2981) to abrogate the powers of the executive officers of the United States in allowing indemnity locations on scrip for confirmed unsatisfied private land claims under section 3 of the act of Congress approved June 2, 1858 (United States Statutes at Large, volume 11, pages 294 and 295, chapter 81), and to vest that power in the courts of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. MARGARET FUHR.

Mr. BLANCHARD (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 2982) for the relief of Mrs. Margaret Fuhr, widow and tutrix of the minor heirs of Frederick Fuhr, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FORT WORTH AND DENVER CITY RAILWAY COMPANY.

Mr. BLANCHARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2983) to grant a right of way to the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway Company through the Indian Territory, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

TREZEVANT CLAIM.

Mr. HAMMOND presented a joint resolution of the Legislature of the State of Georgia, asking the payment of the Trezevant claim; which was referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JUDGMENTS OF COURT OF CLAIMS.

Mr. HEWITT introduced a bill (H. R. 2984) to pay certain judgments of the Court of Claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

MINTHORNE TOMPKINS, DECEASED.

Mr. HEWITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 2985) for the relief of Minthorne Tompkins, deceased, and others; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SEPTIMUS BROWN.

Mr. BARBOUR introduced a bill (H. R. 2986) for the relief of Septimus Brown, of Alexandria County, Virginia; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK LOWSTER.

Mr. HOWARD introduced a bill (H. R. 2987) granting a pension to Frederick Lowster; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

REBECCA S. ALLEN.

Mr. HOWARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2988) for the relief of Rebecca S. Allen; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELI MILLER.

Mr. HOWARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2989) for the relief of Eli Miller; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN W. BEAMAN AND B. F. SCRIBNER.

Mr. HOWARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2990) for the relief of John W. Beaman and B. F. Scribner; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERICK A. GARLICK.

Mr. HISCOCK introduced a bill (H. R. 2991) granting a pension to Frederick A. Garlick; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM W. WEBB.

Mr. HISCOCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 2992) for the relief of William W. Webb; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

CHICAGO, FREEPORT AND SAINT PAUL RAILROAD COMPANY.

Mr. HITT introduced a bill (H. R. 2993) to authorize the Chicago, Freeport and Saint Paul Railroad Company to construct a bridge across the Saint Croix River (or Lake) at any accessible point between Prescott, Wis., and Taylor's Falls, Minn.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

JEARUM ATKINS.

Mr. HITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 2994) for the relief of Jearum Atkins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

FRANCIS H. SHAW.

Mr. HITT also introduced a bill (H. R. 2995) for the relief of Francis H. Shaw; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

NORTHERN JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF NEW YORK.

Mr. MILLARD introduced a bill (H. R. 2996) to amend the Revised Statutes of the United States establishing the times, places, and provisions for holding terms of the district court in the northern district of New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

LEWIS PIERSON.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2997) granting a pension to Lewis Pierson, Company B, Eighty-ninth New York Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY MERICLE.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2998) granting a pension to Henry Mericle, Company D, Sixth New York Heavy Artillery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES H. SIVER.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 2999) granting a pension to James H. Siver, Company E, One hundred and thirty-seventh New York Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGET HANDERLINE.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3000) granting a pension to Bridget Handerline, widow of Daniel Handerline, Company A, First District of Columbia Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MICHAEL KELLY.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3001) granting a pension to Michael Kelly, Companies I and E, Fourth United States Artillery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

AUGUSTA PIKE.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3002) granting a pension to Augusta Pike, widow of Horace Pike, Company H, Second New York Cavalry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CORNELIUS M. PIERCE.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3003) granting a pension to Cornelius M. Pierce, Company I, Fiftieth New York Engineer Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADELAIDE H. BRIGHAM.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3004) granting a pension to Adelaide H. Brigham, widow of Stephen B. Brigham, Company I, Fiftieth New York Engineer Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JERRY ROGERS.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3005) granting a pension to Jerry Rogers, Company D, One hundred and ninth New York Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM S. HALE.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3006) granting a pension to William S. Hale, Company F, Sixtieth Massachusetts Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES E. CORL.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3007) granting a pension to James E. Corl, Company A, One hundred and seventy-seventh New York Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY WILLIS.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a bill (H. R. 3008) granting a pension to Henry Willis, Company I, Seventy-first New York Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

TENURE OF PRESIDENTIAL OFFICE.

Mr. MILLARD also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 69) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States changing the terms of office of President of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President, and ordered to be printed.

BRANCH HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. SYMES introduced a bill (H. R. 3009) to authorize the location of a branch home for volunteer disabled soldiers and sailors in either of the States of Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Colorado, or Dakota Territory; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, PUEBLO, COLO.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 3010) for the erection of a public building at Pueblo, Colo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

RIGHT OF WAY THROUGH PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 3011) to grant the right of way through the public lands for irrigation purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

UNLIMITED COINAGE OF THE SILVER DOLLAR.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 3012) to provide for the free and unlimited coinage of the silver dollar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures, and ordered to be printed.

A. G. BOONE.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 3013) for the relief of A. G. Boone, of La Veta, Colo.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES COURTS, COLORADO.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a bill (H. R. 3014) to provide for terms of court in Colorado; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

SILVER COINAGE.

Mr. SYMES also introduced a concurrent resolution against suspending silver coinage; which was referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

HENRY B. SEELY.

Mr. SAWYER introduced a bill (H. R. 3015) for the relief of Henry B. Seely; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN F. CHASE.

Mr. SAWYER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3016) for the relief of John F. Chase, formerly a member of Company B, Eighteenth Regiment New York State Infantry Volunteers, to place his name on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

BRIDGET CONWAY.

Mr. SAWYER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3017) for the relief of Bridget Conway; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE THAYER.

Mr. SAWYER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3018) for the relief of George Thayer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABIGAIL SMITH.

Mr. SAWYER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3019) to increase the pension of Abigail Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DONATION OF CONDEMNED CANNON, ETC.

Mr. SAWYER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3020) donating condemned cannon and cannon-balls to the village of Albion, Orleans County, New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. SAWYER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3021) donating condemned cannon and cannon-balls to the village of Nunda, Livingston County, New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ILLINOIS AND MICHIGAN CANAL.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Illinois, introduced a bill (H. R. 3022) to provide for the acceptance by the United States of the proposed grant of the Illinois and Michigan Canal and all its appurtenances from the State of Illinois and for the construction of the Illinois and Mississippi River Canal; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Railways and Canals, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL BURRELL.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Illinois (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 3023) for the relief of Samuel Burrell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES D. RYAN.

Mr. HENDERSON, of Illinois (by request), also submitted a resolution authorizing the Doorkeeper to employ James D. Ryan as an assistant folder in the folding-room; which was referred to the Committee on Accounts.

BATH COUNTY, KENTUCKY.

Mr. WADSWORTH introduced a bill (H. R. 3024) for the relief of Bath County, Kentucky; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

M. W. FOUDRAY.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 3025) for the relief of Milton Wallace Foudray; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

NICHOLAS DAILEY.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 3026) to remove the charge of desertion from the military record of Nicholas Dailey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ARCHIBALD WHITE.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 3027) for the relief of Archibald White; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ESTATE OF ENOS RAY.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 3028) for the relief of Alfred Ray and John W. Ray, executors of the estate of Enos Ray, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ISAAC ULLERY.

Mr. WADSWORTH also introduced a bill (H. R. 3029) for the relief of Isaac Ullery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

NORTH CHICAGO ROLLING-MILL COMPANY.

Mr. DUNHAM introduced a bill (H. R. 3030) for the relief of the North Chicago Rolling-mill Company; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

EXTRA TIME IN CHICAGO CUSTOM-HOUSE.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3031) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay certain citizens of Chicago, employés of the custom-house, for extra-time service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TENEDORE TEN EYCK.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3032) to authorize the President to restore Tenedore Ten Eyck to his former rank in the Army and place him upon the retired-list of Army officers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

TELEGRAPH OPERATORS DURING THE LATE WAR.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3033) for the relief of telegraph operators during the late war; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

EXTRA-TIME SERVICE.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3034) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay certain citizens of Chicago, employés of the custom-house, for extra-time service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. HOFFMAN.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3035) granting a pension to John M. Hoffman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3036) to establish a department of commerce; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

LICENSING TOWING VESSELS TO CARRY PASSENGERS.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3037) relating to the licensing of vessels engaged in towing to carry persons in addition to their crews; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

KING & WOOD.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3038) for the relief of King & Wood; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

DENTON & SAGE.

Mr. DUNHAM also introduced a bill (H. R. 3039) to refund to Denton & Sage, of Chicago, Ill., the sum of $1,549.67, duties paid on 60 hogsheads of sugar; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

TITLE TO REAL ESTATE IN TERRITORIES.

Mr. ROWELL introduced a bill (H. R. 3040) to prohibit corporations engaged in the business of agriculture, grazing, or dealing in real estate from acquiring title to real estate in the Territories; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN F. ALSUP.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3041) for the relief of John F. Alsup, Company B, Thirty-ninth Illinois Infantry Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY C. HIRST.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3042) for the relief of Henry C. Hirst, late a private of Company I, Third Regiment of Artillery One hundred and fifty-second Pennsylvania Volunteers, which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LOUIS W. SCANLAND.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3043) granting a pension to Louis W. Scanland; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CLARKSON TRYON.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3044) for the relief of Clarkson Tryon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM D. WEBB.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3045) granting a pension to William D. Webb; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSION CLAIMS.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3046) to change the date of filing certain pension claims; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

THOMAS TEGAN.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3047) granting a pension to Thomas Tegan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DUNCAN FORBES.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3048) granting an increase of pension to Duncan Forbes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ANDREW CURRY.

Mr. ROWELL also introduced a bill (H. R. 3049) for the relief of Andrew Curry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY A. TODD.

Mr. DUNHAM introduced a bill (H. R. 3050) granting a pension to Mary A. Todd; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FACILITATION OF MAIL DELIVERY.

Mr. BUCK introduced a bill (H. R. 3051) to facilitate the delivery of mail matter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

MAIL DELIVERY.

Mr. BUCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 3052) relating to the delivery of mail matter at post-offices; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post Roads, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. HATHAWAY.

Mr. BUCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 3053) granting a pension to John M. Hathaway; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SYLVESTER ROOT.

Mr. BUCK also introduced a bill (H. R. 3054) granting a pension to Sylvester Root; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EQUALIZATION OF PAY OF OFFICERS OF NAVY AND MARINE CORPS.

Mr. THOMAS, of Illinois, introduced a bill (H. R. 3055) to equalize the pay of commissioned officers of the Navy and Marine Corps; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN PALMER.

Mr. WEAVER, of Nebraska, introduced a bill (H. R. 3056) for the relief of John Palmer for Indian depredations; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

COMPENSATION FOR MAIL TRANSPORTATION.

Mr. TOWNSHEND introduced a bill (H. R. 3057) to readjust the compensation to be paid for the transportation of the mails over railroad routes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3058) granting pensions at the rate of $12 per month to all widows and minor children of soldiers receiving pensions at the time of their death without requiring proof that they died from disability incurred in the military and naval service; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HEIRS OF SOLOMON BLUE.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3059) for the relief of the heirs of Solomon Blue; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. EDDY AND OTHERS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3060) for the relief of John M. Eddy, Elizabeth K. Carroll, Alice B. Eddy, and Frank M. Eddy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL M. NALLEY.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3061) for the relief of Samuel M. Nalley; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES CUNNINGHAM.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3062) for the relief of James Cunningham, late captain Company H, Eightieth Regiment Illinois Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

TEMPERANCE J. O'NEAL.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3063) granting a pension to Temperance J. O'Neal; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

EBEN MUSE.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3064) granting a pension to Eben Muse; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SARAH C. THOMAS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3065) granting a pension to Sarah C. Thomas; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MINERVA A. ROSS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3066) granting a pension to Minerva A. Ross; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE M. SANDERS.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3067) for the relief of George M. Sanders; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. TUCKER.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3068) granting a pension to John B. Tucker; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES BARRY.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3069) granting a pension to James Barry, Company E, First United States Artillery; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ELIJAH ROTRAMEL.

Mr. TOWNSHEND also introduced a bill (H. R. 3070) granting a pension to Elijah Rotramel; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALBERT P. CUNNINGHAM.

Mr. CANNON introduced a bill (H. R. 3071) for the relief of Albert P. Cunningham, late of Company G, Seventy-sixth Illinois Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

WADE H. NEWMAN.

Mr. CANNON also introduced a bill (H. R. 3072) to remove the charge of desertion from the record of Wade H. Newman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN MOORE.

Mr. CANNON also introduced a bill (H. R. 3073) for the relief of John Moore; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSIONS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, introduced a bill (H. R. 3074) granting pensions to certain Union soldiers and sailors of the late war of the rebellion who were confined in so-called confederate prisons; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3075) to amend section 1 of an act approved March 9, 1878, granting pensions to surviving officers, soldiers, sailors, and their widows, of the war of 1812; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RAILROAD LAND GRANTS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3076) to provide for the adjustment of land grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads within the State of Kansas and for the forfeiture of unearned lands, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3077) to provide for the payment of the costs of surveying and selecting certain lands granted by Congress to aid in the construction of certain railways and telegraph lines; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and ordered to be printed.

SALE OF PACIFIC RAILROADS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3078) to prevent the sale of certain Pacific railroads before certain United States bonds, with interest, shall have been fully paid; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and ordered to be printed.

DISCRIMINATIONS BY RAILROADS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3079) to prevent unjust discriminations by railroad companies and subjecting them to the control of the United States under certain circumstances; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

THURMAN SINKING-FUND ACT.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3080) to amend the Thurman sinking-fund act; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and ordered to be printed.

RAILROAD PASSES TO PUBLIC OFFICERS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3081) prohibiting the use of railroad and other passes and of telegraph franks by members of the Congress and judiciary of the United States, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Commerce, and ordered to be printed.

AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3082) to create an agricultural commission; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3083) to create the postal telegraph of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

REDUCTION OF RATE OF POSTAGE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3084) to reduce the rate of postage on letters commonly known as drop or local letters to 1 cent; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

REDUCTION OF LIFE OF PATENTS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3085) to reduce the lifetime of a patent to seven years; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3086) to enlarge the powers and duties of the Department of Agriculture; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Agriculture, and ordered to be printed.

SETTLERS ON PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3087) for the relief of settlers on the public lands under the pre-emption laws; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

HOMESTEADING.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3088) to shorten the period required in homesteading public lands to two years; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

MARY CLARKE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3089) for the relief of Mary Clarke; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

IRA HAWORTH.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3090) to re-examine the homestead claim of Ira Haworth; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims, and ordered to be printed.

S. D. HOUSTON.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3091) for the relief of S. D. Houston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN B. LUTE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3092) for the relief of John B. Lute; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

S. D. HOUSTON.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3093) for the relief of S. D. Houston; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES GANNON.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3094) for the relief of James Gannon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

ESTATE OF H. H. DALRYMPLE, DECEASED.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3095) for the relief of the estate of H. H. Dalrymple, deceased; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JOSIAH H. PILLSBURY.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3096) for the relief of Josiah H. Pillsbury; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM W. ANDREW.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3097) to increase the pension of William W. Andrew; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOSIAH ELKINS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3098) for the relief of Josiah Elkins; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

HENRY C. WILLIAMS.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3099) granting a pension to Henry C. Williams; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL HANSON.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3100) granting a pension to Samuel Hanson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN A. HART.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3101) for the relief of John A. Hart; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JACOB THEIRER.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3102) for the relief of Jacob Theirer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM C. H. BOWMAN.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3103) for the relief of William C. H. Bowman; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN M. CARTER.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3104) for the relief of John M. Carter; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M'DONALD.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3105) for the relief of James McDonald; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY CLARKE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3106) for the relief of Mary Clarke; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

GRADUATES UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3107) to regulate the promotion of graduates of the United States Military Academy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ISRAEL DODGE.

Mr. ANDERSON, of Kansas (by request), also introduced a bill (H. R. 3108) declaring the intention of Congress in passing the act approved June 15, 1880, entitled "An act for the relief of the heirs and legal representatives of Israel Dodge, deceased;" which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

MANUFACTURE AND SALE OF OLEOMARGARINE.

Mr. GROUT introduced a bill (H. R. 3109) to tax the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

HARRISON DEWEY.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3110) directing the Secretary of War to amend the record of Harrison Dewey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

EXTENSION OF PENSION LAWS.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3111) granting a pension to all invalid soldiers of the United States in the late civil war who are dependent upon their daily labor for their support; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ARREARS OF PENSION.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3112) to repeal the limitation for the payment of the arrears of pension; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ELIZABETH A. RANDALL.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3113) for the relief of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Randall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3114) providing for the appointment of a commission on the subject of the alcoholic liquor traffic; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on the Alcoholic Liquor Traffic, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. SAULPAW.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3115) for the relief of George W. Saulpaw; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

LUCINDA GOULD.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3116) granting a pension to Lucinda Gould, dependent mother of L. W. Gould, of the Sixth Regiment Vermont Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WALTER A. PHILLIPS.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3117) granting a pension to Walter A. Phillips, first lieutenant Third Battery Light Artillery Vermont Volunteers; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM H. H. BUCK.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3118) granting an increase of pension to William H. H. Buck; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LOUIS GARON.

Mr. GROUT (by request) also introduced a bill (H. R. 3119) for the relief of Louis Garon; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

APPOINTMENTS OF POSTMASTERS.

Mr. GROUT also introduced a joint resolution (H. Res. 70) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

WINNEBAGO INDIAN RESERVATION.

Mr. DORSEY introduced a bill (H. R. 3120) to provide for the sale of a part of the reservation situated in the State of Nebraska of the Winnebago tribe of Indians, and for other purposes; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Public Lands, and ordered to be printed.

JOSEPH M. FEATHER.

Mr. DORSEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 3121) granting a pension to Joseph M. Feather, late private Seventh Regiment West Virginia Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

GEORGE W. IRA.

Mr. DORSEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 3122) for the relief of George W. Ira, M. D.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, FREMONT, NEBR.

Mr. DORSEY also introduced a bill (H. R. 3123) for the erection of a public building at Fremont, Nebr.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

CUSTOM-HOUSE, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Mr. SPOONER introduced a bill (H. R. 3124) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase land adjacent to the custom-house in the city of Providence, R. I.; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

WILLIAM G. BUDLONG.

Mr. SPOONER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3125) for the relief of William G. Budlong; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

STEPHEN N. SMITH.

Mr. SPOONER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3126) for the relief of Stephen N. Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Patents, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN J. CARD.

Mr. SPOONER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3127) to remove the charge of desertion and to correct the naval record of John J. Card, erroneously enrolled as John Carder; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

JEREMIAH M'CARTY.

Mr. SPOONER also introduced a bill (H. R. 3128) for the relief of Jeremiah McCarty; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FRANK J. BURROWS.

Mr. BROWN, of Pennsylvania, introduced a bill (H. R. 3129) for the relief of Frank J. Burrows; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

AMERICAN BOARD FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Mr. LONG (by request) introduced a bill (H. R. 3130) for the relief of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Rev. Worcester Willey and Esther Smith; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CHAUNCEY I. DRURY.

Mr. BURROWS introduced a bill (H. R. 3131) granting a pension to Chauncey I. Drury; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN QUAKE.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3132) granting a pension to John Quake; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADA L. HARRISON.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3133) granting a pension to Ada L. Harrison; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES S. DONAHUE.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3134) granting a pension to James S. Donahue; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES SEBRING.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3135) granting a pension to Charles Sebring; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

DUTY ON WOOL.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3136) to regulate the rates of duty on wool; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, and ordered to be printed.

EDNA EGELSHAFFER.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3137) granting a pension to Edna Egelshaffer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

WILKIN D. BRIGGS.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3138) granting a pension to Wilkin D. Briggs; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

POTTAWATOMIE INDIANS.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3139) to enable the Secretary of the Interior to make final settlement with the Pottawatomie Indians of Michigan and Indiana under treaty stipulations existing with them; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

MARY RAMSEY.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3140) granting a pension to Mary Ramsey; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

POLLY HALL.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3141) granting a pension to Polly Hall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING AT KALAMAZOO, MICH.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3142) for the erection of a public building at the city of Kalamazoo, in the State of Michigan; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

MELVIN HAYSE.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3143) granting a pension to Melvin Hayse; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ISAIAH MITCHELL.

Mr. BURROWS also introduced a bill (H. R. 3144) granting a pension to Isaiah H. Mitchell; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Mr. BAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to introduce two bills for reference.

Mr. KELLEY. I object, Mr. Speaker, simply for the purpose of preventing a further flooding of the House with bills at this time. On Monday the gentleman will have an opportunity. I object in this case so as to have a right to object in other cases. I want to save a little pleasant excitement for Monday. [Laughter.]

ADDISON C. FLETCHER.

Mr. DAVENPORT introduced a bill (H. R. 3145) for the relief of the assignees of Addison C. Fletcher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SONE AND FLEMING MANUFACTURING COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Mr. DAVENPORT also introduced a bill (H. R. 3146) for the relief of the Sone and Fleming Manufacturing Company (limited) of the city of New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

The SPEAKER. That completes, as the Chair supposes, the execution of the order.

Mr. CAREY. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the Committee on Territories be discharged from the further consideration of Senate bill No. 602, and that that bill be now placed upon its passage, and I ask leave to make a simple statement to the House.

Mr. KELLEY. I object, Mr. Speaker, to entering upon general business until the committees shall have been appointed.

Mr. CAREY. Mr. Speaker, I ask leave to make a brief statement. [Cries of "Regular order!"]

Mr. BURROWS. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. KELLEY] will not object if he will allow the gentleman from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY] to make his statement, which will occupy but a moment.

Mr. KELLEY. I have no objection to hearing the statement.

Several MEMBERS. Regular order!

Mr. NEGLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer, for reference, a resolution with regard to printing.

The SPEAKER. The regular order is demanded.

Mr. CAREY. I ask the House to hear me for one minute.

The SPEAKER. But gentlemen on both sides of the House have objected.

Mr. CANNON. But, Mr. Speaker, we do not yet know what the bill is. [Renewed calls of "Regular order!"]

The SPEAKER. The regular order is demanded.

Mr. CANNON. Mr. Speaker, I make this point of order, that when a gentleman rises in his place and is recognized by the Chair, and asks unanimous consent that a certain bill be taken up, it is then the right of that gentleman, as it is the right of any member, to state what the bill is, by its title, so that the House may know what it is acting upon.

Several MEMBERS. No! no!

The SPEAKER. As soon as the Chair states that a gentleman has risen and asked unanimous consent to do anything upon the floor of the House other gentlemen know whether what is proposed is the regular order or not, and they have a right to demand the regular order.

Mr. CANNON. I recognize that as a correct ruling, Mr. Speaker, but no gentleman did rise in his place when the gentleman from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY] asked consent, and he having entered upon the presentation of his request, I think he has a right to complete that request, and not to be cut off half-way. In other words, I think that my colleague, having allowed the gentleman from Wyoming to enter upon his statement, waived his right to object at least until the completion of that statement.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. CANNON] is mistaken as to the facts. When the gentleman from Wyoming stated his request the Chair repeated it to the House. Thereupon objection was made. The gentleman from Wyoming then asked that he be allowed to make a brief statement. The gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. KELLEY] then rose in his place and stated that he would for the present object until after the announcement of the committees of the House.

Mr. SPRINGER. The gentleman from Wyoming can renew his request after the committees are announced.

STANDING AND SELECT COMMITTEES.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has heretofore, under resolution of the House, announced the Committee on Rules, the Committee on Printing, the Committee on Enrolled Bills, and the Committee on Mileage. He will now announce the remaining standing and select committees.

The Clerk read the list of committees, as follows:

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Committee on Elections—Messrs. Turner, Lowry, Robertson, Boyle, Henderson of North Carolina, Green of New Jersey, Croxton, Martin, Hall, Pettibone, Payne, Hahn, Hopkins, Ely, and Dorsey.

Committee on Ways and Means—Messrs. Morrison, Mills of Texas, Hewitt, McMillin, Harris, Breckinridge of Arkansas, Maybury, Breckinridge of Kentucky, Kelley, Hiscock, Browne of Indiana, Reed of Maine, and McKinley.

Committee on Appropriations—Messrs. Randall, Forney, Holman, Townshend, Burnes, Cabell, Le Fevre, Adams of New York, Wilson, Cannon, Ryan, Butterworth, Long, McComas, and Henderson of Iowa.

Committee on the Judiciary—Messrs. Tucker, Hammond, Culberson, Collins, Seney, Oates, Eden, Rogers, Bennett, Ezra B. Taylor, Parker, Ranney, Hepburn, Stewart of Vermont, and Caswell.

Committee on Banking and Currency—Messrs. Curtin, Miller, Candler, Wilkins, Arnot, Snyder, Howard, Hutton, Dingley, Brumm, Adams of Illinois, Brady, and Woodburn.

Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures—Messrs. Bland, Lanham, Seymour, Hemphill, Norwood, Scott, McCreary, Bynum, James, Rockwell, Little, Felton, Fuller, and Toole.

Committee on Commerce—Messrs. Reagan, Clardy, Crisp, Caldwell, O'Ferrall, Tarsney, Pulitzer, Bynum, Irion, O'Neill of Pennsylvania, Davis, Dunham, Weaver of Nebraska, Johnson of New York, and Morrow.

Committee on Rivers and Harbors—Messrs. Willis, Blanchard, Jones of Alabama, Murphy, Gibson of West Virginia, Stewart of Texas, Carleton, Catchings, Glover, Henderson of Illinois, Bayne, Stone of Massachusetts, Burleigh, Grosvenor, and Markham.

Committee on Agriculture—Messrs. Hatch, Aiken, Green of North Carolina, Winans, Frederick, Davidson of Alabama, Stahlnecker, Morgan, Glass, White of Minnesota, Funston, Price, Hires, Pirce, Swinburne, and Gifford.

Committee on Foreign Affairs—Messrs. Belmont, Clements, Cox, Singleton, Worthington, Daniel, McCreary, Crain, Rice, Wait, Ketcham, Pelps, and Hitt.

Committee on Military Affairs—Messrs. Bragg, Wheeler, Wolford, Ermentrout, Dargan, Findlay, Viele, Anderson of Ohio, Steele, Laird, Cutcheon, Houk, Negley, and Carey.

Committee on Naval Affairs—Messrs. Herbert, Hewitt, Wise, Ballentine, McAdoo, Norwood, Lore, Sayers, Harmer, Thomas of Illinois, Goff, Boutelle, and Buck.

Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads—Messrs. Blount, Ward, Riggs, John M. Taylor, Jones of Texas, Dockery, Warner of Ohio, Merriman, Barry, Bingham, Wakefield, Burrows, Guenther, Millard, Peters, and Caine.

Committee on the Public Lands—Messrs. Cobb, Henley, Van Eaton, Foran, Laffoon, Stone of Missouri, Landes, McRae, Strait, Anderson of Kansas, Payson, Stephenson, Jackson, and Voorhees.

Committee on Indian Affairs—Messrs. Wellborn, Peel, Skinner, Storm, Felix Campbell, Hale, Allen of Mississippi, Ward of Illinois, Perkins, Nelson, Sessions, Allen of Massachusetts, La Follette, and Hailey.

Committee on the Territories—Messrs. Hill, Springer, Spriggs, Barnes, Boyle, Sadler, Perry, Dawson, Struble, Baker, Cooper, Herman, Symes, and Joseph.

Committee on Railways and Canals—Messrs. Davidson of Florida, Murphy, Irion, Ellsberry, Henderson of North Carolina, Stone of Kentucky, Cole, Pidcock, Atkinson, Plumb, Weber, Van Schaick and Pirce.

Committee on Manufactures—Messrs. Wise, Swope, Le Fevre, Wilson, Catchings, Lawler, Pindar, Campbell of Pennsylvania, West, Van Schaick, and Hires.

Committee on Mines and Mining—Messrs. Clardy, O'Ferrall, Hill, Skinner, Jones of Texas, Neal, Gay, Barry, White of Minnesota, Woodburn, Lindsley, Symes, McKenna, and Bean.

Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds—Messrs. Dibble, Reese, Snyder, Henley, Wilkins, Worthington, Cole, Johnston of North Carolina, Milliken, Brown of Pennsylvania, Rockwell, Wade, and Owen.

Committee on Pacific Railroads—Messrs. Throckmorton, Crisp, Cabell, Dunn, Bliss, Tillman, Outhwaite, Richardson, Hanback, Holmes, Everhart, Hayden, and Weber.

Committee on Levees and Improvement of the Mississippi River—Messrs. King, Rankin, Van Eaton, Kleiner, Dowdney, McRae, Glass, Dawson, Whiting, Morrill, Brown of Ohio, Bunnell, and Grout.

Committee on Education—Messrs. Aiken, Candler, Willis, Curtin, Miller, Maybury, Burnes, Mahoney, Strait, Whiting, Campbell of Pennsylvania, Isaac H. Taylor, and O'Donnell.

Committee on Labor—Messrs. O'Neill of Missouri, Foran, Lovering, Weaver of Iowa, Lawler, Daniel, Tarsney, Crain, Funston, James, Haynes, Bound, and Buchanan.

Committee on the Militia—Messrs. Muller, Forney, McAdoo, Peel, Collins, Ballentine, Breckinridge of Kentucky, Compton, Hopkins, Hayden, Moffatt, Owen, and Wade.

Committee on Patents—Messrs. Mitchell, Halsell, Townshend, Martin, Barnes, Morgan, Fisher, Cowles, Atkinson, West, Lehlbach, Gilfillan, and Plumb.

Committee on Invalid Pensions—Messrs. Matson, Winans, Lovering, Neece, Swope, Taulbee, Pidcock, Ellsberry, Pindar, Morrill, Haynes, O'Hara, Sawyer, Conger, and Loutitt.

Committee on Pensions—Messrs. Eldredge, Wolford, Jones of Alabama, Scott, Cowles, Landes, Mahoney, Hutton, Struble, Zach. Taylor, Brady, White of Pennsylvania, and Thompson.

Committee on Claims—Messrs. Springer, Muller, Lanham, Shaw, Howard, Dougherty, Trigg, Neal, Sowden, Brown of Ohio, McKenna, Warner of Missouri, Fleeger, Buchanan, and Gallinger.

Committee on War Claims—Messrs. Geddes, Kleiner, Stone, Timothy J. Campbell, Richardson, Perry, Comstock, Reid of North Carolina, Libbey, Smalls, Hiestand, Johnston of Indiana, and Lyman.

Committee on Private Land Claims—Messrs. Halsell, Barksdale, St. Martin, Eldredge, Sadler, Croxton, Hall, Green of New Jersey, Osborne, Ely, Thomas of Wisconsin, Dorsey, and Thompson.

Committee on the District of Columbia—Messrs. Barbour, Hemphill, Campbell of Ohio, Dowdney, Compton, Gay, Ford, Heard, Rowell, Wadsworth, Scranton, Davenport, and Grout.

Committee on the Revision of the Laws—Messrs. Oates, Turner, Adams of New York, Outhwaite, Ford, Laffoon, Dougherty, Hale, Payne, Thomas of Illinois, Fuller, Gilfillan, and White of Pennsylvania.

Committee on Expenditures in the State Department—Messrs. Bennett, Tillman, Lore, Arnot, Scranton, Lyman, and Loutitt.

Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department—Messrs. Lowry, Bland, Breckinridge of Arkansas, Shaw, Hahn, Bunnell, and Johnston of Indiana.

Committee on Expenditures in the War Department—Messrs. Robertson, Wheeler, Viele, Anderson of Ohio, Johnson of New York, Warner of Missouri, and Fleeger.

Committee on Expenditures in the Navy Department—Messrs. John M. Taylor, Sowden, Davidson of Florida, Timothy J. Campbell, Rowell, Brown of Pennsylvania, and Thomas of Wisconsin.

Committee on Expenditures in the Post-Office Department—Messrs. Reese, Warner of Ohio, Ward of Indiana, Davidson of Alabama, Zach. Taylor, Herman, and Bound.

Committee on Expenditures in the Interior Department—Messrs. Weaver of Iowa, Dargan, Harris, Culberson, Brumm, Libbey, and Davenport.

Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice—Messrs. Gibson of West Virginia, Hammond, Seymour, Ward of Illinois, Milliken, Hanback, and Sawyer.

Committee on Expenditures on Public Buildings—Messrs. Beach, O'Neill of Missouri, Seney, Riggs, Pettibone, O'Hara, and Gallinger.

Committee on Accounts—Messrs. Spriggs, Dockery, St. Martin, Gibson of Maryland, Trigg, Adams of Illinois, Spooner, Evans, and Isaac H. Taylor.

JOINT COMMITTEE.

Joint Committee on the Library—Messrs. Singleton, Stahlnecker, and O'Neill of Pennsylvania.

SELECT COMMITTEES.

Select Committee on Reform in the Civil Service—Messrs. Cox, Clements, Storm, Blanchard, Findlay, Mitchell, Stone of Missouri, Pulitzer, Bayne, Spooner, Little, Lehlbach, and Farquhar.

Select Committee on American Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests—Messrs. Dunn, Holman, Mills, King, Bliss, Rankin, McMillan, Comstock, Dingley, Wadsworth, Osborne, Felton, and Romeis.

Select Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President—Messrs. Caldwell, Eden, Ermentrout, Beach, Dibble, Gibson of Maryland, Heard, Johnston of North Carolina, Laird, Baker, Hiestand, Cooper, and Moffatt.

Select Committee on Ventilation and Acoustics—Messrs. Green of North Carolina, Stewart of Texas, Felix Campbell, Allen of Mississippi, Evans, Swinburne, and O'Donnell.

Select Committee on the Alcoholic Liquor Traffic—Messrs. Campbell of Ohio, Carleton, Frederick, Taulbee, Glover, Sayers, Merriman, Price, Everhart, Lindsley, and Romeis.

PRINTING OF PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Mr. MORRISON submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That there be printed —— thousand copies of the President's last annual message for the use of the House.

ANNUAL REPORT UPON SOLDIERS' HOMES.

Mr. NEGLEY, by unanimous consent, submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That 250 copies of the annual report of the president of the Board of Managers of the National Homes for Disabled Soldiers be printed for the use of the several Homes.

MRS. SUSANNAH P. SWOPE.

Mr. CURTIN, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3147) for the relief of Mrs. Susannah P. Swope; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

REFERENCE OF A BILL.

Mr. LANHAM. I desire to have corrected the reference of a bill which was introduced by me yesterday—a bill disapproving a certain act of the Territorial Assembly of New Mexico. It was designed to be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, as indicated by the indorsement. I see it has been referred to the Committee on the Territories.

The SPEAKER. Under the rules of the House all matters relating to the Territories go to the Committee on the Territories.

Mr. LANHAM. This bill, however, proposes to disapprove a law of the Territorial Assembly of New Mexico; and as it is a matter of law I thought it should properly go to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The SPEAKER. It properly belongs to the Committee on the Territories, as it relates to a Territorial matter.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF WYOMING.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Wyoming [Mr. CAREY] is now recognized in accordance with what seems to have been an understanding on the floor.

Mr. CAREY. I desire to move that the Committee on the Territories be discharged from the further consideration of Senate bill 602, and that the bill be now put upon its passage; and I ask unanimous consent to occupy five minutes in making a statement.

The SPEAKER. The motion can not be made except by unanimous consent. The gentleman from Wyoming asks unanimous consent that the Committee on the Territories be discharged from the further consideration of the bill which he has indicated in order that the same may now be considered. The Clerk will read the title, and if necessary the entire bill, after which the Chair will ask for objection.

The title of the bill was read, as follows:

A bill (S. 602) to legalize the election of the Territorial Legislative Assembly of Wyoming.

Mr. CAREY. Now I ask permission to make a statement.

The SPEAKER. The bill will first be read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, &c., That the election of the members of the Ninth Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Wyoming at the general election held on the 4th day of November, 1884, subject to the filling of any vacancies that may have arisen or may arise and legal contest, is hereby declared valid; and that the Legislative Assembly so elected is fully authorized to transact such business as belongs to the Legislative Assembly of said Territory; and that all their acts shall be held to be as legal as if the Territory had been regularly apportioned into council and representative districts, and that it shall be the duty of the Legislative Assembly of said Territory to apportion the Territory into council and representative districts.

Mr. HENLEY and Mr. WILKINS objected.

JAMES W. COLVILLE.

Mr. BAYNE, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3148) granting a pension to James W. Colville; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN MATES.

Mr. BAYNE, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3149) granting a pension to John Mates; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ADJOURNMENT TILL MONDAY.

Mr. MORRISON. I move that when the House adjourns to-day, it adjourn to meet on Monday next.

Mr. HAMMOND. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry. If the House should meet to-morrow will not the committees be called in regular order for reports?

The SPEAKER. To-morrow, being Friday, is set apart for the consideration of private business; and the committees would be called for reports of a private nature.

Mr. HAMMOND. They would be called on Saturday, would they not?

The SPEAKER. On Saturday if the House should be in session the committees would be called for reports of bills of every character, public and private.

The question was taken; and upon a division there were—ayes 141, noes 14.

So (no further count being demanded) the motion was agreed to.

JAMES MONROE.

Mr. WISE, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3150) for the relief of the legal representatives of James Monroe; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JURISDICTION OF UNITED STATES COURTS.

Mr. ROGERS, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3151) to define and regulate the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

ELIZA A. FISHER.

Mr. LONG (by request), by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3152) granting a pension to Eliza A. Fisher; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JOHN STARK.

Mr. LOWRY (by request), by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3153) for the relief of John Stark; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

W. W. WILKINSON.

Mr. LOWRY, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3154) for the relief of W. W. Wilkinson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. D. WILLIAMSON.

Mr. LOWRY, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3155) granting a pension to J. D. Williamson; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

FREDERIKA LEISEGANG.

Mr. BAKER, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3156) granting a pension to Frederika Leisegang; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

CHARLES M. BLAKE.

Mr. MORROW, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3157) for the relief of Charles M. Blake, post chaplain of the United States Army, retired; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

E. L. BROWN.

Mr. MORROW, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3158) for the relief of the estate of E. L. Brown; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

PLANTS FOR NEW PENSION BUILDING.

Mr. MATSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the joint resolution which I send to the desk.

The SPEAKER. The joint resolution will be read.

The joint resolution (H. Res. 71) authorizing the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds in the District of Columbia to supply plants and shrubs to fill certain vases in the Pension building was read at length.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution?

Mr. MILLS. Let that go to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

The joint resolution was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

PURCHASE OF FOREIGN-BUILT SHIPS.

Mr. DUNN, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3159) amendatory of title 48 of the Revised Statutes of the United States so as to authorize the purchase of foreign-built ships by citizens of the United States for use in the foreign carrying trade; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Select Committee on Ship-building and Ship-owning Interests, and ordered to be printed.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS, ARKANSAS.

Mr. DUNN, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3160) to amend section 533 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

PUBLIC BUILDING, MORGAN CITY, LA.

Mr. GAY, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3161) to provide for the erection of a public building at the city of Morgan City, State of Louisiana; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL S. HALL.

Mr. LORE, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3162) granting a pension to Samuel S. Hall; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

ABRAM G. HOYT.

Mr. OSBORNE, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3163) for the relief of Abram G. Hoyt; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committe on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

RESTORATION OF CERTAIN PENSIONERS.

Mr. BROWN, of Ohio, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3164) to restore to the pension-roll widows of soldiers and sailors of the late war who have been dropped from the roll by reason of remarriage in cases where they have again become or may hereafter become widows; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

INDIAN WAR PENSIONS.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3165) to provide for placing all the surviving soldiers and sailors of the United States who served in the Indian wars, including those who served in removing the Cherokee Indians from North Carolina, Georgia, and Tennessee to the Cherokee Nation, on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

SOLOMON MESSER.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3166) granting a pension to Solomon Messer; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

LIFURS ROBERSON.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3167) to restore the name of Lifurs Roberson to the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

JAMES M. ROANE.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3168) for the relief of James M. Roane; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

J. F. CISSON.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3169) for the relief of J. F. Cisson and to place his name on muster-roll of Company F, Second North Carolina Mounted Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

ALLEN GUNTER.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3170) for the relief of Allen Gunter and to place his name on muster-roll of Company B, Third North Carolina Mounted Infantry; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

UNITED STATES MAIL.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3171) to provide for the payment for carrying the United States mails in the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Arkansas, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas prior to May 31, 1861; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

JUDSON FEMALE COLLEGE.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3172) to reimburse the trustees of Judson Female College; which was read a first and second time, referred to the ommittee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

SAMUEL H. FLEMMING.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3173) for the relief of Samuel H. Flemming; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Claims, and ordered to be printed.

CAPTAIN HOGSED'S COMPANY, OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Mr. JOHNSTON, of North Carolina, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3174) for the relief of Capt. W. W. Hogsed's Company of North Carolina Home Guards; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE, ETC.

Mr. TUCKER (by request), by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3175) to regulate commerce among the several States and to codify the law relating to bills of exchange and other commercial paper; which was read a first and second time.

The SPEAKER. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. TUCKER. It should go to the Committee on the Judiciary. It is in reference to laws relating to negotiable paper between the States.

The SPEAKER. The title of the bill is "A bill to regulate Commerce."

Mr. TUCKER. But the real object is to codify the laws relating to bills of exchange, &c., between the States and with foreign nations.

The bill was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

AMERICAN GROCER ASSOCIATION OF NEW YORK.

Mr. WAIT (by request), by unanimous consent, introduced a bill (H. R. 3176) for the relief of the American Grocer Association of the city of New York; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads, and ordered to be printed.

MRS. ANN J. CONWELL.

Mr. WAIT, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3177) to place the name of Mrs. Ann J. Conwell on the pension-roll; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RUDOLPH KOST.

Mr. WAIT, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3178) for the relief of Rudolph Kost; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

PENSION FOR DEAFNESS.

Mr. WAIT, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3179) to increase the rate of pension for deafness; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

PENSION FOR LOSS OF AN EYE.

Mr. WAIT, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3180) to increase the rate of pension for the loss of an eye or the sight thereof; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

MARY M'CARTHY.

Mr. WAIT, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3181) to restore a pension to Mary McCarthy; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions, and ordered to be printed.

RUSSELL LAMPHERE.

Mr. WAIT, by unanimous consent, also introduced a bill (H. R. 3182) for the relief of Russell Lamphere; which was read a first and second time, referred to the Committee on War Claims, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. MORRISON. I move that the House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and accordingly (at 3 o'clock and 50 minutes p. m.) the House adjourned until Monday next.

PETITIONS, ETC.

The following petitions and papers were laid on the Clerk's desk, under the rule, and referred as follows:

By Mr. BARBOUR: Petition of Mrs. Jane Dulaney, for allowance of arrears of pension—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, petition of William H. Deery, for arrears of pension from Mexican war—to the same committee.

By Mr. CLEMENTS: Petition and memorial of Joseph M. Wardlaw, praying reference of claim to Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, memorial of citizens of Georgia, asking for appointment of commission on fisheries—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

By Mr. DAVIS: Petitions from Wellfleet, Mass., for additional life-saving stations—to the Committee on Commerce.

Also, remonstrances of citizens of Brewster, of Barnstable, of Buzzard's Bay, of Eastham, and of Falmouth, Mass., against the appointment of an international fisheries commission—to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

By Mr. DIBBLE: Petition of M. C. Mordecai, praying for compensation for mail service from Charleston to Havana in 1859 and 1860—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. FINDLAY: Memorial of insurance companies, merchants, lawyers, and others, praying for a milder penalty than death in cases of barratry where life is not threatened or destroyed—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. FULLER: Petition asking for amount of bounties refunded by certain officers on account of promotion—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. GALLINGER: Joint resolution of the Legislature of New Hampshire, in relation to our national domain—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

Also, joint resolution of the same, requesting Congress to amend enactment relating to election of United States Senators—to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. EUSTACE GIBSON: Petition for relief of Syntha Duglas—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HAMMOND: Paper relating to claim of J. Frank Redd, of Atlanta, Ga., for relief—to the Committee on Claims.

By Mr. D. B. HENDERSON: Letter and papers from L. J. Sacriste, president National Association of Third and Fourth Class Postmasters, praying for relief as to allowance—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. T. J. HENDERSON: Petition for relief of Joseph Dunn—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. HEPBURN: Petition of many citizens of Clarke County, Iowa, asking that a pension be granted to James Morgan—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of many citizens of Wayne County, Iowa, asking that a pension be granted to Henry Bollman—to the same committee.

Also, petition of Harvard Post, No. 99, Grand Army of the Republic, asking that a pension be granted to Henry Bollman—to the same committee.

Also, memorial, petition, and affidavits in the case of Samuel D. Harper, late private of Company K, Thirtieth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. HISCOCK: Petition of Frederick Garlick, asking for arrears of pension for services in war of 1861—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. HOUK: Papers relating to the claim of Michael A. Staples and of Theodore T. Coffin—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. J. T. JONES: Memorial of the National Cotton Exchange of America, asking for appropriations for establishment and equipment of meteorological stations in cotton States—to the Committee on Agriculture.

By Mr. LINDSLEY: Petition of steamboat companies and others, asking for survey and improvement of channel of Hudson River, State of New York, between New Baltimore and Coxsackie—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. LOVERING: Papers relating to bill H. R. 1118, to recognize the war services of Union soldiers now serving in the regular Army—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. McCOMAS: Petition of Hon. Lloyd Lowndes, G. L. Wellington, David Sloan, and 33 others, citizens of Cumberland, Md., asking the repeal of the "Bland silver act"—to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures.

Also, petition of David R. Miller, of Washington County, Maryland, for reference of quartermaster claim to Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

Also, petition and papers of Catharine W. Bowie, of Montgomery County, Maryland, for payment of war claim—to the same committee.

Also, petition and papers of Mrs. Mary A. Jones and others, for payment of war claim—to the same committee.

By Mr. MARKHAM: Petition of citizens of San Diego, Cal., asking for an appropriation of $100,000 for the improvement of the harbor at that place—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. MORROW: Petition of Charles M. Blake, post chaplain, United States Army, retired—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. NELSON: Petition of A. Levorsen, relative to land entries, &c.—to the Committee on the Public Lands.

By Mr. O'HARA: Petition of the citizens of New Berne, Craven County, North Carolina, asking for a public building at New Berne—to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

By Mr. ROBERTSON: Petition of B. Kupper and others, for refund of money on account of Tice meters, &c.—to the Committee on Claims.

Also, petition of J. W. Poore and others, for refund of money and interest and expenses incurred in the purchase of Tice meters—to the same committee.

By Mr. SENEY: Appeal of the Maumee Valley Monumental Association—to the Committee on the Library.

By Mr. SINGLETON: Petition of J. McGowan, of Marshall County, Mississippi, asking reference of claim to Court of Claims—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. SPRIGGS: Petition to equalize the pay of enlisted men—to the same committee.

By Mr. STRAIT: Petition of P. Cadmere, L. Lowell, and 200 others, citizens of Rice County, Minnesota, praying for the equalization of bounties, and that the limitation of term in which back pension is allowed shall be removed—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

By Mr. TOWNSHEND: Papers in relation to the bill for the relief of Samuel M. Nalley—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. VOORHEES: Memorial of the Columbia water-way convention, praying Congress for sufficient appropriations for the improvement of the Columbia River—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. WAIT: Petition of Rudolph Kort, late lieutenant Company H, Sixth Regiment Connecticut Volunteers, for relief—to the Committee on Military Affairs.

By Mr. J. B. WEAVER: Petition of J. H. Crane and 118 others, praying Congress to establish a postal telegraph—to the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads.

By Mr. MILO WHITE: Petition for increase of pension of Mrs. Arlang O. Stugo—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition for a pension to Mrs. Abigail Weymouth—to the same committee.

Also, petition for increase of pension of Edward Pendergast—to the same committee.

Also, resolutions of the Minneapolis (Minn.) Board of Trade, favoring the improvement of the Mississippi River to the Falls of Saint Anthony—to the Committee on Rivers and Harbors.

By Mr. WILSON: Petition and papers relating to the case of William Lloyd, of Jefferson County, West Virginia—to the Committee on War Claims.

By Mr. WINANS: Petitions of Charles A. Wheeler and 50 others, and of J. J. Robbins and 10 others, asking that a pension be granted Eliza A. Weeks—to the Committee on Pensions.

Also, petition of Elias Shafer, of Lansing, Mich., for increase of pension—to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Also, petition of B. T. O. Clark, James M. Logan, and 110 others, citizens of Livingston County, Michigan, praying that Lenford Rose be granted a pension—to the same committee.

The following petitions, praying Congress to place the coinage of silver upon an equality with gold; that there be issued coin certificates of one, two, and five dollars, the same being made a legal tender; that one and two dollar legal-tender notes be issued, and that the public debt be paid as rapidly as possible, by applying for this purpose the idle surplus now in the Treasury, were presented and severally referred to the Committee on Coinage, Weights, and Measures:

By Mr. BRAGG: Of A. A. Cole and others, citizens of Wisconsin.

By Mr. CASWELL: Of A. H. Menly and others, of Wisconsin.

By Mr. FISHER: Of J. B. Lucier and 83 others; of J. L. Malmey and 48 others; of John Carter and 84 others; of J. L. Lindsay and 73 others; and of Daniel Mosser and 135 others, citizens of Michigan.

By Mr. FUNSTON: Of citizens of Media, Kans.

By Mr. LOVERING: Of William H. Miller and 45 others, of Reading, Mass.

By Mr. NEECE: Of E. H. Stuart and 110 others, citizens of Hamilton, Hancock County, Illinois.

By Mr. SNYDER: Of citizens of Monroe County, West Virginia.

By Mr. J. B. WEAVER: Of George W. Hill and 18 others, of Pennsylvania.

SENATE.

FRIDAY, January 8, 1886.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. E. D. HUNTLEY, D. D.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read and approved.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair presents a letter in the nature of a memorial from the New York Produce Exchange, which will be read.

The paper was read, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, as follows:

NEW YORK PRODUCE EXCHANGE,
New York, January 7, 1886,

SIR: At a meeting of the board of managers of the New York Produce Exchange, held this day, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That in view of the increasing interest in the United States Signal Service and the value of an intelligent forecast of the weather to all who watch the growing crops, as well as those who direct the movement of ships, it is most desirable and important that Congress make liberal provision for the maintenance of said service and an enlargement of its facilities for information.

Very respectfully, yours,

RICHARD C. VEIT,
Secretary.

Hon. JOHN SHERMAN,
President United States Senate, Washington, D. C.

Mr. HOAR. I rise to present a document somewhat in the nature of a petition. I have received a copy of a memorial signed by the governor and chief-justice of Washington Territory, the mayor and the prominent citizens of Seattle, in that Territory, representing the undefended condition of that Territory in case of war, especially with Great Britain, and stating how completely they are in the power of any foreign force, and inclosing a copy of a letter written by General Nelson A. Miles to the Adjutant-General of the Army on the same subject. These are accompanied by a letter from the chief-justice of Washington Territory, asking me to bring the matter to the attention of Congress. This is not in the form of a petition, and therefore I ask leave to present these papers and have them printed and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The papers will be received, if there be no objection, and printed as a document, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. INGALLS. I present the petition of A. H. von Leuttwitz, first lieutenant, United States Army (retired), in support of the bill for his relief which is now pending before the Committee on Military Affairs, to which committee I move that the petition be referred.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. MANDERSON presented a petition of first lieutenants in the line of the Army, praying for the passage of a law permitting voluntary retirements after twenty years' or longer continuous service as lieutenants; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. TELLER. I present the petition of John French, D. J. Ball, Henry Dingon, and a large number of other citizens of Colorado, praying for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Finance.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon, presented a memorial of citizens of Oregon, remonstrating against the suspension of silver coinage; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MAXEY. I present a petition of a meeting of the bar of Wheeler County, Texas, held at Mobeetie, praying for additional Federal court facilities. The facts upon which the relief is asked are set forth very fully in the petition and papers. I will state briefly that there are north of the Red River, in the section known as the Pan-handle, twenty-seven counties, of 900 square miles each, aggregating in round numbers 25,000 square miles, with a population of 4,000 people, rapidly increasing, with immense cattle interests, largely owned by foreign holders. Hence the necessity of a court. The nearest courts are at Fort Graham, Tex., about 300 miles, and Wichita, Kans., about 350 miles. This statement, coupled with the inconvenience necessarily resulting from their situation, without railroads, entitles them, in my judgment, to relief. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. LOGAN presented the petition of Thomas S. Hopkins, of Washington, D. C., praying for certain amendments of the pension law so as to equalize the pensions of soldiers; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a petition of citizens of Decatur, Ill., praying that a pension be granted to Bridget Hackett, widow of Michael Hackett, who was in the naval service of the United States during the late war; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a petition of ex-Union soldiers, praying for the enactment of certain pension laws; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also presented a resolution adopted by George H. Thomas Post, No. 6, Grand Army of the Republic, Louisville, Ky., favoring the purchase by the Government of the picture of General George H. Thomas painted by General T. W. Price; which was referred to the Committee on the Library.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. INGALLS, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill (S. 374) relating to police regulations in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes, reported it with an amendment in the nature of a substitute; which was ordered to be printed, and, on his own motion recommitted to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. JACKSON, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 377) granting a pension to Matthias Leckner, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. JACKSON. I am directed by the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 56) granting a pension to Chauncey Read, to ask that the committee be discharged from its further consideration, for the reason that the case is still pending in the Pension Office and has not yet been acted on there.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The committee will be discharged from the further consideration of the bill, and it will be indefinitely postponed, if there be no objection.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, from the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, to whom was referred the bill (S. 260) to prohibit the mailing of newspapers and other publications containing lottery advertisements and prescribing a penalty for the violation of the same, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Pennsylvania, from the Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (S. 819) for the relief of Rachael J. Floyd, asked to be discharged from its further consideration and that it be referred to the Committee on Claims; which was agreed to.

CHANGE OF NAME OF UNIONTOWN.

Mr. BLACKBURN. I am instructed by the Committee on the District of Columbia, by its unanimous action, to report without amendment the bill (S. 633) to change the name of Uniontown to Anacostia, and I desire to ask the consent of the Senate that it be acted on now. It is simply a bill to change the name of the town of Uniontown, in the District of Columbia, to that of Anacostia, in accordance with the wishes of the citizens of the place. This report is the unanimous action of the Committee on the District of Columbia, and I ask the consent of the Senate to have the bill acted on now.

By unanimous consent the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to consider the bill.

The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

REPORT ON EUROPEAN SEA-COAST DEFENSES.

Mr. DOLPH. From the Committee on Coast Defenses I make a report on the letter of the Secretary of War, transmitting, in response to a Senate resolution, the report of Capt. W. H. Bixby on the sea-coast defenses of Europe. The committee's report is brief, and, as announced when the reference of the report of Captain Bixby on the accompanying papers was made to the Committee on Coast Defenses, the committee recommend, upon submitting this report, that the papers be now committed to the Committee on Printing, and I ask that the report of the Committee on Coast Defenses, which is brief, may be read and appear in the RECORD, and not printed in the usual manner.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oregon asks that the report made by him be now read and printed in the RECORD.

Mr. INGALLS. What is it about?

Mr. DOLPH. It is a report from the Committee on Coast Defenses in regard to the importance of a report of Captain Bixby upon the sea-coast defenses of Europe, transmitted with a letter of the Secretary of War. It is proposed now that Captain Bixby's report and the communication of the Secretary of War go to the Committee on Printing, and I ask that the brief report made by the Committee on Coast Defenses be read for information. I do not ask that the report be printed in the usual manner, desiring it to appear in the RECORD only.

Mr. INGALLS. Why not let it appear without being read?

Mr. DOLPH. I have no objection to that.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection the report will be read.

Mr. PLUMB. I suggest that it be printed without being read. That will answer all the purposes of the Senator who presented it.

Mr. DOLPH. There is no objection to that course. Let it be printed without a reading.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there is no objection that order will be made.

Mr. DOLPH. Let the letter of the Secretary of War and the accompanying papers, which are very voluminous and are in the Secretary's office, be referred to the Committee on Printing.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. That order is made.

Mr. ALLISON. Would it not suit the purpose of the Senator from Oregon to have this report printed as a regular document? It will be printed as a separate report anyway.

Mr. DOLPH. I asked that it be not printed as a separate report.

Mr. ALLISON. It will be printed as a separate report unless there is some order that it shall not be so printed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The rules of the Senate require all reports to be printed, and unless that rule is suspended or changed in this instance the report will be printed in the ordinary document form.

Mr. ALLISON. So that it will be doubly printed if it goes into the RECORD.

Mr. DOLPH. I ask unanimous consent that the rule be suspended, and that the report be not printed as a document if it appears in the RECORD.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oregon asks the consent of the Senate to dispense with the printing of the report as a document according to the rule.

Mr. INGALLS. What is the object of that? I wish the Senator would explain why we should depart from the usual custom and suspend the printing of the report and print it in the RECORD to lumber up that already inordinate, bulky, and unwieldy publication. If there is any good reason of course I shall be glad to yield my consent, but until an explanation is made I shall prefer to withhold it.

Mr. DOLPH. I have not been in the habit of lumbering up the RECORD. I think it will be found that the RECORD is lumbered up quite as often by discussion over trivial matters as by reports. This report is very brief. It could have been read long since. It is a mere temporary matter, a recommendation of the Committee on Coast Defenses as to the importance of Captain Bixby's report and about its printing. I did not think it of sufficient importance to require that it should be printed in the ordinary manner. The papers are now to go to the Committee on Printing, and the report of the Committee on Coast Defense is intended for the information of that committee. The report will be of no value after the Committee on Printing have acted upon the subject, and it was thought by the Committee on Coast Defenses that the proper course would be, in order to bring the matter to the immediate attention of the Senate, that the Committee on Printing should have this report (which I say is brief and will not lumber up the RECORD) printed in the RECORD, and I ask that it be not printed in the usual manner.

Mr. INGALLS. If the report is not of importance enough to be printed in the ordinary way, why is it of importance enough to be printed in the RECORD, to give it a permanent place among the final records of the Senate?

Mr. DOLPH. We want the public to read it, we want Senators to read it, and we want it to be printed for the convenience of the Committee on Printing. As soon as the papers are referred to the Committee on Printing and the report of that committee is made this report of the Committee on Coast Defenses will have performed its office, and we hope that the Committee on Printing will have acted before it could be printed in the usual course. I could have read the report or stated the substance of it and it would have appeared in the RECORD and no one would have questioned it. If it had been a lengthy report I would not have asked that such a course be taken: but, as I say, the report is couched in the briefest and tersest possible terms, being a statement of the contents and value of the report of Captain Bixby for the information of the Committee on Printing.

I will state further that the Committee on Coast Defenses are willing to abide by the opinion of the Committee on Printing as to the propriety of printing the report of Captain Bixby and the manner of the work. It was not an unusual request to ask that this brief report be spread upon the RECORD, and that it should not be printed in the usual manner.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The order to print in the RECORD has already been made by unanimous consent. The question is now whether the Senate will dispense with the printing of the report as an ordinary document.

Mr. INGALLS. I should like to hear the report and see whether it is worth while to print it. Let us hear it read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is, Shall the report be read?

Mr. DOLPH. I withdraw the request that the report shall not be printed in the usual manner. I have no objection to its being printed. Let it be printed both ways.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. There is no question then before the Senate.

The report is as follows:

[To accompany letter from the Secretary of War transmitting, in response to Senate resolution of December 10, 1885, report of Capt. W. H. Bixby on the sea-coast fortifications in Europe.]

The Committee on Coast Defenses, to which was referred the letter from the Secretary of War of December 14, 1885, transmitting, in response to Senate resolution of December 10, 1885, report of Capt. W. H. Bixby on the seacoast fortifications in Europe, having had the same under consideration, make the following report:

Capt. W. H. Bixby, United States Engineers, was directed by the Secretary of War, by an order dated August 20, 1881, to visit Belgium, Holland, Germany, Italy, and England, or such of these countries as he should find necessary, for the purpose of securing certain information in relation to turrets, armor-plates, and the mounting and maneuvering of guns of large caliber, &c., under special instructions to be given by the Chief of Engineers; and having performed that duty in July, 1884 (see appendix part 3, annual report of the Chief of Engineers for 1885), forwarded to the Engineer Department, United States Army, a full report on seacoast fortifications in Europe, as follows:

No. 1. Turrets: 442 pages and 43 plates.
No. 2. New ordnance material: 83 pages and 23 plates.
No. 3. Armor material: 145 pages and 22 plates.
No. 4. Seacoast fortifications of England, Belgium and Holland: 181 pages and 33 plates.

This report, making in all 851 pages and 121 plates, is a thorough and exhaustive report, especially as regards information not heretofore printed in English, being principally the record of personal examinations and investigations made by the writer during nine months in Europe.

Part I, on turrets, describes the rise and progress of turrets, their test both in actual warfare at sea and under experiments on land, their construction, their armor, and their service, and adds a full bibliography on the subject. General descriptions are given of over 300 turrets in actual existence, either on shipboard or on land, and minutely detailed descriptions are given of more than a dozen of the most important of these. For the reader's benefit, these turrets are further classified according to their inventor, the nation or government to which they belong, the type of turret, their weight, their caliber, the material of their armor, and the method of serving their guns.

Part II describes the most important new features of heavy ordnance, and contains a brief reference to the bibliography of many features really old but supposed to be new.

Part III gives a brief description of the armor material and a detailed description of chilled cast-iron armor and its manufacture, an armor and a manufacture so far almost unknown in the United States, although officially adopted by Germany since 1874.

Part IV describes in full, with details, the defenses of each harbor of England and of Belgium, of the principal harbors of Holland, and includes the iron-armored forts of Germany and Austria. This report describes the rise and progress of coast defenses in England during the last twenty-five years, and compares the estimated cost, armament, and garrison which was desired by the army in 1860 with that actually obtained in 1880. These descriptions have never as yet been made available to the American public.

The report has not been published because of the restrictions contained in the sundry civil bill of July 7, 1884. It is a valuable contribution to the general fund of information upon the subject of coast defenses, and in view of the present investigations of the subject should be published without delay.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. PLUMB introduced a bill (S. 943) to pay the Delaware Indians the value of certain lands in Kansas in compliance with treaty stipulations; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

Mr. HALE introduced a bill (S. 944) to prohibit the letting of Government work to contractors employing convict labor; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

Mr. HOAR introduced a bill (S. 945) granting a pension to Hattie L. Goss; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, introduced a bill (S. 946) to establish a postal-telegraph system; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. MILLER, of New York, introduced a bill (S. 947) for the relief of the American Grocer Association of the city of New York; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 948) granting a pension to Joseph S. Moody; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 949) for the relief of Joseph W. Carmack; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. BLACKBURN introduced a bill (S. 950) to authorize suits to be brought in the Court of Claims for money paid and expenses incurred on account of Tice meters; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon, introduced a bill (S. 951) providing an appropriation for the continuance of improvements at the mouth of the Columbia River; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon. I ask that the bill be referred to the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard.

Mr. McMILLAN. I think the Senator is mistaken as to the reference, and that the bill should be referred to the Committee on Commerce. That committee has charge of appropriations for river and harbor improvements, not the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Oregon moves that the bill be referred to the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon. If the Senator from Minnesota will allow me, I will state that a resolution was offered and adopted a few days ago directing the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard to investigate the general subject of transportation on the Columbia River. Of course if this bill should be reported making appropriations for the improvement of the Columbia River, it would properly then go to the Committee on Commerce before final action; but I suggest that as this general subject is under consideration by the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard this bill should properly go to that committee. I have several other bills relating to river improvements in Oregon that I shall ask to have referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. McMILLAN. The Columbia River is not different in its character from any other river in this country; and all bills proposing appropriations for the improvement of rivers and harbors in the country are referred to the Committee on Commerce and embraced in its general bill for river and harbor improvements. The Columbia River should not be excepted or withdrawn from the jurisdiction of that committee. I can see no reason why, although some memorial may have been referred to the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard, this bill should be referred to that committee.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon. It was not a memorial, but a Senate resolution adopted unanimously by the Senate instructing that committee to investigate and report. As a matter of course the final reference of all these bills must be to the Committee on Commerce. I suggest a reference to the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard with that understanding fully. The object is simply to enable the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard to investigate the general subject of transportation on the Columbia River.

Mr. McMILLAN. I suppose the subject of transportation on the Columbia River would not be at all different from transportation on the other rivers of the country. Perhaps the original resolution should have been referred to the Committee on Commerce. I was not in, I think, when the resolution was offered by the Senator from Oregon, but my impression is that it should have gone to the Committee on Commerce. The Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard having charge of that resolution, if they see proper to take charge of it and not report it back and refer it to the Committee on Commerce, that is within their discretion; but the subject of an appropriation for the improvement of a river or any part of it is clearly, within the rule, referable to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon. I would state that my only purpose in asking the reference of the bill to the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard is with a view of having it subsequently referred to the Committee on Commerce. I will inquire of my honorable friend from Minnesota for what purpose the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard has been created if not for the purpose of considering as great a subject as that of transportation on one of the largest rivers of the country?

Mr. CONGER. Let the title of the bill be again read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The title of the bill will be again read. The question is upon referring the bill to the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard.

The Chief Clerk read the bill by its title.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon. I simply desire to suggest again to the honorable chairman of the Committee on Commerce that the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard has been instructed by a unanimous vote of the Senate to investigate the general subject of transportation on the Columbia River, and to report their views by bill or otherwise. I will state, however, that my purpose was simply to obtain the views of that committee with a view of a subsequent reference to the Committee on Commerce. I do not, of course, desire to interfere with the business of the Commerce Committee. I concede that appropriations for the purpose must finally be reported from that committee. But this is a subject of no ordinary import, and all I ask is that the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard may have an opportunity of looking into the subject and making such report as they may think proper in the premises. I hope the honorable chairman of the Committee on Commerce will permit this bill to go there and be subsequently referred to the Committee on Commerce. If my appeal is not listened to I shall give way of course and let it go to the Committee on Commerce. I present the question in the shape of an appeal.

Mr. CONGER. If the precedent is established of referring a question of river appropriations to any other committee than the Committee on Commerce, which under the rules has the entire control of appropriations for rivers and harbors, there will be no end to it.

The resolution which was introduced and passed gives the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard the entire power to investigate and report their views to the Senate and for the information and guidance of the Committee on Commerce in regard to appropriations without any such bill being referred.

The Committee on Commerce have had charge of the appropriations for the improvements at the mouth of the Columbia. They have devoted a great deal of time to the investigation of that subject; appropriations have been made in the regular river and harbor bill. I suggest to the Senator from Oregon that in my judgment it will not further any desire he may have for the improvement of that important river to have the appropriations for it considered by a separate committee, and I further suggest that it might not be well to antagonize the general course of the legislation for the improvement of rivers and harbors by dividing the jurisdiction.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon. I do not wish to antagonize anything, of course, and I shall give way and move myself now that the bill be referred to the Committee on Commerce.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is moved that the bill be referred to the Committee on Commerce. That order will be made if there be no objection.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon. I present a memorial adopted by the Columbia water-way convention recently held at The Dalles, Oreg., praying Congress for appropriations to improve the navigation of the Columbia River. Inasmuch as a similar memorial was referred to the Committee on Commerce yesterday, I ask the chairman of the Committee on Commerce to permit this memorial to go the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is moved that the memorial presented by the Senator from Oregon be referred to the Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard. If there be no objection that order will be made.

Mr. BECK introduced a bill (S. 952) to authorize the increase of the capital stock of the Citizens' National Bank of Louisville, Ky.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. CALL (by request) introduced a bill (S. 953) for the relief of Arthur L. Fish; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. ALDRICH introduced a bill (S. 954) for the erection of a public building in the city of Pawtucket, R. I.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

He also introduced a bill (S. 955) for the relief of Samuel W. Francis; which was read twice by its title, and, with accompanying paper, referred to the Committee on Patents.

Mr. LOGAN introduced a bill (S. 956) for the relief of Thomas C. Killie; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also introduced a bill (S. 957) granting a pension to Mother Bychedyche; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 958) to increase the pension of ex-Union soldiers who have lost the sight of one eye; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 959) for the relief of John Moore, of Edgar County, Illinois, late a private of Company A, Tenth Regiment

Indiana Volunteers; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 960) to set apart a certain tract of land situate on the headwaters of the Pecos River, in New Mexico, as a public park; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. MORGAN introduced a bill (S. 961) for the relief of Claude H. Mastin, surviving partner of Le Vert & Mastin, of Mobile, Ala.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. MORGAN. I will say that another bill in favor of the same party for the same purpose is before the committee, but by mistake I put the sum claimed at a smaller amount. This bill is a substitute for that.

Mr. PIKE (by request) introduced a bill (S. 962) touching the grade of commander in the Navy and to correct an error in relation to an appointment therein; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. LOGAN introduced a bill (S. 963) granting a pension to Harriet M. Rider; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 964) authorizing the Secretary of War to remove the charge of desertion from the record of private Albert Olson; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. GEORGE introduced a bill (S. 965) for the relief of Washington Ford; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. DAWES introduced a bill (S. 966) to establish a postal-telegraph system; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

PAPERS WITHDRAWN AND REFERRED.

On motion of Mr. COCKRELL, it was Ordered, That the papers in the matter of the claims of Joseph C. Irwin & Co. and C. A. Perry & Co. be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion of Mr. HOAR, it was Ordered, That the papers on the Senate files relating to the pension claim of Hattie L. Goss be withdrawn and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

On motion of Mr. HALE, it was Ordered, That the papers in the case of Frances W. Dyer be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims, there being no adverse report.

On motion of Mr. HARRIS, it was Ordered, That the papers in respect to the claim of H. B. Wilson, administrator of the estate of William Tinder, deceased, be withdrawn from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion of Mr. COCKRELL, it was Ordered, That the papers in the claim of James Badger, &c., be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion of Mr. WILSON, of Maryland, it was Ordered, That the claimants in the case of Senate bill 438, first session of Forty-eighth Congress, being a bill "for the relief of the heirs and legal representatives of Capt. Lambert Wickes," have leave to withdraw all papers connected with said case from the files of the Senate, there having been no adverse report thereon.

PAYMENT OF BONDS IN SILVER.

Mr. EUSTIS. I submit a concurrent resolution, which I ask may be read.

The resolution was read, as follows:

Whereas the act of February 28, 1878, required the coinage of silver dollars which were declared to be a legal tender for all debts and dues, public and private;

Whereas by the act of March 18, 1869, the faith of the United States was solemnly pledged to the payment in coin, or its equivalent, of all the obligations of the United States not bearing interest, &c.;

Whereas by the act of July 14, 1870, to authorize the refunding of the national debt, the principal and interest of United States bonds were made redeemable in the coin of the standard value;

Whereas since the above-mentioned laws were enacted it has been the invariable practice, up to this date, of the Secretary of the Treasury, under existing legislation, to pay in gold coin the bonds redeemed and the interest on outstanding bonds; and

Whereas the Secretary of the Treasury has issued a call for $10,000,000 of bonds payable on the 1st of February, 1886:

Be it resolved by the Senate of the United States (the House of Representatives concurring), That in the opinion of Congress said bonds of $10,000,000, payable on the 1st of February, 1886, should be paid in silver dollars, such payment being in strict compliance with existing law and in aid of the financial policy established by the legislation of Congress.

Mr. EUSTIS. Mr. President, I move that that resolution be referred to the Committee on Finance, and I simply desire to express the hope that that committee will find it convenient to make an early report upon the resolution, in order that it may be determined by a vote whether the practice of paying United States bonds and the interest on those bonds exclusively in gold coin is approved or disapproved by the Congress of the United States. I move the reference of the resolution to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MORRILL. I would remind the Senator from Louisiana that the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BROWN] gave notice that he would address the Senate on Tuesday next upon the resolution.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. This is a new resolution, submitted this morning.

Mr. MORRILL. Ah!

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Is there objection to the reference?

Mr. MORRILL and others. No objection.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair hears none. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Finance, and will be printed.

ADJOURNMENT TO MONDAY.

On motion of Mr. INGALLS, it was Ordered, That when the Senate adjourn to-day it be to meet on Monday next.

DISTRICT METROPOLITAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The first bill on the Calendar is now in order.

Mr. PLUMB. There is upon the Calendar of Resolutions a resolution offered on a previous day. I understood that the resolution under consideration yesterday would come up to-day in its order.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. According to the rule it requires a motion to take up the resolution. The Chair will lay it before the Senate for its action, if desired. The resolution, as modified, will now be read.

The Chief Clerk read the resolution submitted by Mr. VAN WYCK January 6, 1886, as amended yesterday, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the District of Columbia be directed to obtain from the proper officers of the Metropolitan Railway and all other street railways in the District of Columbia a sworn statement of the amount of their capital stock, the amount of their bonded and floating indebtedness, the amount of their gross and net earnings, the amount of their operating expenses, and the amount of dividends paid annually since June 30, 1878; also, why said railway companies have not made the annual reports required by the laws incorporating said companies; and have power to send for persons and papers and administer oaths.

Mr. PLUMB. I offer the following as a substitute for that resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on the District of Columbia be directed to obtain from the proper officers of the Metropolitan Street Railway the information which by section 22 of the charter of said company is required to be annually transmitted to Congress, and similar information from all other street railway companies in the District of Columbia, and also why said railway companies have not made the annual reports required by the laws incorporating said companies. Said committee shall also inquire whether the rails laid and used by said companies are of the most approved pattern, and whether the use of said rails has been duly approved by the Secretary of the Interior, and if said rails are not of the most approved pattern what measure may be necessary to secure their early replacement by those which are of such approved pattern. And said committee shall have power to send for persons and papers and administer oaths.

I desire to say simply that I found in my mail this morning a copy of the charter of the Metropolitan Railway Company, and I find that section 22 of that charter requires them to annually—

Transmit to Congress a full report of the affairs, business, and condition of the said company for the year terminating December 31 preceding such report, and such report shall be signed and sworn to by the president and treasurer of the company, or by a majority of the directors.

The law specifies thirty-one different subjects of which that report shall make specific mention and upon which it shall give specific information to Congress, including the items mentioned in the original resolution, and others that may be just as necessary to the determination of the matters in issue as heretofore specified.

I therefore offer my substitute calling on the committee to ascertain all the facts required by section 22 of the charter to be furnished by the company in addition to that which is specified in the latter part of my resolution about rails. On that subject I find in section 3 of this charter the requirement that the railroad shall be constructed "in the most approved manner adapted for street railways, with rails of the most approved pattern, to be determined by the Secretary of the Interior, laid upon an even surface with the pavement of the streets." I am advised, as I stated to the Senate yesterday, that there is a better pattern of rails than those now in use, and one which could be used in such a way as not to obstruct the streets at all, and that the rails now in use on at least one of these railroads in the District of Columbia were laid down without the approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

I think this is a subject which ought to be gone into by the committee at some length, inasmuch as it has come up, and my resolution will cover the ground more fully than the one which was before the Senate yesterday.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I am in favor of any proposition which will go to the furthest extent in examining the derelictions of these railroads and the wrongs they have done to the people of this District and are are continuing to do, and therefore it is that I very cheerfully accept the substitute.

Mr. VEST. The other day, in conversation with a very eminent citizen of this city on this subject, I obtained some information which was new to me, but I have no doubt of its correctness. This gentleman stated that by application to the different carriage manufactories and repair shops in this city it was ascertained that they had approximated the amount of damage done to vehicles in this city by the rails that are now in use to be in the neighborhood of $100,000. These rails would not be tolerated in any European city. They are a nuisance, and they have absolutely obstructed some of the most important thoroughfares, as every gentleman here knows from experience, in the capital of the nation. The street on which one railway runs from Pennsylvania avenue to New York avenue, Fifteenth street, is a nuisance. The street rail-railway companies have been permitted to lay their tracks there and put down T rails, so as to be an obstruction to vehicles, and for myself I prefer to drive around that square rather than go up that street at any time.

Any Senator, by calling at the National Metropolitan Bank, as I happened to do the other day, can see the model there of a street rail used now in some of the principal cities in Europe, in Paris I believe and in Belfast as I happen to recollect, and in others, where the rail is perfectly level with the pavement, constituting no obstruction, and where there is no possibility of damage to any vehicle in driving. There is no excuse, no palliation, no apology for the sort of rail that is now in use in this city. Even in the Far West, in the city where I reside, Kansas City, we are getting rid of these things as fast as possible. We have now introduced in that city and have in operation some three and a half miles of cable railway and a charter with the stock subscribed for another cable railway of 5 miles; and it is only a question of a very few years when horse-car railroads will go out of use entirely in that city. I am very glad this resolution has been offered on this occasion.

Mr. INGALLS. Mr. President, I did not listen to the reading of the resolution, or rather was unable to hear it in consequence of the confusion, and am therefore unable to say whether it refers to the subject of motive power as well as to approved rails. If it does not, it should do so, because there is no city in this country, if there is in the world, where the modern methods of car propulsion either by the cable system or by electricity would be more applicable than here. The condition of the streets, the condition of the pavements, the slight grades, all render the application of these modern systems peculiarly appropriate here, and I should be glad to have this resolution of instruction broad enough to cover the question whether it is not time for the abrogation of these antiquated methods of propulsion and the substitution of the cable or electric system. I suggest to my colleague, who offered this resolution, that it be made comprehensive enough to cover the point I have suggested.

Mr. PLUMB. That is entirely satisfactory to me. I think that would be a very proper subject of inquiry. While this question is up, undoubtedly we ought to discuss the relation of the street railways to the convenience of the District as things now are in all its aspects.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Kansas propose an amendment?

Mr. PLUMB. I simply suggest that my colleague prepare it. I think he could perhaps prepare in better shape the form of it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair is of the opinion that there is no reference in the resolution as it now stands to motive power or electric power. [A pause.] At the suggestion of the Senator from Kansas the Chair will proceed with the business on the Calendar, letting this resolution lie over informally.

ALLOWANCE OF PENSION CLAIMS.

Mr. HARRISON. Before we proceed to the Calendar of Bills I should like to dispose of the resolution with reference to the pension fund.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator move to proceed to its consideration?

Mr. HARRISON. I ask that it be taken up and disposed of. It is important that it should be out of the way.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Under the rule it requires a motion to that effect.

Mr. HARRISON. I make that motion.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Indiana moves to proceed to the consideration of the resolution named by him.

Mr. INGALLS. As a matter affecting the current business of the Senate, before that motion is put I should like to inquire why these resolutions do not appear on the Calendar and have their regular place in the order of business? I understood when that resolution went over yesterday that it would come up in the order of business to-day when the consideration of resolutions was called for; but I find that in some mysterious way it has disappeared from the consideration of the Senate. If there is no method by which the resolutions of the previous day can appear on the Calendar of daily business and have their place for consideration, I shall ask that the Committee on Rules may have some direction to consider that subject for the purpose of reaching that end.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Kansas is misinformed. The resolution referred to by the Senator from Indiana is on the Calendar and would in due time be reached in its order. It is on the Calendar, Order of Business No. 14. The Senator from Indiana now moves that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the resolution, which is No. 14 in the order of business, which is a resolution submitted by the Senator from Indiana [Mr. HARRISON] December 21, 1885, relative to certain statements made in the last annual report of the Commissioner of Pensions. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. HARRISON. It is hardly worth while that it be read, and I would say to the Senate and call the attention of my colleague that I have, in order to make this exactly accurate, cut from the report of the Commissioner of Pensions certain paragraphs and have pasted them here as printed in his annual report. The amendment which was proposed by my colleague I do not think is in a form that ought to be adopted, because it imputes certain intentions. For instance, I read the first line:

> At one time the Pension Bureau was all but avowedly a political machine.

This is a quotation. Then it is said:

> Intending thereby that the said Pension Bureau was methodically employed for partisan purposes.

I do not think the Senate can assume to impute an intention of that kind to Commissioner Black. It is enough for us to adopt his own words, taking the statements as he made them, and direct inquiry to be made into them. So I have here extracted all that part, cutting it right out of the body of the report itself, and have instructed the committee to inquire into all these facts. I think that will meet the approbation of my colleague. I send it to the desk.

Mr. VOORHEES. Pass it over to me and let me see what it is.

DISTRICT METROPOLITAN RAILWAY.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Secretary will report the modified amendment of the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PLUMB] to the resolution with respect to street railways.

The Chief Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the District of Columbia be directed to obtain from the proper officers of the Metropolitan Street Railway the information which by section 22 of the charter of said railway is required to be annually transmitted to Congress, and similar information from all other street railways in the District of Columbia; and also why said railway companies have not made the annual reports required by the laws incorporating said companies. Said committee shall also inquire whether the rails laid and used by such companies are of the most approved pattern, and whether the use of said rails has been duly approved by the Secretary of the Interior; and if said rails are not of the most approved pattern, what measures may be necessary to secure their early replacement by those which are of such approved pattern; and also inquire as to the propriety of the substitution of steam or other motive power in the place of horse-power upon said railroads. And said committee shall have power to send for persons and papers and administer oaths.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Kansas [Mr. PLUMB].

The amendment was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question now is on the resolution as amended.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

ALLOWANCE OF PENSION CLAIMS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Indiana [Mr. VOORHEES] has the floor.

Mr. VOORHEES. My colleague and I agree that the matter presented by him shall be printed and go over under the rules until Monday, and I have no doubt we shall concur upon the matter then when it comes up. I suppose the paper presented by my colleague might be designated as an amendment to the substitute proposed by me. I am certainly willing that it shall be printed so that we can read it carefully, and I have no doubt on Monday that we can come to an understanding as to the line on which the investigation shall be conducted.

Mr. HARRISON. I will say in that connection, as I do not see the Senator from Illinois [Mr. LOGAN] here, that I incorporated his amendment, modifying it so as instead of extending it into a general inquiry into the administration of the office to confine it to the direction of the matter he suggested, namely, the matter of appointments and removals and not the general question. That is also to be printed as a part of my proposition.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator from Indiana offer the amendment now?

Mr. HARRISON. Yes, sir. I offer it now and ask that it may be printed, and on the request of my colleague I consent that it may go over until Monday.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Does the Senator desire that it be read now?

Mr. HARRISON. It is not important to read it, I think.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment, which is in the second degree, will be printed, and the whole matter will lie over until Monday.

The amendment proposed by Mr. HARRISON is to make the resolution read:

> Whereas the Commissioner of Pensions in his annual report dated November 18, 1885, has stated that—
>
> "At one time the Pension Bureau was all but avowedly a political machine, filled from border to border with the uncompromising adherents of a single organization, who had for the claimant other tests than those of the law, and who required, in addition to service in the field, submission to and support of a party before pensions were granted. Not always, but often was this true; not openly, but surely were the tests applied; and the vast machinery of a professed governmental office became a party power. The enormous array of the medical boards established in every quarter was almost solidly partisan; made so not openly but surely. People of one faith filled every one of the great agencies. Examiners, trained in unscrupulous schools, traversed the land as recruiting sergeants for a party.
>
> Chiefs of divisions, assistants, clerks, messengers, messenger boys, watchmen, and laborers were all-but entirely from the one school. Veteran service could not secure continuance in office, and at the behest and demand of partisans beyond the office old employés were cut adrift and zealous rufflers placed in their stead; leaves of absence were granted that the active men of the party might dominate over the elections. Wholesale discharges were made for partisan ends and a careful study of the tables 21 and 21A of this report will show how a tide of men and money was poured by this office into the sections where political struggle was progressing: Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Committee on Expenditures of Public Money is hereby directed to inquire into the truth of said allegation and to report the facts and testimony presented before them to the Senate. Said committee is authorized to send for persons and papers and to employ a stenographer. The expenses incident upon such investigation shall be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate.

Resolved, further, That said committee be also directed to inquire into the manner in which the Pension Office has been conducted and administered by the present Commissioner of Pensions in the matter of appointments to or removals from office, and to report the facts to the Senate.

EMERSON ETHERIDGE AND WILLIAM B. STOKES.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The first bill on the Calendar will now be stated.

The bill (S. 506) for the relief of Emerson Etheridge and William B. Stokes was announced as first in order, and the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, proceeded to its consideration.

Mr. MORRILL. Let the report be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The report will be read.

The Secretary read the following report, submitted by Mr. JACKSON January 6, 1886:

The Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 506) for the relief of Emerson Etheridge and William B. Stokes, having examined the same, respectfully report:

That on the 13th of June, 1866, the said Emerson Etheridge and William B. Stokes became the sureties of James P. T. Carter, on his official bond as secretary of the Territory of Arizona, said bond being in the penal sum of $20,000, and conditioned that if the said Carter should faithfully and diligently perform, execute, and discharge, and should continue faithfully and diligently to perform, execute, and discharge, all and singular the duties of said office according to law, then the obligation to be void and of no effect. It contained a further stipulation for annual settlements by the said Carter while in office as such secretary, which position he held at the pleasure of the President. Carter entered upon his duties, and continued to act as secretary of the Territory till his death, in September, 1869. He submitted, in compliance with the stipulations of his bond, annual settlements of his accounts with the proper officers of the Treasury during his life, and subsequently his wife filed with the Department his vouchers covering his expenditures from the date of his last settlement up to the day of his death. Carter left property of considerable value, which his family appropriated and have since consumed. At the date of his death William B. Stokes, one of the sureties, was possessed of considerable property, but has since become insolvent. The other surety, Etheridge, is now in moderate circumstances, being possessed of real and personal estate to the value of about $10,000, though at the time of Carter's death he was a man of considerable fortune.

In overhauling and restating Carter's accounts shortly after his death the officials of the Treasury Department disallowed several items of expenditure which Carter had made as secretary of the Territory, on the ground that they were not authorized by law; and as a result of this restatement a balance of $9,469.09 was shown against him. This apparent defalcation was known to the Government officials as early as 1871, but was never communicated or brought to the notice or knowledge of Carter's sureties till 1885, when suit was instituted by the Government against them in the United States district court of West Tennessee to recover said balance, with interest. That suit is now pending in said court, and stands for trial at the spring term thereof. The present bill proposes to release and discharge said sureties from all liability on account of said bond and any alleged breach thereof. The bill has been referred to the Treasury Department for any and all such information as its records could furnish as to the facts of the case, and under date of December 23, 1885, the Comptroller of the Treasury reports as follows:

"I find on examination that the balance found against James P. T. Carter, late secretary of Arizona, to wit, $9,469.09, is made up almost entirely of disallowances. He seems to have paid the said amount for printing, clerk-hire, &c., in excess of what it was thought should have been paid and the amount he had been authorized to pay. So far as this office is apprised, all or nearly all the money he received from the Government was expended, but to the extent of the above-stated disallowances in excess of what this office thought proper. These are all the facts. This office has no recommendation to make," &c.

Mr. Carter was a gentleman of the highest character and standing, strictly temperate in his habits, and exceedingly economical in his manner of life. The public moneys with which he was intrusted as secretary of the Territory were all paid out in what he considered legitimate and proper expenditures in and for the public service and interests committed to his official care. It would be unjust to his fair name and high character to treat or consider him in any sense a defaulter. The sureties were allowed to remain in ignorance of any balance found against him by the disallowance of credits for which vouchers were presented until April, 1885, when their own condition and circumstances were materially changed. Etheridge is now the only one from whom this balance can be collected. Its enforcement against him will take his entire estate, and leave him, in his declining years, after an honorable life as a private citizen and public servant, without even the means of support.

Under such circumstances, and after such a lapse of time in making known and enforcing a legal demand of such a technical character, the Government, in the opinion of your committee, should release its claim against the surety. This is in accordance with the spirit of our law in other cases. By section 3838 of the Revised Statutes it is provided that "if, on the settlement of the account of any postmaster, it shall appear that he is indebted to the United States, and suit therefor shall not be instituted within three years after the close of such account, the sureties on his bond shall not be liable for such indebtedness." In the present case fifteen years and six months elapsed between the death of Carter and the commencement of suit against the sureties. For fourteen years the Government has been in possession of all the facts. During that period the principal's estate has been consumed by his family, one of the sureties has become insolvent, and the other surety will be ruined in the enforcement of the demand for money which was actually and "bona fide" expended for the Government. This would be a great hardship, to say the least of it, toward the solvent surety, and a great Government should not inflict it.

At the first session of the Forty-eighth Congress your committee reported favorably a bill for the relief of Eugene B. Rail and other sureties of David L. Gregg, receiver of public moneys at Carson City, Nev. Gregg was appointed in March, 1865, and died in 1868. On the settlement of his account in December, 1868, there appeared a deficiency of $10,141.89. No notice of a defalcation was given to his sureties until suit was commenced against them in 1881, twelve years after the defalcation was known to the Government. At the commencement of the suit all the sureties were dead except two; one of these was bankrupt, and the other, Eugene B. Rail, was solvent. The committee recommended that he should be released. The Senate approved of this recommendation. The present case is a stronger one for relief in all its facts and circumstances, and your committee recommend the passage of the bill by the Senate.

Mr. MORRILL. I should be very glad if I could find any sufficient reason for voting in favor of this bill, for I had a very pleasant acquaintance with Mr. Etheridge in the other House, but I do not see how we can enforce the collection of any bond in any similar case unless this be enforced. There is no reason that would apply unless it be the fact that the Government did not instantly dismiss this officer and commence some legal proceedings for the collection of the bonds given in this case.

It hardly seems to me that this is a case where we can afford to give relief. I think the passage of this bill would set a precedent that would justify us in setting aside the collection of the bond of any collector who may be a defaulter or any collector who may have unsettled accounts in the Treasury Department. I do not see a sufficient reason that would justify us in foregoing our rights in this case.

Mr. DOLPH. I call for the reading of the views of the minority.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The views of the minority will be read.

The Secretary read the views submitted by Mr. DOLPH, as the views of the minority of the Committee on Claims, as follows:

I am unable to agree with the majority of the committee.

This case is one of undoubted hardship, but there are a great many similar cases, and suits upon official bonds involving equal hardship to sureties are probably pending in the Federal courts in every State of the Union. The delay of the Government in the settlement of the accounts of the late secretary of Arizona Territory, as shown in the majority report, has not been greater than in other cases. If there have been improper disallowances in the settlement of the accounts in this case by the officers of the Treasury Department, the items of account so disallowed will be credited to the sureties on the official bond upon the trial of the cause.

To grant relief by a private act in this case would be to invite other sureties upon official bonds, under similar circumstances, to apply to Congress for relief. If, in the opinion of Congress, a statute of limitations in such cases is desirable, or if more prompt settlement of official accounts by the Treasury Department should be made, these objects should be reached by general laws.

It is impracticable for Congress to legislate for each individual case of supposed hardship in the administration of the vast and complicated machinery of the Government, and by attempting to do so in the crowded condition of the business of Congress at every session would result in securing relief in an occasional case only, while the great number of equally deserving cases would fail to receive consideration. If there is a precedent for granting relief in such cases it is a bad one and should not be followed.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I have no doubt that this is a case of very great hardship on the bondsman. It appears from the report that Mr. Carter died in 1869. His accounts were then in the Treasury Department and all the facts connected with his defalcation, if it may be called a defalcation, were known to the Treasury Department in 1871. They slept upon that knowledge, and Mr. Etheridge, who is represented at that time to have been in fair circumstances and who was associated with other securities who might have paid a part of this money, has been damnified by the laches of the Government itself.

Mr. HOAR. The principal himself was perfectly good and was living when the disallowance was made.

Mr. SAULSBURY. The principal himself at that time, I understand, was perfectly good. It seems to me to be a matter of very great hardship to Mr. Etheridge, the Government sleeping on its knowledge until 1885, that the Government now should exact compliance with the bond.

I think there has been dereliction on the part of the Treasury officials heretofore. As soon as they ascertained the liability of Mr. Carter on his bond to the Government they ought to have put it in process of collection. Then, if the information I have is correct that Mr. Carter himself was responsible and that the other securities on the bond were solvent, it would not have been so great a hardship as it is now. I admit with the Senator from Vermont that it is a precedent to relieve securities from the obligations which they have entered into with the Government. It may become a precedent that will result in loss to the Treasury, but I can not find it in my heart to hold Mr. Etheridge in this case to strict compliance with his obligation when the facts in the case disclose that the Government itself has been guilty of laches in the enforcement of the bond of this principal. I shall therefore vote for this bill, notwithstanding I believe it to be as a general rule a bad precedent to release men from the obligations which they have entered into to the Government.

Mr. DOLPH. In submitting the minority report in this case I hardly expected to be able to defeat the passage of this bill, although there was a bare quorum of the Committee on Claims present when the report was ordered to be made. I make the minority report for two reasons: First, because I can not conscientiously concur in the majority report; and, secondly, because I desire an opportunity of briefly calling the attention of the Senate to the present condition of Congress in regard to bills of relief and the present condition of business in the Committee on Claims. I desire Congress to face the situation squarely and to understand that private bills for relief are increasing from year to year with great regularity, and that the number of meritorious bills which pass Congress is decreasing from year to year with like regularity, because the whole business of Congress is obstructed by the great number of bills for private relief which are introduced. Still we go on from session to session of Congress, opening new doors, inviting new classes of claimants to come and present their claims upon the assurance of precedents which we have established.

In some remarks made by Speaker CARLISLE just before declaring the House of Representatives adjourned sine die at the close of the Forty-eighth Congress he stated that the number of bills and joint resolutions, as shown by the records of the House of Representatives, introduced in the House during the first fifty years after the establishment of the Government was 8,777 and that the number of bills which had been introduced in the House during the Forty-eighth Congress was 8,630, only 147 bills less than were introduced during the first fifty years. During the Forty-seventh Congress the number of bills and joint resolutions introduced in the Senate was 2,652. During the Forty-eighth Congress the number of bills and joint resolutions introduced in the Senate was 2,806, being an increase of 154. During the Forty-sixth Congress the number of bills and petitions referred to the Committee on Claims was 478. During the Forty-seventh Congress the number of bills and petitions referred to that committee was 531, the number of reports made 156, no action on 375 bills. During the Forty-eighth Congress there were referred to the Committee on Claims 640 bills and petitions, upon which written reports were made on 247, no action on 393.

During the present Congress, up to Wednesday last, there have been referred to the Committee on Claims 237 bills and petitions for relief. The reports made by the Committee on Claims during the Forty-eighth Congress are contained in two very respectable volumes. I have been told by a person familiar with the business of Congress during the Thirty-eighth Congress that the number of bills introduced in the Senate during the first session did not exceed 400 and the number introduced during the entire Congress did not exceed 600.

So the Senate will observe that there has been a constant increase of the number of bills introduced into both branches of Congress, a constant increase in the number referred to the Committee on Claims, and a constant increase of reports from the Committee on Claims; but as I assert, without being able to give the figures to show it, the number of bills passed for private relief has not been greatly increased.

Now, what is the result of all this? Business of importance, general legislation demanded by the country, fails to receive consideration, or if considered in one House fails to be taken up for consideration in the other. Even the appropriation bills, which by common consent have precedence, are often not duly considered by the committees to which they are referred and are frequently passed without any considerable consideration by the majority of Senators or Members of the House. The time of a very large number of Senators is occupied with examining and reporting on private claims, and they are unable to give attention to matters of general legislation and perform the duties that are expected of them by the country.

That is not all, sir. This labor is generally fruitless of beneficial result, because while there are a great number of reports, as I said before, but very few bills are passed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator's five minutes have expired. Does he desire unanimous consent to proceed?

Mr EDMUNDS. I hope he will be allowed to proceed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is the duty of the Chair to call the Senator's attention to the fact that his time has expired. If there be no objection the Senator from Oregon will proceed.

Mr. DOLPH. I shall be as brief as possible. I think this is a proper time to present this matter, and I shall come to the pending bill directly.

I said a moment ago the proportion of favorable reports from the Committee on Claims that is acted upon is very small, and there are meritorious cases pending now in both branches of Congress, cases in which there is no dispute about the liability of the Government, and which have been presented session after session for the last ten, twenty, thirty, and even forty years. The original claimants have grown sick at heart of the long delay and have died, but the claims live and are presented from session to session by their heirs or representatives.

Whenever we open a door and make a precedent for the payment of any new claim, we simply invite persons having claims of a similar character all over the land to present them. Now what is proposed here? It is proposed to relieve the sureties upon the official bond of the late secretary of the Territory of Arizona. Why? Because the Government has delayed the settlement of the accounts of the principal on the bond and delayed to call upon the sureties to respond for the deficiency in moneys received by him and because in the mean time one of the sureties has become insolvent, the estate of the principal has been settled and used up, and the solvent surety will be called upon to pay the whole amount.

I have had some experience in prosecuting suits of this kind and in defending suits of this kind, and I do not now recollect a single case in which the delay of the Government has not caused similar hardships, not always to the same extent, but the difference is a difference of degree only. I do not now recall having been connected with a single case in which there were several bondsmen on an official bond where some had not become insolvent and where the solvent bondsmen were not called upon to make up the portion of the deficiency which should have been borne by the insolvent sureties.

I do not now remember a case where if there had been a prompt action by the Government the principal himself might not have contributed some portion of the amount due the Government. The difference between this case and a thousand cases now pending in the courts, or now being examined in the Departments and ready to be brought, is one of degree only.

I understand this report to put this case substantially upon the ground that the Government has been tardy in its action, that one of the sureties has become insolvent, that the surety who is solvent is worth but $10,000, and that to ask him to respond to the penalty of this bond will impoverish him. Sir, men are impoverished every day by complying with their contracts and paying surety debts to individuals and to the Government, and if this door is to be opened, if this precedent is to be established and our action in this case advertised to the country, we shall have one hundred bills of this kind before this Congress adjourns and five hundred at the next Congress.

I do not understand the majority of the committee to report in favor of this bill because the money was expended, although without authority, by the secretary for the benefit of the United States, and that is not the report of the Secretary of the Treasury. He reports, it is true, that it was mostly expended for printing and clerk-hire, but it seems to have been improperly expended; it seems to have been illegally expended. I take it for granted, without being entirely familiar with the manner in which these appropriations are made and the manner in which these expenditures are settled, that either Congress in the first place appropriates a certain sum for such purposes and that the expenditure in this case must have been beyond the appropriation, or Congress in making appropriations leaves it with the Secretary of the Treasury or of the Interior, as the case may be, to determine how it shall be expended—and the expenditure in this case was unauthorized—or that Congress gives the secretaries of the Territories power to determine in what manner the expenditure shall be made.

If the secretary of the Territory had power to determine the necessity for and the manner of expending the appropriation in the present case, then the court upon the trial will allow the sureties whatever he had authority to expend, notwithstanding it was disallowed by the Treasury Department. If he violated the orders of his superior, if he made expenditures where there was no appropriation, or used money put in his hands for one purpose for other purposes not authorized by law, he ought to be held liable for such misappropriation and his bondsmen ought to respond for him. Otherwise, instead of Congress being the judge as to what amount of money shall be appropriated for the Territories the secretaries of the Territories will become the judges of the necessity for expenditures, and Congress will be only asked to make appropiations to supply the deficiency.

If the recommendation in this report had been put upon the ground alone that the Government received the benefit of the most of the expenditures which caused this deficiency, I might have been content to allow the bill to pass without objection; but, as I say, that does not appear to be the reason given in the majority report. I hold in my hand a report made by the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] from the Committee on Territories in regard to the claim of Messrs. McElroy and Prosch for the sum of $1,946.64 due for printing for the Legislative Assembly of Washington Territory. These gentlemen were employed in 1871 by the then secretary of Washington Territory to do certain printing. They printed certain official reports at the rates established by Government, but there had been some circulars sent out by the Treasury Department which had never been received by the secretary of the Territory forbidding the printing of such official reports. The amount was disallowed. I introduced a bill for their relief. It went to the Committee on Territories, and that committee reported unanimously against the allowance of the claim.

These men are citizens of Washington Territory, printers, who paid out their money and did work for the Government. The Government had the benefit of it; but it was done contrary to the instructions of the Secretary of the Treasury to the secretary of the Territory, which were never received, and the Committee on Territories unanimously reported against the allowance of the claim. Now, sir, equality is equity; and if we are going to grant relief in one case I want relief granted in another like case. If two committees of this body are to disagree on such propositions, if one may report against a bill of this kind and kill it, and another may report in favor of it and the bill pass and the relief be granted, I shall try to resurrect this claim in some way and endeavor to secure payment of it by referring it, not to the Committee on Territories, but to the Committee on Claims, where, under the precedent now proposed to be established, it must receive favorable consideration.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, this report discloses the fact that some sixteen or more years ago the secretary of the Territory of Arizona applied certain moneys to Territorial purposes which the Treasury Department has decided were not technically legal expenditures, and therefore the secretary of the Territory has been reported as a defaulter to the amount of such payments. It is not pretended that any part of these funds was appropriated to the use of the secretary; upon the contrary, the affirmative fact appears that it was expended for Territorial purposes and no other, and purposes which the secretary believed to be legitimately legal, necessary, and proper. In view of which fact I doubt whether in equity and strict justice the secretary could be called upon to refund to the Treasury the money so expended.

But if it appeared that the money was appropriated by the secretary to his own use, or wasted by his negligence, this report shows a state of facts upon which I should still vote to relieve the sureties from liability. It appears that in 1871 the Treasury Department ascertained and declared this alleged defalcation, at which time the estate of Carter, the principal in the bond, was solvent and able to refund the amount, thus saving his sureties harmless; but the Government slumbered upon its rights from 1871, when it declared the default, until 1885, leaving these sureties in fancied security all of this time, and within which the principal in the bond died and his estate was distributed and passed beyond the power of the Government to reach it, and one of the sureties unfortunately became insolvent and wholly unable to contribute any part of this liability, thus saddling the whole burden upon the one surviving and solvent surety, when, but for the culpable negligence of the Government for all of these years the sureties would have been relieved from all liability by the full payment by the principal of any liability which did exist, or if the demand had been made promptly after the death and distribution of the estate of the principal, each surety could have contributed his due proportion of the amount, but by the laches and negligence of the Government this entire liability is practically fixed upon the one solvent surety.

This liability having descended to this surety by reason of the wrongful negligence of the Government, it can not in justice demand its payment. I shall therefore take pleasure in voting to release the sureties from all liability in this case, and I will say in answer to the Senator from Vermont [Mr. MORRILL] that so far as I am concerned I shall be very glad to set the precedent of relieving sureties in this case and to follow the precedent in every case where the Government has slumbered upon its rights for long years and it can be clearly shown, as in this case, that the negligence of the Government has operated to the injury of the sureties.

Mr. HOAR. Mr. President, this is not the case of a defaulter in the ordinary sense, which imputes criminality or wrongdoing to the principal in the bond. It is the case of the secretary of a Territory who is authorized and bound to make such expenditures as are reasonable for the public service; it is the case of a mistake of the public officer in the exercise of a discretion which he is bound to exercise under his official duty, but which is subject to revision by the Department at Washington.

Mr. MORRILL. What was the expenditure?

Mr. HOAR. The expenditure was an expenditure for printing and clerk-hire for the use of the Territory.

Mr. DOLPH. Is there anything to show what are the items given in the report?

Mr. HOAR. The items are not given in the report, but the Comptroller of the Treasury says that the balance which is claimed is made up almost entirely of disallowances of such payments as I have mentioned. The whole substance of the matter which we have before the Senate is made up in that way. I do not know exactly what the slight exception may be.

It seems to me that upon the facts reported by the committee, as has been already observed by the honorable Senator from Tennessee, there would be a perfectly equitable defense if this transaction had arisen between private parties. If the creditor had discovered a default on the part of the principal and had slumbered upon that knowledge for fourteen years, failing to avail himself of his known remedy and failing to inform the sureties that they might avail themselves of their remedy, and in the mean time during that period the once solvent principal had become insolvent or had died and his property been destroyed beyond reach of the law, I suppose it is clear that that would be a case of laches which both in equity and at law would discharge the surety.

That being the condition of the case, the question is whether it is fitting that the United States should avail itself of the principle that no laches can be imputed to the Government which it would be inequitable as between private parties to permit to be enforced.

The honorable Senator from Oregon says that if we do that in the present condition of the law the legislative body of the country will be bound to investigate a large number of similar cases and see what exigencies are in them; and that is true. By our own neglect or failure to pass a proper statute of limitation and a law justly and properly defining and arranging the relations between the Government of the United States and the sureties on official bonds we are in that condition, and we ought to and are bound to take upon ourselves the function to which the Senator has alluded until we make a general law which covers the case.

Mr. DOLPH. If the Senator will permit I should like to ask him a question.

Mr. HOAR. Certainly.

Mr. DOLPH. Has it not been the policy of the Government for a hundred years not to allow a surety to escape in such a case because suit was not brought within a definite time?

Mr. HOAR. This is not a mere case of failure to bring suit within six or ten years. It is a case of knowledge of the default and slumbering upon that knowledge, allowing the surety to suppose the Government was satisfied with the accounts of the principal, and in the mean time the condition of the principal had changed from solvency to insolvency. But I do not care what the policy which has come down on this subject from the Dark Ages may be; I say as a matter of sound policy now and of duty and of justice the United States should not enforce a claim of this kind.

Mr. President, we have a case here in regard to this old gentleman, a man who, after having held important positions in public life, is at the age of more than three-score and ten left with a little pittance of $10,000 for his old age, every dollar of which the United States is asked to swoop down upon and take off. There is not a Senator within the sound of my voice who, if he stood in the relation to a private debtor which the United States stands in to this man, would not thrust his right hand into a brazier of burning coal rather than undertake to act as the Senator from Oregon desires that the representatives of the people of the United States should act. I understand that what is base, dishonest, and infamous for an individual becomes no less base, dishonest, and infamous when it is an act of that aggregation of individuals which we call a country.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. It is the duty of the Chair to inform the Senator that his five minutes have expired.

Mr. HOAR. Just a word more. I desire to say——

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no objection the Senator will proceed.

Mr. HOAR. The United States, like every other nation, is a moral being. It is a being with credit, honor, sense of duty, obligation to morality, public faith, and with the right and the duty and the capacity to indulge in the sentiments of mercy and of pity in proper cases. If ever such a case arose, this is the case.

Mr. MANDERSON. Mr. President, I think this report shows not only a case of hardship against the surety on this bond, but, as suggested by the Senator from Massachusetts, a case of great outrage on the part of the Government of the United States. The facts not only appear in the report, but have been very forcibly stated by the Senator from Tennessee, and I will not take the time of the Senate by narrating them.

Unfortunately this case does not stand alone, and, as suggested by the Senator from Oregon, there are many like it. Two have come within my observation in my own State. One, the case of a suit against the sureties upon the bond of an Indian agent fifteen years after the defalcation was discovered by the Government and ten years, or thereabouts, after the death, totally insolvent, of the principal upon the bond. The other was a case of a receiver of public moneys, where, many years after the insolvency but not the death of the principal, suit was instituted and recovery had from the sureties, or those of the sureties who remained solvent after this lapse of many years, who were forced to pay in each case large sums of money. The effort was made in both those cases to absolve the sureties from liability because of the laches of the Government of the United States, but the court in each case held, and I think held rightfully, notwithstanding the suggestion of my distinguished friend the Senator from Massachusetts, that in the absence of a statute of limitation the sureties could not invoke this principle of laches as against the Government of the United States.

But I rose not for the purpose of addressing myself particularly to this case of hardship, but to suggest to the Senate that there has been some negligence not only on the part of the executive officers of the United States but on the part of the Congress of the United States, and I may suggest perhaps a little negligence on the part of the Senate and some of its committees with reference to the remedy for cases of this character. It was in view of the two cases I have narrated that early in the first session of the Forty-eighth Congress I introduced a bill proposing that there should be notice to all sureties upon official bonds of the United States when a defalcation appeared to any of the examining and accounting officers of the United States, and that there should be a statute of limitations to operate for the benefit of sureties on such bonds. That bill early in the first session of the Forty-eighth Congress was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary of this body, and there it slumbered, and there it still sleeps, for notwithstanding the fact that it was introduced so early in the session no report ever came from the Committee on the Judiciary upon it. Early in this session of Congress I introduced the bill again, and it will be found to be Senate bill No. 138. I propose to read its provisions for the reason that having the case at point provided for by this bill and as narrated in this report of the Committee on Claims, and in view of the two cases that I have presented to the attention of the Senate, and others that undoubtedly will be known to other Senators, the Committee on the Judiciary may see that there is a chance for them to present to the Senate the proper remedy provided for by bill No. 138. The first section reads:

> That hereafter whenever any deficiency shall be discovered in the accounts of any official of the United States, or of any officer disbursing or chargeable with public money, it shall be the duty of the auditing officer making such discovery to at once notify the chief of the Department having control over the affairs of said officer of the nature and amount of said shortage, and it shall be the immediate duty of said chief of Department to at once notify all sureties upon the bond or bonds of said official of the nature of said shortage and the amount thereof. Said notification shall be deemed sufficient if mailed at the post-office in the city of Washington, D. C., addressed to said sureties respectively, and directed to the post-office where said sureties may reside, if known; but a failure to give or mail such notice shall not discharge such surety or sureties upon such bond.

The second section provides:

> That if upon the adjustment or settlement of the account of any official of the United States, or of any officer disbursing or chargeable with public money, it shall appear that he is indebted to the United States, and suit therefor shall not be instituted within five years after such settlement and adjustment of said account, the sureties on his bond shall not be liable for such indebtedness.

This is in accord with that other section of the statutes which provides a three-years' limitation as to the bonds of postmasters, and it seems to me that this bill should speedily become a law, simply that the Government of the United States may not be placed in the position described by the Senator from Massachusetts, where it becomes a party to a dishonest scheme to wrong innocent persons.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. President, were it not for a very peculiar feature in this case I would cast a silent vote on the subject, but there is a matter here that ought to arrest the attention of the Senate and Congress and of the Departments of the Government. It is not pretended that this man Carter, whose sureties Stokes and Etheridge were, was a defaulter. It seems that in the transaction of the business of his office in disbursing Government money he made certain payments on accounts that were afterward disallowed. In the answer made by the Department to the committee I find that the Comptroller of the Treasury says:

I find on examination that the balance found against James F. T. Carter, late secretary of Arizona, to wit, $9,469.09, is made up almost entirely of disallowances. He seems to have paid the said amount for printing, clerk-hire, &c., in excess of what it was thought should have been paid and the amount he had been authorized to pay.

There consequently could have been no imputation of a default. All this could be and was known in the Department and could not be known to these sureties. In casting the accounts after he went out of office this circumstance became known upon the books of the Treasury, and there remained known for fifteen years and six months without being communicated to these sureties. I beg Senators to mark this statement. This is a very extraordinary case, and this report discloses a piece of as bad civil service as I ever knew on the part of the Government. Passing on the accounts of this man—a mere matter of account and settlement, with no imputation on his honesty or his honor—the accounting officers disallowed certain of his accounts amounting to over $9,000. The accounting officers in the Department ascertained that alleged deficiency in 1871, and it was not until 1885 that that fact was communicated to these sureties by suit being brought against them. If a grosser, more crying, unpardonable injustice could be done to men than that, I fail to know how.

I know it is very easy to talk about dangerous precedents, and everybody who comes here for relief against the Government is met with that cry. I will respond to that, and say that I want less of this kind of dangerous precedent on the part of the Government itself. When the authorities found that there was this amount disallowed they should in all fairness and common decency have notified these sureties of that fact, so that they could have taken care of the case. In the mean time, while these fifteen years were running—for fifteen years elapsed from the casting of this account and its ascertainment in the Treasury until suit was brought—one of the sureties became insolvent, shifting the entire burden onto one, which would not have been the case if the Government had done its duty; and now the Government seeks to hold the one man for the entire amount, when at most he would have had but half to pay had the Government done its duty. I know of no case in all my experience—and I have had some in regard to applications for relief on bonds since my service in this body—appealing so strongly to the common principles of old-fashioned honesty and fair play as this does.

It will afford me great pleasure to vote for this bill, but, as I say, I would have been content to have done so without saying a word, but I wanted to point out the real evil which has been here committed, and that is on the part of the Government itself.

Mr. DAWES. Before the Senator sits down I wish to be allowed to ask him a question. It may have been stated when I was out, but the Senator is familiar enough with the fact to state to the Senate what was the nature of the original default.

Mr. VOORHEES. I will state it over again to the Senator. I will state the case exactly.

Mr. DAWES. It may have been stated, but I have not heard it.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Carter was secretary of the Territory of Arizona, and gave a bond in the sum of $20,000 with William B. Stokes and Emerson Etheridge of Tennessee, as his sureties. After he went out of office the Department, in casting his accounts, disallowed certain payments of public money which he had made on account of the public service.

Mr. DAWES. Not because he had appropriated them to himself?

Mr. VOORHEES. He had not appropriated a dollar. Not a dollar went into his pocket improperly. There is no pretense of it. The Comptroller so reports. He says:

The public moneys with which he was intrusted as secretary of the Territory were all paid out in what he considered legitimate and proper expenditures in and for the public service and interests committed to his official care.

It is like so many cases we know of where a public officer in the disbursement of money pays out $100 here and $100 there, which is afterward disallowed and he has to make it good. That was the case here. There is no imputation on his honor or honesty. The amount thus found against him by this disallowance was known to the Department in 1871, and yet they slept on that for fifteen years and six months and then brought suit against the only remaining solvent surety, the other surety in the mean time having become insolvent; and yet gentlemen stand here and complain of this bill as setting a bad precedent! The bad precedent is in such civil service as that, and the sooner we stamp out that kind of practice the better it will be for all parties.

Mr. HAWLEY. Mr. President, I am perfectly willing to make a precedent in this case. I am quite willing that it shall not only be a precedent on the records here, but that it shall be put into the form of a statute, if you choose, that if the Government shall neglect for fourteen years, or twelve, or ten, or eight, or six, or three, to notify the sureties, it shall lose all claim in the case. And this gives me another opportunity to enforce what I have tried to enforce many times heretofore. This Government has no right to enforce the letter of the law or boast of its justice so long as it practices the grossest wholesale injustice in neglecting to provide for claimants against the Government any suitable tribunal to settle their claims.

This Government ought to be suable as truly and as easily as a private citizen. I do not care whether the claim is a thousand dollars or five dollars, it ought to be possible for a citizen who has that claim to bring it to some tribunal and have a reasonably speedy and just trial.

Of course, as the Senator from Oregon says, we have thousands and thousands of claims presented here, some of which have been yearly dinned in our ears for ten, twenty, thirty, forty years, and some of these claims are exactly as honestly due as our board bills. We keep these citizens here in this way. It is an eternal mortification to them, and it ought to be to us, because we give them no other place to go to. We are, of course, exercising the functions of a court of equity in such cases, and we must do so, not only of a court but of a sovereign discharging equitable duties. We must do so because we have given no remedy in the law.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. CALL in the chair). The hour of 2 o'clock has arrived.

Mr. JACKSON. I ask consent of the Senator from Vermont [Mr. EDMUNDS] to lay aside informally the regular order a few moments until we dispose of this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The regular order is Senate bill No. 10. The Senator from Tennessee asks unanimous consent that this bill be laid aside informally.

Mr. DOLPH. I hope the Senator from Tennessee will let the matter go over until Monday, retaining its place. After the spasm of virtue we have had exhibited here this morning I want to call the attention of the Senate a little more fully to how this power has been exercised in the last hundred years.

Mr. JACKSON. I hope the Senator will withdraw his objection and let us take a vote. The bill is fully understood in all its magnitude. The facts are set out in the report.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I suggest that it go over until Monday, keeping its place, so that it may be still considered, as it would, in fact, under the rules, I believe.

Mr. HARRIS. I beg to suggest to the Senator from Oregon that our experience admonishes us that if this matter goes over until Monday, while every fact pertaining to it now is completely understood—and I apprehend the Senate is ready to vote now—we shall have to go over the whole ground, and will go over the whole ground, on Monday, and consume the same amount of time.

Mr. EDMUNDS. That is very likely, because I am inclined to think I shall be tempted to say something myself; but the Senator from Oregon, who has a sincere opposition to this bill on the ground of its opposition to the former action of the Senate, as he understands it, wishes the bill to go over in order that it may be further considered. I think, as it really involves an important principle as the law now stands, it would be fair to settle it as a precedent, so that all committees can conform to it; and if we spend an hour about it on Monday, I do not think it will be time lost. Therefore I ask, if that is necessary, as I think it is not, that the bill go over until Monday and stand then in its present order, so that it will be the first thing in order on Monday morning.

Mr. HARRIS. That will be the effect under the rule.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I think so myself.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The bill goes over.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Now I call for the regular order.

POLYGAMY AND AFFAIRS IN UTAH.

The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 10) to amend an act entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BROWN]. The Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. BLAIR] is entitled to the floor.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Let the amendment be read.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. The proposed amendment is in the eighth line of the first section to strike out the words "and may be compelled;" in the ninth line to strike out the word "without" and insert "with;"

and in the tenth line, after the word "be," to insert the words "who is to be examined;" so as to read:

The lawful husband or wife of the person accused shall be a competent witness, and may be called to testify in such proceeding, examination, or prosecution with the consent of the husband or wife, as the case may be, who is to be examined; but such witness shall not be permitted to testify as to any confidential statement or communication made by either husband or wife to each other during the existence of the marriage relation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to this amendment.

Mr. BROWN. Let us have the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Now, Mr. President, before the question is put, although there are hardly any of the friends of human liberty in the Senate, I will appeal to the logical-minded and reform men here and call their attention to this thing. As the amendment of the Senator from Georgia now stands, I submit to him and to the Senate that it diminishes the present force of the common law and requires the consent of the accused person, instead of the willingness of the person who is called to testify; but that, of course, is not what my friend from Georgia means and it can be easily corrected if the Senate wishes to change what the committee have reported. Now on that point I wish to state again——

Mr. BROWN. With great respect to the opinion of the Senator from Vermont, I think he is mistaken about the amendment.

Mr. EDMUNDS. It may be.

Mr. BROWN. It is with the consent of the party to be exaimed, not with the consent of the other.

Mr. EDMUNDS. That would raise a very difficult question, as we disagree, for any court that was called upon to decide it. Now I wish to state, in just a minute or two, to the Senate what it seems clear the law now is on the ordinary rules of evidence. According to the ordinary rules of evidence at the common law the wife or husband is a witness against the other in criminal proceedings, to which this bill is of course entirely confined, in all cases of violence or crime committed by one against the other. I think I am safe in saying, although there are some cases to the contrary, as there are on almost every proposition at the common law, that the common law now is that, being competent witnesses one against the other in respect of crimes committed by one against the other, they may be compellable to testify whether they consent or not, because when you come to the prosecution of crimes it is not a question of the redress of personal grievances, but it is a question of the interest of the good order of society in the punishment of crime whether the victim of that crime wishes to have it punished or not. That I think is the present common law.

Now, when we come to what is the practice of the various States, I wish to call attention to the laws of two or three States the Senators from which have spoken. Here is the law of New Hampshire; but my friend from New Hampshire is not in, and I will pass that for a moment. Here is the law of Nebraska on the subject:

The husband can in no case be a witness against the wife, nor the wife against the husband, except in a criminal proceeding for a crime committed by the one against the other, but they may in all criminal prosecutions be witnesses for each other.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Does the Senator find anything in that statute which compels them to be witnesses against each other?

Mr. EDMUNDS. If the Senator could be patient with me who can only say one thing at a time, different from my friend from Nebraska, he would have found out in a minute or two what I think about that. The statute of Nebraska provides that the husband and wife shall not be witnesses against each other except in a criminal proceeding for a crime committed by one against the other. Then the question is whether the offense of bigamy is a crime under the statutes of Nebraska, I will say of one against the other. I do not know whether under the principles of the common law, applied to this statute, the wife or the husband would be a competent witness against the other in a bigamy case; but I repeat what I said yesterday or the day before, that the committee thought on a most careful examination of this subject that this was an offense, that, whether they were technically admissible or not, it was so nearly allied to what the common law considered to be a crime of the one against the other that it would be justifiable to provide that each should be a witness against the other in such a case.

As my friend from Massachusetts [Mr. HOAR] so pertinently suggests, the crime of bigamy is an offense which warrants a dissolution of the marriage tie on the application of the aggrieved party.

The principle and the policy of the Nebraska statute is that in any offense which affects the marital relation, and therefore involves a crime of one against the other, each is a competent witness. My friend from Nebraska asked whether the statute says they are compellable to testify, and that brings us to the key of this whole matter on this point. Wherever, by the Constitution of the United States or of any State a limitation upon the powers of courts of justice to compel testimony exists, it is simply that no person shall be compelled to give evidence in a criminal prosecution against himself, and there it stops. That constitutional provision does not touch the relation of husband and wife at all. That was a matter of policy adopted by the common-law courts so as not to interfere with the sacred and confidential condition of affairs between the husband and wife and their supposed technical unity into one person by the marriage relation. Now comes this statute of Nebraska, which says——

Mr. SAULSBURY. Will the Senator allow me to make a suggestion?

Mr. EDMUNDS. With pleasure.

Mr. SAULSBURY. If I understand him aright, he thinks in the case stated of an offense against the wife, at the common law she might be a competent witness against her husband.

Mr. EDMUNDS. No; I did not say that positively. I said it was clear now by the common law that in all cases such as are stated in the Nebraska statute where a crime was committed by one against the other either might be a witness against the other. Whether bigamy would come within that on the techninal principles of the common law I did not undertake to say.

Mr. SAULSBURY. I had occasion once to appear in defense of a party charged with bigamy in my own State, the offense being alleged on the affidavit of the wife. I defended the accused on the ground that the wife was not a competent witness in a case of that kind to make an affidavit, and the court in my State discharged the prisoner because he had not been properly held.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Exactly. That principle led me to state it as to bigamy as a question which at this day would be open to doubt whether without a statute it would fall within the ordinary class of crimes committed by one against the other; but the committee thought that this was a crime committed by one against the other which would justify the Legislature in relieving the common law of all doubt or difficulty on that point, and providing that either might be a witness to facts that did not relate to the communication of one to the other in their marital relation.

Now we come to the question as to whether they can be compelled to testify, and I will go on with my answer to the Senator from Nebraska. Wherever the law makes a person a competent witness (which is the language of these statutes) he becomes a witness which the public prosecutor has a right to call, and being a competent witness, unless some affirmative constitution or law declares that he shall not be compelled to testify, he must testify like any other witness, because when the law says a witness is competent it puts him on the footing of every other witness, and he is subject to every jurisdiction of the court to compel him to speak to the issues that are presented for trial.

So, then, it seems to me that it is clear enough that wherever the husband and wife, without an express negation in a statute, are made competent witnesses in any matter criminal or civil, it does not depend upon the will of that witness, being competent, whether he will speak or not; and in some of the States, as in Georgia, I believe, as I looked at the statute last year, it is expressly said that they shall not be compelled, but they may testify in certain cases, the Georgia lawyers perfectly understanding the proposition I have just now stated, that wherever the law makes a person a competent witness that person is not the judge of whether he will give the testimony that the law calls upon him to give or not, but is put on the footing of every other witness.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to ask the chairman of the committee if he is not aware that in most of the States now the defendant in all criminal cases is made a competent witness, and if that has not been universally held to be dependent upon his will?

Mr. EDMUNDS. It is almost universally stated, and I rather suspect universally stated in the statutes that make him a competent witness, that he shall not be compelled to testify, and also that his not testifying shall not be alluded to by the counsel or taken any advantage of before the jury to raise the presumption that he did not want to go on the stand.

Mr. TELLER. That is undoubtedly true in some States, but it is not so in all.

Mr. BROWN. If the Senator from Vermont will allow me an interruption for a moment, I do not think he states the statute of Georgia quite fairly. The law there does permit husband or wife in certain cases, and especially the wife, to be called to testify where she has suffered or is liable to great injury, where the husband has inflicted injury on her or threatened injury; so that it is permissive but not compulsory.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Yes; the statute says so in terms that she shall not be compelled to do it.

Mr. BROWN. She is not compelled to testify at all. If she desires to testify she is competent to testify in a limited class of cases only.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Yes, and the statute says in distinct terms, if I remember it correctly—it is a long time since I have seen it—that she shall not be compelled to do it, in order to get her out of the attitude of a merely competent witness, because being merely a competent witness she is like every other witness and subject to the compulsory jurisdiction of the court to testify. That is clearly the law. So I think I am justified in repeating what I said the other day, that the principle involved in this section as the Judiciary Committee studied it and prepared it and reported it is the principle involved in the statutes of these various States. Here is Colorado, for instance, which puts it, I believe, on substantially the same grounds:

A husband shall not be examined for or against his wife without her consent, nor a wife for or against her husband without his consent; nor shall either, during the marriage or afterwards, be, without the consent of the other, examined as to any communication made by one to the other during the marriage. But this exception does not apply to a civil action or proceeding by one against the other, nor to a criminal action or proceeding for a crime committed by one against the other.

So that it really, on the principle of the thing, brings it down to the question, supposing we were trying to follow the spirit of the statutes of these various States (and I have only just taken a few of them; I could not wait to go through with all that have any statutes on the subject), whether the principle reported by the committee involves the idea that the crime of bigamy by a married man is or is not not only a crime against society of the worst description, but a crime against his first, true, and lawful wife. The committee thought it was, in morals and in justice, and proposed to authorize the courts of justice to make that woman a competent witness and to authorize the courts of justice to examine her as to all facts that did not come into the communications which the marital relation implies.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to ask the Senator if the committee, believing that that was the construction, examined for any precedent. There have been many decisions and rulings upon the question whether the wife was competent to testify against the husband or the husband against the wife in a case of bigamy. I think the committee could find some light on that subject.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Very likely we could find a great deal of light if we continued to examine. We thought we had found light enough to ask the Senate of the United States to make a law which should break up, as far as furnishing testimony would go, polygamous relations existing between certain persons, and that, under whatever influence the first and true wife might be, the hand of society and the hand of justice and the hand of good morals should require her to come forward and testify that she was married lawfully to the person accused. That is all there is of it, and it seems to me that it is a provision which everybody ought to agree is wise and right.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. President, I can not agree with the Senator from Vermont that the rule in reference to the protection of the wife or the husband from giving testimony against the other in a criminal prosecution is a rule founded in public policy for the punishment of crime. It was a rule intended to protect the wife and the husband. It was for the peace and quiet and good order of the family. The rule as laid down by Greenleaf is as follows:

SEC. 334. The rule, by which parties are excluded from being witnesses for themselves, applies to the case of husband and wife, neither of them being admissible as a witness in a cause, civil or criminal, in which the other is a party. This exclusion is founded partly on the identity of their legal rights and interests, and partly on principles of public policy, which lie at the basis of civil society. For it is essential to the happiness of social life that the confidence subsisting between husband and wife should be sacredly protected and cherished in its most unlimited extent; and to break down or impair the great principles which protect the sanctities of that relation would be to destroy the best solace of human existence.

The exceptions to the rule are laid down as follows by the same author:

SEC. 343. To this general rule, excluding the husband and wife as witnesses, there are some exceptions, which are allowed from the necessity of the case, partly for the protection of the wife in her life and liberty, and partly for the sake of public justice. But the necessity which calls for this exception for the wife's security is described to mean not a general necessity, as where no other witness can be had, but a particular necessity, as where, for instance, the wife would otherwise be exposed, without remedy, to personal injury. Thus, a woman is a competent witness against a man indicted for forcible abduction and marriage, if the force were continuing upon her until the marriage, of which fact she is also a competent witness; and this, by the weight of the authorities, notwithstanding her subsequent assent and voluntary cohabitation; for otherwise the offender would take advantage of his wrong. So she is a competent witness against him on an indictment for a rape committed on her own person; or, for an assault and battery upon her; or, for maliciously shooting her. She may also exhibit articles of peace against him; in which case her affidavit shall not be allowed to be controlled and overthrown by his own.

So that the exceptions to the rule really are all for the protection of the wife against personal injuries or personal violence.

Mr. EDMUNDS. And for public justice, as the Senator read.

Mr. BROWN. That is not the rule generally. Public justice is one of the objects, but it is the public justice that applies to her, and it is to protect her where she could not otherwise be protected.

Mr. EDMUNDS. If the Senator will allow me to interrupt him, I wish to ask him the plain and straight question whether he does not think that a man having one lawful wife and going and marrying another commits a personal injury against the lawful wife?

Mr. BROWN. I think he commits a crime against society.

Mr. EDMUNDS. But that is not my question.

Mr. BROWN. It is not simply a personal injury against her.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Not simply, but is it not a personal injury?

Mr. BROWN. It is a wrong, but it is not a wrong that the common law gives her a right to testify about.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Very likely, and that is why we wish to pass this statute. But my question is, is it not a wrong, a moral and religious public crime against her as well as against society?

Mr. BROWN. It is a public crime against the wife, but not one of the character that the great authors of the law, those who gave us the common law, considered a proper one for her to be called as a witness.

Mr. EDMUNDS. But the Senator ought to remember that at the common law there was not any punishment for polygamy or bigamy at all or for adultery, and therefore the common law never had any such cases to deal with.

Mr. BROWN. In most of the States of the Union even up to this day the common law has not been enlarged to the extent that the Senator proposes to extend it. In fact, if such law has passed in any of the States I am not aware of it. In the multiplicity of legislation in the thirty-eight States there may have been some instances, but I am not aware of it and I do not think the Senator has shown it. I think there has been no instance where any one of the thirty-eight States has enacted a law making the wife a competent witness in a case of bigamy or polygamy. We are proposing, therefore, to go beyond what any State or probably any other civilized state in the world has done. I can not speak for all of them, but I am not aware of any instance, and as the Senator's search has been thorough in this matter I presume there is none, because he has produced none.

Again, so far as the execution of the law is concerned, the Senator certainly does not need this additional legislation. As matters now stand in Utah it is only necessary to make a prima facie case, and a very light one at that, to convict a Mormon. If you arraign him and put him on trial his conviction follows almost as a certainty. The judge is nominated to the Senate and confirmed and sent there to convict in such cases, and if we notice their rulings it generally results in that way. The district attorney is sent there to take every advantage of every technicality he can for conviction. The juror is put upon the stand and required to swear that he does not believe polygamy is right—not in that language, but that is the substance—before he can serve.

It is said that that is necessary to his impartiality, and yet the effect of it is that he swears he does not believe that it is right, showing that he is partial on the other side. If he were to swear that he did not believe it was right he would be partial on that side. In other words, in either case if he is an honest man he would hear the evidence and decide according to the evidence and the law as given him by the court; but he is bound to take an oath that he does not believe in polygamy before he can sit on the jury. I have been informed by one whom I believe to be a reliable, truthful gentleman, who has heard some of those trials, that the prosecuting attorney goes one step further occasionally and asks, "Are your sympathies with the prosecution?" and if the juror answers in the affirmative there is very little trouble about taking him. In other words, the courts are organized there to convict.

Hence the present legislation which bears the name of the honorable Senator from Vermont is ample on this question to break up polygamy. There is no use for enacting laws which are in violation of the common law, and which are very questionable at least as to their propriety on principle, to suppress polygamy in Utah. The heads of the church, the president of it, and the leading men of it, I am told, are fugitives and can not be found. The penitentiaries and jails are being filled with those convicted of polygamy. It is obliged to be suppressed and especially with the machinery that we have there now appointed for that purpose, and that sole purpose, for they seem to have very little else to do, and they do their work well and thoroughly. Whether it is exactly well in the sense of a just trial I will not say, but they are certainly carrying out the objects of the legislation. If reports be true, they are giving every doubt against the criminal instead of giving the doubt in his favor. They are certainly not giving him a very fair trial according to the mode of trial in most of the States and Territories.

Therefore I do not think, and I trust the Senate will not think, that it is necessary to break down long and well-established rules of law that have been considered by our ancestry as necessary to the preservation of peace and harmony for the purpose of making the laws more stringent in Utah. They are ample on this question; there is no difficulty about that; and by the way as they are now being enforced polygamy will very soon be a thing of the past there. If it is practiced it will have to be practiced in a manner that nobody knows it, and that no officer of the law and no detective and no spy can find it out. So I do not see the necessity of breaking down a sacred rule of so long standing for the purpose of adding to the legislation which we already have on that subject.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The Senator from Georgia has in my humble opinion—and I speak with some information—done a gross injustice to the judicial and executive establishment of the United States in Utah.

Mr. BROWN. I said nothing about the executive, but the court and its machinery, its officers.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I should be glad to know if the district attorney is not a part of the executive establishment in Utah The Senator spoke of the district attorney by that name.

Mr. BROWN. He is rather an officer of the court.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I say he is an executive officer appointed by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, unless I am greatly mistaken.

Mr. BROWN. The judge is appointed in the same way. Is the judge an executive officer or a judicial officer?

Mr. EDMUNDS. He is a judicial officer, but the district attorney is an executive officer.

Mr. BROWN. The district attorney is his assistant in executing the laws.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I leave my friend from Georgia to have that opinion, if he wishes it, without any further remark of mine; but by whatever name we call it, the Senator from Georgia has done, on the report of a person whom he believes to have been a candid person, a gross injustice. The establishment in Utah has not been sent there for the purpose of persecuting anybody. It has been sent there as every judicial and executive establishment ought to be sent to every State and Territory, so far as the United States is concerned, for the purpose of executing law and administering justice and punishing crime. I hope that is what they are sent to Georgia for, if we can imagine, and I do it with great diffidence, that it is possible any crime could be committed in the State of Georgia.

I have read the verbatim reports of a great many of the polygamy trials in Utah occurring within the last year and the challenges and examinations of persons called on the juries, and I have never seen any such question, or anything like it, as that which the Senator from Georgia states in the Senate of the United States some district attorney has asked a juror whether he was in sympathy with the prosecution; and I do not believe, with great respect to his informant, that any such thing ever occurred.

But it may be rightly stated in this connection that when a juror is called and is examined as to his qualifications as a juror, if there is any doubt either in the mind of the challenging or the other party as to how that juror really stands, and they suspect him of equivocating or hanging back, just as in the cross-examination of a witness, a great many questions are asked which go very far from the real point apparently to testify to the two other jurors who may be the triers, or to the court, as I believe it is in these instances, what the real make-up and composition of that juror's mind is about fair play in the cause that he is to hear. However, I should be willing to offer a large reward, payable not out of the Treasury of the United States but out of my own somewhat slender pocket, for any instance in which a district attorney in Utah has asked a juror whether he was in sympathy with the prosecution. I do not believe it.

Mr. BROWN. I do not care to go over the same ground again, but I have no doubt about the correctness of the statement I have made, though I may have been mistaken.

Mr. CULLOM. I only desire to say a word as to one of the judges of the Territory of Utah. It happens to be my privilege to know the chief-justice there, and I desire to say of that gentleman that he was not an applicant for and that no person was asking his appointment to the position of chief-justice of that Territory, but he was simply willing to take a position in one of the Territories. He is an old judge, a gentleman who was on the circuit bench of the State of Illinois for some eleven years prior to his appointment to the office which he holds in Utah now, which was given to him during the last year of the last national administration, and I know that there is no question as to the purity of his character or as to his ability and impartiality in the administration of justice wherever he may be.

Mr. TELLER. Yesterday, when I was on the floor, the Senator from Illinois asked me if I thought the chief-justice of that Territory had been guilty of any improper conduct. It did not occur to me at the time who the chief-justice was. I had made, as I said then, no accusation against the court; but it occurred to me afterward, on reflection, that he was appointed from Illinois. I had some connection with his appointment, not having any power, of course, to appoint him, but I was consulted; and I am satisfied that the statement made by the Senator from Illinois is entirely correct, that Judge Zane is in every way qualified and has gone to Utah with a very proper spirit. I do not believe myself that he would be guilty of any improper conduct in his court. I am sorry I can not say that of judges who have long since left that bench, but I am willing to say that in defense of Judge Zane if anybody thought I intended to reflect upon him. As to the others, I do not now remember who they are. I have never heard any complaint against them. I do not know who the marshal is, neither do I know who is the United States attorney. I have never intended to reflect upon any of the gentlemen who compose the present force of that court.

Mr. CULLOM. I did not understand the Senator from Colorado to intend any reflection upon any of the judges of the Territory who are now in office there, especially upon the judge referred to. I wish to say further that the present chief-justice, Judge Zane, who was appointed from Illinois, has perhaps tried most of the cases that the Senator from Georgia refers to, and I desire to say to him and to the Senate that some of the cases which are on all fours with all the rest which have been tried involving the question of polygamy have gone to the Supreme Court of the United States, and his decisions and rulings have there been sustained by that court.

Mr. VAN WYCK. I ask the Senate to indulge me only a moment in explanation of what certainly seems to be a very remarkable construction placed upon the statute of Nebraska by the Senator from Vermont. I suppose it is not necessary to offer an apology or to ask anybody's pardon for objecting to what seems to be an obnoxious principle inserted in a meritorious bill. I will say to the Senator that I am willing to go as far as and further than himself in uprooting the system of polygamy in Utah. I would very much prefer to vote for such a measure as was suggested by the Senator from Illinois, to take away political power from the Territory entirely and place it in the hands of the commission which we have there with nothing to do, and give them something to do by placing the political power of the Territory in their hands. I would very much prefer to do that, and I apprehend that is going further than the Senator from Vermont would be willing to go in this matter. Then I think we should reach this difficulty. As I said yesterday, we have been doing this for four years practically with no forward movement, and under the act of 1882 and this bill we shall probably progress four years more with no other results than we have to-day.

The lawmakers of Nebraska supposed that the statute read by the Senator from Vermont was plain, and yet my friend seems to give it a forced construction by propounding an inquiry and himself giving the answer. I understand the theory of the deviation from the common law to be that it is in the interest of society—so the Senator from Vermont says—and that in some cases in the interest of society the husband and wife are allowed to testify one against the other. I apprehend the Senator gives the wrong reason for it. It is not in the interest of society specially, because if that were so why stop? Is it not in the interest of society that a person should swear to the commission of murder as much as to the fact of a marriage solemnization? If in the interest of society, is not the testimony in cases of robbery and arson and all other crimes known from that to murder as much to be protected? If in the interest of society the wife can disclose the matter of a grave crime committed by her husband against the public peace and society, why should it stop?

But then I think the Senator confutes his own idea by saying that in Nebraska and other States they are allowed to testify because it is to reach the personal injury, and he propounded the question to the Senator from Georgia, Is not bigamy a personal injury? If the allowance of the testimony of the husband or wife be put upon the ground of the personal injury from the one to the other, then certainly it is not upon the broad ground of public policy or the interest of society. The latter suggestion of the Senator from Vermont is evidently correct, because in no instance probably where it is detailed in any statute is it applied except where the husband and wife can only redress themselves by being allowed to be witnesses in their own behalf, and that is borne out in the statute of Nebraska itself.

So also in the statute of the State of New York, which expressly provides that it can only be in the case of bigamy, and then the Senator asks, Is not bigamy a personal injury to the wife or husband? It may be so in the case of bigamy, but then the statute provides that only one fact can be proven by the testimony of the accused's marriage partner, only the fact of marriage. So in the case of divorce on the ground of adultery the wife may be a witness or the husband may be a witness, but not a general witness. The statute of the State of New York says such witnesses can only testify to the fact of marriage—nothing more—not in the interest of society, as the Senator says, because, if so, why confine it there? The wife may know the fact of the bigamy, but she can only swear to her own marriage. Why stop there? Society is not protected if the husband or wife knows the true fact which would convict the other, and the statute says that only one fact is to be proven.

So, too, in the case of divorce for adultery, the wife may know the fact that would convict the husband of the gravamen, of the main charge, but the statute keeps her lips sealed, and says in such a case you can only prove the fact of marriage by her testimony, and then the statute provides no further. Her lips are sealed, and yet the Senator says that the break is made in the interest of society, although the witness is stopped by the Legislature right there.

The other point is right, as my friend suggests. It is, undoubtedly, where the personal injury is to the husband or wife. Now mark:

The husband can in no case—

I am reading now from the Nebraska statute to which the Senator referred—

The husband can in no case be a witness against the wife, nor the wife against the husband, except in a criminal proceeding for a crime committed by the one against the other.

"In a criminal proceeding for a crime committed by the one against the other;" and my friend says that bigamy is a personal injury. But that is not the statute of Nebraska. I asked my friend if the statute said "compel," and then he rebuked me for my impatience by desiring that I should wait until he could give a construction which I think the statute nowhere can bear.

The lips of the wife are sealed. The husband can in no case be a witness against the wife or the wife against the husband except in a criminal proceeding by the one against the other. I submit to the Senator if the language is not plain, that it is permissive and not compellable. If the wife comes into court to arraign her husband for assault and battery upon her and she begins the prosecution, if the proceeding is commenced by her, she may be allowed to follow that by her own testimony. It is perfectly plain. She must be the moving instrument in the prosecution against him, in the criminal proceeding, and in such a case only can she be a witness. If society arraigns her husband, if the public authority arraigns her husband for an assault upon herself, then she can not be a witness even if she desires to be. It is only where she is the author, the mover of the criminal proceeding against him, that she is allowed to be a witness.

But they may in all criminal prosecutions be witnesses for each other.

Yet the Senator would claim that the novel, the startling doctrine introduced in this bill is sustained by the statute of Nebraska, which provides, as I have stated, distinctly that in all criminal prosecutions husband and wife may be witnesses against each other. Will the Senator put that language in this bill instead of that which the committee has placed there? That will settle this matter. Will he take the language from the statute of New York and put it in his bill instead of what is there? If he does that, I might be willing to vote for his proposition. Put it upon the ground that it is a new departure, and that the departure is justified by the exigencies of the peculiar situation of things in that Territory; but I protest here that the legislation of every State in this Union, the well-known and recognized principles of the law in every civilized nation under the sun, shall not be stigmatized by a proposition coupling it with the doctrine here enunciated upon the ground that this new doctrine is only the reproduction of that which exists in a majority of the States of this Union.

Mr. BLAIR. I quite agree with the Senator from Vermont when he says that if the statute provides simply in express terms that the husband or the wife shall be a competent witness, and there be no restriction upon the expression, the witness may be compelled to testify by the ordinary processes of compulsion known to the courts. I think it is due to the Senator from Vermont as well as to myself, after all that has been said in regard to the statute of New Hampshire, that I place her statute upon this subject on the record, and I may say that so far as I have had any opportunity of examination this is the broadest statute in the way of liberalizing the common law that I have found anywhere. The sections of the statute of New Hampshire which bear upon the subject are as follows:

SEC. 20. A husband and wife are competent witnesses for or against each other, whether joined as parties or not, in all cases both civil and criminal.

SEC. 21. The preceding section shall not be so construed as to render competent the testimony of a husband or wife for or against each other as to any statement, conversation, letter, or other communication made by either of them to the other or to any other person; nor as to other matters when it appears to the court that the examination of either as a witness in relation thereto would lead to a violation of marital confidence.

This statute has been so limited in its practical application by the discretion of the courts that, as stated yesterday, although this statute has been one of the laws of our State since about 1866, I have never known an instance where in any criminal proceeding the wife has been compelled to testify against the husband in any case whatever, and my colleague [Mr. PIKE], not now on the floor of the Senate, certainly a lawyer of as large practice as any one whom I have ever known at the bar in our State, informs me that he has known of no such instance. The statute has never been so construed, in any criminal proceeding at least, as to compel the husband or the wife to testify against his or her will; and, as will be seen from the exceptions mentioned in the statute itself, there would be but very little ground on which testimony from either of those sources, the husband or the wife, could be drawn for use in a prosecution.

The Senator from Vermont cites this statute and says to the Senate that it is substantially a precedent for the language which is employed in the bill. The language of the bill provides that—

The lawful husband or wife—

I emphasize the word "lawful," because in the discussion yesterday I found that some Senators supposed that this objection was all against the compulsory testifying of those women who were not the wives, but the illicit associates of the Mormons. Let me remind Senators, if there are any who have not read the bill as yet or who do not comprehend what it is all about, that this is a provision that the lawful wife shall be compelled to testify against her will. That is all that is being objected to here. I was about to read the language itself, so that it may appear in connection with that of the statute of our State:

The lawful husband or wife of the person accused shall be a competent witness, and may be called and may be compelled to testify in such proceeding, examination, or prosecution without the consent of the husband or wife, as the case may be; but such witness shall not be permitted to testify as to any confidential statement or communication made by either husband or wife to each other during the existence of the marriage relation.

How much of an exception is that? How much does this proposed statute lack of being one absolutely repealing the common law upon this subject and making the husband and wife witnesses in precisely the same way that they would be if the marriage relation did not exist between them? Whatever the husband has told the wife of an offense of this kind she can not testify to. How much knowledge is a wife likely to acquire from the voluntary communication of the husband in reference to a crime of this description? That is the only exception. The statement of the communication made directly from one party to the other is the only exception. Everything else may be testified to.

Let us see precisely what is the issue raised by the pending amendment. The language of this section, if the amendment should be adopted, would still give the Government the control of the testimony of the husband or the wife whenever either is willing to testify, and all the facts that may be pertinent in the way of evidence for sustaining the prosecution. It gives everything whenever such persons are willing to testify. We might well suppose that if the wife felt upon the whole that she was outraged and it was for her interest to testify in these prosecutions there would be no occasion for anything more than simply a statute which should permit her to do so. That the amendment of the Senator from Georgia proposes to give, to so far modify the common law as in all cases whatever to allow the parties to testify when they are willing to do so. Then what is it that is desirable here? What is it that the Senator from Vermont desires? Simply to compel the lawful wife to testify when she does not want to do so. There is no controversy about anything else. You have all the rest.

Now let us see in what cases a wife is likely not to desire to testify in such a way as to punish the husband who has committed this great wrong upon her. Can we conceive of any instance except where she knows it to be for her personal interest not to punish the husband? We can readily conceive that in that distant Territory, among that pauper-stricken population, as many of them are—for a Mormon is not ordinarily a wealthy man—the lawful wife is entirely dependent upon the personal exertions of the husband for her maintenance and support and for that of her legitimate offspring. If she is not, if she can maintain herself and feels her outrage, is she not likely, under the measure as we propose to have it, to take the stand voluntarily and testify against her husband? But, as I said before, if she is not willing to testify, can it be for any reason except that she feels that, in addition to the wrong the husband has done to her by this wicked association, she herself is called upon to take the stand and by her testimony to become a principal witness in maintaining the prosecution, for she is not the chief witness. They can maintain the prosecution otherwise without this proposed statute, and she is to be compelled, after the injury the husband has already perpetrated upon her, to give the very testimony which may turn her out of doors to starve.

It is that feature alone which is before the Senate, and it is that point alone in the proposed statute to which I object. I do not feel called upon, as I think other Senators do, apparently, to disclaim that I have any sympathy with the Mormons. It never occurred to me that it was necessary in my State or anywhere else to guard against any supposed sympathy I might have with the Mormon Church or the Mormon principle. I want to see it destroyed; but it does seem to me, when there is nothing at issue so far as this section is concerned between the Senator from Vermont and those who object to the first section except the question whether the wife in suffering a great injury shall be obliged by her own testimony to inflict still more, that he might concede that much to those who would like to arrive at the purposes of this bill and yet not be called upon thus to perpetrate an injury upon those unoffending and already long-suffering wives in the Territory of Utah. That is all there is about it.

I think the Senator ought to be willing to modify his bill so far as that is concerned. It is very palpable to everybody that he is entirely wrong in supposing there is a single legislative precedent on the face of the earth for what he purposes to do here. Not one at least has been adduced here.

Mr. BROWN. Yesterday afternoon I called attention to sections 19 and 20 of the bill, section 19 providing a penalty for adultery and the twentieth section for fornication, and I proposed an amendment in this language:

This and the preceding section shall apply as well to so-called Gentiles as to Mormons in the Territory of Utah.

The Senator from Vermont made very light of the idea when I stated that it had been reported in newspapers that the judges in Utah had ruled that the phrase "unlawful cohabitation" in the Edmunds act was intended not to regulate the conduct of Gentiles or of persons other than those who contracted plural marriages, but for the purpose of breaking up polygamy alone. The Senator said that any judge who had made such a ruling ought to be impeached, and I agree with him; I think it would be a proper ground for impeachment. I only spoke then from newspaper statements that I had seen; I did not know whether they were correct or not.

I now wish to give a little more direct authority on that question, and I will give the name of the gentleman. I had a talk with the representative of Utah in the House of Representatives, Mr. CAINE, and he gave me this statement, with authority to state in the Senate that it is so and that he can establish it. I make the statement not as my own, but because I think those people by their representative have a right to bring any facts they choose before the Senate when we are deliberating upon a question of this character. He states the case of a Gentile whose name I can not now recollect, who was living in the Territory of Utah, having a wife and that wife having a sister living with her, and illicit intercourse sprang up between the husband and the sister of the wife; the sister-in-law became a mother and she complained of the wrong that had been done her by her brother-in-law and of the wrong which he had induced her to commit; she went before a United States commissioner and swore out a warrant against him, and the commissioner bound him over to appear at court or before the grand jury; application was then made to Chief-Justice Zane for a writ of habeas corpus, and the chief-justice granted the writ, and on the hearing discharged him, on the ground that the Edmunds act was not intended to regulate matters of that character, but applied only to polygamy or polygamous marriages, or plurality of marriages, and so dismissed him on the writ of habeas corpus. I do not make this statement with any personal knowledge, but because I have been authorized by the representative of the Territory of Utah to state that such a case has occurred there.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I do not know anything about the instance, which of course should not affect our regulations of law, because as I say any judge who decides as has been stated ought to be impeached; but knowing something of the character and legal accomplishments of Judge Zane I feel safe in saying, without knowing anything about the case, that when the papers are got and we find what that case was, the Senator from Georgia will see that the statement of Mr. CAINE is entirely inapplicable to the case which was before that judge, and he will not find any such thing as he states.

Mr. BROWN. If I find that to be the case I shall retract the statement with very great pleasure, for I only stated it because the representative of that Territory desired it to be so stated.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The Senator from Georgia knows just as well as I do that where a man is brought up on a habeas corpus the sole question is whether the paper charges against him are those that are warranted by law. If, for instance, the charge against this man before the commissioner was bastardy, of course it would not come within the statute of 1882. If the charge against him was fornication, it would not come within the statute of 1882; and, unhappily, there is no law in Utah which punishes that particular crime—at least there is none so far as I have been able to find—though we have got it into this bill that we propose to pass. Enough for that.

I wish to say a word in reply to my friend from New Hampshire [Mr. BLAIR]. I think that he does not give quite weight enough to a broader consideration about what is meant by the term "lawful husband or lawful wife," as he ought. I will suppose the case of some of those people out there who have ten wives, as they call them, and ten wives as they are commonly called in the sense of a prosecution for bigamy; that is, there have been ten formal and ceremonious marriages of some kind. The ninth or the tenth so-called wife is called on the stand to testify. She says, "I decline to testify to the fact that I have an establishment, and this man is my husband, and that he lives with me in the relation of husband and wife, because I am his wife." That is the end of it; you can not examine her any more; away she goes. Now, then, if you pass this proposed statute in this form, that the lawful wife shall be a competent witness except in relation to marital communications, then you have the whole range of the entire nine or ten, as the case may be, and no one can get off on the ground that she declares she is the wife of that man; so that the proposition is not so narrow a one as the Senator from New Hampshire seemed to suppose.

Mr. BLAIR. Can not the Senator obtain all he wishes to accomplish by saying that the lawful wife may testify as to the fact of marriage?

Mr. EDMUNDS. No; that will not answer.

Mr. BLAIR. Give an illustration.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I will state to the Senator gladly and frankly why it will not answer if we are really in earnest about this thing. I know we are growing more and more liberal about the marital relation. In one State in this Union the husband and wife may have by the law suits and business relations with each other and may be competent witnesses; in every State in the Union I suppose husband and wife may have suits in equity in regard to property and affairs which will produce just as much ill-feeling as if they were or were not witnesses in these cases, and whether they are or not will depend on the statutes of those States.

If you confine it solely to the fact of marriage you have left out one important element in getting at the real truth in polygamy cases, as is known to anybody who is familiar with the state of society in Utah. The presiding elder or whoever he may be has three wives, I will say; I will take a moderate number. One is located in Salt Lake City, another is located in Ogden, and another at some other town, each with her house and children and a farm, and so on. It would be an important fact, which involves no marital confidence that ought to be considered marital confidence, for the lawful wife, who I will say is the first and true one, living at Salt Lake, in the chain of evidence in a prosecution for polygamy on account of the cohabitation of this man with the woman at Ogden, to be called to the witness stand to prove that for two weeks at a certain named time of the year the man was absent from her house and was out of the city of Salt Lake. That would support the testimony of witnesses which went to show that he was at Ogden and was living at that other house. That is one single illustration of many that might be made. I beg the Senator to believe that the Committee on the Judiciary was not sluggish or negligent or careless about the careful phraseology that we have used in order to get forward with the business that most of us wish to accomplish.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is upon the amendment of the Senator from Georgia [Mr. BROWN], on which the yeas and nays have been ordered.

Mr. COCKRELL. Let the amendment be reported.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 1, line 8, it is proposed to strike out the words "and may be compelled;" in the ninth line, to strike out the word "without" and insert "with," and in the tenth line, after the word "be," to insert the words "who is to be examined;" so as to read:

The lawful husband or wife of the person accused shall be a competent witness, and may be called to testify in such proceeding, examination, or prosecution with the consent of the husband or wife, as the case may be, who is to be examined; but such witness shall not be permitted to testify as to any confidential statement or communication made by either husband or wife to each other during the existence of the marriage relation.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BROWN (when his name was called). I am paired with the honorable Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. PIKE]. I do not see him in the Chamber, and as I do not know how he would vote I withhold my vote.

Mr. PLUMB (when his name was called). I am paired on this question with the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST].

Mr. COCKRELL. I call the attention of the Senator from Kansas to the fact that my colleague [Mr. VEST] informed me that he is paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. MILLER].

Mr. PLUMB. My pair with him was a general one. He is paired specially on this question?

Mr. COCKRELL. So he told me a few moments ago, that he was compelled to be absent and was paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. MILLER]. If present, my colleague would vote "yea" on this amendment and the Senator from New York would vote "nay."

Mr. PLUMB. At the request of the senior Senator from Delaware [Mr. SAULSBURY] I announce my pair with the junior Senator from Delaware [Mr. GRAY].

The roll-call having been concluded, the result was announced—yeas 11, nays 42; as follows:

YEAS—11.

Blackburn,	Eustis,	Saulsbury,	Vance,
Blair,	Hampton,	Stanford,	Van Wyck.
Call,	Morgan,	Teller,

NAYS—42.

Allison,	Dolph,	Ingalls,	Platt,
Beck,	Edmunds,	Jackson,	Pugh,
Berry,	Evarts,	Jones of Arkansas,	Sabin,
Cameron,	Frye,	Logan,	Sawyer,
Chace,	George,	McMillan,	Sherman,
Cockrell,	Gibson,	Manderson,	Spooner,
Coke,	Hale,	Maxey,	Walthall,
Colquitt,	Harris,	Mitchell of Oreg.,	Wilson of Iowa,
Conger,	Harrison,	Mitchell of Pa.,	Wilson of Md.
Cullom,	Hawley,	Morrill,
Dawes,	Hoar,	Payne,

ABSENT—23.

Aldrich,	Gorman,	Mahone,	Ransom,
Bowen,	Gray,	Miller of Cal.,	Riddleberger,
Brown,	Jones of Florida,	Miller of N. Y.,	Sewell,
Butler,	Jones of Nevada,	Palmer,	Vest,
Camden,	Kenna,	Pike,	Voorhees.
Fair,	McPherson,	Plumb,

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. MORGAN. There is a feature in section 12 of the bill that I should like very much to have a better understanding of than I have now. I do not think I understand exactly what is the legal effect of section 12 if we enact it into a law, what its scope is, or what would result from it. Yesterday I called attention to some of the provisions of the statute of the Territory of Utah that this measure is intended to affect. Read in one way, the twelfth section re-enacts a portion of the statute of Utah; read in another way, however, it may not do so; it may have just the reverse effect. I should like very much indeed to have a better understanding, a more clear understanding, of what we are doing than I am able to gather from my own reading of the twelfth section.

We have in the bill fourteen trustees appointed, with a tenure of office of two years and without salary, for the purpose, as I understand, of executing so much of that Territorial law as remains unrepealed. As to what other duties those trustees may have to perform I am not advised by the bill itself except as follows:

And the trustees of said corporation shall annually or oftener make a full report to the Secretary of the Interior, embracing all the property, business affairs, and operations of the said corporation.

That is a new duty imposed, by which this church government is connected directly with the Government of the United States, and as I suppose and as I insist as the result of the bill the intention must be to make the Government of the United States responsible for the operations of that corporation, the Church of the Latter-day Saints.

Another provision, commencing in line 12 of section 12, speaking of the fourteen trustees of the said corporation, is that they—

Shall have and exercise all the powers and functions of trustees and assistant trustees provided for in the laws creating, amending, or continuing the said corporation.

That means, I suppose, the laws that are now in force; but when we come to determine what laws of that corporation are now in force, of course we must consult the preceding statutes of the United States. I wish to call the attention of the Senate to the act of 1862, which has not yet been read, and which the Senate may have omitted to notice.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I referred to it yesterday and stated what it was.

Mr. MORGAN. I said it had not been read. I do not suppose the Senator from Vermont undertook to make a very complete statement of all that that act contained; I am satisfied that he did not; and I want to understand whether we are going to repeal that act or not. I read the second section of the law of July 1, 1862:

That the following ordinance of the provisional government of the State of Deseret, so called, namely: "An ordinance incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints," passed February 8, in the year 1851, and adopted, re-enacted, and made valid by the governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah by an act passed January 19, in the year 1855, entitled "An act in relation to the compilation and revision of the laws and resolutions in force in Utah Territory, their publication and distribution," and all other acts and parts of acts heretofore passed by the said Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah which establish, support, maintain, shield, or countenance polygamy, be, and the same hereby are, disapproved and annulled.

In that act of Congress two classes of legislative enactment by the Territorial Legislature are distinctly included. The first is eo nomine this particular corporation which is by that act annulled. The next class is "all other acts and parts of acts heretofore passed by the said Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah which establish, support, maintain, shield, or countenance polygamy." Both of these descriptions of laws are annulled by the act of 1862. One is annulled by name, and the other is annulled by a description of the characteristics of the law.

I maintain that from the time of the enactment of that law down to the present time there has been no corporation under the act of the Utah Legislature as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. That corporation was abolished by the terms of the act of 1862, and there has been no act to renew it, and there will be no act to renew it until we enact the twelfth section of this bill. The Senate of the United States is to-day engaged in the re-enactment of that law which was repealed in 1862 by an act of Congress.

There is a qualification, a proviso in this act, and let us see whether that proviso restored or re-established anything of the legal organization of the Mormon Church. The proviso reads as follows:

Provided, That this act shall be so limited and construed as not to affect or interfere with the right of property legally acquired under the ordinance heretofore mentioned, nor with the right "to worship God according to the dictates of conscience," but only to annul all acts and laws which establish, maintain, protect, or countenance the practice of polygamy, evasively called spiritual marriage, however disguised by legal or ecclesiastical solemnities, sacraments, ceremonies, consecrations, or other contrivances.

The reservation in that proviso is simply that this church corporation shall hold its property, that the people there shall still have the unabridged right to worship God according to the dictates of conscience; but it was the express and reavowed purpose of the enactment, as stated in this proviso, "to annul all acts and laws which establish, maintain, protect, or countenance the practice of polygamy, evasively called spiritual marriage, however disguised by legal or ecclesiastical solemnities, sacraments, ceremonies, consecrations, or other contrivances." Here, then, was a law which repealed the charter of that church absolutely and by name. The law then reserved to that church corporation the right to hold whatever legal estate they might have acquired, and the right to their members and followers to worship God according to the dictates of conscience; but that Territorial law and all other laws which in any form or shape or manner gave countenance to or support to or protection to the practice of polygamy were annulled. Now, can it be argued in the face of that statute that it was a part of the intention of Congress in its enactment that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints should be maintained in its legal organization if that church in any respect gave countenance to polygamy by any device or contrivance or evasion, for the statute uses these terms to show the breadth and intensity of its meaning?

Congress had no such intention. Congress struck a blow at that chuch for the purpose of breaking up the legal organization then existing under the laws of Utah, which did protect and did countenance and did maintain polygamy by some evasion, by some pretense, in some form or under some circumstances.

Why are we legislating here to-day against the Mormon Church or the Mormon people? It is because they, under the form of an ecclesiastical organization, are systematically and in an organic manner maintaining polygamy as a social institution among the people of Utah. What other motive have we for the passage of this stringent law than the effort to detect and to break down and punish polygamy among the Mormon people, which they insist is an ordinance of God and can be administered as a sacrament of the church?

Here, then, is this law of Congress that abrogates that act of incorporation. It seems to me that there is not a lawyer in Christendom who can read this act of Congress and after that maintain that the church in Utah has any legal organization of any kind whatsoever. In the very act of 1862, which I have read to the Senate, there was this careful undertaking on the part of the legislators then engaged in making it to protect the conscientious rights of religious worship and to preserve to the corporators such acquisitions of property as they might have already made. That is found pervading this bill, and particularly the twelfth section of it. Let the judges of the United States take the law of 1862 and apply it to this corporation, and let it be established to the satisfaction of a court that this corporation is a mere shield and protection and cover for polygamy, and there can be no doubt that by giving effect to the statute the Mormon Church is gone. It was the purpose and intention of that law to wipe it out, but to leave it not as a legal organization, not sustained by the act of the Territorial Legislature of Utah, but to leave it merely as a social combination or organization of men who might, if they chose, worship God according to the dictates of their conscience, it made no difference how bad their consciences might be.

Who has repealed this act of 1862? Who has amended it? Who has ever made the attempt to restore any part of the Territorial law which it annulled until the twelfth section of this act was brought forward, which reads that those laws—

So far as the same may now have legal force and validity, are hereby disapproved and annulled, so far as the same may preclude the appointment by the United States of certain trustees of said corporation as is hereinafter provided.

It then goes on further to provide for—

Fourteen trustees of the said corporation, who shall have and exercise all the powers and functions of trustees and assistant trustees provided for in the laws creating, amending, or continuing the said corporation, which trustees so appointed shall hold their respective offices for the term of two years.

Mr. President, if we understand the purport of this bill, if I understand it at least, I can not read it in any other way than that its effect is, no matter what the purpose may be, to reinstate an act of the Territorial Legislature pro tanto that was repealed in 1862 in express terms. When we say that the laws "incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, so far as the same may now have legal force and validity, are hereby disapproved and annulled so far as the same may preclude the appointment by the United States of certain trustees of said corporation as is hereinafter provided," do we not say those laws, so far as they have any force, shall continue to be the rule for the guidance of the action of the trustees and the rule that shall measure their rights and responsibilities to the church as to the Government; and are we not compelled to take the attitude that these Territorial laws which the act of 1862 completely overturned remain in force to-day for the protection of that Mormon Church in the legal ownership of its property, and not only that, but in the right also which they claimed at that time and under that act of regulating their social affairs by the decrees of the church?

Now we interpose fourteen trustees here. I asked the Senate yesterday to consider, and I have asked the Senator from Vermont, and I repeat to him the question, what are these trustees to do? Are they to be mere dummies to hold the legal title to the land and personal property that is out there? If they are nothing but naked trustees to hold the title, why have fourteen of them? Why could not one man with his successors hold the legal title to ten millions of property as well as fourteen men can do it under the laws of the Territory?

If they are not mere naked trustees, if they have some functions and duties to perform and some powers to execute, let us understand what are those functions and duties and let us understand something about the extent of the powers they are to execute in the name and on behalf of the Government of the United States in the church government. Why was the number fourteen selected? Would there have been any breach of comity, any breach of justice and equity, if we had selected one trustee in place of fourteen, had driven the others out and put all the legal title of this property in his possession? Now, I ask the Senators on this side of the Chamber, my colleague from Alabama, if he will give me his attention for a moment—I am asking the Senators on the Judiciary Committee, my colleague [Mr. PUGH], the Senator from Tennessee [Mr. JACKSON], the Senator from Texas [Mr. COKE], who is not in his place—I desire some of these honorable gentlemen to explain to me why they provide for fourteen trustees in this bill. I want them to inform me what these trustees are going to do after they get into this church government? I want them to inform me what rules and regulations we prescribe in respect of their conduct of the affairs of the Mormon Church? I want to know why it is necessary to have fourteen men in there in place of one or five?

I want to know why this bill is silent as to their salary? I want to know if this committee expect fourteen men to go to Utah, serve two years upon the delicate and disagreeable duty of managing the Mormon Church without any compensation at all? I want to know why this bill does not say that they shall have $3,000 a year or $10,000 a year, or why it does not say that they are entitled to some compensation for this extraordinary service? Sir, if we were appointing a board of trustees to take in charge the affairs of a Baptist general association, or an Episcopal diocese, or a Methodist general conference, I dare say we should commence by prescribing the precise fee they should have for the service that we required of them in the management of one of these great church establishments of the country. In that case we should set out by calling it a church, recognizing it as such, putting our trustees there in the place of the trustees selected by the congregations of the church, and when we did that I suppose we should be able to assign some duties for them. We should know what it was expected they should do after they got there. This bill is as silent, as dumb as an oyster about things of that kind; and the Senate of the United States is to enact this bill upon the trust and confidence that the furore and uproar against Mormonism in the country will justify us in any laxity of proceeding that may be required to get it through.

Sir, I have a right to information on these points. I do not get it from the bill; it is not in the bill; it is not in the law itself; it is only in the bosom of the Committee on the Judiciary, only one of whom has as yet spoken upon this question. They are able and learned lawyers and understand the purport and effect of this bill as well as any men in the world can understand it. I put my question to them and I demand an answer in the name of the people.

Mr. EDMUNDS. You shall have it.

Mr. MORGAN. I will have it. Now, Mr. President, take the District of Columbia, over which we have as much legislative power, I suppose will be conceded, as we have over Utah, for the Constitution of the United States is no more in force here than it is in the Territory of Utah; it applies just as much in the one as in the other. There have been instances in this town where the public institutions have been used as lecture-halls on the Christian Sabbath evening for the purpose of encouraging and promoting the exposition of doctrines which utterly upturn the whole Christian system and reach back to the denial of the divinity of Christ, the existence even of God, the existence of any state of future rewards and punishments upon which we place all the sanction of the oath we administer in our courts. Able and talented and splendid men have opened these public halls in the city of Washington on Sabbath afternoons and evenings, and they have argued against the whole Christian system as one pernicious and full of deception and evil and injury.

I am not complaining that a public clamor has not been made about this. But suppose we should put a bill before this body to confiscate any building in the city of Washington in which such performances attacking the whole body of Christianity were allowed, to forfeit and escheat the property to the Government because that institution was used for the time being for the purpose of upturning, overturning, and destroying the groundwork and basis of all social organization and all Christian organization in this community. We would there strike at an effort to destroy Christianity aimed at the whole body of the institution. The blow we are striking here is at a system which claims to be Christian and recognizes the divinity of Christ, recognizes the Old and New Testaments as being revelations from on high, recognizes the Ten Commandments as being the fundamental basis of all moral law; it recognizes the prophets of old and claims the fulfillment of the prophecies; but it goes a step beyond, and claims that in the New Testament there is a promise of a new revelation, and that that new revelation was to be made to some person in a certain form, and that that revelation has been made and that it has been translated; that the Book of Mormon is a mere addition of one more book to the Testaments of the Scriptures, the Old and the New Testament and the Book of Mormon comprising, as they insist, the whole body of ecclesiastical law and doctrine.

In the promulgation of that they go back, as they say, to one of the ancient practices which were tolerated in the Old Testament, polygamy; and of course there is not a preacher at the sacred desk in the United States who can deny that polygamy was one of the institutions of the Jewish family during the time of Moses and afterward. Nobody can deny it. These men practice polygamy, and they do it, as they claim, under the sanction of a religious authority or privilege. They practice it. We come to Congress and we legislate against them, having power to legislate in the Territories, because they violate one of the precepts of Christianity, admitting the force and effect of all the rest.

Suppose, I repeat, we should have a bill brought in here for the purpose of confiscating the National Theater in the city of Washington because of a Sunday evening it has been employed in the service of a man, it being hired to him, who did not stop where the Mormons do, but who went to the extent of upturning and decrying and ridiculing and trying to prove to sensible men that there is no foundation in Christianity, that it is a myth and a farce, and that all of our great institutions in these great Christian countries are founded upon fables and, worse, upon lies. Then I suppose the honorable Senator from Vermont would rise in his place and say, "Mr. President, this is a corporation that you are attacking here, and I am afraid we can not quite get purchase enough on it unless we should introduce some trustees into that act." It being an act of Congress, or an act granted by municipal authority under the sanction of Congress in the District of Columbia, we have a perfect right to interpolate trustees, and we put them in there; we put in, as the honorable Senator from Vermont said yesterday, seven or fourteen, in order that we may have a majority in the board. Why do you put them in there? Do you put them in there to carry on the purpose of the corporation, to continue it in the use of a man who gets up and preaches of a Sunday evening atheism, or do you put them in there for the purpose of breaking down such a use as that of it? Do you put them in there for the purpose of continuing to open the doors of the National Theater so that an assault may be made upon Christianity in its stronghold by the strongest men in the world, or do you put them in there for the purpose of repressing any such use as that of it? The honorable Senator from Vermont in a case of that sort would say, I suppose, "We put these trustees in here and give them the majority in order that they may repress it, in order that they may break it down." I say in reply to that, Mr. President, if that is so, if our object is to break down the proper use of the authority or power of an institution or a house in the District of Columbia, why do we not say so? Why do we not legislate it down? We find a ship out at sea approaching our shore looking for a safe harbor. We admit the flag that floats over it. We say that is a vessel of some nationality that we are bound to receive, but we desire that that ship shall never enter our shores at all, and in order to prevent it we will put a crew on board, who, pretending to sail it into port, will sail it on a sand-bar and wreck it.

Is that what the Senator from Vermont is trying to do with the Mormon Church? Is he trying to put fourteen men in there, unsworn and without salary and reward, so that they may operate under the charter of that church, and, having the majority, they may succeed at last in wrecking it, or does he really wish to preserve and perpetuate the Mormon Church as a legal organization in the country, and so appoint fourteen trustees to be put in there to help the president and the apostles and the bishops and the deacons and others of the ecclesiastical order in preserving and promulgating and propagating and continuing this Mormon institution? Let us have the purpose. What is the purpose? Is it to destroy the church, or is it to maintain and regulate it? Sir, if it is to maintain and regulate it, I do not understand how the Congress of the United States has got any more power to intrude these trustees into it to maintain and regulate and conduct it than it would have to put trustees or a receiver over the National Theater to prevent it from being used for the purpose of lecturing against the divinity of God and the Saviour or for any other infidel purpose. Why have we not the right in the one case if we have it in the other? Why is it our duty in the one case if it is not in the other? If a church was established under a charter from Congress in this city to-day for the purpose of propagating the doctrines that have been preached on these Sabbath evenings in the National Theater, that church would be considered the enemy of every Christian church in the world, and that act of incorporation would be considered a blight upon the civilization of this age. There is not a Senator on this floor, and there never has been one, who in the face of the present enlightened Christian civilization would rise and offer a bill for the purpose of establishing a church in the city of Washington based upon the doctrines preached by eminent men on Sunday evenings in this city. But suppose that such a thing existed, would anybody hesitate to repeal that charter, to get rid of that evil? I think no one would.

Suppose there was a church here with a board of trustees to receive and hold property to cover up and carry on and promulgate the doctrines to which I have just adverted, would anybody hesitate to destroy it by repealing the charter rather than to work into it a board of trustees for the purpose of conducting it to carry out its original purposes, whatever they may have been?

The doctrines of the Mormon Church are no worse than those I have been referring to. They may be more mischievous in practice, they may involve the personal immorality of men who are connected with the Mormon Church, about which I have nothing to say; but taking the doctrines themselves as being anti-Christian, taking the doctrines themselves as being in hostility to the great foundation-work of our Christian and social system, the doctrines of the Mormon Church are no worse than those that are preached regularly on Sabbath evenings in the National Theater in Washington city, not a particle—nothing like so dangerous, after all.

We have here a law that repeals this charter, and I maintain that if this bill is to be understood by anybody as being an effort in connection with the Mormon Church, it is to be considered as a bill for the maintenance of that church, for its future further conduct. It is a bill to improve the discipline and the administration, and by these means to improve possibly the doctrine and the practice of the Mormons; and it seems to me it is not entitled to any other designation.

It was said yesterday when a similar question was put to the honorable Senator from Vermont that a bill of appropriation would fix the salary of these men, if any salary was to be fixed. Now, let us suppose what the salary will naturally be. You have commissioners out there who, I believe, get $5,000 a year. They perform legal functions in opposition to the existing government of Utah to a certain extent, and their duties are well defined by statute and are not very dangerous and not very difficult. It is fair to suppose that neither of these new trustees would be content to receive less than $5,000. There are fourteen trustees, then, that we may well assume would claim that they were entitled to $5,000 a year apiece, and yet the bill makes no provision at all for them, makes no hint that they are entitled to anything whatever for their services. I suppose, then, the question about the operative force of this bill and its effect is to take place in a debate on an appropriation bill, and not on the measure itself. We pass this bill and the President signs it, and the question arises immediately, What are you going to give your fourteen trustees? Your bill gives them nothing at all. Then you will appeal to the Committee on Appropriations for an allowance not fixed by law, something entirely new, and I can understand from the generosity of the honorable chairman of that committee and the Senate that he would not think about giving them less than $5,000 a year each. That would be a very expensive process, Mr. President, to pay for the mere holding of the legal title to the property of this church. You would expect these new Mugwamp Mormons—for that is about what they would be—men who are commissioned for the purpose of carrying on Mormonism under the name of Christianity—you would expect these new trustees to take some active part in the management of the business of the corporation, collecting its assets, paying out its money, receiving its tithes, conferring with the brethren as to the best means of propagating Mormonism in this country and throughout the world.

Imagine yourself in one of these conclaves, thirteen Mormons and fourteen Gentiles, so as to give the Gentiles the majority, and the question comes up, "What shall we do with the Fejee Islands; we have got a mission there; we can certainly improve the condition of those people even by getting them to accept Mormonism? What shall we do with the people of the Free State of the Congo? They are all polygamists, exactly in a line with Mormonism, but they are Mohammedans, not Christians, as far as they have any religion at all; they are either Mohammedans or they are Pagans; what shall we do with them?" Says a Mormon brother, "I propose to send out Brother Johnson or Brother Smith as a missionary to the Congo, and I propose to give him a salary of about $5,000 a year in order that he can maintain himself in respectability." Says one of the trustees appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate as members of the Mormon Church proper, the legal church, "No, brother, I object; that is too much to pay for the conversion of those negroes; they are half-way converted now; they are all polygamists, and you have got nothing to do now but take them off from Mohammed and turn them over to our Saviour, and they are full Christians. It is too much to pay for that sort of service. You had better give a man $5,000 to go into stubborn old Scotland or into Catholic Ireland or Episcopal England, and there, where he has got to work and suffer, pay the man for his struggles and his efforts in converting those people to Mormonism." Says one of these trustees that we send over there, "But I object to all this; we have no right at all, as I understand it, to appropriate the money of this church to the extension of it." "No right! Ah, well, read the charter, read the act of the Utah Legislature! What was that act intended for except to propagate Mormonism? What are you here for except to assist in its execution? You are associated with these thirteen trustees who were here before; your powers are the same that theirs are. Are you here for the purpose of breaking up and disturbing the church whose trustee you are, made so by law? Is that your purpose here? If so, you are a disgrace to humanity. If so, you ought to be expelled from this board. The Senate of the United States ought never to have confirmed a man under the pretense that he was coming here to execute this law, and the very first thing he does is to refuse to appropriate money that belongs to the church to Christianize Scotland and England and Ireland and bring them into the pale of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints." That is what we are sending these men to do, or else we are putting wolves in sheep's clothing in the midst of the brethren. We are either sending these men there to execute Mormon law and to propagate Mormon institutions or we are sending them there to break down Mormon law and Mormon institutions, one of the two. As I read this bill, it is to propagate, it is to continue.

But, Mr. President, the bill in this respect has its foundation in a sentiment I will admit of generosity or of forbearance, which is not justified by the state of the facts, for I return to the proposition I made yesterday, that under the Constitution of the United States the Territorial law organizing this church in the first instance was a law for the purpose of propagating and covering up and protecting crime under the name of Christian civilization and the Christian church. It is amenable to that criticism; and when some court gets hold of it that has the manhood to struggle with the question as it ought to do, it will be held that the very foundation of that church was inimical to the whole sentiment of Christianity, not in this country alone, but in every other country, and to that sentiment of Christianity which embodies itself in every law that we enact. But, sir, suppose that is not so; we ought at least to leave the question open, and we ought to leave it open so that some court can construe and pronounce upon the effect of the act of 1862, which did repeal eo nomine the charter of that church, not to reinstate and restore it, as we are trying to do here to-day, as it seems to me by indirection, not try to hold it up in some shape and form under which we can interpolate or interject men there to destroy that church while we are pretending on the face of our law to put them there for the purpose of preserving in a certain sort the legal rights its leaders claim they are entitled to. I do not believe they are entitled to them; I believe the courts will hold they are not entitled to them, and for that reason I would propose this amendment. In line 13 I would strike out these words:

Provided for in the laws creating, amending, or continuing said corporation.

And insert in place thereof:

To hold and manage and dispose of the property of said corporation according to law.

So that the sentence will read:

The President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint fourteen trustees of the said corporation, who shall have and exercise all the powers and functions of trustees and assistant trustees to hold and manage and dispose of the property of said corporation according to law.

Then let the courts decide whether the act of 1862 has repealed that charter. If they so decide, these trustees have nothing to do but to hold the title subject to the confiscation provided for in the thirteenth section of this bill. If they decide that that act did not repeal the charter, then the purpose of this bill will be executed by these trustees going on and conducting the Mormon Church in the name and behalf of Congress and the United States for the benefit of the Latter-day Saints.

I am not willing to put these words in this bill that these trustees "shall have and exercise all the powers and functions of trustees and assistant trustees provided for in the laws creating, amending, or continuing the said corporation;" for that clause re-enacts those laws, at least by recognition. I prefer to say that they shall execute such powers as are vested in them by law, and shall hold and dispose of this property in accordance with the law of the land, and let the court say what the law is.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Will the Senator from Alabama send to the desk the amendment proposed by him?

Mr. EDMUNDS. Let it be read.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be read.

The SECRETARY. After the words "assistant trustees," in line 13 of section 12, it is proposed to strike out the words:

Provided for in the laws creating, amending, or continuing the said corporation.

And to insert in lieu:

To hold and manage and dispose of the property of said corporation according to law.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President, the Senator from Alabama said yesterday that he objected to having this section stand in the bill, and now he objects to certain words in the section. I should expect from what he has said that he would object to having anything stand in the bill at all. But looked at in a practical point of view, the part of this bill that is disliked most by the first president of that political hierarchy, not in regard to doctrine or faith, but in regard to breaking up the political hierarchy and seeing that the moneys and goods contributed by Mormons for the advancement of their religion irrespective of the matter of marriage are administered according to law, and are not devoted to the uses of polygamy and to the bringing in by immigration of immigrants from every country of the world of the most ignorant description to keep up its numbers, is the one to which the Senator objects. No doubt that official regards it as the most dangerous of any section in this bill, and therefore I am not surprised—no, I do not say that, Mr. President, because stating it in that form would imply a reflection on my friend, which I do not mean to make; but I will say that I should have expected that when it came down to the critical point of this political hierarchy undertaking to get out of the bill the thing that was most dangerous to it as such it would have attacked this twelfth section.

My friend says in defense of the faith of these people that it is fortified by a great many precedents; that is, the polygamists' faith. I do that people injustice when I say "the faith of these people." It is not the faith of a quarter of the people who call themselves Mormons who live in Utah now, according to my information, and therefore it would be unjust to say that it is the faith of these people. A large number of that people believe that the polygamous revelation, so called, is utterly spurious and a fraud invented by Brigham Young, together with his associates, to cover up his disposition to imitate the patriarchs and have a very considerable number of wives. I wish to have read on that point, although it is not very germane to this business question, but it is well to go into the RECORD for the information of all the other people in the United States, this new revelation of 1852, or whatever the time, which is in the paper that I send to the Chair, word for word, on the subject of polygamy, and the argument against it, the protest against it of one of the most eminent of the non-polygamists themselves, a clergyman of that church and who is now a clergyman of the Reformed Mormon Church, who believes this polygamous revelation to have been utterly spurious and a fraud. I present it in order that anybody who reads the RECORD, which goes everywhere, may see exactly what this new revelation is.

I do not know perhaps that I ought to ask that the time of the Senate be taken up by having it read. If there be no objection I ask that it be printed in connection with my remarks without reading, although I know that is not a very good practice, because members might wish to comment on it; but if there be unanimous consent to save the time of the Senate I will ask that.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Vermont asks unanimous consent of the Senate to have printed in the RECORD as part of his remarks a paper that he has sent to the desk. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and that order will be made.

The document is as follows:

THE POLYGAMIC REVELATION.

Revelation on the Eternity of the Marriage Covenant, including Plurality of Wives; presented by Brigham Young to the Church in Utah, August 29, 1852.

1. Verily, thus saith the Lord unto you, my servant Joseph, that inasmuch as you have inquired of my hand, to know and understand wherein I, the Lord, justified my servants Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; as also Moses, David and Solomon, my servants, as touching the principle and doctrine of their having many wives and concubines:

2. Behold! and lo, I am the Lord, thy God, and will answer thee as touching this matter:

3. Therefore, prepare thy heart to receive and obey the instructions which I am about to give unto you; for all those who have this law revealed unto them must obey the same;

4. For behold! I reveal unto you a new and everlasting covenant; and if ye abide not that covenant, then are ye damned; for no one can reject this covenant, and be permitted to enter into my glory;

5. For all who will have a blessing at my hands, shall abide the law which was appointed for that blessing, and the conditions thereof, as were instituted from before the foundation of the world:

6. And as pertaining to the new and everlasting covenant, it was instituted for the fullness of my glory; and he that receiveth a fullness thereof, must and shall abide the law, or he shall be damned, saith the Lord God.

7. And verily I say unto you, that the conditions of this law are these: All covenants, contracts, bonds, obligations, oaths, vows, performances, connections, associations, or expectations, that are not made, and entered into, and sealed, by the Holy Spirit of promise, of him who is anointed, both as well for time and for all eternity, and that too most holy, by revelation and commandment through the medium of mine anointed, whom I have appointed on the earth to hold this power (and I have appointed unto my servant Joseph to hold this power in the last days, and there is never but one on the earth at a time, on whom this power and the keys of this Priesthood are conferred), are of no efficacy, virtue or force, in and after the resurrection from the dead; for all contracts that are not made unto this end, have an end when men are dead.

8. Behold! mine house is a house of order, saith the Lord God, and not a house of confusion.

9. Will I accept of an offering, saith the Lord, that is not made in my name!

10. Or will I receive at your hands that which I have not appointed!

11. And will I appoint unto you, saith the Lord, except it be by law, even as I and my Father ordained unto you, before the world was!

12. I am the Lord thy God, and I give unto you this commandment, that no man shall come unto the Father but by me, or by my word, which is my law, saith the Lord.

13. And everything that is in the world, whether it be ordained of men, by thrones, or principalities, or powers, or things of name, whatsoever they may be, that are not by me, or by my word, saith the Lord, shall be thrown down, and shall not remain after men are dead, neither in nor after the resurrection, saith the Lord your God;

14. For whatsoever things remain, are by me; and whatsoever things are not by me, shall be shaken and destroyed.

15. Therefore, if a man marry him a wife in the world, and he marry her not by me, nor by my word; and he covenant with her so long as he is in the world, and she with him, their covenant and marriage are not of force when they are dead, and when they are out of the world; therefore, they are not bound by any law when they are out of the world;

16. Therefore, when they are out of the world, they neither marry, nor are given in marriage; but are appointed angels in heaven, which angels are ministering servants, to minister for those who are worthy of a far more, and an exceeding, and an eternal weight of glory;

17. For these angels did not abide my law, therefore they can not be enlarged, but remain separately and singly, without exaltation, in their saved condition, to all eternity, and from henceforth are not Gods, but are angels of God, forever and ever.

18. And again, verily I say unto you, if a man marry a wife, and make a covenant with her for time and for all eternity, if that covenant is not by me, or by my word, which is my law, and is not sealed by the Holy Spirit of promise, through him whom I have annointed and appointed unto this power—then it is not valid, neither of force when they are out of the world, because they are not joined by me, saith the Lord, neither by my word; when they are out of the world, it can not be received there, because the angels and the Gods are appointed there, by whom they can not pass; they can not, therefore, inherit my glory, for my house is a house of order, saith the Lord God.

19. And again, verily I say unto you, if a man marry a wife by my word, which is my law, and by the new and everlasting covenant, and it is sealed unto them by the Holy Spirit of promise, by him who is annointed, unto whom I have appointed this power, and the keys of this Priesthood; and it shall be said unto them, ye shall come forth in the first resurrection; and if it be after the first resurrection, in the next resurrection; and shall inherit thrones, kingdoms, principalities, and powers, dominions, all heights and depths—then shall it be written in the Lamb's Book of Life, that he shall commit no murder whereby to shed innocent blood, and if ye abide in my covenant, and commit no murder whereby to shed innocent blood, it shall be done unto them in all things whatsoever my servant hath put upon them, in time, and through all eternity, and shall be of full force when they are out of the world; and they shall pass by the angels, and the Gods, which are set there, to their exaltation and glory in all things, as hath been sealed upon their heads, which glory shall be a fullness and a continuation of the seeds forever and ever.

20. Then shall they be Gods, because they have no end; therefore shall they be from everlasting to everlasting, because they continue; then shall they be above all, because all things are subject unto them. Then shall they be Gods, because they have all power, and the angels are subject unto them.

21. Verily, verily I say unto you, except ye abide my law, ye can not attain to this glory;

22. For strait is the gate, and narrow the way that leadeth unto the exaltation and continuation of the lives, and few there be that find it, because ye receive me not in the world, neither do ye know me.

23. But if ye receive me in the world, then shall ye know me, and shall receive your exaltation, that where I am, ye shall be also.

24. This is eternal lives, to know the only wise and true God, and Jesus Christ, whom he hath sent. I am he. Receive ye, therefore, my law.

25. Broad is the gate, and wide the way that leadeth to the deaths, and many there are that go in thereat; because they receive me not, neither do they abide in my law.

26. Verily, verily I say unto you, if a man marry a wife according to my word, and they are sealed by the Holy Spirit of promise, according to mine appointment, and he or she shall commit any sin or transgression of the new and everlasting covenant whatever, and all manner of blasphemies, and if they commit no murder, wherein they shed innocent blood—yet they shall come forth in the first resurrection, and enter into their exaltation; but they shall be destroyed in the flesh, and shall be delivered unto the buffetings of Satan unto the day of redemption, saith the Lord God.

27. The blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, which shall not be forgiven in the world, nor out of the world, is in that ye commit murder, wherein ye shed innocent blood, and assent unto my death, after ye have received my new and everlasting covenant, saith the Lord God; and he that abideth not this law, can in no wise enter into my glory, but shall be damned, saith the Lord.

28. I am the Lord thy God, and will give unto thee the law of my Holy Priesthood, as was ordained by me, and my Father before the world was.

29. Abraham received all things, whatsoever he received, by revelation and commandment, by my word, saith the Lord, and hath entered into his exaltation, and sitteth upon his throne.

30. Abraham received promises concerning his seed and of the fruit of his loins—from whose loins ye are namely, my servant Joseph—which were to continue so long as they were in the world; and as touching Abraham and his seed, out of the world they should continue; both in the world and out of the world should they continue as innumerable as the stars; or, if ye were to count the sand upon the seashore, ye could not number them.

31. This promise is yours, also, because ye are of Abraham, and the promise was made unto Abraham; and by this law are the continuation of the works of my Father, wherein he glorifieth himself.

32. Go, ye, therefore, and do the works of Abraham; enter ye into my law, and ye shall be saved.

33. But if ye enter not into my law ye can not receive the promise of my Father, which he made unto Abraham.

34. God commanded Abraham, and Sarah gave Hagar to Abraham to wife. And why did she do it? Because this was the law, and from Hagar sprang many people. This, therefore, was fulfilling, among other things, the promises.

35. Was Abraham, therefore, under condemnation? Verily, I say unto you, Nay; for I, the Lord, commanded it.

36. Abraham was commanded to offer his son Isaac; nevertheless, it was written, thou shalt not kill. Abraham, however, did not refuse, and it was accounted unto him for righteousness.

37. Abraham received concubines, and they bare him children, and it was accounted unto him for righteousness, because they were given unto him, and he abode in my law, as Isaac also, and Jacob did none other things than that which they were commanded; and because they did none other things than that which they were commanded, they have entered into their exaltation, according to the promises, and sit upon thrones, and are not angels, but are Gods.

38. David also received many wives and concubines, as also Solomon and Moses my servants; as also many others of my servants, from the beginning of creation until this time; and in nothing did they sin, save in those things which they received not of me.

39. David's wives and concubines were given unto him, of me, by the hand of Nathan, my servant, and others of the Prophets who had the keys of this power; and in none of these things did he sin against me, save in the case of Uriah and his wife; and, therefore he hath fallen from his exaltation, and received his portion; and he shall not inherit them out of the world; for I gave them unto another, saith the Lord.

40. I am the Lord thy God, and I gave unto thee, my servant Joseph, an appointment, and restore all things; ask what ye will, and it shall be given unto you according to my word:

41. And as ye have asked concerning adultery—verily, verily I say unto you, if a man receiveth a wife in the new and everlasting covenant, and if she be with another man, and I have not appointed unto her by the holy anointing, she hath committed adultery, and shall be destroyed.

42. If she be not in the new and everlasting covenant, and she be with another man, she has committed adultery.

43. And if her husband be with another woman, and he was under a vow, he hath broken his vow, and hath committed adultery.

44. And if she has not committed adultery, but is innocent, and hath not broken her vow, and she knoweth it, and I reveal it unto you, my servant Joseph, then shall you have power, by the power of my Holy Priesthood, to take her, and give her unto him that hath not committed adultery, but hath been faithful; for he shall be made ruler over many;

45. For I have conferred upon you the keys and power of the Priesthood, wherein I restore all things, and make known unto you all things in due time.

46. And verily, verily I say unto you, that whatsoever you seal on earth, shall be sealed in heaven; and whatsoever you bind on earth, in my name, and by my word, saith the Lord, it shall be eternally bound in the heavens; and whosesoever sins you remit on earth shall be remitted eternally in the heavens; and whosesoever sins you retain on earth, shall be retained in heaven.

47. And again, verily I say, whomsoever you bless, I will bless, and whomsoever you curse, I will curse, saith the Lord; for I, the Lord, am thy God.

48. And again, verily I say unto you, my servant Joseph, that whatsoever you give on earth, and to whomsoever you give any one on earth, by my word, and according to my law, it shall be visited with blessings, and not cursings, and with my power, saith the Lord, and shall be without condemnation on earth, and in heaven;

49. For I am the Lord thy God, and will be with thee even unto the end of the world, and through all eternity; for verily, I seal upon you your exaltation, and prepare a throne for you in the kingdom of my Father, with Abraham your father.

50. Behold, I have seen your sacrifices, and will forgive all your sins; I have seen your sacrifices, in obedience to that which I have told you; go, therefore, and I make a way for your escape, as I accepted the offering of Abraham, of his son Isaac.

51. Verily, I say unto you, a commandment I give unto mine handmaid Emma Smith, your wife, whom I have given unto you, that she stay herself, and partake not of that which I commanded you to offer unto her; for I did it, saith the Lord, to prove you all, as I did Abraham; and that I might require an offering at your hand, by covenant and sacrifice:

52. And let mine handmaid, Emma Smith, receive all those that have been given unto my servant Joseph, and who are virtuous and pure before me; and those who are not pure, and have said they were pure, shall be destroyed, saith the Lord God:

53. For I am the Lord thy God, and ye shall obey my voice; and I give unto my servant Joseph, that he shall be made ruler over many things, for he hath been faithful over a few things, and from henceforth I will strengthen him.

54. And I command mine handmaid, Emma Smith, to abide and cleave unto my servant Joseph, and to none else. But if she will not abide this commandment, she shall be destroyed, saith the Lord; for I am the Lord thy God, and will destroy her, if she abide not in my law;

55. But if she will not abide this commandment, then shall my servant Joseph do all things for her, even as he hath said; and I will bless him and multiply him, and give unto him an hundred-fold in this world, of fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters, houses and lands, wives and children, and crowns of eternal lives in the eternal worlds.

56. And again, verily I say, let mine handmaid forgive my servant Joseph his trespasses; and then shall she be forgiven her trespasses, wherein she has trespassed against me; and I, the Lord thy God, will bless her, and multiply her, and make her heart to rejoice.

57. And again, I say, let not my servant Joseph put his property out of his hands, lest an enemy come and destroy him; for Satan seeketh to destroy; for I am the Lord thy God, and he is my servant; and behold! and lo, I am with him, as I was with Abraham, thy father, even unto his exaltation and glory.

58. Now, as touching the law of the Priesthood, there are many things pertaining thereunto.

59. Verily, if a man be called of my Father, as was Aaron, by mine own voice, and by the voice of him that sent me: and I have endowed him with the keys of the power of this Priesthood, if he do anything in my name, and according to my law, and by my word, he will not commit sin, and I will justify him.

60. Let no one, therefore, set on my servant Joseph; for I will justify him; for he shall do the sacrifice which I require at his hands, for his transgressions, saith the Lord your God.

61. And again, as pertaining to the law of the Priesthood: If any man espouse a virgin, and desire to espouse another, and the first give her consent; and if he espouse the second, and they are virgins, and have vowed to no other man, then is he justified: he can not commit adultery, for they are given unto him; for he can not commit adultery with that that belongeth unto him and to no one else;

62. And if he have ten virgins given unto him by this law, he can not commit adultery, for they belong to him, and they are given unto him, therefore is he justified.

63. But if one or either of the ten virgins, after she is espoused, shall be with another man; she has committed adultery, and shall be destroyed; for they are given unto him to multiply and replenish the earth, according to my commandment, and to fulfill the promise which was given by my Father before the foundation of the world; and for their exaltation in the eternal worlds, that they may bear the souls of men; for herein is the work of my Father continued, that he may be glorified.

64. And again, verily, verily I say unto you, if any man have a wife who holds the keys of this power, and he teaches unto her the law of my Priesthood, as pertaining to these things, then shall she believe, and administer unto him, or she shall be destroyed, saith the Lord your God, for I will destroy her; for I will magnify my name upon all those who receive and abide in my law.

65. Therefore, it shall be lawful in me, if she receive not this law, for him to receive all things, whatsoever I, the Lord his God, will give unto him, because she did not administer unto him according to my word; and she then becomes the transgressor; and he is exempt from the law of Sarah, who administered unto Abraham according to the law, when I commanded Abraham to take Hagar to wife.

66. And now, as pertaining to this law, verily, verily, I say unto you, I will reveal more unto you, hereafter; therefore, let this suffice for the present. Behold, I am Alpha and Omega. Amen.

The foregoing document needs but to be read to be condemned; but from a true Mormon standpoint it is especially sacrilegious; also false and corrupt, as will appear from the following:

The fourth paragraph totally ignores the gospel, with its faith, repentance, baptism, godly walk and conversation as necessary to salvation by stating:

"I reveal unto you a new and an everlasting covenant; and if ye abide not that covenant, then are ye damned; for no one can reject this covenant, and be permitted to enter into my glory; * * it was instituted for the fullness of my glory; and he that receiveth a fullness thereof, must and shall abide the law, or he shall be damned, saith the Lord God."

The object of this revealment is clearly stated in the first paragraph, showing how the Lord "justified" his "servants David and Solomon," "touching the principle and doctrine of their having many wives and concubines." That is to say: If a man be so liberally constructed that he can satisfy the amorous demand of "many wives (?) and concubines," he is to receive as a reward therefor a glory which passes him "by the angels and the gods," as provided in paragraph 19; while the poor fellow not so "liberally constructed" has no hope of reaching such an exalted position, as he is incompetent to carry out the intent and genius of the scheme, as made and provided in paragraph 62, "ten virgins" proving entirely too much for him.

And now for further contrast. I quote from a revelation in the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, received February 16, 1832:

"And again, we bear record for we saw and heard, and this is the testimony of the gospel of Christ, concerning them who come forth in the resurrection of the just: they are they who received the testimony of Jesus, and believed on his name, and were baptized after the manner of his burial, being buried in the water in his name, and this according to the commandment which he has given, that, by keeping the commandments, they might be washed and cleansed from all their sins, and receive the Holy Spirit by the laying on of the hands of him who is ordained and sealed unto this power; and who overcome by faith, and are sealed by the Holy Spirit of promise, which the Father sheds forth upon all those who are just and true; they are they who are the Church of the First Born; they are they into whose hands the Father has given all things; they are they who are priests and kings, who have received of his fullness and of his glory, and are priests of the Most High after the order of Melchizedek, which was after the order of Enoch, which was after the order of the only begotten Son; wherefore as it is written, they are gods, even the sons of God; wherefore all things are theirs, whether life or death, or things present, or things to come, all are theirs, and they are Christ's, and Christ is God's; and they shall overcome all things; wherefore let no man glory in man, but rather let him glory in God, who shall subdue all enemies under his feet; these shall dwell in the presence of God and his Christ forever and ever; these are they whom he shall bring with him, when he shall come in the clouds of heaven, to reign on the earth over his people; these are they who shall have part in the first resurrection; these are they who shall come forth in the resurrection of the just; these are they who are come unto Mount Zion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly place, the holiest of all; these are they who have come to an innumerable company of angels; to the general assembly and the Church of Enoch, and of the First Born; these are they whose names are written in heaven, where God and Christ are the judge of all; these are they who are just men made perfect through Jesus the mediator of the new covenant, who wrought out this perfect atonement through the shedding of his own blood; these are they whose bodies are celestial, whose glory is that of the sun, even the glory of God the highest of all; whose glory the sun of the firmament is written of as being typical."

And again, in a revelation given December 27, 1832, paragraphs 1, 2:

"Wherefore I now send upon you another Comforter, even upon you, my friends, that it may abide in your hearts, even the Holy Spirit of promise. * * * This Comforter is the promise which I give unto you of eternal life, even the glory of the Celestial Kingdom; which glory is that of the Church of the First Born, even of God, the HOLIEST OF ALL, through Jesus Christ, his Son."

Mormons claim to indorse these revelations as of a divine character; therefore comment upon these quotations is unnecessary, as all who read may know that in this case, certainly, it is impossible to serve "two masters." But in order to discriminate beyond the possibility of a doubt between Mormonism proper and this blasphemous sheet called a revelation, I quote from a revelation received in March, 1831, paragraphs 2, 3:

"Wherefore I say unto you, that I have sent unto you mine Everlasting Covenant, even that which was from the beginning, and that which I have promised I have so fulfilled, and the nations of the earth shall bow to it:" to wit, "Believe on the name of the Lord Jesus, who was on the earth and is to come, the beginning and the end; repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ, according to the holy commandment, for the remission of sins, and whoso doeth this, shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. And again, I say unto you, that whoso forbiddeth to marry, is not ordained of God, for marriage is ordained of God unto man; wherefore it is lawful that he should have ONE WIFE, and they twain shall be one flesh, and all this that the earth might answer the end of its creation; and that it might be filled with the measure of man, according to his creation before the world was made."

In this we are taught that God had then revealed his "everlasting covenant," which was simply the gospel of Christ; and a part of that covenant was to people the earth through marriage ordained of God, in which man receives one wife, and only one, as that is stated as being in harmony with the law of his creation "before the world was made."

Again, in a revelation given February, 1831, paragraph 7, the church was told:

"Thou shalt love thy wife with all thy heart, and shalt cleave unto her and NONE else, and he that looketh upon a woman (other than his wife) to lust after her, shall deny the faith, and shall not have the spirit; and if he repents not, he shall be cast out."

And in paragraph 5, the church was commanded thus:

"The Elders, Priests, and Teachers, of this Church shall teach the principles of my gospel, which are in the Bible and the Book of Mormon, in which is the fullness of the gospel."

Now it certainly is obvious that whatever contained a fullness was complete, and to attempt to add to a fullness would be considered supererogant and futile; and as the Book of Mormon is said to contain that "fullness," and the officers by special revelation enjoined to teach it; therefore I quote it as law to the Mormon Church, for it was and is the thesis upon which the whole superstructure rests; and if it be disregarded, or abrogated as law, then the church as organized upon it as the new revelation, must necessarily cease to exist. At page 116, European edition, please read:

"For behold, thus saith the Lord, this people begin to wax in iniquity; they understand not the Scriptures; for they seek to excuse themselves in committing whoredoms, because of the things which were written concerning David and Solomon his son. Behold David and Solomon truly had many wives and concubines, which thing was abominable before me, saith the Lord; wherefore, thus saith the Lord, I have led this people forth out of the land of Jerusalem, by the power of mine arm, that I might raise up unto me a righteous branch from the fruit of the loins of Joseph. Wherefore, I, the Lord God, will not suffer that this people shall do like unto them of old. Wherefore, my brethren, hear me, and hearken to the word of the Lord: For there shall not any man among you have save it be ONE WIFE, and concubines he shall have none; for I the Lord God delighteth in the chastity of woman."

This should forever settle the question, and fully satisfy all people that polygamy is no part of Mormonism; and indeed can not be. No more so than it is a part of Methodism, or Presbyterianism, or still more properly speaking, that because forsooth they affirm the Bible as divine, they do not necessarily affirm the history which tells of the practices of David and Solomon as examples for us to imitate.

And further; this pretended revelation claims to have been received July 12, 1843. Now whether it was, or was not, it is not my intention here to discuss; but to silence the tongue of every Mormon who claims for it divinity, and especially those who were living at that date, and thus claim it is only necessary to quote in proof the preamble and marriage contract, used and indorsed by the church as early as 1835, and republished under the régime of Brigham Young, one year after Smith's death at Nauvoo, Ill., in 1845, and sent out as an indemnification and safeguard against the crime of polygamy to all who should unite with the church, and indeed the only marriage covenant used by that faction of the church under Brigham Young et al. until the year 1852, which is as follows:

"Inasmuch as this Church of Christ has been reproached with the crimes of fornication and polygamy: we declare that we believe that one man should have one wife, and one woman but one husband, except in case of death, when either is at liberty to marry again."

CONTRACT: "You both MUTUALLY agree to be each other's companion, husband and wife, observing the legal rights belonging to this condition; that is, keeping yourselves wholly for each other, and from all others, during your lives."

And when the parties have assented to this contract, they are pronounced "husband and wife."

I appeal to the world in support and vindication of the claim that polygamy is not and can not be made a part of Mormonism proper; that they are separately and distinctly apart, being directly in opposition to each other. The practice of polygamy in Utah is a blotch upon the escutcheon of human progress; and a crime under the law, both divine and human; the continuation or suppression of that practice, and the responsibility thereof, must rest with the United States Government. Will they allow it to continue? If so, then in the name of justice and humanity I ask that the thousands and thousands of good citizens, loyal to this Government, who are Mormons, but anti-polygamists, be relieved from the odium now cast upon them because of the evil practices of those who adhere to polygamy as a part of their faith and are denominated Mormons.

Having been born and raised in the Mormon Church, and knowing whereof I speak, and being a representative of the Reorganized Church of Christ of Latter-day Saints, who are anti-polygamists, I ask for them that the line of demarcation be fully drawn, and they fully relieved from the curse and stench of polygamy, for the Book of Mormon, from which the word Mormonism is derived, declares it to be an "abomination."

Z. H. GURLEY.

PLEASANTON, IOWA, 8th Jan., 1882.

Printed at the True Latter-day Saints' Herald Office, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Now, Mr. President, I wish to speak to the point of this twelfth section. My distinguished friend from Alabama says that it revives and continues a corporation that had been abolished by the act of 1862. Yesterday he spoke of this corporation as being continued and existing by authority of the Legislature of Utah, and he wished to abolish the whole corporation, and moved an amendment which got a much larger support than I should have expected it to get if Senators voting for it understood the situation as well as the members on the Judiciary Committee think they do.

Mr. MORGAN. The Senator will allow me. I did say that on the assumption that the Committee on the Judiciary, in the language of the twelfth section, as I understand it, assumed that the corporation was in existence.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Yes, but the Senator forgot to say that he did it on that assumption.

Mr. MORGAN. It was not necessary to say it then.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The Committee on the Judiciary explored this subject and they saw that some eminent and ingenious man might suggest that the act of 1862 had really got rid of this corporation, notwithstanding the fact that for twenty-four years since that time it has continued to exist and has been recognized, and so they carefully put into this twelfth section the provision:

That the acts of the Legislative Assembly of Utah incorporating, continuing, or providing for the corporation known as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the ordinance of the so-called General Assembly of the State of Deseret incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, so far as the same may now have legal force and validity, are hereby disapproved and annulled, so far as the same may preclude the appointment by the United States of certain trustees of said corporation as is hereinafter provided.

Mr. MORGAN. Now, will the honorable Senator object if I ask him to define what is meant by that phrase "so far as the same may now have legal effect?"

Mr. EDMUNDS. I would have stated that if the Senator had waited.

Mr. MORGAN. I beg pardon for interfering, then.

Mr. EDMUNDS. It was for the purpose of obviating any criticism or doubt or difficulty that might exist in the minds of Senators in regard to our putting an affirmative seal upon the present existence of that corporation, growing out of the possibility of an ingenious argument such as my friend has made in support of the suggestion that the corporation had been abolished by the act of 1862. That is to say, Congress, in passing this section, does not admit or affirm or concede that any law now in force recognizes that corporation, but it takes it as it finds it, either a corporation existing by force of law or a concern existing de facto, as it has existed for twenty-five years since that time. It deals with the situation as it is, and does not leave it open to the splitting of hairs on the question of whether the act of 1862 repealed it or not.

Mr. MORGAN. Let me interrupt the Senator, as I am asking for information. Is it the opinion of the distinguished chairman of the Committee on the Judiciary and of the committee that that church is a de jure legal establishment, or is it a de facto institution?

Mr. EDMUNDS. I do not know whether the Committee on the Judiciary has any opinion on that point or not. It took careful pains to provide that whatever we did now should not prejudice that question either way.

Mr. MORGAN. You put in trustees for the execution of the laws creating it.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I beg your pardon. We only put in the trustees to execute such laws as may exist; but we put them into that concern and we give them the majority control of the money and assets and property of that concern, which is totally separate from the church part of it. These trustees have nothing to do with church government or discipline; they have no control over or influence upon any part of the faith or doctrine of the church, and we do that upon the universally recognized principle that we would not undertake to interfere with anybody's faith or doctrine or worship. We take hold of that single section of the act of the State of Deseret, as it called itself, and the Territorial Assembly of Utah, which relates purely to business and temporal affairs. No one of these trustees and assistant trustees now under that law, supposing it to be in force, has the slightest control or influence over any part of the operations of the church as a church as to matters of doctrine and discipline and worship as it is understood among men.

Mr. MORGAN. How about sending money to convert the negroes?

Mr. EDMUNDS. I shall come to that in a minute if you have patience, as I trust you have.

Mr. MORGAN. I beg pardon of the Senator. I thought the Senator had forgotten it.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I have not forgotten a good deal that I have yet to say. I hope not to trespass on the time of the Senate.

Mr. MORGAN. I should be much obliged to the Senator if he would, after all, give the Senate the benefit of his opinion whether that church is a legal organization there now, or is merely a de facto organization.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I am perfectly willing to give the Senator the benefit of my opinion, but I am not authorized to give the opinion of the Committee on the Judiciary, because we did not take any formal vote on that question. We thought it quite unnecessary in view of the careful language we inserted, which did not commit us to any conclusion on that proposition, but I am quite willing to give my opinion, and I should be pretty safe in saying that it was the opinion of all the other gentlemen who then composed the committee and now compose the committee, as far as they have examined it, and that is, that it is perfectly plain, with great respect to my friend from Alabama, that this act of 1862, like a great many other acts of Congress, set out with the proposition he set out with yesterday, and that was to abolish the corporation entirely, and to leave the anti-polygamous Mormons destroyed in their church organization and in all their corporate means of carrying on their faith, doctrine, and worship, and taking care of their church, as well as the polygamous Mormons. That was the outset of the proposition, and so it starts off bravely and fairly to do that; but Congress in one House as the other—I have not looked up the history of the legislation, but from our experience we can see how it would have happened naturally—Congress on a little reflection began to see that that was violating a principle which it would not be safe or wise or right to violate, and accordingly in one House or the other there was put in a proviso (which used to be in those days the favorite way of making a bill very much limited from what it was in the beginning) which declared that the only force and effect of this act should be that it should be so limited and "construed as not to affect or interfere with the right of property legally acquired under the ordinance heretofore mentioned, nor with the right 'to worship God according to the dictates of conscience' "—quoted out of the act of incorporation—"but only"—and here you get all there is in the act in point of law, in my opinion—"but only"—the strongest possible word—"but only to annul all acts and laws which establish, maintain, protect, or countenance the practice of polygamy evasively called spiritual marriage," &c.

Then in order to go further and to stop this political accumulation of property for the purposes of this political hierarchy it adds another section:

> That it shall not be lawful for any corporation or association for religious or charitable purposes to acquire or hold real estate in any Territory of the United States during the existence of the Territorial government of a greater value than $50,000 under the name or pretense of any religious corporation.

And then they added a proviso that it should not interfere with the amount of property then acquired.

So, then, when you take this proviso, which is all that there is in the act, which declares that it shall only be construed as operating upon the subject of marriage, and the succeeding provision that everything above $50,000 shall be forfeited and escheated to the United States, but that it shall not touch property already acquired, but shall touch anything more that they get, it is perfectly plain to my mind that the Congress of the United States did not interfere or intend to interfere with the existence of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints as a religious corporation for purposes of worship and doctrine, and that it intended to strike at what exists in the third section of this charter, which I will not take time to read over again, it has been referred to so often, which did provide among the powers of the church that they should have power to regulate and really to make laws concerning marriage, so that they could provide that a man must have fifty wives or whatever other number they saw fit. That it did abolish, and it did not intend to do anything more, on this second thought, which took this act, intended in its first section to be so very sweeping and exterminating, and brought it down to what it is; that the only thing meant was to get rid of the right to regulate marriages in this church, and to limit the accumulation of its property to $50,000, except what it had already got. That is the way it stands.

But however that may be, the Committee on the Judiciary determined not to leave anybody the right to go into a critical disquisition and discussion over the question of whether this act of 1862 abolished the whole church or not, by providing that we only look at the law as it now stood, that we knew and acted upon nothing and recognized nothing that had not now the force of law.

Now we come to the object of putting these trustees in. I repeat, Mr. President, so that it shall not be misunderstood, that by the second section of the Utah act incorporating this church the trustrees are provided for. They have no powers touching the government, management, or operation of the church at all. They refer only and have relation only to the temporal business of that church and its property. They are given no authority to do anything or to say anything concerning the faith, worship, or doctrine of that church. Therefore when we interfere with that section regarding trustees, we do not interfere with anything that relates to anybody's religious belief of any kind, be it good or bad; but we do interfere so far as to have somebody who shall see that the moneys of that church are devoted to legal and lawful objects and not to illegal and unlawful objects. We do have a majority in that board of trustees, who shall report to the Government of the United States the condition of its business affairs, report to the people of the United States what uses its money is applied to, and to resist and prevent its application to the propagation of polygamy, and see that it is devoted to the application that it may be rightly devoted to, and that is to provide for charity to the poor through the church and for the keeping up of their churches and places of worship, and so on.

Then, besides that, without these trustees to get into and get hold of the condition of this property, of what value would be the provision forfeiting all that they have acquired contrary to law? If you left it to the evidence of the trustees in possession, with no means of getting access to their books or papers or to understand what is going on, how much progress would the United States make in forfeiting what is above the $50,000, or the property they had at the time of the passage of the act of 1862? That, as I said before, is just where the rub comes. It is because this section, keeping entirely clear of interfering with faith or doctrine or the church as a church, takes hold of its temporal affairs, its emigration affairs, its polygamous affairs, and sees to it that the money is not devoted to illegal uses, and sees to it that it is devoted only to those that belong to the proper administration of a religous society, and sees to it that a true report is made to the Government of the United States in regard to its business operations, so that all that it holds in excess of law for these purposes may be devoted to other uses.

Therefore I repeat that the section most obnoxious to that political hierarchy which governs and manages and controls the administration of these enormous assets is this very twelfth section, not because it interferes with faith, for it does not; not because these trustees have the slightest power to influence the action or govern the conduct of the church as a church, but because out of the church and in the world of affairs it opens it to the daylight and keeps it within the law.

Mr. TELLER. I wish to inquire of the Senator from Vermont what he understands the assets or profits of this church organization to be used for? For what purpose do they pay out this money, as he understands?

Mr. EDMUNDS. I understand that they pay out part of it for the ordinary operations of any religious society, that they pay out another and a larger part of it for the encouragement of immigration, for the defense of persons accused of polygamy, and so on.

Mr. TELLER. I should like to ask one question more: If the Senator understands they are paying any money in violation of law, in violation of the provisions of the charter?

Mr. EDMUNDS. Yes; I believe they are.

Mr. TELLER. For what particular purpose?

Mr. EDMUNDS. For the purpose of promoting polygamy and encouraging immigration for the mere object of getting polygamous subjects for the lust of these vagabonds.

Mr. TELLER. I understand, then, that the honorable Senator takes the position that all the money that they pay out for the emigration fund is illegal, and consequently that it will be the duty of the trustees, no matter what may be the provisions of the charter which specially provides for their business, to violate those provisions.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The charter does not provide for any such thing. It says "welfare of the church."

Mr. TELLER. Under that they have a pretty broad discretion.

Mr. EDMUNDS. "Welfare of the church," as I understand, is to promote virtue and not polygamy.

Mr. MAXEY. Mr. President, I shall vote for the bill under consideration, first, because I believe that it is constitutional in its provisions; second, because I believe it is expedient to pass it. I hold that the Territorial government of Utah was organized under that clause of the Constitution which declares that "Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States." So believing, the Territorial Legislature of Utah having been created by Congressional act, Congress has the power to repeal the act creating the Territorial Government if it deems it expedient so to do. It has the power to modify any legislation, or repeal, abrogate, and hold for naught any legislation of that Territorial Legislature. In short, the power of Congress over the question of legislation in this District of Columbia and in the Territories under the control of the United States is as broad as the power of a State Legislature in respect to the local and domestic affairs within the territorial jurisdiction of the State. Hence I have no question that if Congress believes that the system of polygamy recognized in Utah is subversive of public morals, is injurious to the well-being of society there; if it is calculated to bring reproach on this Government which has tolerated it; if it is in violation of the universally recognized principles of society as understood by the whole people of the United States, whether Catholic or Protestant or infidel, that the exercise of polygamy is injurious to public health and public morals, Congress has a right to so declare, and enforce that declaration by appropriate legislation.

That polygamy pollutes morals, brings reproach on this Government, shocks the moral sense of the people, and is injurious to the health of those who practice it, and transmits its evil effects to the children of polygamous so-called marriages, is, I think, admitted to be true. Its correction is within the scope of the inherent police powers of this Government coextensive with its jurisdiction over the Territories—precisely as by a like exercise of their police powers every State in the Union makes bigamy a crime within their respective jurisdictions.

Furthermore I would say that Congress, as respects the district of Columbia and the Territories, would have the constitutional power to declare by statute and enforce by appropriate penalties the doctrine universally recognized by every State in the Union that no man should have more than one wife or one woman more than one husband living at one and the same time. On the question of power, therefore, I have no doubt. On the question of expediency there can be, I think, as little doubt.

We brought our family institutions from our mother country, Great Britain, a country which recognized monogamy. As far back as I have looked into the history of Great Britain on this subject, as far back as the days of Julius Cæsar, the doctrine of polygamy has never been recognized, but it has always been held that a man should have but one wife living at one time. We thought so when we came here, and the marital laws of every State in this Union, the doctrine of inheritance and distribution, are all based upon that.

Now, I would ask if it be true that this legislation can be opposed on the theory that it is a violation of the religious faith of these people? In my State, in your own State (Mr. SHERMAN in the chair), where they have laws against polygamy, as all our States have, were a man indicted for bigamy, and were he to go into court and plead in response to that indictment that according to his religious faith he had a right to have two wives, or three, or four, or a dozen, if he wished, would that be any valid defense? How long would it take a court to overrule and set aside that plea? If, then, it is not good in a State, if it is not good as a plea in one place, why should it be in another; and have we not the same legislative control over the question as the States have within their jurisdiction? Should any portion of this country under the immediate control of Congress be allowed to have a system which is not tolerated by any State of the American Union?

And, again, if the Territory of Utah were to apply to be admitted as a State—because she is now in a condition of Territorial pupilage—would anybody say that we should not have a right to refuse to allow her to come in as a State of this Union because she recognized polygamy? And if the just end of Territorial pupilage is, in due time and proper preparation, to bring the inhabitants into this Union under a constitution republican in form, is it not our duty to prepare them properly for this great destiny?

The Constitution declares that "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." Upon the last two inhibitions—freedom of speech and of the press—we have had adjudication after adjudication by all the courts of the country. No law shall be passed "abridging the freedom of speech," and yet we have slander laws in every State of this Union declared to be valid. Why? Are they passed to abridge the use of the freedom of speech? Not at all. They are to strike at the abuse, and thereby to preserve the use. And so we have libel laws punishing the abuse of the freedom of the press. It is not to prevent the free use of the press, but it is to prevent the licentious misuse of the press. If that be true of the two great rights of freedom of speech and freedom of the press, equally is it true of the clause saying that Congress shall not make any law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. It is the use and not the abuse of the right that is secured. We must not forget that every State which helped to make the Constitution of the United States recognized monogamy—one husband and one wife—and, so far as I know, bigamy was a crime everywhere; and the Constitution of the United States was made by those States, and must be construed in the light of the universally recognized marital relation at the time of its adoption existing in all the States.

Why, Mr. President, suppose that you should have here a so-called church which would make it a part of its avowed faith and of its practice that female infants should be mutilated in their feet, as in China, would you not say that we have power to prevent that, not to interfere with religious faith, but because such practice would be injurious to society? It cripples uselessly a portion of the people, and the correction of the practice is within the police powers of the Government. I put my support of the bill upon the ground that polygamy is against public morals. The practice of polygamy is an abuse of religion and not a use of it. It is covering licentious practices under the pretended cloak of a use of religion. The clause that Congress shall not make any law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof is not in the slightest degree interfered with by this bill. I believe as much as the man did who first promulgated the doctrine of this great clause of our Constitution two hundred and fifty years ago, Roger Williams, that the law has no power whatever to interfere with the conscience of the individual; that that is a matter between him and his God. That idea of his was finally incorporated in this Constitution of ours; but this bill does not interfere with that. It does not interfere with it in any way whatever. It says, "Believe what you please, but do not follow practices inimical to the well-being of society." I will say for the Committee on the Judiciary that they have with remarkable skill, in my judgment, drawn the distinction between religious freedom and the abuse of the universally recognized principles and policy of this country and of morals under the pretense of religion, and have simply in the bill before us asked that the police powers of the Government be called into exercise for a wise purpose.

I have thought proper, as I shall support this bill, to put what I think about it, in the broadest terms, upon the record.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, it has been asserted very often that there was a difference between this legislation and a law respecting religion, that this bill is not amenable to objection because it legislates upon the political relations of Mormonism. Suppose we concede that this is an organization in favor of polygamy for the purpose of teaching it and defending it, how much do we advance the argument? What power is given to Congress over it? The Senator from Texas seems to think that because Utah is a Territory Congress is emancipated from all the limitations of the Constitution.

Mr. MAXEY. I beg the Senator's pardon. I took no such position. I simply spoke of our power over the Territories.

Mr. CALL. What does the Constitution say?

Congress shall make no law * * * abridging the freedom of speech or of the press.

The Senator from Texas cited the law of libel. Is it to be held that Congress may prohibit the promulgation of opinions upon the subject of government or religion, whether they are true or false? Did any one ever hear that thought was to be abridged and the expression of it? Does not that mean free speech? Does it not mean a free press? And if they do teach polygamy have they not their legal warrant for it in the guarantee of freedom of speech, and is it not the principle of our Government that we are sustained by free speech and free thought as the foundation and support of our liberties and all our civil institutions? Are we to be told here to-day that this bill is right because it makes war upon opinion, political opinion, political teaching, the freedom of speech, and the freedom of the press? Why, sir, the argument is not advanced to any just conclusion by this proposition.

The Mormons have a right by the very charter by which we defend the Christian religion which for many centuries was forbidden to be defended except in the orthodox way. It was heresy to differ in opinion from the established creed of the government, and we owe our foundation as a government and as a people to the freedom of speech, the freedom of religious and political opinion, whether it be for monarchy or whether it be to promulgate false philosophies in regard to society. We rely upon the omnipotence of free thought and free speech and a free press for our protection and for the success of correct ideas.

We are departing from that in this bill, and the Senator from Vermont tells us that this is right because we are dealing with a political hierarchy. Let us concede that it is a political hierarchy, that it teaches false, despotic, and immoral doctrines. They have a right to teach them and we have a right to confute them by free speech and free thought. That is the Constitution and the fundamental principle of our Government. Nobody ever questioned this before; and the idea that because we pass laws of libel therefore we may abridge the freedom of speech, of thought, of expression, and provide that men shall only think and talk in support of our ideas of what we proclaim to be right can not be defended.

Why, sir, it seems to me strange that this bill should be defended upon that ground. This Mormon Church or society have as much right to teach their ideas as the distinguished orator who assails the Christian religion has to teach his; and he has as much legal right to proclaim his ideas and to have an association to support and disseminate them as we have a legal political right to associate for the maintenance of what we believe to be the divine faith of Christ, and that is the lesson of the Gospel and the lesson of the Christian religion. It is by moral power that the religion of Christ has overcome polygamy in other countries and other times, and it will be by its moral power that polygamy in Utah will be overcome. Whether it be a political or a religious hierarchy does not affect the argument. The prohibitions of the Constitution remain the same.

I insist, sir, that this argument to take possession of this Mormon Church, to confiscate its property, to manage its affairs, whether it be a political or religious institution, has no foundation, and that this Congress is expressly forbidden by the provisions of the Constitution, which forbid any law that shall abridge the freedom of speech from interfering with them because of the doctrines which they may teach, whatever they may be. And it can not be denied that this is not a bill to suppress polygamy, but it is a bill to suppress and destroy a sect which teaches polygamy, and the methods by which it proposes to suppress this sect, this teaching of polygamy, is the confiscation of its property, the seizure of the contributions of its followers, and then arbitrary appropriation by Congress to such purposes as it thinks proper, the trial of its followers by partial juries on evidence forced from the lawful wife. However grievous may be the evils of Mormonism these unlawful methods are not the proper means for its overthrow and can never accomplish the purpose.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the adoption of the amendment proposed by the Senator from Alabama.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. CALL. I move to amend, in section 13, line 3, by striking out after the word "to" the words "forfeit and escheat to the United States the property of corporations obtained or held" and inserting the words "dissolve the corporation existing;" so as to read:

That it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the United States to institute and prosecute proceedings to dissolve the corporation existing in violation of section 3 of the act of Congress approved the 1st day of July, 1862.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the amendment proposed by the Senator from Florida.

Mr. CALL. I propose, Mr. President, to follow this motion by a motion to strike out all the words on the eleventh line after the word "States" down to the word "worship" at the end of the seventeenth line and insert the following. I state it in order that it may be seen what it is that I propose to do:

And all property shall be returned by the court, on due proof of ownership, to the person or persons or their heirs and assigns who contributed the same: Provided, That all buildings on the grounds appurtenant thereto and occupied exclusively for the purpose of the worship of God shall be conveyed under the order of the court to trustees who shall be selected by the congregation or society who constructed such church building and who use the same for the worship of God according to the dictates of their conscience.

Mr. President, I wish to say a few words in support of the amendment. I said yesterday that it was impossible for any one to give any reason on any ground of law or any plausible ground upon which it could be asserted that the Congress of the United States had the right to confiscate, to forfeit the property of this corporation or any other corporation. This act uses the term "escheat." What is an escheat in the law? It is where there ceases to be any right of ownership, where an inheritable estate falls for want of persons designated and known in the law to receive it, and what becomes of it? It goes back to the parties, under the feudal law, from whom it was originally derived.

According to the English law—

Says the definition—

escheat denotes an obstruction of the course of descent, and a consequent determination of the tenure by some unforeseen contingency; in which case the land naturally results back, by a kind of reversion, to the original grantor, or lord of the fee.

What pretense is there for alleging in this bill that the property shall escheat and be forfeited to the United States? Surely, sir, there is none. No lawyer will undertake to say that this can be a case of escheat, and why? Here is a corporation created by law. The Senator from Alabama says that it was not created by law, that it was not a religious corporation, that they had no right to create such a corporation. Well, sir, suppose it was not a religious corporation, suppose it was a political corporation, why had they not the right to create it? There can be no question that it was created by law, that it is recognized in the act cited by the Senator from Vermont, none that it is performing the duties and the objects for which it was created. Now the United States come in and declare that it shall no longer exist. Concede that they have the right to do so, have they the right to take the property? Can they appropriate it to their own use by calling it an escheat, when under the English laws the property did not go to the Crown? What do the law-books say on that subject?

The English Parliament is omnipotent, but here private property can not be taken for public use except on compensation made. Under the law of escheat the land went back to the party from whom it was derived. The government in case there was no owner might appropriate it by law when there was no one of kin, no one in the order of descent; and so they may here; but can they destroy the person in order to acquire the property? That is what this bill proposes to do, and what the argument of the Senator from Vermont requires.

Does it follow because a corporation is terminated that there is nobody who is a cestui que trust? And can the Government destroy the corporation by act of law and then say there is nobody to own it? We have destroyed it, destroyed it in the proper term of its chartered existence, and do you not call that a forfeiture, a confiscation, an appropriation of private property?

Let us see what was the English law. There is neither analogy nor is there any kind of precept or authority for this bill in all the English law with an omnipotent parliament, capable without restraint of passing any law confiscating all property, passing bills of attainder, and making blood uninheritable. Even under that constitution and that state of things there is no analogy to this legislation by which a corporation is destroyed, terminated in the period of its life, and then the property of the corporation appropriated by the government.

Some allusion was made by the learned Senator from Massachusetts to the doctrine of cy pres as an analogy to it. The history of legislation on this subject is very plain. It will be borne in mind in this investigation that we start out with a positive prohibition upon Congress from appropriating anybody's private property, from taking it, and that before it can be appropriated by the Government of the United States under any proceeding or idea analogous to escheat it shall be when there shall be no owner of it, no person with a legal or equitable right to it—in other words, when it ceases to be private property.

The legislation for charities in the English Government to which the doctrine of cy pres applies finally terminated in the statute (43 Eliz., c. 4, 1601) commonly called the statute of charitable uses. This statute provides, and as it has been extended by judicial decision from time to time defines, the causes for which a charitable corporation may be created. They are not religious; they are such as beneficial associations. They may be religious or they may not be. They are all included within the statute of Elizabeth:

Relief of aged, impotent, and poor people; maintenance of sick and maimed soldiers and mariners; schools of learning, free schools, and scholars in universities; repairs of bridges, ports, havens, causeways, churches, sea-banks, and highways; education and preferment of orphans; relief, stock, or maintenance for houses of correction; marriages of poor maids; supportation, aid, and help of young tradesmen, handicraftsmen, and persons decayed, &c.

The subject has received large consideration in the courts of the United States. Perry on Trusts contains all the decisions on the subject and goes extensively into it. There we find laid down the following:

If gifts were made to establish a Jewish synagogue, to teach Judaism in opposition to Christianity, or to re-establish the supremacy of the Pope, or to educate children in the Catholic faith contrary to the statutes, or to promote dissent contrary to the acts of uniformity, or to keep alive superstitious customs and practices, the charities could not, of course, be carried into effect as given, and the King gave effect to them as charities, by his royal prerogative, cy pres the original purposes. * * * But whether the prerogatives of the British crown were proper or improper, or whether they were wisely exercised or not in the cases named, is no question here. No such power exists in any American magistrates, judicial or ministerial.

That is the decision of our courts. It does not matter whether it be the promotion of Judaism or Christianity or dissent to the orthodox belief, be the object of the charity what it may, it has been held, by the Supreme Court from 4 Wheaton until to-day by the uniform course of decisions, by the decision of Chief-Justice Gray, of the State of Massachusetts, among other learned men cited in this book, that any benevolent charity to trustees who can receive it for the benefit of an indefinite number of people, no matter what it is in respect to its religious teaching, no matter what it is in respect to its political influences, is a charity, and will be enforced and carried out by the courts.

But here we have this bill, in defiance of the whole course of American decisions and of the very words of the Constitution, in defiance of the whole course of English decisions and of the statute of Elizabeth, undertaking to put forth a proposition which, with great respect to the learned men upon this committee, is utterly indefensible and unreasonable, that under the doctrine of cy pres you can divert, you can destroy the corporation, terminate its existence during its chartered life, and appropriate its donations not as the statute of Elizabeth says, according to the will of the donor, but against the will of the donor, deprive it entirely because it teaches some heresy, religious or political.

Why, Mr. President, there surely can be no ground for such a proposition as that. It is a pure case of religious persecution, in express defiance of all the provisions of the Constitution of the United States. The Senator from Alabama said this is not religion. Suppose it is not, can we say what is religion or what is not? In all the course of time those who maintained the orthodox religions have decided that those who differed with them were not religious, that they were the greatest of criminals, burned them at the stake, tore out their tongues. More than a hundred thousand people were destroyed in one year on the very proposition of the Senator from Alabama that somebody had the right to say "my religion is true and your religion is wrong; you are a political hierarchy or a religious hierarchy, and I am satisfied your doctrine is false."

Mr. President, I shall not detain the Senate any longer. I merely desired to show that this proposition of escheat or forfeiture had no warrant in the jurisprudence of England, that it had no application, that the term did not apply to this case, and that if it had applied under the English statutes the doctrine of cy pres it would have been carried out according to the will of the donor and not in the unlicensed discretion of the court. But before I sit down allow me to say one word that I think ought to be said.

We have been dealing with a great public evil, and one which is growing and has grown; and why has it grown? We hear uttered the discontents of labor everywhere in this country. We hear of the hundreds of thousands of starving men, women, and children of the sixty million people of the United States. We see it in the organizations of labor everywhere. There is not such a distribution of production as disseminates comfort and abundance among the people. We see in these days of combination everywhere that the laboring people are moving for the preservation of life, impelled by the pangs of hunger and destitution. We have found here upon our borders, in the midst of a great and flagrant heresy, an industrial success which candid and impartial men have testified to. We have found a community where the social evil is not to be found, and if we are to rely on the reports of honest and candid men who have investigated the subject, the habit of intoxication, the sale of liquor in licensed saloons, is not to be found there. Whatever else may be said, I am told it may be said that destitution and want are not found there. The offspring are taken care of, educated, and established in life; shelter is provided for all; food for all, and clothing for all.

Mr. President, that is the reason why deluded people are dragged from Europe from a life of almost absolute want of comfort; that is the reason why their religion is propagated. It is because of the success of their industrial system in a new country. It is not because the religion of Christ will fail to have its effect in its teaching there. It is because the contrast between the life of these poor people in the countries from which they are dragged, naked almost, doomed to a life in both sexes of the hardest and sternest labor without adequate compensation, because they find in reference to the evils of Europe, in reference to the life of want and degradation there, they find comparative comfort in Utah. Mormonism can not live before the enlightened rays of the Christian religion, but it does not need this bill and it does not need this unlawful and unconstitutional confiscation and forfeiture of property to destroy it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is on the adoption of the first amendment proposed by the Senator from Florida [Mr. CALL].

The amendment was rejected.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question now is on the second amendment of the Senator from Florida, which will be read.

The CHIEF CLERK. In section 13, line 12, it is proposed to strike out all after the word "States" down to and including the word "God," in line 17, as follows:

> And all such property so forfeited and escheated to the United States shall be disposed of by the Secretary of the Interior, and the proceeds thereof applied to the use and benefit of the common schools in the Territory in which such property may be: Provided, That no building or the grounds appurtenant thereto shall be forfeited which is held and occupied exclusively for purposes of the worship of God.

And to insert in lieu thereof:

> And all property shall be returned by the court on due proof of ownership to the person or persons, or their heirs and assigns, who contributed to the same: Provided, That all buildings and the grounds appurtenant thereto, held and occupied exclusively for the purpose of the worship of God, shall be conveyed under the order of the court to trustees who shall be selected by the church or society who constructed such church building, and who use the same for the worship of God according to the dictates of their own consciences."

Mr. CALL. I ask for the yeas and nays on the amendment.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. EDMUNDS. It is simply sufficient to say in answer to that amendment that the thirteenth section provides for the forfeiture of any property that has been acquired in contravention of a positive statute of the United States.

Mr. TELLER. I do not want to prolong this debate, but I do not understand the rule to be that property acquired by a corporation in violation of the provisions of the statute escheats to the Government. I have never known any such rule, all the authorities are different, and we now propose to establish a rule that does not exist. I do not know whether it is possible for Congress to do that thing or not.

Mr. EDMUNDS. That is left to the courts by the section.

Mr. TELLER. If it is to be left to the courts, then there need not be any provision put in about escheating, if that is the law now. I do not understand that to be the law, and I understand the Supreme Court of the United States has held that it is not the law. We may be able to make such a law. The honorable Senator is not willing to leave it to the law as it exists. The British Parliament, is omnipotent but it has been held that it could not legislate money from one man's pocket to another's. In the exercise of the power given over this subject in the Territories it is possible the United States may legislate the money of individuals into its own pocket, but I do not believe it. I neither believe it is possible by law, nor do I believe it is proper and right that it should be done.

Mr. CALL. I would ask the Senator from Vermont if he considers it the law that property acquired by a corporation in violation of the law becomes ipso facto forfeited to the Government.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President, I have said enough, I think, on this question. This language merely repeats and enforces the act of 1862, which left that church concern with all the property that it then had, and said that if it acquired any sum beyond the $50,000 and what it then had, its property should be forfeited and escheated to the United States; and this section merely carries it out.

Mr. CALL. Is that language in the act?

Mr. EDMUNDS. It is in the act.

Mr. TELLER. Then why put it in this?

Mr. EDMUNDS. Because the Attorney-General does not propose to leave the money in court, and Congress proposes to provide what shall be done with it.

Mr. CALL. I understand the Senator from Vermont, then, to say that he thinks it competent for the Congress of the United States to forfeit the property of a corporation which shall be acquired in excess of the amount limited by law.

The Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BLACKBURN (when his name was called). On this question I am paired with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. Otherwise I should vote "yea."

Mr. BROWN (when his name was called). On this question I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. PIKE]. If he were present, I should vote "yea."

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon (when his name was called). On this question I am paired with the Senator from California [Mr. STANFORD].

The roll-call was concluded.

Mr. COCKRELL. My colleague [Mr. VEST], who is necessarily absent this evening, is paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. MILLER]. If here, my colleague would vote "yea" and the Senator from New York would vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 6, nays 39; as follows:

YEAS—6.

Call,	Hampton,	Teller,	Vance.
Eustis,	Morgan,

NAYS—39.

Allison,	Dolph,	Hoar,	Palmer,
Beck,	Edmunds,	Ingalls,	Payne,
Berry,	Evarts,	Jackson,	Platt,
Chace,	Frye,	Jones of Arkansas,	Pugh,
Cockrell,	George,	Logan,	Sawyer,
Coke,	Gibson,	McMillan,	Sherman,
Colquitt,	Hale,	Manderson,	Spooner,
Conger,	Harris,	Maxey,	Walthall,
Cullom,	Harrison,	Mitchell of Pa.,	Wilson of Iowa.
Dawes,	Hawley,	Morrill,

ABSENT—31.

Aldrich,	Fair,	Miller of Cal.,	Saulsbury,
Blackburn,	Gorman,	Miller of N. Y.,	Sewell,
Blair,	Gray,	Mitchell of Oreg.,	Stanford,
Bowen,	Jones of Florida,	Pike,	Van Wyck,
Brown,	Jones of Nevada,	Plumb,	Vest,
Butler,	Kenna,	Ransom,	Voorhees,
Camden,	McPherson,	Riddleberger,	Wilson of Md.
Cameron,	Mahone,	Sabin,

So the amendment was rejected.

Mr. BROWN. I desire to call the attention of the chairman of the committee to the seventh section of the act of 1882 and to one of the sections of the present bill:

> SEC. 7. That the issue of bigamous or polygamous marriages, known as Mormon marriages, in cases in which such marriages have been solemnized according to the ceremonies of the Mormon sect, in any Territory of the United States, and such issue shall have been born before the 1st day of January, A. D. 1883, are hereby legitimated.

Giving a little over nine months from the passage of the act so as to embrace those born within the ordinary period of gestation. In the present bill this is the provision:

> SEC. 10. That the laws enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah which provide for or recognize the capacity of illegitimate children to inherit or be entitled to any distributive share in the estate of the father of such illegitimate child are hereby disapproved and annulled; and no illegitimate child shall hereafter be entitled to inherit from his or her father or to receive any distributive share in the estate of his or her father: Provided, That this section shall not apply to any illegitimate child born previous to the passage of this act.

I propose there to amend, with the consent of the committee, by saying "previous to the passage of this act, or within the ordinary period of gestation after the passage thereof," so as to make the same provision which was made in the act of 1882 for unborn children who are in existence.

Mr. EDMUNDS. The act of 1882 finished up the whole of that subject; and this act so far as it is necessary at all after that act (as I doubt if it is, because we merely annul that Territorial act which I think the legal effect of the act of 1882 accomplished) is merely to put illegitimate children in that Territory on the same footing that illegitimate children are everywhere else, I believe, in every country. I do not think the provision in this act was necessary as affecting the status of any illegitimate child born since 1882, or born after the passage of this act and within nine months, but the point of this provision is to annul and get off the statute-book of that Territory that act which stands in opposition to the law of 1882 that we passed, so that my friend's observation really does not apply.

Mr. BROWN. If it was proper to allow the period of gestation in that statute is it not equally proper in this case?

Mr. EDMUNDS. No, because we wound up that business by an affirmative act then and there, and it is doing no injustice to the illegitimate children in Utah any more than elsewhere, because in 1882 we made an end of the question, and this merely annuls their old act and makes an end of it.

Mr. BROWN. I will not press my amendment, because of course it will share the fate of all the others, but it seems to me there is necessity for it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. If there be no further amendment——

Mr. BLAIR. I think there is an amendment.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from New Hampshire submitted an amendment which he now offers, the Chair understands.

Mr. BLAIR. Mr. President, the Constitution, as the Senate will remember, provides that the trial of all crimes except in cases of impeachment shall be by jury, and such trials shall be held in the State wherein the crime shall have been committed, and when not committed in any State the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed. I ask the Secretary to read the proposed amendment.

The SECRETARY. It is proposed to add as an additional section the following:

SEC. —. That in all prosecutions of bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation, or conspiracy to commit or conspiracy to aid or abet the commission of any one of said crimes, by direction of the Chief-Justice of the United States the charge may be investigated by a grand jury, and indictment found, and trial, judgment, conviction, sentence, and proceedings had thereon, in the proper court of the United States in such State or Territory outside the Territory of Utah as will, in the judgment of the Chief-Justice, best afford the opportunity of impartial proceedings and promote the ends of justice; and either party may apply to the Chief-Justice to fix the place for any of the steps taken in such proceedings.

Mr. BLAIR. Mr. President, as there seems to be so much doubt and difficulty in the application of the provisions of several of the sections of this bill to the existing situation, it seems to me that the power of this Mormon hierarchy, which is concentrated in the hands of a very few individuals, could perhaps be best reached and destroyed without raising any legal uncertainties or controversies, by so contriving this bill that it shall subject them to a criminal prosecution where a grand jury would be secured to investigate with reference to the proper finding of indictments, and a petit jury would be likely to find a verdict according to the evidence submitted to them.

The Constitution provides what I have stated. Under the provisions of my amendment it seems to me that the power of criminal prosecution would be made effective, and at once effective, in destroying this institution by striking down those who are at the head of it. But as I see the majority of the Senate are in favor of this bill as it is and are quite determined upon its passage in its present form, I do not wish to make myself conspicuous by any unseemly obstinacy in the matter, and therefore I withdraw the amendment if I may be permitted to do so.

The bill was reported to the Senate as amended, and the amendments made as in Committee of the Whole were concurred in.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, and read the third time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is, Shall the bill pass?

Mr. MORGAN. Mr. President, the friends of this measure seem determined to pass it in its present shape, yielding nothing to the opinions of others who have not had the opportunity to study it, which of course they have had. I have taken occasion since the bill has been under discussion to ask some questions for information about its meaning, purpose, &c. Some of these questions have been answered by one member of the committee, the others not participating in the debate, but I shall take it for granted that that honorable Senator has had the right to speak the opinions of every member of the committee who has not voted to the contrary on the call of the yeas and nays.

One question I have asked which the Senator from Vermont said he would answer before he took his seat. I addressed that question also to my colleague, and also to the Senator from Texas who is on the Committee on the Judiciary, and that was, what do you expect to pay these trustees? Why do we send this bill out of the Senate for fourteen trustees to perform the novel and important duties that we imposed on this body of men in the management of the Mormon Church, its property, its income, and questions relating to its missions, whether the church shall direct its funds to be applied to missionary operations or not—why do we select fourteen men to exercise these peculiar functions, and in the bill say nothing about paying them, provide no salary?

We put them under bonds. They are required to give bonded security, I suppose payable to the church. It does not say so. They are required to make reports annually or oftener to the Government; they are required to take in trust and in charge all the property, as I understand it, of every kind and character of this corporation. We are informed that that property amounts in personal estate one way and another to perhaps several million dollars and to a large amount in real estate. And yet the Senate of the United States, for some reason which no Senator has deigned even to allude to, has remained entirely silent as to what compensation, if any, these trustees or commissioners are to have.

Now, sir, I do not want to send fourteen men out there to loot the Mormon Church and come back with a hamper full of money that they have taken from it, which they say the Mormon hierarchy are disposed to misappropriate for the encouragement of polygamy, and then ask us to divide it out and give them as much of it as we think they are entitled to for their activity and their zeal and their skill in getting this money into their hands. They have the right to receive money; they are not naked trustees; the money in their possession is charged with certain uses to which they must apply it, unless, in their opinion, they should come to the conclusion that the uses to which they are directed to apply it may be in violation of some statute of the United States or may be possibly an encouragement to and promotion of polygamy. Being thus in possession of this large fund, having to account for it under a bond, the Senate of the United States makes no provision at all, hints at no provision for their compensation, but leaves to them the unfortunate tempation of deriving from this church and this people all the money that they can, in the hope and expectation that when they get back from this raid upon this church Congress will be disposed to compensate them liberally for their services.

Sir, I undertake to affirm that no set of officers have ever been created with such important trusts and duties, no set of bonded officers with a fixed tenure of office have been created by any act of Congress without some provision being made, at least, that they should be compensated. If in any act of Congress the amount of compensation has been left indefinite, there has been still an expression that these officers were to receive compensation for their services.

In what attitude do we place ourselves before the world by sending forth these trustees into the body of a society which they call a church, and in which they propose to direct religious worship, religious sacraments and ceremonies, sending them out there under bond, giving them a two years' tenure of office, and making no mention of the fact that they are to have compensation? The world will say, "You intend to put your agents into that church for the purpose of looting it; you intend to put your agents there without instructions as to their authority or their line of conduct, without definition really of their powers, for the purpose of making schism and mischief in the body of the church, and upon this mischief and schism arising, you, the majority, 14 against 13, can take the money into your own hands and bring it back to Congress, and ask how we shall divide it." I do not want to be put in that condition.

There is no occasion for the Senate of the United States to put itself in that condition. We ought to have said these commissioners, or these trustees, shall have $1,000 a year, or $2,000 a year, or, as in the case of the commissioners in Utah, that they should have $5,000 a year, or we ought to have said in the bill they shall have no compensation.

This is not a fair and legitimate way of legislating with respect to any community whatsoever, and this curious, original, abnormal manner of legislation will bring reproach upon this body by the enactment of the law in that shape. The world will put to us the question: "Why is it that you are afraid to speak your mind in respect to the compensation that these men shall have, or upon the question whether they shall have any compensation at all? Why do you leave it to an Appropriation Committee hereafter to advise in advance of their appointment, or after they have done their work, whether they shall have any compensation, or what their compensation shall be?" Whoever heard of a bill creating officers in this country of great trust and responsibility, bonded officers, in which the Congress was afraid to say whether it would pay them anything or not?

Mr. President, there is a dangerous look in this style of legislation. There is something that brings upon the Congress of the United States unnecessary suspicion in regard to it. Indeed, this committee in submitting this bill to the Senate in this form have attempted to legislate to point no point. They have attempted to legislate to get a result without stating the means by which the result is to be obtained. They have not ventured to express the opinion even whether that act of the Territorial Legislature of Utah is still in existence. They leave their chairman without an expression on this subject to state his own individual opinion that there is a legal organization remaining there, in the face of an act of Congress of 1862 which repeals it. No member of the committee arises for the purpose of taking issue with the honorable chairman; no member arises to indorse his opinion; and we are left here by the leading judicial committee of this body to inference, to conjecture, to guessing as to what the state of the law is on this question. And when I offer an amendment which shows what the state of the law ought to be, that this corporation no longer exists, I am met by the proposition, "The gentleman opposes the twelfth section of the bill, and the president of the church would do the same thing." That is the answer which is made to me. When I ask the Committee on the Judiciary to state what the law is the reply is, "The Senator from Alabama takes the same ground on this measure that the president of the church would take."

Ah, Mr. President, I am not to be deterred from the expression of my opinion, humble as it may be, by an allusion of that character. Would the president of this church be less alarmed or more alarmed at a measure which would take down that legal structure which upholds all of his authority, than he would at a measure which interjects a governing power along with his power and the power of his trustees and the management of it, upon the hypothesis that the corporation still exists and retains its powers? Which would alarm him the more, to see the house tumbling about his head, absolutely demolished, as it was in 1862 by an act of Congress, or to see it maintained by an act of Congress that we enact to-day, and merely occupied by a board of unpaid trustees in conjunction with his trustees?

Thirteen Mormons compose the Mormon side of that board. Fourteen Gentiles, I suppose, will compose the Gentile side of the board. Our men go there and they sit two years, so far as this bill gives us any information on the subject, without compensation. How easy would it be for them to find perhaps one man unfaithful to the views of the honorable Senator from Vermont, who would accept a few thousand dollars to vote with the minority in that board and conduct that business precisely as the president of that church and that hierarchy might require? You put an unpaid and unsalaried set of trustees on a bond payable to the church and not to us into that organization for the purpose of conducting its temporal affairs, and with millions of money at their control, and without conscience they come and slip some of their loot and their bribe into the pocket of one trustee, which carries the majority on the other side of the question, and the church has its way.

It is merely an opening for the purpose of getting men in there upon the idea that they will produce schisms and dissensions in a legal body of that church, and yet we expose them to the temptation which the Mormons can bring about them, and will bring about them, to divert them so that Mormonism will be encouraged by this act and sanctioned by the act of Congress rather than discouraged and broken down. That is the shape in which this bill is left.

Did it never occur to the honorable Senator from Vermont or any other member of the committee that these fourteen unpaid trustees that they put into this board might possibly accept a stipend from the head of that church to go not in the direction that the honorable Senator from Vermont would have them go, but right to the reverse, and to make the instrumentality of the law which we create here the power by which the church will be sustained and promoted even in its effort to establish and propagate polygamy?

Sir, such unwise legislation as this does not deserve the sanction of a Senator's vote, and I can not give it. I have proven on this floor my determination, as far as my power extends, to strike this church root and branch until afterward there shall be nothing left of it but a name and an unholy memory. I am met by the proposition to keep the thing up, to hold it up and let it work, and put fourteen trustees in there subject to the power of money to assist the Mormons in running it.

Now, which is the better proposition? I dare say the president of the church would select the proposition of the Senator from Vermont a thousand times before he would select mine. He would take his chances with his fourteen trustees, though they might be confirmed by the Senate, much in preference to taking his chances with a court upon the power of Congress to dissolve and annul and dissipate that corporation.

I shall therefore vote against this bill.

Mr. CALL. Mr. President, I do not propose to make a speech. I merely wish to put on record and call the attention of the Senator from Vermont to the proposition that the bill goes only to confiscate property acquired in violation of an act of Congress. I find in the act of 1862, in the proviso referred to by the Senator from Vermont, the following language:

Provided, That this act shall be so limited and construed as not to affect or interfere with the right of property legally acquired under the ordinance heretofore mentioned.

That ordinance I understand to be still in force. The act of 1872, section 1890 of the Revised Statutes, also provides:

That it shall not be lawful for any corporation or association for religious or charitable purposes to acquire or hold real estate in any Territory of the United States during the existence of the Territorial government of a greater value than $50,000.

That is confined to real estate. This measure provides for the confiscation of all property. The ordinance which is referred to in the previous act is still in force. The act of 1862 is limited to real estate to the amount of $50,000. Therefore it is apparent that this measure is not, in my judgment, as the Senator from Vermont says, limited to the confiscation of property acquired in violation of the law. But suppose it had been so, I wish to make this point before the discussion closes: Suppose a corporation is denied the power to hold real estate or property of any kind, real or personal, the power to hold it is an artificial power given to it by statute. It is not a natural person. What becomes of property given to it when it has no power to receive it in the law? Whose is it when it has no attribute of holding the property? Can you confiscate it because the law has forbidden the corporation to take it? Whose is it if the corporation could not take it, if it is not the person's who tried to give it but could not give it? Are not the gift and the assent to receive it both necessary to constitute the gift? If the law, upon the proposition of the Senator from Vermont, refused to allow the corporation the right to receive it and to hold it, whose is this property when the donation was made to a person not capable of receiving it? Of course it belongs to the persons who gave it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is upon the passage of the bill.

Mr. VAN WYCK. In order to remove the difficulty stated by the Senator from Alabama, I would suggest to the Senator from Vermont whether it would not meet the purpose of the committee as well to devolve the duty required of the fourteen trustees upon the commission of five persons already there in the employ of the Government. Therefore, I would suggest as an amendment——

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Chair will advise the Senator from Nebraska that the question is now upon the passage of the bill, and it is not open to amendment. The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading and has been read the third time.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Amendments are not in order.

Mr. VAN WYCK. Then I ask if the Senator from Vermont would object to an amendment of that kind?

Mr. EDMUNDS. He most decidedly would, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is, Shall the bill pass?

Mr. VANCE. I ask for the yeas and nays upon the passage of the bill.

The yeas and nays were ordered, and the Secretary proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. BROWN (when his name was called). On this question I am paired with the Senator from New Hampshire [Mr. PIKE]. If he were present, I understand he would vote "yea" and I should vote "nay."

Mr. HAMPTON (when Mr. BUTLER'S name was called). My colleague [Mr. BUTLER] is paired with the Senator from Pennsylvania [Mr. CAMERON]. The junior Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BLACKBURN] begged me to announce that he is paired with the Senator from Maine [Mr. HALE].

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon (when his name was called). On this question I am paired with the Senator from California [Mr. STANFORD]. If he were here, I should vote "yea" and he would vote "nay."

Mr. TELLER (when his name was called). On the passage of the bill I am paired with the Senator from Arkansas [Mr. JONES]. If he were present, he would vote "yea" and I should vote "nay."

The roll-call was concluded.

Mr. COCKRELL. My colleague [Mr. VEST] is paired with the Senator from New York [Mr. MILLER]. If present, my colleague would vote "nay" and the Senator from New York would vote "yea."

The result was announced—yeas 38, nays 7; as follows:

YEAS—38.

Allison,	Dolph,	Jackson,	Pugh,
Beck,	Edmunds,	Logan,	Sawyer,
Berry,	Eustis,	McMillan,	Sherman,
Chace,	Evarts,	Manderson,	Spooner,
Cockrell,	Frye,	Maxey,	Van Wyck,
Coke,	George,	Mitchell of Pa.,	Walthall,
Colquitt,	Harris,	Morrill,	Wilson of Iowa,
Conger,	Harrison,	Palmer,	Wilson of Md.
Cullom,	Hawley,	Payne,
Dawes,	Ingalls,	Platt,

NAYS—7.

Blair,	Gibson,	Hoar,	Vance.
Call,	Hampton,	Morgan,

ABSENT—31.

Aldrich,	Gorman,	Mahone,	Sabin,
Blackburn	Gray,	Miller of Cal.,	Saulsbury,
Bowen,	Hale,	Miller of N. Y.,	Sewell,
Brown,	Jones of Arkansas,	Mitchell of Oreg.,	Stanford,
Butler,	Jones of Florida,	Pike,	Teller,
Camden,	Jones of Nevada,	Plumb,	Vest,
Cameron,	Kenna,	Ransom,	Voorhees.
Fair,	McPherson,	Riddleberger,

So the bill was passed.

Mr. HOAR. Let the Chair put the question on the title of the bill.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The question is, Shall the title of the bill stand as reported?

Mr. HOAR. I wish to say upon that question that I voted against the bill solely because of the refusal of the Senate to strike out the seventh section, which I think wrong in principle. If my vote would have affected the passage of the bill, which in all its other features I approve, it would have put a responsibility upon me and a majority of the Senate which I do not now feel rests upon me.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The title of the bill will stand as reported if there be no objection.

Mr. BLAIR. If there be no objection I should like to have the bill printed in the RECORD as it has passed the Senate.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I have no objection, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from New Hampshire asks the unanimous consent of the Senate to have the bill printed in the RECORD as it passed the Senate. The Chair hears no objection, and it is so ordered.

The bill is as follows:

A bill to amend an act entitled "An act to amend section 5352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives, &c., That in any proceeding and examination before a grand jury, a judge, a justice, or a United States commissioner, or a court, in any prosecution for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation, under any statute of the United States, the lawful husband or wife of the person accused shall be a competent witness, and may be called and may be compelled to testify in such proceeding, examination, or prosecution without the consent of the husband or wife, as the case may be; but such witness shall not be permitted to testify as to any confidential statement or communication made by either husband or wife to each other during the existence of the marriage relation.

SEC. 2. That in any prosecution for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation, under any statute of the United States, whether before a United States commissioner, justice, judge, a grand jury, or any court, an attachment for any witness may be issued by the court, judge, or commissioner, without a previous subpœna, compelling the immediate attendance of such witness, when it shall appear to the commissioner, justice, judge, or court, as the case may be, that there is reasonable ground to believe that such witness will unlawfully fail to obey a subpœna issued and served in the usual course in such cases; and in such case the usual witness-fees shall be paid to such witness so attached: Provided, That no person shall be held in custody under any attachment issued as provided by this section for a longer time than ten days; and the person attached may at any time secure his or her discharge from custody by executing a recognizance, with sufficient sureties, conditioned for the appearance of such person at the proper time as a witness in the cause or proceeding wherein the attachment may be issued.

SEC. 3. That any prosecution under any statute of the United States for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation may be commenced at any time within five years next after the commission of the offense; but this provision shall not be construed to apply to any offense already barred by any existing statute of limitation.

SEC. 4. That every ceremony of marriage, or in the nature of a marriage ceremony, of any kind, in any of the Territories of the United States, whether either or both or more of the parties to such ceremony be lawfully competent to be the subjects of such marriage or ceremony or not, shall be certified in writing by a certificate stating the fact and nature of such ceremony, the full names of each of the parties concerned, and the full name of every officer, priest, and person, by whatever style or designation called or known, in any way taking part in the performance of such ceremony, which certificate shall be drawn up and signed by the parties to such ceremony, and by every officer, priest, and person taking part in the performace of such ceremony, and shall be by the officer, priest, or other person solemnizing such marriage or ceremony filed in the office of the probate court, or, if there be none, in the office of the court having probate powers in the county or district in which such ceremony shall take place, for record, and shall be immediately recorded. Such certificate or the record thereof, or a duly certified copy of such record, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts required by this act to be stated therein, in any proceeding, civil or criminal, in which the matter shall be drawn in question. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by imprisonment not longer than two years, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 5. That every certificate, record, and entry of any kind concerning any ceremony of marriage, or in the nature of a marriage ceremony of any kind, made or kept by any officer, clergyman, priest, or person performing civil or ecclesiastical functions, whether lawful or not, in any Territory of the United States, and any record thereof in any office or place, shall be subject to inspection at all reasonable times by any judge, magistrate, or officer of justice appointed under the authority of the United States, and shall, on request, be produced and shown to such judge, magistrate, or officer by any person in whose possession or control the same may be. Every person who shall violate the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by imprisonment not longer than two years, or by both said punishments, in the discretion of the court. And it shall be lawful for any United States commissioner, justice, judge, or court before whom any proceeding shall be pending in which such certificate, record, or entry may be material by proper warrant, to cause such certificate, record, or entry, and the book, document, or paper containing the same, to be taken and brought before him or it for the purposes of such proceeding.

SEC. 6. That nothing in this act shall be held to prevent the proof of marriages, whether lawful or unlawful, by any evidence now legally admissible for that purpose.

SEC. 7. That it shall not be lawful for any female to vote at any election hereafter held in the Territory of Utah for any public purpose whatever, and no such vote shall be received or counted or given effect in any manner whatever; and any and every act of the governor and Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah providing for or allowing the registration or voting by females is hereby annulled.

SEC. 8. That all laws of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah which provide for numbering or identifying the votes of the electors at any election in said Territory are hereby disapproved and annulled; but the foregoing provision shall not preclude the lawful registration of voters, or any other provisions for securing fair elections which do not involve the disclosure of the candidates for whom any particular elector shall have voted.

SEC. 9. That the laws enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah conferring jurisdiction upon probate courts, or the judges thereof, or any of them, in said Territory, other than in respect of the estates of deceased persons and in respect of the guardianship of the persons and property of infants, and in respect of the persons and property of persons not of sound mind, are hereby disapproved and annulled; and no probate court or judge of probate shall exercise any jurisdiction other than in respect of the matters aforesaid; and every such jurisdiction so by force of this act withdrawn from the said probate courts or judges shall be had and exercised by the district courts of said Territory, respectively.

SEC. 10. That the laws enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah which provide for or recognize the capacity of illegitimate children to inherit or to be entitled to any distributive share in the estate of the father of such illegitimate child are hereby disapproved and annulled; and no illegitimate child shall hereafter be entitled to inherit from his or her father or to receive any distributive share in the estate of his or her father: Provided, That this section shall not apply to any illegitimate child born previous to the passage of this act.

SEC. 11. That all laws of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah which provide that prosecution for adultery can only be commenced on the complaint of the husband or wife are hereby disapproved and annulled; and all prosecutions for adultery may hereafter be instituted in the same way that prosecutions for other crimes are.

SEC. 12. That the acts of the Legislative Assembly of Utah incorporating, continuing, or providing for the corporation known as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the ordinance of the so-called General Assembly of the State of Deseret incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, so far as the same may now have legal force and validity, are hereby disapproved and annulled, so far as the same may preclude the appointment by the United States of certain trustees of said corporation as is hereinafter provided. The President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint fourteen trustees of the said corporation, who shall have and exercise all the powers and functions of trustees and assistant trustees provided for in the laws creating, amending, or continuing the said corporation, which trustees so appointed shall hold their respective offices for the term of two years; and the trustees of said corporation shall annually or oftener make a full report to the Secretary of the Interior embracing all the property, business affairs, and operations of the said corporation; and the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah shall not have power to change the laws respecting said corporation without the approval of Congress. Said trustees shall each give bond, payable to the United States, with good and sufficient security, for the faithful discharge of the duties incumbent upon him as trustee, in such sum as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior.

SEC. 13. That it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the United States to institute and prosecute proceedings to forfeit and escheat to the United States the property of corporations obtained or held in violation of section 3 of the act of Congress approved the 1st day of July, 1862, entitled "An act to punish and prevent the practice of polygamy in the Territories of the United States and other places, and disapproving and annulling certain acts of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah," or in violation of section 1890 of the Revised Statutes of the United States; and all such property so forfeited and escheated to the United States shall be disposed of by the Secretary of the Interior, and the proceeds thereof applied to the use and benefit of the common schools in the Territory in which such property may be: Provided, That no building or the grounds appurtenant thereto shall be forfeited which is held and occupied exclusively for purposes of the worship of God.

SEC. 14. That in any proceeding for the enforcement of the provisions of law against corporations or associations acquiring or holding property in any Territory of the United States in excess of the amount limited by law, the court before which such proceeding may be instituted shall have power in a summary way to compel the production of all books, records, papers, and documents of or belonging to any trustee or person holding or controlling or managing property in which such corporation may have any right, title, or interest whatever.

SEC. 15. That all laws of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah, or of the so-called government of the State of Deseret, creating, organizing, amending, or continuing the corporation or association called the Perpetual Emigrating Fund Company are hereby disapproved and annulled; and it shall not be lawful for the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah to create, organize, or in any manner recognize any corporation or association for the purpose of or operating to accomplish the bringing of persons into the said Territory for any purpose whatsoever.

SEC. 16. That it shall be the duty of the Attorney-General of the United States to cause such proceedings to be taken in the supreme court of the Territory of Utah as shall be proper to dissolve the said corporation mentioned in the preceding section and pay the debts and to dispose of the property and assets thereof according to law. Said property and assets, in excess of the debts and the amount of any lawful claims established by the court against the same, and that by law shall escheat to the United States, shall be taken, invested, and disposed of by the Secretary of the Interior, under the direction of the President of the United States, for the benefit of common schools in said Territory.

SEC. 17. That the existing election districts and apportionments of representation concerning the members of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah are hereby abolished; and it shall be the duty of the governor, Territorial secretary, and the United States judges in said Territory forthwith to redistrict said Territory, and apportion representation in the same in such manner as to provide, as nearly as may be, for an equal representation of the people (excepting Indians not taxed), being citizens of the United States, according to numbers, in said Legislative Assembly, and to the number of members of the council and house of representatives, respectively, as now established by law; and a record of the establishment of such new districts and the apportionment of representation thereto shall be made in the office of the secretary of said Territory, and such establishment and representation shall continue until Congress shall otherwise provide; and no persons other than citizens of the United States otherwise qualified shall be entitled to vote at any election in said Territory.

SEC. 18. That the provisions of section 9 of said act, approved March 22, 1882, in regard to registration and election officers, and the registration of voters, and the conduct of elections, and the powers and duties of the board therein mentioned, shall continue and remain operative until the provision and laws therein referred to to be made and enacted by the Legislative Assembly of said Territory of Utah shall have been made and enacted by said Assembly and shall have been approved by Congress.

SEC. 19. That whoever commits adultery shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding three years; and when the act is committed between a married woman and a man who is unmarried, both parties to such act shall be deemed guilty of adultery; and when such act is committed between a married man and a woman who is unmarried, the man shall be deemed guilty of adultery.

SEC. 20. If any person related to another person within and not including the fourth degree of consanguinity, computed according to the rules of the civil law, shall marry, or cohabit with, or have sexual intercourse with such other so related person, knowing her or him to be within said degree of relationship, the person so offending shall be deemed guilty of incest, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentary not less than three years nor more than five years.

SEC. 21. That if an unmarried man or woman commit fornication, each of them shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by fine not exceeding $100.

SEC. 22. That commissioners appointed by the supreme court and district courts in the Territory of Utah shall possess and may exercise all the powers and jurisdiction that are or may be possessed or exercised by justices of the peace in said Territory under the laws thereof, and the same powers conferred by law on commissioners appointed by circuit courts of the United States.

SEC. 23. That the marshal of said Territory of Utah and his deputies shall possess and may exercise all the powers in executing the laws of the United States possessed and exercised by sheriffs and their deputies as peace officers; and each of them shall cause all offenders against the law, in his view, to enter into recognizance to keep the peace and to appear at the next term of the court having jurisdiction of the case, and to commit to jail in case of failure to give such recognizance. They shall quell and suppress assaults and batteries, riots, routs, affrays, and insurrections, and shall apprehend and commit to jail all felons.

SEC. 24. That the office of Territorial superintendent of district schools created by the laws of Utah is hereby delared vacant; and it shall be the duty of the supreme court of said Territory to appoint a Territorial superintendent of district schools, who shall possess and exercise all the powers and duties imposed by the laws of said Territory upon the Territorial superintendent of district schools, and who shall receive the same salary and compensation, which shall be paid out of the treasury of said Territory; and the laws of the Territory of Utah providing for the method of election and appointment of such Territorial superintendent of district schools are hereby suspended until the further action of Congress shall be had in respect thereto. The said superintendent shall have power to prohibit the use in any district school of any book of a sectarian character or otherwise unsuitable. Said superintendent shall collect and classify statistics and other information respecting the district schools in said Territory, showing their progress, the whole number of children of school age, the number who attended school in each year in the respective counties, and average length of time of their attendance, the number of teachers and the compensation paid to the same, the number of teachers who are Mormons, the number who are so-called Gentiles, the number of children of Mormon parents and the number of children of so-called Gentile parents, and their respective average attendance at school. All of which statistics and information shall be annually reported to Congress, through the governor of said Territory and the Department of the Interior.

SEC. 25. (a) A widow shall be endowed of the third part of all the lands whereof her husband was seized of an estate of inheritance at any time during the marriage, unless she shall have lawfully released her right thereto.

(b) The widow of any alien who at the time of his death shall be entitled by law to hold any real estate, if she be an inhabitant of the Territory at the time of such death, shall be entitled to dower of such estate in the same manner as if such alien had been a native citizen.

(c) If a husband seized of an estate of inheritance in lands exchanged them for other lands, his widow shall not have dower of both, but shall make her election to be endowed of the lands given or of those taken in exchange; and if such election be not evinced by the commencement of proceedings to recover her dower of the lands given in exchange within one year after the death of her husband, she shall be deemed to have elected to take her dower of the lands received in exchange.

(d) When a person seized of an estate of inheritance in lands shall have executed a mortgage on such estate before marriage, his widow shall nevertheless be entitled to dower out of the lands mortgaged as against every person except the mortgagee and those claiming under him.

(e) Where a husband shall purchase lands during coverture, and shall at the same time mortgage his estate in such lands to secure the payment of the purchase-money, his widow shall not be entitled to dower out of such lands, as against the mortgagee or those claiming under him, although she shall not have united in such mortgage; but she shall be entitled to her dower as against all other persons.

(f) Where in such case the mortgagee, or those claiming under him, shall, after the death of the husband of such widow, cause the land mortgaged to be sold, either under a power of sale contained in the mortgage or by virtue of the decree of a court of equity, and if any surplus shall remain after payment of the moneys due on such mortgage and the costs and charges of the sale, such widow shall nevertheless be entitled to the interest or income of the one-third part of such surplus, for her life, as her dower.

(g) A widow shall not be endowed of lands conveyed to her husband by way of mortgage unless he acquire an absolute estate therein during the married period.

(h) In case of divorce dissolving the marriage contract for the misconduct of he wife, she shall not be endowed.

SALLIE JARRATT.

Mr. HARRIS. Yesterday the Senate passed a bill (S. 16) for the relief of Sallie Jarratt, executrix of Gregory Jarratt, deceased. I desire to enter a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed and the vote by which the bill was ordered to a third reading, because of the fact, which I learn to-day, that Sallie Jarratt died a short time since, and I want to amend the bill so as to pass it for the relief of the administrator de bonis non instead of Sallie Jarratt, who is dead.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Tennessee wishes the motion to reconsider entered?

Mr. HARRIS. I wish to enter both motions, and if the Senate will indulge me, as it will take but a moment to reconsider the vote and amend, I ask that it may be done at this time.

Mr. EDMUNDS. If the Senator will just enter the motion, then it will be a motion that can be taken up Monday morning in the morning hour, and we can look at it.

Mr. HARRIS. Then I wish to enter both motions, the motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed and the motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was ordered to a third reading.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The motions will be entered.

Mr. EDMUNDS. I move that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 5 o'clock and 45 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned.

SENATE.

MONDAY, January 11, 1886.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. E. D. HUNTLEY, D. D.

The Journal of the proceedings of Friday last was read and approved.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore presented a resolution adopted by the American Metrological Society of New York city, favoring the suspension of the coinage of the silver dollar; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. SAWYER presented resolutions adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of Milwaukee, Wis., in favor of the suspension of the compulsory coinage of the standard silver dollar; which were referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon, presented the petition of E. H. Brodie, late ordnance sergeant, United States Army, of Astoria, Oreg., praying for the passage of a bill awarding him a certificate of merit for distinguished bravery and good conduct at the battle of Cerro Gordo, Mexico; which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HARRISON presented the petition of Veite, Stockwell & Co., and 10 other wholesale grocers at Evansville, Ind., praying for the appointment of commissioners on the part of the United States to confer with those of Canada for the settlement of the fisheries question; which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. HALE. I present the petition of J. Eglinton Montgomery, late United States consul at Leipsic, Germany, praying reimbursement of expenses incurred in obedience to orders from the United States. This paper is not in the form of a petition addressed to Congress, but is addressed to the Committee on Claims, though evidently intended for Congress. I therefore ask leave to present it, and that it be referred to the Committee on Claims.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The petition will be received, if there be no objection, and so referred.

Mr. HALE presented the memorial of R. I. Wooster and others, citizens of Maine; the memorial of Joseph Wood and others, citizens of Maine; the memorial of Charles F. Eaton and others, citizens of Maine; the memorial of G. H. Condon and others, citizens of Maine; and the memorial of F. L. Hodgkins and others, citizens of Maine, remonstrating against any action by the executive department or Congress which will fail to protect the New England fisheries; which were referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. WILSON, of Maryland, presented the petition of William H. Haines and others, citizens of Cecil County, Maryland; the petition of Thomas C. Crouch and others, citizens of Cecil County, Maryland; and the petition of William H. Barton and others, citizens of Dorchester County, Maryland, praying for the suspension of the coinage of the standard silver dollar; which were referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. BUTLER presented the petition of E. R. Wallace, president of the Merchants and Planters' National Bank, Union, S. C.; George Munro, cashier; J. D. Arthur, book-keeper; I. D. Jones, J. C. Hunter, A. H. Foster, J. H. Bartles, W. D. Bewley, and 22 others, merchants and business men, citizens of Union, S. C.; and the petition of Charles O. Witte, president of the People's National Bank of Charleston, S. C.; E. H. Sparkman, cashier; Andrew Simonds, president of the First National Bank; Andrew Simonds, vice-president; George W. Williams, president of the Carolina Savings Bank; Bank of Charleston; South Carolina Loan and Trust Company, and 26 other mercantile firms and business men of Charleston, S. C., praying for the repeal of the law requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to coin not less than 2,000,000 of standard silver dollars per month; which were referred to the Committee on Finance.

He also presented resolutions of the Chamber of Commerce of Charleston, S. C., in favor of an appropriation for a new revenue-cutter to be stationed at that port; which were referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also presented the petition of Edgar O. Murden, a native of South Carolina, praying for the removal of his political disabilities; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. BLACKBURN presented a memorial of citizens of Kentucky, remonstrating against the passage of a bill to establish the eastern judicial district of Kentucky; which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. BLAIR. I present the petition of Stephen C. Hoops, late of Company C, One hundredth Regiment Ohio Volunteers, and 8 other ex-Union soldiers, representing the volunteer service in Pennsylvania, Ohio, the District of Columbia, Maryland, Massachusetts, one or two other States, and the regular Army, praying for the establishment of national homes for indigent and maimed ex-confederate soldiers. I move that the petition be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. BLAIR presented the petition of W. S. Wrenn and others, of Savoy, Tex., and the petition of W. S. Cole and others, of Limaburg, Ky., praying for the passage of a bill granting temporary aid to common schools; which were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Pennsylvania, presented a petition of Hays Post, Grand Army of the Republic, Pittsburgh, Pa., praying for the passage of a bill granting public lands to the soldiers and sailors of the late war; which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. COLQUITT presented a petition of citizens of Georgia, praying for the repeal of the so-called silver coinage law; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. SPOONER, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the bill (S. 296) for the relief of Alfred G. Hatfield, reported it with an amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. DOLPH, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 85) for the relief of B. Jennings, reported it without amendment, and submitted a report thereon.

Mr. PLUMB, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the bill (S. 218) to confirm the title to certain lands in Platte County, Missouri, and authorize patents to be issued therefor to Kinsey B. Cecil, reported it without amendment.

He also, from the same committee, to whom was referred the bill (S. 149) forfeiting a part of certain lands granted to the State of Iowa to aid in the construction of railroads in that State, and for other purposes, reported it with amendments.

Mr. PLUMB. I ask unanimous consent that at some future day I may make a written report to accompany the bill which has just been reported (S. 149); and I give notice to the Senate that at an early day I shall ask the Senate to consider the bill.

ADMISSION OF DAKOTA.

Mr. HARRISON. I am directed by the Committee on Territories, to whom the subject was referred, to submit a report, accompanied by an original bill, relating to the admission of Dakota.

The bill (S. 967) to provide for the admission of the State of Dakota into the Union, and for the organization of the Territory of Lincoln, was read twice by its title, and ordered to be placed upon the Calendar.

Mr. HARRISON. I desire also, in order that it may be disposed of, to report adversely and ask the indefinite postponement of Senate bill 578 on the same subject.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Indiana moves the indefinite postponement of the bill (S. 578) providing for the admission of the State of Dakota into the Union and for the organization of the Territory of North Dakota. If there be no objection that motion will be considered as agreed to.

Mr. BUTLER. Mr. President——

Mr. HARRISON. I was going to say that the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] was not present when the bill was acted upon by the committee, and if there is any desire to reserve the right of the minority to present their views I ask that it may be done.

Mr. BUTLER. I simply rose for the purpose of saying that I would ask that privilege. I have had no time to examine the report and know nothing about it. I shall therefore be glad, after examining it, to have the opportunity of submitting a minority report if it be deemed necessary.

Mr. HARRISON. In connection with this matter I desire to ask to have printed an additional number of copies, more than the ordinary number, of the report. The ordinary number, I believe, is 1,900, of which, if I am rightly informed, something less than 300 copies remain in the Senate for distribution. I think there should be an additional number of copies of the report printed, as there will be perhaps a somewhat wide desire to see it.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. What number does the Senator propose?

Mr. HARRISON. I would ask for information whether I am right in supposing that 1,900 is the usual number printed?

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Nineteen hundred is the usual number of a document printed. The Senator from Connecticut [Mr. HAWLEY] can answer.

Mr. HARRISON. I ask the Senator from Connecticut what is the usual number of copies of reports printed?

Mr. HAWLEY. Nineteen hundred; and two or three hundred of that number are at the disposal of the Senate.

Mr. HARRISON. Nineteen hundred, I am advised, is the usual number. I think it would be well that as many as 5,000 copies of this report should be printed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Indiana asks unanimous consent of the Senate for an order to print 5,000 extra copies of the report on the bill in respect to the State of Dakota.

Mr. BUTLER. I shall be constrained to object to that for the present until I can have an opportunity of examining the report.

Mr. ALLISON. The motion must go to the Committee on Printing, and let that committee report upon it.

Mr. INGALLS. Let it go to the Committee on Printing under the rules.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Objection being made to the unanimous consent for printing extra copies, the question will be referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. HARRISON. I suppose that the resolution or order will go to the Committee on Printing to report. I shall put it in the form of a resolution, so that it may be referred to the Committee on Printing.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The order to print the usual number is made as a matter of course. The order proposed to print an extra number of copies will go to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. HARRISON. I am also directed by the Committee on Territories to report adversely on two resolutions, one submitted by the Senator from South Carolina [Mr. BUTLER] and one by the Senator from Missouri [Mr. VEST], relating the one to the proceedings taken by the people of Dakota in the formation of a State government, and the other to the communication accompanying the constitution as it was laid before the Senate by the presiding officer. If the Senator from South Carolina desires his resolution to go upon the Calendar, I will ask that that be done, and as the Senator from Missouri is not in his place, perhaps that resolution also had better go upon the Calendar.

Mr. BUTLER. May I inquire what action was taken by the committee upon these resolutions? I did not hear the Senator.

Mr. HARRISON. I was directed to report them adversely. I will say to the Senator from South Carolina that we have not submitted a written report upon these resolutions, for the reason that the report accompanying the bill was thought by the committee to contain all necessary references to the reasons upon which the adverse reports were based in reference to the resolutions.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Indiana, from the Committee on Territories, reports adversely the resolutions which will be stated.

The SECRETARY. A resolution by Mr. BUTLER instructing the Committee on Territories to inquire under what authority a so-called State legislature has been organized in the Territory of Dakota.

A resolution by Mr. VEST relative to the memorial of certain persons calling themselves the State executive committee of the State of Dakota.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. These resolutions, with the adverse reports, will take their place on the Calendar.

Mr. HARRISON subsequently submitted the following resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved by the Senate, That there be printed 5,000 extra copies of the report of the Committee on Territories accompanying the bill (S. 967) to provide for the admission of the State of Dakota into the Union and for the organization of the Territory of Lincoln.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. VANCE introduced a bill (S. 968) to provide for the erection of a public building in Statesville, N. C.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds.

Mr. JACKSON introduced a bill (S. 969) to authorize the employment of law clerks or stenographers for the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. BUTLER introduced a bill (S. 970) for the relief of Agnes and Maria De Leon, heirs at law of Rebecca L. De Leon, deceased; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

He (by request) also introduced a bill (S. 971) relating to the pay and retirement of the mates in the Navy; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 972) for the relief of Thomas P. Morgan, jr; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. ALLISON introduced a bill (S. 973) granting an increase of pension to Mrs. Sarah P. McKean; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 974) to amend section 5 of the act entitled "An act to amend the statutes in relation to immediate transportation of dutiable goods, and for other purposes," approved June 10, 1880; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MILLER, of New York, introduced a bill (S. 975) for the relief of Mathilda Victor; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. HARRISON introduced a bill (S. 976) for the relief of certain officers of the Signal Service; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 977) granting a pension to Elizabeth Barker; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. CULLOM introduced a bill (S. 978) for the relief of Henry Head, of Quincy, Ill.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 979) granting a pension to Mrs. Mary J. Saunders; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. MCMILLAN introduced a bill (S. 980) granting the right of way to the Cinnabar and Clark's Fork Railroad Company; which was read twice by its title.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bill will be referred to the Committee on Railroads if there be no objection.

Mr. HARRISON. I think the reference should be to the Committee on Territories. It is a question of the granting of a right of way through the Yellowstone Park to a railroad company. That subject has been considered by the Committee on Territories heretofore. Several bills of the same purport as this have been introduced at previous sessions of the Senate and they have always gone to the Committee on Territories, as has all legislation proposed in regard to the Yellowstone National Park; and that is evidently the appropriate reference.

Mr. MCMILLAN. I think the Senator from Indiana is mistaken in the impression he conveys to the Senate that a similar bill has been referred to the Committee on Territories before. Such a bill as this was reported favorably after full consideration, as I understand, by the Committee on Railroads.

Mr. HARRISON. Possibly I may be mistaken as to the reference at the last Congress, and if so, as I understand the Senator from Conecticut [Mr. HAWLEY] also to be of the opinion of the Senator from Minnesota, I shall not interpose any objection to the present reference of this bill to the Committee on Railroads.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The reference is so made.

Mr. SPOONER introduced a bill (S. 981) for the relief of purchasers and other grantees of the United States of certain swamp and overflowed lands and to reimburse and indemnify certain States; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 982) granting the right of way to the Wyoming Central Railway Company across the Fort Fetterman military reservation, in the Territory of Wyoming; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 983) granting a pension to Michael Daly; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 984) to regulate the foreclosure of mortgages and deeds of trust in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced a bill (S. 985) to authorize the construction and maintenance of a bridge by the Dakota Central Railway Company across the Missouri River at Pierre, Dak.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 986) authorizing the Quartermaster-General and the proper accounting officers of the Treasury Department to examine and pass upon the claims of Frederick Martin and Mark Newell; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. SABIN introduced a bill (S. 987) for the relief of William H. Whiting; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. STANFORD introduced a bill (S. 988) for the relief of William R. Wheaton and Charles H. Chamberlain, of California; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 989) to authorize the adjustment of certain accounts arising in the Indian service; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs.

He also introduced a bill (S. 990) to enable the State of California to take lands in lieu of the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections found to be mineral lands; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 991) for the relief of settlers under the desert-land act; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 992) for the relief of Jerome Madden, of California; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 993) to appropriate the unexpended balance heretofore appropriated by Congress for the suppression of Indian hostilities in the State of California; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

He also introduced a bill (S. 994) granting to the State of California 5 per cent. of the net proceeds of the sales of public lands in said State; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

He also introduced a bill (S. 995) to credit and pay to the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia all moneys collected under the direct tax levied by the act of Congress approved August 5, 1861; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, introduced a bill (S. 996) for the relief of Leslie Barrett; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads.

Mr. COKE (by request) introduced a bill (S. 997) to create the judicial district of North Texas and Indian Territory; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. GORMAN introduced a bill (S. 998) referring to the Court of Claims the claim of the owner of the bark General Berry, destroyed when in the service of the United States; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also introduced a bill (S. 999) to provide for the extension of letters patent for an improvement in insulating submarine cables; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Patents.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1000) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds to Albert V. Conway, substituted trustee, for certain registered United States bonds redeemed or assigned by the Government upon forged assignments; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MAHONE introduced a bill (S. 1001) for the relief of Arthur Connell; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. LOGAN (by request) introduced a bill (S. 1002) for the relief of the officers and crew of the light-house tender Lily and the inspector of the fourteenth United States light-house district; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. FRYE introduced a bill (S. 1003) relating to pilotage; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1004) to abolish certain fees for official services to American vessels, and to amend the laws relating to shipping commissioners, seamen, and owners of vessels, and for other purposes; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. SAWYER (by request) introduced a bill (S. 1005) for the relief of the heirs at law of John Graham; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 1006) for the relief of James W. Schaumburg; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. MANDERSON introduced a bill (S. 1007) to divide the State of Nebraska into two judicial districts; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. WILSON, of Maryland, introduced a bill (S. 1008) to empower the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church to hold property in the District of Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. MITCHELL, of Oregon, introduced a bill (S. 1009) providing an appropriation for the speedy completion of the improvements at the entrance to Yaquima Bay, Oregon; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1010) providing an appropriation for continuing the improvements at the entrance to Coos Bay, Oregon; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1011) providing an appropriation for continuing the improvement of the Coquille River, Oregon; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1012) providing an additional appropriation for the purpose of continuing work on the canal and locks at the Cascades of the Columbia; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. HALE introduced a bill (S. 1013) providing for the establishment of a port of entry at Mount Desert Ferry, in the town of Hancock, in the State of Maine; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1014) granting a pension to Ella I. Small; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1015) for the relief of the owners and officers of the brig Olive Frances, and others on board said brig; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a bill (S. 1016) to grant an increase of pension to Abel Comstock; which was read twice by tis title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. INGALLS introduced a bill (S. 1017) to increase the pension of John F. Stukey; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1018) for the relief of Patrick Cook; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1019) granting a pension to Charlotte McCay; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Pensions.

He also introduced a bill (S. 1020) authorizing the District of Columbia to convey the alley, 15 fee twide, running east and west, between lots 6 and 7, in square 635, comprising an area of 3,480 square feet of land, to the owner of said lots; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the District of Columbia.

He also (by request) introduced a bill (S. 1021) for the relief of Wilbur F. Cogswell; which was read twice by its title, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Mr. COCKRELL introduced a bill (S. 1022) granting a pension to Hoy Cooper; which was read twice by its title.

Mr. COCKRELL. I present, to accompany the bill, a petition and sundry affidavits and a letter from the Secretary of War to me in regard to it. I move that the bill, with the accompanying papers, be referred to the Committee on Pensions.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. MAHONE introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 25) for the relief of William B. Isaacs & Co.; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a joint resolution (S. R. 26) relative to a certain accepted draft in the Department of State; which was read twice by its title, and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

PAPERS WITHDRAWN AND REFERRED.

On motion of Mr. BUTLER, it was Ordered, That the papers in the case of Thomas P. Morgan, jr., be withdrawn from the files of the Senate, under the rules, and referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion of Mr. CULLOM, it was Ordered, That the papers now on the files in the matter of the claim of Henry Head be withdrawn and referred to the Committee on Claims, no report having been made in the case.

On motion of Mr. MAHONE, it was Ordered, That the petition and papers in support of the claim of Arthur Connell be withdrawn from the files of the Senate and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Ordered, That the papers in support of the claim of William B. Isaacs & Co. be withdrawn from the files of the Senate and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

On motion of Mr. SAWYER, it was Ordered, That the papers in the case of the heirs at law of John Graham be withdrawn from the files of the Senate and referred to the Committee on Claims.

Ordered, That the papers in the case of James W. Schaumburg be withdrawn from the files of the Senate and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

On motion of Mr. PALMER, it was Ordered, That the papers in the case of John Burt, of Michigan, be withdrawn from the files of the Senate and referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion of Mr. HARRISON, it was Ordered, That the papers accompanying the bill for the relief of John A. Runyan be withdrawn from the Committee on Military Affairs and referred to the Committee on Pensions, to accompany the bill (S. 800) granting an increase of pension to John A. Runyan.

On motion of Mr. COCKRELL, it was Ordered, That the papers relating to the claims of J. A. Ralston, E. E. Rawson, A. Pike, and the trustees of Odd Fellows' Hall, Pulaski, Tenn., be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion of Mr. BLAIR, it was Ordered, That the petition and papers of Cornelius Connell be taken from the files and referred to the Committee on Claims.

CHURCH AND STATE.

Mr. MORGAN submitted the following resolution; which was read:

Whereas the union of church and state in the conduct of a joint administration of the temporal or spiritual affairs of any church or religious sect or society is dangerous to the freedom of religious worship and opinion and violates the principles of the Constitution of the United States:

1. Resolved, That in the opinion of the Senate it is not within the power of Congress to appoint officers of the United States, by whatever name they may be called, who shall in the name of, or on behalf of, the United States be required to participate with the officers of any church or religious sect or society, whether or not the same is incorporated, in the joint conduct and administration of the spiritual or temporal affairs of such church, sect, or society.

2. That it is a practical violation of the Constitution for the President of the United States to appoint any such officer under any law which assumes to confer such power on him and that requires such duties to be performed by such appointee as are mentioned in the first resolution, and that fixes upon them a direct accountability or responsibility to the executive or legislative department of the Government of the United States for their conduct in office.

3. That it is not the constitutional function of the executive or legislative department of the Government of the United States to exert control in the direction and administration of the religious or temporal affairs of any church or religious sect or society, but such power, if it may be in any case lawfully exerted by any department of the Government of the United States, can only be exercised by the judicial department.

4. That the power of Congress to grant charters of incorporation to religious societies in localities under its exclusive jurisdiction does not extend to and include the right or authority to participate in the administration of the affairs of such incorporations through the agency of officers of the United States appointed for such purpose and accountable to the Government for their conduct in office.

Mr. MORGAN. I ask that the resolution may be printed and lie over. I desire to submit some remarks upon it before it is referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Alabama asks for an order to print the resolution and that it may lie over. If there be no objection that order will be entered.

COIN DUTIES ON IMPORTED GOODS.

Mr. COKE. Mr. President, I desire to give notice that on Wednesday, the 13th instant, at 2 o'clock, I shall ask the Senate to take up and consider the resolution submitted by the Senator from Kentucky [Mr. BECK] relative to the payment of customs dues and the disbursements thereof, and I shall ask permission to submit some remarks upon it.

MONUMENTS TO LINCOLN AND GRANT.

Mr. BLAIR. Several days since, when I introduced bills relating to the construction of monuments to Lincoln and Grant, I desired to say a few words in explanation of the bills not exceeding three or four minutes, but in the rush of business I thought it best at that time not to ask the courtesy of the Senate for that purpose. If I could have at this time not over five minutes to do so I should be very much obliged.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The bills referred to are not on the Calendar.

Mr. BLAIR. No, but I ask unanimous consent simply to be allowed to make a statement at this time in regard to them.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from New Hampshire asks the unanimous consent of the Senate to submit some remarks upon bills which have been referred to one of the standing committees. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. BLAIR. I am partly led to do this from the fact that I have received many letters on the subject which would require considerable correspondence, and therefore I take this occasion to reply.

The bill (S. 817) to provide for the erection of a monument to the memory of Abraham Lincoln is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That for ten years next after the passage of this act there shall be annually appropriated from the money in the Treasury $100,000, which several sums shall be expended, under the direction of the President, in the erection of a monument to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

SEC. 2. That said monument shall be located in the center of Lincoln Square, east of the Capitol, in the city of Washington, D. C.

SEC. 3. That the whole cost of said monument shall be $1,000,000; the work thereon shall begin within one year after the passage of this act; and said monument shall be similar in general style to that erected to the memory of George Washington in the city of Washington, and built in accordance with plans and estimates to be approved by the President before the commencement of the work.

SEC. 4. That this monument shall be built under the direction of the President, and without resort to the contract system, so called, any further than shall be unavoidable in obtaining materials and decorations which cannot be constructed by labor and skill at the place of erection; and none but American citizens, native or naturalized, shall be employed in the performance of labor on said monument, and, so far as shall be consistent with the progress and fitness, of the work, a rigid preference shall be given to the employment of soldiers who have been honorably discharged from the military and naval service of the United States.

The bill (S. 818) to provide for the erection of a monument to the memory of Ulysses S. Grant is the same, with the exception of the second section, which is as follows:

That said monument shall be located due north of the Capitol, within the limits of the District of Columbia.

It is conceded that the great names in our history so far are Washington, Lincoln, and Grant. They are a brotherhood, a trinity, conceived of in the popular mind not alone as equals, but as actual associates, consulting still and forever, to preside over the destiny of the nation and the Government which, by their wise and patriotic deeds while living, they preserved.

Washington's monument has been erected—a sublime and unequaled shaft, which more and more impresses one as the most appropriate design that could have been selected. To adopt any other design save in the surroundings and minor things in the way of statues about the base and other mere adornments for his brethren and associates, Lincoln and Grant, would mar the unity of that tribute which the three monuments as a whole would constitute to the patriotic virtues and high deeds to which these men consecrated their lives.

The experience of our people in the effort to erect the monument to Washington (which cost substantially a million) demonstrates that no like and suitable memorial will ever be erected in this city, if indeed in any other, to Lincoln and Grant by private effort alone.

Yes, the nation ought to build them, and the nation will build them, or they will not be built at all. It is already plain that Lincoln, dead now twenty-one years, will receive no adequate tribute from the nation if private effort be relied upon; while the struggle to obtain a few dollars by private subscription shows the hopelessness of the task in the case of Grant even now, when the heart of the people is full of a recent grief. The simple truth is that the numerous calls for less imposing memorials than would be appropriate in the capital of the nation very heavily taxes the utmost capacity of local communities, and it is a shabby thing on the part of the nation to wait for private enterprise to move or to leave these monuments here longer unbuilt.

As to the location, Washington Monument is due west from the center of the Capitol, the center of Lincoln Square is due east from the center of the Capitol about the same distance. Go now to the north front of the Senate wing and look up North Capitol street to the horizon about the same distance. There is apparently the highest point of the hills that environ the city, a city like Zion of old, which by hills surrounded stands beautiful for situation—the joy of the whole earth. Here, then, erect the monument to Grant among the soldiers whom he led and under the North Star.

Conceive, now, these unequaled pillars climbing with equal step nearer to heaven than any others on the face of the earth; conceive of them as completed, and you will find it impossible long to believe them to be lifeless rock—but instinct, rather, with the life-blood of the nation and with the personal presence of the heroes and statesmen they commemorate. There they would stand forever, dominating the great cardinal points of our history and destiny. The power of these great monuments as educators over those who behold them or even think of them will be very great. But whatever style or location be adopted, let appropriate monuments be erected. The fourth section of the bill is in strict keeping with the sentiments which inspire the main idea. American citizens, native or naturalized (those who have declared their intention to be naturalized are held to be entitled to protection as citizens), should build these monuments. The expenditure should be for the benefit of those who need employment, and more and more the money paid out on public works must be given to those who are unable to command work in any other way, and thus something be done to insure wages and support to our surplus laboring population; while the long-sanctioned principle that preference shall be given to the soldier and sailor who has been honorably discharged from the service is to be rigidly complied with so far as it can be consistently with the progress and fitness of the work. One hundred thousand dollars appropriated annually to each monument for ten years would be but a slight expenditure, while it certainly would insure uniformity in amount of employment, thoroughness of inspection, and consequent stability and perfection of the work.

SALLIE JARRATT.

Mr. MANDERSON. On Thursday last I gave notice that at this hour I would desire to address the Senate upon the bill (S. 137) to increase the efficiency of the infantry branch of the Army. I ask unanimous consent that that bill be now taken from the table and read.

Mr. HARRIS. Would it inconvenience the Senator from Nebraska to allow me to dispose of a motion to reconsider before he proceeds?

Mr. MANDERSON. Certainly not; I yield for that purpose.

Mr. HARRIS. As the Senator from Nebraska yields for that purpose, I ask the Senate now to consider the motion I entered on the last day's session to reconsider the vote by which the bill (S. 16) for the relief of Sallie Jarratt, executrix of Gregory Jarratt, deceased, was passed.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Tennessee moves to reconsider the vote by which the bill indicated by him was passed.

The motion to reconsider was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. I also entered a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was ordered to a third reading.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Tennessee also moves that the vote by which the bill was ordered to a third reading be reconsidered.

The motion to reconsider was agreed to.

Mr. HARRIS. Now I wish to strike out the name of Sallie Jarratt and to insert the name which I have sent to the desk as administrator de bonis non.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The amendment will be reported.

The CHIEF CLERK. In line 4, after the word "to," strike out the words "Sallie Jarratt, executrix," and insert in lieu thereof the words "J. A. Wilson, administrator de bonis non of the estate;" so as to read:

That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, directed to pay to J. A. Wilson, administrator de bonis non of the estate of Gregory Jarratt, deceased, late of Hardeman County, Tennessee, &c.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time, and passed.

The title was amended so as to read: "A bill for the relief of J. A. Wilson, administrator de bonis non of the estate of Gregory Jarratt, deceased."

EFFICIENCY OF THE INFANTRY.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The Senator from Nebraska [Mr. MANDERSON] asks the unanimous consent of the Senate to proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 137) to increase the efficiency of the infantry branch of the Army. If there be no objection that motion will be considered as agreed to, and the bill is before the Senate.

Mr. MANDERSON. I ask that the bill be read at length.

The Chief Clerk read the bill (S. 137) to increase the efficiency of the infantry branch of the Army, as follows:

Whereas experience has shown that the three-battalion organization of the cavalry and artillery branches of the Army is the most useful in time of peace and best adapted to expansion in time of war: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 1106 of the Revised Statutes of the United States of America be amended so as to read as follows:

"Each infantry regiment shall consist of twelve companies, one colonel, one lieutenant-colonel, three majors, one adjutant, one quartermaster, one sergeant-major, one quartermaster-sergeant, and one chief musician, who shall be instructor of music, and two principal musicians. The adjutant and the quartermaster shall be extra lieutenants, selected from the first or second lieutenants of the regiment: Provided, That all appointments to the original vacancies above the grade of second lieutenant created by this act shall be filled by seniority in the infantry arm of the service."

Mr. MANDERSON. Mr. President, the Constitution of the United States, framed by the people for the purposes expressed in its preamble, among which are to insure domestic tranquillity and provide for the common defense, grants to the Congress the power to raise and support armies, provide and maintain a navy, provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for calling them forth to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrection, and repel invasion. These grants were the natural incidents flowing from the great power vested in the Congress, the right that is the highest prerogative of sovereignty, to declare war. The wise men who draughted the sacred instrument, coming to their labor fresh from the scenes of the war of the Revolution, realized the necessity for the maintenance in highest efficiency of a body of men selected from the best citizens of the country, trained and educated to arms, who should form the rallying-point, when danger threatened, for that well-regulated militia declared to be so necessary to the security of a free state that the right of the people to bear arms should not be infringed. Realizing fully the onerous burden to the people of the support of the non-producing, much-consuming soldier, alive to the dangers of a large standing army, they realized just as fully that successful outcome to the governmental experiment just launched, and the maintenance of the new union of weak States as a nation upon the earth meant a condition of preparation for evils likely to threaten and the remaining in position to strike sturdy blows in vigorous attacks upon the traitor within or the foe without.

I submit, in view of these grants of power thus hurriedly sketched, there came to the Congress of the United States not only power but duty, and duty most high and imperative. Unforeseen and unexpected circumstances within our own borders in the intercourse among States, or arising from contact with foreign nations, might render it necessary for the national preservation at any time to declare war. This fact made it the duty of Congress at all times to support an army and maintain a navy, that we might be prepared for either attack or defense—be ready to give or to receive blows. There is not in constitution or statute a higher instance of where the optional may means the imperative shall.

And not only is it its duty to support and maintain the Army and Navy, but it should see to it that by means of the finest armament, the best equipment, and the highest organization it is sufficient for the purposes for which it is to be used, affording the assurance of security in time of peace, and be the efficient, instructive nucleus to which our volunteer and militia organizations shall adhere in time of war.

The fact that the Army is to be a small one, compared with the arms-bearing population, is greater and more abundant reason for the highest order of organization and the best approved methods. The timid soul, afraid of a standing army, who sees in it a constant menace to the liberties of the people, and who fears the coming of the military dictator, held in usurping place by the bayonets of his hero-worshiping followers, has almost ceased to exist. But from the earliest days of the Republic his dismal forebodings have been heard, and I presume always will be until nations shall war no more. As long ago as when Mr. Calhoun, of South Carolina, was Secretary of War these words were spoken by that far-seeing student of history:

To consider the present Army as dangerous to our liberty partakes, it is conceived, more of timidity than wisdom. Not to insist on the character of the officers, who as a body are high-minded and honorable men, attached to principles of freedom by education and reflection, what well-grounded apprehension can there be from an establishment distributed on so extended a frontier, with many thousand miles intervening between the extreme points occupied? But the danger, it may be said, is not so much from its numbers as a spirit hostile to liberty by which it is supposed all regular armies are actuated. This observation is probably true when applied to standing armies collected into large and powerful masses; but disposed as ours is over so vast a surface the danger, I conceive, is of an opposite character—that both officers and soldiers will lose their military habits and feelings by sliding gradually into those purely civil.

Mr. Calhoun had limited experience bearing upon this subject, however, compared with those here to-day who saw the country pass safely through the dark days of the war of rebellion and witnessed the vast contending hosts disappear so magically. And yet the veterans of both sides, Union and confederate, what thorough soldiers had they become! Many of them so youthful that they knew no other calling but "the pride and pomp and circumstance of glorious war;" the rest with civil pursuits completely abandoned and their places in the busy marts of the world filled by others; all inured to the field, with the habits of the military life fixed upon them; full of love for their old leaders, for they had followed Grant and Sherman, Lee and Johnson—these men disappeared among the ranks of civilians, losing their identity, except as they were known as the most liberty-loving of citizens. A most distinguished soldier, equally prominent as civilian, who passed to his reward but a few months ago and who had exceptional opportunity to know whereof he spake, General George B. McClellan, writes in 1877:

All the incidents of the past prove that the Army will never have the disposition to jeopardize the free institutions of the country. Our nation would be safe indeed for all time did the mass of its citizens place upon its institutions the same intelligent appreciation as that in which they are held by the Army, and were honor, integrity, and respect for the laws as much the rule among the people as they are in the regular Army, which has given too many proofs of heroism, of integrity, of devotion to the country to be regarded as a source of danger. On the contrary, he who understands its history must regard it with pride and satisfaction as one of the chief ornaments of the nation, as a school wherein are taught and practiced the virtues of valor, self-denial, obedience, and patriotism, and as an institution which has never called the blush of shame to the face of an American.

The indorsement of this gallant soldier and pure-minded gentleman is not a whit too strong, and I submit that the objection to a standing army of proper numbers and a high degree of efficiency can be dismissed as one unworthy of serious consideration.

Had the Congress of the United States always performed its duty as enjoined by the Constitution in this behalf, many of the darkest pages of our history would never have been written. When war has come it is always the unexpected that has happened. When it does come, fortunate the nation that finds itself prepared for the dreadful trial and its adversary lacking in knowledge of the wisdom that in peace prepares for war.

To the disgrace of the American Republic it is to be said that no declaration of war with a foreign power and no rebellion to be grappled at home has ever found it prepared for the conflict. The same lamentably defenseless condition that exists to-day has usually existed, and nothing except dread disaster and criminal sacrifice of blood and treasure have ever seemed to arouse us from our lethargy. We have then been saved, not through the wisdom of the law-making power, but because of abundant resources that the early loss, horrible as it was, could only temporarily embarrass, and because of the endurance, skill, and self-sacrificing patriotism of the citizen soldiers of the country. It is also a historic fact that many of the civil leaders of the past have permitted this unfortunate condition of affairs under a pretense of virtue, and have pleaded that their action was a proper and commendable economy. The false economists of this country have been its greatest curse. They have saved in "filthy dross" at the sacrifice of the best blood of the nation. Mr. Calhoun well expresses it when he says:

Economy is certainly a very high political virtue, intimately connected with the power and public virtue of the community. In military operations, which under the best management are so expensive, it is of the utmost importance; but by no propriety of language can that arrangement be called economical which, in order that our military establishment in peace should be rather less expensive, would, regardless of the purposes for which it ought to be maintained, render it unfit to meet the dangers incident to a state of war.

